RETURNING TO THE JEWISH ROOTS OF CHRISTIANITY

Bet Emet Ministries Is Devoted To Recovering The Hebraic Roots Of Gentile Christianity As They Existed Before The 3rd Century & In So Doing Restore "The Way" For The Gentile Godfearer In His Relationship With God

Let me say in the beginning of this study that if you are a Christian then most likely you grew up in a Christian Church where you were taught to be a follower of Jesus. Seldom does it dawn upon the traditional Christian the fact that Jesus Christ, as depicted in the New Testament, was not a Christian but is depicted as a faithful "Orthodox Jew" with a completely different "religious belief system" than a typical Christian. Fewer still ever think at the ramifications of such a statement and go on unknowingly as a traditional Christian as if they are actually a "follower of Jesus" never once allowing the full weight of such a statement to hit home where they begin to compare "doctrinally" the Jewish faith with their Christian birth faith. Fewer still every think that a "Jewish Jesus" of the first century could not and would not ever ascribe and adopt many of the same "religious beliefs" which they hold and cherish which has been taught them by Gentile Roman Christianity. Certainly Judaism's rejection of the Christian Jesus should give us pause to think deeply about what we "believe" as Christians about this "Jesus" when the Jewish faith, to whom the Messiah was promised, flatly rejects this Christian Jesus. It should seem quite silly to such a "thinking believer" to consider himself a "follower of this Jesus" when the above statements hit home and if they do then it is almost impossible for a Christian to honestly consider himself a "follower of this Orthodox Jew" like the Jesus which our religious belief systems are so opposite and different in "key" theological places?

Answer for yourself: Why don't we, as Christians desiring to be followers of this "Orthodox Jesus" in reality "cherish and hold sacred" the same religious beliefs as a first century Jew like this Jesus when considering such important theological dogmas like salvation, atonement, the Messiah, fulfilled prophecy, and have the same Old Testament that the Jewish people and Rabbis use? Why does Christianity depart so drastically from this "mind of Christ" but yet assure its adherents that they are "followers" of this Jesus when a honest comparison of the above doctrinal differences between Judaism and Christianity is one of the most uncomfortable studies that one can undertake?

So the big question we tackle in this website is if we, as Gentile Christians, are truly followers of "Jesus" and we answer that question by looking at Judaism in the first century; in particular how Judaism incorporated the "non-Jew" or "Godfearer" within it without requiring his full-conversion. It should seem to a "thinking believer" that the "religious belief system" of the "non-Jew" or "Godfearer" in Judaism in the first century should be the same for every "follower of Jesus" and "the Christ" today as well. But is it?

Answer for yourself: What did a Jew like Jesus "believe" in the first century? What was his "religious belief system" and how does it compare with the religious belief system of the "non-Jewish Christian today"? If it can be shown that a Jew like Jesus had an entirely different religious belief system in the first century as compared to the one developed in the 3rd century by Roman Gentile Christianity then what does that say about us being "true followers of this Jesus today"? Well, we have to reconstruct first century Judaism and the place and role of the "non-Jew" within it in the first century in order to make such comparisons and answer this question honestly. We need to reconstruct as honestly as possible a picture of first century normative, conservative Judaism and take a "kodak-moment" and luckily for us modern scholarship will allow us to reconstruct an accurate historical picture of first century Judaism and the non-Jew within it today in order to answer this hard question. Now on with the study with a "disclaimer" before start.

IMPORTANT DISCLAIMER:

It is important for the reader to understand that in this website, in comparing first century Judaism and their Messiah with later Christianity and their presentation of the Jewish Messiah along with the unveiling of the historical truths concerning the non-Jewish "believer" in the first century, I will use a "literal-historical" approach to the "Jesus Story". If you have studied our other websites then you know that "the Christ" can be interpreted from 3 different perspectives down through recorded history: "mystical", "mythological", and "literal-historical". Only after one has spent a considerable time in dedicated and scholarly studies in such areas as Biblical Judaism, the Jewish Messiah and true Messianic prophecy as taken from the Hebrew Scriptures and not the later forged texts of Rome, manuscript evidences, the history and origin of the Roman New Testament, the Gnostic Paul vs the Roman Paul, the Essenes and their "literal godman", Gnosticism, Egyptian religion and the ancient "Jesus Story", Comparative religion, and Astrotheology can he understand and be certain which two of the above three methods of interpretation of "the Christ" are accurate and factual. I have come through my studies to the truth behind the "Jesus Story" and I will leave all conclusions to the reader based upon the facts and evidences that he obtains through these studies. Again for purposes of comparing Judaism vs Christianity and the implications that this holds for the non-Jew and "Godfearer" we adopt in this website and for all studies in this website a supposed "literal-historical" interpretation of "the Christ" as well as the Jesus of the New Testament. Only in so doing can we adequately contrast the truths of Judaism vs the emergence of later Christianity and their conflicting and opposing theologies which both oppose and contradict the truths of their mother faith. In this chronological comparison of "beliefs" we can trace and see clearly Divine Truths handed down the corridors of history from nation to nation and see the earliest Divine revelations of God given mankind and sadly observe their gross alterations at the hands of antisemites and Roman Christianity; Divine Truths given in the beginning of mankind by our Creator which were intended for both "Gentiles" and "Jews" as well. I will let you be the judge of the results of such studies and leave to the reader to draw the necessary conclusions as we attempt to compare Jewish and Christian theological perspectives all the while dealing with the New Testament Jesus and the "Jesus Story" in a "literal-historical" manner in order for such an accurate comparison to be done effectively. One more thing needs to be said in preparation for our studies.

A CHALLENGE TO YOUR MIND AND EMOTIONS LIES AHEAD

When one undertakes a diligent study into all facets of recovering the Jewish Roots of Christianity and the Hebraic Heritage of Christianity one often uncovers "hidden truths" concerning Jesus and the Jewish Messiah you wished you had never found so let me say right up front that the material on "this" website is definitely "strong meat". If you don't want the truth then this website, as well as others by this Ministry, is not for you. In your studies on this website plus others offered by this ministry you will encounter things that will challenge your mind and emotions on all levels as you learn the difference between the truth and fiction, fable and reality, the Jewish Messiah and the false Christian Messiah, the true Jesus Christ and the false Jesus Christ, the truth that lies behind the teaching of a historical Jesus as opposed to Mystical Christ of the earliest "Chrestians". Yes, I didn't misspell it. These are just some of the things which we will study and you will learn about as we see how Rome "reinterpreted" this Jesus Christ and kept these truths of Judaism from you. You will come to see what was the religious belief system concerning this Jesus and "the Christ" as it existed up until the 3rd century as taught by the earliest "Chrestians" (not Christians) before the emergence of the Roman juggernaut we recognize today as Orthodox Christianity. Expect the gamut of hurt, anger, and tears as you uncover the greatest deception of all mankind; namely, the replacement religion of Western Christianity which took the place of the Jewish faith which offered a place for believing "non-Jews" in the first two centuries before being counterfeited and replaced in the 3rd century with a paganized Judaism which we call Gentile Christianity today. Such deception is foisted upon us today by a document touted to be "inspired, infallible, and inerrant, but when examined scholarly is found to be far from such an assessment on all counts. Of course by that I mean the New Testament. You will come to see for yourself the forgeries and purposeful misquotations, mistranslations, and verses taken out of context within the Canon of the New Testament when compared with the true Hebrew Scriptures. You will see how not only these Hebrew texts were forged and inserted into our Christian Bibles but how a substitute "religious belief" system was given to the non-Jewish world by the efforts of antisemitic Roman Christianity. Along with this expect to see the truth concerning the canon of the New Testament and the biased selection and deletion of religious texts used by the early church after Rome took charge. You will come to see how the problem began with the Essenes at Qumran and culminated with Rome and it's antisemitism. If you have the courage to look for yourself into these deceptions regarding fulfilled Messianic prophecy recorded in your New Testament along with the truth about unfulfilled Messianic prophecy and the "Jesus Story" then I challenge you to "think" through the information on this and other websites from our ministry as you come to see the New Testament for what it really is - an antisemitic filled book created by the anti-Judaism of the early Roman Religious Establishment intended to lead you away from true Biblical faith and the true faith of "the Christ" (Biblical Judaism/Jewish Christianity as it existed in the first three centuries). My prayers are with you and you have nothing to fear from recovering the truth concerning the Hebrew Roots of Christianity. Your personal Exodus from falsehood to HaShem's truth is about to begin! Baruch Hashem! Craig M. Lyons M.Div.

WHAT CAN WE EXPECT FROM STUDY OF THIS WEBSITE?

TESHUVAH is a Hebrew word that defies an exact translation into English. It is a process that one goes through of an awareness, an awakening and a search. It is a deeper understanding of the true nature of self and the Holy, awesome, perfect nature of God. The act of TESHUVAH is a point at which a decision is made to turn away from the old ways when shown to be contradictory to the true Word of God and move closer toward God in loving obedience. The condition of a Baal Teshuvah is a broken and contrite heart that yields to repentance when shown that our Gentile Christian religious beliefs and resulting conducts and behaviors are often diametrically opposite to the "faith once given to the saints" in these first 3 centuries. We, through study and knowledge today, can see that many of our inherited Christian texts and religious beliefs are simply wrong when exposed to comparison and correction by the true Hebrew Scriptures, subsequent Biblical languages (Greek and Hebrew), unbiased Biblical History, the fruits of Archeology, a knowledge of Gnosticism, a knowledge of Egyptian religion, and Astronomy, etc. It is in such a spirit of repentance and loving obedience Bet Emet Ministries [Hebrew for "the House of Truth"] answers the call of God to help share long lost Biblical truths and knowledge in order to provide for you "a more perfect way" whereby you can experience a renewed dedication to follow God's heart and Word more correctly being led by "truth" rather than a received erroneous antisemitic tradition. This website is primarily for the Christian believer but yet all people of all faiths can learn much from this website. The information in this website is brought to by Bet Emet Ministries through many years of in-depth and detailed study of the original languages in which the Bible was originally written and other areas of study. Besides those mentioned above Bet Emet has spent years of intense scholarly study in a comprehensive analysis of Biblical history, the Essenes and Qumran culture, the Greek corrupted translation of the Jewish Scriptures called the LXX or the Septuagint, Archeology, the discovery of modern scholarship of the real Gnostic Paul as against the Romanized Paul we were given by Roman tradition, the First Gnostic New Testament that taught only the "Christ within", Egyptian religion which is the foundation for Judaism and which Rome will "reinterpret" in the 3rd century in given the world a "literalized Christ". We offer you the ability to listen and understand, maybe for the first time in your life, God's voice no longer clouded by Gentile antisemitism and anti-Judaism as seen in many of Christian doctrines today which originated when the Gentile Christian Church separated from its Jewish Roots and Hebrew Roots since the second and 3rd century C.E. I don't expect any reader to "agree" with what we teach without his or her personal study but I do expect that you understand up front that your evaluation of such information and knowledge can only honestly be done when verified by your own personal study into the areas in which I write. We must be like King David and "recover it all" if we ever hope to come into the "unity of the faith" as we "contend for the faith ONCE given to the saints." Through much misunderstanding and false traditions, the Christian Church today is devoid of many truths it once had; lost in the 3rd century with the emergence of Constantine and Roman orthodoxy. It is time to re-evaluate what we have been taught our whole lives in light of in-depth Bible study, as well as these other areas of study above, in order to see "if we be in the faith" once practiced by Jews like this "Jesus" and which can be shown today was also taught to the "non-Jews" by Israel during the first three centuries before the rise of Constantine and the Roman juggernaut called the Roman Church.!

God has a plan for the non-Jewish believer and if you take our challenge and read the materials presented on this website you will come to the certain knowledge that the Gentile Christian Church, by and large, has failed to teach you adequately and has not prepared you for your final judgment of your soul properly

In the New Testament "the Christ" is recorded as saying: "Why do you say you love me and not obey me?" We cannot answer that question for all, but what we can help you do is understand the words of "the Christ" and his Apostles as originally understood by the hearers so that misunderstanding and misinterpretation of his words does not cause you to stumble and sin like so many today who do not possess such knowledge presented in this and our other websites #1 and websites #2. It is hoped that our recommended book list will profit all our students as it provides a sure path for your advanced study.

My brothers and sisters, it is not a very popular thing to do - to live like "the Christ" (symbolized in the New Testament by this 'Jesus') nor to teach this true message of God which today is drowned out by the voices of the early Catholic Church Fathers like Ignatius, Justin Martyr, Irenaeus, and others. Instead of understanding what "born again" meant in Jewish terms we have lost the true understanding of "salvation" as taught by the Jews along with the Ancient Wisdom they possessed and in it's place received a "literalized" form of sun-worship in the name of Rome's Jesus. Bet Emet Ministries has a message to share with Jews and non-Jews alike in revealing and restoring the Hebrew Roots to the Gentile Christian Faith of today. We may be small and not very popular, but God didn't call us to be popular - only obedient. So while some may have never heard of these truths we share today, but that does not nullify that they are still TRUTHS given by God for all mankind and easily verified as such by your own personal study.

A Christian's religious belief system, when tested and exposed to contradictory facts

from Biblical languages, Biblical history, Biblical culture, Archeology, Gnosticism, and Astronomy, must in the Spirit of Truth and Repentance, be flexible enough to change

Let it be said that if you cannot agree with the above statement then this website, and others from Bet Emet Ministries, will not be for you. But if you want "truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God," then understand you will find it here. There is no higher religion given mankind by God than "truth"!

If one undertakes the study of Bet Emet's Websites, and understand it is a life's work, then one is prepared to understand what has happened to Christianity down through the centuries and how Divine Truths, once expressed through allegory, metaphor, and simile by the Ancients who first received the Revelations of God, has been suppressed, altered, and tragically lost today through the "literalization" of such revelations given to us by the Ancients. This is a tragic story to say the least and renders us as "believers" and "followers of the New Testament Jesus" as idolators and we never know it because our Bibles inherited from Rome are "forged" in key "theological places". If you are diligent to study and learn from what is shared on these multiple sites then over time you will understand how it is possible to follow the "New Testament Jesus" in one way which ends with idolatry and in another way which ends in holiness and righteousness. The key to all of this rest in the true identity of "the Christ," "the Logos", and "Christ Jesus". We are all familiar with these terms but we will see hopefully there is a big difference between what we have been taught about them today and what they meant to the original Christians. Rome's has played a key role in the loss of these Divine truths and the substitution of falsehoods as you will come to see. "Surely that is not possible" I hear you say, but I only wish it were so. For your study and thought are these websites which were developed and revised over the years as Bet Emet Ministries' studies have progressed and deepened and more parts of the "theological puzzle" of Christianity became apparent to myself and others associated with Bet Emet.

These websites are intended to be "a step by step" process in your pilgrimage of learning. We begin by looking at the surface of the texts and then moving deeper as the websites progress we look often at the hidden and esoteric meanings that lie beneath these same texts. In other words we begin our websites with a "literal-historical" interpretation of "the Christ" and "Jesus Christ" and move later to the "Mystical Christ" and finally to the "Mythical Jesus Christ". As alluded previously we begin by looking at the "literal historical Jesus" and the texts and explain them "literally" as we have been taught since growing up most like since childhood in the Christian faith we inherited. In so doing it is my intent to show you and separate for you a Jewish Messiah and Judaism's truth from a non-Jewish Messiah and untruths given us by Rome. Only in such a "literal-historical" interpretation can we at first compare and contrast Judaism's truths against the later corruption of them by antisemitic Rome.

I don't expect all the readers to "agree" with what I write and reveal from my 20 years of scholarly studies from must reading an "article" or "two", but I do expect you to listen and take seriously what I show you since more than likely you have never looked into these matters and studied them out for yourself as of yet. So be patient and "think" and in time I promise you as you get more of the puzzle pieces of this "Jesus Story" you will come to agree with what I have shown you in these articles for the facts and evidences, once possessed by you, will bring the necessary repentance in many areas of our Christian religious belief system which is so desperately needed today.

As your studies progress it is my hope that you will come to see the depiction of this "Jesus" in the New Testament in a deeper light; not as a historical-literal person but the "personification of Divine truth of 'the Christ'" that was entrusted to the Jewish nation for the Gentile world. As the websites progress you will come to see just whom this "Divine Christ within" really is and how this concept has tragically be changed by Rome and given a literal-historical life of its own. It is a real shame that the only Jew to ever came to you and me was this New Testament this "Christ" dressed up like Constantine and bearing "literalized sunworship concepts" which simply are not true in their "literal sense" since they bring idolatry with them. Over time you will come to see the Divine Truth within them however when they remain as allegories as they were intended for it is then and only then can they express the Divine truths as originally intended and as understood by the ancients who gave them to mankind in the first place. Rome changes them and never tells us in the book we inherited; the Roman Bible.

In closing it is my intent as a yet ordained Pastor who desired to serve the Creator and help His children do the same that once this information came to light over the years of my studies I realized that someone has to share and tell others of this deception in order that our worship of the Creator be in "Spirit and in Truth. Bet Emet, Hebrew for "House Of Truth", has done as best it can to present these truths in hopes that your love for and worship of God be perfected by what you learn from these articles.

The order of our study is very important. If you start from the beginning and work your way through these websites as if you are reading the "best of many books" (which you are) then you will end your study with few unanswered questions and you will have arrived as the truth you sought and have a very clear picture of whom God is and what He requires of you, the non-Jewish believer in Christianity today. Sure the trip is hard, long, and time consuming and filled with both tears and joy as you deal with what has happened at the hands of men who served themselves rather than God. But the goal must be kept squarely before you....to come to the Truth once known about God by these Ancients who framed many of the very same religious doctrines that sadly have come down to us altered today and sadly cover the pages of our Bibles. You will come to see that there is a very big difference from the Jewish Bible and the corrupted Gentile Christian Bible we inherited from Rome and for this reason I adopt a "literal-historical" approach to "Jesus Christ" in order to contrast Judaism's truths vs the Roman deception that lines the pages in our Christians Bibles. As we study we will come to see that the depiction of this "literalized Jesus Christ" as the "Jewish Messiah" by Rome in our forged Christian Bibles is a total deception. There are many reasons why the Jewish people and their Rabbis don't accept our "Christian Jesus". This forgery and deception and destruction of Divine Truths is Rome's doing! All of this is dealt with on our websites and you will get to it in time if you are diligent in your study. But to see this then we are forced to approach "Jesus Christ" assuming that what we read in our New Testaments is a "literal-historical" reality and only later will we examine in detail the evidence for a "literal-historical Jesus Christ" and in so doing come to see that the concept of "Jesus Christ" existed in Ancient Egypt over ten thousand years ago and begin to correctly see "the Christ" through eyes that see this Divine Concept "mystically" and "mythologically" as did the Ancients for thousands of years; that is until the 3rd century when Rome "reinterpreted" this Christ for the world at the point of a sword.

Let us end with one passage from the Hebrew Scriptures:

14 Then the LORD said unto me: 'The prophets prophesy lies in My name; I sent them not, neither have I commanded them, neither spoke I unto them; they prophesy unto you a lying vision, and divination, and a thing of nought, and the deceit of their own heart.'

It is time that we do diligent study in order to overcome these "lies" which we have inherited from Rome and others and repent of such error if it be in our life. It is time we search out and return to the faith of our Fathers who carry the Ancients traditions and truths with them. Today we find these "truths" in Judaism which itself is the Spiritual legacy of Egypt. Few know this because of lack of study but the beginning study has been done for you by Bet Emet where you can come to the knowledge of these things which were almost destroyed out of existence by the Roman purges of knowledge during the Dark Ages. It is time you accept the mantle of study which in first century Israel was "the highest form of worship".

Lev 20:77 Sanctify yourselves therefore, and be ye holy; for I am the LORD your God (the Jewish Tanakh)

PRESENTING THE "JESUS STORY" THROUGH THE 4 WAYS OF RABBINICAL TEACHING

The Websites and our spiritual pilgrimage follow but I must say that what I uncovered when getting to the bottom of the origin of the "Jesus Story" is that the "New Testament Jesus" can be understood in many different ways and in so doing yet communicate Divine Truth to the reader. I have discovered through my 20 years of study that we basically have 3 different ways to understand "the Christ" and the "Jesus Story" as I and others see it. We at Bet Emet Ministries have covered all 3 different understandings and presentations of "Jesus Christ" through the totality of our websites. Taken in order our Websites take the student through these 3 different understanding of "the Christ" in systematic order.

- Historically...(Ancient myths which were taught by Rome through the medium of a presumed historical person; although not accurate to the existence of a historical person yet important for us in that it can and does serves as an example of spirituality and righteousness to be emulated by all mankind)
- Mystically...(expressing a hidden teaching, a secret doctrine, given under strict and exacting conditions to approved candidates by the Masters of Wisdom regarding the descent of the Logos into matter, ie., mankind), which when properly understood with the necessary "keys of interpretation" is revealed as the metaphysical teaching of the Descent of the Soul into matter; said more simply the Descent of God/Spirit/Energy into matter (eventually the flesh of mankind) and we see this presence of God in man as the indwelling Christ within).
- Mythically...(personification of the Sun and its path through the Zodiac and the 4 seasons of the year; the equinoxes and solstices, which when properly understood with the necessary "keys of interpretation" is revealed as the mystical teaching of the gestation, birth, life, death, and rebirth of the Soul/Christ in mankind).

Paul speaks of this Mystical and Mythical Christ:

Col 1:27 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory: (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Are all three methods of presenting Jesus Christ equally accurate to truth? No, they are not, and our Websites will provide the evidence you need to not only see this for yourself but make adjustments in your religious belief system when needed. We will show you how Judaism maintained these Divine truths of "the Christ" and how later Rome will not only burn the libraries of the world to cover up their adulteration of the truth about "the Christ within" but almost eradicate this knowledge for the world by the "literalization" of "the Christ" where He is limited to only one man instead of indwelling in every child of God. Our focus needs to be on correctly interpreting the Mystical and Mythical Christ and then dealing with the erroneously interpreted "Historical Jesus...the Christ with flesh".

We must study in order as we progress from a "literal-historical" understanding of "the Christ" which we were given first in our Christian experience and progress to the deeper understandings of "the Christ". It goes without saying that we all begin to read and study the Bible from a "literal" perspective assuming that it is the vehicle for "literal truth" about Jesus Christ, never realizing that often these stories were written to be understood as allegories by the original writers let alone ever realizing that our "Jesus Story" can be found in identical form all the way back to pre-dynastic Egypt over 13,000 years ago. Bet Emet Ministries began several years ago to present websites dealing with Christianity which at first adopted this "Literal Interpretation" of Jesus in the "Jesus Story" since the "literal" approach toward Jesus in the New Testament is taught today by almost all of Christianity as they assume that Jesus Christ was a historical person. We all grow up in the Western Hemisphere assuming that the "Jesus Story" is a historical reality; that is until we do the serious study of our faith required to get to the bottom of the "Jesus Story" and the religious synthesis within it. Only with the study of Comparative Religions where I found "my Jesus Story" repeated over and over again since Ancient Egypt in almost every nation under the Sun but also later in my studies of Gnostic Christianity did I come to clearly see the Mystical Christ "within" which had been so tragically altered by Rome beginning in the second century. Many of our websites, especially the early ones from years ago, begin by approaching the "Jesus Story" from this historical-grammatical method of interpretation because this is how we first meet this "Christ" and grow up hearing only of a "literal-historical Christ". This is how we first get acquainted with the "Jesus Story". This "literal-historical" approach I felt was necessary to get the reader and student started in order to reveal the greater Spiritual Truths that lay within Biblical Judaism that does not come with the added baggage of idolatry which we find in Gentile Christianity. As a pastor I realized that it takes time for a "seed to grow" and if I strike out and were to say that "almost everything you believe about Jesus that Rome taught us in their Second New Testament is wrong" I would lose any hope of reaching people with the fruits of my studies. So the beginning study of the Jewish Roots of Christianity follows the Rabbinical Methods of teaching and I applied them to Bet Emet's presentation of the "Jesus Story" and the totality of our Websites. There are 4 levels of Rabbinical teaching.

PASHAT

The first level of understanding is PASHAT (simple). The Pashat is the literal meaning. It is similar to what Protestant hermeneutics calls "Grammatical Historical Exegesis" and also similar to what Protestant Hermeneutics calls "The Literal Principle." The PASHAT is the plain, simple meaning of the text; understanding scripture in its natural, normal sense using the customary meanings of the words being used, in accordance with the primary exegetical rule in the Talmud that no passage loses its PASHAT (b.Shab. 63a; b.Yeb. 24a). While there is figurative language (like Ps. 36:7) symbolism (like Rom. 5:14); allegory (like Gal. 4:19-31) and hidden meanings (like Rev. 13:18; 1Cor. 2:7) in the Scriptures, the first thing to look for is the literal meaning or PASHAT. This is how and why I developed the first websites and in so doing try to reveal the beauty of Biblical Judaism to the Christian student desiring the truth of his Jewish Roots. History teaches us today that, yes, Israel was hoping for and looking for one that might come like their famous King David and conquer the Gentiles, but more than this history today also teaches us that these first believers in "the Christ" in Israel, both Jew and Gentile, were followers of "Chrestus" (the Christ within). We must not confuse these two terms for "Chrestus (the Christ within) is NOT the "Christos" of Rome's later imagination. You have to study to see this. For it is in Biblical Judaism do we find our links with Egypt in their purest form thus preserving better than any these Ancient understandings of God and the Cosmos and "the Christ within" and man's responsibilities to the Creator. These following websites approaches "the Christ" as an assumed "historical person" yet never telling the reader that behind this motif of a "historical Jesus" lies the greatest deception known to mankind (the Christ within was later 'literalized' and placed in a 'historical' setting of Rome's choosing.

We pay no attention in this site to the many problems concerning the Historical Jesus and approach the study from the normal assumption that the historical Jesus is true since that is how most of us grew up believing in the first place...in later sites we look at this problem in greater detail).

- THE BIBLICAL "PATTERN" OF WORSHIP & THE GENTILE GOD-FEARER IN THE FIRST CENTURY SYNAGOGUE-"CHURCH"
  - <http://jewishrootscx.netfirms.com>
  - (Having learned all of this knowledge from the above websites and fully convinced that repentance is needed in my "Christian religious belief system" then the question that should be asked is this one as I see it: "If I, as a non-Jew, who had not converted to Judaism, had lived in the first century in Israel and had come into contact with this 'Joshua-Jesus Movement within Israel as we find it in Acts 15 for example, then what would you have been taught about how a non-Jew is to 'worship' the Creator"? Is there a 'Pattern of Worship' of God that I need to know about? Other questions come to mind: What are we to do as we study and learn the truth about the early Gentile inclusion into the Israel of God? How are we to worship today since learning these truths which reveal the ruse and deception of Rome which changed the worship of God in the 3rd century? How can I bring this understanding into my life today? How can I worship the Creator in "Spirit and in Truth" in light of what I have learned in the above websites that has shown me that I have been badly taught and so badly misguided by my spiritual leaders in Christianity today? If you want those answers then this website is for you. My apologies that it is not finished but under "construction" but better to begin to learn what we can when we can than waste any more time. I trust that in time the website will be finished.

REMEZ

The next level of understanding is called in Hebrew REMEZ (hinting at a prior truth or a hidden truth that goes beyond the current text). Peculiarities and contradictions in the Biblical texts are treated and presented to the reader as hinting at a deeper truth than that conveyed by its PASHAT. The fun of discovering our Jewish Roots, Sabbaths, and Biblical Festivals is over and it is time for serious investigation of our inherited faith. Our Websites get more challenging as I begin using the principle of Remez to hint that there are problems with the "Jesus Story" and begin to question many of the teachings of Christianity and their presentation of Jesus as the Jewish Messiah. We still approach these issues as if "historical" but as your studies progress you begin to slowly get the picture that there is severe problems with what Christianity teaches about "the Christ" and its presentation of Jesus as the Jewish Messiah. It bears saying again that we approach this information again as if "historical" but as our websites progress we will soon move to the "Mythical" and the "Mystical" presentations of Jesus Christ. You might say we are in the process of cracking the egg shell regarding the "Jesus Story".

• RETURNING TO THE BIBLICAL FAITH OF JESUS/YESHUA BY EXAMINING CLOSELY OUR BIBLES

- <http://www.faithofyeshua.faithweb.com>
- <http://geocities.com/thefaithofjesus>
- (We move on and begin to look at our New Testaments since it is within them that we have the core of the problems concerning this Jewish Messiah portrayed as Jesus. Here we encounter examples of such textual and scriptural falsifications in our Christian Bibles, both Old and New Testaments as mentioned in the previous sites.. hundreds of examples where the facts and truths that once existed in the Jewish Masoretic Old Testament texts were purposefully changed in the Greek translation of the Jewish Scriptures by the Essenes and later incorporated into almost all Christian Old Testaments and the implication of such purposeful alterations by not only the Jews of Alexandria (the Essenes), but the later changing and altering of this solar-mythology by the Gentile Church in their final production.. the New Testament. Here we encounter the change of these Divine Concepts as they become altered and reinterpreted and attached to the life of the New Testament Jesus. So it is necessary that we become very familiar with the document called the New Testament which has incorporated such religious agendas over time)

- <http://historyofformationofnewtestament.netfirms.com>
- <http://geocities.com/faithofyeshua>
- (Now we must understand how we actually got this New Testament in the first place. This study is as best as possible an unbiased and intense study into the New Testament, its origins, its canonization, the disagreements of the early Church Fathers as seen for hundreds of years in the conflicts and disagreements concerning it, its falsification and purposeful mistranslation of the Jewish Masoretic text, the role of the Essenes in the falsification of the Jewish Old Testament and its impact of the later developing New Testament, and the determination of the role of the Holy Spirit in the production of the New Testament...if any)

• PAUL...THE TRUE FOLLOWER OF JESUS...OR...SUBVERTER OF THE FAITH OF JESUS AND FOUNDER OF A NEW RELIGION?

- <http://paulproblem.netfirms.com>
- <http://paulproblem.faithweb.com>
- <http://geocities.com/paulproblem>
- (Now we move to the Paul Problem. Let it be said that I am hard on Paul since he has been presented to us on the pages of this New Testament in a particular way and reinforced by 2000 years of Church Tradition. I must say that I deal with Paul "literally" as this is the way he has again been presented to us on the pages of the New Testament and in so doing I spare no ink in pointing out the problems this presents regarding a Jewish interpretation of "the Christ". Understand that this is a very challenging website which exposes the deception behind the New Testament's presentation of the Apostle Paul and his assumed rejection of Judaism. This site reveals the truth behind the purposeful manipulation of history and facts to cover up the truth about a Gnostic Paul who actually and historically only wrote 7 epistles where he espouses a synthesis of Gnosticism, Mystery Religions, and Judaism...along with this I reveal his and later pro-Pauline writers purposeful misuse of the Jewish Scriptures by Pauline writers in their presentation to the non-Jewish world of a new religion and how they made it seem as if Jesus was the cause for it...this is strong stuff and not for the faint-hearted. We will look at Paul in a different light when he is later put into his Gnostic setting which is historically accurate and only then we can say "kind things" about Paul...so hold on...we need to find the "real Paul" and we don't have it yet since Rome forged all but 7 of his epistles which he wrote and put his name on all others which they forged....modern scholarship will teach you this and how to spot this...so we have to be hard on Paul for right now since Christians believe that he taught all the things that carry his name. We will see as we study that he did not express an anti-Jewish faith and anti-Law bias as portrayed in the Roman New Testament and the blame for this deception is again laid on the lying pens of Rome....so we deal on this site as "if" Paul was responsible for these writings since we are taught he wrote them all by Roman tradition)

• THE JEWISH CONCEPT OF "THE" MESSIAH....WHY CAN'T THE JEWS AND THE CHRISTIANS AGREE?

- <http://www.geocities.com/bennoah1messiah>
- (Now we enter the beauty of Judaism and the truths they taught about their own Messiah and once knowing this then it is easy to contrast them with what we have been taught as Christians that come from our forged Christian Bibles. Ever wonder why the Jews and Gentile Christianity cannot agree on the Jewish Messiah? At last the unbiased truth concerning the Jewish Messiah and with it many explanations as to how the Christian theology concerning the Messiah deviates so drastically from the Jewish Messianic concepts as well as emphasis on the corruption of the Gentile's religious texts (OT and NT) which culminates in the creation of a Messiah which was never prophesied by the Jewish prophets.....the answers for the Gentile Christian are not always comforting but if you want the truth it is here for the interested and unbiased student and true seeker of truth. This is a selective summary of what went before on the other sites where I pull together pertinent information concerning one topic and one topic only: THE MESSIAH. If your desire is to study what the Hebrew Scriptures taught about the Jewish Messiah before they were altered and changed as they were later purposefully mistranslated into the Greek and even later carried over in their corrupted forms into the Christian's Old Testament and New Testament texts by Rome, then this material and information is for you. Along with this site is the examination of text after text not only in it's Hebraic original form but as it was altered and changed thereby causing New Testament believers to ignorantly accept and cherish beliefs about Yeshua/Jesus which not only are incorrect but which render them idolators before God).

• A TRUTHFUL ANALYSIS OF MESSIANIC PROPHECIES IN THE HEBREW BIBLE AS CONTRASTED WITH THE CHRISTIAN TRANSLATIONS...DID JESUS FULFILL THEM?

- <http://www.geocities.com/bennoah1>
- (A very detailed examination of the Hebrew Scriptures and how they were later altered when translated into the Greek, Latin, and English versions of Christian Bibles by Rome. We trace the corruption of the Jewish Scriptures from the Hebrew in which they were originally written and show how these Jewish Scriptures were later purposefully mistranslated, purposefully misquoted, purposefully misapplied, and even invented out of thin air in order to alter the hoped for human messiah into a "cosmic Godman" by the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt. Later these very same altered passages will become forced "fulfillments" when applied to a supposed "literal-historical" Jesus in later Latin and English versions taken from the Greek forgeries of the Jewish Scriptures. We show repeatedly how the Greek translations were forged in order to include the Essene concept of their "angel messiah" and "cosmic Godman" and later how this concept would be further adulterated when applied to Jesus some two hundred years later through the further forgery of other Hebrew Scriptures by the Roman Gentile Church. In other words we show beyond any doubt how the Holy Word of God has been corrupted today. No wonder the Jewish people don't believe in the Christian Jesus; their Jewish Scriptures read completely different than those of the Christian Church in "key" messianic places)

• DANIEL 9:17-27: THE SEVENTY WEEKS OF YEARS AS TAKEN FROM THE HEBREW SCRIPTURES

- <http://seventyweeksdaniel.netfirms.com>
- <http://geocities.com/bennoah3>
- <http://daniel70wks.faithweb.com>
- (We now look at a very problematic piece of prophecy. Of all the Old Testament scriptures translated and quoted (or purposely mistranslated or misquoted) by Christian evangelicals in hopes of finding validation to most of their Gentile Christian doctrines, Daniel 9:17-27 and Isaiah 53 are perhaps the two most popular. In both cases, Christianity relies on a claim that the only reasonable interpretation of those scriptures is theirs. But is this true? Have our Christian Bibles been forged to force fulfillments as applied to Jesus when the true Hebrew Scriptures read differently than our Christian Bibles? Well...it is time to see the truth for yourself concerning Daniel's 70 weeks and then you decide who is right....Judaism or Christianity)
- THE ESSENE CHRISTIAN FAITH AND ITS LEGACY OF SUN WORSHIP
  - <http://essenechristianfaith.netfirms.com>
  - <http://essene.freewebsites.com/>
  - <http://geocities.com/essenecx>
  - (As stated earlier Divine allegory of the ancients has been "literalized by Rome" and presented to us in our Christian Bibles. We begin to see this through a comprehensive and challenging investigation into the true origins of the Essene-Christian faith as we begin in Egypt and it's worship of God. In so doing we spend some time understanding Egyptian Sun-worship where astral-theology and solar-worship was personified into "savior Godmen"...Osiris being both the first and the "pattern" of all that followed; tracing such solar beliefs through successive Gentile nations and making note of similarities as well as differences, until we come to the Essene/Qumran cult, who, in rejection of Biblical Judaism because of their inability to assume the Priesthood following the Maccabee war, evolved away from Biblical Judaism and adopted these astral-theological religious ideas which had more in common with Egypt, Persian, Zoroastrianism, Buddhism, Pythagoreanism, etc., than with Judaism, until we end up with a "corrupted Judaism" which is more commonly known today as Christianity. If these beliefs of "personified Sun worship" had remained but allegories and symbols we would not have a problem since they taught about the Descent of the Soul again in matter and the flesh of mankind, but they will not and under the Essenes were applied first to a "historical person" who lived long before the first century. The pattern is forged and later applied through oral tradition to one who was expected to come but did not. Thus we get the "literalized-historical Jesus Story" in hindsight. What we find is that the Essenes "literalized" these prior Divine Allegories concerning Divine Truths expressed by the Ancients through the medium of myths and symbols and first applied them to a man and later to the "Joshua-Jesus" we see in our "Jesus Story" today as if a "historical reality". It is in the hands of these apostate Essenes where these Divine concepts were "literalized" and were purposefully included in a falsified translation of the Jewish Old Testament called the Greek Septuagint. In so doing these Divine Concepts lose their original spiritual meanings and these reinterpreted doctrines become parts of the Greek Old Testament for the Greek speaking world and for all later Christians and the Christian Church; thus providing the substrate for all later quotes of the New Testament. The bottom line being that personified Sun-worship was applied to the life of the human Jewish Messiah as recorded in the New Testament and it is we today, not knowing that these concepts were only to be taken allegorically, have been misled to see in them a "literal" understanding when they never were originally intended to be taught as such. In so doing we spend a lot of time with the texts in order to see how this was done and how extensive this misrepresentation is in our Bibles).
- THE PAGANIZATION OF THE FAITH OF YESHUA ...AND THE BIRTH OF "GENTILE CHRISTIANITY"
  - <http://paganizingfaithofyeshua.netfirms.com>
  - <http://www.paganizingfaithofyeshua.freesevers.com>
  - (We move on now to look at more "literalization" of Sun-Worship as it was applied to the Jesus of the New Testament by the writers of the this New Testament. This is a very, very challenging study and expose of how Sun-Worship today as masqueraded as "orthodoxy" in Christianity...the subject is diverse and will require adequate reading on your part but well worth the price as you learn of the origin of the Sun Myths which were later personified by the Indo-Germanic nations and later written into the translation of the Greek translation of the Jewish Scriptures by the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt. These accounts would be later embellished by the Gentile Church as they applied them to the life of the Jewish Messiah as represented through this Jesus as they build it off the falsifications of the Greek Old Testament as altered by the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt; this site exposes the false theology connected with Jesus which lines almost every page in the New Testament in one way or another...a through understanding of this site, as well as the others of Bet Emet Ministry, exposes beyond any doubt the lies and idolatry that has been foisted upon unsuspecting Gentiles who are yet today pawns of this theological deception and antisemitism of Rome)

This approach, teaching God's higher Divine truths through the vehicle of a godly example, the "assumed historical Jesus of the New Testament", works well up to a point because in doing so we are presented with a "Godly" example of a life to be emulated as found in the Jesus of the New Testament (for the most part). A life patterned after the Jesus of the "Jesus Story" will hopefully issue forth in one bearing the fruit of morality and ethics and one lived in the Fruit of the Spirit. This is the reason why Israel does not evangelize today because Christianity has accomplished for them their task as God's Priesthood. As a pastor I wish they could have accomplished this without the masked idolatry connected with the "Jesus Story". The non-Jew has learned of the God of Israel and has learned how to live in peace and harmony through the teachings of Christianity. Sadly in all of this the main character, the Jewish Messiah, has been so badly misrepresented in the character of Jesus who, for example, is made to cleanse all foods and abolish the kosher laws in Mark 7:14. This is rather strange for a Jew who is obligated to observe Kosher. Hopefully you see the problems of what I speak. Again through our websites the student is made aware of the problems inherent in places in this New Testament's depiction of the New Testament Jesus as the expected "Jewish Messiah". Yet, in such a presentation then Jesus is the non-Jew's "pattern" for he, real or not, is the only Jew to ever witness to us and came knocking on the doors of our lives to teach us of God. Sadly the Jewish community is closed to the non-Jew for the most part due to the tragic treatment of their people by the Christian Church these last 2000 yrs. As I say often it is so sad that when we answered the door of our lives as we heard the "knock" of this New Testament Jewish Rabbi named Jesus that we did not possess, at that time, enough knowledge of the truth about "the Christ within" and the true "Jewish Messiah" as taught from the Hebrew Scriptures and not the forged ones Rome gave us, that we could not recognize that this Jew named Jesus, as God's "light to the Gentile world", came dressed like the idolator Constantine teaching a replacement religion that nullified Judaism's truths. Lacking this knowledge which Bet Emet's Websites provide the student we bought unsuspectingly into the Roman counterfeit and no wonder the Jews cannot accept this Roman Jesus as their Messiah. Good for them! But hopefully as your studies mature you begin to see that there are other ways to understand the "Jesus Story" but surely understanding the "Jesus Story" as a historical truth concerning a literal person who lived 2000 years ago and who embodied the historical Jewish Messiah is not one of them. The facts and evidence proving this cannot be denied when seen by any "thinking believer".

DRASH

Another level of Jewish hermeneutic and understanding the Scriptures is called in Hebrew "drash" meaning "search", this is the allegorical, typological or homiletical application of the text. Creativity is used to search the text in relation to the rest of the Scriptures, other literature, or life itself in order to develop an allegorical, typological or homiletical application of the text. This process involves eisegesis (reading of the text) of the text. Ironically as I found this expression or interpretation of the texts reflected most accurately the type of "belief" of the earliest Chrestians, mistakenly called Christians by Rome later, who were not only looking for a historical Jewish Messiah to be revealed but at the same time understood that the "logos" or "the Christ/Sophia/Egyptian Karast" lived within all mankind. This understanding of "the Christ" reflects Paul and his 7 authentic epistles where he teaches the "Christ within".

As you might expect a few years later, as time allowed, Bet Emet provided a website dealing with the Mystical Interpretation of the "Jesus Story" and "the Christ" as we showed that the religious beliefs of the earliest "believers" who were called the first "Christians", long before Rome emerged to dominate the Christian faith, did not accept a historical Jesus at all but rather understood "the Christ" as a Divine Concept that lives within every man and woman and is not exclusive to just one person as is portrayed today by "literalistic Roman Christianity. It is in this site that we restore the earliest Egyptian and later Gnostic Chrestian (Christian) understanding of the "the Christ" as it existed for almost 5 centuries before being utterly destroyed by Rome with its replacement religion we have today which I call "Literal Christianity".

- MARCION AND THE "FIRST" NEW TESTAMENT...WHO WERE THE ORIGINAL CHRISTIANS AND WHAT DID THEY BELIEVE ABOUT "THE CHRIST"?
  - <http://firstnewtestament.netfirms.com>
  - (Now we put all the pieces together and the whole picture comes into focus. We now look at the true Paul, a Gnostic which never taught a human Jesus Christ but rather "the Christ within" in his 7 authentic epistles. We trace in this website how the earliest "Christian" believed in the "Christ within" and not "a Christ without". We see how the ancient religious allegories were understood not only by these ancients who were given them but by the Gnostic Jews and Gentiles in the earliest centuries of the church as well long before Rome will come an "literalize" all of it and give it a fictitious historical timeline in creating a "historical Jesus". In so doing we will see how the earliest New Testament expressing these allegorical Divine truths is butchered by Rome and destroyed and how we end up with the forgery we have today. Never let it be said that archeology and hard study are not our friends.

An unbiased study of History will show you that there is not a shred of legitimate historical evidence or any "unforged" anywhere that the "Jesus Story" originated as the biography of a man named Jesus, and quite a lot of evidence exists that will prove that it did not. An unbiased through study of Comparative Religion will reveal to you that the basic plot of the "Jesus Story", from beginning to end, including the motif of a crucified savior, already existed in many other religions thousands of years prior to the alleged time of Jesus and if you continue such dedicated studies into Astronomy and Solar Mythology you will find that beyond any doubt the "Jesus Story" is nothing more than an allegory for what would naturally be the oldest and most important story humans would notice and write down, that of the annual passage of the seasons of the year and the path of the Sun through the celestial sphere and the 12 Houses of the Zodiac during the year. To you amazement, if you continue your study, the personification of the Sun through the sky as found in the story of ancient solar and lunar gods as it moves through the Zodiac and as followed in chronological procession through the year matches EXACTLY the chronology of the "Jesus Story" when personified from Matthew chapter 1 through then end of the book at Matthew 28. This will take your breath away for event after event, saying after saying, from chapter to chapter parallels the Ancients' story of the personified "sungods" in their lives and events. There truly is nothing new under the Sun (forgive the pun). But take heart, a deeper spiritual understanding of this cycle is before us as again God is teaching man of the "gestation, birth, life, death, and rebirth" of the Soul in mankind and when expressed through allegory and simile it took the form of the stories of the lives of the sungod which later the "Jesus Story" was copied from. That explains why they read the same.

This website will be a lot different from anything you most likely have ever studied. Growing up in the Western Hemisphere we are traditionally taught a "literalistic" and not an "allegorical" or "symbolic" understanding of Christianity. This "literalistic" interpretation of "Jesus" and "the Christ" is based upon the inherited religious documents we received from Rome which we were taught to accept as infallible and inerrant without every questioning them. However great advances in Biblical Studies and archeology have been made in the last two hundred years and one in particular in the last 50 years has made a startling impact upon Christianity and few know of this. I am referring to the discoveries of the Nag Hammadi Library along with the Essene's Dead Sea Scrolls in the last 50 years which has turned our traditional Roman understanding of Christianity upside down and basically taught us that almost everything we had through we had "known" from Roman Christianity up to now concerning "Jesus" and "the Christ" was most likely wrong. That is simply because when we discover from study of these archeological finds and see for ourselves that the First New Testament written and given to us by the earliest Gnostic Christians like Marcion and Paul did not teach a "human Jesus Christ" but rather an allegorical and symbolic "Christ" as the Logos within each of God's children. This explains why there were no genealogies, birth or infancy narratives, or the 4 traditional Gospels in the earliest Gnostic Gospels until the second century when Rome created the "literal-historical" Jesus Christ. It is this "allegorical Christ" and "allegorical Joshua-Jesus Christ" [pattern] that the earliest New Testament and the authentic Pauline epistles taught but few know this today since Rome's efforts to destroy all of this literature as well as murder the Gnostics until few remained to safeguard this Revelation which can be traced to the beginning of mankind. In this website I reveal these truths concerning the "allegorical Christ" of the earliest Chrestians (Christians). Along with this we tackle the difficult problem of Christian forgeries of later Pauline Epistles and Gospels in their attempt to create a "historical Jesus" and a "historical Christ" in order to mimic their Godman-Emperor. This information goes a long way not only in explaining the lack of credible and unforged evidences of a historical Jesus but show how a Second New Testament was latter forged in Paul's name, who was long dead, along with the names of long dead Apostles in Rome's attempt to place a historical Jesus within an appropriate timeline. By comparison of what was written and contained within the First New Testament with what was later written later by Irenaeus and others in Rome's attempt to refute the Gnostic Christ and the Gnostic Joshua-Jesus we can easily now come to terms with this creative theology of Rome which was little more than a synthesis of "literalized" Sun Worship as exposed on our other sites. What should strike you as you study these materials is that the concept of the "Logos" and the "allegorical Christ" goes all the way back to the beginning of mankind where God gave Revelation of Himself and His plan to the Ancient Egyptians who first wrote of the Karast/Christ.)

SOD

The 4th and final level of understanding the Scriptures is called in Hebrew "Sod" meaning "hidden". It is here that I reveal the hidden links to Egypt and Astronomy which they "allegorized" to capture for all time the Divine Concepts that they witnessed written in the sky and Heavens above them. God, writing on the blackboard of the sky and Heavens, expressed to these Ancients sages and Priest eternal principles that were later captured in "myths" and "legends" to preserve for all time these Godly truths that would last through all time and yet today survive in spite of the destruction of Egypt by Alexander the Great and later Rome. These Laws of the Cosmos were expressed in allegorical myths that were reaffirmed by the same Laws witnessed operating in Nature. Ancient man, understanding that these same Laws operated within himself and his body saw therefore that "he was created in the image of God "; the image he witnessed operating above and around him when noticing the same Laws and Cycles in the Heavens and in Nature operating within his physical body as well. This is truly beautiful when you see it as it brought tears to my eyes to see and comprehend Gods' earliest message to me and you that has not been changed or adulterated by the agendas of men down through history. It is so simple when you see it. That is the way God intended it to be in the beginning but we strain at a nat and swallow a camel today with our highly developed and evolved theologies down through Christian history.

It has been a hard and long process for me to accomplish but my task is about through when I complete this last website on the "Mythical Jesus Christ" as seen in the stars.

Now it is time to devote this website to the comprehensive understanding of the "Mythical Christ". In so doing we will prove that the "Jesus Story" is actually an allegory for the path of the Sun "personified" as it travels through the 12 Houses of the Zodiac and through the 4 seasons of the years (the Spring Equinox, the Summer Solstice, the Autumn Equinox, and the Winter Solstice). You will come to see that this is the oldest and most important story humans ever knew as it also is full of Divine Truths that are to be understood "allegorically" and not "literally" as we have erroneously been taught today by a literalized Christianity of Rome's making. We owe a great debt to Ancient Egyptians and their great wisdom and their foresight in preserving for the the world this earliest understanding of God.

- THE EGYPTIAN RELIGION AND ITS RELATIONSHIP TO JUDAISM AND CHRISTIANITY

- We have all heard that "all roads lead to Rome" but in reality all roads lead to Egypt. This is especially true when one studies Christianity and Judaism and finds that these sister-faiths are nothing more than evolutionary developments of the Egyptian Religion. Understand from the beginning that Judaism is a much more faithful picture of this Planet's original understanding of the Divine than Christianity. Judaism comes in a close second. As a Pastor I am amazed where my studies have taken me and the things I have learned over these last twenty years in my pursuit of Jewish Roots of the Christian Faith. Never did I expect to find what I have uncovered and consider myself fortunate to live in an age where archeology and other such disciplines are giving back to mankind what Rome destroyed, covered up, and took from us over the last two thousand years. The study of error is often a little less important than the study of truth. The history of the human mind, in its progress from ignorance towards knowledge should tell us the mistakes into which it has sometimes wandered, as well as its steps in the right path. This is the goal of this website: to re-examine Gentile Christianity as to its earliest roots and determine if what is considered "Christian orthodoxy" today is a faithful representation of the earliest understanding of God by the Ancients since it is they who coined the religious concepts which we are told that we adhere to today in the primarily Christian Western Hemisphere.
- There is much to say about the knowledge contained in this Website but let me be brief. This website will reveal to you how the Ancients understood the message of God and His revelation to them from their critical observations about the Heavens and the sky as well as Nature. The Egyptians Priests and scholars understood that God was revealing His Laws and intentions in the operations of the Divine Laws that governed the Cosmos. These Ancients holy men saw that these same Laws operated within their own bodies as well and that they were "created in the image of God" as what God was doing "above them" and "around them" He also was doing "within them". These Ancients sought out God and His way like no other nation has ever done on the face of the earth and tragically this knowledge was lost to us until only recently with the discoveries of archeology. We must understand that when allegory, metaphor, simile, and myth which expressed both the identity and actions of the Creator as understood by the Ancients in grasping for understanding of God and His workings in the Cosmos, was altered and stripped of its symbolism and rendered for all time as if "literal" by those who will come later through "conquest" and destroy Egypt and their understanding of God, then not only is Divine Truth lost forever but it plunges its recipients into abject idolatry. Such is the plight of the primarily Christian Western Hemisphere as these allegories and metaphors that once expressed Divine Truth were altered by Rome and "literalized" and applied to men's lives; in this case Jesus. If you have been diligent to study the website referenced just above this one then you saw for yourself this tragic loss of Divine Truth by Rome's "literalization" of such Egyptian Ancient truths concerning the "Logos" and "the Christ".
- ASTROTHEOLOGY AND THE "JESUS STORY" OF THE NEW TESTAMENT: DOES IT ORIGINATE WITH THE STARS?
  - <http://jesusaastrotheology.netfirms.com>
  - This will be the last website for Bet Emet Ministries and in so doing we will go where few have gone. In this website we will show beyond any doubt from Astronomical examples of the Sun, Moon, Stars, and Constellations, that the Ancients preserved what they witnessed in the stars and Heavens seen in the cycles, patterns and paths and movements of these Heavenly orbs in "allegories" and in "myths" and "legends" not only concerning physical movements of these Celestial orbs as taken from their observations but expressed within these "solar myths" and "lunar myths" deeper Divine Truths of a Mystical Nature. These hidden deeper Divine Revelations from God to mankind dealing with the Spiritual Nature of mankind and his expected Spiritual maturation were again saved for all time through the agency of Myth which was never to be interpreted "literally" but rather were to function as "allegories" and "symbols" only that were but vehicles for transmission of higher truths from God. From these celestial patterns the Ancients extrapolated the Laws, Ordinances, Commandments, and Covenants of the Creator and gave them to mankind as a "blueprint" for our existence. These myths held the message of God to mankind. Later these myths were told through lives of personified man-gods like Osiris, Dionysus, Attis, Amon, Mithra, and Jesus. Since we include Jesus in the same sentence with other astral myths then this will be a hard study for as you examine the evidence presented you will see without a doubt that an unbiased study of History shows that there is not a shred of legitimate historical evidence anywhere that the "Jesus Story" originated as the biography of a real historical man named Jesus. In fact the evidence, or should I say the lack of it, and the forgery of all that does exist outside this one New Testament, is hard to deny and makes a belief in a historical Jesus almost impossible when knowing from the above studies the hundreds of forgeries in the religious texts of the Christian Bible. Nowhere outside of this one forged book by Rome can we find this "historical Jesus". As if that was not enough an unbiased and through study of Comparative Religion reveals to the reader as seen in the above studies and sites that the basic plot of the "Jesus Story", from beginning to end, including the motif of a crucified savior, already existed in many other religions thousands of years prior to the alleged time of Jesus and if you continue such dedicated studies into Astronomy and Solar Mythology you will find that beyond any doubt the "Jesus Story" is nothing more than an allegory for what would naturally be the oldest and most important story humans would notice and write down, that of the annual passage of the seasons of the year and the path of the Sun through the celestial sphere and the 12 Houses of the Zodiac during the year. What is most startling is when you see for yourself that the personification of the Sun and its path through the sky as found in the story of ancient solar and lunar gods follow in chronological procession through the year the exact chronology of the "Jesus Story" when personified from Matthew chapter 1 through then end of the book. The Synoptic gospels follow the path of the Sun in its travels through the sky from beginning to end. Most may have no idea of what I am saying I can only tell you to hold on and read the articles on this site and you will quickly come to see of what I spoke. Let it be said when you see this and that all the other "Jesus Stories" are but Ancient allegories of the Heavens and the Sun and its path through the Zodiac which was later "literalized" then without a doubt there is no more room for idolatry connected with any Jesus of any kind. Then we can follow in the footsteps of Moses and quit worshipping a false "god-man" and return to worshipping our Creator in Spirit and in Truth. You come to see that the "Jesus Story" is nothing but a retelling of the "Osiris Story" and the "Horus Story". It is from these two Ancient Egyptian stories that all other "saviors" have come.

Orthodox Christians, since they are committed to a belief in the literal truth of the Bible, hold that after the flood men became even more evil than they were before, so that 4,000 years after the creation of the world, god sent his only begotten son to suffer and die for the salvation of the human race. This ministry of Jesus, the Christ, was supposed to be a unique event in human history but as we show it is anything but that. This opinion is no longer tenable among those who accept reason as the criterion of truth.

If you are diligent to study and read these websites then you have it all. There is little that exists that is not covered in one way or the other or has somehow escaped my attention over these almost 20 years of study. There is nothing I would trade for my years of study and the truths that I have gathered and although it has been challenging to my very core I fully am aware that because of such serious studies my walk with God, the true God, is closer than ever. It is truly well with my soul because "I KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT GOD AND HIS CHRIST AS SEPARATED FROM ALL THE FICTION" that men have written down through history to promote their own religion and political agendas.

So we began our study with the question:

Matt 16:13 13 When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Son of man am? (KJV)

Now you have you answers! ?The rest is up to you to study to show yourselves approved..needing not be ashamed when you meet this Creator face to face when you cross your Nile/Jordan...(the same)

IN CLOSING

As stated earlier we begin our study with Bet Emet Websites with a "historical" assumption and present studies to show the beauty of Judaism over the dishonesty in Christian theological dogma and do so by using the depiction of the New Testament Jesus as if "historical" because he provides a vehicle for the teaching of Jewish theology, monotheism, morals, values, ethics, etc. It is not my purpose to reveal the weaknesses behind such a historical presentation of Jesus at this time as it will be developed and proven at a later time as one's studies progress through the Mystical Jesus and the Mythical Jesus as detailed on the above websites.

Of concern for us of course is the "Jesus Story" as depicted in the New Testament and its reliability as understood "literally" since it is being taught as a literal truth today about a historical man who lived 2000 years ago. You will come to see in time as you study that the Ancients as far back as Egypt understood this "Karast/Christ" entirely different from how we have been taught today under the direction of Roman and Protestant Christianity. Here are some big questions for you to ponder in light that most Christians trust in this Jesus Christ for their Eternal Salvation.

- Answer for yourself: Who or what is truly behind the name "Jesus Christ"? Can it be proven that the "Jesus Story" is nothing but the personification of the Sun and its passage through the various houses of the Zodiac as it passes through the 4 seasons and the equinoxes and solstices? If so then what do you do now?
- Answer for yourself: Are the infancy narratives and later depictions of the life and ministry of Jesus Christ in the New Testament nothing more than solar stories told as allegories which were later "literalized" and subsequently written into Rome's New Testament and depicted as a literalized historical Jesus Christ when in fact they were understood by the Ancients as astrological myths taken from astronomy?
- Answer for yourself: Did Rome destroy the Gnostic Christ of the earliest "Christians" which had existed since the beginning of time over the first 5 centuries of the early Church and replace it one of their own making? What are you to do when you see this from your studies on our Websites?
- Answer for yourself: If I study the Websites and find that the "Jesus Story" follows chronologically the Gospel of Matthew from chapter one through the end of chapter 28 and see for myself that the "Jesus Story" presented there parallels identically the personification of the Sun in its path through the Zodiac then what should this mean to me regarding my belief in Jesus as the historical Christ and him being the Jewish Messiah?
- Answer for yourself: Have we as Christians and followers of the "the Christ" been deceived by Rome and spent a good part of our lives worshipping a man as God as Rome has declared in their New Testament since the Nicean Council (325 A.D.) when in fact we should have been worshipping the one true Creator as the Pharaoh Moses (Akhenaten) instructed when he stood up to the religious establishment of Egypt when some were straying from the truth in their worship of the "godman" similarity to what we have done today with Rome's historical Jesus? Are we guilty of idolatry as Christians because we have believed a fable no more real than Snow White and the seven dwarfs?

Well the following studies in the above websites is not for the weak of heart as I will present over and over again infallible proofs that the "Jesus Story" as depicted in the New Testament is but a hoax perpetrated upon us by Rome in their hatred of the Jewish faith and Jewish Gnosticism back in the first century. You will see, in the last website depicting the Mythical Christ, as we move chronologically from one sign of the Zodiac to the other, from month to month, from season to season, from Spring equinox to Summer solstice, from Autumn equinox to Winter solstice, and repeating again this cycle, along with the study of selected events from the depiction of the life of Jesus in Rome's New Testament, that if you study with us and finish the studies on this website, that the "Jesus Story" as depicted in the New Testament is nothing more than the literalization by Rome of the path of the Sun through the Zodiac along with other solar myths later incorporated into their "Jesus Story" as later literalized by Rome as well. In so doing you will see as I and many others have that we have not been taught the truth about "the Christ within" and how He is so integral to the proper worship of the Invisible God as Egypt and Moses taught. It would seem that Egypt got it right in the beginning but thanks to

Hellenism and Romanism we lost these earliest and correct understanding of Divine Concepts witnessed in God's Heaven and Nature. In a way these were our classroom and where we were to be instructed by the Creator about our life and purpose in God's creation. We are truly blessed today to live in an age where archeology and the information age can bring these truths back to life for you and me.

As a "retired Pastor", and moved by what my studies revealed over the years, I feel moved to share this information and evidence from such studies with those interested in the truth behind the origin for "Jesus Story" which is taught to the world today as a historical reality when in fact it is not. In the websites that are delineated above such evidence is presented to the reader in hopes that the missing puzzle pieces concerning the "Jesus Story" will be plainly evident to him and he can, in the light of such knowledge, no longer be deceived by the astrological allegory of "the Christ" as found in the New Testament which is erroneously taught "literally" today. I make very few promises to our readers but I make this one now: If you do these studies, and read these articles on this website then you will be thoroughly convinced as I was that the "Jesus Story" was never meant to be understood "literally" as it has been taught to you and me. Thus the worship of Jesus as a historical person or connecting this assumed historical person with God or believing him to be God is the most vulgar idolatry according to Moses and the Ten Commandments and a terrible affront to the Creator and constitutes blasphemy of the Name of God.

INTERPRETING THE "JESUS STORY" THROUGH THE 4 WAYS OF RABBINICAL TEACHING

The Websites and our spiritual pilgrimage follow but I must say that what I uncovered when getting to the bottom of the origin of the "Jesus Story" is that the "New Testament Jesus" can be understood in many different ways and in so doing yet communicate Divine Truth to the reader. I have discovered through my 20 years of study that we basically have 3 different ways to understand "the Christ" and the "Jesus Story" as I and others see it. Let it be understood up front that our "Jesus Story" is not "new"; it exits from the beginning of recorded time as found in a host of other nations and other "religions" where this personified central character, often termed "the Krst" or "the Christ", is found to be identified by a host of other names in these different religious expressions. This fact alone should make us aware that something lies behind our "Jesus Story" other than a supposed "literal" and "historical" person. We at Bet Emet Ministries have covered all 3 different understandings and presentations of this "Krst" or "Christ" which is termed "Jesus Christ" in our Christianity and the presentation of our research is distributed throughout the totality of our websites. Taken in order our Websites take the student through these 3 different understanding of "the Christ" in systematic order where we progress from our supposed inherited "literal-historical" approach to the understanding of "the Christ" to the ancient "Mystical", "Mythological" and finally the "Metaphysical" understanding of "the Christ" as taught by the ancients down through recorded history until the 2nd century and the rise of Roman Orthodoxy. Here is what we find when we do the exhaustive studies into this area:

- Historically...(Divine Spiritual allegory and myth taught through the medium of a personified and presumed historical person; although not accurate to the existence of a historical person yet very important in that it serves as an example to be emulated and followed by all mankind).
- Mythically...(personification of the Sun (the Sun being only the visible representation of the Cosmic Divine Conscious & Intelligent Energy and Divine Mind of the Creator) and its path through the Zodiac and the 4 seasons of the year; the equinoxes and solstices which again personify the growth and Spiritual maturation of the Soul and Divine Mind in "matter" and humanity)
- Mystically...(expressing a hidden teaching, a secret doctrine, given under strict and exacting conditions to approved candidates by the Masters of Wisdom regarding the descent of the Logos and Divine Mind of God into matter, ie., again mankind). Paul speaks of this:

Col 1:27 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory: (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Are all three methods of presenting "the Krst", "the Christ", or as we know of it as "Jesus Christ" equally accurate to truth? No they are not and our Websites will provide the evidence you need as a "truth-seeker" to not only see this for yourself beyond any doubt but make adjustments in your religious belief system when needed based upon the facts and evidence our Websites provide. Our focus needs to be on correctly interpreting "the Krst" and "the Christ"; both the Mystical and Mythical Christ and then being equipped with this understanding we can then and only then adequately deal with and understand what lies behind the erroneously interpreted "Historicity of the Christ" as seen in our inherited "Jesus Story" which is portrayed and interpreted to us as a supposed person of historical being, the Christ with flesh which is limited to but one person.

It goes without saying that we all begin to read and study the Bible from a "literal" perspective assuming that it is the vehicle for "literal truth" about Jesus Christ, never realizing that these ancient stories were written and were intended to be understood by the writers of this ancient Spiritual Mysteries only as Spiritual Allegories by the original writers and never to be understood as if a "literal" story. That is why we find upon study our "Jesus Story" repeated in identical form from beginning to end all the way back to pre-dynastic Egypt over 13,000 years ago. This "Christ Story" was never intended to be understood as if "limited" to but one person but to the whole of the human race. God had descended into "matte" and humanity had become the Temple of the Holy Spirit and Divine Mind of the whole Cosmos. It is this hidden mystery, that the Divine Mind incarnated into all "matter" and finds Self-expression in all manifestations of "matter", especially humanity, that is lost in our current understanding of "the Jesus Story" we have inherited today.

Bet Emet Ministries began several years ago to present websites dealing with Christianity which at first adopted this "Literal Interpretation" of Jesus in the "Jesus Story" since the "literal" approach toward Jesus in the New Testament is taught today by almost all of Christianity as they assume that Jesus Christ was a historical person. We all grow up in the Western Hemisphere assuming that the "Jesus Story" is a historical reality; that is until we do serious study of our faith which is required to get to the bottom of this "Jesus Story" and the religious synthesis within it. Only when my studies into the truth behind our New Testament progress to where I uncovered the First Gnostic New Testament which was later corrupted by Rome with its Second New Testament did I see when studying Gnostic Christianity that "the Krst" and "the Christ" (the Divine Mind of the Creator in all "matter") did I come to clearly see the Mystical Christ and Mythological Christ for what it truly represented. Many of our websites, especially the early ones from years ago, begin by approaching the "Jesus Story" from this inherited historical -grammatical method of interpretation because this is how we grow up and first get acquainted with the "Jesus Story". Only by submitting this "historical Christ" under the microscope of intense scrutiny can we be certain that the inherent problems in this interpretation of "the Christ" and the "Jesus Story" is a falsehood and then look elsewhere for its true meaning and find the "Mystical", "Mythological" and "Metaphysical" truths behind all the "Christ Stories" which remained intact for thousands of years until the 2nd century where we find Rome "radically reinterpreting" the whole of the "Christ Stories" and "limiting" this Christ to but one person the access to which only comes through the doors of the Roman Church. Oh, how convenient for world domination and the manipulation of humanity through fear and ignorance. These "truths" I felt were necessary to get to the readers, students, and "truth-seekers" in order to reveal the greater Spiritual Truths that lay within Biblical and Mystical Judaism that are not taught by mainline Gentile Christianity today. As a pastor I realized that it takes time for a "seed to grow" and if I strike out and were to say "everything you believe about Jesus is wrong" I would lose any hope of reaching people with the fruits of my studies. We must understand our Jesus correctly; that is what all incarnational life is meant to accomplish whereby one "awakens" to his True Self; that he is the expression of Divinity and Divine Mind as a human being. We sing "in him we live, move and have our being"; more correctly it is in "us" that God moves, lives, and has His being and it is this agency of the indwelling Christ, not limited to but one, but in all that needs to be restored to humanity so that man can become ONE again with God and all world religions turn their swords into plowshares because we are all ONE. So we begin with the study of the Jewish Roots of Christianity by following the the Rabbinical Methods of teaching and I applied them to Bet Emet's presentation of the "Jesus Story" which we find evolves over the totality of our Websites. There are 4 levels of Rabbinical teaching. Let us learn them now as we return "to the Faith once given the Saints".

PASHAT

The first level of understanding is PASHAT (simple interpretation). The Pashat is the "literal" meaning. It is similar to what Protestant hermeneutics calls "Grammatical Historical Exegesis" and also similar to what Protestant Hermeneutics calls "The Literal Principle." The PASHAT is the plain, simple meaning of the text; understanding scripture in its natural, normal sense using the customary meanings of the words being used, in accordance with the primary exegetical rule in the Talmud that no passage loses its PASHAT (b.Shab. 63a; b.Yeb. 24a). While there is figurative language (like Ps. 36:7) symbolism (like Rom. 5:14); allegory (like Gal. 4:19-31) and hidden meanings (like Rev. 13:18; 1Cor. 2:7) in the Scriptures, the first thing to look for is the literal meaning or PASHAT. This is how and why I developed the first websites and in so doing try to reveal the beauty of Biblical Judaism to the Christian student desiring the truth of his Jewish Roots. For it is in Biblical Judaism do we find our links with ancient Egypt in their purest form thus preserving better than any nation these Ancient understandings of God, Divine Mind, and the Cosmos and man's responsibilities to the Creator. These following websites approaches "the Christ" as an assumed "historical person" yet never telling the reader that behind this motif of a "historical Jesus" lies the greatest deception known to mankind. We will see this deception emerge as we try to verify what our Roman Bibles say on its pages when compared with the Hebrew Scriptures from which it taken. Only by seeing the host of problems that emerge doing such comparisons of Christian dogmas and doctrines with the Jewish dogmas and doctrines as well as the Hebrew Scriptures from which our Bibles inaccurately quotes and purposefully mistranslates does the door "crack open" as to the many problems and falsehoods that lie behind a "literal" and "historical" interpretation of our inherited "Jesus Story". This needs be said for until we see these problems and falsehoods then moving to a deeper understanding and a more true understanding of "the Christ" and our "Jesus Story" has no purpose since being taught since childhood that our Bibles and Christian faith is "infallible, inerrant, and inspired". I will let the evidences which I bring the reader to determine if such an approach to Christianity is warranted and can be proven in light of modern scholarship.

- RETURNING TO THE BIBLICAL FAITH OF JESUS/YESHUA BY EXAMINING CLOSELY OUR BIBLES
- <http://www.christianjewishbible.netfirms.com>
- (We begin our study by looking at our New Testaments since it is within this New Testament given us by Rome that we have the core of the problems concerning this Jewish Messiah portrayed as Jesus. Here we encounter, maybe for the first time for many readers, a host of unlimited examples of textual and Scriptural falsifications in our Christian Bibles when compared with the prior Hebrew Scriptures which lie in stealth in both the Greek and later English mistranslation of our Christian Old and New Testaments. Hundreds of examples exist where the facts and Scriptural truths that exist in the Jewish Masoretic Old Testament texts are shown to be purposefully changed in the Greek translation of the Jewish Scriptures by the Essenes and later incorporated into almost all Christian Old Testaments. Not to be outdone, Rome later emerges and continues the Scriptural falsification on a much larger scale by changing and altering the Hebrew Scriptures and eventually adapting its "literalized" solar-mythology" in their final production...the Second New Testament. Here we encounter the change of these ancient Divine Spiritual Mystical, Mythological, and Metaphysical Concepts as they become altered almost beyond recognition and reinterpreted and attached to the life of the "supposed literal and historical" New Testament Jesus. In order to see how "Mystical Divine Truths" of a "Metaphysical Realm" become "literalized", "historicized" and "limited" to but one supposed person of history one has to trace the adulteration of the Scriptural Texts and the forgery of the Hebrew Scriptures. So it is necessary that we become very familiar with the document called the New Testament which has incorporated such a religious agenda and the creation of a "replacement religion" over these last 1,800 years). This is our "introduction" to the "Jesus Problem" which can be laid basically at the feet of Rome and their "antisemitism".

- RETURNING TO THE JEWISH ROOTS OF CHRISTIANITY...THE FAITH OF JESUS/YESHUA
- <http://returntofaithofjesus.netfirms.com>
- (The examination of the Jewish and Hebrew Roots of the Christian Faith as taken from a literal perspective. In so doing we expose many of the errors in doctrine and practice of today's Gentile Christianity with special emphasis upon the non-Jewish believer and his Divine place within the Israel of God instead of enmeshed in "replacement religion" as exists today in Gentile Christianity. We pay no attention in this site to the many problems concerning the Historical Jesus and approach the study from the normal assumption that the historical Jesus is true since that is how most of us grew up believing in the first place. In later sites we look at this problem in greater detail but to stress the greatness of Divine Truth as found yet in Judaism today as well as over the last 2,000 years we compare basically "Roman Christianity and its dogmas with the dogmas of Judaism and all the while keep our eyes on the alteration of the Hebrew Scriptures which changed the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom as found in ancient Egypt and their later children the Jewish nation).
- THE COVENANT OF NOAH & THE LAWS OF NOAH AND THEIR RELATIONSHIP TO THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH
- <http://covenantofnoah.netfirms.com>
- (Now we look in depth to the non-Jewish believer and how he fits into true Biblical Faith without conversion to Judaism. This is very important information and necessary for every Christian to read and study in detail. This is a very revealing study of the Covenants of God with special emphasis upon the Covenants concerning the non-Jew which are called today the Covenant of Noah comprising the 66 commandments of Noah. Included in this site are Old Testament references to this covenant as well and revealing exposition of this same covenant in the New Testament as taught to the non-Jews in fulfillment of the Great Commission before Rome would change everything in the 2nd through the 5th century. It is here we begin to see the "pattern"; the "Pattern of Worship" which we find is the same for the Jew and non-Jew and how denominational Christianity has missed the mark throughout history due to it's antisemitic background and antisemitic dogmas and Scriptural forgeries inherited by Rome).
- THE BIBLICAL "PATTERN" OF WORSHIP & THE GENTILE GOD-FEARER IN THE FIRST CENTURY SYNAGOGUE-"CHURCH"
- <http://jewishrootscx.netfirms.com/>
- (Having learned all of this knowledge from the above websites and fully convinced that repentance is needed in our "Christian religious belief system" then the question that should be asked is this one as I see it: "If I, as a non-Jew, who had not converted to Judaism, had lived in the first century in Israel and had come into contact with the Messianic Movement within Israel as we find it in Acts 15 for example, then what would I have been taught about how a non-Jew is to "worship" the Creator"? Is there a "Pattern of Worship" of God that I need to know about? Other questions come to mind: What was I to do having learned these truths about the early Gentile inclusion into the Israel of God? How was I to worship in contrast as to how I learned from Roman Christianity? How can I bring this understanding into my life today? How can I worship the Creator in "Spirit and in Truth" in light of what I have learned in the above websites that has shown me that I have been badly taught and so badly misguided by my spiritual leaders in Christianity today? What lies behind these "Jewish and cultural" expression of Worship of God as seen in the Biblical Festivals as well as the Equinoxes and Solstices? Is there a "Comic Pattern" of worship that is reflected in the Jewish Nation and their Jewish and cultural worship of God? Is there something bigger out there that I fail to see being limited by only the "Jewish expression" of the worship of God? Do I begin with a through study of Judaism and advance to a deeper understanding of the God of the Cosmos? Is the Macrocosm reflected in the Microcosm of Jewish worship? Yes, yes, yes! But all of that must come later. We must get our feet on the ground of Scriptural integrity and learn these "basic principles" and the truth about our New Testament and our corrupted "Jesus Story" before we move into much "deeper waters" and the hidden Divine Truths behind our "Jesus Story". If you want those answers then these forthcoming websites are for you. Now having mastered the above sites we move on to these "deeper Spiritual waters" that Rome never intended you know!

- AN UNBIASED LOOK INTO THE HISTORY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT...AND THE ROLE OF THE HOLY SPIRIT IN ITS CANONIZATION?
- <http://historyofformationofnewtestament.netfirms.com>
- (Now we must understand how we actually got this New Testament in the first place with all of its purposeful mistranslation, misquotations, and Scriptural inventions. This study is as best as possible an unbiased and intense study into the New Testament, its origins, its canonization, the disagreements of the early Church Fathers as seen for hundreds of years in the many conflicts and disagreements concerning it; its falsification and purposeful mistranslation of the Jewish Masoretic text, the role of the Essenes in the falsification of the Jewish Old Testament and its impact of the later developing Roman New Testament, and the determination of the role of the Holy Spirit in the production of the New Testament...if any)

REMEZ

The next level of understanding of the Scriptures taught by the Rabbis is called in Hebrew REMEZ (hinting at a prior truth or a hidden truth that goes beyond the current text). Peculiarities and contradictions in the Biblical texts are treated and presented to the reader as hinting at a deeper Divine and Spiritual truth than that conveyed by its PASHAT. The fun of discovering our Jewish Roots, Sabbaths, and Biblical Festivals is over and is in reality only the "introduction" to the deeper Mystical and Metaphysical teachings to come. Now it is time for serious investigation of our inherited faith. Our Websites get more challenging as I begin using the principle of Remez to hint that there are problems with the "Jesus Story" beyond the Pashat "interpretation" and begin to question many of the teachings of Christianity and their presentation of Jesus as the Jewish Messiah. We still approach these issues as if "historical" but as your studies progress you begin to slowly get the picture that there is severe problems with what Christianity teaches about "the historical Jesus Christ" and its presentation of Jesus as the Jewish Messiah. It bears saying again that we approach this information yet as if "historical" but as our websites progress we will soon move to the "Mythical" and the "Mystical" presentations of "the" Jesus Christ. You might say we are in the process of cracking the egg shell regarding the "Jesus Story".

- THE JEWISH CONCEPT OF "THE" MESSIAH....WHY CAN'T THE JEWS AND THE CHRISTIANS AGREE?
  - <http://jewishmessiah.netfirms.com/>
  - (Now we enter the beauty of Judaism and the truths they taught about their own Messiah and once knowing this then it is easy to contrast them with what we have been taught as Christians that come from our forged Christian Bibles. Ever wonder why the Jews and Gentile Christianity cannot agree on the Jewish Messiah? At last the unbiased truth concerning the Jewish Messiah and with it many explanations as to how the Christian theology concerning the Messiah deviates so drastically from the Jewish Messianic concepts as well as emphasis on the corruption of the Gentile's religious texts (OT and NT) which culminates in the creation of a Messiah which was never prophesied by the Jewish prophets.....the answers for the Gentile Christian are not always comforting but if you want the truth it is here for the interested and unbiased student and true seeker of truth. This is a selective summary of what went before on the other sites where I pull together pertinent information concerning one topic and one topic only: THE MESSIAH. If your desire is to study what the Jewish Scriptures taught about the Jewish Messiah before they were altered and changed as they were purposefully mistranslated into the Greek and later carried over in their corrupted forms into the Christian's Old Testament and New Testament texts, then this material is for you. Along with this site is the examination of text after text not only in it's Hebraic original form but as it was altered and changed thereby causing New Testament believers to ignorantly accept and cherish beliefs about Yeshua/Jesus which not only are incorrect but which render them idolators before God).

- A TRUTHFUL ANALYSIS OF MESSIANIC PROPHECIES IN THE HEBREW BIBLE AS CONTRASTED WITH THE CHRISTIAN TRANSLATIONS...DID JESUS FULFILL THEM?
  - <http://messianicprophecy.netfirms.com>
  - (A very detailed examination of the Hebrew Scriptures and how they were later altered when translated into the Greek, Latin, and English versions of Christian Bibles. We trace the corruption of the Jewish Scriptures from the Hebrew in which they were originally written and show how these Jewish Scriptures were later purposefully mistranslated, misquoted, misapplied, and even invented in order to alter the human messiah into a "cosmic Godman" by the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt. Later these very same altered passages will become forced "fulfillments" when applied to Jesus in later Latin and English versions taken from the Greek forgeries of the Jewish Scriptures. We show repeatedly how the Greek translations were forged in order to include the Essene concept of their "angel messiah" and "cosmic Godman" and later how this concept would be further adulterated when applied to Jesus some two hundred years later through the further forgery of other Hebrew Scriptures by the Roman Gentile Church. In other words we show beyond any doubt how the Holy Word of God has been corrupted today. No wonder the Jewish people don't believe in the Christian Jesus; their Jewish Scriptures read completely different than those of the Christian Church in "key" messianic places)
- DANIEL 9:17-27: THE SEVENTY WEEKS OF YEARS AS TAKEN FROM THE HEBREW SCRIPTURES
  - <http://seventyweeksdaniel.netfirms.com>
  - (We now look at a very problematic piece of prophecy. Of all the Old Testament scriptures translated and quoted (or purposely mistranslated or misquoted) by Christian evangelicals in hopes of finding validation to most of their Gentile Christian doctrines, Daniel 9:17-27 and Isaiah 53 are perhaps the two most popular. In both cases, Christianity relies on a claim that the only reasonable interpretation of those scriptures is theirs. But is this true? Have our Christian Bibles been forged to force fulfillments as applied to Jesus when the true Hebrew Scriptures read differently than our Christian Bibles? Well...it is time to see the truth for yourself concerning Daniel's 70 weeks and then you decide who is right....Judaism or Christianity)
- THE ESSENE CHRISTIAN FAITH AND ITS LEGACY OF SUN WORSHIP
  - <http://essenecx.netfirms.com>
  - (As stated earlier Divine Spiritual allegory and Spiritual Myths of the ancients have been "literalized by Rome" and presented to us in our Christian Bibles as if a "literal" and "historical" truth that fits into a time-line of Rome's making. We saw when we looked at the manipulation and adulteration of the Hebrew Scriptures let alone the testimony of Judaism for these last 2,000 years that the "Jesus" of the New Testament is not their "Jewish Messiah". We begin to see this Christian deception through a comprehensive and challenging investigation into the true origins of the Essene-Christian faith as we begin in ancient Egypt and it's worship of God. In so doing we spend some time understanding Egyptian Religion where astral-theology and solar-worship was personified into "savior Godmen" such as Osiris which is the first and the "pattern" of all personification of Divine Spiritual concepts that followed. We trace such personified solar beliefs through successive Gentile nations and make note of similarities as well as differences, until we come to the Essene/Qumran cult, who, in rejection of normative Biblical Judaism because of their inability to assume the Priesthood following the Maccabee war, evolved away from Biblical Judaism and adopted these astral-theological religious ideas which had more in common with Egypt, Persian, Zoroastrianism, Buddhism, Pythagoreanism, etc., than with Judaism. The Essene mistake is the same one Rome will make later; they will "literalize" these Metaphysical Spiritual concepts and "historicize" them and apply them to the Jewish "human" messiah in the likeness of King David (historically really the Pharaoh Tuthmose III) until we end up with a "corrupted Judaism" which is more commonly known today as Messianic "literalized" Christianity. It is the same perversion of purely Metaphysical Spiritual Concepts. What we find is that the Essenes "literalized" these prior Divine Allegories concerning Divine Truth of the incarnation of Divine Mind in "matter" and humanity as expressed by the Ancients down through time through the medium of Spiritual myths and symbols. It is in the hands of these apostate Essenes where these Divine concepts were "literalized" and were purposefully included in a falsified translation of the Jewish Old Testament called the Greek Septuagint (LXX). In this Greek perversion of the Hebrew Scriptures the human "anointed of God" becomes a Superman! In so doing these ancient Spiritual and Divine Mystical, Mythological and Metaphysical Concepts lose their original and intended meaning and these "radically reinterpreted" doctrines become parts of the Greek Old Testament for the Greek speaking world and for all later Christians and the Christian Church; thus providing the substrate for all later quotes of the New Testament. The bottom line being that personified Sun-worship which is the ultimate Spiritual and Divine Truth for all created manifestation was applied to the life of the hoped for and expected Jewish messiah as recorded in the New Testament and it is we, not knowing that these existing ancient Divine Spiritual Mysteries and concepts, which were only to be taken allegorically and symbolically, have been misled to see in them a "literal" and supposed "historical" understanding when these ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdoms were never originally intended to be taught as such. In so doing we spend a lot of time with these altered texts in order to see how this was done and how extensive this misrepresentation of the Ancient Spiritual Wisdom is exemplified in our current Roman Bibles).

- PAUL...THE TRUE FOLLOWER OF JESUS...OR...SUBVERTER OF THE FAITH OF JESUS AND FOUNDER OF A NEW RELIGION?

- <http://paulproblem.netfirms.com>

- (Now we move to the Paul Problem. Let it be said that I am hard on Paul since the "real Paul" has been presented to us on the pages of this New Testament in a particular way and reinforced by 2000 years of Church Tradition. I must say that I deal with Paul "literally" as this is the way he has again been presented to us on the pages of the New Testament and in so doing I spare no ink in pointing out the problems this presents regarding a Jewish interpretation of "the Christ". Understand that this is a very challenging website which exposes the very depth of the deception behind the New Testament's presentation of the Apostle Paul. This website reveals the truth behind the purposeful manipulation of history and facts to cover up the truth about the Gnostic Paul who was supposedly understood by all in the first century to be an enemy of the Jerusalem church and remained so his whole life. I expose what the true religious belief system of Paul really is and show you how, in spite of the incongruities of the Paul Problem in the New Testament, is a synthesis of Gnosticism, Mystery Religions, and Judaism. That is not bad when we see that in so doing we are only restoring the Ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom which had remained intact within humanity for over 10,000 years and only with the rise of Rome fell prey to their "radical reinterpretation" and "literalization" of the Ancient Spiritual Wisdom. Along with this I reveal this Romanized Paul and later pro-Pauline writers purposeful misuse of the Jewish Scriptures in their presentation to the non-Jewish world of a new replacement religion and how they made it seem as if this supposed "literalized" Jesus was the cause for it. This is strong stuff and not for the faint-hearted. We will look at Paul in a different light when he is later put into his Gnostic setting which is historically accurate then we can say "kind things" about Paul then so hold on; we need to find the "real Paul" and we don't have it yet since Rome forged all but 7 of his authentic epistles which he wrote and put his name on them. So we have to be hard on this Romanized Paul since Christians believe that he taught all the things that carry his name. Let me assure you he did NOT! We will see as we study that the blame for this deception is again laid on the lying pens of Rome so we deal on this site as "if" this Romanized Paul was responsible for these writings since we are taught he wrote them all by Church

• THE PAGANIZATION OF THE FAITH OF YESHUA ...AND THE BIRTH OF "GENTILE CHRISTIANITY"

- (We move on now to look at more "literalization" of Sun-Worship as it was applied to the Jesus of the New Testament by the writers of the this New Testament. This is a very, very challenging study and expose of how "literalized Sun-Worship and how "literalization" of the Ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom today is masqueraded as "orthodoxy" in Christianity. The subject matter is diverse and will require adequate reading on your part but well worth the price as you learn of the origin of the Divine Allegories and Sun Myths which were later personified by the Indo-Germanic nations and later written into the translation of the Greek translation of the Jewish Scriptures by the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt. These accounts would be later embellished by the Gentile Church as they applied them to the life of the Jewish Messiah as represented through this Jesus as they build it off the falsifications of the Greek Old Testament as altered by the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt. This site exposes the false theology connected with Jesus which lines almost every page in the New Testament in one way or another. It is here we see that our "Jesus Story", taught to us as if a "literal" person, is but the repetition of the prior Divine Solar Spiritual Allegories of the nation's Sungods. Our "Jesus" is shown to be a collection of multiple personified identities collected and handed down through recorded history; such a collection of solar identifies is in truth a "nobody" when viewed again as if a "literal" and "historical" person. Not possessing this knowledge we read our New Testaments never aware that our "Jesus" is in truth not a "historical person" but behind this Spiritual Allegory is the highest Spiritual revelation that is possible to mankind. We just never knew it thanks to the Essenes and Rome's dishonesty with the Hebrew Scriptures. A through understanding of this site, as well as the others of Bet Emet Ministry, exposes beyond any doubt the lies and idolatry that has been foisted upon unsuspecting Gentiles who are yet today pawns of this theological deception and antisemitism of Rome)

This approach, teaching God's higher Divine truths through the vehicle of a godly example, the "assumed historical Jesus of the New Testament", works well up to a point because in doing so we are presented with a "Godly" example of a life to be emulated as found in the Jesus of the New Testament (for the most part). A life patterned after the Jesus of the "Jesus Story" will hopefully issue forth in one bearing the fruit of morality and ethics and a life lived in the Fruit of the Spirit. This is the reason why Israel does not evangelize today because Christianity has accomplished for them their task as God's Priesthood; for better or worse when looking at the Dark Ages and the impact of this "replacement religion". As a pastor I wish they could have accomplished this without the masked idolatry connected with the "Jesus Story". The non-Jew has learned of the God of Israel and has learned how to live in peace and harmony through the teachings of Christianity. Sadly in all of this the main character, the Jewish Messiah, has been so badly misrepresented in the character of Jesus who, for example, is made to cleanse all foods and abolish the kosher laws in Mark 7:14. This is rather strange for a Jew who is obligated to observe Kosher. Hopefully you see the problems of what I speak and they only begin here. Again through our websites the student is made aware of the problems inherent in many places in this New Testament's depiction of the New Testament Jesus and "the Christ within". Yet, in such a presentation this Jesus is the non-Jew's "pattern" for he, real or not, is the only Jew to ever witnessed to us and came knocking on the doors of our lives as non-Jews. Sadly the Jewish community is closed to the non-Jew for the most part due to the tragic treatment of their people by the Christian Church these last 2000 years. As I say often it is sad that when we answered the door of our lives as we heard the "knock" of this New Testament Rabbi named Jesus that we did not possess, at that time, enough knowledge of the truth about "the Christ" and the true "Jewish Messiah" that we could not recognize that this Jew named Jesus, as God's "light to the Gentile world", came dressed like the idolator Constantine teaching a replacement religion. Lacking this knowledge which Bet Emet's Websites provide the student we fell for the Roman "counterfeit Christ" and "counterfeit Jesus" and no wonder the Jews cannot accept this Roman Jesus as their Messiah. Good for them! But hopefully as your studies mature you begin to see that there are other ways to understand the "Jesus Story" but surely understanding the "Jesus Story" as a historical truth concerning a literal person who lived 2000 years ago and who embodied the historical Jewish Messiah is not one of them. Now for enlightenment that will take your breath away!

DRASH

Another level of Jewish hermeneutic and understanding the Scriptures is called in Hebrew "drash" meaning "search", this is the allegorical, typological or homiletical application of the text. Creativity is used to search the text in relation to the rest of the Scriptures, other literature, or life itself in order to develop an allegorical, typological or homiletical application of the text. This process involves eisegesis (reading of the text) of the text. Ironically as I found this expression or interpretation of the texts reflected most accurately the type of "belief" of the earliest Christians (called Chrestians who believed only in the Gnostic Metaphysical Christ within) who were not only looking for a historical Jewish messiah to be revealed but at the same time understood that the "logos" or "the Christ/Sophia/Egyptian Karast" lived within all mankind and could never be limited to but one person as Rome will make it appear. This understanding of "the Christ" reflects Paul and his 7 authentic epistles where he teaches the "Christ within". Now we find the true Paul who, like the earliest Chrestinas, taught only the "Christ Within".

As you might expect a few years later, as time allowed, Bet Emet provided a website dealing with the Mystical Interpretation of the "Jesus Story" and "the Christ" as we showed that the religious beliefs of the earliest "believers" who were called the first "Christians", long before Rome emerged to dominate the Christian faith, did not accept a historical Jesus at all but rather understood "the Christ" as a Divine Concept as Divine Mind that lives within every man and woman and is not exclusive to just one person as is portrayed today by "literalistic Roman Christianity. It is in this site that we restore the earliest Gnostic Christian understanding of the "the Christ" as it existed for almost 5 centuries before being utterly destroyed and almost totally wiped out by Rome with its replacement religion we have today which I call "Literal Christianity".

- MARCION AND THE "FIRST" NEW TESTAMENT...WHO WERE THE ORIGINAL CHRISTIANS AND WHAT DID THEY BELIEVE ABOUT "THE CHRIST"....THE STUDY OF Gnosticism
  - <http://firstnewtestament.netfirms.com/>
  - (Now we put all the pieces together and the whole picture comes into focus. We now look at the true Paul, a Gnostic which never taught a human Jesus Christ but rather "the Christ within" in his 7 authentic epistles. We trace in this website how the earliest "Christian" believed in the "Christ within" and not "a Christ without". We see how the ancient religious allegories were understood not only by these ancients who were given them but by the Gnostic Jews and Gentiles in the earliest centuries of the church as well long before Rome will come an "literalize" all of it and give it a fictitious historical time-line in creating a "historical Jesus". In so doing we will see how the earliest New Testament expressing these allegorical Divine truths is butchered by Rome and destroyed and how we end up with the forgery we have today. Never let it be said that archeology and hard study are not our friends. That is why Judaism has always taught that "study" is the highest form of worship!

An unbiased study of History will show you that there is not a shred of legitimate historical evidence anywhere that the "Jesus Story" originated as the biography of a man named Jesus, and quite a lot of evidence that it did not. An unbiased through study of Comparative Religion will reveal to you that the basic plot of the "Jesus Story", from beginning to end, including the motif of a crucified savior, already existed in many other religions thousands of years prior to the alleged time of Jesus and if you continue such dedicated studies into Astronomy and Solar Mythology you will find that beyond any doubt the "Jesus Story" is nothing more than an allegory for what would naturally be the oldest and most important story humans would notice and write down; namely, that of the annual passage of the seasons of the year and the path of the Sun through the celestial sphere and the 12 Houses of the Zodiac during the year. Personification of the Sun through the sky as found in the story of ancient solar and lunar gods follow in chronological procession through the year the exact chronology of the

"Jesus Story" when personified from Matthew chapter 1 through Matthew chapter 28. This truly is the most amazing study.

This website will be a lot different from anything you most likely have ever studied. Growing up in the Western Hemisphere we are traditionally taught a "literalistic" and not an "allegorical" or "symbolic" understanding of Christianity. This "literalistic" interpretation of "Jesus" and "the Christ" is based upon the inherited religious documents we received from Rome which we were taught to accept as infallible and inerrant without every questioning them. However great advances in Biblical Studies and archeology have been made in the last two hundred years and one in particular in the last 50 years has made a startling impact upon Christianity and few know of this. I am referring to the discoveries of the Nag Hammadi Library along with the Essene's Dead Sea Scrolls in the last 50 years which has turned our traditional Roman understanding of Christianity upside down and basically taught us that almost everything we had through we had "known" from Roman Christianity up to now concerning "Jesus" and "the Christ" was wrong. That is simply because when we discover from study of these archeological finds and see for ourselves that the First New Testament written and given to us by the earliest Gnostic Chrestians like Marcion and Paul did not teach a "human Jesus Christ" but rather an allegorical and symbolic "Indwelling Christ Only" as the Logos within each of God's children. This explains why there were no genealogies, birth or infancy narratives, or the 4 traditional Gospels in the earliest Gnostic Gospels and not added to the Roman Second New Testament till after 180 A.D. It is this "allegorical Christ" and "allegorical Joshua-Jesus Christ" ["pattern"] that the earliest New Testament and the authentic Pauline epistles taught but few know this today since Rome's efforts to destroy all of this literature by burning the libraries of the world as well as murdering the Gnostics until few remained to safeguard this Spiritual Metaphysical Revelation which can be traced to the beginning of mankind. In this website I reveal these truths concerning the "allegorical Christ" of the earliest Chrestians. Along with this we tackle the difficult problem of Christian forgeries of later Pauline Epistles and Gospels in their attempt to create a "historical Jesus" and a "historical Christ" in order to mimic their Godman-Emperor. This information goes a long way not only in explaining the lack of credible and unforged evidences for a historical Jesus but shows how a Second New Testament was latter forged in Paul's name, who was long dead, along with the names of long dead Apostles in Rome's attempt to place a historical Jesus of their creation within an appropriate time-line. By comparison of what was written and contained within the First New Testament with what was later written later by Irenaeus and others in Rome's attempt to refute the Gnostic Christ and the Gnostic Joshua-Jesus we can easily now come to terms with this creative theology of Rome which was little more than a synthesis of "literalized" Sun Worship as exposed on our other sites. What should strike you as you study these materials is that the concept of the "Logos" and the "allegorical Christ" goes all the way back to the beginning of mankind where God gave Revelation of Himself and His plan to the Ancient Egyptians who first wrote of the Karast/Christ and provided the "pattern" adopted by all later world religions until the rise of Rome!

SOD

The 4th and final level of understanding the Scriptures is called in Hebrew "Sod" meaning "hidden". It is here that I reveal the hidden links to Egypt and Astronomy which they "allegorized" to capture for all time the Divine Concepts that they witnessed written in the sky and Heavens above them. The Sky is God's Bible! When you learn to "interpret" the Sky and the stars then no man can deceive you about Divine Truth any longer! God, writing on the blackboard of the sky and Heavens, expressed to these Ancients sages and Priests eternal Spiritual principles that were later captured in "myths" and "legends" to preserve for all time these Godly truths that would last through all time and yet today survive in spite of the destruction of Egypt by Alexander the Great and later Rome. These Laws of the Cosmos were expressed in allegorical Spiritual myths that were reaffirmed by the same Laws witnessed operating in Nature. Ancient man, understanding that these same Laws operated within himself and his body saw therefore that "he was created in the image of God"; the image he witnessed operating above and around him when noticing the same Laws and Cycles in the Heavens and in Nature operating within his physical body as well. This is truly beautiful when you see it as it brought tears to my eyes to see and comprehend Gods' earliest message to me and you that has not been changed or adulterated by the agendas of men and apostate religions down through history. It is so simple when you see it. That is the way God intended it to be in the beginning but we strain at a nat and swallow a camel today with our highly developed and evolved theologies down through Christian history.

It has been a hard and long process for me to accomplish but my task is about through when I complete this website on the "Mythical Jesus Christ" as seen in the stars.

Now it is time to devote this website to the comprehensive understanding of the "Mythical Christ". In so doing we will prove that the "Jesus Story" is actually an allegory for the path of the Sun "personified" as it travels through the 12 Houses of the Zodiac and through the 4 seasons of the years (the Spring Equinox, the Summer Solstice, the Autumn Equinox, and the Winter Solstice). You will come to see that this is the oldest and most important story humans ever knew as it also is full of Divine Truths that are to be understood "allegorically" and not "literally" as we have erroneously been taught today by a literalized Christianity of Rome's making. The Sun was viewed by the ancient Spiritual Masters as the "visible representation" of the "invisible hidden reality" of God. This Sun and its path through the Heavens is repeated over and over again for mankind so that man cannot miss the Truth and Message of God involving the Spiritual evolution of his Soul. It is we today who have not a clue to this Great Bible in the Sky. We owe a great debt to Ancient Egyptians and their great wisdom and their foresight in preserving for the the world this earliest understanding of God and Divine Mind and its incarnation into "matter" and humanity where we trace by looking at the path of the Sun the birth, life, death, rebirth and progressive Spiritual Evolution of man's Soul.

- THE EGYPTIAN RELIGION AND ITS RELATIONSHIP TO JUDAISM AND CHRISTIANITY

- <http://www.egyptcx.netfirms.com/>
- We have all heard that "all roads lead to Rome" but in reality all roads lead to Egypt. This is especially true when one studies Christianity and Judaism and finds that these sister-faiths are nothing more than evolutionary developments of the Egyptian Religion. Understand from the beginning that Judaism is a much more faithful picture of this Planet's original understanding of the Divine than Christianity. Judaism comes in a close second. As a Pastor I am amazed where my studies have taken me and the things I have learned over these last twenty years in my pursuit of Jewish Roots of the Christian Faith. Never did I expect to find what I have uncovered and consider myself fortunate to live in an age where archeology and other such disciplines are giving back to mankind what Rome destroyed, covered up, and took from us over the last two thousand years. The study of error is often a little less important than the study of truth. The history of the human mind, in its progress from ignorance towards knowledge should tell us the mistakes into which it has sometimes wandered, as well as its steps in the right path. This is the goal of this website: to re-examine Gentile Christianity as to its earliest roots and determine if what is considered "Christian orthodoxy" today is a faithful representation of the earliest understanding of God by the Ancients since it is they who coined the religious concepts which we are told that we adhere to today in the primarily Christian Western Hemisphere.
- There is much to say about the knowledge contained in this Website but let me be brief. This website will reveal to you how the Ancients understood the message of God and His revelation to them from their critical observations about the Heavens and the sky as well as Nature. The Egyptians Priests and scholars understood that God was revealing His Laws and intentions in the operations of the Divine Laws that governed the Cosmos. These Ancients holy men saw that these same Laws operated within their own bodies as well and that they were "created in the image of God" as what God was doing "above them" and "around them" He also was doing "within them". These Ancients sought out God and His way like no other nation has ever done on the face of the earth and tragically this knowledge was lost to us until only recently with the discoveries of archeology. We must understand that when allegory, metaphor, simile, and myth which expressed both the identity and actions of the Creator as understood by the Ancients in grasping for understanding of God and His workings in the Cosmos, was altered and stripped of its symbolism and rendered for all time as if "literal" by those who will come later through "conquest" and destroy Egypt and their understanding of God, then not only is Divine Truth lost forever but it plunges its recipients into abject idolatry. Such is the plight of the primarily Christian Western Hemisphere as these allegories and metaphors that once expressed Divine Truth were altered by Rome and "literalized" and applied to men's lives; in this case Jesus. If you have been diligent to study the website referenced just above this one then you saw for yourself this tragic loss of Divine Truth by Rome's "literalization" of such Egyptian Ancient truths concerning the "Logos" and "the Christ".

- ASTROTHEOLOGY AND THE "JESUS STORY" OF THE NEW TESTAMENT: DOES IT ORIGINATE WITH THE STARS?

- <http://jesusaastrotheology.netfirms.com/>

- This website is presently under construction. This will be the last website for Bet Emet Ministries and in so doing we will go where few have gone. In this website we will show beyond any doubt from Astronomical examples of the Sun, Moon, Stars, and Constellations, that the Ancients preserved what they witnessed in the stars and Heavens seen in the cycles, patterns and paths and movements of these Heavenly orbs in "allegories" and in "myths" and "legends" not only concerning physical movements of these Celestial orbs as taken from their observations but expressed within these "solar myths" and "lunar myths" deeper Divine Truths of a Mystical Nature. These hidden deeper Divine Revelations from God to mankind dealing with the Spiritual Nature of mankind and his expected Spiritual maturation were again saved for all time through the agency of Myth which was never to be interpreted "literally" but rather were to function as "allegories" and "symbols" only that were but vehicles for transmission of higher truths from God. From these celestial patterns the Ancients extrapolated the Laws, Ordinances, Commandments, and Covenants of the Creator and gave them to mankind as a "blueprint" for our existence. These myths held the message of God to mankind. Later these myths were told through lives of personified man-gods like Osiris, Dionysus, Attis, Amon, Mithra, and Jesus. Since we include Jesus in the same sentence with other astral myths then this will be a hard study for as you examine the evidence presented you will see without a doubt that an unbiased study of History shows that there is not a shred of legitimate historical evidence anywhere that the "Jesus Story" originated as the biography of a real historical man named Jesus. In fact the evidence, or should I say the lack of it, and the forgery of all that does exist outside this one New Testament, is hard to deny and makes a belief in a historical Jesus almost impossible when knowing from the above studies the hundreds of forgeries in the religious texts of the Christian Bible. Nowhere outside of this one forged book by Rome can we find this "historical Jesus". As if that was not enough an unbiased and through study of Comparative Religion reveals to the reader as seen in the above studies and sites that the basic plot of the "Jesus Story", from beginning to end, including the motif of a crucified savior, already existed in many other religions thousands of years prior to the alleged time of Jesus and if you continue such dedicated studies into Astronomy and Solar Mythology you will find that beyond any doubt the "Jesus Story" is nothing more than an allegory for what would naturally be the oldest and most important story humans would notice and write down, that of the annual passage of the seasons of the year and the path of the Sun through the celestial sphere and the 12 Houses of the Zodiac during the year. What is most startling is when you see for yourself that the personification of the Sun and its path through the sky as found in the story of ancient solar and lunar gods follow in chronological procession through the year the exact chronology of the "Jesus Story" when personified from Matthew chapter 1 through then end of the book. The Synoptic gospels follow the path of the Sun in its travels through the sky from beginning to end. Most may have no idea of what I am saying I can only tell you to hold on and read the articles on this site and you will quickly come to see of what I spoke. Let it be said when you see this and that all the other "Jesus Stories" are but Ancient allegories of the Heavens and the Sun and its path through the Zodiac which was later "literalized" then without a doubt there is no more room for idolatry connected with any Jesus of any kind. Then we can follow in the footsteps of Moses and quit worshipping a false "god-man" and return to worshipping our Creator in Spirit and in Truth. You come to see that the "Jesus Story" is nothing but a retelling of the "Osiris Story" and the "Horus Story". It is from these two Ancient Egyptian stories that all other "saviors" have come.

Orthodox Christians, since they are committed to a belief in the literal truth of the Bible, hold that after the flood men became even more evil than they were before, so that 4,000 years after the creation of the world, god sent his only begotten son to suffer and die for the salvation of the human race. This ministry of Jesus, the Christ, was supposed to be a unique event in human history but as we show it is anything but that; it is the repetition of everything that came before. This opinion of Jesus' uniqueness is no longer tenable among those who accept reason as the criterion of truth.

If you are diligent to study and read these websites then you have it all. There is little that exists that is not covered in one way or the other or has somehow escaped my attention over these almost 20 years of study. There is nothing I would trade for my years of study and the truths that I have gathered and although it has been challenging to my very core I fully am aware that because of such serious studies my walk with God, the true God, is closer than ever. It is truly well with my soul because "I KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT HIM SEPARATED FROM ALL THE FICTION" that men have written down through history to promote their own religion and political agendas.

- THE SACRED MYSTERIES....OUR LAST WEBSITE

- This is what we have been waiting for; the conclusion of all of our websites and the final answer as to just "Whom" is this "Jesus" we have heard about all our lives and how this should affect our lives for the better. Central to the ancient Spiritual Wisdom is the concept of the Divine Spark/Cosmic Fire or seed buried within each person. It was the purpose of the ancient Spiritual Mysteries to bring to life this Divine Spark in the life of every person so that it would illuminate life on this Earth and so aid mankind in its Spiritual evolution of its True Self and True Being which is Divinity "incarnated" into "matter". This Divine Spark embedded within the "animal" body which housed man's Soul and Divine Mind was symbolized by various figures and characterizations at different times down through recorded history and in different nations and places. We find these symbolisms today in the nations as their personified Sungods and Goddesses which are preserved for mankind in the nation's Divine Legends and Spiritual Mythologies. Their names were Horus, Orpheus, Dionysus, Mithra, Krishna, Adonis, Tammuz, Hercules, Ishtar, Isis, Persephone, and even Jesus and so on. They were all labeled by Rome to be "pagan" Christs but these Divine Myths are, when correctly understood and interpreted correctly, are the highest expressions in metaphors and allegories of man's True Divine Self; as Plato has so appropriately said man is a "god in an animal body". The philosophers of the ancient world and even the ancient Egyptians before them knew that these figures were only symbolic of the highest Metaphysical reality within mankind and were never to be understood or taken to be historical men or women; it is we who do not understand this precious ancient Mythology today. Many writers today write of this subject completely devoid of its true understanding and mislead millions in so doing. These Divine Truths in these Spiritual Mysteries are "Spiritually discerned" and eclipse the intellect of many.
- We will see in this website that over 5,000 years ago in ancient Egypt and some 2,000 years ago in the area of the eastern Mediterranean, the Divine Soul or Spark within humanity was called the Christ (from Krst, Karast or Krist, Egyptian for the anointed ("messiah") mummy). What we find when we wade through all of this ancient theology found in ancient Egypt and the Gnosticism and Spiritual Mysteries of the ancient nations is that early Christianity was nothing new at all; in fact it was originally before the rise of Roman "literalism" only the re-statement of the ancient Spiritual Wisdom and Gnosticism of the ancient Spiritual Fathers as far back as ancient Egypt and beyond and not a replacement of this Spiritual Wisdom as Christianity as we know it today has tragically become. We come to see that a "radical reinterpretation" of almost all the ancient Spiritual Wisdom was the legacy of Roman Orthodoxy. Christians of any intelligence during the first two centuries at least did not regard their movement as the bearer of the first light into the heathen darkness, but only the republication of very ancient Spiritual Truth. If you undertake this study with Bet Emet you will find what all do; namely, that the earliest of the Church Fathers and their writings attest to this very fact that "True Christianity" (the religion of "the Christ" within humanity) has been with mankind since the beginning of time. Augustine's quote to truth will wake the dead! Sadly today Rome as "radically reinterpreted" all the ancient Spiritual Wisdom in order to dominate and control the world through fear and ignorance and in so doing forcing it through the doors of the Roman Church to avoid the supposed "fires of Hell" which don't exist by the way; it worked....we call the legacy of such theological inventionism today the Dark Ages and it lingers in our Churches

Sunday after Sunday and billions and billions of people have walked through their lives following "another Gospel" and "another Christ" never knowing that they never had the Divine Truths that this Creator imparted to humanity in the beginning of its infancy. The truth of this matter is that the indwelling god is himself being brought to birth within the womb of humanity; in you and me. This is our calling, this is your purpose; to aspire to progressive Spiritual Perfection by reaching toward the mark of your high calling in "Christ". We come to see in this website that man is a Spiritual Intelligence, who has taken flesh with the object of gaining experience in the worlds below the Spiritual, in order that he may be able to master and to rule them, and in later ages take his rightful place in the creative and directing Hierarchies of the Universe. Man, being himself, is to come to know the Divinity whose life he shares. Each individual is gestating a Divinity within the depths of his own nature from life to successive life. Yes, Christianity taught reincarnation as do all major world religions and did so until 533 A.D. when a vote of hands struck this Divine Law of Science and Physics from the pages of intended Spiritual Truth but once it was heard shouted in the halls of the Vatican.

- Christianity has fervently exhorted us to look into the empyrean to find the unapproachable God. All the while the infant deity slumbers unheeded within the heart awaiting to "come forth" from the "dead". Yes, resurrection from the dead was something to be experienced on this side of Jordan as the Gnostic Paul so appropriately says: Eph 5:14 14 Wherefore he saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light. (KJV) Christianity has largely nullified the force of St. Paul's almost frantic cry to us: "Know ye not your own selves, how that Jesus Christ is within you?" In fact we have heard of it all our lives but never recognized its because "being born again" has again had its "true meaning" radically altered once again by the Roman Church.
- In this last of our website we will see that the supreme Creator was at first given various names, such as the First Cause, the Great Spirit, God, the One. Creative energy emanates from the One and manifests in various ways, depending on the plane or level of existence that is involved. The ancients understood that the the gods of primeval religion were the active manifest powers, faculties, organs of God himself that flourish in the Universe and Cosmos. Nature was understood by the Spiritual ancients as God's body, elemental forces the agents and messengers (angels) of his operative economy, Universal and Divine Mind His thinking faculty and the ultimate contribution His Spiritual heart to mankind and all of this was imparted and incarnated into mankind awaiting "awakening from the deadness" of Spiritual apathy and ignorance of his True Being. The ancient system of Spiritual Wisdom thought it not blasphemy to define the organic structure of deity to explain to human grasp the cause and nature of the world. Reverence was not withheld from even the lowest instrumentalization of Godhood and its manifestation in our physical realm. The ancients deemed it not dishonoring to deity to recognize His being in all things. They saw God manifested in nature, and not as abstracted from nature. And they studied nature as the living garment of God's immanence. In so doing many cultures compare the Creator to the Sun. The Sun pours out its life giving rays, as does the Creator. In order to exist, all life absorbs a tiny amount of energy from the Sun. The Creator is our Spiritual Sun and it is the very embodiment of our cells and their nucleus. There have been various solar gods, such as Ra, Apollo, and Christ but they are all nothing more than personifications of the "Internal Sun" that is the core of every cell in our bodies and the very Living Conscious Energy within each cell that makes the Body of Christ or as the ancient Egyptians termed it the "Body of Ra". We come to see that there are many levels or planes of existence or manifestation. There are terrestrial and celestial worlds (as Paul says), noumenal and phenomenal realms, physical and ethereal planes, material and spiritual bodies, heavens, fairy-lands, underworlds, hells, limbos, Isles of the Blessed, Elysian Fields, the meadows of Aarru-Hetep and homes on high. And the beings on these worlds and planes of existence range from high divinity down to man and these beings are shown to be the very "gods" and "goddesses" of which we read in the ancient mythologies of the nations. The ancients understood that God, through the Law of Incubation and Incarnation, has filled all "matter" with Himself with an intended purpose of perpetual Self-awaking and Self-awareness of Himself. In all that exists, even in mankind, God has His being and He lives and moves and has His being in us as He does in all "matter". Through the Law of Dismemberment God has "fragmented" Himself into infinite Divine Sparks that has "fallen" into "matter" and incarnated Himself into all existences as we see in the Egyptian Ennead, the Egyptian Ogdoad, and Jewish Kabbalah. Here again we see that all the world's religions before the rise of Rome shared the same Spiritual Ideas of God, man and Cosmos. All of life is shown to be perpetually evolving Spiritually until the Universal Mind inherent in all "matter" achieves the "fullness and stature" of the Divine Mind or "Krst/Christ". This is what Paul actually says in Ephesians 4:13 13: "Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ:" This is why the "only Christ" that exists is the Divine Mind which "fell into matter" to save the Souls of mankind which equally "fell to their deaths" in "matter". This Divine Mind we see in his "fall into matter" was termed by the ancients the "death of Christ" as they recognized this "fall" of Christ to his "death" involved the "crossing of planes" of Celestial existences and termed this the "Crossification" or the "crucifixion of the Krst" or "the crucifixion of the Christ" in order to save the Souls trapped in Amenta/Hades/Hell and material incarnation in "matter". This is the only truth taught about the allegorical "dead of God" or "Krst/Christ" which was taught for thousands of years and existed in such integrity in all of the nation's ancient Spiritual Wisdom and was always taught in all world religions and their Spiritual Myths and Divine Allegories down through time until the rise of Roman Orthodoxy when the "indwelling Christ" and gestating Divine Mind was "externalized" and "separated" from humanity and confined to but one person of Rome's historical invention, the "Jesus" of the New Testament. In this "Jesus" of Rome's devise we can yet find if we possess the ancient "keys" to correctly interpreting the Ancient Spiritual Wisdom which has been so tragically twisted by Rome the compilation and synthesis of all "incarnated Christs" down through ancient religions which is so perfectly personified down through history by the ancient Spiritual Wisdoms of the major world religions; all having in common the same idea that man is a "god in an animal body" slowly evolving himself in his return to his Fathers' House as the Prodigal Son Divine Allegory so appropriately states. Let me finish this with a quote from Paul: "Know ye not as to your own selves, that Jesus Christ is in you, unless ye be reprobate?" (2 Cor. 13:5). It is here we find the ONLY Christ ever given humanity and mankind will ever know! It is here we must call forth the Christ "from the dead" within us: "Come Forth" must be our cry as we find the Son, the Divine Mind in us, calling forth the Father from the "dead" within us and all humanity as we see so clearly in the resurrection of Osiris by Horus, his Son, the Egyptian Christ, which is re-told in the "Jesus Story" where the Jewish Christ calls Lazarus forth from the dead; "L-Asar-Us", is Egyptian for Lazarus in Hebrew. Here we see "Asar" is Osiris, the Father God of "the Christ", who is called forth from the death to which is "fell in matter". Here we see Horus calling his Father God Osiris from the dead within in all humanity to where humanity comes to know its True Self as Divinity in "matter". Humanity is to experience the Lazarus story personally. The cry is to come forth for every person as Paul shows us: Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light. 15 See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, (KJV) Shame on you Rome for such a terrible deception that has robbed from mankind these last 1,800 years his true Divinity and purpose of his incarnation!

So we began our study with the question:

Matt 16:13 13 When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Son of man am? (KJV)

Now you have you the "plan-o-gram" to find all the answers! ?The rest is up to you to study to show yourselves approved by verifying what we show you .....then you can be assured that you will not stand ashamed when you meet this Creator face to face when you cross your Nile/Jordan...(the same)

IN CLOSING

As stated earlier we begin our study with Bet Emet Websites with a "historical" assumption and present studies to show the beauty of Judaism over the dishonesty in Christian theological dogma and do so by using the depiction of the New Testament Jesus as if "historical" because he provides a vehicle for the teaching of Jewish theology, monotheism, morals, values, ethics, etc. It is not my purpose to reveal the weaknesses behind such a historical presentation of Jesus at this time as it will be developed and proven at a later time as one's studies progress through the Mystical Jesus and the Mythical Jesus as detailed on the above websites.

Of concern for us of course is the "Jesus Story" as depicted in the New Testament and its reliability as understood "literally" since it is being taught as a literal truth today about a historical man who lived 2000 years ago. You will come to see in time as you study that the Ancients as far back as Egypt understood this "Karast/Christ" entirely different from how we have been taught today under the direction of Roman and Protestant Christianity. Here are some big questions for you to ponder in light that most Christians trust in this Jesus Christ for their Eternal Salvation.

- Answer for yourself: Who or what is truly behind the name "Jesus Christ"? Can it be proven that the "Jesus Story" is nothing but the personification of the Sun and its passage through the various houses of the Zodiac as it passes through the 4 seasons and the equinoxes and solstices? If so then what do you do now?
- Answer for yourself: Are the infancy narratives and later depictions of the life and ministry of Jesus Christ in the New Testament nothing more than solar stories told as allegories which were later "literalized" and subsequently written into Rome's New Testament and depicted as a literalized historical Jesus Christ when in fact they were understood by the Ancients as astrological myths taken from astronomy?
- Answer for yourself: Did Rome destroy the Gnostic Christ of the earliest "Christians" which had existed since the beginning of time over the first 5 centuries of the early Church and replace it one of their own making? What are you to do when you see this from your studies on our Websites?
- Answer for yourself: If I study the Websites and find that the "Jesus Story" follows chronologically the Gospel of Matthew from chapter one through the end of chapter 28 and see for myself that the "Jesus Story" presented there parallels identically the personification of the Sun in its path through the Zodiac then what should this mean to me regarding my belief in Jesus as the historical Christ and him being the Jewish Messiah?
- Answer for yourself: Have we as Christians and followers of the "the Christ" been deceived by Rome and spent a good part of our lives worshipping a man as God as Rome has declared in their New Testament since the Nicean Council (325 A.D.) when in fact we should have been worshipping the one true Creator as the Pharaoh Moses (Akhenaton) instructed when he stood up to the religious establishment of Egypt when some were straying from the truth in their worship of the "godman" similarity to what we have done today with Rome's historical Jesus? Are we guilty of idolatry as Christians because we have believed a fable no more real than Snow White and the seven dwarfs?

Well the following studies in the above websites is not for the weak of heart as I will present over and over again infallible proofs that the "Jesus Story" as depicted in the New Testament is but a hoax perpetrated upon us by Rome in their hatred of the Jewish faith and Jewish Gnosticism back in the first century. You will see, in the last websites depicting the Mythical Christ, as we move chronologically from one sign of the Zodiac to the other, from month to month, from season to season, from Spring equinox to Summer solstice, from Autumn equinox to Winter solstice, and repeating again this cycle, along with the study of selected events from the depiction of the life of Jesus in Rome's New Testament, that if you study with us and finish the studies on this website, that the "Jesus Story" as depicted in the New Testament is nothing more than the literalization by Rome of the path of the Sun through the Zodiac along with other solar myths later incorporated into their "Jesus Story" as later literalized by Rome as well. In so doing you will see as I and many others have that we have not been taught the truth about "the Christ within" and how He is so integral to the proper worship of the Invisible God as Egypt and Moses taught. It would seem that Egypt got it right in the beginning but thanks to

Hellenism and Romanism we lost these earliest and correct understanding of Divine Concepts witnessed in God's Heaven and Nature. In a way these were our classroom and where we were to be instructed by the Creator about our life and purpose in God's creation. We are truly blessed today to live in an age where archeology and the information age can bring these truths back to life for you and me.

As a "retired Pastor", and moved by what my studies revealed over the years, I feel moved to share this information and evidence from such studies with those interested in the truth behind the origin for "Jesus Story" which is taught to the world today as a historical reality when in fact it is not. In the websites that are delineated above such evidence is presented to the reader in hopes that the missing puzzle pieces concerning the "Jesus Story" will be plainly evident to him and he can, in the light of such knowledge, no longer be deceived by the astrological allegory of "the Christ" as found in the New Testament which is erroneously taught "literally" today. I make very few promises to our readers but I make this one now: If you do these studies, and read these articles on this website then you will be thoroughly convinced as I was that the "Jesus Story" was never meant to be understood "literally" as it has been taught to you and me. Thus the worship of Jesus as a historical person or connecting this assumed historical person with God or believing him to be God is the most vulgar idolatry according to Moses and the Ten Commandments and a terrible affront to the Creator and constitutes blasphemy of the Name of God.

*Currently Bet Emet Ministries offers a CD with all our websites contained on it where the above information is available for easy search and study where you can work through this material at your leisure. # RETURNING TO THE JEWISH ROOTS OF CHRISTIANITY AS THEY EXISTED IN THE FIRST 3 CENTURIES

A Christian's religious belief system, when tested and exposed to contradictory facts from Biblical languages, unbiased Biblical history, Biblical culture, Archeology, Gnosticism, Egyptian Religion, and Astronomy, must in the Spirit of Truth and Repentance be flexible enough to change....that is if "truth" is your goal

Disclaimer: It is important for the reader to understand that in this website, in comparing first century Judaism and the "pattern of worship" given to the "non-Jew" by God as well as unveiling of the historical truths concerning the non-Jewish "believer" in the first century against the later alterations and changes made to this "pattern of worship" by the emerging Roman Gentile Church of Rome in the 3rd century I will use a "literal-historical" approach to the "Jesus Story". If you have studied and ran across some of our other websites then you know that "the Christ" can be interpreted from 3 different perspectives down through recorded history: "mystical", "mythological", and "literal-historical". Only after one has spent a considerable time in dedicated and scholarly studies in such areas as Biblical Judaism, the Jewish Messiah and true Messianic prophecy as taken from the Hebrew Scriptures and not the later forged texts of Rome, comparative manuscript evidences, the history and origin of the Roman New Testament, the true origin and creation of the New Testament, the Gnostic Paul vs the falsified Roman Paul, the Essenes and their "literal godman", Ancient Wisdom literature, Jewish and Gentile Gnosticism, Egyptian religion and the ancient "Jesus Story" that beings with Ancient Egypt, Comparative religions, Astronomy and Astrotheology can he understand and be certain which two of the above three methods of interpretation of "the Christ" are accurate and factual. Again for purposes of comparing Judaism's truths vs Christianity's alterations of it over the early centuries and the implications that this holds for the "non-Jew" and "Godfearer" today then we adopt in this website and for all studies in this website a supposed "literal-historical" interpretation of "the Christ" as well as the Jesus of the New Testament. Only in so doing can we adequately contrast the truths of Judaism vs Christian theology and by so doing follow the lineage of these "Divine Truths" back down the corridors of history to the earliest Divine revelations given to mankind by the Creator which were intended for both "Gentiles" and "Jews" as well. You will, in time, come to see that there is a "Pattern" to the worship of God given all mankind in the beginning of recorded history of the race and this "pattern" can be traced throughout recorded history and will culminate with Biblical Judaism and will subsequently be destroyed in the 3rd century by the emerging antisemitic Roman Church. I will let you be the judge of the results of such studies and leave to the reader to draw the necessary conclusions as we attempt to compare Jewish and Christian theological perspectives all the while dealing with the "New Testament Jesus" in a "literal-historical" manner in order for such an accurate comparison to be done effectively. ## THE "PATTERN OF WORSHIP" AND THE NON-JEWISH BELIEVER...THE GODFEARER

It is my intention to demonstrate to the serious student of the Bible that there exists both in the Hebrew Scriptures \(the Old Testament\) as well as the New Testament a "Pattern of Worship" that includes both the Jew and the "non-Jew" \(the Godfearer\). This "Pattern of Worship" was shared between both the first century Jew and "non-Jewish" believer as well as I will show you from examination of the Old Testament texts, the New Testament texts, as well as historical analysis.

Now one would expect that if a "non-Jew" converted to Judaism that he would be observant of the same Biblical Festivals and Sabbaths as was the Jew born into Judaism but what is startling is that there exists a overlap, if you will, between the "stranger", or the "non-Jewish convert", and the Jew regarding not only the observance of God's Holy Days and Sabbaths but a host of other commandment involved with the "Pattern of Worship" given to all of mankind. We will in this website begin to present the evidence for and trace this "Pattern of Worship" and the idea of this "common salvation" shared between the "non-Jew" and the Jew from the Hebrew Scriptures, the Old Testament, down through to the New Testament era and beyond. In so doing we can get a better picture of what the "non-Jew" was commanded by God to observe and adhere to in his worship of the Creator according to his Covenant and see how this relates to what Commanded of the Jew as well. Let us begin at the beginning and see if a "pattern" develops and make the necessary applications to our lives as we go.

THE PICTURE OF THE "NON-JEW" IN THE BIBLE...WHAT CAN WE LEARN? WHAT SHOULD IT TEACH US? DOES THERE EXIST A "PATTERN OF WORSHIP" SHARED BY BOTH JEW AND "NON-JEW"? DO WE FOLLOW THIS "PATTERN" AS CHRISTIANS TODAY?

To be able to recognize the requirements of God laid upon the "non-Jew" in his relationship with God and his responsibilities toward God in his relationship with the Creator, for example how he was taught to "worship" of the Creator in the Scriptures, it is necessary that we begin at the "beginning" and learn to recognize the "non-Jew" in the Scriptures with emphasis upon the "context" and any possible connections to descriptions and pictures of them relating to their worship of God as commanded in the Hebrew Scriptures. It is from these pictures that we can draw important conclusions especially as our study deepens and we trace any possible "Pattern of Worship" we find later hidden in the texts of both the Old New Testament. Now let us look at the the examples of the "non-Jew" as relating to his worship of God in the Hebrew Scriptures and let us never forget what we shall see in this study, as God, who changes not, reveals His will to us as to how the "non-Jewish" believer was to be included in with the Jews as part of Israel of God. Sadly, antisemites down through history have extended great efforts to destroy and conceal this "Pattern of Worship" which we shall see was also given to the "non-Jew".

THE ANTIOCH PROBLEM: PAUL'S VIOLATION OF THE LAWS OF NOAH AND HOW IT IMPACTED THE GENTILE'S ACCEPTANCE INTO THE ISRAEL OF GOD

This series will reveal to the student many hidden truths that lay behind these verses. We will see that the whole account is somewhat misrepresented by Paul in the New Testament to present the Apostle Peter in a somewhat negative light as well as the fact that the problems surrounding table fellowship between the Jew and the "non-Jew" were of major importance in the first century. This problem had to be "fixed" if the two sticks in Joseph's hand were ever to become "one" and the "middle wall of partition between the Jew and the "non-Jew" was to be ever broken down between the Jews and "non-Jews" as the people of God.

It is important in our studies to understand that is after the Jerusalem Council that Paul will write his first epistle, the Book of Galatians. It is again important to contrast the "theology" of Paul at this time in his life as against the decision made at the Jerusalem Council concerning the requirements given the "non-Jews" for inclusion into the Israel of God.

DETERMINING WHICH COVENANT THE GENTILE CHRISTIAN IS UNDER...IT IS NOT WHAT YOU THINK!

In light of the above historical events that transpired long after the time believed for the New Testament Jesus it is especially important for us to be fully aware of which Covenant God gave to the "non-Jew" and see this clearly as taught by Israel and the Jerusalem Council, God's "light to the nations". This critical information must be contested again what tradition Gentile Christianity has taught for the last 1,800 years.

THE "OLIVE TREE" THEOLOGY...THE LAWS AND COVENANT OF NOAH...AND THE GRAFTING IN OF THE NON-JEWISH BELIEVER INTO THE ISRAEL OF GOD...THE MESSAGE THE GENTILE CHURCH HAS FAILED TO LEARN

It is hoped by now that the student and reader is thoroughly familiar with the intent of our Creator to establish a "one people of God" and has planned for this by giving "overlapping Covenants" containing common ground in the form of identical Laws and Commandments (the 66 Laws of Noah are contained in the 613 Laws of Moses). The only problem is the blending of these two peoples together. We saw a botched attempt at this by relaxing these Laws and Commandments on the part of Paul and Jerusalem made it clear that this is not acceptable. But the idea of the "oneness" of God's people exists and is obtainable and these further studies should help you better understand God's plan for both the Jew and the "non-Jew" in this regard.

HAS THE CHRISTIAN BEEN MISLED IN UNDERSTANDING THE LAW (THE TORAH) AND ITS PLACE IN CHRISTIANITY?

In light of the fact that we just have seen repeatedly that God has given both the "Jew" and the "non-Jew" Covenants who requirements are obedience to "certain" Laws and Commandments then it is mandatory that we understand correctly these Laws of God and their purpose in the overall Salvation plan of God.

THE GODFEARER AND GOD'S SABBATHS, HOLY DAYS, FESTIVALS & FEASTS...GETTING TO THE HEART OF THE ISSUE FOR THE CHRISTIAN

We have seen and examined thoroughly in the above articles not only the issue of "full conversion" of the "non-

Jew" to Judaism but also how the "non-Jew" was historically accepted within Judaism without "full conversion". Having understood these facts now it is time to see just how this "acceptance" of the non-Jew without full conversion was accomplished and how it related to worship and his participation in the Sabbaths of God.

We now will focus on just how the "non-Jewish" believer in God, the "Godfearer" related to each of the "appointed times" of God and the Biblical Sabbaths, Feasts, and Festivals. It is our quest to see if we can amass enough evident to prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that "non-Jewish believers" in the God of Israel were observing and keeping the Sabbaths, Feasts, Fasts, and Festivals of God long before the Jews were ever a people and in so doing establish a "Pattern of Worship" intended to be followed today. When you see this for yourself and remember what you have learned on this website how Constantine forbid these "Sabbaths" to the "non-Jew" and changed them all and "reinterpreted them all", then this should make you want to repent and set at the feet of the Jews and learn the real message of God in His "Holy Days" given you. ## OBTAINING THE STUDY CD FROM BET EMET MINISTRIES

Greetings

In response to your request for the CD that contains all of our published studies, about fourteen websites at this time on important areas of thematic studies, we ask that you consider a small donation to Bet Emet Ministries that allows us to continue to procure necessary materials to further our studies in these important areas that archeology today is bringing to our attention. I ask that you consider a minimum donation of $50.00 for literally my life's work. Along with it is a multi-page detailed instructions as to how to approach these studies for there is a path and proper order in which these websites need to be studied and addressed. This "order" is critical if one is to build upon this new knowledge and follow the studies one step at a time. This logical progress of truth and enlightenment is crucial if one hopes to now loose his way through all of this information and knowledge. So often we read the end of the book first and get confused or just quit or worse we get scared at what we read at times now knowing how we get there or arrive at such conclusions. So, this information is a vital necessity in order to trace the evolution and departure from these Ancient Divine Truths that all mankind were given in the beginning of Creation concerning our Creator, His Krst/Christ, man (the Soul) and its responsibility to our Creator. Today we are so far from this One Truth that it is a crying shame and the fruit of the world speaks of such a departure from the Creator's will for mankind and Christianity sadly is a leading culprit and the greatest sinner in this tragic departure from Divine Truth.

If you would like to obtain this CD with instructions then please respond as the LORD lays on your heart to:

- Craig Lyons M.Div.
- 902 Cardigan
- Garland, Texas 75040

and the word and truths of our God is not bound nor His truths, please share this knowledge with others for we are moving into a new age of awareness in a Cosmic sense; it is time for mankind to take their next step in the evolution of our species until we become one with the Divine ONE Himself. And this cannot happen without truth and knowledge.

blessings...Craig Lyons Ms.D., D.D., M.Div.

BET EMET MINISTRIES: COMPLETE STUDIES ON CD & SUGGESTED PLAN OF STUDY

As many of our readers have come to know, Bet Emet Ministries has been an "evolving" study over the last twenty years since dedicating myself to coming to the correct understanding and interpretation of the "Jesus Story". Following Seminary, what had once seemed to me to be a simple story worthy of belief in the New Testament from the perspective of the pew, was shown to be nothing of the sort. In fact, in Seminary it became evident that it was a collection of jumbled and conflicting texts in Hebrew, Greek, and English, which when compared with teach other, contradicted it each other in so many ways that a Divine hand behind them stretched believability to the max. Surely, I reasoned, that God, if the author of such writings Christian texts, could have agreed with Himself. Surely, if God was behind the writing of this New Testament. The disagreements between these New Testament texts are astounding. Mill, in 1707 C.E. listed over 30,000 and today estimates of textual differences in the New Testament exceed 400,000. What I mention is not simply copyist errors and omissions; rather I was introduced to a new world of conflicting theologies and beliefs depending upon which manuscripts you choose to include in your "Bible". The Jews had theirs, Catholicism, and Protestantism had theirs. Even other ancient nations like Egypt had theirs. Central to all of these texts and all of these Bibles since the beginning of time is the idea of Divinity mediating with material existence through "the Krst/Christ" or whatever each nation called Divine Mind that "fell" and "incarnated" into physical existence and "matter" and exits as Consciousness. The stories of this creation, Divine consciousness, and mankind's awareness and existence of it were told since the beginning of time and from ever nation to nation down through history. Being born in America we grow up with the "Judeo-Christian" story of this same ancient creation account along with stories to help man understand that behind all that his senses can see and experience that there exists is a God, a Creator and Ultimate Origin and His Krst/Christ. What concerned me was that my "religious belief" was centered and was founded upon certain "texts" that I was told to trust for my understanding of this God and His outreach to me. But, seeing the unreliability of these texts in Christianity alone, I had to wonder, as studies advanced, why my Christian texts and Scriptures deviated so drastically, not only from each other, but the earlier Hebrew Scriptures and and later use in the New Testament in "key" theological positions regarding, for example, the Jewish Messiah as well as "the Christ" (termed Jesus) in the New Testament. When this awareness of the textual problems in Christianity is factored in to other religious studies like comparative religions, gnosticism, hermeticism, astronomy, ancient Egyptian religion, etc., a blind man can could see that in the 2nd through the 5th centuries a concerted effort was made to "change the Krst/Christ" story that had been held sacred since the beginning of time. I wanted to know why, the greatest and most ancient story ever to mankind, the story of God's Krst/Christ, was so distorted and corrupted and given different meanings in the 2nd through the 5th century from what it had been understood by the whole of mankind for over ten thousand years.

Matt 16:13-14 13 When Jesus came into the region of Caesarea Philippi, He asked His disciples, saying, "Who do men say that I, the Son of Man, am?" And, question 2... Matt 16:14-16 15 He said to them, "But who do you say that I am?"

Little did I know at that time that my life would become dedicated to finding the answer to this question. That was twenty years ago and my personal studies would become the foundation for Bet Emet Ministries to help others wade through all of the conflicting theologies and find the answer to the greatest question that life will ever pose to them.

If this CD is to prosper you then you need to accept the following axiom:

"A Christian's religious belief system, when tested and exposed to contradictory facts from Biblical languages, unbiased Biblical history, Biblical culture, Archeology, Gnosticism, Egyptian Religion, and Astronomy, must in the Spirit of Truth and Repentance be flexible enough to change....that is, if "truth" is your goal"...Craig M. Lyons Ms.D., D.D., M.Div. The only religion that God ever gave mankind is Truth!

The results of my search for this truth concerning "the Krst/Christ" are most exhaustive and comprehensive and are on various websites but also available on a CD for those wishing to speed up their studies in these important areas. I know this amount of information and knowledge on this CD and Ministry's websites can be overwhelming at times but remember this is a collection of studies into the origins of Christianity that separated from its mothers' faith of Judaism and which has told the world that it is the only way to "Salvation" and all other paths to God guarantee damnation and a burning hell and torture for those who reject the traditional Christian message that "Jesus saves". If Christianity, as it exists today, is to be validated as God' truth then it has to stand up to scrutiny of its beliefs and the texts from which these beliefs are derived. I will let the student decide these issues for himself when he is acquainted with the evidences presented on the CD but he needs more than "belief" in texts that today can be shown to be more than unreliable when examined with a critical and scholarly eye.

There is a proper sequence to the study of this CD. If not followed, then the student could lose way and not come to the truths that he desires and become frustrated and put down this most information concerning his Soul and never take advantage of this opportunity presented him. Therefore, we begin our studies with a "literal" and "historical" study of "Jewish Roots". Along the way we move beyond the "literal" and "historical" understanding of the Christian Bible once seeing that, simply, it is seen in the light and evidence of today to be a pseudo-history at best to which "mystical" and "metaphysical" concepts are inter-dispersed. The "key" to proper understanding is to know "when" and "where" these interpretations change. We end our studies with the goal before us with the "mystical and metaphysical" study of the Divine Sacred Mysteries which is the "hidden knowledge" behind what appears at first glance in our Bibles to be a simple "literal" and "historical" story. Is is here in these beginning websites, when seeing the "literal" and "historical" interpretation of the "Jesus Story" for what it really "is" an and what it is "not" along with personal awareness of the corrupted Hebrew Scriptures on which it is made to stand by Rome during the 2nd through the 5th century, that we can in full confidence move onward to find the truth behind the "Jesus Story".

The Rabbis always taught there are 4 levels of interpretation of Sacred texts. You cannot give a baby what it cannot digest until he grows and matures. The same is applicable to Spiritual food.

Heb 5:12-14 12 For when for the time ye ought to be teachers, ye have need that one teach you again which be the first principles of the oracles of God; and are become such as have need of milk, and not of strong meat. 13 For every one that useth milk is unskilful in the word of righteousness: for he is a babe. 14 But strong meat belongeth to them that are of full age, even those who by reason of use have their senses exercised to discern both good and evil. (KJV)

Our simple "Jesus Story" suffices for most until the Soul in man cries out for more. There is more, much more! The truth beyond the "simple" lies in "awaking from the dead" whereby we no longer want Spiritual gerbers' food but the "strong meat" for those who desire to come into the "fullness and stature of Christ". This, admittedly, and sadly, is not for everyone at the point in life to which you find yourself possibly today. But if you want "strong meat" and the "Secret to Life" and your "True Self" and "Krst/Christ" then this is the "mystery hidden from the foundation of the world" and it is for you. Your time has come and it is now. Understand that the ancients who handed down to us this Sacred Book, these Hebrew Scriptures, had its origins in ancient Egypt. The Jewish people came out of Egypt where they were born into higher Spiritual Truths than the "simple" stories of our Bibles appear to teach. The Bible, at best, is a pseudo-history to which "encoded"

Divine "mysteries" are hidden in symbol and glyph and lie sleeping behind "simple Simon" stories; the "keys" to which are need to open the eyes of the dead. This will become familiar to you as your studies advance.

Again, there is an order in which this CD is to be "studied and followed". There is a "step-by-step" awareness that must be adhered to if you don't want to get "lost" in such abundance of information. Looking back on my life, I did not always know to follow "the path" from step to step, but sorted it out over the years and when stepping back ever so often to analyze the horizon of my studies. In so doing the "order" became apparent. You are recommended to follow the "path" but if your current studies are at a certain level beyond the "first steps" then by all means begin where you feel comfortable. But it is important that you follow the "evolution" of "thought" as we first must deal with all of what we have been taught in "literal" and "historical" way in order to prove "it is not" and then begin to look at what we do have lying in wait for us behind the hidden mysteries in the "Osiris Story", called today the "Jesus Story". The Spiritual enlightenment you will receive will be the most incredible journey of your life. In fact, your incarnation is purposed in discovering this Divine Truth in this plane of existence. In fact, this knowledge and understanding revealed by the ancients and incorporated on this CD is the sole purpose of our incarnations, to "become the fullness and stature of this Christ" while living in an "animal body". Plato said, "God is a man in an animal body". It is time we find that out. Here is the suggested order for the study of these various websites and the path I would recommend they be studied:

- CHRISTIAN JEWISH BIBLE
- RETURNING TO JEWISH ROOTS COMPLETE
- WEBPAGE LAWS OF NOAH GENTILE RELIGION
- WEBSITE GODFEARERS
- WEBSITE NO 4 HISTORY OF FORMATION OF NEW TESTAMENT
- WEBSITE 6 MESSIAH
- WEBSITE FULFILLED PROPHECY EXPOSED
- WEBSITE DANIEL 70 WEEKS
- WEBSITE ESSENE CHRISTIAN FAITH ORIGINS
- WEBSITE PAUL PROBLEM
- WEBSITE #3 ARYIAN SUN MYTHS
- WEBSITE MARCION NT
- WEBSITE EGYPT CX (CHRISTIANITY)
- WEBSITE ASTROTHEOLOGY
- WEBSITE THE SACRED MYSTERIES

Following this "pattern" of study, the one in which we start out scrutinizing the Old and New Testaments texts "literally" and "historically" as we have been taught since children we, step by step, we eventually come to see that such a "literal" and "historical" interpretation of these Sacred Texts as we have them in the New Testament is foolish let alone unbelievable to a sound mind. We have to examine our inherited "Jesus Story" both "literally" and "historically" because we have been told that we must "believe and be baptized" or be damned. We come to see that God never said that; the religious clerics did. What we do find, however, step by step, is that under the religion of Judeo-Christianity, under the typical "literal" and "historical" understanding of the "Jesus Story", an interpretation that cannot hold up when exposed to many infallible proofs today that prove it faulty, lies a completely different understanding of this "Jesus Story". This "Jesus Story" is the oldest story in the world, told for over 10,000 years or more and never was it "literal" or "historical" and about "another"; it was always about God's child, you and me as we come to know and understand it. On the surface Bet Emet will show the student that the "Jesus Story" cannot be "believed" in such a manner as we have been given it (a lesser mystery), but should be understood on a much deeper level. As our studies continue to advance, we will come to see the "Jesus Story" as a much higher Spiritual revelation given to mankind about his True Self and the God within him. It is this understanding of one's True Self and his inherent Divinity that the ancients connected with man's second birth called being "born again" in our texts. But reading these texts today with Rome's imposed understanding and without the ancient understanding completely nullifies the true meaning of being "born again" as well as our incarnational purpose as your continued studies will reveal. Ironically, the studies on this CD can be compared to the dying and resurrection seen in the "Jesus Story"; revealing what the "Jesus Story" is "not" since being taught as children to approach it as a "literal" and

"historical" story of someone else, while at the same time revealing "what it truly is" when understood as did the ancient Spiritual masters "mystically" and "metaphysically". As Christians we inherited this wonderful story built upon 2,000 years of imposed mistranslations and misquotations of the Hebrew Scriptures. It is time to see the truth about Jesus.

What you must keep in focus in such a study is that when ALL of the present knowledge is sifted looking for truth using as unbiased scientific method as possible then we find that down through history the spiritual masters of our race has understood "this Christ" that dwells within us as the manifestation of God in 2 basic ways:

- The Mystical Christ
- The Mythical Christ

Over time we find that from these above two methods of interpretation of God and His Christ "within us" there developed a 3rd interpretation of "the Christ"

- The Historical Christ

No matter how far you go back in time and no matter in what nation you look you find that the first, and in my opinion the most correct understanding of God and His relationship to "matter", ie, mankind, is found with Egypt and the nations that learned of the Creator from them. It is here we find "the Mystical Christ" and the "Mythical Christ" and when correctly understood these religious beliefs and understandings of the Divine hold the greatest understanding and secrets of the Divine that exist on our planet today. Opinions on Egypt are divided today but there are scholars emerging today that challenge the current understanding of Egypt expressed by such current voices as Mark Lerher and Z. Hawass and these modern scholars are restoring the greatness and understanding of Egypt as the world's first monotheistic nation which we see when correctly understanding their Ancient concepts of God and the Egyptian "Krst/Karast". We call him "the Christ" today. It all began a long time ago, over 10,000 years ago or before, and archeology today is overturning the erroneous understandings we have inherited of that time and beliefs which are largely due to Roman religious censorship down through church history. As your studies grow in these areas you will see why we are challenged to our very core by what these Ancient Spiritual Fathers understood of God and His Cosmos and His Christ in lieu of what we have been taught today about the "historical Christ" and the "historical Jesus" from Rome with their Second New Testament.

Being born into Christianity we inherited a "Literalistic" interpretation of almost everything we read in the Bible never knowing without serious study that this book was at best an allegory placed in the historical development of the Jewish people (the biological children of Egypt). We, not knowing this, read this book with "literal glasses" never realizing that what we were reading is at best "blurred" religious concepts of the Ancients which they never interpreted "literally" but only "allegorically" or "metaphorically". Make no mistake about it, these stories, when understood as "allegories", expresses a "literal" Divine Truth that is not about another, but about the person who comes to an awareness of them. We must never forget that when told through the medium of legend and myth the identifies of the characters (Osiris, Horus, Dionysus, Attys, Mithra, Jesus) were but anthropomorphic vehicles designed to express such Heavenly truths and were never to be understood as if "real people" or "historical characters". In other words these "gods" and "goddesses" and "godmen" were never real but expression of the "godman" in each of us when we come to understand that man truly is the "Temple of God" or the "Temple of the Holy Spirit". We are the Divine Himself trapped in matter through the Descent of the Soul from Heaven into material existencer....flesh. These concepts began with Egypt as did most of what we have heard taught in our churches today in one way or the other although, more often than not, they have lost their original understanding and interpretation as taught by the Ancients who first gave mankind these Divine messages and truths. In its place, we have been given a "radical reinterpretation" that has caused us to fail to grow Spiritually in ways our Father intended, all the while looking for a Cosmic-God-man to do for us what we are to do ourselves as we come into the fullness of our true identity as God's Christ through our Earthly experiences. We have lost so much through the "literalization" of these Divine Allegories and Myths. The incarnation of Jesus in a manger is only to show us that Divinity has incarnated into an animal body. This is not another's story; it is our story as the children of God. This principle is applicable to every part of the "Jesus Story". The "Jesus Story" is "our" story.

To see and fully comprehend this beyond any doubt, since having learned so much incorrectly, we must unlearn error by being "retaught". That is why I present the beginning studies and websites with a "literalistic" and "historical" method of interpretation as that is where we both began our pilgrimage to God in our birth faith of Christianity. In so doing I chose to use this method of interpretation to help the "babes in Christ" grow to see at first, for example, the beauty of Judaism as the legacy of Egypt since it is the best and truest expression of these Ancient religious beliefs and revelation of these Ancient Spiritual Masters that we have existing today in the world. There is no "literal" "godman" in Judaism unlike Christianity and therefore no threat of idolatry unlike what we innocently inherited with our Roman Christianity and Protestantism. This "literalism" of these Divine Concepts as confined to but one person as we find in the "Jesus Story" is to be understood not as a blessing but as a curse when your depth of study advances to see the "Gnostic Christ" within which, by the way, modern scholarship teaches us today was the earliest understanding of "the Christ" as held by both Jewish and non-Jewish Gnostic Christians in the early Church before the rise of Roman Christianity. Let us not be so naive to not know that winners of wars write history from "their view" and that this has been done by Rome and the world fed "their book", the New Testament. As your studies advance, the insightful reader will come to notice the blending of both the "Gnostic Christ within" and the "historical Christ without". The "radical reinterpretation" of "the Krst/Christ" has begun. Rome should have done a better job editing and altering these New Testament texts as they left trace evidence "here and there" in these same texts which they corrupted and forged that betrays their untrustworthiness in "key" theological places. Rome forgot to change them all! The insightful reader and scholar comes to see these over time and the dichotomy and tension between "two different Pauls" for example, or the differences between one of the Paul's message and the message of Jesus becomes apparent. One Paul agrees with the message of "the Christ"; the other Paul does not. It is all on the websites. That explains why so much of the Pauline epistles contradict what he has said in other places and people believe Paul to be schizophrenic. Trust me, the real Gnostic Paul had it right! Rome, will not!

I use the "literal" method of interpretation in reaching the student with the knowledge he needs concerning such areas of study found in the early websites which deal with Judaism vs Christianity, the Covenant of Noah, the Biblical Pattern of Worship as best expressed today for the non-Jew again as found in Judaism which is without the taint of idolatry, the adulteration and corruption of Christian Scriptures, both the Old and New Testaments, Pauline issues, issues of the Messiah and Messianism as viewed from Judaism vs Christianity, Messianic prophecies, Daniel's 70 weeks prophecy, the Essenes and their corruption of the Hebrew Scriptures when they translated them into the Greek LXX, and finally the introduction of sunworship as applied to the Christian Jesus and his depiction in our New Testament. All of the beginning websites are approached with a "literal" view in order to contrast the teachings of Judaism and history, with those of these Roman Christian texts which are made to say otherwise. In so doing we see contrasts as well as parallels that bring into question the validity and reliability of what we have received as Christian truth and texts through "church tradition" and "Christian doctrine" and "Christian theology" concerning these above many issues and dogmas between these two religions. This is done to make you THINK! I truly believe that if God is not the author of confusion then these studies will expose these contradictions to such a degree that mankind has to be blamed for such confusion of these New Testament texts when compared to the Hebrew Scriptures. The blame lays squarely upon Rome and their replacement religion of Christianity which took the place of Biblical Judaism for both the Jew and the non-Jew.

After seeing these things we move to a deeper understanding of "the Christ" when we look at Gnostic Christianity and their "Gnostic Christ"; the "Christ Within" which I believe to be not only the same understanding of "God Within" mankind as taught by these Ancients but the correct interpretation of the Christ as first held by the earliest Gnostic Christian followers of "the Christ" before the Spiritual concept was later "literalized", "carnalized", and "historicized" by Rome after the Jewish War of 70 A.D. It is here we vindicate the true Paul that our previous attacks upon him as the 2nd Paul of Rome's devise seem to some confusing. The Gnostic Paul never taught a "historical and fleshly" Christ that was limited to but one person. Now Paul can be seen and understood correctly and his religious views concerning "the Christ within" be exalted and promoted and given credit where credit is due but laurels to Paul can ONLY come after you have come to see the big difference between an "internalized Christ" and an "external Christ" made by Rome's forgery of his epistles and letters long after his death. This is why I take great pains to contrast the Hebrew Scriptures and religious teachings vs Roman Pauline Christology and theology that we have inherited in our forged Christian Bibles and New Testaments. Rome has done Paul a great disservice and dishonored his ministry and name for almost 2,000 years presently and few know it due to their lack of study in these critical areas concerning the "Mystical Christ" and the "Gnostic Christ" within. It is in these studies we contrast the "literal interpretation" of "the Christ" with the "allegorical" interpretation of the Christ which we show goes back to the beginning of time as delineated on our Egypt Christian website as well as the Marcion New Testament site. It is here that I expose the fallacy of the "literal" interpretation of "the Christ" and the deceptions behind the "historical Jesus" as a literary creation of Rome when they "carnalized the Christ within" over the early centuries of the emerging Gentile Church. It is here we don't hold back and with prior conditioning of the student and reader from his previous study of the introductory websites (textual corruptions) I expose the sad facts that an unbiased study of history will show you that there is not a shred of legitimate historical evidence anywhere that the Jesus Story originated as the biography of a man named Jesus, and quite a lot of evidence that it did not. Outside of this one forged book, the Roman Bible and the New Testament, there exists not one piece of unforged or unadulterated evidence for the historical existence of this man from Galilee. I go on to show the reader that an unbiased through study of Comparative Religion will reveal to you that the basic plot of the "Jesus Story", from beginning to end, including the motif of a crucified savior, already existed in many other religions thousands of years prior to the alleged time of Jesus and if you continue such dedicated studies into Astronomy and Solar Mythology you will find that beyond any doubt the "Jesus Story" is nothing more than an allegory for what would naturally be the oldest and most important story humans would notice and write down, that of the annual passage of the seasons of the year and the path of the Sun through the celestial sphere and the 12 Houses of the Zodiac during the year. Personification of the Sun through the sky as found in the story of ancient solar and lunar gods follow in chronological procession through the year the exact chronology of the "Jesus Story" when personified from Matthew chapter 1 through chapter 28. This is an amazing study to say the least.

For an educated man or woman to believe that the studies included on this CD is but "coincidence" stretches belief beyond limits of sanity. Besides any serious study of Egypt will show you that this "Jesus Story" existed on 2 levels: the Mystical and the Mythical. Only later will Rome come and reinterpret these Divine Truths and forge them into a Historical time line with a fictitious person and in so doing destroy the Ancient truths and Divine Revelation given the Ancients who first developed these "religious doctrines" in the first place. So when you see this, and I mean all of this, then there is no room for a "Historical Jesus". Sad but true.

Yet to teach these truths of ethics and morality that is found in the "mind of Christ" expressed through Judaism to the Gentiles, and having been preconditioned to a Jesus-centric faith into which we are born, it is necessary to teach through the vehicle of this "literal Jesus" in the beginning of our studies and in so doing slowly begin to widen the scope of the reader's learning and thereby gradually introduce him to these other concepts and origins of the "Mystical and Mythical" Christ. In so doing we slowly expose the Historical Jesus for what he is; namely, just an allegory and personification of the indwelling Christ which was later "literalized" and "historicized". This "radical reinterpretation" of God's Christ was later added to Marcion's First New Testament and forged into Rome's New Testament in their grand scheme of replacement religion. Sadly Egypt is destroyed today but her children and her truths live among her children, the Jewish nation and Biblical and Rabbinic Judaism. For me, if you want to find the Messiah and the mind of such a one like whom this Jesus is for me, an "example to be emulated" for all mankind, then we must begin to look in Judaism and in Egypt for, in my opinion, it is here we find "the mind of Egyptian Karast (Krst)" who is the original Christ. These Egyptian mysteries were continued by the Gnostic Christians and the authentic Paul who only wrote 7 epistles and who never taught a "fleshly Jesus Christ". Only when Rome forged later anti-Gnostic religious writings is Rome's Paul given credit for belief in a "historical Christ" which again I, and other scholars, point out was never his true belief. Only later do we tragically find that these metaphysical concepts revealing God to man, as coming down through recorded history from Egypt, to be destroyed when "literalized", "carnalized", and "Christianized" in Rome's New Testament.

But some might wonder and ask "where did all this come from originally"? Well I deal with that to in revealing the "Mythical Christ" as taken from Astronomy and Astrology of the Ancients as they read the stars and Heavens and saw within them and the movements of the Cosmos the varied messages of the Creator to mankind as interpreted in the cycles, patterns, the path of the Sun, moon, planets, stars, constellations, risings, settings, eclipses, etc. The message of Heaven, the cosmos, came down to Earth. Spiritually insightful people understood it and gave it as best they could to others as they could and would accept it. It is all there and the wonder never stops as these Ancient Spiritual Masters saw and understood "Divine Messages" in the Heavens which they brought down to Earth and applied to the Soul of mankind and its pilgrimage and development into this "Karastlikeness" or "Christlikeness" which the Creator intended. This might sound impossible to one now who is not well versed in such areas of study but believe me these teaching will take your breath away as you see the depth of spirituality of our Ancients compared with the religious fare we are fed today from our Christian pulpits and TV. If you ever wondered "where is the beef" you have found it here I promise you and the recommended book list on Egypt will feed you forever.

In closing, approaching these websites it is best that you first read the attachment "websites" as I have reworked this presentation and it exists today as a "plan-o-gram" for your studies from beginning to end. This is the best way in my opinion to approach these varied subjects in order where you move from the inherited "historical" view of "Christ Jesus" to the the "Mystical Christ" and finally to the "Mythical/Metaphysical Christ" and in so doing keep an organized pattern of study. This is the goal and it can be accomplished quite easily if you do as I recommend. It will only require your desire and time to accomplish.

Also attached is our "recommended book list" to show you where you can go to examine these findings for yourself and I recommend many good books which I own and have devoured over these last 20 years. I leave you with my blessings and again thank you for your gift and support of our small and humble attempt to restore the truth concerning God and His Christ to the world as He was first revealed to mankind in the beginning of time before greed, ambition, antisemitism, and the agenda of men and religious politics robbed us of such wonderful truths concerning "the Christ within". I pray that this CD will not only enlighten you to these higher Spiritual Truths but as well as you to find the fullness and stature of Christ in your own life.

A SPECIAL WORD FROM PASTOR CRAIG FOR NON-JEWISH BELIEVERS & THE "PATTERN OF WORSHIP" GIVEN THEM IN ACTS 15

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that in the Bible there is a hidden "pattern of worship" given to the Jew and "non-Jew" that overlaps and that Gentile Christianity today has totally lost the knowledge of this "pattern" and has going on 1,800 years? Are you aware that the "pattern" we read in our New Testament has its foundation in astronomy and the workings of the cosmos? Are you aware that is "pattern of worship" exhibited by the Jewish people in the Old and New Testament can be traced to ancient Egypt and the other ancient nations of the world for over 10,000 years or longer? But more importantly are you aware that Rome will "radically reinterpret" and alter this "Divine Pattern of Worship"? No, I bet you didn't. Without a lot of study it is very hard if not impossible for the traditional Christian to pick up his Bible or the New Testament and spot these "radical alteration" of this "Divine Pattern". But all of this is about to change for the reader and "truth-seeker" as we study together the fruits of my scholarly study over these last 20 years. All you need to find within yourself is a unwavering desire for truth and a deep love for God that will steer straight your course as we come to study together in order to obtain the knowledge of the truth kept from you over these last 1,800 years of Roman Orthodoxy.

Hello, pardon me just interrupting your life but I stumbled across Biblical information that has the opportunity to change the course of your life if you will let it. In my pursuit of holiness and love for God I was drawn into an in-depth study of God's Word over 19 years ago. In doing so I stumbled into a gold mine of Biblical truths long overlooked by the Body of Christ. Following Seminary, I Pastored in Dallas, Texas, for many years and have ministered the restoration of the Hebrew Roots of Christian faith for over 15 years. Because of the vast information and facts that I uncovered in such a study, long overlooked or neglected by most religious institutions, fellow pastors, or churches, or Seminaries, I came to a point in my ministry that I could no longer continue in the charade of a "pastor" when I knew most of what I was teaching to be in error from the fruit of my continued scholarly study over the first 4-5 years of my ministry following Seminary. Seminary give me the tools to do such study but never gave me the hidden truths behind the traditions they taught. Let us not be mistaken, the Jewish Christ-Messiah of which we read in the New Testament was NEVER a Christian and his religious belief system stands diametrically opposed to most of the major dogmas taught by mainline Christianity over these last 1,800 years. One only needs to study intently Biblical Judaism and compare their "religious dogmas" with the "Christian dogmas" to see of which I speak. Something is wrong why we don't follow in the steps of the Jewish Christ and his teachings and follow another way. When I began these studies almost 20 years ago I never dreamed that these Jewish dogmas could be traced to ancient Egypt some 10,000 years B.C.E.; dogmas by the way which will suffer a "radical reinterpretation" by Rome during the 2nd through the 5th century. Along the way of my studies I learned that we should never underestimate the power of indoctrination, tradition and legend upon the minds of the "unlearned". The greatest exodus that a Christian can ever experience is their personal pilgrimage from "ignorance" to "knowledge and truth" about God. The problem with such a pilgrimage is to learn how to discern "truth" from "error". Hopefully you will see in our studies together that I will show you how. I thank God for the Biblical skills and techniques I learned while in Seminary at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Ft. Worth, Texas; I only wish more of those who graduate from there used such skills in their study of the Bible. If they had they would eventually come to see the things I discovered and uncovered but there is a price to be paid for such knowledge. Few pastors and teachers can remain in the pulpit knowing these discoveries from such study unless their motives are not honest. But few I know of come to such a knowledge or illumination of such facts of which I speak without many years of dedicated study. Few pay the price. It is much easier to "flow with the program" of a church than to continue to dig out hidden truths in the original language of the Bible, let alone branch out from there in allied and associated studies.

If you will take the time to read and study the materials provided I am sure that you will, as I did, come to a very different position concerning your religious belief system than you possibly now hold.

If you would like, we at Bet Emet Ministries will be glad to help you continue your studies into the "faith once given to the saints." After covering the materials presented in this website, along with the other websites provided by this ministry, it will become sadly evident that today's contemporary Christian does not continue in "the faith of Jesus" as practiced in the first century. In fact the stark reality of the paganism masqueraded as "righteousness" today will turn your stomach as well as break your heart. It did mine. It is a far cry from what God intended and what "the Christ" both taught, believed, and practiced since the beginning of time. I don't expect you to understand that statement now but I hope in time you will. But such facts of which I speak most Christians do not hold in their possession as of yet. But that will quickly change based upon your dedication and diligent study of the materials presented. The only requirements you need for such study is the "desire for truth" and the "courage to accept it" when it goes often against everything you have been taught by Roman Christianity and its Protestant offspring.

I would be glad to place you on our weekly-article "teaching series" where our informative articles exposing such religious falsehoods along with hidden truths and these informative and provocative studies could be sent to you if you would like. I must tell you up front that we at Bet Emet Ministries are different from other Jewish or Hebrew Roots "Restoration" Ministries in that it seems our research has gone far more in-depth to the issues at hand than others and we provide a more in-depth analysis of the text of the Septuagint, the Masoretic text, the New Testament, as well as the Old Testament; both linguistically, culturally, historically, politically, and archeologically than others. We tackle the tough issues connected with Paul and the "Jesus Story" like few do. Not only that but our studies advance to great depths into the Gnostic Christianity for the first 3 centuries and its links to Ancient Egypt where it can be shown the world received its first "monotheistic" religion which lies at the base today of both Judaism and early "Chrestianity"; that's right, I spelled it right. "Chrestianity" will become "Christianity" in the 2nd through the 5th century but you don't know that yet. All that you and I received growing up in the Western Hemisphere is an inherited Roman Christianity which is a sad blurred picture of the early beliefs held by both the Jews and "non-Jews" concerning the ancient Divine Wisdom concerning the Creator and "the Chrestus", the "Krst/Karest/Christ". Little do you know that the name of "Jesus Christ" can be found written in stone in ancient Egypt some 10,000 years B.C.E. as well as the name "Yahweh". That should really make you want to know what lies behind these dogmas we are taught today are "literal" and "historical" when it appears they are not when such evidence and archeological facts come to be common knowledge. Because of such in-depth research we have been able to bring to light more information than most are giving that deal with serious omissions in Christianity's contemporary religious belief system that influences negatively one's life-styles and beliefs as Gentile Christian believers. For your information such omissions are called by both the Old Testament and the New Testament "sin". As a Pastor this is my cry; to help you avert unconscious sin because of religious error or poor teaching by your Spiritual peers who simply don't know the truth due to their lack of diligent scholarly study and repeat and parrot "inherited error". Our true and pure worship of God demands we worship God in "truth" and not in "error".

Very few have studied to this depth to see this information and these hidden messages which lie beneath the English language of our Bibles in the New Testament. Not possessing this information and having not known the need for such study often our articles are met with skepticism and emotional responses by readers defending their "inherited beliefs". Let me say up front before you voice that you "disagree" please do the studies. Respect our efforts to provide you this information by doing your own study as we have given you other websites for confirmation as well as a great recommended book list to help you in your personal study. The only defense I will give such responses by the "unlearned" is our recommended book list. You are responsible for what you read here at Bet Emet to prove to yourself what we have shown you to be the "truth". Our only fault is that we never knew we never had the truth; until now that is!

Again, we say "Shalom" and hope to help you, if you are interested at arriving at the hidden truths behind the inherited and altered texts in our Christian Bible. Obtaining such truths long held back from us will help you genuinely lay away treasure in the World to Come to a greater degree by showing you a life of greater obedience that is more pleasing to the Almighty than what you have been shown previously up to this point in your life.

I would like to begin such revelations for you as we begin to consider in summary fashion the Commandments of God and their relationship for Gentile believers, both in the first century as well as today.

DOES YOUR CHURCH TEACH YOU TO KEEP THE COMMANDMENTS OF GOD...OTHERWISE KNOWN AS THE LAW/TORAH/MITZVAH?

For a moment, take yourself back to the first century and pretend you are sitting on the hillside hearing the words of "the Jewish Christ". There is no Catholicism. There is no Protestantism. There is no belief system called Christianity and "the Christ", spoke these words:

John 14:15: "If you LOVE Me, KEEP my COMMANDMENTS"

Answer for yourself: Would there be any doubt to you then concerning what "the Christ" was talking about?

Since there is yet no Catholicism and Protestantism, the "we are not under the Law" doctrine does not exist in the minds of the people who heard these words. Everybody would understand that "the Christ", was talking about keeping the commandments in the Torah.

In Matthew 5:19, "the Christ", said these words:

Matt 5:19 19 Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven: but whosoever shall do and teach them, the same shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven. (KJV)

Once again, the commandments that "the Christ" would be referring to is the Jewish Torah. Unknown to us at this point in our study is that other nations like Babylon and ancient Egypt has their own "Torahs" long before the Jewish nation. God has always given a guidebook for mankind and his Soul to follow through is Earthly incarnation. Ancient Egypt has the first Torah called "the 42 Negative Confessions" and Babylon later responds with the Laws of Hammurabi.

In Matthew 5:17, "the Christ" said prior to these words in Matthew 5:19 to:

Matt 5:17 17 Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil. (KJV)

Let me paraphrase this for you as we look deeper into what the Hebrew behind the English is really saying here.

THINK NOT that I have come to destroy (do away with / wrongly interpret) the Torah but to fulfill (rightly interpret / follow / keep / teach and do) the Torah.

Answer for yourself: For sure, following this example, we are obligated to keep the MORAL commandments in the Torah such as not killing, stealing, lying, cheating, gossiping, committing fornication, etc.

Answer for yourself: But what about the other areas in the commandments? What about the ceremonial commandments? What are we as "non-Jews" to do with the Sabbath, the Passover, Unleavened Bread, First Fruits, Rosh Ha Shannah, Yom Kippur, Tabernacles? What about these "appointed times with God" that fall at the Equinoxes and Solstices? Do they apply to "non-Jews" as well? And what are the implications to Christians today? Did the ancients observe these Celestial Times and did they contain hidden meanings concerning the Soul and its birth, life, death, and rebirth? Or do we dare look that close and only look at the Jewish cultural interpretation of them and the Exodus as is currently done? But could this Exodus have a deeper meaning concerning the Descent of the Soul and have we missed it? Where can we learn this? Did the "non-Jews", as taught by the Jews of Israel, keep and observe these "Feasts and Festivals" with the Jews up and until the 3rd century before being stopped by Constantine and the emerging antisemitic Roman Church? If so, then why don't we keep the Passover instead of Easter in our Churches today? Well, as you can see we start our studies with a with a bang! I don't expect you to understand this yet but every ancient Religious Dogma of the major religions of the World can be found in the Heavens and Sky above before it was given to mankind. WHOAA, we need to slow down but all of this will become very pain in you keep up with your studies.

ARE WE AS NON-JEWISH BELIEVERS TO KEEP AND OBSERVE MORE THAN JUST THE MORAL COMMANDMENTS OF THE LAW?

Answer for yourself: What did the first century "non-Jewish" believers both "believe" and "observe and keep" in their worship of God as taught by the Jews since salvation was and is understood to be "of the Jews"? Are these "non-Jews" and the historical record important for us and is it to be considered an example to us today? Was there a "pattern" of worship that was can discerned in such Jewish records and should it serve as an example for us today? Why does Rome and Christianity not follow this "Jewish Pattern"? Does not Rome know that this "Divine Pattern" connected to the Biblical Appointed Time and festivals applied to the "non-Jew" in the commands in our Old and New Testaments? Why did Constantine decide not to follow them? This is the beginning of wisdom and what we have to learn is why everything was "changed" by Rome in the 2nd through the 5th century. Your enlightenment begins only here but let me tell you there are hard things on the horizon of your study which we will get to later.

For starters the non-Jewish believers of the earliest church kept the Sabbath, the Biblical Festivals and Feasts (celebrated the Equinoxes and Solstices), as well as many of the dietary laws. This was part of their Worship of the Creator as taught them by the Jerusalem Assembly in Acts

15

However, we must also understand that modern day Rabbinic Judaism did not exist in the first century. Modern day Rabbinic Judaism resulted when Judaism was restructured at Yavneh following the destruction of the Temple after 70 C.E. Some people believe that there were as many as 24 DIFFERENT sects of Judaism during the first century. Of these sects, the only sect that continued to exist following the destruction of the Temple in 70 C.E. to the present day has been the Pharisees. This is very important and God is behind this without a doubt. You see that from the Pharisees came the Rabbis and Rabbinic Judaism known as Orthodox Judaism today. They are the saviors of Judaism and the Ancient Divine Wisdom possessed by Israel in the first century which had been handed down since ancient Egypt and before.

Therefore, calling modern day Rabbinic Orthodox Judaism and the decrees of the Rabbis as being the "same" as keeping the Biblical Laws and Commandments would not be an accurate statement; but yet the similarities are such that we can learn and must learn from them this "Ancient Wisdom" of God intended for all mankind

God has given many Rabbis great wisdom and insight regarding Biblical truth and the Rabbis have preserved many teachings and truths that are a great blessing for us to understand when we are researching and trying to study our Hebraic/Jewish Roots. Modern day Orthodox Judaism is based upon the decree's and teachings of the Rabbi's over the years. The distinction must be made between Rabbinic Judaism and Biblical Judaism and to do so requires your study and understanding of the differences. Although different again they possess "the light" that Rome tried so diligent to extinguish during the Dark Ages.

DOING JUST THE MINIMUM...OR CHOOSING THOSE THINGS THAT PLEASE GOD

It is not my intention to teach thoroughly on this topic at this time, but let me state in summary fashion that non-Jewish believers were given Laws and Commandments to keep both as a response to their love for God as well as their respective Covenant responsibilities before God; regardless of what the Romanized Paul of Rome's invention or the New Testament says in various places.

You will soon come to see that there are many problems with the New Testament and much that it teaches; but first things first. Let me address the New Testament's teaching of an anti-Law bias.

- These Laws and Commandments constituted the real relationship between man and God. Such was and is man's love for God and his fellowman as seen in their obedience or disobedience. Obedience to the Laws of God created a harmony on Earth that mimics the Harmony in Heaven. The degree of one's obedience to the respective commandments in one's respective covenant before God determined his true relationship with God. In the beginning non-Jewish believers were given only 7 Laws, or "categories" of Laws which are called today the Laws of Noah. These Laws can be found to exist as far back as ancient Sumer. These 7 categories of Laws contain 66 subsets of commandments imposed upon the "non-Jewish" believers in God as interpreted and taught by the Jews. However the Bible is a progressive revelation.
- We find that Isaiah the Prophet expands for the "non-Jews" God's will that "non-Jewish" believers can and should "choose" to go beyond their minimum covenant responsibilities and "choose" other commandments which can be obeyed which had earlier been given to the Jewish people only as the Israel of God. This is done in order that these two peoples, the Jews and "non-Jews", could become one and unify. In this we find the "unification of the two olive branches" spoken about in the Hebrew Scriptures. But more than that this reveals the fact that it allows one's love for God to be expressed in a greater obedience which is always greater than any sacrifice.

The context for this is Isaiah 56:

Isa 56:1-8 1 Thus saith the LORD, Keep ye judgment, and do justice: for my salvation is near to come, and my righteousness to be revealed. 2 Blessed is the man that doeth this, and the son of man that layeth hold on it; that keepeth the sabbath from polluting it, and keepeth his hand from doing any evil. 3 Neither let the son of the stranger, that hath joined himself to the LORD, speak, saying, The LORD hath utterly separated me from his people: neither let the eunuch say, Behold, I am a dry tree. 4 For thus saith the LORD unto the eunuchs that keep my sabbaths (plural...festivals, feasts), and choose the things that please me, and take hold of my covenant; 5 Even unto them will I give in mine house and within my walls a place and a name better than of sons and of daughters: I will give them an everlasting name, that shall not be cut off. 6 Also the sons of the stranger, that join themselves to the LORD, to serve him, and to love the name of the LORD, to be his servants, every one that keepeth the sabbath from polluting it, and taketh hold of my covenant; 7 Even them will I bring to my holy mountain, and make them joyful in my house of prayer: their burnt offerings and their sacrifices shall be accepted upon mine altar; for mine house shall be called an house of prayer for all people. 8 The Lord GOD which gathereth the outcasts of Israel saith, Yet will I gather others to him, beside those that are gathered unto him. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Who are these "sons of the stranger" who had joined himself to the Lord and were keeping the Lord's sabbaths and taking hold of his covenant? Who are these eunuchs that were keeping the Lord's sabbaths? Were they "Jews" or "non-Jews"? They were "non-Jews" and an example for the Gentile Christian today which teaches us that we can move beyond the minimum requirements given us by God if we so desire for God surely teaches us here in Isaiah 56 that He does desire this of the "non-Jew".

I want to draw your attention one again to these very important statements. The references to "son of the stranger who had joined himself to the LORD" and "eunuchs that keep my sabbath, and choose those things that please me, and take hold of my covenant", as well as "also the sons of the stranger, that joint themselves to the LORD, to serve him, and to love the name of the LORD, to be his servants, every one that keepeth the sabbath from polluting it, and taketh hold of my covenant" are references to the NON-JEWISH believers who go beyond the minimum of the 7 Laws of Noah (really 66 commandments) and choose to keep God's sabbaths (both the weekly and yearly Biblical Festivals at their "appointed times").

Answer for yourself: How do we know this for sure?

Well, for one thing, the "sabbath" was never a command for the non-Jew in the Laws of Noah. Thus, the picture for us is plain; going beyond minimum obedience "pleases God." Right now, let me tell you that if that is not what you want or desire, then Bet Emet Ministries is not for you! In following articles in this website, as well as the others, such a motive will compel us to reveal ruthlessly error and deception which is often sin which lies unnoticed in many Christian doctrines of the church which has been "cherished" far too long when their origin can be clearly seen upon examination to be in "literalized Sunworship" which is outright blasphemy before God! Rome is the culprit here which will later "literalized" and "historicize" the ancient Divine Wisdom which was Divine Allegory and Myths revealing the Metaphysical concepts of God and His cosmos. I don't expect you to understand this yet but God revealed Himself to mankind through the Laws of the Cosmos and often this was understood through "allegorical Sunworship" which was not sin; only when we come to "literalized Sunworship" have we violated the Commandment against idolatry which we find both in the Laws of Moses and the Laws of Noah given the "non-Jew". We will cover this concept in later articles on another site when dealing with the 3 different interpretations of "the Christ" and how Rome will, in the 2nd through the 5th centuries, "literalize" this Christ and in so doing destroy the Ancient Wisdom concerning this "Christ within" which is imparted to all God's children when they are born.

Here, in Isaiah 56, we have the explicit desire of HaShem that non-Jewish believers go beyond the minimum to take a "larger" hold of God's covenant and keep these sabbaths connected with the Equinoxes and Solstices. This concept is repeated in the Old Testament as we find "non-Jews" keeping the festivals and sabbath along with the Jews all through the Old Testament. This is often missed by the casual reader for it lies hidden in the original languages of the Bible, both the Hebrew of the Old Testament and the Greek of the New Testament. We will deal with all of this in time as our studies advance. As if that is not enough the New Testament is full of examples whereby "non-Jews" attended the synagogue with the Jews and kept Sabbath and Festivals with them (the Equinoxes and Solstices). We will come to see that God gave mankind His message in the Sky/Heaven "above" and in Nature "below", and when you possess the "keys" to understand this "message of God" and His "true salvation message" connected to these Equinoxes, and

Solstices, which later became the festivals and feasts of various nations, even Israel and the Jews, then you will have the most complete and clear picture of God and His message to mankind that you could ever hope to hear or see.

For our purpose now, in the beginning of such study, Acts 15 has the the reference to James referring to "non-Jewish" believers attending the synagogue on Sabbaths where Moses is read and where these other Laws and Commandments would be taught to these "non-Jewish" believers in the God of Israel.

Answer for yourself: What time is it?

The time and context of Acts 15 is critically important for the "non-Jew". We are way past the time for the Jesus of the New Testament and all implications of his death, right or wrong, were assumed to be understood by the Jerusalem Church. The context is the continual instruction of the "non-Jew" in the Torah long after the time of Jesus' supposed literal and historical death whereby the non-Jewish believer can learn of the other mitzvot and commandments and then be able to intelligently "choose" those things above his minimum in his covenant (the Covenant of Noah) which pleases God (adopting Isaiah 56 as a life-style). The Torah, and its portions that referred to the "non-Jew", was to be taught to and kept by the "non-Jew" both before and after the time of this New Testament given for Jesus.

Answer for yourself: Do you understand this? Do you see this? So why does the Apostle Paul, supposedly, tell us that "Christ is the end of the Law"? Who is writing this stuff that goes against the Jerusalem Church and their decree in Acts 16 that send letters strengthening all the churches of Asia, Minor, where they commanded the Laws of Noah be followed by all the "non-Jews"? What changed? Who changed it? What happened, if anything, to change this religious stance regarding the "non-Jew" long after the time for this Jesus? Well nothing more than the rise of the antisemitic Roman Church and Constantine who hated the Jews and would later see to it that the Second New Testament would replace the First Gnostic New Testament!

Again, if you know Greek, you see that this word "end" in this verse does not mean "caput" or "ended" but actually means "goal". Christlikeness is the "goal of these Laws and Commandments of God"! Think on that for a while. No wonder James tells the Gentile world that these Laws of Noah are "necessary" and "seemed good to the Holy Spirit"! Speaking of these Laws of Noah for the "non-Jew" he says:

Acts 15:28 28 For it seemed good to the Holy Ghost, and to us, to lay upon you no greater burden than these necessary things; (KJV)

- Answer for yourself: So, in spite of the Pauline problem created by Rome due to their misrepresentation of the historical Gnostic Paul and the forgery of many epistles in his name we see what here? Evidently following that part of the Torah which contains the Laws of Noah are required of "non-Jews" since given to them by God as recognized by the Jewish community in the first century along with them being given to all of Asia, Minor according to Acts 16.
- Answer for yourself: Are "non-Jews" required to wear a Tallith? No! But we can choose those things (commandments) which please Him (Isa 56) and acquire a higher obedience to other commandments.
- Answer for yourself: Are "non-Jews" required to wear a Kippah? No! But we can choose those things (commandments) which please Him (Isa 56) and help further the Kingdom of God though heightened obedience to the Torah.
- Answer for yourself: Are "non-Jews" required to wear a beard? No! But we can choose those things (commandments) which please Him (Isa 56) and fulfill personally other commandments which require little effort; only our desire to please God must be exercised.
- Answer for yourself: What about the dietary laws? Are "non-Jews" required to eat kosher? No! But we can choose those things (commandments) which please Him (Isa 56) and help bring unity between the two Olive Branches (the Jewish people and the non-Jewish people). This will become the crux of a big problem when we deal with the "Antioch Incident".

- Answer for yourself: So are "non-Jews" required to keep the dietary laws like Orthodox Jews? No! But we can choose those things (commandments) which Please Him (Isa 56).
- Answer for yourself: Do we have to keep the Sabbath and keep the Biblical Festivals as "non-Jews"? No, but we "get to" and can choose to keep these commandments thereby we chose to please God (Isa. 56). We can learn from the example of the Old and New Testaments which teach us that "non-Jews" were doing exactly these things alongside the Jewish people for "salvation is of the Jews". As your studies advances you will come to see that these "things" are part of a "Pattern of Worship" given by God to mankind in the beginning of time.

I think you get the picture by now. But these things seem foolish if we believe, as others say, that the Law has passed away and those who say this only show their inadequacy in interpreting these Hebrew and Greek passages in their Bibles properly.

Answer for yourself: Besides, how can we, "non-Jewish" believers in God, ever expect to have communion and fellowship with the Jewish people if we don't refrain from eating unclean foods or observing and worshipping with them at God's appointed times, His Biblical Feasts and Festivals?

You must study to understand the truths in these matters as well as the corruption of the religious documents that Rome gave us that were crafted and intended to separate the "non-Jews" from his Jewish Roots and the ancient Divine Wisdom that Judaism contains.

THE INFLUX OF THE NON-JEWISH BELIEVER INTO THE ISRAEL OF GOD...SHOULD BE THE SAME PATTERN TODAY

This may be news for you but history is not always as it is depicted. Winners of wars rewrite history and Rome won the war with the Jews and the Jews lost. Never forget that! Having said that understand that not every Jew in Israel in the first century believed that this Jesus was the Jewish Messiah. The Hebrew Scriptures today lay unfulfilled in spite of what the New Testament is made later to say by purposefully misquoting, mistranslating, and taking out of context many Hebrew passages to make it appear that these Messianic prophecies were fulfilled by this Jesus of Rome's New Testament. I don't expect you to believe what I said but until you do the studies and compare the Hebrew with the Greek and later the English New Testament then you will never understand and know for certain why the Jewish people for over 2,000 years won't and cannot accept this Roman Messiah as the Jewish Messiah. Understand that I can prove and have proven this beyond any doubt because comparison of the Hebrew texts with the later forged Greek, Latin, and Greek passages make such forgery evident to all. You just have to see it for yourself and they all debate is futile. In spite of this in the first century, a time of Messianic fever when "non-Jews" started turning to the Jewish faith and faith in the God of Israel, there was a great controversy regarding the role and position of the "non-Jew" in a Jewish faith. Some felt that to be accepted the non-Jew had to convert; others felt that they did not. Judaism was divided.

Although Peter was supposedly a disciple of this Jesus, even after the death of of this Jesus, according to the account in the New Testament, Peter still believed that he would become ritually unclean if he allowed a Gentile into his house. This is the issue in Acts 10. In Acts 10, God gave a vision to Cornelius, a non-Jew, to visit Peter who was Jewish. As Cornelius went, God gave Peter a vision of all manner of fowls beasts. This happened three times. Many in Christianity have ended the story there and taught that we are now free to eat anything we want as God said in Acts 10:15: "And the voice spake unto him again the second time, What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common".

This is where Christianity ends the story. But if we continue reading the rest of Acts 10 it says in Acts 10:17: "Now while Peter doubted in himself what this vision which he had seen should mean, behold, the men which were sent from Cornelius had made inquiry for Simon's house, and stood before the

In Acts 10:23: "Then called he them in and lodged them ..."

Peter got much rebuke for letting a non-Jew into his house.

In Acts 11:2-3: "And when Peter was come up to Jerusalem, they that were of the circumcision contended with him. Saying, Thou wentest in to men uncircumcised and did EAT WITH THEM"

So, the "non-Jew" became quite a controversy. Finally, there had to be a meeting and a ruling decided. This happens in Acts 15. It was a current Jewish belief that in order for the "non-Jew" to receive righteousness from God that the "non-Jew" needed to be "converted into Judaism" and keep the Torah as the Jews kept the Torah (all 613 Laws). This is our background for Acts 15. Understand that whether the "non-Jew" would keep the Torah was NOT an issue; the issue was only "how much" and "which parts" of the Torah was to apply to them. What was at issue was HOW the "non-Jew" would keep the Torah and how much of it (only the 66 Laws of Noah in the Torah or all 613 Laws of the Torah and make full conversion). Judaism was divided between the School of Shammai who advocated that the "non-Jew" had to keep all of the 613 Laws and make full conversion while the School of Hillel advocated the "non-Jew" was responsible for only 66 Laws in the Covenant of Noah. The same issue concerning the Law confronts the "non-Jewish" Christian believer today whether he knows it or not.

However, God began to pour out the Ruach HaKodesh / Holy Spirit upon the Gentiles as He did to the Jews in Acts 2 and this caught the attention and influenced the doctrine of the Apostles.

In Acts 10:44-45, Peter tells this story: "While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word. And they of the CIRCUMCISION which believed were ASTONISHED as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost"

Answer for yourself: Why was Peter and the "Jews" astonished? What happened?

This is called the "Gentile Pentecost" because as in Acts 2, when Jews, both naturally born Jews and "converted Jews" (who were once Gentiles) came from all over the world (different nationalities and different dialects) in obedience to the Torah to observe the Festival of Shavuot (Pentecost), heard Peter preach in Hebrew and their ears and understanding was opened and they "understood" what Peter spoke in his native Hebrew tongue. These listening to Peter did not possess the ability to understand Hebrew before that day. But miraculously their "understanding" was opened and they comprehended what Peter was speaking in Hebrew although they did not understand the language previously to his speaking and this miracle or "hearing". This is mistakenly called and understood as "strange tongues" in the New Testament as if they all "spoke" in other tongues. The Rabbis teach this differently and teach us that this is not so much a miracle of "tongues", as in glossolalia, but a miracle of "hearing". This, mind you, is the reverse of curse of Babel. This very same miracle, once experienced only by the Jews, now occurred before Peter and other Jews with the Gentile Cornelius. Now, in their amazement, this supposedly "unclean god, this unclean Gentile" had his "ears and understanding" opened to Hebrew as did the Jews and other converted Jewish-Gentiles in Acts 2. Some 17 years later this supposedly "unclean Gentile" named Cornelius experienced this same grace from God as did previously the Jews and Jewish pilgrims in Acts 2. This was a big revelation to Peter and other Jews present for testified to the the truths taught by the School of Hillel who was not the majority house of the Pharisees in the first century. It was the School of Hillel that taught that God accepted the "non-Jew" without total conversion to Judaism which was diametrically opposed to the teaching of the School of Shammai.

Therefore, Peter says in Acts 11:17-18 "Forasmuch then as God gave them (the "non-Jews" the gift as he did unto us, who believed on the Lord Jesus Christ: what was I, that I could withstand God?"

When they heard these things, they held their peace and glorified God, saying, Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted repentance unto life"

This brings us to Acts 15 where the issue "Jew-Gentile" problem is debated and decided. Judaism remained split on how to handle these "unclean Gentiles" and in the wake of what happened to Cornelius those Jews allied to the House of Hillel pushed to change the "status-quo" that existed in the Judaism of their day. No longer could those Jews who had learned of what God had done to Cornelius any longer maintain allegiance to the School of Shammai, and in so doing, continue to believe that Gentiles, in order to be included into the Israel of God and be "saved" had to experience full conversion and adhere to all the 613 Laws given the Jews. Instead, in repentance, a multitude of Jews arose that advocated that no longer Gentiles were required to be full converts to Judaism "to be saved". This again shows the influence of R. Shammai and his school of Pharisees at this time in Jewish history. This caused a great dispute that culminated in the Jerusalem Council in Acts 15. In Acts 15:1-2 it is written:

Acts 15:1-2 1 And certain men which came down from Judaea taught the brethren, and said, Except ye be circumcised after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved. 2 When therefore Paul and Barnabas had no small dissension and disputation with them, they determined that Paul and Barnabas, and certain other of them, should go up to Jerusalem unto the apostles and elders about this question. (KJV)

In Acts 15:7-10, Peter gave His testimony of what God had done and what he had seen (that God had anointed Cornelius, a Gentile believer in God, with the Holy Spirit...even before Peter had preached "Jesus" to him). This is important for we see that "salvation" came to the house of Cornelius before he had "Jesus" preached to him!

In Acts 15:8-10 it is written: "And God, which knoweth the hearts, bare them witness, giving them the Holy Ghost (Cornelius, a Gentile, had his mind opened to understand Peter speaking in Hebrew and no longer needed an interpreter...the reverse of Babel just like in Acts 2 some 17 years earlier at the Jewish Pentecost) even as he did unto us (Acts 2, the Jewish Pentecost); And put no difference between us (Jews) and them (Gentiles) (the same miracle for both the Jew and the "non-Jews"), purifying their hearts by faith. Now therefore why tempt ye God, to put a yoke upon the neck of the disciples (requiring the Gentiles to be fully converted to Judaism (613) when God never required this of them in the Covenant of Noah (only 66 Laws), which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear?"

This scripture is commonly quoted erroneously as a decision to the question posed in Acts 15 giving reasoning that the "yoke upon the neck of the disciples" was the Torah itself and it was being advocated in this passage that the Gentiles were not responsible to keep the Torah. But that is not true, and if we continue reading we can see that this was not so. The issue is not that the Gentiles were given the Torah but "how much of the Torah" to be a part of the Israel of God and accepted into fellowship with Jewish Israel.

In Acts 15:20, the MINIMUM requirements are given to the "non-Jews" in summary form by James (Gentile believers like you and me) which they are expected to observe if they were to be accepted in the Israel of God without full conversion.

As we continue this statement is made which is very important in the very next verse in Acts 15:21: "For Moses (the Torah) of old time hath in EVERY CITY them that PREACH HIM, being read in the SYNAGOGUE every SABBATH DAY"

Let me paraphrase. In other words the ruling was this: DO NOT require the "non-Jew" to keep the ENTIRE

Torah like the Jews were required. The "non-Jew" was not given or required of God to accept and adhere to all 613 Laws in the Books of Moses. But, because the "non-Jew" was attending synagogue services on the SABBATH with the Jews in the synagogue, they will learn that they were given the 66 Laws of Noah and it was there, in the synagogues of the Jews that these "non-Jews" would learn that God had given them the Covenant of Noah as the MINIMUM requirements to be accepted in the people of God, the Israel of God. Adherence to these Laws of Noah would allow them to be accepted into fellowship with the Jewish people of God since these very same Laws are TAUGHT in the Torah and given to the Jews as well. In reading "Moses" these very Law would be taught to the "non-Jews" in the SYNAGOGUE EVERY SABBATH (for Moses hath in every city them that preach him ...). In such reading of "Moses" the Torah would enlighten and teach these "non-Jews" how they are to be more and more Torah observant as they acquire Mitzvoth and take upon themselves more of the Torah as a Godly life-style. The Gentiles, in the synagogue, will also as well, slowly learn of Isaiah 56 and hopefully come to desire over time to take upon themselves more mitzvot, Laws, and Commandments. A case in point is the Laws concerning the Sabbaths, Festivals, Feasts, and dietary Laws of God. Although many Laws in the Laws of Moses were not "required" of the "non-Jew", choosing "those things that please God" over and above the minimum requirements given the Gentile ensured that the "two sticks" in Joseph's hand will become the "one people of God" (Jew and Gentile).

Now lets get real.

Answer for yourself: Is the above passage indicative of your experience in your Christian Church? Has the Roman Church and her Protestant offspring taught these things to you as were done to other "followers of the Christ" and have they done this according to this "pattern" set for us in Acts 15? Why not? Remember that this is what was mandated to be taught to the "non-Jews" long after the time of Jesus by the Jerusalem Church!

Answer for yourself: Are you fellowshiping with Jewish people, are you meeting to worship God on the Sabbath, are you keeping the seven Biblical Festivals or Feasts, are you learning the hidden message in them concerning your Soul? Is the Old Testament being taught in your church and is Moses being read, are you learning of your Covenant with God (Covenant of Noah), are the Commandments and the Laws given you by God being taught to you to mature you Soul, are you following in this pattern given us in the Book of Acts? Then if not, then your experience is an anomaly and not according to the "pattern" of the earliest church and followers of "the Christ".

Answer for yourself: If this seemed good to "the Holy Spirit" and "necessary" then how can we improve upon this let alone change it? Well, you will have to ask Rome that question.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that since ancient Egypt God has commanded a special message be given all mankind at these special "appointed times", these Equinoxes and Solstices and these Appointed Times parallel the Jewish Biblical Feasts and Festivals? Do you know what this message is? Are you aware that behind the Hebrew and Greek of your Christian Bibles it can be shown that "non-Jews" were keeping the Sabbath and observing the Biblical Festivals, these Equinoxes and Solstices, right along with the Jews according to this Acts 15 pattern? Are you aware all of this will change in the 2nd through the 5th century because of the influence of Constantine and the Roman Church and "new radically different interpretations" will be given to almost everything Jewish including the identity of "the Christ"? Dear one the train jumped the track in the 2nd through the 5th century and it is time go get back on the right path and return to the pathway given mankind since the beginning of time and as held sacred in Judaism yet today.

Answer for yourself: Why not break from the mold of error and antisemitism and repent (teshuvah) and return to the real faith of this "Jesus", this Jew, and learn what was in "this mind of Christ" in order to really be a "follower of this Christ". Is time we wake up and find out the truth behind our Christian faith and all that this means and restore these lost truths to your life and your family's life today.

JEWS AND NON-JEWS WENT TO THE SAME ASSEMBLY

By continuing to read the book of Acts, you will discover that long after the time of Jesus that in various cities both Jews and Gentiles were worshipping on the Sabbath day in the Synagogue. That means in Asia, Minor, "Moses is being read" in their churches and assemblies (synagogues).

Acts 13:14-15, 42: "But when they departed from Perga, they came to Antioch in Pisidia and went into the SYNAGOGUE on the SABBATH day and sat down. And after reading of the TORAH and the PROPHETS ... and when the Jews were gone out of the SYNAGOGUE the GENTILES besought that these words might be preached to them the NEXT SABBATH"

Acts 14:1 "And it came to pass in Iconium, they went both together into the SYNAGOGUE of the Jews and so spake that a GREAT MULTITUDE BOTH of the JEWS and also the GREEKS believed"

Acts 17:1-2, 4: "... they came to Thessalonica, where there was a SYNAGOGUE of the JEWS, And Paul as his MANNER was (HE DID IT REGULARLY) went in unto them, and THREE SABBATHS DAYS reasoned with them out of the scriptures ... and some of them believed and consorted with Paul and Silas and the devout GREEKS a GREAT MULTITUDE ..."

Acts 17:10, 12 "... Paul and Silas ... went into the SYNAGOGUE of the Jews ... therefore many of them BELIEVED ... which were GREEKS ..."

Acts 18:1, 4: "After these things, Paul departed from Athens and came to Corinth ... and he reasoned in the SYNAGOGUE every SABBATH and persuaded the JEWS and the GREEKS ..."

Therefore, we are seeing that in many Greek towns (for Moses of old time hath in every city them that preach him being read in the synagogue every sabbath day ... Acts 15:21) that the Jews and Gentiles were worshipping TOGETHER in the SYNAGOGUE on the SABBATH day and learning from the TORAH and the Prophets. So, this should make it more clear that the issue wasn't "IF" the "non-Jews" should keep the Torah but "WHAT" and "HOW MUCH" of the Torah should they keep.

Once again Acts 15:20 states the MINIMUM requirements that God expects of the non-Jewish believer in Him.

Answer for yourself: How can we do this correctly unless we "understand what we are doing" and "why" we are doing it?

In Zechariah 14:16, God will require the nations to keep the Feast of Tabernacles during the 1,000 year Messianic Age.

Answer for yourself: Does your church keep the Festival of Tabernacles the way the Jews do?

In Isaiah 66:22-23, God will require "all flesh" to keep the sabbath and new moon during the time of the "new heavens" and the "new earth". New Moon? What is this? When was the last time you did this? We have to look to Ancient Egypt for such a pattern and the hidden Wisdom behind the "Osiris and Isis" pattern to know its implications for us today. But that is another study entirely and not for now.

Isaiah 66:22-23: "For as the new heavens and the new earth which I will make ... saith the Lord ...

and it shall come to pass that from one NEW MOON to another and from ONE SABBATH to another shall ALL FLESH come to worship before me, saith the Lord"

Therefore, we are seeing a "pattern", a "pattern" that shows over and over again that God desires that the "non-Jew" go beyond the minimum and keeps His Sabbaths, Festivals, Feasts, New Moons, Equinoxes and Solstices for all Eternity. Therefore, God HAS NOT done away with the Torah, the Law, the Commandments, the Festivals, the Sabbath for the Jew, "non-Jew" & Gentile believer regardless of what Roman antisemitic Pauline writers and forgers will later write in this Roman New Testament in opposition to the "non-Jew" keeping that part of the Torah that refers to him!

We keep the Spirit of the Torah because it gives life and we want to LOVE God by keeping the commandments. For the non-Jew this is purposing to eat healthy, keep the sabbath and the festivals. It should be our desire as well.

Answer for yourself: Do we keep the Torah for salvation? No!!!!

Because as a Christian you LOVE God you should want to keep His commandments (John 14:15) and by keeping, teaching and doing the commandments you will be great in the Kingdom of God (Matthew 5:19).

Most of my life I lived a life of disobedience toward God and never knew it; but went to church. I had simply been taught wrong or not at all. Too much preaching and so little teaching, knowledge, and truth flows from our pulpits of our churches today. All we hear is about giving money to this institution called the church which has lost its way and the true message of God with it. Because I did not know my Hebraic/Jewish Roots I allowed myself to be led astray; even worse, later in life led others astray thinking what I was "preaching" was correct. That was until I began serious personal study into my faith and its Jewish Roots where I experienced my exodus from such religious darkness and deceit. Now, nineteen years on the other side of naiveness and ignorance, I know the difference and want to atone for my sins of ignorance by setting the record straight for others. So, with God's help I began this ministry and have dedicated my life to it where I publish many articles that teach the truths that are dug from deep study of the Word of God and past history of this Ancient Spiritual Wisdom which Rome tried to destroy. This is my supreme gift to HaShem and to you in hopes you recover truths long hidden from you whereby you might make come to learn and see the need of repentance in your life in areas where the church has failed to teach you correctly or deceived you on purpose. The problem began way back in the second and third centuries; the ones to blame are long gone. But their legacy of ignorance and deception yet abound and it appear that it has no limits. By God's grace and illumination we can dispel a lot of it together. The question for you to answer is if you love God enough to look into these matters and have the courage to continue such a search for truth.

In closing these Laws and Commandments given the "non-Jew" in the Covenant of Noah as well as those given the Jew in the Covenant of Moses concern themselves not only with moral and ethical issues of life but many of them concern "ritual" and "ceremonial" issues that lie at the heart of one's proper worship of God. When we get to the Antioch Incident this becomes very apparent for this is a watershed event in the New Testament. Only in further study will the evidence mount to prove to the reader that the earliest Gentiles, in obedience to James and the Jerusalem Church, followed this "pattern of worship" that was part of the Covenant and Laws of Noah. I pray this becomes more clear to you as your studies advance and then being totally convinced in time that you make the necessary changes in your life and worship whereby we all come to the "unity of 'the' faith", "the faith" once given the saints, and worship the Creator in Spirit and in Truth.

I WISH I DID NOT HAVE TO TELL YOU THIS...BUT...

First, let me say personally that I hope you enjoy and profit spiritually from the many publications prepared for you on this website as well as others by Bet Emet Ministries. As you read I bet you sure will be stimulated in your thinking after reading them. I urge you to judge for yourself what is being taught in these publications by careful comparison with the Holy Scriptures as written in the Hebrew Bible and not your Christian Bibles for you will come to see that they are far from a reliable translation. You are responsible to "not believe" what I write but to study this information out for yourself to verify what I am saying is the "truth". That means that you will need to purchase or procure some books to see these "truths" for yourself. I suggest that you begin with a Stone Edition Tanakh or the JPS Tanakh in order to do such comparative Scriptural studies of the Hebrew texts and trace their corruption down through the Greek and English Christian versions of our Bibles today. Even more, for the more ambitious students I recommend obtaining the LXX, the Septuagint which is English-Greek translation of the Old Testament for many "falsifications" find their origin here. You can get one on amazon.com. That's right; you will have to do some study on your own in order to substantiate for yourself beyond any doubt that what you read as presented and taught by our Ministry is the "truth" and nothing but the truth. I tell everyone of our students "don't believe anything I teach, but check it out to make sure what I have said is truth". But such personal study to verify what we teach and your faith and any changes toward it is your personal responsibility before your Creator, and as I have found, one's personal study of our inherited Christian faith is the only guarantee of truth that we can have. It will take effort on your part. It is work, no doubt, but truth has always had a price. That is where the problem begins for the Christian believer today; way to much preaching and too little personal study has allowed us to drift from the truth down through the corridors of time. Remember one of the gifts of the Spirit is "teachers" not "preachers". I hope you are baptized with a hunger for truth like never before and that you act on it for God desires that all His children have truth and not fiction as the foundation of our relationship with Him.

REPLACEMENT RELIGION...AND WE NEVER KNEW...BUT WE CAN NOW!

As a former baptist boy and later an ordained Pastor who studied to much it give me no joy to have to inform the reader that the New Testament can be proven to be a collection of hundreds and hundreds of purposeful misquotations and mistranslations of the Hebrew Masoretic text and the Hebrew Scriptures. Such numerous errors and purposeful corruptions of the Hebrew texts in our Christian Bibles, in "key" theological and doctrinal positions, are not attributable to "accident"; rather they were premeditated and deliberate "tampering with the Hebrew text" whereby, in reality, a "new religion" was created and in so doing destroyed the "Pattern of Worship" given all mankind by God in the beginning of recorded time. As if that is not bad enough, the New Testament can be shown to be a depository of hundreds and hundreds of passages taken out of context from the intended meaning of the original Hebrew writer and used in the New Testament in alternate ways which does great damage to the intended original meaning of the Prophet and writer. In so doing this original "message from God" was corrupted, perverted, and debased and made almost unintelligible and unknowable today. Understand that this was all done on purpose; to create a "substitute faith" whereby the emerging Gentile Roman Church would not have to submit to the commandments and laws of God, and the end result is that much error has been attached to the life and teachings of "the Christ" as recorded in the New Testament. This "original message of God to all mankind", as well as this "Pattern of Worship" for all mankind, as handed down since Egypt and entrusted to the Jewish nation for all the world, was tragically changed and "reinterpreted" by an emerging antisemitic Gentile Roman Church and Empire in the 3rd century and few know of this today because of the proliferation of their forged and fabricated religious documents which go heralded by the unlearned and unstudious as "inspired, infallible, and inerrant" today!

This literary deception is called today "replacement religion" and this is what we inherited in the Christian Church whether we know it or not. Please study the issues discussed in each article in order to prove to yourself that what we write and teach you is the truth according to the Hebrew Holy Scriptures in their original language. Only in such a way will you, the reader, see these changes for yourself and know what we teach is the truth now exposed for all to see. No wonder "salvation is of the Jews".

If you think you can just read your English KJV and compare a New Testament text to the Old Testament text in your KJV and be assured you have the proper translation then let me said the record straight on that right now. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Both the Old Testament and New Testament in your Christian Bible are frauds in many areas because the "theology" of the Bible Committee responsible for the publication of your Bible made sure that "the Bible" agreed with what they "believed". I always thought that a "faithful and true translation" was what we need to both believe and possess. What I found upon my serious study when prompted by Rabbis to verify my Christian texts was that many, way to many of them was severely incorrect when compared with the Hebrew texts. I don't mean a "different word was used to say the same thing"; I mean outright deception where "religious doctrines and dogmas were changed" from how they had existed in Biblical Judaism and were taught to the earliest Gentile believers before the 3rd century! I sadly found as a Christian pastor that instead of a faithful translation of the Hebrew-Jewish Masoretic text, the Bible that the Jewish people and their Rabbis use, I was given an Essene and Gentile Roman Christian "creationism" instead and never knew it!

Just because you have never hear these things before does not mean that they are not true; it only means that this information has not crossed your path as of yet. I maintain that God desires all His children to know the truth no matter what it is or how hard it is to hear. It is a shame we have to "unlearn" before we can "learn" today. Had Rome never lied to us and changed the religion of Judaism in their New Testaments in the 2-3rd centuries then this "unlearning" and emotional roller coaster would not be necessary. Today archeology has shown us that this "change" is real and is open for all to see today if they have the desire.

Often I hear the reply: "I don't know Hebrew or Greek...How am I to know what you say is true?" Well that is really easy. First of all know that all you have to do is ask of us and we will be glad to show you how to begin an elementary discovery of English-Hebrew and English-Greek materials which bring these more accurate meanings of these Hebrew and Greek words under the English of your Bibles to light. But the problem is not just with words in original languages that have different meanings, understand for certain that the problem lies in purposefully altered texts which go unnoticed today when read in our Bibles since most Christians do not have access to or knowledge of such facts let alone a Hebrew-English Bible to compare texts. Therefore we end up reading, believing, and trusting falsehoods that we read in our Christian Bibles trusting everything we read; never realizing we don't have the truth when we read these "key" passages over and over again. Our religious belief systems are build upon error, lies, and deceit and we never know this until we die and then find the truth as we stand before God. Better to learn now and repent of the hidden idolatry that goes with so much of this "replacement religion" of Rome. We must remember that the Bible was NOT written in English and we have only an English translation, and a poor one at that for the most part. It is from such research and the results we uncovered from comparative manuscript evidence and truth seeking over the years that we at Bet Emet have learned to repent at much of what is taught today by normative Christianity. Much of what we hear sermonized Sunday after Sunday, much of which is read in the New Testament as fulfillment of the Hebrew Old Testament that implies that Jesus is the fulfillment of the Hebrew Messianic Scriptures let alone "God" is simply not found in the original language of the Hebrew Scriptures and Jewish Bible when taken back to the Aramaic and Hebrew. We as Gentle Christians and followers of "the Christ" have been duped and never knew it!

After all, if we don't have the true meanings of the thoughts and intents of the words in our Bibles how can be confident we are right with the Father when we have unknowingly accepted, followed, and practiced a faith that is not only foreign to the true Hebrew Scriptures but often is in direct opposition to what the original language says and the writer intended?

The tragic part for the unsuspecting believer is that much of what we speak about is often believed and done by believers unknowingly as they are falsely assured by their pastors who, unacquainted with the Greek and Hebrew foundations of their Bible, lead them falsely astray. Just think for just a moment, there are over 2,000 different denominations today, but one Lord, one baptism, one faith! Just one faith!

Answer for yourself: How many different "Jesus" and "Christs" are out there and why so many theological differences and competing and conflicting Christian denominations for this "one faith"? How can Christianity be the fulfillment of Biblical Judaism when the Christian Old Testament and later quotes from it as found in the New Testament can be shown to unfaithful, traitorous, untruthful renderings and corruptions of the true Hebrew Scriptures? How can such improprieties be taken with the Sacred Hebrew Scriptures in the New Testament and yet be considered "truth"; a truth we base our Eternal Life and Salvation upon?

Answer for yourself: Which one of these 2000 plus denominations has this ultimate saving truth? Is this "ultimate truth" even to be found anywhere in Christianity? Could this "ultimate truth" and path to Eternal Life rather be found in Judaism in their Hebrew Scriptures before they were purposefully corrupted, debased, and perverted and we again not know this due to repeated indoctrination by Gentile Christianity and their forged texts?

Answer for yourself: Do you have or are part of this "one faith" or are you coming to a better awareness of what it actually is because of your diligent study into such areas of truth as shown by Bet Emet Ministries?

It is my desire that we all come to the unity of "the faith" once given to the saints as the Bible instructs.

I hope you still want to hear this truth once the bubble is burst. The reason I say this is for this simple fact: the truth hurts. God's truth should not hurt those who desire God above all things, but it will hurt those who are uncomfortable being shown that their religious belief system is wrong in some areas. But let the joy at seeing this new and higher truth replace any loss and sadness of giving up what was never true in the first place. Most people want to hear the truth, but when it is shown to them, and it is against their popular beliefs, they reject it outright often not knowing why they do so. Just because something you read goes against what the "majority believes" does not negate the fact that it might be a higher truth than you have ever heard before. Lets face it, few if any readers of Bet Emet Ministries have done the necessary study to know of what I will share in these article before they read them. Few have developed the necessary skills to do this type of Bible study let alone are proficient in areas of study like comparative Scriptural analysis, Biblical Judaism and the Jewish Messiah as contrasted with the later Gentile Christian Messiah, the purposeful forgery of Messianic Scriptures in the Christian Bible, the Covenant and Laws of Noah, the true origin and development of the New Testament, the misrepresentation of the Apostle Paul in the New Testament, the hidden truths of Daniel chapter 9, the Essenes and their role in altering the Hebrew texts, the replacement of the Gnostic First New Testament with the Second Roman "literalized" New Testament, the early Gnostic Chrestians, Egyptian religion let alone the field of Astronomy and how it was the basis for all later "Jesus Stories". It seems so silly to me that when I write an article and send it out to our vast readership that almost always a few respond saying they they want to be taken off our article list. Just because one has never heard this information before does not mean it is not true! Staggering is the fact that many possess little if any knowledge of what I write and instead of truth that they said they desire, when given it, they choose to remain in the dark, in ignorance and illiteracy of the facts of the faith that they follow. And God watches us reject Him and this truth concerning the only faith ever given to mankind; the "faith once given the saints". Bet Emet Ministries is an "information" ministry dedicated to recovering the truth behind the "Jesus Story"; in all of its ramifications.

The reason why the sons of men hate the truth is because they are being governed by a force more powerful than they. This force is received by the carnal mind, which is governed by none other than one's flesh (our evil natures/the yetzer ha-ra). The Scriptures say that the carnal mind is bitterly opposed to the ways of God (the truth, the law; see Rom. 8:6). Therefore those who get offended by the truth, having never verified what I write is the truth by their own personal study, choose the path of least resistance and outright oppose the facts and information sent them never once verifying if what I wrote is true or false. Verify it! I have a recommended book list that will help anyone see the truths about what I write. I don't "invent" anything; only gather the facts available to us today and bring them to the attention of others if they so desire. I am sorry, but those who won't respond in appropriate actions to verify what I say is true are carnally minded, and often they are not even aware of such. In order to accept an idea as true, one needs to have convincing evidence that it is true. I provide that in our websites for all to see and hopefully you will take up the mantle of personal study and investigate this evidence for yourself. Again the "recommended book list" is very helpful in this regard.

We at Bet Emet make no apology to man or organization for scrutiny of Christianity and what we have accepted since childhood as presumed "truth," which, when put under linguistic, historical, cultural, and archeological examination, cannot stand the test of scholarly analysis. We must repent dear brothers and sisters when shown we are wrong in our religious beliefs because a "religious belief system" governs our conduct and actions. Our LORD wants you and I to have faith in the facts, faith in the truth, not faith misdirected toward fables that can be proved wrong today. It is in this spirit of Jeremiah, chapter one, that we examine what the Christian Church teaches its congregants today as the "will of God for their lives," and it is through such thorough examination of our Christian faith that we have subjected such "man made doctrines" to comparative analysis by the Hebrew Scriptures and the other disciplines mentioned above. In those cases where what we have been taught by Christianity is in error we at Bet Emet, in the spirit of Jeremiah tear down and destroy this error and deception in order to build and plant a lasting righteousness in our lives, and desire the same for you, for if you will be truthful, most of what you believe is what you have "heard" others say and little you believe is from what you have personally sought out in scholarly study of the Bible in its original languages let alone scholarly study into the origin of your Christian faith. This should not be so! We live today in an information age and there is no reason we live and die not knowing the truth about Christianity and the "Jesus Story".

So we ask your indulgence to not reject outright what we present for your study and enlightenment, but to search out for yourself and your family's sake to see if these things be so; that you strive for and adhere to "THE" faith once given to the saints. We desire no harm to anyone in denouncing error taught as truth, but we feel we should not only believe as God intended but take personal responsibility to assure ourselves that we are following "truth" in our lives concerning God.

2 Cor 13:5 5 Examine yourselves, whether ye be in "the" faith; prove your own selves. Know ye not your own selves, how that Jesus Christ is in you, except ye be reprobates? (KJV)

Notice "the" in the above passage. This definite article indicated that there is "only one" true faith. I hope to show you this as we study and slowly and sadly it will dawn upon you that we don't have it as Christians. It may surprise you but many of the words in your Bible, when looked up, command us to hate error, false teaching, and call for the strictest judgment upon those who deceive the flock regardless of the motives. Remember that when you think at times I am too harsh in pointing out how Christianity has led us astray.

Answer for yourself: Could you, for one moment, say what I have presented over the past year as well as now is not correct because you have personally studied the same materials for yourself and proved what we have shown you to be wrong? Believe it or not I never have gotten an email from a reader who has studied the same materials and in so doing told me later that I was wrong. I only get emails occasionally that say I am wrong because the "New Testament says" this or that. Dear ones, that is the whole problem; the reliability of this Roman Second New Testament as a barometer of Spiritual Truth. I never get an E-mail from any of our readers saying that I am "wrong" because they personally investigated what I said, read the books we recommend, and looked at the sources I use and then tell me that they came up with a different conclusion. Emotion fuels such reactions of "rejection" of truth and this dear one is catalyzed by fear and indoctrination of error in the first place. The only way to remove that "fear" is through your personal study where you "examine" the evidence that I present. Please do that before you respond with "take me off the list" or "unsubscribe" or want to debate an issue. There is no higher religion or worship of God than "truth"!

If you had researched to see if "these things be so", you will find the exact same things I did. I guarantee it! Truth is truth no matter where you find it or who wrote it; truth can be verified. Due to such "truths" uncovered over the years of in-depth study, much that I had previously accepted by "faith only" was shown to be false and could not take the test of scrutiny and personal scholarly analysis.

Answer for yourself: Our religious beliefs come from what we read and hear preached from the religious texts we value and if it can be proven that our religious texts are highly unreliable then what does that say about our "faith"? Well, know for certain, it can be proven that the Christian religious texts we have today are highly unreliable when compared to the Hebrew Scriptures.

Because of these findings from scholarly study over the years, I was forced to resign my Pastorate and that is the reason I repented and confessed my "religious and theological sin," much of which I "received" by faith by men whom I perceived as "spiritual authorities" in my life. I never checked out for myself what I "believed by faith"; that is until I entered Seminary and began to think "critically". My error was accepting many things by faith without critical examination of the evidence available. My error was in accepting and believing altered and forged Scriptures passed off as "orthodoxy" never personally verifying their authenticity and reliability. Only when I began to study for myself did "truth" break out in my life. God intended all men have a relationship with Him through His unaltered Word, and not through hearing preaching from a forged Bible for a hour a week! Such love for God and His word caused me to study to show myself approved, and the things I discovered when I dedicated myself to the study of the Word beyond my peers changed my religious belief system and the course of my life and I feel called of the Lord to warn my brothers and sisters of such theological errors and sins that you be judged for the good and not the bad. Your heavenly rewards are at stake! Intense study convinced me that I was wrong accepting much of what my church taught me without critical examination of the "doctrines of Christ" for myself and comparing what Judaism had to say about them as well. When comparing them I had to contrast what was taught me from a Roman Christian perspective as opposed to a "Jewish perspective". I found out that God was right, the Jews were right, and the Hebrew-Jewish Scriptures and not the forged Greek and later Roman New Testament has the last word on the matter. It seemed simple really, since "the Christ" is depicted as a Jew then "this mind of Christ" which I am admonished I must have should also reflect a Jewish understanding of these "doctrines of Christ" and seeing how these Hebrew Scriptures had been altered by Rome then quickly I realized that my religious beliefs in these areas were false. The light was beginning to dawn and my awareness of how far I has strayed from what God had said and desired for me was hitting home. I had been deceived by my Christian Bible!

Answer for yourself: After all, does not every New Testament believer desire to have the "mind of Christ?" Well it begins with a love for truth and acceptance and verification of your "beliefs" as "the truth". That is why Judaism teaches that "study is the highest form of the worship of God".

If that be so, then we must believe all things as the Jew "Jesus" is shown to have believed, and discard any beliefs we have inherited from Roman Christianity which a Jew like this "Jesus" would not have accepted or adhered to in the first century. This is the goal and the pattern to be followed in our study. This becomes very clear when you study from a Hebraic perspective this "Jesus" and "the Christ", for after all he is depicted as a Jew! Salvation is of the Jews, always had, always will be. I don't expect you to understand yet but salvation is of the Jew because Judaism is the living link to the greatest religion every known to man; a religion that revealed and knew this God better than any since (Egyptian religion which is the precursor to Judaism). All religions degenerate over time. Religions never evolve. Contrary to the assumptions of comparative mythology, they do not originate in crude primitive feelings or ideas, and then transform themselves slowly into loftier and purer ones. They begin lofty and pure, and deteriorate into cruder forms eventually ending up in materialism and "literalism" of the letter. This is exactly what has happened with Roman and Protestant Christianity. It is our job at Bet Emet to seek to reconstruct from the scattered remnants this original Divine revelation of God given to mankind in the beginning. Judaism embodies it today but nothing can eclipse its parent faith, the Egyptian religion where we first find the concepts of "Jesus Christ" and the "Messa/Messiah" dating back to thousands and thousands of years in the Old Kingdom. I have got a flash for you. This fact alone should alert us to the fact that we might not have the absolute truth about God, His "Karast"/"Christ", let alone the "Messiah" as taught in Roman Christianity today.

If you want the truth I will share it with you but be prepared to be shaken to your very core since as I stated religions never evolve but degenerate. You will come to see in your studies with Bet Emet that certainly nothing is more true than this statement when looking at Roman and Protestant Christianity today. So sad, but true!

IN PURSUIT OF EXCELLENCE IN MINISTRY

I want you to know that when I began studying the Bible and the languages in which the Bible was written over fifteen years ago I never expected to find what I did. It is important for you to know at the outset that I was raised in a tradition "fundamentalist Baptist" home and would later, in answering the call of God in my life, attend Southwest Baptist Seminary in Ft. Worth, Texas, where I received an excellent Bible education (from a Protestant perspective). Let me tell you that while there a terrible mistake occurred ....they taught me Greek and Hebrew. Let me explain.

After graduating Seminary with a Masters Degree, instead of pastoring a traditional Baptist church where Sunday School lessons and Sermons are often prepared for you in advance, I became a staff pastor at a rather large nondenominational church in the Dallas-Ft. Worth metroplex where curriculum was not provided and I studied the Bible to get the truths from the text of Scripture which I taught. Was I surprised when studying the Greek and Hebrew behind our "English Bibles". In Seminary the truth is that 2 years of Greek does not really give you a good grasp of the Greek texts of the Bible except in certain places where you were "focused" for class studies. There is a world of knowledge out there when you begin to take passage after passage all the way through the New Testament and begin to randomly look up verb after verb and noun after noun from book to book. For over 5 years, every day I combed through the texts comparing the Hebrew and Greek meanings of words with their normal "English" meanings and that is where I began to see a whole "other religion" behind our Bibles other than the normal Christianity which I was taught. Simply said, if one spends such time in a concerted effort to find the original meanings from the original languages of his Bible then the world of "Jewish Roots" of the Christian faith will explode before his eyes for you, like I, will see that "non-Jews" were keeping the Sabbath and Biblical Feasts and Festivals right along with the Jews both in the Old Testament and New Testaments of our Bibles. But dear ones this information is hidden behind the English texts of our Bibles and you well know that is not our experience in Western Christianity today but yet that is what lies behind the original languages of our Bibles. But it only begins here for this was the "doorway" for me to see just how extensive this "replacement religion" of Rome had become in my life. I was discovering a "Pattern of Worship" in my Bible which Seminary and my Christian religious tradition had never taught me before and I begin to wonder why were we not following this "Pattern of Worship" for after all I reasoned, my Bible should be an accurate translation and not a diversion from the truth. Something was amiss. Let me give you one example before we go on.

It is a fact that is revealed from study that the "non-Jews" of the Bible kept the Passover for thousands of years before the time of the New Testament Jesus and even in the New Testament but the Bible is translated in such a way as to make it appear that only the Jews kept the Passover. The Astronomical importance of the Passover for all of mankind is hidden in the Bible. The New Testament the word used for "Passover" in the Greek New Testament is the word "Pascha" (Strong's number 3957) and it is used 29 times in the New Testament. Twenty-eight times this word "Pascha" has been translated as "Passover", however, in the Book of Acts, the Book that describes the "Birth of the Christian Church", this same word "Pascha" has been translated differently and we find the translators of our Christian Bibles translating "Pascha" as "Easter". Now it appears that at the end of the New Testament the emerging Gentile Church is keeping Easter instead of the Passover.

Answer for yourself: Given that for 28 times these Christian Bibles translators translated "Pascha" correctly as "Passover" then is there a reason or an agenda at work where they refused and went out of their way to deviated from their previous accepted translations of the word "Pascha" by rendering it as "Easter" here in the Book of Acts, the book of the emerging Gentile Church? Were they intending that you keep Easter instead of Passover with the Jews as "non-Jews" can be shown to have done for thousands of years previously? What else have they changed and we not know? Have these translators of our Christian Bibles changed the truth about the nature of God and man, how to get forgiveness of sins, the real Salvation message as given the Jewish nation as inherited from Ancient Egypt, true Biblical atonement, other Festivals and Feasts which it can be shown that "non-Jews" observed, the true Jewish Messiah, and how about Jesus, have they faithfully represented this Jesus to us along with "the Christ"? Should it matter to us that we can find "the Christ" and "Jesus" in Egypt some 10,000 years B.C.E.? What does this do to the "Jesus Christ" of the first century? Was he in two places or did other nations know of this "Jesus Christ" all the way down through history only by other names? Is this a Divine Principle given to mankind and has it faithfully been reproduced by Rome in their New Testament? Well it does not get any easier when you begin to look outside this neat little "Roman Christian Box".

For thousands of years the "non-Jewish" believers in God keep the Passover; in fact they did long before there were any Jews. This was God's "Pattern of Worship" and only later did one particular "Passover" in Egypt have dramatic implications for an emerging nation later to be Israel as they separated from Amen worship in Egypt under the leadership of Moses (Akhenaten). So we see in this one example alone that God gave the "Passover" to both Jew and "non-Jew" and Rome changed this Divine Revelation and God's message connected to it for the whole world in the 2nd and 3rd centuries and today in our Churches we keep Easter instead of the Passover. Again, our Jewish Roots have purposefully been obscured and hidden from us by the translators of the Christian texts for we should all be keeping and observing the Passover and not Easter if you are a follower of Jesus and "the Christ". This was done on purpose to give a false idea to the "non-Jewish" reader who simply does not know the difference. This is but one example of hundreds that I discovered in my office during my Pastorate over the years and finally such revelations built up to such a point that I had to resign because I over time I would be ashamed that I was a "Pastor" and was not following "the Christ"; I was following antisemitic Rome and their forged texts which had led astray in my worship of God. In fact the message given me by Rome was 180 degrees opposed to what I would discover during my first 6-7 years of daily study following graduation from Seminary.

One thing is for certain: the original ideas from the Hebrew are meant to be faithfully transmitted into the Greek and again faithfully transmitted into the English.

Surprisingly, after Seminary and doing my own investigative studies of the texts I found out they had not always been faithfully translated; in fact an outright deception had occurred in my Christian Bible!

Answer for yourself: Who was right...the Bible interpreted in the original language in which it was written along with corroborative evidence taken from Biblical history, Biblical culture, Archeology, Astronomy, etc.? There are many other areas of study out there that will verify what these original languages behind our Christian Bibles have to say regardless of what our Christian traditions inherited from my parents and religious lay pastor have taught us which today, in the light of modern scholarship, are shown to be deceptions and frauds.

With the aid of a Bible computer, I used the skills shared with me in Greek and Hebrew while in Seminary to research thousands of verbs and nouns in both the Old Testament and New Testament over the next several years. You must understand, that if you only read the Bible in English, then, more often than not, you will lean upon your own understanding and prior indoctrination which is influenced by your own experience from hearing preaching from these forged texts. Your interpretation of your Bible is flawed because you don't know these words behind our Bible or the Jewish Faith from which the emerging Gentile Roman Church split. Instead of understanding the dogmas and religious concepts connected to the original language in which these Hebrew texts were written you have to rely only upon what you were given by Rome in English which is anything but a faithful representation of both the texts and early religious history from that time period in the world. Again, modern scholarship along with archeology is blowing the lid off 1,800 years of Roman darkness masquerading as a Divine Revelation which we know today by the name of Christianity.

Answer for yourself: How does living as a Gentile in the USA help me understand a Hebrew Book?

In other words, if you do not study the Bible in the original languages, along with knowledge of the culture in which it was written and the religion that birth it coupled with the knowledge of unbiased history of the time in which it was written, then you cannot be assured you have the accurate meaning of the message that God intended for you, and more often than not you won't know the truth from fiction!

Most Christians are relegated to reading the Bible only in English without any background of what they are reading, and more often than not, can be shown to have an erroneous religious belief system and corresponding obedience before God and their fellow man because of such inadequacies. Sadly, to few pastors and teachers in Christianity today have the necessary skills to "rightly divide the Word" or, if they were taught them at one time in their life, they fail to put them to use in their ministry. Sadly, their congregations are deprived of necessary truths which will have an eternal impact on them after they die.

Having such skills and further developing such skills, I endeavored to be a light in a dark place when affiliated with churches in the metroplex of Dallas-Ft. Worth. After several years of trying to bring repentance and share the many truths I discovered which corrected my "then held" Christian religious beliefs in many areas, and would yours if only you knew, I finally realized that too many pastors in high positions considered themselves infallible, uncorrectable, and unteachable. Repentance was not in their vocabulary. I have one particularly famous pastor tell me, when shown truths from the Bible and original Biblical languages which corrected our Christian position on tithing: "What do you want us to say to the people...that we have been wrong?" Well, that's a good start! It is called repentance. Blinded by the false notion that a big church means God's favor, most would not heed sound doctrine and correction from the Word of God when shown them. Sadly, there was only one thing left for me and my wife to do as my studies continues to mount and reassure me that God had shown me these things for a reason; I had resign and begin to teach these truths of God's Word unhindered and uncorrupted, free from the compromise of man's traditions and doctrine and a "paycheck".

Things that I discovered, and hopefully you will allow for me to share with you, is that Gentile believers, both before and after the Jesus kept God's Sabbaths and were expected and commanded by God to observe the Biblical Feasts and Festivals instead of the paganized calendars we have in most churches today.

Gentile believers were also taught to keep and observe the Saturday Sabbath and not the Sunday substitute, and worship God their Father in Spirit and Truth by giving their tithes and offering in specific places designated by Scripture [poor, sick, lamb, blind, deaf, handicapped, uneducated, etc., along with financing the keeping of the Biblical Feasts and Sabbaths].

Dear ones this is not too hard and quite enjoyable for the Christian. But this is only where it begins for when you begin to critically look at the texts of our Christian Bibles and see them for what they truly are, a mass of confusion, contradiction, and negation of prior Divine Truths handed down from the beginning of recorded time, then almost every doctrine we have inherited as Christians from an antisemitic and Jew-hating Rome stands upon sinking sand. What I will say next will shock you; the studies in these areas did me and often broke my heart and brought me to tears as a Pastor before God. If you take up the mantle of study with us you will come to see beyond any doubt that we, as Christians and followers of "the Christ", have been misled and deceived in our understanding of such cardinal beliefs such as the nature of God, the nature of man, forgiveness of sins, the true identity of Satan, the salvation message, acquiring Eternal Life, true Biblical atonement, righteous giving, the appointed times of God and the worship of God connected to these Holy days like the Equinoxes, Solstices, Festivals, Feasts, the true Jewish Messiah, fulfilled Messianic prophecy, the "Jesus Story", etc. The picture is not pretty when you get to the bottom of this "replacement religion" given the Gentile world in the 3rd century along with the forged Bibles that create such a false faith and deception. In fact it is horrific and the tragic consequences of such religious deception fill the graveyards of this planet in the millions. The train jumped the track with Constantine and the emerging Roman antisemitic church and remains in the ditch today still stuck in the mud of false assurances that we have the truth of God as Christians and are the "light of the world" but yet arrive at such a belief from Bibles given us by Rome that can, without a doubt, be shown to be purposefully misquoted, purposefully mistranslated, purposefully taken out of context and often simply "invented" to give the world a false faith based upon the Roman Jesus. Lost in this translation is the truth of the Hebrew texts that link mankind with the earliest and most glorious understanding of God ever given mankind; by that I mean the first monotheistic religion ever given mankind in the beginning of time and by that I mean Egypt. A thinking believer only need to look at the fruit of this "Roman train" during the Middle and Dark Ages and even today with Christian clergy molesting our children in unprecedented numbers to know that there is something tragically wrong with the fruit of this religion let alone its message to mankind. Those who sought to control spirituality, to restrict personal relationships with God, gained prominence within the first centuries of the Christian era. Their beliefs formed the ideological foundation of much of the dark side of the Christian church's history.

I realized, and I hope you will as well, that just because we have been taught a certain way in our Christian walk that this does not assure it is the correct way commanded by God or that it is even pleasing to Him in the first place. That is why Study is the highest form of worship in Judaism because you learn the truth for yourself and this "Pattern of worship" given all mankind to follow

It is to this pursuit that Mary and I have devoted our lives. We feel compelled to share with you these truths for your evaluation and instruction. Not all readers will agree to say the least but if you will respect my attempt to illuminate you and in response lay your emotions aside and begin your own personal study into these areas you will see and confirm for yourself what I am showing you in each article after article. Please understand, much of what I will share will be different from what you have heard, but understand that does NOT mean it is untrue. I will never expose something as "false" without showing you the truth to which we must turn. That is a promise.

Answer for yourself: Is something "true" just because you believe it?

Most of you have not been told the truth by your spiritual leaders. We call upon you to judge the facts for yourself, for without them you cannot hope to make an intelligent decision on the matter.

Lastly, we at Bet Emet Ministries are devoted to understanding the Scriptures as God intended: from both a linguistical, cultural, historical, and cultural perspective. From this, and only this, can you and your family be assured you have not worshipped God in vain.

Answer for yourself: If you could be shown that much of what we both believe in our Christian lives based upon these Roman texts we inherited as well as do in Christian worship today is vanity and disobedience to a higher Divine Revelation in God's opinion then would that make a difference to you? Would you change?

Answer for yourself: Surely you would not continue to worship the Father in vain once you came to the knowledge of the truth would you? Well such study will set you free.

Well, dear one, that is to be seen once you are challenged with facts and evidence that cannot be denied; both in this website and the others provided by Bet Emet Ministries. God has allowed you to see this information for a reason and it is my belief that He is calling you to see Him like never before and hear, maybe for the first time in your life, the true message of God intended for all mankind since the beginning of time.

Shalom.

CHRISTIANITY IS "JEWISH"..OR AT LEAST IT SHOULD BE

Edith Schaeffer, wife of the late Francis Schaeffer, wrote a book with the title, Christianity is Jewish. Her point is that Christianity, no matter how un-Jewish some of its current forms of expression may be, and there are many, has its roots in Judaism and in the Jewish people.

The facts are simply not a matter of debate. Think with me for a second. The New Testament depicts all the disciples of Jesus were Jewish. The New Testament has been traditionally believed up until late with modern scholarship to have been entirely written by Jews (Luke being, in all likelihood, a Jewish proselyte). The very concept of a Messiah is nothing but Jewish. The Messiah was never promised to the "non-Jew". Finally, "the Christ" is depicted in this New Testament as Jewish and following Judaism. He attended a synagogue "as was his custom" where Moses is read on the Sabbath and "not Sunday". No where in the New Testament do we find texts that say or suggest that he has ceased to be a Jew can ever desired to start a new religion or convert to emerging Christianity. It was Jews who brought the "good news" to Gentiles. Paul, the chief emissary to the Gentiles was an observant Jew all his life [even after the time of the death of of this Jesus as depicted again in the New Testament]. Indeed the main issue in the early Church and the crux of the whole New Testament is whether without undergoing complete conversion to Judaism a Gentile could be admitted to the Israel of God (be a "Christian" at all) [Acts 15 council]. The Lord's Supper is rooted in the Jewish Passover and Sabbath traditions; baptism is a Jewish practice which is linked to being "born again" in the mikvah; and indeed the entire New Testament is built on the Hebrew Bible, with its promise of a "New", or in reality a "Re-Newed" Covenant, so that the New testament without the Old is as impossible as the second floor of a house without the first.

But it is more than that even.

Moreover, much of what is written in the New Testament is incomprehensible and easily misinterpreted and misunderstood apart from sound knowledge of Judaism. In fact I learned the hard way in my studies that if I ever desired to "let this mind be in me that was in Christ Jesus" then I would have to get into my mind what was in this "mind of the Jewish Christ" since being a "Jewish mind" to begin with. This Jewish Christ expressed the truths of the Divine thought Judaism and not Roman Christianity. Constantine will later try to nullify and change this and sadly I must say he will be successful beyond even his wildest ambitions. Not possessing this necessary knowledge of Judaism then the New Testament for me was at first most difficult because not possessing at the beginning of my studies a comprehensive and competent understanding of Judaism and its dogmas then I was not able to discern when the New Testament departed from this "mind of Christ" and this "Jewish religious belief system" of this Jewish Christ. But that would all change since following Seminary I would earnestly and intently study Judaism for the first 5 years of my pastorate. Amazed I was that after 3 years and a Masters Degree in Divinity that I was not taught basically "anything" about the Jews or the Jewish Jesus. It was in this serious study of Judaism, the faith of the Jewish Christ, that I was able to read the New Testament as a detective of sorts noting when the later New Testament of Rome's creation departed from the "Divine Pattern" given the Jewish people and their Rabbis and substituted a "replacement religion" that goes without notice by most who read the New Testament not possessing this most necessary information and knowledge of Judaism.

Jesus tells us in the Sermon on the Mount, "If thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness" (Mt. 6:23). This is where the Christian Church makes his biggest mistake....they don't approach the Bible and Jesus with "Jewish eyes of understanding." Failure to do this guarantees that one will miss this "Divine Pattern" given the whole of humanity; a pattern that can be traced to the beginning of the human race and a "pattern" will will die with the pens of the Roman scribes and monks.

LET US LOOK AT ONE EXAMPLE...WHY WE NEED "JEWISH EYES" OF UNDERSTANDING

Answer for yourself: What is an evil eye?

Someone not knowing the Jewish background might suppose he was talking about casting spells. But in Hebrew, having an "evil eye," means being stingy; while having a "good eye," means being generous. Jesus is warning against lack of generosity and nothing else. Moreover, this fits the context perfectly: "Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.... You cannot serve both God and money."

The Jewishness of Christian faith is clear throughout the New Testament. Because Judaism and Christianity have long been separate entities, we tend to read the division between the two faiths back to the very beginnings of the Christian church. Yet the truth is that the majority of the first generation of Christians regarded themselves as faithful Jews, and saw their faith and hope in the Jewish Messiah as the fulfillment of Judaism. Paul makes it explicit in the book of Romans. He writes, "In the first place, the Jews were entrusted with the very words of God," (Rom.3:2) meaning the Hebrew Scriptures and Bible, and then expands on the theme, adding that the people of Israel were made God's children, the Shekinah [God's glory manifested] has been with them, the covenants are theirs, likewise the giving of the Torah, the Temple service and the promises; the Patriarchs are theirs; & from them, as far as his physical descent is concerned, came the Messiah. ...(Rom. 9:4-5).

Answer for yourself: If it is the Jews who have the "very words of God", are "God's children", have the "Shekinah", the "Covenants" (plural), the "Torah given to them", the "Temple and Temple services", and the "promises of God" then what does the "non-Jews" have then? A need to be taught the Divine Truths of God by these Jews.

Answer for yourself: Does the New Testament teach us that salvation is of the Jews?

John 4:22 22 Ye worship ye know not what: we know what we worship: for salvation is of the Jews. (KJV)

Christianity self-consciously saw itself as the continuing outgrowth, the fulfillment, of true Judaism. As such, Christianity didn't start in the first century but long before with King David (in reality the Pharaoh Tuthmose III, with King Solomon (the Pharaoh Amenhotep III), Moses (the Pharaoh Akhenaten), Abraham, and ultimately the first man, Adam. Everything in older Judaism was the repetition of the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom of the ancients and was building up and pointing to the work of the "indwelling Krst/Karest/Christ" in the hearts of mankind.

So when we start thinking about Christianity, we have to understand its very Jewish roots and even behind them we find the ancient Egyptian Roots which lie behind the altered personages of the Pharaohs made out to be "Jews" by Ezra when he rewrote the Jewish Bible when the exiles were returned home to Israel by Persia. We should assume that Christianity ought to look and sound like Judaism except when it explicitly claims to change something. These "changes" should bother you in light of the fact that the revelation of our Bible teaches us that "God changes not". We should expect that the Scriptures, institutions, basic principles, laws, meditations, family life, etc. of Judaism would carry over into Christianity. The problem is that don't; a "radical reinterpretation" of Jewish beliefs and practices has occurred and these changes have been recorded in our Sacred texts in the Christian Bible as the "status quo". The shock of all shocks is when one gets studying hard and runs across the fact that all forms of Christianity display strong but yet "blurred" parallels to the rituals found both in Judaism as well as ancient Egypt.

Thus although the Gospel message is for Jew and Gentile equally, the context of Biblical faith is Jewish and behind these "Jewish Roots" we find "ancient Egyptian Roots" if we but look. Even if one were to accept the false premise of Replacement Theology that the Jews are no longer God's people, and millions have, this would not change the fact that Christianity is Jewish (or should be "Jewish") if the "Divine Truths" and "Divine Pattern" expressed in it are to properly and correctly understood since again it is expressed through "Jewish Eyes". To try to understand it differently, lets say with "Roman eyes" and with a bent toward "replacement religion" can only distort God's message and we have the witness of the Dark Ages and the tragic history of the Gentile Christian Church as confirmation of this tragic loss of truth.

If you are not familiar with what "losing our Jewish Roots" did to this "movement of the indwelling Christ" then I suggest that you read The Dark Side of Christian History by Helen Ellerbe. But have some kleenex handy since this horror story will break your heart and bring tears to your eyes that we have unknowing followed such a distortion of Divine Truth most of our lives.

There is no higher religion even given man by God than Truth

Blessings.

IMPORTANCE OF RETURNING TO OUR JEWISH ROOTS AS CHRISTIANS

Each of us living in America, with the exception, perhaps of native Americans, who were already here when our ancestors arrived, has family who came from other cultures. They brought with them a wealth of traditions, including delicious and strange new foods, folk tales and religious practices. Whether we realize it or not, we are shaped by these traditions - in our views, our words and our actions. When we are sad, we reach for "comfort" foods from our past; when happy, we choose foods which remind us of past celebrations. We have expressions passed down to us from parents or grandparents which we use to describe our feelings. Then there are the religious customs with which we grew up, which we teach to our own children. Or, perhaps we choose a different path from the one we were taught, which gives us a more fulfilling expression of our beliefs.

The great Hebrew leaders of ancient times, who lived on the continent of Asia, particularly in the Middle East, had similar life experiences. Some changed their views after being led by God to new discoveries. Abraham began his life in a family that practiced the customs of his "birth nation". But down deep he knew that other nations had similar beliefs as his with differences only being in the cultural expression. He believed there was an order to the universe that had to have been formed by a single entity - a Creator. From this man, Abraham, and his wife, Sarah, grew a nation of people who were destined to carry a message of this "Divine Order" and "Pattern" from this Creator to the rest of the world, outlining a way of life and a justice system designed to bring peace and harmony to peoples who were not yet aware of this "Divine Order"; peoples living in violence and sexual immorality. This body of teaching of "Divine Order" and this "Divine Pattern" was called by the Hebrew people, the Torah, and by many others "The Law". But before Abraham other nations knew of this "Divine Order" as far back as ancient Egypt and even Sumer. Abraham and his faithfulness to live and model this "Divine Pattern" for humanity has forever changed the scope of human experience. The prophet, Moses, himself a Pharaoh of the 18th Dynasty of ancient Egypt, both inherited and later received an elaborated form of this "Divine Message" on Mt. Sinai, passing it, in both written and oral forms, from generation to generation, until the present. But this Torah of Moses can be found to exist long before the time of Moses where we find the ancient Egyptians possessing the 42 Negative Confessions which were written on their hearts in preparation for their deaths and ascent to their God. It is from these teachings that we have modeled our own justice system in America although of late it appears not to be esteemed by many the way God intended. The 10 Commandments, or should I say the "10 Categories of 613 Laws", purportedly inscribed by the "finger of God" on stone tablets, shapes the principles of many religious systems, and the traditions continue to be taught today. There truly is nothing new "under the Sun" as this basic "formula" for human existence can be found existing thousand of years before Moses.

Yeshua, (Jesus' Hebrew name), is taught to have also practiced the customs and traditions of his people. His teachings on brotherhood and morality came from the Jewish Torah, and his life, the archetypal "pattern" for all as the Christ, as Horus before his time had as well, reflected the strength of his convictions and this "Divine Pattern" for mankind's Soulsh evolution. He shared his love of his tradition with individuals who had never before experienced these views. Many were uneducated country people, ignorant of the teachings of Torah, or rebellious Jews, engaged in acts of debauchery and lawlessness, who needed to be reminded of the consequences of their behavior. But this could be said about other nations as well.

Today, most of us reading these informative articles from Bet Emet Ministries, find ourselves as either Christians or "thinking believers" who used to be traditional Christians who grew up under a religious expression which denies the validity of these Laws in the Jewish Torah and which existed in ancient Egypt thousands of years earlier as the pathway given by the Creator for the Soul's Spiritual evolution in our incarnational experience. We most likely grow up under the preachers of our churches reminding us that "we are not under the Law but under grace" and that "Christ is the end of the Law"; never stopping to study out the contexts of these passages in their original language behind our English texts let alone the reliability of the texts in the New Testament that we inherited from ancient Rome which can be shown today to have "radically reinterpreted" and "purposefully mistranslated and altered" the ancient Spiritual Wisdom of the world during the 2nd through the 5th centuries. The Jewish people carried this ancient Spiritual Wisdom that finds its origin in the earliest recorded records on this planet; a revelation that Constantine the Great decided for the whole world would not be part of his "program for world dominance".

Answer for yourself: Why do we, today, both Jew and Non-Jew need to know the teachings of the Torah? Why are the Laws of God so important for us in spite of their negative treatment by the Romanized Paul and others in the New Testament given us by Rome?

Because we live today, much like in ancient times, in a world of violence, anarchy, lawlessness and chaos. We are bombarded with messages that condone, even encourage violence and sexual freedom which harm us physically and emotionally, and destroy our values, our homes, and our self-esteem. The traditions which gave us purpose and stability have been replaced by fragmented life-styles, which isolate and separate us from one another.

Our Creator intended for us to support one another, and to behave responsibly in the management of our environment and our lives. Our work has always been to refine the creation with which we were gifted, continuing and improving upon it, striving for perfection "without as well as within" until, as a final act of love and support, this Creator would reward us with the life of peace and harmony which He promised us from the beginning. The blueprint for such a grand plan has always been God's Torah and this Jewish Tanakh and the ancient Spiritual Wisdom before that. It is the Heavenly Blue-Print for a God-centered and purposeful life which cannot properly be understood or achieved without a Hebraic mindset.

This might sound almost unbelievable to those who are highly indoctrinated by typical Christian teachings today but as our studies advance this will become as plain to you as the nose on your face. Let us investigate this important subject together.

SEARCHING FOR THE HEBREW ROOTS OF THE CHRISTIAN FAITH...WHY SHOULD I?

For quite a while now I have had requests from some of you studying with us or those who only receive the newsletters to address the topic of "Why should I study the Hebrew roots of the Christian faith" or "How can I get started in this area". Many have asked me to give them something to pass on to their friends, or to their pastors. It seems like there is so much that comes to light in such a study that it literally scares people away.

Answer for yourself: How do we launch out?

- How do we begin our search for our Jewish roots?
- Could it be that the study of our Jewish Roots will enlighten our path to the greatest Spiritual Revelation that was ever given to mankind, a revelation that is sadly missing in Christianity today?
- What if any link is there between Biblical Judaism and the ancient Egyptian Religion?
- Could this great Egyptian Religion be the backbone of Christianity only later "tragically and radically reinterpreted"?

We will come to answer these questions with ease as our study increases.

Since I found myself called of God to reveal these truths to my fellow Christians and followers of "the Christ" I decided that I would try to reach back in my memory of my twenty years of study and try to be basic with you and to kick things off for you in such a vein. It is my desire to take you step by step as you are introduced to this magnificent and rich world of the study of our Jewish and Egyptian roots that lay hidden under a Roman reinterpretation of Christianity as it so stand today. So I want to risk erring on the side of clarity and simplicity, assuming you possess little background.

Though I have been working in these areas of study for many years, I've learned that you can't take anything for granted when you try to teach others for we are all at different levels of spiritual growth and maturity. We at Bet Emet Ministries are confident that this letter will be a beginning point for many of you. It will be a refresher course for others of you. I do believe, however, it will be a useful overview for growing deeper in our understanding of the Foundations of our Faith; Biblical Judaism in the first century. My aim is to make this a "practical, hands on, how to" type of teaching. The theoretical is important but I'm concerned with helping people in this particular area to get started, because if we never start restoring our lost Spiritual heritage, we can never be, in my estimation, truly what God desires for us to become during our Earthly incarnation.

MOTIVATION FOR RECOVERING THE JEWISH ROOTS OF CHRISTIANITY

So let us begin to provoke ourselves to "think"; possibly think thoughts we have never thought before.

- Answer for yourself: Why did the "non-Jews", both in Israel in the first century and in Asia, Minor, practice a Jewish-centered "Pattern of Worship" up until the fourth and fifth centuries?
- Answer for yourself: What was the impact of Constantine in destroying the "Jewish Roots" of Biblical Faith for the "non-Jewish" Christians and followers of "the Christ"?
- Answer for yourself: In light of those facts then ought we as "Christians" and "followers of the Christ" be interested in restoring these Hebrew Roots to our lives, faith, and practice which were annihilated with Constantine and others?
- Answer for yourself: Why should people in all types of different "denominational" and "non-denominational" churches study their Hebrew Roots?
- Answer for yourself: Why should we come together and study "outside the box" although we "go to church"? Is it proper to do such a thing? What is the value of Truth when it incriminates Religious experience? Is Emotion or Truth more important?
- Answer for yourself: What should motivate us? What role does "truth" play in your life? What would God think of you desiring "hidden truth" concerning Him and His will for your life?
- Answer for yourself: Why is it imperative that we study Jewish Roots of our faith and that we understand the history of Christian-Jewish relations?
- Answer for yourself: Is this "Jewish-Roots" thing a "cult" or a "passing fad"? Where does the door of "recovery of our Hebrew Roots of our Christian faith" lead? Could recovery of our Jewish Roots be just the beginning of the "awaking of our Soul" to a higher Divine Revelation than we have ever received in our lives up to now?
- Answer for yourself: Is this idea of restoring our Hebrew Roots to the Christian faith just some fad by some wierdo out there in the fringes of the church or does the very nature of Biblical faith require that we understand and give heed to these issues?

So up front I want to give very careful attention to these questions concerning motivation and why we bother to study Hebrew Roots.

4 REASONS WHY AS CHRISTIANS WE MUST STUDY OUR JEWISH ROOTS

#1 THE BIBLE CANNOT MAKE SENSE TO ANYONE WHO IS NOT SPIRITUALLY A JEW

The first reason I would give for motivating Christians in this task is the realization that the Bible cannot make sense to anyone who is not spiritually a Jew. This needs to be repeated a thousand times or more.

The Bible cannot make sense to anyone who is not spiritually a Jew and who does not study the texts in their original language. You know that this is true. By your own experience reading the Bible for yourself you have come to see that many parts are cloudy and full of terms that simply don't make sense in English. Many are confused when reading a document that is not written from a "Western Mind Set". Words, ideas, customs, and language differs from ours and they should be since this Bible is an Egyptian-Jewish Spiritual Revelation. Boy, do I have news for you. Archeology today has verified that whom we think are Jewish Patriarchs in our Bible, men like Abraham, Jacob, Moses, Joshua, Ephraim, David, Solomon, etc., are really not Jewish at all; rather they are historically Egyptian Pharaohs whose true identities have been altered by Ezra in the rewriting of the Hebrew Scriptures and traditions when the Persian "captive Jews" were returned home after the Babylonian war. That means that the vast majority of our Hebrew Scriptures is Egyptian Region filtered through "Jewish Eyes"; thus the importance of understanding the "Jewish Roots" of our Bible because it is the retelling of the ancient and most glorious religion of Metaphysical Truth ever given mankind, the great Egyptian Religion. That means the Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, Deuteronomy, Judges, I and II Samuel, I and II Kings, I and II Chronicles, the Song of Solomon, Psalms, Proverbs and Ecclesiastes is in reality Egyptian Religion filtered later through the "Jewish people" who departed from ancient Egypt under Moses (the Pharaoh Akhenaten).

Answer for yourself: Let me ask you a simple question? Do you know your relatives? Who are our relatives in our Christian Faith? Is it our Church Fathers or should it rather be the Jewish people and their Egyptian parents (again archeology and history shows us that the Jewish people as late as the first century were "black skinned" offspring of ancient Egypt). There is no denying archeological facts and these "lighter skinned Jewish people of today" are the later European converts to Judaism, itself a world religion).

There are a lot of people in the church today who do not know their relatives. It appears that sadly means us in our Churches today who can look no further than Rome for their origins.

Answer for yourself: Do you know those in your own family?

The non-Jewish believer, the Christian, has been grafted into the Israel of God (Rom 11). Most of us are not naturally-born Jewish people, but spiritually we're all Semites and Hebrews ("Hebrew" means one who crossed over...as Gentiles we have "turned from idols to serve the living God" (1 Thess. 1:9). So, in a similar way every "non-Jew" who has turned to God has had his "personal Exodus" or sorts and has "crossed over from death unto life".

Answer for yourself: Have you come to know the family that gave you spiritual birth and life and wisdom? Most likely not if you attend typical Christian Churches today. Few, if any teach "Jewish Roots" and if they do they will "dress up" like Jewish people and sing and dance to "Jewish Music" but at their very core they still teach Roman Replacement Religion as their main Spiritual Dogmas. This is tragic and deceptive beyond belief and needs to stop immediately and be seen for what is truly is; Carnal Worship that appeals more to the senses of our animal nature than our Spiritual Nature.

John 4:22 says, "Salvation is from the Jews," and not of the Christian Church (Catholic or Protestant)! This means your life, your deliverance and all that you have makes you part of the redeemed community today has come from the Jewish people who only repeats for us in the pages of our Bible the ancient Egyptian Spiritual Concepts given the race of mankind in its very beginning. The realization of this fact in my own life prompted me to study what it means to claim a Jewish heritage in the faith of Christianity. This is especially important in light of the fact that along comes Rome in the 2nd through the 5th century and "radically reinterprets" the existing Divine Spiritual Wisdom regarding the Soul which had remained intact for over 10,000 years "basically unchanged".

Answer for yourself: What difference should this make to you?

It seems to me it ought to make a great difference in the way we READ, the way we INTERPRET OUR BIBLES, the way we UNDERSTAND, and the way that we LIVE and OBEY the Bible. This means it should make a great difference in how we LIVE our lives. The Bible is a Jewish-Egyptian book. It cannot be read, understood and expounded correctly unless we are prepared to become spiritual Jews and Hebrews with the Jews of today (in thinking, understanding, attitudes, ideas, etc.). Many Christians fail to see this their whole lives. Our faith is tied to the Jewish Scriptures and to the Jewish people and as our studies increase we see the connections within Judaism with the ancient Spiritual Wisdom of the Egyptians and other ancient nations who likewise possessed this Sacred Science.

Tertullian asked, "What indeed has Athens to do with Jerusalem".

Buy the way he would not only renounce entirely Christianity toward the end of his life but he also answered his own question incorrectly; it has everything to do with the Jewish people for it was the Greeks who were at first taught these Divine Spiritual Truths whose children several hundred years later will invade Egypt and steal the world's Sacred knowledge from the Egyptians who are also the very "fathers" of the later Jewish race. Take time to read a great book entitled by George James entitled The Stolen Legacy and see how ancient Egypt is the cradle of world for almost all of human advancement for over 10,000 years and the very core of all Sacred Knowledge originally imparted to mankind. This Sacred Spiritual Knowledge was later entrusted to the children of their intermarriage with Semites which form the later Jewish Nation once they left Egypt. Add the later Roman "reinterpretation" of this Jewish Sacred Wisdom along with their boast that it was Rome who was the source for this knowledge and the world would lose these precious Divine truths and their original meanings held sacred for thousands of years by both Egypt and the Jews. Be not mistaken this Sacred Wisdom lies sadly misunderstood and tragically misinterpreted through the "literal" interpretation of these same Sacred Texts at the hands of Rome. This later Roman "reinterpretation" which we have in our approach to our Bibles which carry this Sacred Wisdom down the halls of Egyptian and Jewish Religions is tragic beyond belief. You can deny such ever happened, you can pretend it never occurred, you even think you can debate others about what I say but those who have done the studies and seen this personally realizes the folly of such ignorance. The facts speak for themselves, you just have to know them.

The bedrock of the early church, the bedrock of "the Christ" and his teachings, was the Hebrew Scriptures which are to be seen by the reader later to be the same Divine Revelation given in The Egyptian Book of the Dead and Egyptian Religion. It may not be the tradition of the Roman Church but it sure is the facts of history and archeology that the early church was ALL Jewish for many years until the "Constantine problem". So the Biblical view of reality was profoundly Egyptian and Hebraic, not Western-American, Greek, or Roman until very late.

Gentiles have been grafted into an all Jewish olive tree (Rom 11) according to Paul. Israel is the root which supports us (Rom. 11:18), so every Christian has, or should have a Jerusalem Connection. The church was born in Jerusalem. The New Testament depicts "the Christ" teaching this ancient Sacred Spiritual Wisdom thought Judaism as a Jew in Jerusalem. It was from Jerusalem that momentous outreaches were made to the "non-Jews" of the world whereby they were taken the Covenant of Noah within Judaism along with the Laws of Noah whereby a "non-Jew" might make himself acceptable to God. You don't know yet but these same Laws of Noah, so called for convenience, can be traced as far back as Sumer and before ancient Egypt. So we should have a Jewish history and link today as Christians but our Churches and Roman theology and religious calendar seems to be absent in most if not all of our Christian Churches. Israel's history is our history. Israel's patriarchs, even if they are in reality Egyptian Pharaohs, have become ours. Israel's prophets have become ours. Israel's Scriptures, even if they can be shown to have Egyptian origins and affinity with the great Egyptian Religion, have become ours because we have become grafted into this people of God, this olive tree, the Jewish people. Abraham is our father. Little did we know that he most most likely a Pharaoh according to some traditions.

Answer for yourself: Have you read Galatians lately? Gal. 3:29, "If you belong to Christ," Paul says, "then you are Abraham's seed." You do not have an option. Abraham is our Spiritual father. He is the father of all who believe (Rom. 4:11...the father of believing Gentiles; Rom. 4:12...also the father of believing Jews). So we are Abraham's spiritual children and before we can become fully "Christian" and "follower of the Christ" we must also know what it means to be a Jew and understand they were entrusted with the "Pattern of Worship" and Spiritual Knowledge for the whole world! I believe to the degree that one understands and models the truths of Biblical Judaism then the stronger a person's Christian faith will be. This is a huge problem since most Christian religious beliefs are "contradictions" of earlier Jewish Spiritual Beliefs. Here is where our study begins. We have to come to terms with why the Christian faith, a faith that can be shown beyond any doubt to be a Jewish expression of Sacred Truth given to the non-Jews in the earliest centuries of our epic, has today become antisemitic to the core and an antithesis of the Jewish Biblical Faith. Here is where we start. Only by getting to the core of this "radical reinterpretation" by Rome and seeing it yourself can you then be freed from fear, ignorance, and oppressive Religious darkness that has ruled mankind for the last 1,800 years.

In summary, the Bible cannot make correct sense to anyone who is not spiritually a Jew. We are Abraham's spiritual children, we have been grafted in the Jewish people. The consequences of this in-grafting is that we take on the likeness of the Olive Tree. We need to "look a like Israel" and not Rome.

Answer for yourself: Have you as a Christian taken on the likeness of the Olive Tree? If not, why not?

As Gentile Christians we haven't taken over the olive tree, we haven't replaced it, but we have been grafted into it and we partake of the richness of that olive tree, the fat, the sap of the olive tree, to use the Apostle Paul's metaphor. The result of all this is that the Biblical view of reality is profoundly Hebraic (actually hidden Egyptian Region as we shall see much later).

As believers in "the Christ" or the example of "Jesus" we have a Jerusalem connection. If we're Christians we'd better find out what this is all about.

#2 TO LIVE A MORE AUTHENTIC BIBLICAL LIFE-STYLE

In the second place we ought to study Jewish Roots in order to live a more authentic Biblical life-style. We need to know we have a Jewish family and that the Bible is a Jewish document, but the study of our Hebrew heritage and the things we will learn from such a study should motive us to live a more authentic Biblical life-style according to the "Divine Pattern" given to the whole of mankind in the beginning of time, a "pattern" which was later entrusted to the Jewish People and which remains intact today due to their staunch integrity of being a "people of God" and not a "people of the world".

As John, in his very Hebraic way puts it, we must LEARN TO DO THE TRUTH (1 Jn). Some may study Hebrew and Jewish culture in order to impress others with their learning, others because of prophetic or end-time reasons in regard to Israel. Some in this category view the Jewish people as the key piece to some kind of eschatological jigsaw puzzle which they have devised. Unfortunately such motives have usually had very little to say about how to live in the "here" and "now". Our study of the Jewish people and Jewish history ought to impact how we live; this is the goal of such Hebraic study. Such Hebraic, and even Egyptian study, ought to make us love God more and to aid us in emulating in our lives what He taught about the Kingdom of God, about spirituality, about love, about compassion, about forgiveness, about marriage and the family, about the celebration of life, about the festivals, about faith, even about salvation.

It seems to me if this is one of our primary motivations for studying Jewish roots that we will reap great dividends.

#3 DEALING WITH NEO-MARCIONISM IN TODAY'S CHURCH

Marcion, a second-century Greek Gnostic church father around 130-140, is a very complicated man; a man misunderstood by most except those fluent with Gnosticism. Those unknowing of Gnosticism, or the early attackers of the earliest Christians and Gnostic "Christians" tell us today in their writings that Marcion sought to do away with the entire Hebrew Bible and to divest the church of all traces of Jewishness. They say that he wanted to rid Christianity of anything of Jewish flavor. That is not the case. Marcion saw the world with a higher Spiritual Consciousness than most of the Romans in his day. Eventually he was condemned as a heretic by this early evolving Roman Church. Justin Martyr, a church father of the second century, considered Marcionism one of the most dangerous heresies of his day, but ironically Justin was an antisemite. Go figure.

Answer for yourself: So what is the truth about Marcion?

The issues here are very complicated as to why an "anti-Law" stance would be taken both by Marcion and Justin yet they opposed each other "theologically". Let me say in summary fashion that once you understand why Marcion, a Gnostic, considered the Laws of God not "applying to him" any longer and having passed away for Spiritual Gnostics, as the Gnostic Paul often responds as well, then you will come to see that it is possible for men and women to live at level of Spirituality whereby they live the "laws of God" on their hearts as a total expression of the love of God and need not a "blue-print" any longer. This, dear one is a Goal to be reached not easily accomplished by all. Let me give you an example, Moses, a Pharaoh himself who grew up with "images" and a religion full of "symbolic images" that represented various aspects of the Creator would later turn and say that no longer are they to use such "images", or even make them. There comes a time when we hopefully evolve Spiritually whereby we progress beyond the primary understanding of God and evolve from "flesh" to "Spirit" within ourselves, no longer needed visual reminders of God but have become in our actual experience the living manifestation of the Divine in this animal body.

Rom 8:14 14 For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God. (KJV)

These Gnostics were "mystics" and were known for a special level of righteousness that made others uncomfortable and make them second guess their own Spiritual attainment. It was not that Marcion was wicked; quite the reverse, he lived "in the Spirit" at such a high level and understanding that he has moved beyond simple "do's" and "don't's" that less spiritually inclined people still need as a pattern for themselves to "mature" their Souls. Marcion is an example of one who understood what Paul mentioned in Galatians:

Gal 4:19 19 My little children, of whom I travail in birth again until Christ be formed in you, (KJV)

But most of us don't attain this level in our actual existences for many reasons and still need teaching in the "elementary" things of God and the "milk of the Word" never arriving at the "meat of the Word". The Torah severed that purpose in maturing the Soul within mankind only so far in hopes that the evolving Spirit within would transform the believer into the fullness of the stature of the Christ. So before you read anti-Marcion comments from early Church Fathers it is important to thoroughly understand just what these Christian Gnostics believed and when you do then you will understand why "carnal" Christians like Justin and Irenaeus, these early Church Father and others opposed them so viciously. These Gnostic Christians like Marcion and Paul lived at a level in the Spirit that dwarfed others who would not "pay the price" for such a relationship with the living God.

Today the churches are full of modern "Justins" and "Marcionists" who decry anything Jewish or the Laws of God. There are many of them around as we can see them when they try to relegate the Hebrew Scriptures, the Old Testament, the Biblical Feasts and Festivals, and the Sabbaths to secondary importance in preaching and teaching. Neo-Marcionism manifests itself in many ways today in the Christian church and needs to be rejected because this is the "elementary school" of the Spirit that helps mold us into living examples of God. Such Mystical and Spiritual secrets lie behind these so called "Jewish customs" that in time can be opened to the minds of Christians and in so doing in reality take their breath away. But that is a level to be obtained through a lot of "unlearning" and further "learning of the truths" which have been kept from us in Christianity today by a totally anti-Jewish tradition in Christianity that has been the foundation for Christianity now for over 1,800 years. This anti-Judaism can be seen in the local churches that tend to have almost exclusively classes in the New Testament and rarely in the Old Testament. It is seen in preachers who get up and you can almost predict like a clock on Sunday morning the text is going to come from the last twenty percent of the Bible rather than from the first eighty percent of the Bible. Check the courses taught at Christian colleges and seminaries around the country. Greek is often required and Hebrew, as best, is offered at all or at best it is optional. Or, you have twice the courses in New Testament studies than you do in the history of the Jewish people and Old Testament studies.

Sometimes Neo-Marcionism displays itself today with the teaching that Israel has been permanently cast aside, displaced forever, and the church now has been given her blessings and has replaced Israel.

Answer for yourself: How many theological faculties espouse that view? Way too many! We have some in this city of Dallas, at Dallas Baptist Seminary for example, that are very popular but tragically stand upon faulty exegesis of the text as well as Biblical History. Sometimes the position of anti-Zionism denouncing Israel's right to a national homeland may be nothing more than Neo-Marcionism in disguise.

However, when Neo-Marcionism rears its head in today's church, Christians who know the origins of their own faith in the Jewish people and in the Hebrew Bible will be prepared to call people back to the Old Testament, the Jewish Scriptures, the Hebraic foundation of the early Gentile church for almost five centuries. Your studies will reveal this to you as we continue.

#4 WE NEED TO IMPROVE CHRISTIAN-JEWISH RELATIONS

We desperately need to improve Christian-Jewish relations. You may not be aware of the statistics of antisemitism in this country, but they are rapidly on the rise in the last few years. There is a dark side to the history of Christian-Jewish relations about which most Christians are uninformed. A dark side that goes back to the early Christian centuries and has extended to this very day and lie concealed behind many of the religious dogmas of our Churches.

Anti-Judaism in the teaching of the early fathers of the Christian Church that led to a long history of anti-Semitism, hostility and hatred tragically acted out toward the Jewish people. That was climaxed in that indescribable event which we know today as the Holocaust. The Holocaust years are 1933 to 1945. During those years six million Jews were slaughtered by German Christians simply because they were Jews! Most of the church stood idly by and that includes the Vatican who later sheltered the Nazis from the world courts. No wonder the credibility of the Christian message has suffered great damage when exposed to Jewish ears over the centuries.

Many within the early church sent the same message through the Crusades, Inquisitions, pogroms, torturings, expulsions, and other such things; or simply by the guilty silence of the church in the face of these atrocities.

There are bridges that need to be repaired between our communities. It is time that a new image of a true "Jewish-Christianity" emerge, and this takes time and is impossible without knowledge. Misunderstandings and hostility between Christians and Jews must give way to a new relationship. That relationship will be thoroughly informed about the history of the past. But it will also seek to ensure the future of the Jewish people by maintaining a strong and secure Israel.

In America Christians and Jews really don't know each other, largely, because of geographical isolation. We have a need to dispel faulty images and popular stereotypes and caricatures that we have one for the other. Lack of personal encounter has resulted in the creation of these prejudices and distortions and faulty perceptions that we have one for the other. Jews have been called Christ killers, Pharisees, elders of Zion, money grubbers, legalists, and a whole host of other offensive labels. Christians have been called red necks, anti-intellectuals, Bible thumpers, narrow-minded bigots, and you can add to these lists.

We are tragically strengthening that barrier that has divided us for nearly two thousand years when we tolerate and condone this type of language or behavior or theology in our Churches, but who knows this without serious study since the early Church Fathers did much to disguise their antisemitism within the New Testament texts which underwent redaction by the pens of the Monks. When we don't speak out against antisemitism our silence condemns us.

We must acknowledge our debt to the Jewish people, but we must also seek meaningful and constructive ways to repay it. One of the most important ways our debt to the Jewish people can be repaid is by informing the Church about the history of antisemitism and the Holocaust and by encouraging opportunities where Christians and Jews can come together in our communities and learn from each other.

I have developed for you four reasons why we must study and reclaim our Jewish Roots:

- One, the Bible cannot make sense to anyone who is not spiritually a Jew. We must be knowledgeable about the foundations of our faith.
- Two, we ought to study Jewish Roots in order to live a more authentic Biblical life-style.
- Three, our studies are crucial in order to combat a disease in most of our local churches and certainly in the church at large: Neo-Marcionism.
- Finally, we desperately need to improve Christian-Jewish relations in the light of the history of antisemitism hidden in Christianity, Christian doctrine, and lives of Christians like Hitler and other. Only in such a way can we assure that there will never be another Holocaust.

Let us ponder these reasons for the rest of our lives.

TILL WE ALL COME IN THE UNITY OF THE FAITH...WHICH FAITH...WHICH ONE?

Before we begin we must understand one thing. When a definite article is used in a sentence such as the word "the" it means unique, special, only one of a kind. When a definite article is used such as an "a" it means "one of several". Notice now that when Paul says:

Ephesians 4:13 "Till we all come in the unity of the faith" he was referring to only ONE faith...and that the faith that existed at that time.

Answer for yourself: To what was Paul referring as this "the" faith? Which "one" was it? Was it to normative Biblical Judaism? Was it a "literal" interpretation of these texts we have today in our Bibles? Does our Bible have considerably "more texts" and "alterations" than the theology of which Paul spoke 2,000 years ago? Or could Paul have been referring in this Ephesian texts to a more Gnostic understanding of the ancient Spiritual Wisdom which we find expressed not only in every major world religion including Judaism as well as early pre-Roman Christianity and at various "places" in our Bibles today? Could it be that this ancient "faith" called "the faith" by Paul refer to the ancient Egyptian Religion and its Metaphysical understanding of the Soul which is later shadowed by the Jewish cultural expressions of this "same" faith in God we find in the Bible? Or have we failed to understand the real message of the Bible because our approach and interpretation is basically one of "literalism" instead of "allegory" as this Paul originally intended? What should this passage in the Book of Ephesians mean to you? Do you practice this "same faith" that Paul speaks or is your faith "another" in Paul's mind and you don't recognize that it is since your study of your own faith is lacking in this regard? Does this mean we need to become Jewish and convert to Judaism or does it more correctly mean that in coming to this "unity of the faith" we are called to uncover the hidden "mysteries" of this ancient "faith" that are suppressed and hidden from us today in the ashes of Roman Church history and the altered Scriptural texts we have inherited? Does our typical Baptist, Methodist, Catholic, or other such Christian typical experiences today fulfill this desire of Paul for this "unity" of this "one faith" for all believers or could it be that in our typical Christian experience are we so far afield of the truth that Paul refers in this passage 2,000 years ago that we don't know that we are inadvertently involved in a Roman "replacement religion" that rejected totally "the faith" of which Paul spoke 2,000 years ago? Do you want the truth about these questions and should it matter to you?

You must decide when reading the materials from Bet Emet Ministries if you are in "the" faith that Paul was referring to at the time of the writing of this above passage. Either your faith is grounded in the faith and principles expressed in the first century church, expressed on the pages of our Bibles as a Metaphysical expression of Biblical Judaism or, it is not. If you think that our typical Christian experiences today reflect and mirrors what Paul was speaking about then have I got news for you. If you think that Messianic Judaism is this "faith" with a "literal Jesus Christ" then you are sadly mistaken. In a nutshell let it be known up front that as seen today Gentile Christianity with its "literal interpretation" of these ancient Scriptures is a sad replacement religion that opposes much of what this ancient "faith" which Paul says was "once given to the saints" not only possessed but desires be taught to all of God's children. Now, on with the

Slowly over the years of my Pastorate in Dallas, Texas, I have witnessed a slow awakening, and I stress "slow" awakening of the Gentile Christian Church to the Jewish roots of their faith. This is encouraging, especially in light of the great need for such a "restoration" once you come to the knowledge of the truth concerning how Gentile Christianity has strayed from the ideals and original Apostolic Religious Doctrines that James and the Jerusalem Church desired for her and her Gentile brothers and sisters. I have witnessed over the years a new emphasis within the Church on the singing of the Psalms in their worship, the use of banners at various occasions in the tradition of the Tribes of Israel, the celebration of the Biblical feast days (Passover, Unleavened Bread, Pentecost, Rosh Ha Shannah, Yom Kippur, Tabernacles, etc.). But this is but a small start in the awakening of the Spirit within man to the Divine Truths of the ancients who first gave us these Scriptures we read today. This awakening is wonderful and necessary for our repentance if we ever wish to return to "the faith" and the Spiritual Truths embodied within it which we read on the pages of our Bibles which dear ones we see is Biblical Judaism and not 2nd century Roman Christianity. Not only that but sacred dancing, especially in Charismatic churches, is prominent. But it needs be said emotionalism is not wrong except when such expressions are used to deceptively reinforce Spiritual untruths. Then we are deceived in not obtaining the truth behind these texts we read but we "feel good" about our experience any way. Spirit and Flesh are never to be confused together but sadly usually are in our Churches today. Never forget that the intellect works with the Spirit in one's worship of God and the criteria given for us to judge all things is expressed in a duality: "Spirit and Truth".

John 4:24 24 God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth. (KJV)

With the deplorable condition of our public school system home schooling has become a viable alternative for many. This is a great opportunity to teach truths you learn from your personal study of the "Jewish Roots" of Christianity along with the many vistas to which it such study leads such as the true comparison of the Biblical texts when compared in the Hebrew, Greek, and English, the alterations of the Messianic Promises in the Hebrew Scriptures when purposefully misrepresented in both our Christian Old and New Testaments supposed translations, the radical "reinterpretation" of the Biblical texts as it changed from "allegorical interpretation" to "literal interpretation", the celestial days of worship of God called the "Feasts and Festivals" which are the hidden story of the salvation of the Soul, the parallel study of comparative religions with their own "Jesus Story" and "Christ Story" as found over twenty times in ancient religions since the beginning of time, the correct understanding of Gnosticism along with the Gnostic "key" to unraveling this puzzle behind Rome's alteration and approach to the "Christ Story", astronomy, archeology, etc. Let it be said that Sabbath celebrations in homes of traditional Sunday Christians are very encouraging and likewise great opportunities for spiritual enlightenment and growth instead of the standard Sunday church fare which we are so accustomed. One hour in serious study can do more for the Spirit and Soul than ten hours of erroneous preaching reinforced by emotionally charged music and songs in our Churches. Study was and yet is considered in Judaism to be the "highest form of worship" one can give God. Study, not preaching, is one of the Gifts of the Spirit according to this same Paul. This awakening today of Christianity's "Jewish Roots" has even progressed in some congregations so far as to teach the correct doctrine regarding the Biblical Tithe. Many are even beginning to use the Hebrew name of God (Yahweh) where this was unheard of only a few years ago. Little do they know in beginning to restore the Hebrew Roots of their Christian Faith that long before the name Yahweh was used by the Jewish People it was known in Ancient Egypt thousands of years earlier. Even more startling is the same can be said about the name "Jesus Christ". What we have to consider is if this reference to "Jesus Christ", the "Egyptian Messia or Messiah" was some "Jewish Rabbi" that was to come some time in the future or have we lost the true meaning of "the Christ" today due to inheriting Rome's antisemitism and alteration of Judaism in their dogmas and texts. Some Christian Churches are displaying Jewish symbolism (Menorahs, Stars of David, Shofars, etc.) in their congregations; again not aware that we find such things as the Star of David expressed thousands of years earlier again in Ancient Egypt as the very central piece of their Religion ("So Above, So Below"), the intersecting of two triangles, one pointing up to Heaven and one pointing down to Earth). But all of this you will learn as our studies advance. These are but a few of the elements drawn from our Judaic heritage that are now becoming common place in the worship, practice and teachings of many Christian congregations today who are studying their Jewish roots of their faith. What is startling is that what beings to look like "Jewish Roots" is in truth "Egyptian Roots"! It is but a short step taken in the "right direction" that connects Jewish Roots with their earlier Egyptian Roots. This is the most fascinating study one can ever undertake in their life but it is so necessary that we don't get the cart before the horse and we take things step by step and in order if we are to fully grasp what is ahead for us in the study of the Soul, which by the way, is the "key" to all religious texts and symbolism one way or the other. But you will come to see this as your studies advance.

But not all are open to such attempts at recovering the truth and the rich heritage of their Christian faith before it was tragically altered by Rome during the 2nd through the 5th century. Although many of these activities are not yet the accepted norm in all Christian circles, it is only the beginning of a rapidly developing trend which can hardly be ignored. But the restoration of "Jewish Roots" to the Christian Faith is not the final goal, but only one step of many needing to be taken today toward the restoration of Spiritual Truth which the ancients cherished for thousands of years which sadly almost passed totally from mankind knowledge in the fires and ashes of Rome and their purge of the world's Sacred Spiritual Wisdom and Knowledge during the 2nd through the 5th centuries. But in spite of the many who have failed to "discern the times" those who have are contributing to a Judeo-Christian restoration that was prophesied in the Jewish Scriptures which is but another opportunity for the Spiritual advancement of the human species that is connected today with the changing of the age (from Pisces to Aquarius). Mankind is taking a step into a Higher Spiritual Consciousness as we speak and all of this might sound strange to a typical Christian but believe me the scope of this is mind-boggling when you see it and Bet Emet Ministries has for twenty years been diligent to put the pieces of this puzzle together for the betterment of mankind and we make it a gift to you, the "truth seeker" and "lover of God".

BUT MAINLINE CHURCHES SEEM DISINTERESTED WITH THIS JUDEO-CHRISTIAN RESTORATION

However, some in Christian leadership are expressing apprehension in returning to "the' faith once given to the saints". I can remember speaking about this great need with my previous senior Pastor and he could only say over and over again "we are not living in the first century any longer". True, but what escaped him, as well as many, is that the Commandments of God are Eternal; whether it be the first century or the twentieth century, or the Dynasties of ancient Egypt. God's word and Laws are immutable. Man's fears were born out of a fear of legalism which is propagated by an incorrect emphasis on the Pauline writings as well as their "alterations" as you will come to see as your studies advance.

May God hasten the day when something is judged, not by whether it is Jewish or Christian, but by whether or not it is Biblical centered

JUDEO-CHRISTIANITY...WHAT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH NEEDS TO MODEL

I find that most people are familiar with the term "Judeo-Christianity". The term can be found to be used frequently by scholars, Bible students and commentators who write on the early church. Simply said, it means "having roots in both Judaism and Christianity". Judaism and Christianity were publicly coined words. The word "Christian" was first used in A.D. 42 in the city of Antioch as seen in Acts 11:26. Yet we find that the word "Christian" was adopted later than the text implies for the purpose of differentiating between developing groups of "believers"; one group who had faith in the inherited oral traditions of this "Christ" as a "historical and literal person" and Jews who did not accept this idea of this "Jesus Christ" as their Messiah let alone the altered concept of the indwelling "Christ within" all humanity which was accordingly modified by this "literal Jesus" teaching. This will become plain as our studies advance but for now know that the concept of the "indwelling Christ" was altered to the "external Christ" who is "limited to but one person" by Rome.

Answer for yourself: What did I just say?

In this last sentence is the great division on the road to Spiritual Truth; one you will be called to travel. Bet Emet will help you discern the correct path to be taken in this regard by presenting to the reader many infallible proofs which will enable the student and "truth seeker" to discern the truth behind the "Jesus Story" which we have inherited at the hands of Rome. Let me say there are abundant reasons why the Jewish people for over 2,000 years don't believe our simple "Jesus Story". You need to see and understand the reasons for such a rejection of the "literal Jesus Story". Recovering our Jewish Roots is but the first step of many whereby the goal of recovering the truth of the ancient Spiritual Wisdom that existed before the rise of Rome can be successfully restored and obtained by the "truth seeker" in his life. Even more so the word "Christian" is a play upon the long existing name for the lovers of Wisdom, called "Gnostics" and who were likewise known as "Chrestains" or "lovers of the good". Under Rome's efforts and their Replacement Religion the word "Chrestian" will become "Christian" and will also come to be used to identify the entire Gentile Church over time, a church which is now directed by Rome and not Jerusalem and which has lost the "keys" not only to this ancient Spiritual Wisdom of the Soul but its "Jewish Roots" as well, many of which were vistas into this deeper Spiritual understanding of the Scriptural texts we mistaken interpret "literally" today. The irony of the whole thing is that the vast majority of those who call themselves followers of the "Christ" (the term "Messiah" in Hebrew) and identify with the term "Christian" have little in common with the religious belief system of this Jewish Jesus or first century Biblical Judaism. Take a second to read the "link" and the article above which compares numerous religious dogmas between Judaism and Christianity and ask yourself:

- "Why is Christianity the antithesis of Judaism?"
- Why are the key religious dogmas in the Christian Faith diametrically opposed to the Jewish Faith of this Jesus of whom we read in the New Testament?

If you have ever put on your "thinking cap" it is time now to do so. When you are finished with this above "link" it is time for another exercise in intellectual expansion. Read and wonder why the typical Christian have little if anything to do with a "Jewish Jesus" and his "religious belief system"! Such a statement is an undeniable fact to those who study the "Christ of Judaism" in the first century and then compare what the example of this "Jewish Jesus" believed in the first century as concerning his "religious belief system" with what they have been taught by their Gentile Churches and their current "Christian religious belief system". They are not the same! This second "link" is a must read if you are serious about your studies and desire to acquire the "Truth" about the true origins of Christianity today.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that the "Jewish Christ" taught a completely different "Gospel" than the one that the Romanized Paul of later Roman theology taught?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that the "Jewish Christ" taught a completely different way of inheriting Eternal Life than the way that the Romanized Paul taught inheriting Eternal Life?

Answer for yourself: After having read the above articles then is there any doubt in your mind that as a typical Christian that you are not a follower of this Jesus or "the Jewish Christ"?

Answer for yourself: Where do we find the real Paul and the real "Mind of Christ" in a Bible we inherited full of later Roman alterations of the texts as seen when compared to the Hebrew originals? Where do we find the truth about the real "Jesus" and the real "Christ" following the Roman invention of a "literalized" Christianity as a replacement religion for Judaism?

Let me assure you that you are closer to the truth than you have ever been in your life before now. In these articles and in other websites from Bet Emet Ministries puzzle pieces of knowledge come together one after another in order to help paint for the reader and "truth seeker" the hidden truths behind the allegories and stories of our Bibles which were never meant to be taken as historical narratives as we are taught them today. The "keys" to the proper interpretation of these Sacred Texts come one after another as your studies advance. Diligence in such study will be rewarded by clear vision and Spiritual Understanding in time because it is not easy to investigate 2,000 years of altered theology as the hands of the monks but that is what we have to do if we ever hope today of recovering the Divine Spiritual Wisdom imparted to humanity in its beginning long before the rise of Rome and its "radical reinterpretation" of the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom.

Now take a break and don't get upset at what I just said and showed you. You are blessed to see this and begin to "think" of what God just allowed you to both hear and see. Behind these shocking truths lies a "Pattern of Worship" that you don't understand yet; a "pattern" given to all mankind in the beginning of time which was handed down by God to ancient Egypt and later to Moses and Israel as the "pattern in the Mount" for all mankind. It is this "pattern" which through Israel was taught to whole Gentile world in the earliest centuries of the Christian era; well that is until the 3rd century when the great antisemite Constantine will emerge and change this "Pattern of Worship" for the whole known world and give the world a "replacement religion" that goes by the name of Roman and Protestant Christianity today. It is time to learn the truth of what has happened long ago to "the faith" once given the Saints!

The term "Judaism" was born of similar circumstances and was, no doubt, coined for the purpose of implying a "divorcement" from Christianity and their errant beliefs which often contradicted the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom, the Hebrew Scriptures and the teachings of great anointed people like Moses, the later Writings, and the Prophets of the Hebrew Bible, etc.

the proper system of worship and practice for the people of God is not "Christian" in a religious sense, but "Jewish" simply because "Jewish worship" patterns for us best the Divine example and "idea" in a Biblical sense and therefore remains eternal and universal for all nations

What a truth that you will come to see. Nevertheless, there are acceptable terms which we will use for identification and orientation as we continue in our studies. The phrase Judeo-Christianity is perhaps most ideal of these terms in that it expresses and maintains the inherent bond between that religious faith which Yahweh gave and reiterated at Sinai.

What most Christians fail to grasp is that when they read Ephesians 4:5, the "One Faith" of Scripture is not "Gentile Christianity" that emerged in the 2nd through the 5th century but "Biblical Judaism"...quite simply the Faith of God and the ONLY Faith ever given by God to man which is contained within it

SO WHY THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE TWO RELIGIONS OF JUDAISM AND CHRISTIANITY? IS NOT CHRISTIANITY TO BE THE FULFILLMENT OF JUDAISM AND IF SO THEN WHY THE CONTRADICTIONS?

In the Book of Malachi God, through the prophet said: For I am the LORD, I change not; therefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Do you really believe the above Scriptures? Do you really? If you really believe that God is the same yesterday, today, and forever, then I challenge you to be brutally honest with yourself in answering the following questions:

Answer for yourself: Why then is there such a startling difference between Christianity and Judaism on so many religious doctrines and beliefs? Have you ever studied these "contradictions" between earlier Judaism and later Christianity for yourself? Have you ever studied both "when" and "why" such changes were made? Well I have and it will take your breath away when you see just how divergent that Biblical Judaism and Roman Christianity really are along with the reasons why Christianity decided to "split" from its mother's faith. Take time right now and follow this above link and "think" how Christianity can be the "fulfillment" of Judaism when Christianity basically denies the whole of Judaism and its religious belief system. Carry with you the thought that God "changes not" since this "Divine Pattern" of Spiritual Knowledge and Divine Wisdom can be found reproduced faithfully from nation to nation, from every major religion over and over again until the rise of Roman Orthodoxy in the 2nd century when this "pattern" is "radically reinterpreted" at the hands of Rome.

Answer for yourself: How can two religions, Judaism and Christianity, that came from the same God who is One and a complete Unity have so many conflicting doctrines like those on atonement, sacrifice, salvation, Christology, Messiah, the Soul, Sabbath, days of worship, etc.?

Answer for yourself: Did Jesus start an entirely new religion in spite of the fact that he is recorded saying in Matt. 5:17: Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil. (KJV) Then "who did"?

Answer for yourself: Is Jesus responsible for all of the differing doctrines and practices that bear the name of Christianity today as found in over 2,000 different Christian denominations in the world today which all claim to represent the truth about this Jesus?

Answer for yourself: Is there a difference between the "Christ of Faith" and the "Christ of History" and if so do you know what it is?

Well we are not ready to tackle all of these big problems yet but understand that the "Christ of Faith" and the "Christ of History" are NOT the same by any stretch of the imagination. But this understanding will come in time. You will come to see how there have been 3 different understandings of "the Christ" taught since the beginning of time; two are correct and one is in error and the one we inherited in Christianity given us by Rome is the one "in error". But this again this fact will become plain as the nose on your face in time.

Answer for yourself: Who is the "real Jesus" and the "real Christ" as distinguished from the various thousands of different Christian denominations and non-denominations that exist today who claim to follow this Jesus but have so many conflicting doctrines, rites, ceremonies, dogmas, canons, tenets, observances, liturgies, formalities, services, festivals, Sabbaths, etc.?

Answer for yourself: Now for a horrible thought. Could it be that the Jews, who follow the same religion that the Jewish Jesus supposedly did, and have for thousands of years since ancient Egypt by the way, be right in their religion and its dogmas and those who follow the Roman New Testament and its theological doctrines, which can by the way be shown to "opposed to Judaism" when its New Testament texts are compared to the unforged Hebrew Scriptures, be incorrect? Of course such an answer and the "Truth" to this question is the quest of Bet Emet Ministries but let me also say that this question predisposes that the reader must become aware of the adulterated and forgery and purposeful mistranslation and misquotation of Scriptures and texts that is abundant in our Christian Old and New Testaments. Study is not an option for the "truth seeker". You probably never knew these alterations in our Christian Bible exist but know it now for certain that the above statement is tragically true as you will personally see for yourself as our studies advance. In seeing the facts for yourself your eyes and heart will slowly turn from Rome to Jerusalem and the faith of the Jewish people as the depository for Divine Truth, truths we will have to acknowledge are not taught in our Roman "New Testament" under it current "literalistic" method of interpretation in vogue today.

Answer for yourself: How trustworthy are the copyists of our Christian Bibles? As your studies increase you will see and I did upon my own personal investigation into the "translation of the Hebrew Texts" when used in the New Testament that these copyist strayed from the intended reading of the prior Hebrew Texts with free license in hundreds of example, many of which are "key" parts to this replacement religion which we have today.

Our modern New Testament contains copyist additions such as Mark 16:9-20 which most are aware of today. Added to that this "free license" to corruption of truth is found outside of the Bible as well. A reference to "Jesus" in Josephus' Antiquities of the Jews (18.3.1) is such a blatant Christian forgery that even Christian scholars admit as much. There are many such "insertions" into the ancient writings that modern scholarship show us today were "added" in order to bolster the claims of the early Church concerning the "literal existence" of Jesus which was received by all from "oral traditions". Also, keep in mind that the same Christians that we are trusting with an accurate transmission of the Bible also are the ones who burned down whole libraries full of Gnostic Scriptures in order to hide and destroy the Ancient Divine Wisdom of God that undergirded mankind's responsibilities to live as incarnated Souls the very same Divine Order of the cosmos that God exhibited to man in the operation of the Laws and cycles of Heaven and Nature. Man was to observe and learn that his existence is follow and be ordered by these same Laws which are to be worked out in his life. Thus, the anti-Law biases of Rome which we read about in our New Testament texts today has no firm foundation other than Gentile's hatred for the Jews. Eusebius, the Church historian, confessed to being more concerned with spreading the Christian faith than recording history accurately. Eusebius is but one example of a known "liar" who helped steer the Christian faith upon the rocks of antisemitism with both his writings that are full of "lies". Lastly let me saw that almost every Messianic Promise recorded in the KJV can be found to be a purposeful "mistranslation", "misquotation", "taken out of context passages", and outright pure "invention of texts" when compared to the Hebrew originals in the Jewish Tanakh. I have done these studies and was absolutely shaken to my very core when in my Pastorate to see that that I had trusted my whole life for "truth" in my Christian Bible concerning the "Jesus Story" was an outright deception. Don't believe me now but as we get to these texts and investigate them one by one when compared with the Hebrew from which they were taken you will see this for yourself. And these are only the beginning of the problems with our Christian texts given and accepted by us as "infallible, inerrant, and inspired". When doing these types of studies will open your eyes to the "Truth" like never before and pay the way to our later study of Gnosticism, Astronomy, the ancient Egyptian Religion and the "keys" to correctly interpreting the ancient Divine Secret Wisdom concerning the Soul which is so tragically altered and misrepresented in our "Jesus Story" as it stands in our Christian Bibles today. We have much to "unlearn" and "learn" in the forthcoming months of study.

HAVE WE COMPLETELY MISSED THE MARK IN THE GENTILE CHURCH?

Answer for yourself: One may question what I have said and might ask himself: "What difference does it make as to how I worship God so long as I have accepted Christ as my personal savior?"

As startling as it may sound to you, the vast majority of Biblical texts are devoted NOT to the message of redemption, but rather how one is to obey and please God, serve God, and honor God AFTER becoming a believer in God

Perhaps you need to sit down and contemplate on the above thought. The statement is true. Ministries like Bet Emet are called to share such insights with a Gentile Church which has departed from "the faith once given to the saints". (Jude 1:3). Much of what the Gentile Church teaches the non-Jewish believer today are unfortunately "falsehoods" which are recorded in the New Testament by the antisemitic writers of the New Testament. I know you have been taught that the New Testament was written by the Apostles, but other than a few authentic writings by Paul (7 in total), the vast majority of this literature defies identification as to authorship and internal evidences in the texts by this "unknown authors" often betray Gentile hands of authorship. One thing is certain, however; modern scholarship today can prove that most of these writings were drafted by non-Jews with strong antisemitic leanings. Thus we have a document that is full of Replacement Religion and replacement religious dogmas and doctrines which conflicts with the Bible that Jews like this Jewish Jesus would have used, the Hebrew Scriptures, written by "holy men of old". That means those who follow the teachings in the New Testament without comparing them against and with the writings of Moses and the Prophets as taken ONLY from the Hebrew Bible and Hebrew Scriptures of Judaism and NOT the forged Greek, Latin, and English Old Testaments of our Christian Bibles cannot be assured they have Divine Truth let alone are being obedient to the God they say they love.

Answer for yourself: How much do we love God? Well, I cannot answer that for you but I only hope to make the reader consider such a question for himself as our studies advance.

One's love for God must motivate us to be "sure" we are right in what we believe and how we respond and live His truth out in our lives. That means you will have to study hard and often be exposed to materials which will challenge you to your very core. But love for God demands we pay whatever price to ensure we are not opposing Him and disobeying Him out of misdirected zeal or out of ignorance of the truth which has been "tragically altered" and "changed" in the Bibles we were given by Rome.

The precaution given to ancient Israel is a valid one for the Church today. God pleaded with them on several occasions not to worship Him through learning the ways of the heathens. There is a "pattern" of worship and all mankind is called to follow this "pattern". In this day of restoration and renewal of the Church, there is a turning away from many of the man-conceived concepts of worship which have been handed down to us by the historic church fathers with a return to "Biblical patterns", even if they do appear Jewish in nature. You will come to see that behind this Jewish "cultural adaptation" that a higher Divine Truth awaits than you have ever learned before in your Christian life. What I would find for myself and will teach later in forthcoming articles is that behind these "Jewish Patterns of Worship" are deeper Divine Truths about the Soul of man, its incarnation, its growth, its life, its development, its maturation, its trials and tests, and finally the death of its bodily temple whereby it is set free of the prison of the body having learned the lessons intended by its incarnation not in just one person, as Rome will have us believe in this "Jesus:", but in all of God's Sons and Daughters (this means you and me).

Dear child of God...if you have not already you soon will see that "Jewish" means "Biblical"

PILATE'S QUESTION....IT MUST BECOME YOURS AS WELL

Pontius Pilate asked a significant question of public concern, both for our day and his, when he inquired of the Jewish Jesus, "What is truth"? (John 18:38). The greatest of men still struggle to find the answer to this all-consuming question as they seek to please the living God. We at Bet Emet Ministries are dedicated to finding the truth in order to assure that we are worshipping the Father in Spirit and Truth. Our dedicated study for the past twenty years has shown us that much of what we were taught by Christianity has strayed far from the truth and surely was not given by the Spirit of God to mankind but rather the "flesh" of mankind. Repentance is the order of the day in light of the facts of the current studies that you will have a chance to see for yourself.

Failure of multitudes of believers to fully answer this profound question for themselves has left the Gentile Church in a quagmire of conflicting doctrines and practices. I know many of you who read this article might say that the Jewish Jesus, "the Christ" said, "I am the Truth"; but sadly this question can not be answered satisfactorily with such a simplified answer. Nearly everyone at some time has found himself a victim of these conflicts only to ponder the same question: "What is truth"? Perhaps one of the greatest mistakes to be made in our pursuit of Divine truth has been the failure to acknowledge the source of truth...the Jewish people who were entrusted with Divine revelation for the whole of mankind.

THE SOURCE OF BASIC TRUTH FOR ALL THE WORLD...INCLUDING THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH CAME FROM GOD THROUGH THE JEWISH PEOPLE AND THEIR TEACHINGS. MANY TEACHINGS IN CHRISTIANITY THAT ONCE ORIGINATED WITH THE JEWISH PEOPLE CAN BE SHOWN TO BE CORRUPTED BY THE HANDS OF ROME AND TODAY ARE SHOWN TO NOT BE SOUND DOCTRINALLY AND INVARIABLY FLAWED IN ITS CONCLUSIONS AND APPLICATIONS...NO MATTER HOW NOBLE IT MIGHT SOUND...

Because of the anti-Semitism of the early Gentile leaders of the Church, we have the gradual drift of the Christian Church from its Egyptian, Hebrew and Jewish Roots that has robbed the believers of their rightful heritage, the power that goes with the Word of God when obeyed, and has rendered the Christian Church a very divided people (over 2,000 different denominations containing multitudes of conflicting doctrines concerning the Christ). We are without an answer when we look to that "one faith" and "one Lord" and "one Baptism" which today has become a myriad of conflicting doctrines and practices within the corporate body of Christ. Somebody got off track and it was not the Jew who yet today follow the SAME faith and PATTERN of the religion of Sinai.

Answer for yourself: Can you guess who erred?

Answer for yourself: Where is the "faith once given to the saints"? (Jude 1:3). Can it be restored?

WAS THE JEWISH CHRIST TO CREATE A NEW RELIGION AND REPLACE JUDAISM WITH WHAT WE HAVE TODAY IN CHRISTIANITY OR WAS HE A REFORMER WITHIN JUDAISM?

Any time Judaism is mentioned along with the Law you can hear sincere Christians respond: "I am not under the Law". Such responses come from a fear of legalism and a failure to understand the Torah, its purpose, and the true salvation message of God. In fact, when properly understood, it is the Jewish Holy Days and Festivals that teach God's true salvation. But such anti-Law statements are based upon an inadequate knowledge and understanding of Judaism in the first place. It is because of differences in dogmas concerning these "Holy Days" that our study must begin with a comparison of Judaism vs Christianity. Although we as Christians and followers of "the Christ" are most likely not well versed in Judaism we must learn right now that when one does something that appears to be Jewish in nature we must stop and remember that the Jewish Jesus said, "Think not (although some still do) that I am come to destroy the law...".

We need to quit "thinking" anti-Law ideas and spend some time in study of Judaism and role and purpose of the Torah and its role in the salvation of mankind. Then, if you do this, then you can never say such things again like "Christ is the end of the Law"; even if Rome wrote such sentiments in their supposedly "infallible" New Testament.

Contrary to what you might think or have been told "the Christ", as seen in this Jewish Jesus, our example, was not advocating a legalistic system for achieving righteousness, nor was he attempting to terminate the Law, which is the guideline or pattern for moral discipline, praise and worship. Biblical Judaism was simply God's chosen system of praise, worship and service entrusted to the Jewish nation and it is through them God's "Pattern" of worship was made available to the "non-Jewish" world in the early Christian era. This is so important to grasp. We are not to become "Jewish" for God made us as "non-Jews" but we are to learn from them that "Salvation is of the Jews"! Within the true Jewish expression of "faith in God" and its "outworkings" is a "Divine Pattern" for both the Jew and the non-Jew to follow in their devotion to God and his "Pattern" for all life.

The Jewish Jesus did not come to start a new religion for the world, let alone a church which some believe he was to build. This "Jewish Jesus", as depicted in the New Testament, is shown to be a reformer within Biblical Judaism (Sinai faith). It is this faith, Biblical Judaism, mind you that was to be taken to the Gentiles in Acts 15 and later in the Great Commission as well because within it we find God's "Pattern" for all mankind beginning with the Covenant of Noah and the Laws of Noah for the Gentile world as their introductory covenant with God along with the Covenant of Moses and the Laws of Moses for the Jewish world.

I mentioned earlier the passage that "Christ is the end of the Law". Here is the type of study you will find in our forthcoming articles.

Rom 10:4 4 For Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Have you read that Christ is the "end" of the Law and heard it preached from the pulpits of your Churches? Have you ever understood the passage correctly or just was led to think that the Law for mankind is over with the death and resurrection of Jesus as taught by mainline Christianity?

Clearly "Christ is the end of the Law. He always has been and will be forever. But this Law will NEVER pass away."

Answer for yourself: What is it that we don't see here that makes us want to set the Law aside like we have been taught by the majority of Christianity our whole lives?

[the Greek word for "end" in this verse is actually the word "goal"] of the law for righteousness" (Romans 10:4). Christ-likeness is where we live out these Laws and Commandments of God in our lives on a daily basis, like our example in this "Jewish Jesus". So doing ensures that our Souls are matured properly in this physical existence and doing so lead to Eternal Life with God. "Patterning" our lives after the example given us of the "Jewish Christ" by and so following these Laws in the Torah in our lives assures that our Souls Spiritually mature correctly and thereby we accomplish the purpose of our Earthly incarnation. When we examine the life of "the Christ" then we see that he adhered to Judaism his whole life and taught repentance toward the Laws and Commandments of God which frame one's Covenant with God. This is the example we are to follow and emulate in our lives; not one of antisemitism and anti-Law biases based upon incorrect understanding of the Sacred Scriptures.

For example, the Jewish Jesus never terminated the Passover celebration. He never intended that we replace the Passover, and its mystical meanings given to it by God and substitute Easter observance for the Passover. It was the Passover and not Easter which was given and commanded by God for both Jews and Gentiles alike. Abraham, long before there were ever Jews, can be shown to observe and keep this Passover. Egypt as well had been keeping the Passover thousands of years before Moses and even before Jacob brought his family down to Egypt. There is a "Divine Pattern" here that escapes us completely today in Gentile Christianity along with God's Divine Message for you and me that is associated with this "Divine Pattern of Worship". We must restore it. Sadly for most of us, although most of us are unaware, our churches, some on a weekly basis, substitute "crackers" and "grape juice" as a type of pseudo-Communion for the Passover which was to be celebrated only

ONCE A YEAR. There is a "Divine Pattern" in the working of the cosmos which is the expression of the Mind of God to mankind and taking this Celestial Event, this Spring Equinox, and transforming it into a weekly "reminder" destroys totally this so important part of the "Divine Plan" for the Soul of mankind and its "salvation". This "alteration" goes unnoticed by most Christians until they are "awakened" to the Spiritual Reality around them, a reality that challenges to the very core Rome's Replacement Religion. The Passover, as you see has an astronomical origin but has as well a Divine Message attached to the Salvation of mankind which is totally missed in Christianity today. When this principle of reform of errant Christianity today is understood and the "fear factor" is eliminated, the Church is going to see an accelerated restoration of Judeo-Christianity. Charges of legalism and of being Judaizers in the historic context will diminish. Taking the former as an wide example for all the Festival day, we as Christians have failed to heed the Jewish Jesus' warning to worship the Father in Spirit and in Truth for our worship is flawed and unacceptable to our Father for the most part if we follow the traditional pattern of most Christian churches where we deviate from the "Pattern of Worship" given by God and which is represented clearly to both Jew and "non-Jew" in Biblical Judaism. The sad fact is that most of the church is unlearned and uninformed about such things because their focus has been limited to redemption only to the exclusion of other important doctrines in the Bible such as worship and teaching that undergirds the Soul's progressive perfection in this incarnational world of our present existence.

THIS IS NOT TO BE UNDERSTOOD AS LEGALISM...BUT OPPORTUNITIES TO DRAW CLOSER TO GOD THROUGH REPENTANCE & OBEDIENCE TO HIS WORD

Having understood the above warning from the "Jewish Jesus" in John 4, the return to Judeo-Christianity through intense study and repentance, thus leading to a return to a more Biblical centered "Pattern of Worship" of the Father as well as perfecting our Soul cannot be construed as legalism or a return to religious bondage. Those who say different are simply wrong and have failed to grasp the real message of the Scriptures.

"An over-Hellenized over-Latinized Christianity needs a re-Judaizing process to bring it back to its founding Jewish roots and RENEW it more in keeping with its own inherent ideals." (Edward Flannery- Catholic scholar)

Discerning Christian scholars are beginning to recognize the record of the Holy Scriptures and the truth of history. In a very real sense Gentile Christians have been discriminated against by their own leadership. They have been denied their right of equal access to the Judaic heritage guaranteed them by the New Testament. Presbyterian scholar Harry E. Gaylord described it accordingly, "The Christians, as they were eventually called, did not have a uniform approach to Jewish law, but they were not trying to break away from Judaism. They were a group within Judaism trying to make their views normative. First generation Christianity was a part of Biblical Judaism, but the next generation would depart from it."

Answer for yourself: This mind you occurred long after the time of the supposed death of this Jesus which was supposed to "change everything". The facts of history of both Israel and Judaism tell us that "nothing changed" during the 40 years following this supposed death of Jesus. Since the inherent Jewishness of the gospel of the Jewish Jesus is so clear in the first century, the obvious question is, "What brought the massive divorcement of Christianity from Biblical Judaism?"

For the answer one need only trace the course of history. After the death of the apostle Paul and the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70, subsequent generations, which included more and more Gentiles, made every effort to remove all traces of Jewishness from the Divine message within Judaism. As the Church became increasingly Hellenized (Greek) and Latinized (Roman), many of the concepts of a "literalized" polytheism (the literalization of other gods and emanations from this One God [called angels today]) began to appear, gain prominence and become entrenched in the Church. Not only that but the Gentile Church began to collect the writings of the earliest believers of the "Christ Within" (called Gnostics) and corrupt them through numerous alterations whereby purposeful misquotations and mistranslations of the Hebrew Scriptures were used to create new ideas that were foreign to the original Hebrew writers of the Hebrew Scriptures (like a LITERALIZED CHRIST EXCLUSIVE TO ONLY ONE PERSON and not longer shared "within" by all). Like I said there is much to "unlearn" and "learn" truthfully that has been kept from us. That is why when learning all of this over the early years of my Pastorate that I had to resign my Pastorate. Truth is paramount in one's relationship with God, not religious traditions. You will come to see as I did that many Jewish texts were taken out of context on purpose and edited in the Gentile Church's canon of Scripture called the New Testament and such practices only further propagated Rome's Replacement Religion. Purposeful Scriptural misquotations, mistranslations, and misapplications of the "inspired Old Testament", the Bible Jews like this "Jesus used", became overflowing on the pages of the Christian Bible you carry today. And you are not aware most likely because you have, since you are a New Testament Christian instead of an Old Testament Christian, never verified for yourself if what you are reading in your Christian Old and New Testament is a faithful representation of what the Prophets and Moses wrote. You have taken for granted that the New Testament is correct, for after all, it has a black binder which says "Holy Bible" on it. You accepted such a document without question...or should I say "by faith". Dear ones you have been deceived and not know it; that is up to now. I once was where you are most likely at today in the knowledge of Christianity; didn't have much since I only went to Church and ever cracked a book "about my faith or the Bible I was told was inerrant". The Church remains a victim of many of these elements today because few study such things and if you do you are "suspect" by your Pastor and labeled a "troublemaker". Today's Christian has been brainwashed to prefer "preaching" instead of "study". Yet when I try to find "preaching" as gift to the body of Christ it is not there; I only find the gift of the "teacher" instead. Sadly the Christian Church today needs to pray that God send them courageous teachers for only when the teacher does his job is the congregation equipped to be the real proclaimers or "preachers". We have it just backwards today. In spite of such deception restoration and doctrinal renewal for the Church is on God's agenda (Deut. 32:2).

Deut 32:2 2 My doctrine shall drop as the rain, my speech shall distil as the dew, as the small rain upon the tender herb, and as the showers upon the grass: (KJV)

Many are beginning study for themselves and come to the point in their lives where they are beginning to "...ask for the old paths, where is the good way..." (Jer.6: 16). They will be the prophetic ones who "....shall build the old waste places: thou shalt raise up the foundations of many generations; and thou shalt be called, The repairer of the breach, The restorer of paths to dwell in" (Isaiah 58:12). Bet Emet Ministries is one of many who have felt the call to return to the old paths which is the good way, and in doing so, build the waste places destroyed by Gentile Christian antisemitism and anti-Judaism. In our pursuit to return to the "faith once given to the saints" we may not have Gentile Christianity's support, but rest confidently in the fact that we are raising up David's tabernacle in fulfillment of Scripture by helping to restore the paths and foundations for many who seek the truth about the God of the Bible. Glory!

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?

The present renewal of the Church in Spirit is going to result in a renewal and restoration of Biblical truth in the area of worship and practice.

Answer for yourself: What is the end purpose of and need for this Judeo-Christian restoration?

Quite simply Paul said it best in the book of Ephesians. Notice this was written to the non-Jew and not the Jew. This is of utmost importance and remains so for the Gentile Christian today.

Eph 2:11-12 11 Wherefore remember, that ye being in time past Gentiles in the flesh, who are called

Uncircumcision by that which is called the Circumcision in the flesh made by hands; 12 That at that time ye were without Messiah, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world: (KJV)

After reading the above verse you can more easily understand why "salvation is of the Jews" and not the Roman Church not her illegitimate sister Protestantism. The non-Jew has nothing apart from Israel and the Revelation of God given to them by the Jews. Only when the "non-Jewish" believer come to the startling understanding that much of his religious belief system is based upon a corrupted, adulterated, an flawed document, his Christian Bible, will he be able to fully understand that not only that many of his "trusted" dogmas and beliefs are in error and he does not know it as well as why the Jews, who do not accept the New Testament, are, in my opinion, the best bearers of God's true salvation in the world today. Only after verifying through diligent personal study for yourself what I said is the truth will you then be able to "fulfill" the following passage, not only in your life, but before the God you love.

Eph 4:13 13 Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Messiah: (KJV)

The trip for the contemporary Christian believer to acquire such knowledge is long and hard. Many, many tears will flow as he is confronted with the startling facts and realization that he has believed "the lie" which we were warned about to avoid. Anger for being victim to such deception is unavoidable. Only by the grace of God will compassion come to cleans such anger whereby you can experience the compassion of God for your fellow believers who are still trapped in such lies and false religion. May God speed your hunger for truth and your discipline to acquire it. You are a valuable piece of God's puzzle, for without you "unity of the faith once given to the saints will impossible". Shalom. ## COMING TO A BETTER UNDERSTANDING OF GOD AND HIS PEOPLE ISRAEL

Answer for yourself: Can the teachings and nuances of first century Israel be fully understood from the perspective of twentieth century?

As far as settlement of peoples other than the American Indian, our nation is only about 220 years old. Our nation was established in 1776, a little over 200 years ago. The Americas were settled a little over 500 years ago. This gives us, at best, a historical perspective of five centuries. In the "New Testament:" we are looking at a culture half-way around the world some 2,000 years ago. This same culture started some 4,000 years before that. Continuous in the same place for about 6,000 years is a people from which our faith springs.

I will quote some statements that will clarify my position. I trust these will help you to understand why I have the interest that I have and spark some interest in you as well.

"The Jews constitute but one percent of the human race. It suggests a nebulous dim puff of star dust lost in the blaze of the Milky Way. Properly, the Jew ought hardly to be heard of; but he is heard of, has always been heard of. He is as prominent on the planet as any other people...he has made a marvelous fight in this world, in all the ages; and has done it with his hands tied behind him...the Egyptian, the Babylonian, and the Persian rose, filled the planet with sound, and splendor, then faded to dream-stuff and passed away; the Greek and the Roman followed and made a vast noise, and they're gone; other peoples have sprung up and held their torch high for a time, but it burned out, and they sit in twilight now, or have vanished. The Jew saw them all, beat them all, and is now what he always was...all things are mortal but the Jew; all other forces pass, but he remains. What is the secret of his immortality?"- by Mark Twain

"To explore and understand the Jewish roots of our faith is to expand and to enrich our Christian experience. This premise is at the heart of the educational endeavors of Bet Emet Ministries, and other Ministries like it, that are restoring to the Church an appreciation of its full Hebrew heritage."

It is my hope to assist believers in developing a deeper, more intimate relationship with God through Yeshua His Messiah by way of the study of Hebrew language and culture.

The Babylonian Talmud (Sukkah 42A) states that Jewish boys were taught Deuteronomy 6:4 (Shema) as soon as they could speak. The Talmud specifies that "The father must teach him." Early sources suggest that this must have been the first portion from the Hebrew Bible that Yeshua committed to memory. We may assume that Joseph was responsible for fulfilling this task. This portion of scripture is known simply as "The Shema."

In HEBREW it is... "Shema Yisra'el Adoni Eloheynu Adoni Ehad"

In ENGLISH... "Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God, the Lord is One."

The Shema was to be recited first thing in the morning and last thing at night. Countless martyrs through the ages have died with the Shema as the last utterance from their lips, leaving this world with the proclamation of God the last words spoken. This is an affirmation of monotheism in opposition to a polytheistic environment. The Hebrews were/are to know there is only one God, not many.

Answer for yourself: From the beginning there were only two classes of people; Jews and Gentiles, those who believed in the one true God and everyone else...who, then, are we?

We believe in the one true God. This is a Hebrew concept. We are therefore no longer Gentiles, regardless of our ethnic or geographical background. We, in fact, are spiritually Jewish. Spiritual Hebrews. We have not replaced the Jews as some would have us believe, the Jews have not passed away or become irrelevant with the advent of "the Jewish Christ" seen in Jesus. Judaism, as an avenue to God for both the Jew as well as the "non-Jew", is just as valid today as it was 2,000 years ago. We as non-Jewish believers are now grafted into the root of the Olive Tree, Israel, according to the eleventh chapter of Romans.

Paul, or a later Pauline writer, teaches us that God did not reject His people, Romans 11:1-6. The elect obtained what Israel so earnestly sought, the rest rejected it, and because of this, salvation came to the Gentiles according to verses 7-12. This Pauline writer seeks to arouse the Jews to envy and save them. Verse 16 says that "If the root is holy, so are the branches." Paul declares that the root is holy! Furthermore, he declares that the grafted in branches are holy! We are not to despise the Jews, we are to embrace them. They are our spiritual kinsmen and, as such, we have much to learn from them. We as Christians and followers of "the Christ" have much to learn from our Jewish brothers, but it must be done in love and not from arrogance thinking that we are citadel of all truth when we carry forged Hebrew texts in our Bibles. We see that branches have been broken off and wild olive shoots are grafted in to the Olive Tree of Israel - we, Gentiles, and most likely Christians in the Western Hemisphere, have accepted God through the ministry of this "Jesus" and thereby are grafted into Biblical Judaism [not Christian denominationalism or non-denominationalism] - we do not support the root but the root supports us! We are warned not to be arrogant for if the natural branches were not spared, neither will the grafted in branches be spared. We are part of the same tree by grace, God is also able to engraft the natural branches again if they believe (verses 17-24.) The Christian Church is blinded to her Jewish heritage and Jewish Roots of her faith and has experienced a hardening in part until the full number of Gentiles have been saved (grafted in) and then all Israel will be saved. Understand that this Israel is a mixed multitude of "Jews" and "non-Jew". We are all candidates for mercy (verses 25-32.)

Quite simply said Paul said it best in the book of Ephesians. Notice this was written to the non-Jew and not the Jew. This is of utmost importance and remains so for the Gentile Christian today.

Eph 2:11-12 11 Wherefore remember, that ye (non-Jews) being in time past Gentiles in the flesh, who are called Uncircumcision by that which is called the Circumcision in the flesh made by hands; 12 That at that time ye were without Messiah, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world: (KJV)

After reading the above verse you can more easily understand why "salvation is of the Jews" and not the Church. The non-Jew has nothing apart from Israel and the Revelation of God given to them by the Jews

This is why I feel it is important to study our Jewish background. Christians are "grafted in Jews," [Christians are Israel and not Baptists, Methodists, Catholics, etc.]. We need to know who we are, where we come from and how we are to relate to our roots. Without this understanding, we can hardly expect to grasp the depth of the scripture. I would like to quote David Bivin and Roy Blizzard from their book Understanding the Difficult Words of Jesus:

"The writers are Hebrew, the culture is Hebrew, the religion is Hebrew, the traditions are Hebrew, and the concepts are Hebrew."

Answer for yourself: If this is true, shouldn't we try to know just who the Hebrews were and are today?

Answer for yourself: Should you not know about the fathers of your faith?

It is interesting that when Jesus was asked the greatest commandment in Mark 12:28-31, He answers by quoting The Shema, the very central core of his faith, Biblical Judaism, and not the "Apostle's Creed" nor the Baptist Faith and Message or some denominational faith and message statement which are so familiar with us today when few Christians have ever heard or know of the Shema!

This is something we need to ponder. Shalom.

THE "OTHER" FORGOTTEN MISSION FIELD: THE GENTILE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

"My little children, of whom I travail in birth again until Christ be formed in you," ( Ga. 4:19)

Saint Paul, the consummate missionary to the masses was also a missionary to the church. The word "missions" usually suggests an organized effort for declaring the redemptive gospel of Jesus in new frontiers. However, in the foregoing scripture the apostle Paul appears to identify another mission field seldom perceived as such --- the Church! It is such a mission that ministries like Bet Emet and others are called in these last days as the Bride needs preparation before being gathered unto the Bridegroom who stands at the door. The stains upon here wedding garment not only defile, but will preclude her from choice position come the Marriage Feast. It is to the "unwise virgins" we turn.

In stating that these early Gentile believers needed Christ "formed in them", Paul, in his Galatian letter, is not suggesting that the people be saved again or born again - again. It was not a case of "Godliness" being absent from their personal religious belief systems; but rather there was the absence and demonstration of the visible manifestation of "true" Godliness in the corporate setting of the local congregation. What a picture of the Gentile Christian Church as it exists today.

Answer for yourself: Did Paul say they needed "Jesus" formed in them or "Christ"?

Notice that Paul did not say they needed Jesus formed in them, but Christ --- there is a difference. The name Jesus means "savior", while Christ means the "anointed" word. The form of Christ is a Biblical pattern. The Galatians had forsaken their Godly heritage (which were the Biblical and Jewish ways taught them by Paul and others) and began taking up the "elements [ways] of the world." In this particular book, in chapter 4, verses 8-11, Paul reproached these Gentile "believers" specifically for having RETURNED TO AND ADOPTING ONCE AGAIN THE PAGAN CELEBRATION DAYS AND FESTIVAL DAYS OF THE GENTILES FROM WHICH THEY HAD PREVIOUSLY REPENTED AND TURNED AWAY FROM.

Answer for yourself: How can we be sure your right Pastor Craig and that Paul is not rebuking these Gentile believers for celebrating Jewish Holy Days and Sabbaths instead as my Pastor taught? How can be sure that Paul is not rebuking these Gentile "believers" for being "judaizers"?

Simply my dear brother we need only look to the terms recorded in the verses: How turn ye AGAIN!

Answer for yourself: Before Paul was able to minister the truths of Judaism to these "non-Jews" had they observed and kept Jewish observances? No.

Since addressing Gentile believers who previously before they "knew God and His ways" celebrated their own Gentile pagan days, and since coming to God who teaches in His Word the observance and celebration of Biblical Holy Days and Festivals [just happens to be Jewish...the Jews are His special people who adopted the Biblical Festival pattern at Sinai], it would be impossible for the Gentiles who previously did not know or observe "Jewish Days" to turn AGAIN unto them since never having them (THINK). The only possible explanation if you think before you speak, which I wish more Gentile Pastors of Churches would do, is that Paul was rebuking these Gentile believers for returning to their pagan days which they had previously abandoned when they turned to God and left their idols when shown God's salvation of the "non-Jew" within Judaism. Thus Paul was rebuking the Gentile Church for leaving Jewish Festivals [Biblical Festivals and the Pattern of Worship taught them] and for forsaking the Biblical Sabbaths, hence losing the "form and message of this Christ".

Simply said, and this fits perfectly, they need not return to pagan fornication rituals like "Easter" when God had expressed His will that the "non-Jews" voluntarily keep and observe the Passover like Abraham had done. What an example of a "non-Jew" living out the principles of Isa. 56 "by the Spirit" where he, not having to, was able to "choose those things that pleased God".

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that the "non-Jewish" believers observed and kept the Passover for several centuries long after the time of the New Testament Jesus?

Answer for yourself: Did the "non-Jews" of the earliest centuries of the Christian era know what we don't today; namely that God had given both the "Jew" and the "non-Jew" a "Pattern of Worship" to be shared among them whereby the two sticks in Joseph's hand could become one, thus breaking down the middle wall of partition among them? You bet they knew this and Constantine will go along way to destroy this "Pattern of Worship" and "dejudaise" the Christian Church and his efforts bear sad fruit even today.

THERE IS A LESSON IN THE GALATIAN LETTER FOR EVERY GENTILE CHRISTIAN CHURCH THAT EXISTS TODAY!

Our historic drift from the Judeo-Christian motifs of scripture into a Greko-Roman value system is evidenced by the absence of Judaic contours in the body of Christ today. However a Judeo-Christian awakening is occurring. A growing awareness that the foundations of Biblical faith are more accurately reflected in our Hebraic heritage is creating a renaissance in Christian thinking and understanding. Academics, Pastors, Church leaders, Biblical expositors, teachers and concerned Christians universally are beginning to re-evaluate the validity of many of our time-honored traditions and doctrinal concepts of traditional Christianity.

To question our Christian faith is not sinful if what we have inherited is WRONG! Failure to re-evaluate such "errors" taught as "truths" from our pulpits is SIN because it leads to disobedience and disobedience in "ignorance" is yet a sin. You only have to read Leviticus chapter 5 to see this as sacrifices had to be brought for sins committed that you were not even aware!

To follow in such unrighteous conduct and worship is when is disobey God's Laws and Commandments is both sin and sadly quite often idolatry. The tragic sad fact of the matter is that seldom have your pastors and teaches in Gentile Christianity studied the Jewish Roots of the religion they preach. Thus, unknowingly, the "blind" (congregations) follow the "blind" (uninformed teachers and pastors), as well as "unrepentant" pastors who refuse to bow their knees at correction and instruction when shown they are in error.

Answer for yourself: Am I describing your pastor and your church and possibly your experience?

These courageous individuals who have come to the knowledge of the truth, and who risk reputation and acceptance in preaching a message of repentance to the Body of Christ could be identified as restoration missionaries. They are awakening the Church to important biblical profiles and paths of obedience to God's Word so long overlooked by the Gentile Christian Church.

The effect of this awakening has shown a dramatic increase of interest in such things as the use of banners in worship, dancing in worship, the celebration of Biblical feast days and Sabbaths, drawing lessons from Biblical

Jewish customs and values that are impacting personal and family life to name a few. Yet there are some who express apprehension born out of a fear of Judaism and/or legalism.

May God hasten the day when something is judged, not by whether it is Jewish or traditionally Christian, but by whether or not it is Biblical centered and in agreement with the Law, the Writings, and the Prophets.

True! Many of these things are not essential to personal salvation, but they are essential to proper Biblical worship and spiritual growth as we conform to the image of Godliness by allowing the "Christ" be formed in us and not to Constantine who robbed us of our heritage and the true Message of God connected with this "Pattern of Worship". Let us return to the Jewish and Biblical heritage of our Christian faith, thereby anticipating and preparing for the day we will meet God face to face.

BREAKING DOWN THE MIDDLE WALL OF PARTITION... RETURNING TO OUR JEWISH ROOTS

It has always been God's intention to break down the middle wall of partition separating Jew and Gentile, thus uniting both Jew and Gentile as one with Him. It is God who is to be the Savior of the Gentiles (Isaiah 11:10, 42:6; Acts 2:39; Ephesians 2:11-18).

Isa. 11:10 And in that day there shall be a root of Jesse, which shall stand for an ensign of the people; to it shall the Gentiles seek: and his rest shall be glorious. {glorious: Heb. glory}

Isa. 42:6 I the LORD have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles;

Acts 2: 39 For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, [even] as many as the Lord our God shall call.

Eph 2:11 (KJV) Wherefore remember, that ye [being] in time past Gentiles in the flesh, who are called Uncircumcision by that which is called the Circumcision in the flesh made by hands; 12 That at that time ye were without Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world: 13 But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ. 14 For he is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition [between us]; 15 Having abolished in his flesh the enmity, [even] the law of commandments [contained] in ordinances; for to make in himself of twain one new man, [so] making peace; 16 And that he might reconcile both unto God in one body by the cross, having slain the enmity thereby: {thereby: or, in himself} 17 And came and preached peace to you which were afar off, and to them that were nigh. 18 For through him we both have access by one Spirit unto the Father.

THE GREAT SEPARATION BETWEEN JEW AND NON-JEW

Following the destruction of the Temple in 70 C.E., the assembly of Gentile Messianic Believers (Church) became more "Gentilized," thus Jews and Christians began to go their separate ways. It wasn't long before the synagogues in both Israel and Asia, Minor, were flooded with Gentile unbelievers who embraced the "Jewish faith" but never had a background in the Jewish faith. It is these Gentile "converts" who lacked the foundations of Torah and who at first saw the "customs of the Jews" as foreign. These Gentile "converts" would forget one important thing: Jewish often meant BIBLICAL! Because of this lack of understanding of the Jewish faith, and distrusting things that are often different, these Gentile "converts" brought their hatred and bigotry against the Jews with them into this new Jewish faith. About the same time, some of the genuine Gentile Christian leaders developed a faulty theology that created an anti-Semitic mentality in the Gentile Church that further divided the Christian world from the Jews. These early anti-Jewish declarations laid the foundation for the tragic future of Jewish Christian relations that would see the Gentile Church lose sight of its Jewish roots and persecute the Jews down through the centuries.

GOD IS DOING A NEW THING IN OUR DAY...WILL WE NOT SEE IT?

But in these last days, God is doing a marvelous thing. He is breaking down the walls of hate and misunderstanding that have divided the Jews and Gentile believers. He is sovereignly pouring out His Spirit on thousands of Jews to prepare them for the coming of the Messiah. At the same time, God is stirring in the hearts of Christians a holy love for the Jewish people and awakening them to the Jewish roots of their Christian faith.

Many Christians are realizing that the origin of our faith is Jerusalem, not Athens, Rome, Geneva, Wittenberg, Aldersgate, Azusa Street, Springfield, Nashville, Tulsa, etc.

As a result, Christian Churches around the world are reaching out to the Jewish people in their communities, singing songs from the Old Testament, rediscovering their Jewish roots and celebrating the Jewish Feasts as fulfilled in Yeshua. It is clearly God's appointed time to reconcile Jew and Gentile, binding us together by His Spirit.

THE CELEBRATION OF THE BIBLICAL FESTIVALS BY THE NON-JEWISH BELIEVER

Because of the prophetic season in which we are living, many Christian Churches are realizing that it is proper, good and pleasing to the Lord to celebrate the Jewish Feasts of Passover, Pentecost and Tabernacles (Romans 14:5-6).

Rom 14:5-6 5 One man esteemeth one day above another: another esteemeth every day alike. Let every man be fully persuaded in his own mind. 6 He that regardeth the day, regardeth it unto the Lord; and he that regardeth not the day, to the Lord he doth not regard it. He that eateth, eateth to the Lord, for he giveth God thanks; and he that eateth not, to the Lord he eateth not, and giveth God thanks. (KJV)

Not only that but when we study the original languages of the Bible, both Greek and Hebrew, we find that these Festivals are not merely suggested for the Gentiles to observe, but expected and commanded! [see Have We Misunderstood Paul and The Law].

THERE A NUMEROUS BENEFITS THAT ARE BEING EXPERIENCE BY CHURCHES WHO KEEP THE FESTIVALS

Some of these are:

- Better understanding of the Bible
- Rediscovery of the Jewish roots of Christianity
- Fuller comprehension of God's plan of redemption for all mankind
- Greater insights into God's prophetic seasons
- Clearer and more powerful teachings through visual aids

- Discovery of the true Biblical Calendar.

Answer for yourself: What Church that desires more of God would not want these benefits!

You can realize them in your own congregation by celebrating the Feasts.

GETTING STARTED...WITH THE PASSOVER

Historically, the Passover marks the national liberation of the Hebrews from Egyptian slavery. Pesach, the Hebrew name of the feast literally means "the lamb". God instructed each family to take an unblemished year-old male lamb to their home on the tenth day of the first month, Nisan. This corresponds to the months of March and April. They were to examine the lamb for four days to see that it was perfect. On the fourth day at twilight (the beginning of the fifth day), they were to kill the lamb and take some of the lamb's blood and place it on the two doorposts and the lintel of their house. On the first Passover, according to the Biblical text, the avenging angel of God killed every first born male throughout the land, from Pharaoh, to slave, to camel. The angel would "pass-over" those homes that protected themselves by placing the blood of a lamb on their doorposts and lintels.

Today the Feast of Passover is celebrated by Jewish people and "many" Christian churches around the world with a Passover Seder which commemorates the liberation from Egyptian slavery. This is a picture of the salvation provided by God to those who believe His Word and respond to it in faith and works. The Passover Seder is a meal with special foods, practices and Scripture readings. The Passover Seder commemorates the liberation from Egyptian slavery, in accordance with God's instructions (Lev. 23:1,4, Exodus 12:14,24-27).

- Lev. 23:1 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, ....
- Lev. 23:4 These [are] the feasts of the LORD, [even] holy convocations, which ye shall proclaim in their seasons.
- Exod. 12:14 And this day shall be unto you for a memorial; and ye shall keep it a feast to the LORD throughout your generations; ye shall keep it a feast by an ordinance for ever.
- Exod. 12:24 (KJV) And ye shall observe this thing for an ordinance to thee and to thy sons for ever. 25 And it shall come to pass, when ye be come to the land which the LORD will give you, according as he hath promised, that ye shall keep this service. 26 And it shall come to pass, when your children shall say unto you, What mean ye by this service? 27 That ye shall say, It [is] the sacrifice of the LORD'S Passover, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt, when he smote the Egyptians, and delivered our houses. And the people bowed the head and worshipped.

THE FEAST OF PENTECOST...SHAVUOT

The Feast of Pentecost is celebrated on the sixth day of the Hebrew month of Sivan. This corresponds to the months of May and June on the Gentile calendar.

Historically, the main activity on the Feast of Pentecost was the presentation of a wave offering to the Lord, two loaves of baked bread with leaven (Lev. 23:15-21). The wave offering expressed the Hebrews' dependence on God for the harvest and their daily bread. This was a thanksgiving offering.

Later when the Jews were dispersed among the nations, the Feast of Pentecost lost its primary significance as a harvest festival and was celebrated as a memorial to the time when God gave the law at Sinai. This is because the Jews have traditionally believed that God gave the law to Moses on the Day of Pentecost (Ex. 19:1,11).

- Exod. 19:1 In the third month, when the children of Israel were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the same day came they [into] the wilderness of Sinai.

- Exod 19:11 And be ready against the third day: for the third day the LORD will come down in the sight of all the people upon mount Sinai.

The Day of Pentecost did not originate with Christianity, but it is the day when the Jews would be in Jerusalem to celebrate the Feast and the giving of the Law of God to Moses and the nation of Israel.

From Luke's account in Acts 2 we see the marvelous timing of God. Thousands of Jews had journeyed to Jerusalem to celebrate the Feast of Pentecost. The New Testament texts inform us that it was then that many Jew, waiting in the upper room, were filled with the Holy Spirit. They then began to worship God and a miracle occurred; foreign pilgrims from all over the world who had made a pilgrimage to Jerusalem to keep this commanded Feast, has their "ears" and "understanding" opened and they were able to understand Peter speaking in the Hebrew language although they had not prior understanding of the Jewish language. This is in reality the reverse of the curse of Babel when God confused the languages of man. This marked this event and the commemoration of God giving his Laws and Torah to both "Jew" and "Gentile". There was such a loud noise accompanying this experience, that it attracted the attention of the Jewish visitors who went to see what the commotion was all about. Peter then stood up and preached a bold sermon to this Jewish crowd.

This outpouring of the Holy Spirit was taking place on the very day when the Jews were offering the two wave loaves to God and celebrating the law symbolizing their dependence on God.

Answer for yourself: Why were there "two" loaves and what is their significance?

One wave loaf symbolized the "Jews" and the other the "Gentiles" who would also receive the Holy Spirit in like manner as recorded in Acts 10 when we see the "Second Pentecost" when God performed this "same" miracle to a "non-Jew" named Cornelius.

Answer for yourself: What was the significance of that? It was momentous. Now, in spite of the "anti-Gentile" teaching and preaching of the major Pharisee School in Israel led by R. Shammai, God had performed this "same" miracle once performed among "Jews only" and now God was teaching the whole of Israel that God loved the "non-Jew" as He did the "Jews" and that God made no distinction between the two peoples and neither should the Jewish nation. That is when Peter had the biggest revelation of his whole life; namely, he saw that there truly was no division between all the peoples of God, Jew or Gentile, and:

*Acts 10:34-35 34 Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons: 35 But in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him (God) (KJV)

No longer, once this event was informed of the spiritual leaders of Israel, could bigoted Jews like Shammai and his followers enforce circumcision upon adult "non-Jewish" males and full conversion for them to be accepted in the "Israel of God". This revelation would come to a head in Acts 15 when James would give his ruling that the "non-Jews" who were turning to God from idols are no longer required to make full conversion to Judaism as had been done before but were only required to adhere to their Covenant of Noah which God had originally given them in the beginning of time. But Israel would yet remain divided between the followers of R. Shammai and R. Hillel on this issue. This was a major, major event in the history of Israel and Israel's failure to turn from the dictates of R. Shammai and his "anti-Gentile" philosophy would later be one of the major reasons for the judgement of God falling upon the nation in 70 A.D. when they lose their Temple and are scattered into the "nation" that they had previously "detested". Israel failed to obey the Second Tablet of the law and this lack of love for their "non-Jewish" brothers will be their downfall. God always judges the sins of the Second Tablet of the Law much harsher than failure and sins of the First Tablet of the Law.

THE FEAST OF TABERNACLES (SUKKOT)

The last major feast on the Jewish calendar is Tabernacles. It is celebrated in the Fall in the Jewish month of Tishri, which corresponds to the month of September/October on the Gentile calendar.

The Feast of Tabernacles came at the final ingathering of the harvest season. The fruit of the land had been reaped so the people could rest from their labors. It was a time of great rejoicing and was celebrated from the fifteenth to the twenty-first. Then on the twenty-second (the eighth day), there was a special Sabbath which was a day of rest characterized by further rejoicing (Lev. 23:33-41).

Levi 23:33 (KJV) And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, 34 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, The fifteenth day of this seventh month [shall be] the feast of tabernacles [for] seven days unto the LORD. 35 On the first day [shall be] an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work [therein]. 36 Seven days ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: on the eighth day shall be an holy convocation unto you; and ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: it [is] a solemn assembly; [and] ye shall do no servile work [therein]. {solemn...: Heb. day of restraint} 37 These [are] the feasts of the LORD, which ye shall proclaim [to be] holy convocations, to offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, a burnt offering, and a meat offering, a sacrifice, and drink offerings, every thing upon his day: 38 Beside the Sabbaths of the LORD, and beside your gifts, and beside all your vows, and beside all your freewill offerings, which ye give unto the LORD. 39 Also in the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when ye have gathered in the fruit of the land, ye shall keep a feast unto the LORD seven days: on the first day [shall be] a Sabbath, and on the eighth day [shall be] a Sabbath. 40 And ye shall take you on the first day the boughs of goodly trees, branches of palm trees, and the boughs of thick trees, and willows of the brook; and ye shall rejoice before the LORD your God seven days. {boughs of goodly trees: Heb. fruit of, etc} 41 And ye shall keep it a feast unto the LORD seven days in the year. [It shall be] a statute for ever in your generations: ye shall celebrate it in the seventh month.

The primary activity during this feast is the building of booths or shelters (Sukkah). God commanded the Hebrews to build shelters to live in during the Feast as a reminder of how He cared for them during their wilderness wanderings and the fact that they were pilgrims passing through this life (Lev. 23:42-44).

Levi 23:42 (KJV) Ye shall dwell in booths seven days; all that are Israelites born shall dwell in booths: 43 That your generations may know that I made the children of Israel to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I [am] the LORD your God. 44 And Moses declared unto the children of Israel the feasts of the LORD.

The shelters were loosely constructed and decorated and the roof covered with branches. This allowed the Hebrews to see through the roof into heaven and be reminded of an even greater rest and rejoicing when Messiah would rule on the earth. Thus, the Feast of Tabernacles symbolizes the Messianic age.

The Feast of Tabernacles has such universal significance in God's redemptive program, that He requires all nations to go to Jerusalem to celebrate this feast in the world to come (Zech. 14:16).

Zech. 14:16 And it shall come to pass, [that] every one that is left of all the nations which came against Jerusalem shall even go up from year to year to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, and to keep the feast of tabernacles.

I rejoice to see the many thousands of Gentile believers which are returning to the Biblical Roots of their faith in this day and time as a sign of the prophetic season in which we are living.

WHAT SHOULD THE BIBLICAL FESTIVALS MEAN TO THE CHRISTIAN...AND HOW CAN I BREAK DOWN THIS MIDDLE WALL OF PARTITION MYSELF?

I am aware that many teach that the Festivals were supposedly "spiritually" fulfilled in the life and ministry of the New Testament Jesus. Much of that understanding is taken from the Gospel of John and other passages in the New Testament. It is not my intent here to discuss such a matter, but when one undergoes a serious and intensive study of the New Testament as compared with the Old Testament and Hebrew Scriptures for accuracy one is saddened by the gross misapplication of Old Testament passages, mistranslation of Old Testament passages, and the hundreds of Old Testament passages taken out of context in the New Testament, let alone "invented" out of thin air, which are purposefully manipulated in such a manner to become supposedly "proofs" that Jesus fulfilled the Old Testament prophetic passages and the Biblical Feasts. It would take a whole website to teach and show this purposeful corruption and misapplication of the Hebrew Scriptures in order to make the New Testament Jesus the Jewish Messiah and "fulfiller of supposed Messianic prophecies". I have studied this out in detail over the years and make, for the reader and student, detailed comparisons of these altered Hebrew Scriptures when compared with the later Greek and English translations which we, as Christians and followers of "the Christ", received in our New Testaments given us by Rome. A website awaits your study in this area when you find the time and courage to tackle this huge problem head on. This is no fun for the Christian who has been brought up with forged texts in his Bible but necessary if you ever hope to come to the truth about this Jesus and "the Christ" and how Rome "reinterpreted" everything in the 3-5th centuries in their attempt to give the world a "replacement" religion in their hatred of the Jews. All you will need to do these studies is a Hebrew Tanakh, Bible, and I strongly recommend the Stone Edition Tanakh (<http://www.artscroll.com>) or a JPS Tanakh (<http://www.bibliofind.com>), a Greek-English translation of the Old Testament, called the Septuagint, and a good KJV in order to trace the Hebrew texts and their corruption as they were fraudulently altered in both the later Greek and English versions of our Bibles (both Old and New Testaments). I strongly recommend as well that you try to find a book by Lillian Freudmann, entitled Antisemitism in the New Testament. It was while reading this book the "middle wall of partition" separating the Jew from the "non-Jew" crumbled before me. She is the one who opened my eyes to this great deception in my Christian Bible which had given me a false mission in the world to "convert" the Jew to Christianity and the Christian Jesus. Don't believe anything she says, but prove each thing she says, like I did, not wanting to believe anything she said for surely it "could not be true" I reasoned since in the middle of my very successful pastorate in my mega church in Dallas, Texas. Surely God would not have allowed me to arise to my position with my leather chain and seat on the platform before multitudes of people with a "false gospel". But He did. By doing the comparisons of these Hebrew, Greek, and English Old and New Testament texts, and personally tracing the corruption of the Hebrew texts down through the later Greek and later English versions of the Bible we were given by Rome I saw, as will you, "the truth" for myself for the first time in my life. If you do this long and involved study then you have the joy of knowing that no man can lie to you about God, His Message, and His true Messiah ever again! Besides that, you will have a greater appreciation for the "Jewish Roots" of the Christian faith which have been concealed and kept from you.

Answer for yourself: Why is this study so necessary and important for the Christian to do?

In so doing you are actively "breaking down this middle wall of partition" between the Jew and "non-Jew" which was artificially raised by Rome and which she maintains to this day by her false texts in the Bible she gave the world.

I used to raise this middle wall of partition myself by preaching a "false gospel" and a "false salvation" message because my Bible taught me to by drilling into me my whole life purposefully forged and corrupted texts. I, like you, believed that the Festivals and Feasts, which are but a part of the "Pattern of Worship" given Israel had "passed away" with the "New" Testament of Rome. But now, after years of serious study, where I compared line upon line of Old Testament texts with New Testament texts, I see the error of my previous Christian religious belief system. I had put my faith in the wrong document. To twist the Old Testament, the Hebrew

Scriptures, and do great injustice to God's Holy Word in order to "force" an interpretation is no longer an option for me. Nor should it be for you as well!

THE PLAN OF GOD'S SALVATION AS SEEN IN THE BIBLICAL FESTIVALS

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that in these Hebrew and Jewish Festivals and Feasts God has inscribed His "true message" of salvation for all of mankind; both Jew and "non-Jew"?

Most likely not but understand I am not referring to a "Christian-Messianic" reinterpretation of these Festivals and Feasts as done by Messianic Christianity today. We must not forget that we make such an erroneous interpretation, a Christian Messianic interpretation applied to these Festivals, by going off of forged, adulterated, manipulated, fabricated, and doctored texts to which most are not aware. Not only that in order for this to happen we have to "literalize" the Christ which the earliest Christians never did. Only later will Rome "literalize" and "carnalize" this Christ in the second century and afterwards.

Having said that, then let me explain the plan of salvation as seen in the Biblical Festivals in the Bible the Jews read in the first century. God makes His salvation available through faith as pictured in the physical salvation of Israel from Egypt. Words accompany such belief for had not Israel responded accurately to their faith and failed to apply the blood to their door "as commanded" then they would likewise have died. Salvation always has come and will always come by "faith in God". Faith without obedience and "works" we learn is a "dead faith". A "saving faith" always responds in obedience to God and His Word. Thus, once we are saved at our personal "Passover" one comes to Unleavened Bread as it is time to get the "leaven" (picture of sin in the Bible) or sin out of our lives. We must repent of the error of our ways when compared to this Word of God in the Hebrew Scriptures and the Torah. This involves the "sanctification" of one's life whereby we make ourselves, through repentance and obedience to the Word of God, acceptable vessels for God's Spirit to inhabit. We are to be experientially the Temple of the Holy Spirit. God's Spirit comes to such a one in the fulfillment of Pentecost. We then leave the first harvest season during the year and encounter the dry period between the Festival year as seen in the example of Israel. This is but a symbol for our life lived out on a daily basis. We have had the "mountain-top" experience and now it is time to live out "whom we have become" in God. This "dry" period is where the rubber meets the road in our daily lives. Once we are saved, cleansed, and filled with God's Spirit, we are equipped by God to live out our lives where we must deal with the good and the bad as we encounter them in life. Each day is an opportunity to grow in God as we further sanctify ourselves "in the Spirit" of truth and righteousness. Sometimes life is hard as seen in this "dry season" following our personal Pentecost; yet we have the Spirit of HaShem to comfort and sustain us in the valleys of life. Time marches on as we move through life. The next Festival given Israel by God is Rosh HaShannah which symbolizes our death at the end of our life and resurrection into a higher and new life following this one. It is appointed for man to once die and then the judgment which is also a second part of Rosh HaShannah. After the resurrection at Rosh HaShannah mankind is to experience the judgment and hopefully the reward for living a "God-centered" life whereby his Soul is elevated by continual repentance and obedience through that "dry period" of life, that daily walk from our personal Pentecost to our personal Rosh HaShannah. Following the judgment of God we experience our final atonement at Yom Kippur. Judaism, the religion of the "Jewish Christ" teaches that man makes atonement for his sins by obedience to the Second Tablet of the Law. There were no sacrifices in the Temple for sins of the Second Tablet of the Laws of Moses. This is not known by many but again stresses the importance for repentance in our lives; a repentance and restitution that provides atonement and prepares us for our final judgment at our personal Yom Kippur. Next, the only thing lacking is the eternal dwelling of the Spirit of God with mankind at the Festival of Tabernacles. This is the eternal Sabbath where God and man are one for all Eternity.

Now this is only a summary to say the least of what the Biblical Festivals reveal...the Plan of Salvation of God. If the "non-Jew" knew the truth about his Bible and the truth contained in God's salvation message given to Israel and which lies beneath the surface of the Biblical Festivals and Feasts then he can certainly make "his calling and election certain''.

Answer for yourself: Something is missing here? Did you notice?

And if you noticed, this plan is very understandable to the Jew and non-Jew without trying to "force" a New Testament Jesus to fulfill passages that honestly yet remain unfulfilled according to the unforged Hebrew Scriptures

It is these Biblical Festivals, correctly understood as given above, which will further enable the Jew and the "non-Jew" to break down this middle wall of partition that separate them today.

If you would like to more detailed study on the Salvation Plan of God in the Biblical Festivals then I suggest that you follow the link.

DOES YOUR CHURCH PREACH AND CONTEND FOR "THE" FAITH ONCE DELIVERED UNTO THE SAINTS?

Ironically, the New Testament exhorts Christians to "contend for the faith once delivered" to the saints.

Jude 1:3 3 Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints. (KJV)

- Answer for yourself: What was "this" faith, when was it delivered, and who delivered it, and to whom?
- Answer for yourself: Do you agree with some Christians that the teachings expressed by the founder of their church are unchangeable?

However, simple analysis surely dispels this notion.

- Answer for yourself: Why, for example, so many Christian denominations? There are over 2,000 different competing and conflicting Christian "denominations" and "non-denominations" today in the world. That makes it rather hard to find this one faith, "the" faith once delivered to these earlier saints.

Yet we are told again in this New Testament that there exists this "one" faith.

Eph 4:5 5 One Lord, one faith, one baptism, (KJV)

- Answer for yourself: Were all these Christian leaders "inspired" in their widely different doctrinal directions and beliefs concerning this New Testament Jesus? Were they all led to different conclusion and religious dogmas and doctrines by the same Holy Spirit?
- Answer for yourself: And if they claim inspiration why do they sometimes admit error--evidenced by a doctrinal change?
- Answer for yourself: Isn't it just possible, therefore, that the "great teacher" simply got it wrong--or only partially right?
- Answer for yourself: Was he (or she) infallible?
- Answer for yourself: Did he claim Divine inspiration? Some have.
- Answer for yourself: But could his view perhaps be colored by his background, by prejudice, by limited scholarship or simple lack of access to all the facts? Did he study enough before he got behind a pulpit? Did his zeal substitute for knowledge?
- Answer for yourself: Could he even have deliberately set out to deceive? Some have.

Few Christians would quarrel with Jude's exhortation to "carry on a vigorous defense of the faith that was once for all entrusted to God's people" (Jude 3). It is surely a praiseworthy goal to which all of us should aspire. But we must be quite clear on what it means!

We are exhorted in Scripture to grow in knowledge.

Answer for yourself: Doesn't this imply that we may have imperfect knowledge of "truth"?

Answer for yourself: Is it possible that truth, garnered in one generation, can be buried through persecution, martyrdom, deception and lost to the next generation? And later be rediscovered?

No church can remain as some kind of doctrinal fossil!

In fact, my original questions as to what was that faith, when was it delivered, and who delivered it are at the heart of the matter. Let's consider them.

WHO IS RIGHT...THE JEWS OR THE CHRISTIANS?

Specific "doctrines" the Bible teaches is largely irrelevant in this study except for the mention of a few. My goal is for you as Gentile believers to see for yourself what you have not been taught and its importance in personally defining truth for you in your spiritual walk. It is our hope at Bet Emet Ministries that you, having evaluated and will study out this information for yourself. If you do then you will see that the Law of God has not passed away as many of you have been taught, but instead, continues today as a yardstick that should determine our religious belief system. It is our hope that you will see that this Law, God's Law, when obeyed in your love for God, will instruct you to properly worship the Father in Spirit and Truth by revealing God's intention for both Jews and Gentile believers to observe and celebrate the Biblical Feasts and Sabbaths, as well as instruct you how your finances and tithes must be used in building the Kingdom of God.

The central fact is that there is a single, specific body of belief, of teaching (doctrine), that is "true" Christianity as opposed to a "false" Christianity. A study of the twentieth century's two thousand-plus Christian denominations goes a long way in revealing the conflict and competition between them is based on a multiplicity of contrasting doctrines.

Answer for yourself: Can the Holy Spirit be responsible for guiding professed Christians such as Adolph Hitler, Jim Jones, Pope John Paul, and David Koresh, let alone the Church of England and the Brethren Church and the Mormons and the Jehovah's Witnesses -- and the Church of God, International [even your denomination] with so much disagreement in beliefs among them?

- Answer for yourself: Can the Holy Spirit be responsible for guiding this maze of millions of Christians from these thousands of conflicting denominations and religious belief systems who have it seems only one thing in common... that they name themselves by the name of Jesus?
- Answer for yourself: Do the Scriptures in our New Testament, which are supposedly "given by inspiration of God" (II Timothy 3:16), teach one group to baptize infants, and another to sprinkle infants and immerse only adults?
- Answer for yourself: Do the Scriptures in our New Testament, which are supposedly "given by inspiration of God" (II Timothy 3:16), teach one group to insist on salvation by faith alone while another demands "works" also?
- Answer for yourself: Do the Scriptures in our New Testament, which are supposedly "given by inspiration of God" (II Timothy 3:16), teach one group to venerate images or the crucifix, another to abhor them?
- Answer for yourself: Do the Scriptures in our New Testament, which are supposedly "given by inspiration of God" (II Timothy 3:16), teach one group to speak in tongues, another to regard this as demonic?
- Answer for yourself: Do the Scriptures in our New Testament, which are supposedly "given by inspiration of God" (II Timothy 3:16), teach one group to celebrate the mass and another to consider it pagan?
- Answer for yourself: Do the Scriptures in our New Testament, which are supposedly, "given by inspiration of God" (II Timothy 3:16), teach one group to observe Easter and others to shun its paganism and observe Passover as Moses commanded?
- Answer for yourself: Do the Scriptures in our New Testament, which are supposedly "given by inspiration of God" (II Timothy 3:16), teach one group to observe and celebrate pagan holidays in the church to which we have affixed the name of Jesus and others to shun them as abominations and observe Biblical Feasts and Sabbaths as God commanded of both Jews and Gentiles?

Notice these examples are taken from mainstream Christianity. Include other groups claiming to be Christian and we could also contrast those who observe Sunday with those who consider the seventh day as the Sabbath (many millions of Christians, in fact!); those who keep Christmas and Easter with those who consider these festivals pagan; trinitarians with non-trinitarians; the immortal soul concept with "soul sleep"--almost ad infinitum!

There is one thing for certain...both camps cannot be right and somewhere between both camps is the truth whereby, if we can obtain it, we can be assured of worshipping the Father in Spirit and in Truth.

Answer for yourself: Do you, a typical Christian, possess the knowledge whereby you can discern between truth and error perpetrated in the name of God when reading your Bible?

Answer for yourself: With such variation--who is right? Is anyone?

Answer for yourself: And if all conflicting "religious doctrines" represent "the truth" (and do any proclaim themselves to be teaching error?) where does that place the Holy Spirit? Should we blame God for such conflicts?

Answer for yourself: Is the Spirit perhaps confused? Clearly not.

*There is only one expression of the truth, of the mind of God. Paul wrote:
"There is ...One Spirit, One Faith..." Eph. 4:5*

The challenge, surely, is for the Church of God to extract the nuggets of truth from the Scriptures! That is where truth lies. Not from added traditions, not from the ravings of some prophet or prophetess, not from long-hidden plates dug from a mountain-side, nor from hoary traditions of "the Fathers."

Sanity and stability can return only when we recognize that we dare not add to, or detract from the Word of God as expressed in the Hebrew Scriptures, the Jewish Old Testament! When once considers the purposeful hundreds of mistranslations, misquotations, and misapplication of Old Testament Scriptures in the New Testament there is only one conclusion the "thinking believer" can have:

Only in the Old Testament lies "the faith once delivered to the saints"

THE HOLY SCRIPTURES

First, let's look at the writings of our "Old Testament."

Few Christians would challenge the idea that these writings of the Old Testament represent the foundation of New Testament teachings. For example, there are in the New Testament over six hundred direct quotations and references to the Old Testament. But what few Christians are aware of, unless they have studied the issue for themselves, is that numerous of these "quoted" Old Testament texts are purposefully misquoted, mistranslated, misapplied and some even invented out of thin air as used in the New Testament by the writers who applied them in such ways to suit their antisemitic and anti-Judaic "agenda". This means that there is a lot of teachings in the New Testament that is not rooted in the "Holy Scriptures"--that is, the thirty-nine books into which modern versions of the Old Testament are divided. Although one must be cautious in reading the New Testament for truth because of these error, much in the New Testament is of value and Divine Truths of God are within it....in "places". Discernment is the "key" and this comes by knowledge. But one must have knowledge of such errors and be able to recognize them if one is to read the New Testament with discernment; separating truth from error. This will require your personal study, make no mistake in that.

Indeed, Paul, or as believed by modern scholars a later pro-Pauline writer, wrote to his "pupil" Timothy that these same Holy Scriptures (that we call the Old Testament) are "inspired by God, and useful for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for training in doing what is right" (II Timothy 3:16). The first Christians initially had no other writings from which to learn the truth! At Thessalonica they were commended by Paul for "carrying on a daily study of the Scriptures [i.e., the Old Testament]" to see if Paul's message were true (Acts 17:11). This is hardly the view of most twentieth century Christians!

Acts 17:11 11 These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so. (KJV)

The New Testament "Christ", himself, identified these Scriptures as "the Law of Moses, the Prophets and the Psalms" (Luke 24:44-45). In the language of those times, He thus described the entirety of what Protestants today call the "Old Testament" and which Judaism terms the "Holy Scriptures."

Luke 24:44-45 44 And he said unto them, These are the words which I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, that all things must be fulfilled, which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets, and in the psalms, concerning me (the Christ). 45 Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the scriptures, (KJV)

The Hebrew Scriptures, and not the later altered Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures, is certainly a reliable source for discovering "the faith once delivered to the saints." Without it the writings of the New Testament would be largely gobbledygook and incomprehensible! Yet most Christians all but ignore it and relegate it to history's dust bin. Few pastors and teachers teach from it in their churches today, unless of course they are taking up an offering, then Malachi gets a "work out".

INSPIRED NEW TESTAMENT? INFALLIBLE? INERRANT?

Here is how the problem developed and which plagues us today as non-Jewish believers who have Bibles containing the Old Testament Scriptures as well as the New Testament passages. The primitive Church of God relied on the Old Testament writings, but supplemented by the words--through letters and sermons--of the apostles and prophets. Many teach that God was directly inspiring these men to lay the foundation of Christianity through the writings of the New Testament.

Answer for yourself: But to these we must ask: "Did God lead these men to misquote, mistranslate, take out of context, and misapply the Old Testament in order to promote "truth"? THINK....I think not!

Wrote Paul to the Ephesian Christians: "for you are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself the cornerstone" (Ephesians 2:20). Indeed Paul claims that the words he spoke were "in words taught by the Holy Spirit" (I Corinthians 2:13).

Answer for yourself: Were they?

Today it is very hard to determine because of the above mistranslations and misquotations that abound in the New Testament and especially in Paul's writings. One thing is for certain: either Paul is guilty of such errors or those who came after him who altered his writings (presuming they were not incorrect at the time) and needed Pauline authority for their antisemitic and anti-Judaic doctrines in Rome's theology spread throughout our New Testaments. My other website deals with this subject matter extensively and I suggest you investigate for yourself.

In his final counsel to the disciples prior to his death, Jesus is supposed to have said, "when the Spirit of truth comes, he will guide you into the whole truth" (John 16:13). He also told them, "But the Counselor, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, he will teach you all things, and bring to your remembrance all that I have said to you" (14:26).

Many look to these verses and claim that the Holy Spirit enabled the writers of the New Testament to preach and teach--and later to have written down--the whole counsel of God. These writers of the New Testament contend that they were inspired to perfectly recall all that the Jewish Christ taught them during his three and a half year or one year ministry (depends on what Gospel you read) --and also that burning instruction imparted to them in the nearly six weeks following his resurrection (Luke 24:32, Acts 1:3). Indeed throughout their lives we are taught that the Holy Spirit guided them writes of the New Testament into all truth.

Answer for yourself: Once you see the hundreds of conflicts in the New Testament as compared to the Old Testament you need ask yourself only this: "Is the Holy Spirit" responsible for such misquotations of God's Word as found in the New Testament or was it men who purposefully wrote to deceive the "non-Jews" and lead them away from Biblical Judaism? What a question!

It was therefore to these men and by these means and at that time that the entire structure of Christian belief was laid! The sad fact is that almost the entire structure of Christian belief was laid in error when you compare what they wrote with the source texts from which they supposedly drew in the Hebrew Scriptures.

Paul urged the young evangelist Timothy to entrust to reliable men the same teachings Paul had imparted (II Timothy 2:2).

2 Tim 2:2 2 And the things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also. (KJV)

Having seen previously that Paul taught the Old Testament, then there was no room for variety of belief in the fundamentals of the faith!

Answer for yourself: But can that be said for today, and is the New Testament responsible for such chaos and confusion that exists today in the over 2000 different denominations which all claim to follow the "one and same Jesus"?

Let us never forget that the early church of Jerusalem continued steadfastly in the Apostle's doctrine (the Old Testament and its doctrines...the "One" faith once given to the saints) and not in every wind of doctrine as we see today (Acts 2:42)

Answer for yourself: Do you have and does your church, one of those two thousand conflicting and contrasting denominations, have the Apostle's Doctrine and how can you be sure?

Answer for yourself: Do you want to know what this Jewish "Christ" taught as opposed to the replacement religion we so often find in the New Testament epistles?

Answer for yourself: Have you ever compared what the Jews and the New Testament Jesus believed in the first century and what you have been taught today in your Christian theology? Are there differences, and if so, have you every wondered why the original Gospel of the Jewish Jesus, as compared with the Gospel of the Romanized Paul, changed and who is responsible for the change?

Look to the Old Testament and not to your church's doctrine for truth...because they are not often the same!

Answer for yourself: Ought you to accept a "new" teaching that Christianity has never taught you? Only if it is perfectly in harmony with the writings of the Hebrew Scriptures. This is where your personal study is of such value.

Answer for yourself: And should you, when having what you considered once to be spiritual truths, now upon your personal study are shown to be nothing more than the traditions of men which replaced the commandments of God, abandon your traditional teachings or doctrines of your church when they can be shown to be in error? I surely believe you should.

Only when the change in dogma and doctrine is clearly proven, without a shadow of doubt from your personal study, to be corrupted from what the true Hebrew Scriptures taught, should one repent of their former Christian beliefs and turn to the newly discovered "Divine Truths" from your personal study.

NO INFALLIBLE TEACHERS

Having said all of that, in our day we need both the Old Testament and the New Testament; even with the many mistakes within it.

There are no living witnesses to the life and words of this Jewish Christ. Not since the death of the apostle John at the end of the first Christian century have there been living apostles whose words are directly inspired by God. The leadership of the churches of God are "inspired" in their words and teachings only as they reflect the written Word of God....the Hebrew Scriptures and the Jewish Old Testament. There are, today, no infallible teachers! Sadly, though, there are many who assume such a role. And many thousands who willingly and gullibly are deceived by their claims!

Too often Christians will flit to a new but powerfully presented doctrine without thorough examination of the Bible texts! Paul urged, "Prove all things. Hold fast to what is good" (I Thessalonians 5:21). I highly recommend that for that is what I had to do after Seminary having left there knowing that something was "wrong" and I could not put my finger on it at that time. In time, after serious personal study, for a great time, would amass the knowledge necessary to know the problem thoroughly which was but "blurred" in Seminary. Elsewhere he said: "For a time is coming when men will not tolerate wholesome instruction, but, wanting to have their ears tickled, they will find a multitude of teachers to satisfy their own fancies, and will close their ears to the truth and will turn away to fables" (I Timothy 4:3). Wow, what an indictment on the antisemitic Gentile Christian Church today.

COULD YOU BELIEVE A LIE, AND HAVE YOU DONE SO ALREADY AND NOT KNOW IT?

The apostle Paul gave a solemn warning that's of special application today. Writing to the church at Thessalonica about the crisis at the close of this age--our day--he warned of a coming time of worldwide deception perpetrated by a "lawless man." This wretched being "is produced by the spirit of evil and armed with all the force, wonders and signs that falsehood can devise. To those involved in this dying world he will come with evil's undiluted power to deceive, for they have refused to love the truth which could have saved them" (II Thessalonians 2:9,10).

I need but remind you that the Jewish Christ said "Your Word is truth" (John 17:17)!

If we fail to measure our beliefs against the yardstick of the divinely inspired Word of the Living God as found in the Hebrew Scriptures and the Jewish Old Testament, then we are in deep trouble considering the forgery of the Christian Bibles. For the apostle Paul went on to tell the Thessalonian Christians that for those who don't love the truth "God sends upon them, therefore, the full force of evil's delusion so that they put their faith in an utter fraud"!

A fearful warning indeed.

Failure to love and study God's Word leads to a fatal creeping spiritual dementia in which we end up believing downright lies.

Answer for yourself: Do you "love the truth"?

Answer for yourself: Are you willing to compare your current Christian religious beliefs with the inspired Word of God as found in the Hebraic Scriptures, the Law, the Writings, and the Prophets?

Answer for yourself: When you hear "new doctrine"--from whatever source--are you, like the Bereans (Acts 17:11), eager to "search the Scriptures, the Hebrew Scriptures, [for the Bereans this meant the Old Testament!] to see if these things were so"?

Answer for yourself: Or do you simply accept your church's teachings without question?

In the Hebrew Scriptures, the Jewish Bible protected and security by the blood of millions of Jews, God has given us all we need to know about Himself, about the way of salvation, about how we ought to behave to assure our acceptance with Him. Admittedly there are areas where the fine details are cause for legitimate debate. But the broad brushstrokes of vital truth are clear for all who have the spiritual eye to see. It is there for us to prove--personally!

Yet virtually the whole of Christianity feeds off traditional teachings that are pure falsified and purposefully altered Hebrew Scriptures gift-wrapped in Christian clothing...never comparing their "traditional religious beliefs systems" with the true Hebrew Scriptures and the faith of the Jewish Christ

Answer for yourself: Where do you get your beliefs? the Jewish Hebrew Scriptures, the Bible Jews like this New Testament Jesus would have used or the Bible of Rome which its copious adulterations and forgeries of these Hebrew texts?

Answer for yourself: How do they compare with the Scriptures this Jewish Jesus would have used and considered "infallible"?

Answer for yourself: Are you certain your view of Christian doctrine isn't just a veneer of Bible-sounding words does you church preach and contend for "the" faith once delivered to the saints?

that hide ancient lies? Let all of us who claim to be followers of this "Jewish Jesus" and "the Christ" fine-tune our love for the truth, and earnestly contend for the faith once delivered to the church in the Holy Hebrew Scriptures!

And if you are not yet committed to this Jewish Christ and to his teachings, you are invited to investigate further.

True Biblical Faith is built on the foundation of sound Bible knowledge and not off hearsay or purposeful mistranslations, misquotations, and misapplications of the Holy texts of the Old Testament...without this knowledge and understanding you could "believe" yet be "deceived"

Bet Emet Ministries publishes a wide range of titles which highlight the core teachings of the Hebrew Scripture as free from faulty human tradition as we know how!

Before your proceed any further let me forewarn you that "cherished lies and man's traditions" will be shown in the light of the Hebrew Scripture as understood in the original languages, along with historical and cultural verification, and exposed by the light of the truth for what they truly are....lies which have robbed you of a more authentic Biblical life-style and a life more pleasing before God. May we all commit ourselves before God to contend for the faith once given to the saints. Shalom.

RECOVERING TRUTH BY COMING TO A CORRECT UNDERSTANDING JESUS AND THE TRUE MESSAGE OF GOD

Many modern scholars today teach us the following:

Jesus and all his followers were Jews who were faithful to Biblical Judaism and never intended to separate from or start a new religion; after their deaths the Gentile Christian church will condemn the Jewish Christians as heretics...in time fruit of the Jewish Church (Gentile Christianity) will destroy it's mother

We have a unique paradox in Biblical history; one which touches every follower of Jesus and "the Christ" yet today and which reaches to the very core of our own culture and time. It is impossible to understand Jesus, "the Christ", or his message until we come to a correct understanding of the events that fashioned such persecution of the Jews by the Gentile believers and which contributed to the alteration of the faith of Jesus as can be found to have existed in the earliest centuries following the destruction of the Temple in the first century of Second Temple Judaism. As stated in an earlier article the first and greatest division that faced the Jerusalem assembly was the Gentile problem in Asia, Minor and this, if you recall, concerned the relationship of the "non-Jewish" believers in the God of Israel through the ministry of Paul and their relationship toward Judaism; it shaped everything that was to follow. One of the greatest problems facing Christianity today is how to reconcile what it has become since these earliest centuries when it was not "antisemitic" in doctrine and practice. We today must consider God's intended vision for the Gentile nations of the world whereby they were to become part of the "Israel of God" in these earliest centuries and not part of a "replacement religion of Rome's later creation. The answers for such a problem come only when one personally acquaints himself with an unbiased presentation of the facts of the tragic events of this part of Biblical history and traces the repercussions of such events down through the corridors of history as well as our inherited religious texts given us by Christianity and ultimately seeing the shock waves from them that are present in our own religious belief systems and Christian cultures of today.

Today many scholars tell us the truth today about the early church and courageously break from "church traditions", "mind-control" and "indoctrination" to present the facts concerning these "events" and the corruption of the early faith given the "non-Jews" by God and sanctioned by the Jerusalem church in Acts 15. It is so simple today to find this information, but sadly few look or even know the need to see if "they be in the faith."

The word "the" is a key word in the above passage. It is a "definite" article meaning "unique, special, one of a kind" as opposed to many. You see there is "one faith" given to mankind by God in the beginning of time and this faith has been handed down through recorded history and traveled down through nations and we find it today represented the best in Biblical Judaism and within this we also find a place for the "non-Jew" having a relationship with God through the Covenant of Noah.

Sadly today, the Christian, instead of coming to a knowledge of his real Covenant with God is being indoctrinated and influenced by an antisemitic Roman Church tradition, as well as being hampered in coming to this knowledge by being unknowledgeable of the true origins of his Christian faith. Thus, we accept the "spin" of antisemitic Christian religious fathers and various other leaders who walked in their paths down through history and the real message of "the Christ" and this "Pattern of Worship" given the "non-Jew" is never heard, or at best, is overlooked for more "orthodox teachings" espoused by Orthodox Christianity which have taken its place. Jewish Christianity consisted of those early Christians (followers of "the Christ", and no I did not misspell it for they were "Christians" before they were "Christians", who remained loyal to the Jewish law of Moses as they understood it. Messianic Judaism was not to replace Biblical Judaism with a new faith; it was the goal and zenith for which the prophets wrote and hoped. This simple statement is of profound importance, because the Jewish messianics, a sect within first century Judaism were eventually rejected both by orthodox Judaism and by orthodox Gentile Christianity later. We need to make a distinction here. Judaism prayed for and hoped for the fulfillment of the Prophets regarding the coming of their "human" Messiah who would judge the Gentiles that persecuted Israel but that does not negate the Spiritual fact that they all believed that "the Christ/also a Messiah" lived within them as well. We see this Divine Principle understood since Ancient Egypt in Paul's teaching of the "Indwelling Christ".

Col 1:27 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory: (KJV)

This verse is again of unbelievable importance. The Jewish people, carrying the legacy of Egypt, understood the realm of the Spirit much better than unlearned Gentiles like Rome. The Jewish people understood that that this Creator God lived within this "temple made without hands", their bodies. Thus the need for ethical and moral conduct as taught by the Laws of Moses and the Laws of Noah found in the Torah given to all nations. This Covenant of Noah and the Laws of Noah were given to the Gentiles and the Covenant and Laws of Moses were given to the Jewish nation later as Moses elaborate and enlarged upon the Covenant of Noah. There is overlap of 66 laws of Noah which are the very foundation for the Laws of Moses which we find amplified upon by Moses later.

So let us not fail to make this distinction; one "Christ/Messiah" was a hoped for human being who would follow in the footsteps of the Jew's King David, a military conqueror, who was believed would come and save Israel from the Gentiles and their harsh treatment of Israel and the other "Christ/Messiah" was the "Divine Principle" residing in the flesh of mankind (the Soul within matter or the flesh of mankind). Now we have it so let's go on but not let us confuse this concept of "the Christ" any longer for it is not just "one" to the "exclusion of all".

The understanding of the Jews concerning their Jewish Messiah was not anything like that of later orthodox Gentile Christianity where this Jewish Messiah, as the Christ, is "reinterpreted" and seen more like a "literalized" sun-godman figure as found in other Gentile nations if taken "literally". Unknown to us at this point in our studies is that these other "sungods" and "sungodmen" were NOT taken literally by these other Gentile nations but were understood allegorically and were but symbolic understandings of the Descent of the Soul/God into matter (the flesh of mankind). Rome will later "literalize" this concept and in so doing alter the traditional understanding of the Jewish Messiah and teach it incorrectly to the other "non-Jewish" nations of the world. The expected human "anointed", like King David, who had a father and mother, will become a mixture of "human" and "Divine Principle"; first by the Essenes of Qumran in the Book of Enoch where they apply this to their Teacher of Righteousness and later this same idea is picked up by Rome where they "literalize" this Divine Principle residing in all mankind and limit it to one man who is made to be a "God-man" of a virgin birth. We know him as the Roman Jesus of their New Testament.

Before this synthesis will occur at the hands of Rome we find historically that the Messianics in Israel and "followers of the Christ within" possessed an understanding of the law of Moses that was the same as orthodox Judaism, but yet this view would later be rejected under the influence of Paul in some degree and later, picking up on this idea, we find that the later Pauline churches of Asia, Minor, and Rome will reject this Law of God totally. We discuss this Pauline rejection of the Law in the series of articles on the Antioch Incident later on this site. Rome will later add much to this Gnostic Paul and his "theology" and forge many letters in his name to make it appear that the authentic Paul is not Gnostic at all but his does not take away from the fact that this historical Paul was compromising several commandments in his attempt to "become all things to all men" and thereby enlarge his Gentile Churches in Asia, Minor.

The Jewish Messianics believed that when the Messiah appeared that he would be the "true prophet" who would lead the people back to God's Eternal Law that commanded simple living and nonviolence. They saw in this "hoped for Messiah" their hopes for physical redemption and the fulfillment of the prophets. It was their hope that the Law would go forth from Zion with the Jewish Messiah at its head as the long awaited King of Israel. It was their hope that the enemies of Israel would be vanquished by the word of this anointed one of the Lord as taught in the Psalms of Solomon (not the psalms you are familiar with but a separate Jewish book that was recognized by Jews as authoritative in the first century). The law, which was cherished by all God-fearing Jews, had been given to Moses; indeed, it had existed from the beginning of the world (in the rudimentary form of the Laws of Noah), and this Law was intended to be cherished and observed by both Jew and non-Jew alike because in the Commandments one finds the unique Covenant stipulations of his Covenant before God, whether Jew or "non-Jew". In sharp contrast with the gentile Christian movement, which emerged in the wake of Paul's teaching, and others who follow him in "Pauline fashion", like Ignatius, Justin and Irenaeus, Jewish Christianity strove to make the Jewish law stricter than the Jewish tradition seemed to teach ("you have heard it said but I say unto you... 'much more'"). Such was the Christ's love for God and His Word. But this cannot be said for the later Gentile churches in the earliest centuries of Christianity which strove to find ways to lay aside the law for the laxity that was taught under the guise of "grace." In other words, the non-Jews loved the large "gray areas" that came from the teaching of Paul at Antioch and others who negated the Law through their own personal "revelations" and their own personal "gospels" similar to Paul's (Paul is found saying in Rom 2:16 16: "In the day when God shall judge the secrets of men by Jesus Christ according to my gospel" and again in 2 Tim 2:8 8: "Remember that Jesus Christ of the seed of David was raised from the dead according to my gospel").

It is a little early in this article to address this concept but if your study continues you will reach a point in your understanding and knowledge where you will see beyond any doubt that there are two entirely different "Gospels" that the New Testament gives the readers. It would be worth your time now to contrast the Gospel message of Jesus as against the Gospel message of Paul as presented in the Roman New Testament. Do it right now and then compare the conflicting and discordant Gospel messages of Jesus and Paul. "Not only that, but Jesus in the New Testament teaches a completely different way to inherit Eternal Life than does the Romanized Paul."

Answer for yourself: How can this be? Two different messages and gospels that conflict and contradict each others? Who should we believe, Paul or Jesus? Which view above, Paul's or Jesus', and whose "gospel" above is supported by the Hebrew Scriptures? Which "gospel" came first? Which view and whose "gospel" is supported after the Hebrew Scriptures are corrupted and forged by Rome during the earliest centuries following the time that Jesus was supposed to live? Well I have to let the reader figure that one out. I already have over the years of my study. If you want a hint or the answer then read the articles and email me and I will discuss this with you if you fail to see the implications of such study for your life.

Modern scholars often say that Jewish Christianity is the blind spot in virtually all accounts of the New Testament Jesus. Everyone agrees that, according to the New Testament, this Jesus was a Jew and that his initial followers were Jews. Yet of the thousands of books written about this Jesus, almost none acknowledge the central importance of Jewish Christianity; at least not until the end of the 1800's and continuing to the beginning of the present century. That central importance of Jewish Christianity for the "non-Jew" was true up until the latter part of the last century when Jewish, as well as European scholars began to reevaluate this "Jewish Jesus" and his message and contrast the reputed Historical Jesus with the Christ of Faith. There are many who are eager to focus specifically on the Jewishness of Jesus and the historical Jesus until they get deeply into such study. I remember wanting to quit several times as a Christian Pastor but I deep-down knew that truth is paramount with God so I kept at it. If one attempts an unbiased study in these areas and comes to the point of examining those of his followers who, like their teacher, were also Jewish, then they see for themselves that actually nothing really changed within this community of the closest followers of "the Christ" in Judaism, either for the Jew or the "non-Jew" until the 3rd and early fourth century when Rome would effectively destroy the faith of the Jewish "followers of 'the Christ'" by declaring them official heretics and destroying the First New Testament of Marcion and replacing it with one of their own making. Understand that this movement as followers of "the Christ", told through the "Jesus Story" were both Jews and "non-Jews" and they both attended synagogue together, celebrated and observed the Biblical Festivals and Feasts together, both fasted together, and both followed the same "Pattern of Worship" together. The only difference in the early centuries is that the "non-Jews" were responsible for only 66 Laws in the Covenant of Noah and the Jew was responsible for the whole of the Laws of Moses totaling 613 Laws. Of course matters of interpretation will differ from different Schools of Pharisees and we will get to that eventually but you get the point. Rome will begin to bring to an end this unity of faith between Jew and "non-Jew" effectively with their Second New Testament and this is the one we have today which is so terribly corrupted which we will likewise see shortly as our studies increase. The power of Rome would propagate a Gentile understanding and not a Jewish understanding of the Messiah (see Constantine's Easter letter if you have any doubts) and in so doing rise again this middle wall of partition between "Jew" and "non-Jew" which had fallen after the destruction of the Temple in 70 C.E. as seen in the accounts of Jews and "non-Jews" fellowshiping together in Asia, Minor, following this time period. Even the book of Acts substantiates this when you examine it in the Greek. The "Olive Tree" had come together in fulfillment of prophecy; that is until Constantine and his hatred of the Jews burst upon the scene and coupled with fear of damnation, the power of the sword, and indoctrination through forged texts Rome will effectively separate the two branches of the Olive Tree of God once again.

The "Jewishness" of these early followers of "the Christ", both Jew and "non-Jew", does not refer to their ethnic group or nationality, but rather to their beliefs and their "religious belief system". Important to note is that Paul was a convert to Judaism (H. Maccoby, The Mythmaker, Paul And The Invention Of Christianity) and only later converted to Judaism; first a Sadducee, and after rejection by the Chief Priest he turned to the Pharisees, again only to be rejected by them for his prior cruelty to them as an agent of the Temple police who routed them out and killed them (the Messianic believing strict branch of the Pharisees called Nazarenes/Essenes). Paul also preached freedom from the law regarding dietary laws contained in the Laws of Noah as seen in the "Antioch Incident" and therefore explicitly rejects some Jewish beliefs held in common in both the Laws of Noah and the Laws of Moses. This is a problem we will address momentarily in detail. Paul, and some of the other Jews who became followers of the Jesus movement (Christians), renounced the law of Moses and, therefore, were no longer part of normative Judaism. The churches of Paul today (vast majority of Christianity as it exists today) lay outside the true faith of this reputed Jesus and will continue to do so unless they encounter the truth about this man of Galilee and the truth about their own religious history and how a lawless faith like Christianity actually was created.

Without understanding Jewish Messianic Judaism or "intended Christianity", we cannot understand correctly this New Testament Jesus let alone the earliest church nor the corruption of it due to the forged texts in New Testament. Lacking this knowledge we are doomed to misinterpret most of what we read in the New Testament and our worship of God and our conduct before Him will be in error...much of which is defined as sin in the Torah.

Thus there exists the great need to study and come to the truth about the religious documents we cherish which we inherited from Rome in order that we discern truth from fiction when reading them in order that our religious beliefs be founded upon the truth and facts available to us which can be validated and in so doing ensure that our worship of God not be in vain.

HAS GENTILE CHRISTIANITY FAILED TO TEACH THE REAL MESSAGE OF JESUS?

Many Christian scholars, whether liberal or conservative, assume without argument that modern Christianity began with Jesus and moved outward to become a world religion on that basis - perhaps elaborating on or modifying the teachings somewhat, but retaining this basic structure. But not all modern scholars agree with such an assessment. Modern scholarship today believes that such a view is drastically flawed as well as most scholarship upon the historical Jesus as well because finding of archeology and Egyptology in the last 200 years is blowing the lid off the "Jesus Story" as never before. Most Christians have not heard of such discoveries emanating from the finds of archeology let alone Egyptology and its Astrotheology for if they had they would be bombarding their clergy with questions all day long. The sad fact is that their clergy are equally uninformed about such events. Only because I began to seriously study the Dead Sea Scrolls many years ago did my subsequent studies advance into these fields and it was there that I uncovered these earth-shattering finds in these fields that have overturned 1,800 years of traditional understanding of Christianity as we were given it from Rome and the early Church Fathers like Ignatius, Irenaeus, Justin, and others.

The New Testament, like any other literature, is easier to understand and more interesting when it is seen in its historical context. For a still better picture of the age in which the books of the New Testament were written, it is necessary to step back a bit and review important events in Jewish history leading up to that period. The social, political, and religious conditions in Judea at the time of Christianity's birth are of great significance in understanding the direction which that religion took. The sects or parties prevalent in Judea at the dawn of Christianity had an impact on early Christians, as well as on Jews. The names- Sadducees, Pharisees, Zealots--are mentioned throughout the Gospels, Acts, and Epistles. The Sanhedrin occupies a significant place in the recounting of Jesus' trial as does the Roman procurator, Pontius Pilate. No study of the New Testament is complete without an awareness of the character and influence of Paul, the great proselytizer, if not founder, of Christianity. Paul's role and his anti-Law bias is pivotal in transforming Nazarene Judaism into Gentile Christianity. Even a cursory analysis of the historical evidence shows that Christianity was filled from the very start with internal controversy over basic issues running the gamut from the true Jewish Messiah, supposed fulfilled Messianic prophecies, and the identity of "Jesus Christ". The differences between those claiming to be Christian in the first four hundred years after the time reputed for Jesus were greater than at any other time in history - greater even than that of today. Regardless of what view we take about Jesus, and there are many I must tell you, we must acknowledge and come to grips with these schisms, and in so doing, try to understand all sides of this issue as best we can. This is unfortunately necessary before we can understand correctly this "Jesus". At the basis of all these schisms is the first and most divisive question in the first centuries of Christianity:

Answer for yourself: What is the relationship between the followers of Jesus with Judaism, both Jew and "non-Jew"?

THERE WERE MANY WAYS TO SEE JESUS WITHIN JUDAISM

Early Christians interpreted this "Jesus" within Judaism in many different ways. This, we must understand comes from the fact that most who came to believe in "Jesus" did so based on oral traditions and no eyewitness reports. Let me say again how important it is that we recognize that the "Jesus Story" we have today in the gospels is the fruit of oral tradition.

It's rather clear from the way that the stories develop in the gospels that the Christians who are writing the gospels are doing so from a stock of oral memory, that is, stories that had been passed down for centuries if not longer since this same "Jesus Story" can be found in Ancient Egypt and the Old Kingdom if not earlier. And it's around that memory of "the Christ" and this "Jesus", around that set of concerns that a lot of the earliest oral stories about Jesus must have circulated and must have been built. So we have to imagine the followers of this Jesus and "the Christ" getting together around the dinner table probably and talking about their memories, maybe it was the memory of something that "the Christ" actually said once upon a time or maybe it was a glimpse of an image that they had of him in their minds or dreams. But the thing that keeps coming back is they tell the story of who he was in retrospect from the experience of what he became through his death and through the story of his resurrection which, by the way, can be seen today to have been told since Ancient Egypt. Story telling was at the center of the beginnings of the Jesus movement long before there were any written documents of this new faith. And I think we're right to call it the Jesus movement here because if we think of it as Christianity, that is, from the perspective of the kind of movement and institutional religion that it would become a few hundred years later, we will miss the flavor of those earliest years of the kind of crude and rough beginnings, the small enclaves trying to keep the memory alive, and more than that, trying to understand what this Jesus meant for them. That's really the function of the story telling since it's a way for them to articulate their understanding of Jesus and "the Christ". And in the process of story telling, when we recognize it as a living part of the development of the tradition, we're watching them define Jesus for themselves. At that moment we have caught an authentic and maybe one of the most historically significant parts of the development of Christianity. In the development of the oral tradition then, it seems that over time some of these stories came to be written down, and the use of these summary statements about the contents of the "Jesus Story" are what much later came to be thought of as the gospel, the good news, the story of Jesus. But the term gospel, or good news, itself, means just a proclamation of the information, of what happened and interesting to note the first quote of a "Gospel" by name by any Christian writer cannot be found, even today, till after 180 A.D. So much for the Roman tradition that these gospels were written early. And that's what the gospels are, a narrative tradition, the story of Jesus and "the Christ". In light of this we must also admit that modern scholars teach most convincingly that the accounts we have to Jesus in the gospels are not eyewitness reports or first hand accounts or biographies of some first century person but rather later propaganda intended to reinforce the various oral traditions of this Jesus woven into a synthesis of sorts.

We have to remember that the gospels themselves and their full account of the life and death and resurrection of Jesus came a good bit after the fact, in some cases perhaps even sixty to one hundred years later. So those stories had a long time to evolve and develop. But we can see that they're based on some smaller units of oral tradition that had been circulating for many years before. We see this even in Paul's letters. Paul himself, remember, doesn't write a gospel. He actually doesn't tell us much about the life of a historical Jesus or Nazareth at all. He never once mentions a miracle story of this reputed historical Jesus. He tells us nothing about the birth of this Jesus. He never tells us anything about teaching in parables or any of those other typical features of the gospel tradition of Jesus. In fact he mentions only two of the sayings of this Jesus and at best devotes no more than a one sentence for each. What Paul does tell us about this Jesus is the death, and he does so in a form that indicates that he's actually reciting a well-known body of material.

Answer for yourself: I am getting way ahead of myself but I cannot contain myself so let me give you a nugget and provoke your thought. What was the understanding of the "death of the Christ" as far back as Egypt and what are the implications for the later "Jesus Story" and could this explain why Paul never mentioned much about a historical Jesus in all of his writings? Have we lost the Gnosis of "death" in the Scriptures and mistakenly interpret it to be the cessation of human life by mistake?

So when Paul tells us, make no mistake about it; he's referring to his

"I received and I handed on to you,"

preaching, but he's also telling us that what he preaches, that is the material that he delivers, is actually developed through the an ancient oral tradition itself. We just don't know that today because we also have lost this "gnosis" of the "death and resurrection" of "the Christ" within us! There, I have given you a great nugget for later studies on other sites.

Now one of the most important examples of this comes in the First Corinthian Letter. On two separate occasions in First Corinthians, he actually gives us snippets of early pieces of oral material which he repeats in a way, so as to remind his audience of what they've already heard. In other words, it presupposes that they will recognize this material. Paul is "hinting back" at what his audience had already heard in some fashion an that is staggering to the idea that the "Jesus Story" was a new revelation at best. And because we can isolate it out of his letters, the way he describes, we then are able to reconstruct what that early body of material would have looked like at a time before it's ever written down.

Answer for yourself: What is an example?

Let us focus on First Corinthians 11 where Paul describes Jesus instituting the last supper. This is one of the early pieces of oral material. The other one is First Corinthians 15 where Paul describes the story of the death, burial and resurrection.

Answer for yourself: What is so important about I. Cor. 15? First Corinthians 15, Paul's description of the death, burial and resurrection of Jesus is the earliest account that we have in any written form. And it's clearly what Paul himself had heard and learned over a period of several years. So it's one of those little blocks of material in Paul's letters that pushes us that much farther back toward the presumed historical time of Jesus. Now here's what he tells us, he says that Jesus died, was buried, was raised on the third day in accordance with the scriptures, he relates it to prophecy. But there is a problem.

Answer for yourself: What is it? There is no existence anywhere to date of any Jewish prophecy of this "Jesus" or the Jewish Messiah being killed and resurrected 3 days latter. We have to go to Astrotheology to find such a Divine Concept at it is connected to the Equinoxes. Just remember this one fact as we continue and one day as we grow ready for such studies we will see this in detail and how it related to the "birth" of "the Christ" within each of us.

Then he says, "Jesus appeared". He doesn't tell us about the empty tomb. There's no reference to that part of the story at all. Instead he tells us Jesus appeared, first to Peter and then the twelve, next to 500 people, some of whom had already surely had died by the time Paul heard the story. Now in each of these two cases it's interesting that we have information that we don't get anywhere else in the gospels tradition.

Answer for yourself: What should this teach us? Simply that this is a unit of oral material that was not included in the gospel tradition long before the time of this Jesus and is very important to the development of the later Jesus tradition.

Now what happens as an oral tradition arises is that the first oral tradition is not an attempt to remember exactly what happened, but is rather a return into the symbols and allegories of the earlier tradition that could explain an important event. Therefore, one has to imagine that legend and myth and hymn and prayer are the vehicles in which oral traditions develop. This is exactly what occurred with the "Jesus Story" over time.

There are many reasons for doubting if this "Jesus", historical or otherwise, could have, or would have then founded a Christianity as it developed in its antisemitic trends later when "the Christ" was depicted as a Jew from which this new Gentile religion would later develop. The new religion that emerged from the events of the life and death of this Jesus contained too many divergent movements to have been the product of a single creative mind. Many scholars attest that if Jesus had intended to found a new religion, he did not succeed in doing so in any coherent form. They maintain that he had no intention of doing so. The Jesus newly revealed by the study of his Jewish environment is not likely to have founded the movements that collectively constituted early second century Christianity. Historians used to suppose that early Christianity was united in the legacy left by Jesus; only later did disunity arise, as new and unorthodox interpretations of the tradition developed. We now think it was far otherwise. Early Christianity moved in several divergent directions, and it was not possible to unify them by appealing to the authoritative teaching of a founder. Only in the second century did it begin to be unified around a form of Gentile Christianity, as a result of strenuous efforts by some of its leaders, most of them associated with the Church of Rome. These men were men like Clement of Rome, Mathetes, Polycarp, Ignatius, Barnabas, Papias, Justin Martyr, and Irenaeus in the second century. The effort was never completely successful, and in later centuries new forms of disunity set in. But Christianity never again became as diverse as it had originally been. If we look back to the state of the Christian movement at the end of the first century and the beginning of the second, we find amazing variety and diversity. However, scholars usually group the many versions of Christianity flourishing then into three main tendencies, only one of which is at all familiar today:

In broad terms, there were three schools of thought in early Christianity as to what this relationship between Jew and "non-Jew" should be:

- Jewish-Christian "Messianic" Believers desired to maintain good standing with Biblical Judaism. For the Jewish Christians, Jesus was the messianic prophet predicted by Moses who had led the people back to the true law revealed to Moses but forgotten by the traditions of men. This lesser-known movement was composed of Messianic "Christian" Jews, remaining faithful to their Jewish heritage, while adding to it belief in Jesus as the Messiah. Scholars refer to the various movements that attempted to remain faithful to Christianity's original basis in Judaism as Jewish Christianity. Obviously, there were sharp disagreements between these movements. Gentile and Jewish Christianity soon parted company. Behind them both however was a "literal-historical" interpretation of "the Christ" and "Jesus".
- One of these competing movements was Gnosticism, which has come into public attention recently as a result of new discoveries; in particular the discovery of the Nag Hammadi Library in Egypt. The Nag Hammadi Library, a collection of thirteen ancient codices containing over fifty texts, was discovered in upper Egypt in 1945. This immensely important discovery includes a large number of primary Gnostic scriptures -- texts once thought to have been entirely destroyed during the early Christian struggle to define "orthodoxy" -- scriptures such as the Gospel of Thomas, the Gospel of Philip, and the Gospel of Truth. The discovery and translation of the Nag Hammadi library, completed in the 1970's, has provided impetus to a major re-evaluation of early Christian history and the nature of Gnosticism. Until the texts' discovery, knowledge of Christian gnosticism was confined to highly biased and negative reports and quotations of their orthodox opponents, such as Irenaeus and Tertullian. In the second century the Gentile or early Catholic church fought a sharp, and in the end, largely successful battle to rid itself of Gnosticism and to put down the independent Gnostic communities. At the same time, it stigmatized as heretical all those groups that still held on to Jewish observance. Gnostics wanted a complete break between the followers of the "literal Christ/Jesus and Judaism. Many gnostics thought that the God of Jesus and the Jewish God who created the world must have been two entirely different gods altogether because they did not want to lay the blame for the existence of evil in the Cosmos at the feet of a "perfect-loving" God. This led the gnostics to reject the world and adopt asceticism, because it was believed to be a botched creation of a lesser god. They believed that their special knowledge ("gnosis") from this highest God, the father of Jesus, "the Christ", led to salvation after death in a spiritual realm that was separate and independent of this world which was "fleshly" and full of suffering and death. In this group we find the authentic Gnostic Paul and his 7 epistles. Behind this was the ancient allegorical understanding of "the Christ".
- The Pauline Roman Christians, who saw in a "literal" Jesus the culmination of Judaism and the Messianic hope and redemption apart from the Law. Like the gnostics, they wanted their own brand of Messianic Judaism ["Christianity "] to have a fundamentally different basis from Judaism. These Pauline Christians considered the basis of Christianity not to be the revelation of God's law to Moses on Mt. Sinai, but rather the revelation of God himself through Jesus as the anti-Gnostic Paul, or literalist Roman Christians, writing in Paul's name, revealed him and for them this new and unique revelation of Jesus superseded that of Law. This might not sound like a problem on the surface by when the one being revealed by the Roman-Pauline writers has more in common with "literalized" sun-gods and paganism and "literalized" mystery religions than Biblical Judaism then we have a serious problem. But first you have to know that such a situation exists but that of course entails prior comprehensive knowledge of both Biblical Judaism as well as comparative world religions and Gnosticism. Once possessing this information one sees through the writings of this false-Paul as if they were cellophane and this explains the schizophrenic epistles of Paul where contradictions and conflicts abound between the original writings of the Gnostic Paul and the anti-Gnostic Roman Paulinists in the same New Testament. One thing was held in common however. Like the Jewish Christians, these Pauline Christians worshiped the same God of Israel as did the Jews. But even though that was good they were taught to see in Jesus the fulfillment of the Messianic hopes of Judaism and that ruse is the biggest lie ever foisted upon the world. This is easily seen when contrasting the true Hebrew Scriptures with the forged texts created by this same ideology and their proponents. The prophecies of the Jews, as maintained by Israel and verified by the unforged Hebrew texts, can be shown to not be fulfilled yet today but the Gentile world never knew this because the Greek translation of the Bible had been cleverly altered 200 years prior to the time for the reputed Jesus whereby the doctrines and beliefs of the "literalized-sun-worshipping" Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt, were written in among other Greek texts and these concepts only later applied to the "literalize" Jesus by pseudo-Pauline writers. Added to this the later forgery of New Testament texts then we arrive at both a forged Old and New Testament presented to the world as the Divine Revelation of God and His Christ.

Now don't react and don't believe anything I have said. Let us study together and examine the evidence together and see if I can prove all of this to you beyond any doubt. I can and I will and I say that humbly for I have done these corroborative studies for twenty years and am certain of my findings. Nowhere in anything I teach is a "private revelation" or a "God told me" but hard-nosed factual study of texts, Biblical history, archeology, comparative religion, Gnosticism, the writings of the Early Church Fathers and their shameful admissions to such deception, Astrotheology, the Essenes and their theology, Roman Church history, and all other related disciplines necessary for such studies and I will share the results of such studies with the reader as we move from article to article and gather all the needed puzzle pieces where we can see clearly the truth about the "Jesus Story" and "the Christ". Don't make any changes in your religious beliefs now at all. I recommend you study hard for 6 months, step back, look at the puzzle pieces you have collected, reevaluate what you have been shown and then make any adjustment in your religious belief system and worship of God at that time. Then begin another 6 months of study and do the same. Over time you will collect enough truth and puzzle pieces to this "Jesus puzzle" and you will arrive at a point in your relationship with God that no man can lie to you about God any longer for you will know the truth for error no matter how "religious" it might sound. All you need do is follow the train of thought in these articles and do your own validating studies as I show you the sources for such information that reveal the truths I teach and expose the errors we have been led to accept as truth. Our recommended book list will become your best friend. The Rabbis say that it is good to gather around yourself your best friend and "good books" are your best friends. Something to think about in light of where we are in Christianity today.

So in summary we have three basic but different views of Jesus but only one I have found to be correct from my studies. If you do the same then I am confident your finding will lay next to mine.

Answer for yourself: Which one of these Jesuses and Christ are the real? Which have you been taught by your church is the correct one?

All these views were differing ways of coming to grips with a fundamental problem: that being that "the Christ" had been depicted to have been born in a human body as a Jew, lived as a Jew, worshipped as a Jew, and died a Jew.

But the problem of the "non-Jew" remained. The problem was bigger than just Jesus and understanding of "the Christ". Yet in the years after the time allotted for the life of Jesus, and following the dispersion of the Jews after the destruction of the Temple and the Jewish War of 135 C.E., the number of gentile Christians came to greatly surpass the number of Jewish Christians. Christianity, instead of a Jewish movement, came to consist less and less of those who continued to acknowledge their Jewish roots by remaining loyal to the Jewish law, and more and more of those who believed that they had little if any responsibility to have allegiance to the law of Moses but only to the revelation of Jesus and Romanize Paulinism and their particular brand of Judaism. Ironically, this brand of Judaism will become what we call antisemitic Gentile Christianity apart from its Jewish Roots. Eventually, as you would expect, under the early Church Fathers this brand of Christianity came to regard any faithfulness and adherence to the Jewish law as a heresy and bondage. This is to be expected since many in the Gentile nations never had or understood the Torah before they heard the preaching concerning the "risen Christ" of Paul. No longer possessing the Ancient Wisdom and proper understanding of these allegorical sungods then this "literalized Jesus was for them just another in a long line of "risen sungods." No longer possessing the Ancient Wisdom and the "keys" necessary to its proper interpretation this debased teaching of "the Christ" becomes in its final manifestation, when "literalized", the hideous sin of idolatry. No longer possessing the Ancient Wisdom and the "keys" necessary to its proper interpretation mankind lost the identity of this "Jesus Christ" and the teachings on "the Christ" later changed at the hands of antisemitic Rome. This website, then, is in part a re-examination of the history of Jewish Christianity and the place given the "non-Jew" within as intended by God and as was taught in the earliest centuries of the Jewish Church. This will go a long way in helping us correctly understand the Jewish Messiah as seen from the eyes of Judaism as well as the implications for understanding the truth concerning the historical Jesus and the Mystical Christ.

Anti-Semitism throughout Gentile Church History has given the Jewish Christians an unusually bad rap. In fact they persecuted them to death quite often. Romanized Pauline writers portrayed them as narrow-minded, the later Roman Church condemned them as heretics, and modern scholars have ignored them. These assessments, however, are not justified. I believe that the depiction of "the Christ" as a Jew for us was not done by accident. My studies have proven to me that the true salvation message of God is to be found in the Biblical Festivals and Feasts given to the Jews which coincidentally coincides with the Equinoxes and Solstices as Egypt taught them thousands of years earlier and expressed in their own "Jesus Story" and their Astrotheology. This "Jewish Christ" and his message is of such importance that we must understand this "Christ" and the message of "the Christ" correctly within the Judaism in which it is expressed. When the larger Roman Gentile Christian church drove out Jewish Christianity it also lost the true message and core of Jesus' or "the Christ's" teachings. Therefore much which the traditional Christian is taught today is a "replacement doctrine" which is in error. The values of simple living and nonviolence became increasingly marginalized in a church that came to accept the very materialism and violence against which Jesus had protested.

Modern Christianity, whether Protestant, Catholic, or Orthodox, has, because of Rome and their Second New Testament, misunderstood not only the "Jesus Christ", but the very message of this Jesus as "the Christ" as well! By the 3rd and fourth century, the wake of the Nicene Creed had its tragic affect; it stripped a Torah obedient life-style from the religion of the followers of this "Jesus" and "the Christ" and in its place made mental ascent to a solar-godman's "identity" paramount for Eternal Life; an identity by the way remanufactured and reinterpreted by Rome and in so doing denied the prior understanding of "the Christ" as understood not only by Egypt but by Judaism as well. In the place of "Jesus" and "the Christ's" emphasis on living the Commandments of God for one's Eternal Life we find a new way of living where a complex and unintelligent Trinitarian theology replaced Ethical Monotheism of the Jews and their Torah for both Jew and "non-Jew". Christ now tragically is the end of the Law where, if we look this word for "end" cleverly put in this verse really means "goal" as in Christlikeness is the "goal of living the Torah and the Laws of God". Just BACKWARDS and on purpose to reinforce the anti-Law bias of Rome and its anti-Judaic doctrines!

With Rome we find emphasis upon the historical virgin birth of Jesus in the similar pattern of the ancient sun-godmen instead of the accurate teaching of the allegorical birth of "the Christ within" of all mankind. Instead of an uplifting doctrine for all mankind we are given a doctrine restricted to only one person in which we can never relate since having fathers and mothers. Instead of teaching the truth about the awakening of "the Christ" within these fleshly temples, our bodies, which was taught in symbolic language of the virgin birth of the sungods we are led to believe that these who taught such uplifting and illuminating Divine Truths are supposedly nothing more than the basest "heathen" and "pagans" and "heretics" when what they taught, when correctly interpreted by restoring the "keys" to their Divine Allegories it can be shown that they only taught man of the internal birth of the Divine Soul within him and all of this again can be traced all the way back to Horus, as "the Karast", or "Christ" of Egypt. Likewise, emphasis of the infant Jesus, his life and death, and rising from the dead has lost the ancient understanding of the awakening of the infant soul in its infancy within the flesh of mankind, its growth to maturity where it grows to control the animal nature in mankind in preparation for death the judgment of the Soul in the Halls of Ma'at (the hereafter).

If you think I am wrong then I challenge you to read the 2/3 of the New Testament written by Paul and find more than 2 single sentences referring to what this Jesus both believed and taught! The preparation of one's Soul for the final judgment was of no concern for Rome if it required obedience to the Torah and the Law of God let alone the Laws of the Jews. You won't find more than sentences in these Romanize Pauline epistles because it is not there. Rome was not concerned about what this Jesus or "the Christ" stood for or believed; only that he be recast in the image of the prior pagan Godmen to give validation to the Roman godman known as the Emperor. Look at the world today and you can see for yourself the fruit of such a Lawless and Torahless message as we examine the low morality and ethical nature of our country which boast of being a Christian nation. We cannot build prisons fast enough for this Christian nation. We have in America 2/3 of the world's incarcerated and we have only 13% of the world population. Yet we are taught to believe in "this Jesus;" we are just not taught that to live like him in his Jewish setting brings Eternal Life. Instead of a call to change our lives in repentance and our improve our relationship with God and the world we have an all-powerful Jesus presented as the Messiah which is denied by the Jews and their Hebrew Scriptures.

By and large the vast majority of Christians today have not been taught the truth concerning this "Jesus" and the true "Gospel." In place of it they have been handed a "substitute Gospel" that has more in common with the "literalized" mystery religions and "literalized" sun-worship or Rome than with Biblical Judaism. Recovering the real message and teachings of this "Jesus Christ" and understanding the real message of "the Christ" is as important for the modern world as for the historian. Many today are concerned about the environmental crisis and the pillaging of the earth's resources by rampant consumerism, the spiral of escalating violence, the victimization of the world's poor, and the slaughter of animals for food. Perhaps these problems are quickly remedied if the Christian Church repents of Roman theology and recovers and returns to the real "Jesus Christ" and his message of simple living and nonviolence which is so relevant for today's world - even though it has been lost from most of modern Christianity.

In this website we will examine several major doctrines held dear by mainline Protestant and Catholic Christianity in light of Hebrew and Greek original Biblical languages, Biblical history, Biblical culture, the findings of archeology, comparative religions and comparison with Christian "literalized" doctrines and dogmas, and Gnosticism in hopes of recovering and restoring the pristine and elementary teachings of the early Chrestian, or should I say "Christian" faith as it existed in the first 3 centuries of the so called Christian era. These teachings have escaped the gaze of millions and much of this information and knowledge has only come to the light of day in the last 200 years or so. Once confronted with this evidence, it is our hope at Bet Emet Ministries that the reader will take to heart what he has learned, repent of his theological error and sin, and begin a renewed worship of the Creator in Spirit and in Truth. Shalom.

CONTRASTING THE GOSPEL OF JESUS VS THE GOSPEL OF PAUL #1

Most Christians live their whole lives never noticing or reading closely the New Testament to recognize that the gospels of the New Testament Jesus is 180 degrees opposite when compared with the gospel of the Paul of the Roman New Testament. I was one of those whom I just described until I began to study Judaism and read various scholars and writers that opened my sight and understanding in these areas of divergence. Many of you probably are startled at the at the title of these articles since never dreaming that these "gospels" contradict each other but let me assure you that when you are finished reading just these three presentations and articles, you will begin to see deeper into the deceptions and the conflicting "messages" of the New Testament than ever before. You may not be aware of it but there are "two" conflicting messages or "gospels" contained in the New Testament; one of which agrees 100% with Biblical Judaism and the religion of Jesus and "the Christ" who is depicted as a Jew and one totally alien to it which is laid at the feet of this "Romanized" Paul. With such new perspective which we will teach you will come your realization that there are two completely conflicting messages and doctrines in the New Testament which are presented as the "ONLY" way to inherit Eternal Life. Since these "salvation messages" are contradictory then it goes without saying that such "opposites" cannot be right therefore one of them is wrong and the other right; the problem for the New Testament believer today is to not only recognize that "conflicting gospels" exist within the teachings of the New Testament, but arriving at an intelligent decision regarding which "gospel" to accept and which "gospel" to shun.

Often I hear from someone who will write us or call us at the Ministry and respond by saying "there is no contradiction" within the New Testament. Such shallow perspective by good-hearted people will be shown to be foolish let alone critically flawed in these next three articles. I would hope you muster up the courage to deal with what will be shown to you in the following pages as often the material will be "heavy" and one's "heroes" often exposed for what they really were: false teachers who opposed the "real salvation message" if God given mankind in the beginning of time. Now let us seriously sanctify the Name of the Lord by studying in earnest the Revelation of HaShem as it has come down to us; all the while picking the "meat" from the "bones" as we find it in the New Testament.

UNCOVERING THE HIDDEN MESSAGE IN THE PARABLE ABOUT THE GOOD SAMARITAN

Answer for yourself: We have all heard of the "Good Samaritan" but have we all understood the real message of this parable?

This is the question before us as the implications from such in-depth study challenge the validity of the New Testament and Gentile Christianity's teachings regarding inheriting Eternal Life in many places. This will be a shock to many as you see what follows so just stay with it.

I will begin with what is known as the Parable of the Good Samaritan, but will rename it "The Parable of the Priest, the Levite and the Samaritan."

The parable is chiefly remembered by most for what it is taught as in Bible classes: as a lesson to be kind to your neighbors and to alleviate suffering. Although this is true these lessons are incidental only, and of quite secondary in importance to the main issue which the parable teaches; the main issue in the parable escapes the awareness of most readers and in reality concerns the very foundation of the religion of this Jewish Jesus before us and is not concerned with just "loving" others. True, the parable is the gem of the narrative; but its value, nevertheless, is in the setting of it, and not in the lesson of kindness which it incidentally instills. We must go beyond the surface and its elementary meanings understood by most to grasp the real intent of this parable.

The Gentile Christian Church desperately needs to hear this message and repent of many of their doctrinal positions which oppose the real meaning of this parable.

NECESSARY BACKGROUND INFORMATION BEFORE WE START

To understand the real and full significance of this parable we must note what has led up to it. A lawyer came to heckle this Jesus. Like every great reformer, Jesus is depicted in the New Testament to have had his opponents, great and small. There were those who were uncompromisingly hostile either from a mental bias or from personal motives. There were the sectarians who opposed the new and deeper teachings of Jesus on doctrinal grounds. And there were those who claimed to be liberal-minded, but who regarded the doctrines preached by Jesus as far-fetched, utopian and altogether impracticable.

To this latter class belonged, evidently, the lawyer who is depicted standing up and "tempting" Jesus, saying, "Teacher, what shall I do to inherit eternal life ?"

Answer for yourself: What a question that goes to the very crux of God's salvation message. We need to open our ears to hear this message of salvation like never before because it applies equally to the Jew and the "non-Jew". What was the core issue addressed in the previous questions posed to this Jesus?

HOW TO INHERIT "ETERNAL LIFE" ACCORDING TO JESUS

Every believer desires to inherit Eternal Life. This is beyond question. But you will be amazed to find out that it is not as easy as you have been taught. Read on please.

We are talking about "eternal life" and Jesus' understanding of God's salvation. We must not lose sight of this for the parable of the Good Samaritan is really about how to obtain "salvation" and inherit "eternal life". You will better understand as we delve further into the parable and Jesus' message within it.

Notice up front, that the lawyer who asked Jesus the question about "eternal life" did not ask the question as one desiring to be instructed, but "temptingly." It was a challenge, as from one knowing what answer he would get and who is prepared to oppose this Jesus if he were to answer the question incorrectly; as if Jesus had some strange doctrine considering "salvation". But in this we find this lawyer to be mistaken. Notice will you that in answering this Jesus, symbol for "the Christ of God", simply referred him to the Law of Moses, the Law of the Jews...the same Law that Gentile Christianity today teaches has "passed away"! Spurgeon, a great Christian preacher sums up the orthodox Christian position of history let alone today when he says that "Jesus is the 'termination' of the Law of the Jews. He goes on to reiterate the Christian position by saying, speaking of this Jesus, that "He has terminated it in two senses. First of all, his people are not under it as a covenant of life. "We are not under the law, but under grace". Again, Christ is the terminator of the law, for we are no longer under its curse". This says it all. But the words of this Jesus should grab our attention more than Spurgeon or any other Christian preacher when he answers forthwith the lawyers' question by stating: "What is written in the law ? How readest thou?"

Man, what an answer.

Answer for yourself: How do we read this Bible we were given by Rome? How do we interpret it? Are we interpreting it correctly? To whom was this message of the salvation of God, intended for all mankind given; Rome or the Jews? Did God ever change His salvation message given to these Jews? Did God forget to tell them? How come today the Jews don't accept this Christian way of salvation and this "end of the Law"? What do they know that we don't? Who do you think is best qualified to interpret the Hebrew Scriptures and this message of salvation given to all mankind, Rome or Jerusalem? What are we to do with this Jesus when he says in this same New Testament which teaches that the "Law is ended"?

John 4:22-23 Ye worship ye know not what: we know what we worship: for salvation is of the Jews. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: To whom was this Jesus speaking in the above verse? Would you believe it was a Gentile like me and you?

Answer for yourself: Don't you find that somewhat surprising; that Jesus would teach a vital relationship between receiving Eternal Life and the keeping of the Law; something the Gentile Christian Church prides itself in having been "abolished" according to tis Romanized Paul and his writings?

Answer for yourself: Did Jesus really connect "eternal life" with the "Law" and what does that mean to the Christian who believes he is "under grace and not under Law"? Have we as "non-Jews" following the texts in our Roman Bibles been possibly misled and don't know it? Did Rome hate the Law of the Jews? Did Rome have reason to reject Judaism and did they? Have you ever read Constantine's Easter Letter? Well you better do it right now! Do you know he did this before commissioning 50 Bibles, or New Testaments, to be written over which he oversaw their production? Are you aware that happened 70 years before the official canonization of the New Testament by the Constantinian influenced Roman Church? Can we think and think hard about this for a second and the implications it has for us today? Can we read between the lines? Does this help explain why this New Testament is full of purposefully misquoted, purposefully mistranslated, purposefully taken out of context Hebrew Scriptures, and even "invented" Scriptures when compared with the Hebrew Bibles used by the Jews? Were you aware of this? What implication does this have for the true salvation message of God given to all mankind? Have you ever done these studies or should you might consider now to do them to confirm what I said is true?

Answer for yourself: Don't you find it rather odd that obtaining "Eternal Life" for this Jesus involved the "Law" when the Christian Church today, which considers themselves followers of this Jesus and "ambassadors for Christ," pride themselves as not being "under the Law" and even call the Law a "curse"? What is this when even prophecy in the Old Testament shows that in the world to come that these same Laws will be observed in the New World and in the New Age to come?

Answer for yourself: The most serious question is: "Has the Gentile Christian Church" of today inherited the antisemitic "traditions" of Rome for their salvation message and completely rejected the true "salvation message of God" which involves man's responsibilities to this same "Law" of the Old Testament [the Laws of Noah and the Laws of Moses]? The answer is "yes". Are our Bibles faithful representations of the message of God entrusted to the Jewish nation?

I assume the reader understands that the Laws of Noah and the Covenant of Noah was given to all "non-Jews" long before there were any Jews on this world and later only reiterated by Moses (Akhenaten) at the waters of Marah when Moses built upon the Laws of Noah in giving Israel these Laws of Moses which only elaborated and enlarged upon the Law of Noah as the Jew's Covenant with God. Let us read on. I hope you recognize here that there exists common ground in these two Covenants and Laws that will allow the unity of Jew with "non-Jew" as the one people of God.

And in Romans 11: 17 And some of the branches were broken off, and you, being a wild olive tree, were grafted in among them, and with them became a partaker of the root and fatness of the olive tree. Here is clear reference to both the Jews and the Gentiles being grafted together into ONE tree in the ONE ROOT. This is impossible if their Covenants are in conflict but you see they are not! There is and has been for most of the New Covenant era, enmity between the Christians and the Jews. Labelled wrongly as "Christ killers", Jews have been slaughtered and persecuted by the world and Christians alike. Christians have erroneously believed that they have replaced the Jews as God's chosen people. But the Word is very clear, there are two Olive trees which will become one in God and their enmity will be put aside. But this will never occur without the truth being taught and the Christian possessing the necessary knowledge of how this separation of these two peoples of God occurred at the hands of Rome and their forged Bibles which we carry today.

SCRUTINY OF THE PARABLE...LOOK WHAT WE FIND

The lawyer rattled off: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself."

So far so good.

Answer for yourself: Is your understanding of Christianity's "salvation" as you have been taught by the Gentile Church the same as we read in the above discourse? Before you say "yes" let us keep reading for I assure you it is not as simple as you suppose.

Answer for yourself: Is your understanding of Christianity's "salvation" the same as Jesus both understood and taught it? Already we saw that this Jesus, "the Christ", connected salvation and Eternal Life to the Law of the Jews (including the Laws of Noah) and Christianity prides itself "not being under this Law" so before you rush to say "yes" I would suggest you wait till the following articles have been read and digested before you answer in the affirmative as we will address each word of the above answer in the Hebrew to make sure we understand completely what this Jesus was saying.

And Jesus said to him: Thou hast answered right: this do and thou shalt live" (Luke 10:27-28).

The narrative goes on to say that the lawyer, willing to justify himself, said unto Jesus, " And who is my neighbor ? "

WHO IS MY NEIGHBOR?

Here let us pause for a moment to analyze the situation. It will be noticed that the lawyer's question, "And who is my neighbor?" will culminate in Jesus referring to the Commandments within the Second Tablet of the Law only, whereas the reply of Jesus, "this do," made no such discrimination but referred to both tablets of the law. This might seem rather strange at present but I assure you that you will quickly come to understand Jesus' intentions and answer as we let, according to Phil 2:5 5, this mind of Christ be in us as it was in this Jesus: "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus:" (KJV)

Answer for yourself: How can we do this? How can we think like this Jesus? How can we "believe" like this Jesus? How can we truly be follows of this Jesus and "the Christ" in our lives today when taught differently by an antisemitic, Romanized and Paulinized Christianity for the last 1,800 years?

This is done only by studying the Jewish Roots of Gentile Christianity. After Seminary I set on a concrete bench and talked with God where I said "Lord I have been privileged to be here and truly became a man of God here but Lord I did not learn one thing about a Jewish Jesus here. I can preach and build churches like Paul but Lord I don't know much about this Jesus who is a Jew in my Bible? Lord, I said, what do I believe leaving here today that Jesus, if he were setting next to me right here, would not believe as I do being taught for 3 years a Baptist and Christian doctrine? And Lord, if Jesus were setting here what would he believe that I don't and why not on both counts Lord? What do the Jews not believe in my Jesus? What do the Jews believe that I don't and why not? What does this Jewish Jesus believe differently from me and why?" Having read one Jewish Jesus book before Seminary I found myself 3 years later not increasing my knowledge of a Jewish Jesus one bit so I said: "Lord, I don't have the answers to these questions but I am going to get them" whereupon I got up and left the beautiful grounds of the Seminary and began a serious study of Judaism and the Jewish Roots of Christianity and this led eventually to the establishment of Bet Emet Ministries. The rest is history and that leads to this article.

Now, To appreciate the meaning of the lawyer's question as to "who was his neighbor" we must understand the issue about which the lawyer intended to heckle Jesus.

It is mandatory we understand that the First Tablet of the Law contained the commandments and obligations given to man concerning maintaining his relationship with God. In other words these commandments were "vertical"; between man and God. These commandments in the First Tablet of the Law dealt with man's relationship with God and when obeyed guaranteed man's continued acceptance with God. These Laws, or should I say "categories" of Laws were manifestations of man's Covenant stipulations with God whereby if observed "kept" man in good relationship with God within his respective Covenant. The Second Tablet of the Law contained the commandments and obligations given to man concerning man's relationship with man [remember mankind is created in the Divine image of God]. These "horizontal" commandments, when observed, guaranteed man's rightness with his brothers and neighbors and thereby his "rightness" with God as had the prior commandments from the First Table of the Law. Ironically, man's worst relationship with others is a direct indication of his "best" relationship with God.

Now we see that this Jesus, "the Christ", next said something very interesting; he said that the "second" was "LIKE" the "first". Let me explain further. Man was created in the image of Ha Shem and when we relate to mankind we are in reality relating to God at the same time for mankind carries the Divine Image. Egypt was the first to teach this concept believe it or not over 10,000 years ago. Thus the relationship between the "Two Tablets of the Law".

There were two "laws" or "commandments" which were fundamental in Jewish philosophy. These were "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God" and "Love thy neighbor as thyself." Again this is the picture for us in the "Two Tablets of the Law". In both ways, when we are observing and obeying the commandments, we are loving God. It has been said that our "worst relationship with man" is a direct picture of our "best relationship with God". Many but not all of the Sadducees, Scribes and the Pharisees that is, the religious ruling classes, laid all the emphasis on the "FIRST" tablet of the Law but our Jesus did differently; he laid all the emphasis on the "SECOND" tablet of the Law and its commandments.

This is the secret to the whole parable and has momentous importance in one's understanding of "inheriting Eternal Life".

The "Pharisees" interpreted the "love of God" to mean prayer, adulation, sacrifice and worship. This is all great but these religious leaders glorified God in a manner that would gratify a human despot. As for the second commandment ("Love thy neighbor as thyself"), it was entirely subordinate and its fulfillment consisted at best in almsgiving.

Answer for yourself: Remember Cornelius? Why did God remember this Gentile and make an example of him?

Acts 10:2 2 A devout man, and one that feared God with all his house, which gave much alms to the people (Second Tablet of the Law), and prayed to God alway (First Tablet of the Law) (KJV)

Cornelius, not a Jew mind you, and not a convert tot Judaism, keeping the Laws of God written on his heart which just happens to be parallel to the Laws of Moses.

Answer for yourself: Remember Dorcas? What is so special about her? What did she do? To whom did she give her alms; to the church or to needy people?

Acts 9:36 36 Now there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Dorcas: this woman was full of good works and almsdeeds which she did (Second Tablet of the Law) (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did you notice if you read on in Acts 9 that Dorcas died.

Acts 9:37-40 37 And it came to pass in those days, that she was sick, and died: whom when they had washed, they laid her in an upper chamber. 38 And forasmuch as Lydda was nigh to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sent unto him two men, desiring him that he would not delay to come to them. 39 Then Peter arose and went with them. When he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber: and all the widows stood by him weeping, and shewing the coats and garments which Dorcas made, while she was with them. 40 But Peter put them all forth, and kneeled down, and prayed; and turning him to the body said, Tabitha, arise. And she opened her eyes: and when she saw Peter, she sat up. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that both Dorcas and Cornelius were given alms to the needy? This is always taught by Judaism to result in a life that is honoring to God and the fruit of which earns one Eternal Life! Is it an accident that we see a resurrection from the dead of a person where the only thing mentioned is that she "did good works" and "gave alms" which just happens to be obedience to the Second Tablet of the Law? No, not at all. Is this a coincidence or a "Pattern"? When I studied Judaism for 5 years and even had Rabbis on my television shows in Dallas we taught this to the Gentile Christians; especially since every Christian Church I know of robs God of his tithe from where these alms are to come and go directly to the people and not to parking lots, gymnasiums, insurance, remodeling, rent, functions, hotels, bigger ministries, or pastor's houses or dinners, and I could go on! Christians don't know the tithe and how God commanded it be given and all that they know is that a man stands in front of them admonishing them to "not rob God" but to bring all their tithes into the "storehouse" which the Church defines as "themselves" when the truth of the matter is that is a "food barn" to feed the homeless, widows, orphans, crippled, sick, lame, blind, deaf, paralyzed and instead the Church makes us accessories to robbery of God by using these funds in ways not commanded by God. That is why when I learned the truth about the tithe by myself I told the senior Pastor where I was on staff that no longer will I tithe to this church but will give my tithe "only" to these areas since God said it! Sad, but we teach error misleading millions who never know the truth because they have little or no personal study of the Bible in their lives. Preaching is a poor substitute for teaching when "teaching is the highest form of worship of God" we can give according to the religion of a Jew like this Jesus.

Jesus, on the other hand, regarded the second commandment as arising out of the first, and, therefore, as its corollary. There was no way of loving God except by taking care of his children. God was the Father of us all. We must hallow him in His fatherhood: "Our Father . . . hallowed be thy Name." This can only be done by a full recognition of our brotherhood. There is no room for racism here. "One is your Master and all ye are brethren." This idea of the Fatherhood of God of all mankind is the foundation of all Jesus' precepts and teachings of "the Christ". It was the will of "our Father which is in heaven" that none of his children should suffer at the hands of each other. "Inasmuch as ye have done it to one of these, ye have done it unto me." "If any offend one of these little ones, better a millstone were hung round his neck, and that he were drowned at the bottom of the sea." Or again, "If thou bring thy sacrifice to the altar and there rememberest that thy brother hath fought against thee, leave there thy gift before the altar and be reconciled first to thy brother." "Thus, and thus only, can you glorify your Father which is in heaven". Therefore THE FIRST COMMANDMENT CAN BE FULFILLED ONLY BY THE OBSERVANCE OF THE SECOND. This the pivot of all Jesus' teaching, and it is on this point that Jesus met with the strongest opposition.

Answer for yourself: Why was that? Obeying the Second Tablet of the Law will cost you something!

This led to quibblings as to the relative importance of the two commandments, the first, on which the "scribes and Pharisees" relied; or the second, on which centered the teaching of Jesus and which he contended was "like unto the first."

When, therefore, Jesus simply referred the lawyer to "the law," he made no distinction as between the first and second commandment, for to Jesus the two meant one and the same thing.

Answer for yourself: Does it appear to you that this Jesus thought that he was to be the end of the Law of God to you? You see, you can forge books all day long, and Rome has, and you can change the message of God in these books, but you cannot change the evidence and fruit of obedience of these Laws of God. Even in this New Testament with its host of problems and problem passages the light and truth yet shines forth if you know where to find it and how to recognize it. For me, studying Judaism, the religion of this Jew, I learned these precious Divine Truths over those 5 years and am able to spot this truth in the New Testament and separate it from the falsehoods and theological lies that also are in it.

But the lawyer in this parable disagreed with this Jesus and his view on the Law. Not having received the answer in the form in which he had expected it, and he said to Jesus, That is, he challenged this Jesus on the second commandment, evidently trying to show the impracticability of his teaching.

"willing to justify himself,"

"And who is my neighbor?"

And now the illuminating parable, which I will quote in full:

Luke 10:30-36

- 30 And Jesus answering said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead.
- 31 And by chance there came down a certain priest that way: and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side.
- 32 And likewise a Levite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side.
- 33 But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him,
- 34 And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him.
- 35 And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee.
- 36 Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbor unto him that fell among the thieves

Jesus asks him a question. Reluctantly and evasively the lawyer admitted, "He that showed mercy on him." Again he was made to answer his own question.

But the chief significance of the parable he evaded, as do most of our Bible expositors of today. Nor, had it been the object of Jesus merely to teach the lawyer that "he that showed mercy was neighbor," Jesus could have chosen any three men for his parable, whereas he selected on purpose a priest, a Levite, and a Samaritan.

Answer for yourself: Why these three people?

It is just in the selection of the characters that the importance of the lesson is constituted. For the first man whom Jesus made to pass by on the other side was a priest, a man of prayer and fasting, of rites and ceremonials, looked upon as holy by his people. The second man was a religious man as well, equally conscientious in all the rituals of the synagogue.

Answer for yourself: And the third? Jesus chose you and me for this 3rd example which was shot heard round the world in the ears of bigoted Jews such as the School of Shammai who hated Gentiles and "non-Jew". Jesus chose for this 3rd person a despised alien, a Gentile, an unbeliever, a pariah, loathed by every self-respecting Jew in those days as is a "minority" to-day in Christian America.

Among these Jesus bade the lawyer to choose:

"Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbor to him that fell among thieves?"

The lawyer cleverly evaded the main issue by ignoring the status of the three persons named, and according his verdict to "him that showed mercy." To say outright, "The Samaritan", was perhaps too much to expect. He could not so debase priest and patrician, co-religionists and compatriots, as to prefer a Samaritan to them by name. But in this example we should see Cornelius, Dorcas, and ourselves as "non-Jews"!

IS THE HEART OF YOUR FAITH "CREED" OR "DEED"?

But, the lawyer had to admit more than he was probably aware of at the time, and that is, that religion of deeds comes before profession of creeds. And that is the lesson of the "Parable of the Priest, the Levite and Samaritan." To speak of it as the "Parable of the Good Samaritan" only is to ignore its chief lesson.

Jesus explained to the lawyer, and to us, what his religion was: Creed, mental assent to religious "dogmas" and "doctrines", prayer and fasting; patriotism, race, nationality, clanship; wealth and social position; were all brushed aside so as to accord place of honor to a good deed (Second Tablet of the Law), even though performed by one of the least of the sons of "our Father which is in heaven."

In the view of Jesus conventional piety, unsupported by good conduct, counted for nothing; whilst a good deed did not lose anything of its merits because performed by a person not belonging to a particular or to any sect.

We shall see further on that the absence of creed and ascent to "denominational belief systems" was an essential feature of the religion of Jesus, as in true religion it is bound to be. Said more simply, God cares more about how we live our lives than what we believe. We can be wrong about such things as "Who was Jesus, was he the Messiah, did he exist in history" for this does not really matter; what does matter with God is if we live according to the Laws of our Covenant; that "we live like this Jesus and "the Christ" for this is our example and ticket to Eternal Life". Such reliance on "creed" by Gentile Christianity, is the very heart of Gentile Christianity today and it should not be. You have to admit that you are either "in or out", "accepted or rejected" in Christianity by what you "believe" more than what you "do". At altar after altar, Sunday after Sunday, multitudes of people seeking God are led to "accept the current theology" of this church or that church and reassured that if they "believe" they shall be saved. The problem is what one is taught to "believe" changes between churches. Literally the Christian Church, due to the misunderstanding of Paul's epistles, rely on acceptance of "creed" over "deed" for salvation. This Jesus, "the Christ" does not agree with them and neither does God. Think!

This narrative is by no means an isolated passage, but one out of many, all to the same purpose. As our investigation proceeds it will be seen that this Jesus, "the Christ", never uttered a word that is ever so remotely inconsistent with the spirit displayed in this brief but telling narrative. That there are many sayings in the Gospels attributed to this Jesus which are diametrically opposed to it is, of course, admitted and problematic to the discriminating reader. But too few study to this level to see such things. But we shall not find it difficult to show that all such passages are doubtful as today's scholars teach us. The New Testament is forged and not accurate to the religion of this or any other Jew who is the light to world and possesses the true salvation message of God for all mankind. Dear one, we have two conflicting messages in the Gospels concerning "obtaining Eternal Life" and if you have not seen such conflicting dogmas of this later Romanized Paul then either you have not looked deep enough or you don't study enough. Superficial reading of the Bible profits little.

In this parable we have the key to the religion of Jesus, "the Christ". Traditional Gentile Christian theology extracts nothing more from this parable than an exhortation to be kind and to succor the weak. Blinded by its own dogmas, it never noticed the two leading principles that inspired it, that are the essence of it, and that must be the basis of true religion, if a true religion is possible at all. That true basis for all true religion is living by the Laws of God. Egypt taught us this in the beginning and did so 15,000 years B.C.E. They have the first Torah seen in their 42 negative confessions which they carved on the tombs and ossuaries. They lived their lives prepared to die and receive a good judgment from the Creator. These ancient Egyptians truly were righteous people and their children, the Jews, inherited these same Divine Concepts through Moses and Israel shines bright in a dark place today having the keys to Eternal Life to all those who look.. I did!

We will but briefly note these at present, for we shall see these two principles permeating the philosophy of Jesus.

Take, for instance, the lesson just noticed which Jesus imparted to an antagonist. The lawyer asked, "Who is my neighbor?" Jesus made him answer his own question and in a way he neither anticipated nor intended. In this instance a bigoted Jew had to answer his own question contrary to his prejudices. We might submit the same problem, thus clearly stated, to every man and woman on this planet, to every Christian, to every Brahmin, Buddhist, Mohammedan or Freethinker with the same result. Its universalism and eternal truth is clearly due to the total absence of any suggestion of theology, creed or dogma.

Even the name of the author might be eliminated without weakening the force of the lesson; for the fact that Jesus was the propounder of it clearly could not weigh in its favor with the heckling antagonist. It is characteristic of all the precepts of Jesus that they intrinsically make for unity, peace and concord, without needing any other support. This the mark of truth and the verification of the true message of God's and His Christ!

Obviously there can be but one true religion, and therefore such a religion—if possible at all—must tend to unite mankind. Indeed, this is the test whereby to distinguish true religion from its counterfeits: "By their fruits ye shall know them."

Answer for yourself: What are the fruits of the pseudo-religions with which we are acquainted—not excepting any ?

They are known to history as religions dissensions, religious feuds, religious wars, religious frauds, and even as religious crimes. Surely no sadder commentary is possible on the general conception of religion than the linking of the word with ideas which stand for its opposite, without anybody being shocked by the incongruity of the combinations, or the paradoxes which they suggest. Such blindness affects the Christian Church yet today.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE...NOTICE...IT IS THE SAME MESSAGE

Matt 22:36-40

- 36 Master, which is the great commandment in the law?
- 37 Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.
- 38 This is the first and great commandment.
- 39 And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.
- 40 On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets.

On a certain other occasion another lawyer asked Jesus—also "temptingly"—"Teacher, which is the great commandment in the law ?"

Except for the purpose of challenging a statement or an argument, there would be no sense in asking this question of a Jew; as well ask him whether he knows his own name.

Nor was this Jesus an ordinary Jew, or considered such by the heckling lawyer, who addressed him as "rabbi," i.e. "teacher." To assume, therefore, that the lawyer merely wanted to find out whether Jesus knew the commandment is too absurd for even a moment's consideration. Moreover, the narrator plainly says that the question was asked "temptingly," which in itself indicates that an argument was at issue between the lawyer and Jesus. The context not only shows this to have been the case, but from the answer of Jesus, as well as the conversation that followed it, we are able to gather the nature of the argument.

As I have already been pointed out, Jesus laid great stress on the second great commandment—"Love thy neighbor as thyself" (Second Tablet of the Law); whereas the "scribes and Pharisees" held the first great commandment (First Tablet of the Law) to be the supreme law. Hence the challenge of the lawyer, as if saying, "In your concern for mankind you are forgetting God. Do you not know the great commandment in the law ?"

In answering Jesus recited the law and then added: "This is the first and great commandment. By the second is like unto it: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

This makes sense of a narrative which, in the form in which it is presented in the English Version, is meaningless. There Jesus is made to say, "And the second is like unto it"—rendering the Greek particle "de" by the conjunction "and" instead of the argumentative particle "but"—which robs the passage of its meaning. For it is not likely that Jesus would have thought it necessary to inform an exponent of the law what the wording of the second commandment was.

Jesus said the "second" commandment is "like" the first. Let us see his thought by examining the word "like" in the Greek":

3664 homoios-

like, similar, resembling:

- a) like: that is, resembling
- b) like: that is, corresponding to a thing

You can see for yourself that to Jesus the "second" commandment corresponds and resembles the first.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE....SAME MESSAGE

Mark 12:31

31 And the second is like, namely this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these.

This, or a similar incident, is also recorded in Mark, the wording being slightly different. Jesus is there said to have added, "There is none other commandment greater than these two."

There is no contradiction in the two accounts, but rather corroboration. Very probably both versions are correct, the different wordings having been used on different occasions. The accusation that Jesus was ignoring the great law, and that he was teaching heretical and revolutionary doctrines, could not have been an isolated occurrence, but must have followed him. As constant must have been his reiterations that "the second law was like unto the first." Had the incident occurred once only, it would scarcely have survived or been handed down to us. Common to all these accounts we find Jesus emphasizing "deed" over "creed" and let us not forget that the religious leaders of his time had influenced just the opposite ("creed" over "deed" just the way Christianity does today!).

According to Mark: there was a dramatic sequel to this episode. The lawyer was struck by the answer and the interpretation Jesus gave to the two commandments. "And the scribe said unto him, "Well, Teacher, thou hast said the truth: for there is one God and there is none other but he: and to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbor as himself, is more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices. And when Jesus saw that he answered discreetly, he said unto him, Thou art not far from the kingdom of God (Mark: 12: 32-34).

Hidden beneath these texts again is the idea of Eternal Life!

“DO THIS AND LIVE”....SURE IS DIFFERENT FROM “BELIEVE IN OUR DENOMINATIONAL BELIEFS & DOGMAS AND LIVE”

Note the consistency with his reply given to the other lawyer: "Thou hast said right, this do and thou shalt live." That is, obey these two commandments "and live".

And now again when this lawyer says that the observance of these two laws "is more than all the burnt offerings and sacrifices," Jesus said to him, "Thou art not far from the kingdom of God"; "On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets"; and "There is none greater than these two commandments." True, indeed, that he had not come to destroy the law or the prophets, but to fulfill. It will Roman Christianity and their continued concealment of the truth due to their antisemitism that will rob the Gentile world of this true message of salvation given to all mankind.

THE KINGDOM OF GOD...WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO A JEW...LIKE THIS JESUS FOR EXAMPLE?

But now we must digress in order to restore to the phrase "kingdom of God" its original meaning and to correct a grave blunder committed by the early Gentile Christians and which has been perpetuated to this day in the Christian Church. The Greek word "basileia," here and elsewhere translated "kingdom," has two meanings. Like the English word "dominion" it may refer to the role of a king (which is the original meaning of the word) or, metaphorically, to the territory ruled over.

Jesus never used the phrase in the whole of the New Testament in any other sense than "the rule of God" or "reign of God," as is clear in each case from the context. When, for instance, he said to the lawyer "Thou art not far from the kingdom of God," the phrase can have meaning only if Jesus meant—as evidently he did mean—that the lawyer was not far removed from the "rule" or "law" of God.

Dear Christian believer, if you have understood what I have shown you so far as to what this Jesus believed and taught over and over again as opposed to the "accepted" religious theology of our day in the Christian Church with our Bibles which says such things as "...you are not under law but under grace" and "Christ is the end of the Law, then this has vital importance for you although you might not have realized it. If your standing in your faith and your "salvation" is founded on your mental ascent and corresponding faith and belief in a Christian doctrine and dogma concerning "this" theology or "that" theology about this Jesus and what is described in the New Testament to have been done him, which I remind you this religious document given us by Rome can be shown to be a crass purposeful adulteration of the Hebrew Scriptures which is again misquoted in the New Testament as well. This book, mind you, is shown by modern scholarship today, to have been created and written long after the time of this reputed Jesus of Nazareth by the Roman church and amended and changed throughout successive centuries and successive Catholic Church Councils as their antisemitic theology evolved century to century. This book, and the preaching of traditional Christian Churches assures us that only have to "believe in Jesus" and that our salvation is based upon what we "believe" all the while down-playing the importance of good works and assures us that they are not required for salvation. Little do Christians know that in the earliest copies of the book or Romans missing is this key "salvation" passage:

Rom 10:9-10 9 That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. 10 For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation. (KJV)

Our earliest copies of Romans do not contain chapters 9, 10, and 11 and, for our purpose here, we must see and it the startling fact that the above "salvation" passage was not in the original writings of the Gnostic Paul and was not there for a reason; that reason being that he did not believe in such a thing in the first place. Paul, whom Rome has writing 2/3 of our New Testaments was truly a Gnostic at heart but you rarely will see that in our corrupted New Testaments without much study and discernment on your parts. Our salvation, according to Christian dogma, is founded on one's mental belief in the doctrine that is attached to this Jesus and your confession of it to others. That doctrine, mind you, is that this Jesus "died for your sins" and "rose from the dead" and the "belief" is the only thing one needs to do in order to be "saved". This then assures one of salvation when they die. Surely any Christian person knows that "a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law" (Romans 3:28).

Contrary to what we saw Jesus, "the Christ", teach above the traditional stance of Christianity today, and since the earliest centuries of the Christian era, is that NONE of the Old Testament law applies to the Christian today. When Jesus died on the cross, he supposedly put an end to the Old Testament law (Rom 10:4; Gal 3:23-25; Eph 2:15).

Rom 10:4 4 For Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth. (KJV)

Gal 3:23-25 23 But before faith came, we were kept under the law, shut up unto the faith which should afterwards be revealed. 24 Wherefore the law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ, that we might be justified by faith. 25 But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a schoolmaster. (KJV)

Eph 2:15 15 Having abolished in his flesh the enmity, even the law of commandments contained in ordinances; for to make in himself of twain one new man, so making peace; (KJV)

Now we must pay attention closely to what I say next. Here is the ultimate paradox. In place of the Old Testament law, we as "believers" in this Jesus and "the Christ" are told we are under the law of Christ and not under the Laws of Moses any longer. Then we are told, in the same breath, that as Christians we are to "Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind. This is the first and greatest commandment. And the second is like it: Love your neighbor as yourself. All the Law and the Prophets hang on these two commandments" (Matt 22:37-40). If we do these two things, we are told that we will be fulfilling all that Christ wants for us to do, "This is love for God: to obey his commands. And his commands are not burdensome" (1 John 5:3).

Answer for yourself: What? This is circular reasoning at its best and we are back at the beginning of what this Jesus taught but why all this anti-Law rhetoric then in this New Testament given us by Rome? Who can follow this train of thought correctly from beginning to end? Few. Most read one passage like "Christ is the end of the Law" and get up from there thinking that the Laws of Noah and the Laws of Moses are ended and passed away not comprehending the big picture or the message of this spiritual book.

I have heard other preachers say that the Ten Commandments are not even applicable to Christians.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that you can find 9 of the Ten Commandments repeated in the New Testament (all except the command to observe the Sabbath day), but yet examples where "non-Jews" kept the Sabbath? We must read with understanding and for that to happen we must ask God to open our minds and hearts to see what we have not seen before when reading this book. We must ask God to allow us to see what He wants us to see and not what our Christian tradition and Churches and Pastors want us to see. We need to fall on our knees and stay there till our sight and spiritual perception is opened to the truth of God's message which is not always what traditional Christianity teaches.

Answer for yourself: Now for a big, big question. How do we love the Lord your God with all our hearts and with all our souls and with all our minds? How do we love our neighbor as ourselves?

There are many things we do which we think are right and good but actually in light of what God has commanded in the Hebrew Scriptures is not and we don't know it. Take tithing for example. It is good to give and God has commanded how this is to be done in the Hebrew Scriptures and laid it out plainly for all to see yet we are led in our Christian Churches to give our money and tithes to the Church were almost all don't follow the commandments and laws regarding the Tithe in the Old Testament and don't place and uses these funds correctly only in the areas and manners "commanded by God". You see God has stated clearly "how much" and "where" these gifts are to be used and USED ONLY! God has no slush fund where these fund can be used for whatever purpose the Pastor or board or directors so desires. So, in giving our gifts to God in our churches, we think we are doing good but by giving our funds to such people and not making sure these gifts go to the "places where I placed My (God) name" we become accessories to robbing God and not know it because we again don't know what the Word of God has to say on this matter. Like me once, you just trust your Pastors never knowing these texts well enough to spot disobedience. We may think we are loving God with all our hearts when we give and it "feels right" and we might cry with emotion but actually we are disobedient and never know it having insufficient knowledge of the Hebrew Scriptures. Again, our emotions and our church tradition deceives us. You see dear one, it is impossible to love God with all our hearts and with all our souls without knowing "How" to do it and this is the beauty of the Torah given to both Jews and "non-Jews" because it shows how. This Law, which this New Testament and our preachers assure us that we are no longer "under" is the way whereby God defined for all mankind how to make themselves pleasing to Him and in so doing gave them absolutes whereby they might know what is the perfect and acceptable will of God for all mankind. This Torah is a collection of Two Tablets of the Law containing requirements of mankind in his relationship with God and with his fellow man. There are 613 Laws in the Laws of Moses and 66 Commandments in the Laws of Noah. These Positive Commandments teach us what God "is" and what God "does" and the Negative Commandments teach us what God "is not" and what God "does not do". We are called by God and this is the "PATTERN" given us to shape, train, and mature our Souls in this plane of existence. When we take upon ourselves to live by this pattern of positive and negative commandments, and when the "non-Jew" fulfills the Laws of Noah and applies Isaiah 56 to his life where he goes beyond the minimum and "keep My sabbaths, and choose the things that please me, and take hold of my covenant" then we are assured that our conduct and deeds are acceptable with God. We are admonished to rely not upon our understanding for a reason: "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death." (Proverbs 16:25). Only in obeying these Commandments which result in righteous deeds and behaviors can we be assured that our deeds and motives are pure and proper before God and that such obedience is greater than any sacrifice that could be given. These Commandments, mind you, are our Covenant stipulations and which frame our individual Covenants with God.

Let us not forget that "mental assertion or belief in a religious dogma", even if about this Jesus, is not a "deed" but "creed". And within Christianity such mental accent in this "Jesus Story" is rampant to the neglect of the real message of this Jesus, "the Christ", regarding Eternal Life where "deed" is more important than "creed" or "mental belief". If our "dogmas" are correct then our "deeds" will be correct. Thus, the need to study to make sure we have "the truth". It is obvious from the teachings of Jesus that merely by agreeing, accepting, or assenting to a proposition or "religious belief or dogma" that one (the lawyer in the story) could not be any nearer to a locality. Compare also "Thy kingdom (i.e. 'rule' or 'reign') come: Thy will be done on earth," etc. Believing "IN" someone is meaningless if that person's alleged teachings are not obeyed, or made of no effect by some later doctrine and this is the crucial issue involved with the Roman New Testament and its antisemitic and anti-Law bias.

The Gospels, containing both truth and error, are sadly full of such blundering errors of translation and misinterpretation when compared to the Hebrew Scriptures; sometimes due to the ignorance of the scribes and sometimes on purpose because of Gentile theological biases which were carried over from their past religious beliefs which were transferred and attached to the figure of Jesus. In so doing we lost the truth concerning the "Jewish Messiah" and "the Christ" as well. This might be news to you but serious study into these very difficult areas, such as Comparative religions, Gnosticism, Astronomy, Egyptian Religion, and Astrotheology, areas which makes the student's task often very tedious and are emotionally unsettling at times, will result in such an undeniable conclusion which I have elaborate above concerning the true Gospel vs the false Gospel in this Roman New Testament. Right now many will disagree with what I have said but they do so only because of prior indoctrination in error and because they have not done the necessary studies and evaluated the vast amount of existing evidence from these areas of study for themselves. I have done this type of study going on twenty years now and so have hundreds of other Christian and Jewish scholars who, when having done such exhaustive and competent scholarly study, will tell you the same truth on the matter. In doing these studies from these above areas and sources and when reading good books we all see the same picture unfold and the same things since the truth is out there and has never changed since the beginning of recorded time; it changed in the 3rd century with Rome and today this same "truth" since the beginning of time lies hidden behind 1,800 years of lies, forgeries, ignorance, and deceptions. The bottom line from such studies is that you will see that Rome has given the Gentile world a false gospel, a false assurance, a false salvation message, a false atonement, a false Jewish messiah, a false Christ, and a false representation of this "Jesus". You will not find such materials that reveals these "changes" in Joshua's Christian Book Stores or at Zondervans, or at a "Family Christian Book Store" but this does not mean such overwhelmingly convincing evidence does not exist. Start by going to Barnes and Noble Book stores or Borders and spend a few hours reading the titles of books in their non-Christian religious sections. Browse their "theology" sections and their "Jewish" sections along with their "Egyptian" sections and begin to set yourself free of this falsehood fed us since we were children in this country. Bet Emet Ministries stands in the gap to instruct in sound doctrine, reprove, rebuke, and exhort in order that you might find yourself in the true faith of this Jesus and not in a counterfeit faith that has lapsed from the truth.

ONE LAST EXAMPLE...SAME MESSAGE AGAIN...COINCIDENCE?

16 And, behold, one came and said unto him, Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life?

A certain ruler came saying, "Good Teacher, what good thing shall I do that I may have eternal life?"

Now we find that another approaches this Jesus but not temptingly this time, but comes to Jesus only with a pure desire for information that has an affect on his salvation. We should all hopefully identify with this truth-seeker for it should be us who does the same.

Three of the Gospels record this incident - Matthew, Mark, and Luke; and, barring verbal differences, their agreement as to everything that is essential leaves little to be desired. This seeker of truth was not a heckler. According to all the accounts this man was genuinely desirous of knowing what he should do to inherit eternal life. Notice that he knew what most Christians today do not know; namely, that there are things we must "do" for Eternal Life. Read the passage again and try to convince yourself that "do" should have been "believe" as the Roman New Testament and their Romanized-Paul would have us believe. It says "do" in all three Synoptic Gospels. This "seeker of truth" was a true disciple, for we are told that Jesus, beholding him, "loved him."

Answer for yourself: Are we to deduce that "the Christ" loves "truth seekers" who ask the tough questions in life? I will let you figure that one out for yourself.

Therefore, if ever there was an occasion or an opportunity in the whole career of Jesus to declare his scheme and message of salvation for all mankind, if there was even a time in the ministry of this Jesus to teach and reinforce Pauline doctrine that only those who will come to trust in his soon coming death, burial and resurrection for the payment of their sins and thereby inherit Eternal Life by "believing" in what he was soon to accomplish, surely this was the supreme moment. But this Jesus does not say anything like this at all; in fact he says just the OPPOSITE! And his answer cuts to the very core of his own personal faith. Jesus' answer is the very heart of what Judaism had taught for thousands of years concerning "mankind's salvation" and how mankind is to "obtain Eternal Life". The same can be said for Egypt as well from where the Jews arose. The "Gospels" of Egypt and Judaism are the same!

Answer for yourself: What should we notice now? Dear one consistency is to be strongly noticed and appreciated here. The three Synoptic Gospels stand in complete unity about this "message of Salvation" as opposed to both the Hellenistic Gospel of John and its "message of Salvation" as well as the later forged "Romanized Pauline epistles" which have hundreds of Gentile "footprints" to which the uninformed reader misses when he reads them.

Back to our study notice that Jesus rebuked this disciple for giving him a distinctive predicate: "Why callest thou me good ? there is none good but one, that is God." If you were a Jew then you would know that "good" was a euphemism for God and there is only One God and Only One Good....that is the Creator. This is a "key" that Gentile readers of the Gospel of John, uninitiated with the facts of the Jewish faith fail to catch. Then he gave him this simple direction in answering his question as to the method of obtaining Eternal Life: "Keep the commandments." Again we see the same message over and over and over again and it agrees with thousands of years of Jewish and Egyptian teaching on Eternal Life and can be traced even to 13,000 years B.C.E. in Egypt which is long before the first of the Jewish race ever existed and we see this same consistency and this same message in Jesus' "Salvation Message" in all 3 Synoptic Gospels and this dear one is how one was to obtain Eternal Life.

Now notice closely for we are almost finished. The man responded to Jesus' statement where he said "Keep the commandments" (Laws of your Covenant) with a question: "Which?" Jesus' answer was explicit: "Thou shalt do no murder, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Honor thy father and mother, anti Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself" (Mat. 14:16-21).

Answer for yourself: Did you notice anything peculiar in Jesus' answer that was missing from what you have been taught by Gentile Christianity today about the Laws of God regarding how to obtain Eternal Life?

There is NOT ONE word whatsoever in Jesus' answer about "believing" anything or any religious dogma or belief about him, or anything else for obtaining Eternal Life! Its all about "Keeping the Commandments" in our respective Covenants.

No hint about the necessity of baptism for inheriting Eternal Life is mentioned here. There is not even an intimation about attendance at the synagogue or about going to "Church" for receiving Eternal Life. There is not one hint about burnt offerings, blood sacrifices, fastings, or believing in any doctrines or religious dogmas connected somehow with Jesus' later death or believing in some forthcoming resurrection or death on the cross that is connected by Jesus with obtaining and inheriting Eternal Life. One would think that if these issues were integral and necessary for Eternal Life then Jesus would have taught so and warned this man to "don't miss it now". To fail to mention this and hide the truth from this man and teaching just the opposite concerning obtaining Eternal Life would make Jesus a false teacher and the penalty in the Torah for that is death! To do any less or to purposefully deceive this man who asked the most important question of his life is incriminating to the character of one believed by many to be Messiah or God no less. Surely Jesus did not have amnesia. It must be then that this Jesus told the truth!

Answer for yourself: Now some thought provoking questions. Was Jesus out to mislead us? Why did he not refer to the later Pauline doctrines of salvation that would be developed subsequently and afterwards connected with his death or even mention the forthcoming Gospel of John and its theology of the "crucified godman" if these doctrines and beliefs in them would be "necessary" for obtaining Eternal Life as the Gentile Church teaches us today? Why didn't Jesus tell this man to believe in "his identity as the Messiah or 'the Christ'" and "who he was" and "what he was about to do"? Why did Jesus not refer to the "creed" that Paul supposedly would write later in Romans 10: 9-10 where all mankind only needs to "believe" and "confess" this creed or believe in this creed and Christian doctrine about Jesus to be "saved"? Did you know that this part of the Book of Romans, chapters 9-11, were not in the original Book of Romans and added in the Second Century? I did not know that Paul was on life-supports that long, did you? Did Jesus have the salvation message of Judaism wrong? Was he an illiterate Jew unknowing of his own faith?

You see this Jesus knew, as all good Jews know, that salvation is not about believing in a doctrine about a dying god or godman who is later raised from the dead but about life and how one lives his life before God. That is why we were given these Laws of God in the first place for they are the pathway to Eternal Life and "Heaven" when obeyed and repented of when we fail. them These Laws are to be a life-style!

Now I apologize for jumping so far ahead as we wrap this up.

Answer for yourself: Could it be possible that this Jesus knew, as did many Jews and Rabbis back then, that such doctrines as the "dying and rising god or godman" or "the crucified godman", which had been by the way taught for thousands and thousands of years since the beginning of time in "so-called" and Roman defined "pagan" nations, all the way back in Ancient Egypt some 10,000 years or more, was NEVER to be understood "literally" in context but was ONLY symbolic and allegorical for the Descent of the Divine Soul into matter, into flesh, where it was to be trained daily by these Commandments and Laws of God to control the animal nature of the body and in so doing perfect itself Spiritually in preparation for its return to Heaven one day and its reunification with the Father of Light? A corruption and a false "literalization" of this Ancients spiritual wisdom will be created by Rome in their New Testaments and in so doing the very vehicle given all mankind for his perfection is taken away from them and rendered as a "curse" and "null and void". In its place Rome's replacement salvation message will be built upon a mental belief and assent to a "theology" which they created when they "literalized" the "godman" and taught that such a belief in this Jesus, as this godman, was necessary for salvation and Eternal Life. But such a teaching and "literalization" of the "godman" I found has absolutely no place within Biblical faith, Sinai, Israel, Egyptian religion, or anything to do with the saving God of Israel! That is why you don't find such things as taught by this Jesus, or "this Christ", in the Synoptic Gospels when he was asked concerning the way to inherit Eternal Life.

Dear ones this is the problem that most Christians today are confronted with when they study. If you study long enough and hard enough you will eventually encounter the truth about this Jesus and "the Christ". You, not knowing this Ancient truth, have believed in a book handed down to you by an antisemitic Rome which is a propagandist mixture of "literalized 'pagan' religious doctrines" blended with a little truth from Biblical Judaism. Antisemitic Roman theology has created a "hybrid Jesus" whereby he is pictured in the New Testament both as a Zeus and an anointed Jewish Rabbi positioned to be the Messiah of Israel. Well-intentioned people have put their whole faith into what the New Testament teaches never noticing the many outstanding contradictions concerning doctrine after doctrine that exist when compared with Biblical Judaism which birthed this movement in the beginning let alone Egypt where these first understandings of God, the Divine realm, and Eternal Life began. Dear one it is these "doctrines" regarding the Descent of the Divine Soul into matter, into this fleshly temple made without hands, and its maturation and spiritual development through training by obedience to the Commandments and Laws of God which, when "believed", lead to "doing", and "doing" unto Eternal Life. We either do it right or we do it wrong. If we do it wrong because we are led astray by much in the New Testament then we sin and our Souls lay anemic and unchanged. By declaring the New Testament "inspired, infallible, and inerrant" we have taken from most the initiative to study thereby falsely assuring its readers that this New Testament is "Divine truth" from page to page. No one ever approaches the New Testament desiring to prove it wrong. I did not. It was only after consistent study over the years that these things surfaced to my understanding. Like most I wanted to "believe" and accepted everything in the New Testament as "true". I was "saved". The more I studied Jesus the Jew and his faith did I begin to see the irregularities and contradictions within it when contrasted with what I had been taught as a Gentile Christian. The more study I did when comparing doctrine with doctrine, line upon line, and precept upon precept was I able to detect the forgery and the corruption of the true Salvation Message given us by God and how we are to obtain Eternal Life. Over time I began to see that in many places this Paul and Jesus disagreed on their "salvation" messages. Over time I began to see that the New Testament pitted "creed" against "deed" as connected with Eternal Life. Over time I began to see how the Gospel of John was a total denial and contradictions of the Synoptic Gospels regarding obtaining Eternal Life which stressed "deed" over "creed". As I later began in-depth study in comparative religions I was horrified to find the "Christ story" repeated over and over again in almost every Gentile religion that existed prior to the time of Jesus' life; even as far back as Ancient Egypt where I found the names for "Jesus Christ" and "the Christ". Egypt got it right and so did their children the Jews and today in Judaism we find this sacred truth which is terribly blurred almost beyond recognition in Rome's New Testament. Now pay attention please. Over time I came to understand why these "Jesus Stories" were the same and were copied from nation to nation for thousands of years down through history where only the "names" were changed but the "events" and "sayings" remained intact. These prior "Jesus Stories" were not to be stories of "literal godmen" who died and were raised to life again but pictures, symbols, metaphors, and allegories of the awaking of this God and His Christ within mankind and man's partnership with God in redeeming this Soul as well as this physical plane on which we live and this is done through exerting God's will toward it by obedience to His Laws and Commandments. This is how we "till the garden" of this Earth we call Eden. I soon came to realize I was a "creedal Christian" which held dear to himself hundreds of erroneously understood ancient and "pagan" beliefs that had nothing to do with a "literal Jewish Jesus" at all. This whole Bible was an allegory of a Divine truth interpreted through the development and evolution of a Jewish people, written through the unfolding of a Jewish nation and through their eyes to teach the Souls of all mankind to grow up into God's image. I came to realize that this Earth is a training ground whereby we, as God's Souls and life principles in matter (flesh), a long way from home, develop and mature spiritually to the degree we submit to and obey God's Laws and Commandments. I realized that I had been a follower of a "literalized" Roman Jesus heavily influence by an anti-Law biases from a Romanized Paul and a forged New Testament. That meant simply that I had a false salvation message. I had the wrong "gospel" and only when I discovered the "Jewish Christ", when looking deeply into a "Jewish Jesus", an example for all mankind which had not forsaken the Laws of God but loved and taught them, did I find the real truth of God given to mankind in the beginning of time. The world's oldest and purest religion, the religion of Egypt, testifies to this and the Jews are their biological offspring and carry their parent's revelations of the Divine yet today. Greece destroyed Egypt but try as they may no one has succeeded to destroy their Jewish children and it is here we find the truest reflection of that original message given mankind by God in the beginning of time which shows all how to inherit Eternal Life. Such a "Romanized Jesus" never existed nor these anti-Jewish doctrines about him. I had been deceived. Fifteen years of intense study had paid off for me; but what about you?

You can either read this article and discount it completely or you can open you mind and realize that you need to begin serious study in order to prove you yourself what I have shown you to be true; hopefully in time for your repentance from this Romanized Jesus and Paul before you die and meet the God you love who never gave you such "anti-Jewish and anti-Law beliefs" in the first place. The choice is yours.

Again, not a word was mentioned by this Jesus about "believing" this or that for Eternal Life.

Answer for yourself: Should we suppose that such instruction had been given, but had been lost in the transmission? Is the account as it has reached us perhaps incomplete? Not so. The narrative does not leave us in any doubt for we have two other Gospels in complete agreement on the issue concerning obtaining Eternal Life. Besides that, it goes on to say that the young man, wishing to be certain about his duties, said: "All these I do already, what lack I yet?"

Jesus said that if he wanted to be perfect, all he could do was to sell what he had, give it to the poor, and help him to preach the SAME gospel to the rest of mankind.

Answer for yourself: Here is almsgiving again and we mentioned that above several times since it is a "deed" that leads to Eternal Life as seen in the examples of Dorcas and Cornelius and showed you how incorrect tithing is an abomination of such a truth! Now do you think you have been taught the "same" Gospel "the Christ" taught or a substitute one?

There is not only agreement between these scattered narratives, in sharp contrast to the substance of the rest of the Gospels, but a most remarkable consistency of aim and purpose. This consistency is not merely between the three incidents we have noticed, but also with the exhortations of the Sermon on the Mount, which, by universal admission, constitute the essence of the teachings of Jesus.

Here as elsewhere, that is, in those portions of the Gospels which in style and diction no less than in doctrine are so easily distinguishable from the rest, Jesus is laying emphasis on what he himself calls "the greatest of all commandments": "Love thy neighbor as thyself." In so doing, that is, in loving our "neighbors," whosoever they may be, we are hallowing the Fatherhood of God.

Rites and ceremonials were of no account at all. This is what the Catholic Church is all about..."creed" for salvation. Before you begin to bash Catholics understand Protestantism is little better. Understand that rites and ceremonies were not condemned in Judaism, but at the same time were admissible only after proper observance of the Law. Every trespass against a fellow-man, even the slightest, was an error which no amount of prayer or sacrifice could condone without repentance. All his precepts and all his arguments are centered around this principle. Our ideal was to be the image of God in this world, the Father which is in heaven.

Contrast now what we have learned above with the following words which are put into the mouth of this Jesus by the Gentile redactors of the Gospel of Mark:

"And he [Jesus] said unto tract, Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall he saved, and he that believeth not shall be damned."

Answer for yourself: Is this the same Gospel that this same Jesus has been teaching or has someone tampered with the texts again? I may point out that it is known to me that it has been questioned whether Mark wrote the verses in which this passage occurs. But if he did not, some other scribe did; and the words, forged as they are, summarize well the basic doctrine of Christianity which opposes the truths of Judaism even yet today.

Compare this illogical, incomprehensible and brutal decree ("damned for not believing and damned for being sprinkled"...by the way millions were murdered by Rome for not being sprinkled and for immersing their infants as well as themselves down through church history) with the reasoned, humane and gentle exhortation:

" Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that despitefully use you and persecute you; that you may be the children of your Father which is in heaven."

Answer for yourself: Is it possible to believe that the same teacher, so consistent, so clear and logical, and so meticulously just and gentle as is the author of the Sermon on the Mount could have pronounced so unutterably absurd a decree ?

Answer for yourself: What, if we accept this as genuine, are we to make of the other injunction which bids us to be "like our Father which is in heaven" ["deed" again...remember?]? The proposition is too absurd for serious argument.

Dear one take this to heart and understand that Gentile Christianity today follows a religious belief system that in most parts is totally alien to what the true Christ actually believes and has taught men for thousands of years to do to inherit Eternal Life. Decide today to come to know better this symbolic "Jewish Jesus" as symbol and "the vehicle of the Christ", follow this example, learn this religion of the Jew, and help expose the lies taught in the name of the Roman Zeus. Shalom.

CONTRASTING THE GOSPEL OF JESUS VS THE GOSPEL OF PAUL #2

In the previous article I provoked your thoughts by sharing with you that the New Testament consists of two competing and conflicting Gospels:

- One ascribed to Jesus
- The other ascribed supposedly to the Apostle Paul.

In the previous study we saw that one of these two different Gospels represented the faith of this "Jewish Jesus" which stresses "deeds" and "good works" as manifestations of one's obedience to the Laws and Commandments of God in one's respective Covenant with God for salvation and inheritance of Eternal Life. The other conflicting gospel and plan of salvation we deal with now stresses adherence to an accepted orthodox "belief", "creed" or "religious theology" in order to inherit Eternal Life which is ascribed by the writers of this New Testament as being the Gospel of Paul. We will see in this article and the one to follow that this second "Gospel" ascribed to Paul is 180 degrees opposite from the one taught by this "Jewish Jesus" represented as "the Christ" in the New Testament. Let me show you as we continue this study. But first of all some questions to prepare us for this study.

Answer for yourself: Can we have two conflicting, antagonistic, clashing, contrary, and contradicting Gospels and both be correct? Needless to say one is wrong and one is right! Hopefully after you finish these studies you will be able to determine which is which and truth from fiction and which of these two contrary Gospels is truly the "Word of God" that God wanted all mankind to have and which is not.

Answer for yourself: Now this might sound crazy on the surface but "How many different Pauls are there in the New Testament"? Are you aware that modern scholarship today both teaches us and shows us quite expertly that not all the epistles bearing Paul's name or ascribed to him in the New Testament are actually his writings and accurately reflected the true religious beliefs of the authentic Paul?

At the outset of this study, let us realize, that what we have today in the "New Testament" and which is attributed to the apostle Paul, may well never have been written by him! Sections no doubt have been inserted and tampered with and subsequently removed. Other sections are very "un-Jewish" for a learned orthodox Messianic Jew, the likes of Paul, to proclaim like the whole Church leadership system of "elders and deacons" which is a pagan concept unknown to Judaism (which was the initial Messianic Faith). Sections like this and others are believed to have been inserted by the Roman Catholic establishment which had almost exclusive rights over the original new Testament Scriptures (which are "lost" to this day) and during a time when there were no printing presses or means of copying outside of the powerful hold of the Church.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that modern scholarship today teaches us how many of the writings and epistles ascribed to this Paul in the New Testament were written much later by other "literalistic" pro-Paulinists that lived long after him and that these writings can be shown to be conflicting with the earlier authentic Pauline writings "theologically"? At the root of this is the tension between a "Gnostic" and "anti-Gnostic" Paul and theology and this will come to be apparent to you once your studies progress to this level.

Take a breath and let that sink in. Modern scholarship today, using the results of close scrutiny of these New Testament texts and findings of archeology, teaches us today that what is commonly believed about the Bible and New Testament as a book, its date, authorship and "inspiration", is all quite erroneous. There is scarcely a single item of the common man's presuppositions about the Christian Scriptures concerning such things as "who wrote these books, when they were written, how the composition was "dictated" or "inspired", what its message really means, in what language it was written, what its assumed historical reference, how and why these "particular" books were selected out of hundreds to become "the Bible," and other subsidiary questions by the score" are seen as "truthful" today when exposed to the light of critical modern religious scholarship today. Your personal study into the origin of the New Testament will this reveal to you, as it did me, and if one does such studies he easily sees today that this Roman New Testament became subjected to the human inclinations of tampering, altering, and religious dishonesty of many sorts. That these earlier sacred writings met with this treatment at the hands of Rome is not only admitted by the historians of Christianity in its early stages, but is even boasted of by the scribes and some of the Church Fathers, who thus initiated the moral justification for such falsification and alteration of the earlier Scriptural wisdom of the Ancients. In other words they "forged" the texts we have today and had the gall to brag about it in much of their writings. Much evidence exists that substantiates the flagrant practice of literary forgery in the early stages of the emerging Gentile Roman Christian Church beyond anyone's doubt and cannot be denied in view of the facts and comparison of these texts with accurate historical and archeological analysis. We have done this extensively and the results of such comparisons are in many of our Ministry's websites. Once one reads the boasts of the early Church Fathers which attest to this practice and bragging of it then any denials by Christians who read our informative articles will be quietened had they only read the massed evidence to this deception and forgery of the Ancient Wisdom texts; texts by the way that revealed from the foundation of mankind God's true message to all His creation which both was and is yet today transmitted to all mankind by "the Christ" and the "Jewish Jesus" and Judaism but sadly is lacking in the Romanized Gospel of Paul.

Paulinism with its many implications has become a real heresy. The natural result of this warped system will undoubtedly be to discount the Words of God, abolish the underlying true essence of the Message of the Kingdom for this age, and present seeking believers with another Gospel, which is called the "Gospel of Grace". No greater lie has ever been foisted upon the people of God than this terrible misrepresentation of the True Purpose and Plan of the Creator God for man. This great lie is embodied in the so-called "New Gospel of Grace", which is accredited to the apostle Paul according to "his" interpretation. Church tradition states that this "Paul" wrote 13 letters, and each one of them started with his own name! He used the personal pronoun "I, me, or my", 949 times! In the twelfth chapter of 2 Corinthians, the big personal pronoun was used seven times in the sixth verse alone; 60 times in the same chapter of 21 verses! This is rather amazing since each of the Gospels is "nameless" and authorship unknown. We find this Romanized Paul declared that he was "not a whit behind the very chiefest apostles" (2 Cor, 11:5); and again: "In nothing am I behind the very chiefest apostles" (2 Cor, 12:11). These are assertions which are rather hard to accept in light of the historical evidence to the contrary.

Answer for yourself: In comparing this claim of Paul to superiority, with Hebrews 3:1, where Messiah is also referred to as an "Apostle", we find cause to wonder if Paul, the former Gentile "Saul of Tarsus", perhaps thought himself to be "not a whit behind" the "Christ"? Did he actually think he was equal with the "Christ"? Would a real person say all of these things when there are many warnings in the Bible against self-exaltation: "I am YHWH; that is My Name; and My Glory will I not give to another" (Isa.42:8). And James reminds us (chapter 3, verse 5), "the tongue is a little member, and boasts great things".

In any event, masses of Christians today regard Paul as just such - and even more, considering that they allow this Paul to have authority over the Law of God, claiming it to have been replaced, done away with, nullified, "nailed to the Cross!" As such, they regard him as author of a "New Gospel"; a Gospel that contradicts the Gospel of the Jewish Jesus and "the Christ".

The writer of these epistles, definitely not the Gnostic Paul, in his constant reference to himself, has thrown an element of confusion into his message, which has blinded the eyes of many. According to these texts in the Roman New Testament this Paul did, unquestionably, have a divine revelation - but not a new Gospel. He was instructed of the Lord; not of men; but he was not given a different Message! Paul consistently preached the Gospel of the Kingdom to the very end of his ministry: "Preaching the Kingdom of God" (Acts 28 : 31); "The glorious Gospel of Messiah" (2 Cor. 4:4); also 2 Thess. 1:8; Rom. 15:19 - all of these statements deny that this apostle was the chosen herald of a New Gospel. But yet we have one ascribed to him in this New Testament.

Devotees of the heresy of "grace unlimited", find abundant support for their distorted teachings in the epistles of Paul. There are millions of present-day professing Christians who actually believe that this apostle was the founder of a "New Gospel of Grace". It is this teaching that has opened the door of the church to the world: unrestricted license, freedom and liberty from all law to any who will accept and believe the new Gospel. It is this interpretation which has heralded these present times of lawlessness and crime without proper judgment in the world.

This fact of doctrinal manipulation by Rome and others increasingly complicates our study not only of these conflicting "gospels" we find in the New Testament but the true Paul himself. I have a website devoted to the "Pauline Problem" where I take to task this "literalistic Paul" of Rome's invention and the forgeries of the Hebrew Scriptures and the anti-Law bias penned in his name by Rome which "reinterprets the Christ". In tension with this study we offer a website as well dealing with the authentic Gnostic Paul where I can be much more kind to this man when dealing only with his authentic writings which are full of "Spiritual Truth" and, when compared with the message of the Jewish Jesus (the Christ), does no damage to the Gospel of this Jewish Jesus. This authentic Gnostic Paul is not without problems however, but we will see this pales in comparison when considering what Rome did to the revelation of God to all mankind and the alteration of His Christ along with this anti-Law bias and we will look at this small Pauline problem later on in this site when dealing with the Antioch Incident. But understand from this moment on that what we have before us in the New Testament is a convoluted puzzle of religious contradictions of immense proportions created by the hands of Rome who consistently added to and changed the earlier Ancient revelations of God, His Laws, and His "Christ" in order to separate themselves from the "Jewish way" which carried and still does carry today these Ancient understandings of God and His Christ in their purest forms. Now don't resign your church or make any changes yet to your religious beliefs; let us continue to study for quite a while until you see and acquire enough "puzzle pieces" to see these truths about "the Christ", the two Pauls, the forgery of the Hebrew Scriptures in the New Testament, and the conflicting Gospels in this New Testament for yourself. Only then should you repent and speak to God about what you have learned and necessary corrections in your "religious belief system".

Now let us begin the study of the Romanized Paul and what the Gospel reputed to be, as he says, "my gospel" which contradicts the Gospel of Jesus.

It is not difficult to trace Paul's conversion and the genesis of his philosophy out of his own writings. His mind at the time when he journeyed to Damascus was obsessed by two sets of ideas: the heresy of the Nazarenes and the Scriptures. Paul, at first a Sadducee, would later come to find out he was wrong and the Nazarenes, instead of being a heresy, was indeed orthodoxy. That was not the only thing Paul is wrong about as we are seeing. Yet in fairness to Paul, there is a great chance that much of his writings and thoughts were, as mentioned above, "reworked" and "edited" by Rome in the production of their New Testament as many of his supposed later "anti-Gnostic beliefs" have the marks of tampering and a closer affinity to Rome's "literalizing" of the Ancient Wisdom than with Judaism.

As his zeal drove him from place to place hunting for heretics (at first Paul was a Sadducee working for the Chief Priest and carried letters to arrest the Nazarenes), he actively searched the Scriptures for arguments to confound these dissenters from orthodoxy, with the result, as happens so often in like circumstances, that suddenly the other side of the proverbial "coin" flashed into view and gave a new direction to his thoughts. Paul came to understand that he had been simply wrong in many of his "beliefs". This is what I hope happens to our readers when provoked to deeper thought than usual when confronted with undeniable facts which expose the fallacy of much of our inherited Christian faith which is based often more in fiction than truth.

Paul was present at the stoning of Stephen, and heard the latter's defense of his belief. He must have listened to many such speeches and arguments (based on Scripture texts) from those of the sect whom he hunted down and dragged before the priestly tribunals. Their arguments are bound to have left impressions on his mind, which gradually would create doubts as to his own beliefs. If at any time such a doubt arose in Paul's mind, and we know that it did arise, there was but one way of settling it; namely by the Scriptures.

We have seen what were Paul's conclusions and the kind of arguments on which these were based. The Messiah, it occurred to him, had been promised; therefore that promise "needs must have been fulfilled." There was no getting over that "fact" since the Prophets had spoken repeatedly of this "coming one". Not only had Paul nothing more substantial to start with or to build upon, but it would have been quite impossible to suggest to him anything more convincing or reliable than Scripture prophecy. For him, at that time, there was, and there could be, no more solid fact. In later years, however, Paul, or should I say a pro-Paulinist writer, would substitute "his own gospel" for the message of the Hebrew Scriptures (Ignatius Singer, The Rival Philosophies of Jesus and of Paul, London: George Allen & Unwin Ltd., p. 26). This rare book is quite excellent and I recommend it highly if you can find it. This substitution of "anti-Law ideas" to the degree that it is done along with the "literalization" of "the Christ" is the crux of this "other Gospel" which cleverly these New Testament forgers, using Paul's name, fake us into accepting all the while warning us to stay away from this "other gospel" which ironically happens to be the true one as taught by this "Jewish Jesus" as "the Christ".

Gal 1:6-8 6 I marvel that ye are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another gospel: 7 Which is not another; but there be some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ. 8 But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed. (KJV)

Very clever!

The Messiah had been promised, so that promise must have been fulfilled. This is Paul's reasoning.

Answer for yourself: But who was this Messiah ?

There seems to have been some doubt at first whether this distinction belonged to John the Baptist. I cannot get into this now but there will come a time in your studies, hopefully, when you can tackle seriously Gnosticism and become aware of the "Joshua-Jesus" concept of antiquity and the role of John the Baptist and I will leave it at that for right now for it plays strongly in the "historical Jesus" discussion of today. The question of John the Baptist being the hoped for Messiah was no small one, but following his death it was settled, if not by Paul, then by someone before him, in the only way in which everything relating to Christ has been settled from the days of Paul down to our own time: "It is written in the prophets, Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee" (Mark 1:2). That settled it. With the death of John the Baptist he must not have been the expected Messiah but only "the messenger" for the one to come. The Messiah is yet to come. Unknown to many Christians today is the fact that John the Baptist was believed by many to be the expected Messiah of Israel. But John was killed. Therefore, the theology attached to John the Baptist had to be changed again. John came first, so following his death he was made the "messenger" and therefore this provided again the opportunity of God's Salvation (the word "Jesus" means in Hebrew and Greek "God's Salvation") to come in the wake of the death of John the Baptist. You see John the Baptist was not in the final analysis this "Yeshua" or this "Jesus", or the hoped for "Gods' Salvation" (note the word and its true meaning and the way it is used) awaited and prayed for so long by these persecuted Jews, so it was believed that this "God's Salvation" or this "Jesus" was yet to come. This had to be in light of the death of a physical and historical John the Baptist who really lived in the first century whom the Gnostic Essenes had hoped to be the reincarnation of their slain Messiah of Egypt, the son of Moses, the Pharaoh Tutankhamun (one of the 4 Hebrew Pharaohs of the 18th Dynasty), who the Rabbis and the Talmud teach us was slain on the eve of the Passover and hung on a tree (sound familiar....kind of like the "Jesus Story"? ) at Sinai in and around 1,350 B.C.E. Wow, that was a loaded sentence for your further study. These Essenes and soon to be "Christians" had prayed for the return of their "Joshua-Jesus" since their Hebrew forefathers had killed this Egyptian "Messa" or Messiah many years before when the Pharaoh Tutankhamun had attempted to reconcile Egypt with Moses and his followers. Such compromise of the Laws of Moses on Tutankhamun's part got him crucified on a tree on the eve of the Egyptian Passover in and around 1,350 B.C.E. Yet, this "coming one" was not the reincarnation of this "Living Image of the Lord" then it was again believed and hoped that their slain "Teacher of Righteousness" who died in and around 70 B.C.E. would return to "save" Israel from the "wicked priests" and Roman invaders. These Essenes needed Gods' salvation to come, they needed this "Joshua-Jesus" to come in any fashion that God would send. That is all the "rabbits" I will chase for now but know that these two figures play prominently in the later "historical Jesus" search. Search as we may for the historical Jesus one thing must be kept in focus; namely, the message of this "Joshua-Jesus" and the "Christ".

But no sooner had one such difficulty been solved than others cropped up, which kept Paul busy all his life and others after him to the present day. It seems satisfactorily settled that this "Jesus", whomever he would be, was to be the embodiment of "the Christ", the Saviour. But, being God's Saviour, then this "Jesus" should have saved Israel but Israel suffered and eventually was destroyed in 70 B.C.E. and no Messiah appeared to fulfill the Hebrew prophecies as written by the Prophets and Israel was conquered and exiled at the hands of Rome. There appeared "no Salvation from God". No "Jesus, as God's Salvation" appeared. The later oral traditions, long after the failure of God's Salvation to manifest for Israel, maintained that that "this Jesus", like John the Baptist and the earlier Teacher of Righteousness and the Egyptian "Joshua-Jesus" (Tutankhamun) long before, died as well, and left things pretty much as they had existed for Israel. This "God's Salvation", this "Jesus" must have come but Israel missed him or obviously did not "merit" him. This Jesus, or "God's salvation", in hindsight, was believed by man to have had supposedly come and unrecognized, failed to be revealed and likewise failed to fulfill the Hebrew Scriptures and was believed to have been one of thousands to have died by the hands of Rome in these troubled times. Israel had missed the day of her visitation and judgment was her reward. Israel was guilty of violating the Second Tablet of The Law of God and had been judged unworthy of being God's "Royal Priesthood" to the world.

Paul, drawing upon the oral traditions would ask in light of the failure of the Scriptures to be fulfilled right before his death: "Shall it be said then that Christ has failed in his mission? " God forbid," says Paul; let us search the Scriptures.

Paul never went to the Scriptures in vain. He discovered what till then had been hidden from all the wise, that in and through Adam all have sinned: and so he argued that

1 Cor 15:21-22 21 For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. 22 For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. (KJV)

Therefore, according to this "literalized" and "Romanized" Paul, this "Jesus" must have come and died and in dying saved us by dying for our sins. Repentance is not needed for this atonement. His death was the very act of salvation: he gave himself as a ransom. Notice however, according to Paul, Jesus died not, however, for everybody, but for those ONLY who will believe "in him".

Rom 10:9 9 That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. (KJV)

The Pauline influence in Christianity has been felt now for almost 2,000 years. Christians believe that our soul will live after our death and everyone will receive either salvation, which is the blessed eternity or damnation, which is the cursed eternity. Salvation is simple in parts of the New Testament.

Luke, a follower of this Paul and chronicler of his ministry tells us how to receive salvation in Acts 16:30-31: Act 16:30-31 "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" They [Paul and Silas] replied, "Believe in the Lord Jesus and you will be saved, and thy house".

The answer is to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ for this salvation. This same friend and travel companion of Paul will also tell us:

4:12 Salvation is found in no one else, for there is no other name under heaven given to men by which we must be saved.

This verse refers back to Jesus mentioned in verse 10.

Pauline Christianity reiterates that one must ask and have accepted Jesus into your life, your whole life. This will require faith. Let us look again at Romans 10:9 "That if you confess with your mouth, 'Jesus is Lord', & believe in your heart that God raised Him from the dead, you will be saved." It's not enough to believe that Jesus was a man who lived at some point in history. We must believe that he is our Lord and that God raised him from the dead. We must believe in our hearts, which is to say, we must be sincere in our belief and be fully committed to that belief. It cannot be any simpler. Getting saved is so simple and we are assured that all we need to do is just believe in a set "doctrine" connected with this Jesus say something like this: "I come to you God in the name of your son Jesus Christ. I now confess Jesus as my Lord and Savior. I believe Jesus died on the cross for my sins and was raised from the dead. I confess I am a sinner and ask you to forgive my sins and I put my eternal soul into your hands. Jesus please save me." Nowhere here is the idea of repentance, a contrite and broken heart, restitution to the wronged, renewed obedience to the Laws and Commandments in our Covenants with God nor progressive sanctification and progressive salvation of the Soul which Judaism teaches. Nothing is mentioned about "deeds" and "good works" as the manifestation of our obedience to the Commandments of God which Jesus teaches in his "Gospel".

Paul continues to elaborate on this easy salvation message: 1 Cor 15:2 By this gospel (Paul's gospel) you are saved, if you hold firmly to the word I preached to you. Otherwise, you have believed in vain. Paul, or a later Roman "falsifier" of religious texts, just nullified the Gospel of Jesus in this verse. Paul tells his listeners that they are saved by the gospel "he" preached. We must not only read or hear the gospel, but also believe it. As can be seen by the other passages, the main theme is it takes a belief in Jesus to be saved.

Answer for yourself: Are we to have "faith in Jesus" or "the faith of Jesus"?

Christianity maintains that there no amount of money we can spend or any good deed we can perform to buy our salvation, but instead we must only make the choice to freely accept God's offer of salvation and respond only with a "mental acceptance" of the orthodox "creed" or "beliefs" associated with this Jesus as taught by my denomination or non-denomination. But if we think real hard there are things we have to "do" just like what this "Jewish Jesus" said "must be done" although they are drastically different:

To be saved as a Christian under this "Romanized-literalistic" Pauline Theology we must:

- We must turn to God, in other words, believe in God (that's good, in fact it is great)
- We must believe "in Jesus" (which "beliefs" and what about the many differences and conflicts in beliefs about Jesus? What about historical or mystical or mythological Jesus for all 3 exist down through history? Should we believe in a Catholic Jesus, a Methodist Jesus, a Baptist Jesus, or a Seven-Day Adventist Jesus, or a Lutheran Jesus or any other 2,000 or more denominations and different Jesuses out there today?)
- We must confess aloud that Jesus is Lord (which one again of the 3 is the right one or could 2 of the 3 be proper understandings of Jesus?)
- We must believe, not only that Jesus died for us, but also that God raised him from the dead (is this to be understood as a historical-literal death and resurrection of a body from the dead or an allegorical and metaphysical depiction of the Descent of the God's Soul into matter/flesh as this "death" and its subsequent "awakening from death" when man discovers "the Christ within" himself and surrenders to the Lordship of "the Christ within"?). You see, right here we have the real problem. The Ancient understanding of "the Christ" and the later "Roman reinterpretation" of it and along with it the change in the message of "this Christ" from "deed" to "creed". Now you have to figure out which one is real and that is no easy task today because of what Rome has done to this Divine Revelation.
- We must be sincere in our beliefs and be fully committed to those beliefs (sounds like we better know the difference between these different "Jesus" and how they developed and were altered in the 3rd century by Rome and garbled in their later New Testament).

According to this Romanized Paul's Gospel, I sure would not have wanted to live in the first century, say in Iceland, because if I had, according to this Romanized Paul, the chance of the news of this Jesus's death for my sin and his presumed resurrection from the dead surely most likely would not have arrived in Iceland in time for my consideration and I would have most likely died "damned" by God. I guess God did not love me or like me even. Most likely, not having radio or television in the first century, I would have died in Iceland never hearing such a "gospel" and the inability of Jesus to make sure such a "necessary" message be taken to me would have surely doomed me. God and this Jesus would have let me down. Somehow the "necessary" part of this salvation message would have passed me by and I would not have "believed" correctly and been damned. For me, such a salvation message always bothered me as a child and is a stretch to the serious thinker that the arbitrariness of Jesus and God is at stake. But good news is here. In other other websites I detail where this Romanized Paul got such ideas of this "sacrificial atonement" along with the prior Essenes since it never existed in Judaism except with the fringe movements like these very Essenes and only then in the inter-Testamental times. When one studies true Biblical Atonement one sees through the falsehoods of this Romanized Salvation message. Again I cannot get into this now but it behooves the reader to come to an understanding of Gnosticism and "literalized sunworship" where the ancient Divine allegories of God and "His Christ" and this "Descent of the Soul" into matter/flesh are later "literalized" and in so doing see how Rome distorted and corrupted the Divine Truths expressed for thousands of years up and until the 3rd century when Rome produces their forged Bibles and their "false Christ" along with the "false Gospel" given to us in Paul's name. Never will a more profitable study be done by anyone who calls himself by the name of "Christian".

In summary fashion, according to this Romanized Paul all are under the wrath of God from the start (Eph. 2:3) and are lost without exception (Rom. 15; 1 Cor. 15:18), all are without hope and without God (Eph. 2:12), for Satan has power over all (Rom. 3:9; Gal. 3:22; Col. 2:14). There is a judgement of damnation by God against everyone without exception (Rom. 5:16; cf also Rom. 8:1). This wrath of God (which also applies to new-born babes as well who have never "sinned") can, according to to this Romanized Paul, only be averted by the death and the blood of this literal Jesus, and only the death and the blood of this literal Jesus can atone for the 'original guilt' (cf Col. 1:22 ; and Heb. 9:22): ' . . . and without shedding of blood is no remission'. By adopting this idea of the vicarious sacrifice of the first-born son, this Romanized Paul slips off the path of Judaism and teaches a different atonement than the one know to the Patriarchs, Moses, Joshua, the Prophets and Judaism as a whole. This Romanized Paul and his anti-Law bias as well as his anti-Gnostic presentation by Rome through altering and forging epistles in his name along with other non-Pauline alteration in their New Testament turns Jesus' teaching of Salvation upside down and changes it and nullifies the true message of God whereby mankind can make themselves acceptable to Him.

According to the teaching of this Romanized Paul, the human individual is unable to attain Salvation and atonement before God by any good works of his own, or by any change however good (Rom. 3:24, 3:28, 9:11, 9:16; 1 Cor. 1:29; Gal. 2:16): 'For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast.' This of course is again 180 degrees opposite to the first five books of the Bible and the Laws of Moses as well as the Prophets of the Hebrew Scriptures. Consequently the precondition for the action of God's Grace is the acceptance of the Pauline teaching on Grace; that means membership in the Church of Paul and of course this is the Roman Gentile Church which has separated itself from its Jewish Roots and rivers of life long ago.

Based on Paul, the Christian churches today still teach that the Salvation of all was perfectly finished once and for all by the blood sacrifice of Jesus on the Cross, and that men would have absolutely nothing to contribute to it, apart from simply accepting this kind of Salvation in a single act of conversion (baptism) along with "mental assent" and "belief" in this doctrine. Nothing more is needed to reach the purpose and goal of life, for Jesus has already done all that is needful for us anyway, as our representative. This leads on to the idea that any attempt to participate in Salvation by one's own effort can be taken as a belittling of the service rendered by Jesus, and even as an original sin, as a futile attempt at self-salvation. According to this view anyone holding different beliefs, however exemplary the life he has led (such as Gandhi), is considered to be lost if he does not accept the Cross sacrifice for himself, in other words if he refuses to profess the Pauline Christianity.

Naturally it is an attractive and tempting offer, to be released from all responsibility for one's actions and the consequences of bad acts and thoughts, in a simple and comfortable way, by a few splashes of water. One only needs to ask Constantine who deferred his baptism until the approach of death in order to obliterate a life of murder; baptism supposedly washing away all his sin. The reader is probably anxious to be informed of the details of these crimes. The father-in-law that Constantine strangled was the Emperor Maximian, whom, in February, AD 310, he defeated and captured at Marseilles. The brother-in-law whom he punished with the same fate was his rival Licinius, who fell into his hands after the siege of Byzantium, in AD 324, and who was secretly executed after being publicly pardoned. The deaths of these relatives may be explained by the rules of statecraft, but no such excuse can be offered with respect to the other victims of Constantine's cruelty. In July, AD 325, he publicly disgraced and privately murdered his eldest son Crispus, for no other crime than his virtues and his reputation. The Caesar Licinius, a nephew of Constantine, was involved in the ruin of Crispus and shared his fate, notwithstanding his youth and amiable manners, and the tears and entreaties of his mother. The first Christian emperor soon afterwards completed the list of his domestic murders by suffocating his wife Fausta in "the steam of a bath, which, for that purpose, had been heated to an extraordinary degree." This unfortunate lady was accused of adultery, and "her condemnation and punishment," says Gibbon, "were the instant consequences of the charge." After the commission of these atrocious crimes, it is no wonder that the people were discontented, and that satirical verses were affixed to Constantine's palace-gate, comparing him with the bloody and ferocious Nero. And Constantine was "saved" as the very last. Sure he was???

Such conduct is the fruit of a "Torahless" Salvation Message and an anti-Law Salvation Message. Jesus and "the Christ" never taught such a doctrine and never could and would never dream of connection such thoughts with inheriting Eternal Life. The doomful consequences of this form of Salvation doctrine finally lead to a kind of trade in indulgences, where the offender can count in advance on the annulment of his guilt before God and his conscience. Therefore even the worst misdemeanors against any fellow creatures have no consequence. That is why the Roman Empire-Church-State ruled the world with this theology for 1,800 years and the world calls this time "the Dark Ages". Lawlessness abounded supported by Roman Religion.

But this idea is completely alien to the teaching of "Jesus" and "the Christ". Honest scholars today, not brainwashed by Roman theology, state, when speaking of this Jesus, that it was far from his mind, to form a hierarchical bureaucracy with laws and scriptural doctors, with belief in the letter of the law and arguments about interpretations, with cult and image worship, with 'churchianity' and claims to exclusive rights to bless. He wanted to preach the intimacy between the Divine/Soul and the human individual, and not self-aggrandizing channels of official instances set up by self-righteous administrators of God. "The Christ" teaches us through the example of the New Testament Jesus in the Synoptic Gospels the true message of God and His true Salvation Message. The "Pattern for Life" is given us through this example of "the Christ" as this "Jesus "of the Synoptic Gospels. This is the same "Salvation Message" uttered in these Synoptic Gospels that existed in Egypt as told through the "Osiris/Horus Story" that we find handed down throughout Ancient times which culminated in the "Jesus Story" in the Oral Traditions of "the Christ" which is later written down in the Synoptic Gospels. "The Christ" of God teaches us this Divine Truth by giving us a symbolic living example in this "Jewish Jesus" which reveals to us the way to Eternal Life through the renunciation of self-concerned thinking and acting, unbiased care for all living beings, giving and sharing, the greatest possible tolerance towards people of other convictions, taking on the suffering of others and feeling compassion for them, in other words unlimited love in action for all fellow beings. For those who have studied with us for some time recognize this as obedience to the Second Tablet of the Law which brings "Eternal Life" for all who live according to these principles and precepts.

Answer for yourself: How can we know how to "do" these above things correctly? Well, simply the Torah of the Jews and well as the 42 Negative Confessions of Egypt teach us how to train our Souls to master our animal bodies with their carnal instincts and in so doing elevate that part of our fleshly home to the Kingdom of God through submission to our Souls within! This dear one is the "Christ Within" who grows to Lordship in our lives. This is the "Pattern" for our salvation given since the beginning of time and passed down from nation to nation by the true Spiritual Masters of every nation under God.

What we today refer to as Christianity is a misinterpretation of this Ancient Wisdom and twisting by Rome of these precious concepts and their disparaging reinterpretation and transformation of the Gnostic Paul who taught the true teaching of "the Christ" before being turned into a Roman Frankenstein with a twisted gospel in these forged New Testament texts. Knowledge about this misinterpretation, and the doctrine of Salvation by the vicarious sacrifice of Jesus which is given a central place in it, has long belonged to the truisms of modern theological and church historical research. Unfortunately until now these truths have been suppressed by all possible means, and therefore they have not penetrated to the minds of the average Christian "believer". Even at the start of the eighteenth century the English philosopher Lord Bolingbroke (1678-1751) noticed two completely different religions in the New Testament, that of Jesus and that of Paul. Kant, Lessing, Fichte and Schelling also clearly distinguished between the teaching of Jesus and what the later supposed 'apostles' made of it. A large number of reputed modern theologians have come to acknowledge this fact and having read their books my eyes were opened to this fact like never before and I feel constrained to warn my other brothers and sisters in God to this terrible deception that goes unnoticed by so many.

One can now ask why it took 2,000 years before the Pauline Salvation idea could be shown as absurd by these modern methods, by considering the legacy left by Jesus. One possible answer is that there has never been such an urgent need for an honest study of the heritage of Jesus, to finally get back to the true message of his teaching. But those times are changing due to advances in archeology and the information age that is bringing this information and knowledge to our homes and bookstores.

As if the above is not enough to show the contrast between a Salvation message of "deed" with "creed", as mentioned in the first article in this series, when one investigates Ancient Gentile religions long before Judaism by studying Gnosticism and Comparative Religions one finds these same religious tenets connected to mankind's salvation in much of Pauline theology associated with Eternal Life but you have to sift them out from the muddled mess given us by Rome where Gnostic and anti-Gnostic passages are mixed together in the same epistles that carry Paul's name. Instead of being interpreted "literally" as the New Testament depicts and as we have been instructed to do our whole lives, we find if we study these areas mentioned above that these same religious tenets attached to obtaining Eternal Life were ALWAYS understood allegorically and symbolically as attached to godly symbolic characters or "sungods" which were to serve, not only as our example, but vehicles and anthropomorphic examples to express to us the metaphysical concept of the Descent of the Divine Soul into our flesh where the daily battle of Spirit and Flesh rages. It is our task to awaken to the fact of the "Indwelling Christ Jesus" within and allow this Divine Spark to grow within us and energize our bodies to be servants of the Most High God and His vehicles in manifesting His will on this plane of existence we call "life".

Plato himself said that "men (the Souls of God/Divine Conscious Energy of God) are placed in the body as in a prison." He even considered the body as the sepulcher of the soul, an idea that carried one step farther the ancient Egyptian representation of the body, personalized in the Goddess Hathor, as the "bird-cage of the soul." The Ancients understood that this imprisonment of God in matter, the Soul in this fleshly body, was like an imprisonment and was equated with the idea of "death". This might be hard to comprehend for you at first but the Soul, in leaving a perfect home in Heaven to become matter or the flesh of man was expressed as a "death" or a "sacrifice" of God Himself.

Phil 2:5-8 5 Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: 6 Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God: 7 But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men: 8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. (KJV)

Unknown to Christians is that the idea of this above passage has been taught since time immemorial about the Descent of the Soul and the death of God/Soul in becoming "matter/flesh" when leaving the plane of Spiritual existence we call "Heaven" and in so doing this Divine God/Energy intersected with physical matter (incarnation) which was symbolized by a cross (intersection of two planes of existence). This pouring out of God's life was likened by the Ancients to God pouring out his Life-Energy or "blood", since "Life is in the blood) for the salvation of the Soul/Mankind. Rome changes this Divine Concept by "literalizing" it and in so doing changes the truth about "the Christ" by "literalizing" it and at the same time changes as well the "Message of this Christ Within" by nullifying the goal of the Souls' incarnation in mankind in the first place. The Soul was sent here by the First Cause, God, to complete its spiritual maturation and growth which is accomplished by obedience to the Laws of God which is accomplished only by living a life of "deeds" done in the flesh of existence. This was nullified by Rome by changing the true Salvation Message of God from "deeds" to "creeds" in their anti-Law New Testament along with the forgery of Paul and mankind is not aware today, without much study, that the pathway for the Soul's achievement of Eternal Life and return to the Father God has been tragically altered by Rome and their antisemitism.

Let me give you one example. Taylor, in commenting on the writings of Macrobius, writes: "The soul in the present life may be said to die, as far as it is possible for a soul to die; occultly intimating that the death of the soul was nothing more than a profound union with the ruinous bonds of the body." To impart to the body its life by linking to it the soul's more dynamic voltage (the Cosmic Conscious Energy/Spirit we call God), nature exacted from the higher principle the plenary quantum of its life to be offered as an oblation for the benefit of the lower order. So the body lived the "death" of soul, as soul died unto the life of the body", as Heraclitus would have put it .

All this is explicitly set forth in appropriate phraseology by Taylor Thomas who, in his Select Works of Porphyry says: "What is here said by Plato is beautifully unfolded by Olympiodorus in his MS Commentary on the Gorgias, as follows: 'Euripides (in Phryxo) says that to live is to die, and to die is to live. For the soul, coming hither, as she imparts life to the body, so she partakes through this of a certain privation of life; but this is an evil. When separated, therefore, from the body, she lives in reality; for she dies here, through participating in privation of life, because the body becomes the source of evils. And hence it is necessary to subdue the body.'"

The logic of all this is at least on the face of it unquestionable, unarguable. If the soul is called upon in incarnation to give away its life to the lower organism (the physical realm of mankind) it certainly can not retain possession of it for itself. Here we have the ground foundation of the great central arch in the temple of religion known as the sacrificial oblation of the Son of God (the Sons of God when speaking of souls in the plural), who gave his life for the world of men. He threw his energetic powers into the bodies of mortals so that they might have this connection with a battery of higher dynamism (God the Father), by drawing upon which they might rise to a higher and more abundant life than as natural creatures they could ever gain without such condescension of the gods. The Sons of God had to give their life and die on the cross of matter, that lower orders might have a viable link with divinity.

Answer for yourself: Did you know the Ancients spoke of a "Cross" of Matter? Since we know it was the 6th century before Christianity attached a man to the crucifix then what was the original meaning of the "Cross" in Ancient Religions and does it have anything to do with the need to subdue the body which is mentioned above?

A "cross" is two intersecting planes or lines which reflect different planes of existence. In our discussion the Ancients understood that the realm of Invisible, Uncreated, Intelligent Energy of the Cosmos and Universe, this God had entered into the physical visible realm of existence and all things that consisted were comprised of God in various manifestations. So this simple cross depicted for them religiously that they were made in the image of God for this God has "breathed into physical visible clay" His Spirit/Soul and this animated and energized this animate matter and it became a "Living Soul". These two realms of existence merged and through the death of the Soul leaving its Spiritual perfect home to become associated and imprisoned within sinful matter and flesh the Ancients likened this to a death of sorts. So general was this conception among the intelligent in the Greek sphere of culture that the soul's entry into body at the latter's birth was called its burial. One needs but recur to the Epistles of St. Paul to find evidence of the great Apostle's accord with this element of Greek philosophy. He speaks of the "law of death" "which is in my members." Flesh and body at war with the Soul and Spirit. The clamor of the sensuous desires long overwhelms the still small voice of the spirit. A hasty and too simple deduction from all this seemed to dictate the drastic subjugation of the fleshly appetites and crucifixion of body by various asceticisms but that is not the case. God, in His infinite wisdom, gave Egypt and the Jews the Torah, when read, studied, and patterned elevates a person to Heaven, enabling a person to break beyond the limits of earthly nature, thereby becoming holy like his Father in Heaven. The Torah, when obeyed, sanctifies all actions of mankind and elevates them from the "secular" to the "sacred". All animals eat but by saying a "blessing" we set apart such a mundane action and sanctify it and make it "holy"; thereby we elevate the Soul within along with this carnal body and separate ourselves from the basest desires of the flesh. This is but one Law of the Torah that perfects us and changes us into the image of God. Our Souls are perfected by such actions and we learn these "actions" and "how they are accomplished" by patterning our lives to the Torah and the Laws of God given us for our Salvation contained with this Torah of the Jews. This Torah, which the Romanized Paul assures us is a curse and passed away in the New Testament.

It is Rome's clever "synthesis" and "reinterpretation" of these same truths in the Ancient Wisdom and religious doctrines that eased the spread of "literalized" Christianity and Romanized Paulinism as well as the ease of the Catholic Church's world-wide propagation of a "literalized Pauline Gospel" since it had a little bit of something from everywhere which almost everyone who heard it was somewhat familiar. Only now instead of an allegory whereby they could personally relate to "the Christ Within" now it was altered, the keys to its proper interpretation lost, words and concepts redefined and "literalized" and in so doing "another gospel" was being formed. The "Christ Within" has become the "Christ Without" localized in a historical Jesus only and he is long gone only to hopefully return to make things right one day. All the while we miss our visitation of God within while He waits for us to discover "the Christ Within" us all and awaken to the fact that we are God's messiahs here in this world today.

The "myths of the dying/rising godman" had become "literal" and "historical" with this Roman "Jesus" no more did man understand that behind the "Jesus Story" one finds the awesome truth of the deposition of God's Soul (the Christ) within this dark matter of the flesh was termed by the Ancients the "crucifixion of the Christ on the cross of matter" and the subsequent awakening of his Soul within mankind was his "resurrection" and the end of one's physical life was ironically the end of this "death" which is really his "resurrected life again" and the beginning of this "life" occurs at his death. Well, we got part of it right. In the Gorgias of Plato, Socrates says to Cebes: "For indeed, as you also say, life is a grievous things. For I should not wonder if Euripies spoke the truth when he says: 'Who knows whether to live is not to die, and to die is not to live?' And perhaps we are in reality dead. For I have heard from one of the wise that we are now dead; and that the body is our sepulcher; but that the part of the soul in which the desire are contained is of such a nature that it can be persuaded and hurled upwards and downwards."

Answer for yourself: What is he saying here? The intimation here clearly is that Socrates is speaking of the Soul in man, which, standing midway between the physical body and the Divine Spirit above, is capable of being drawn either downward into "death" under the dominance of sensual appetites or upward into Heavenly life by the attraction of the beauty of virtue (Alvin Kuhn, The Lost Key To The Scriptures, Kessinger Publications, p. 24).

This is the "key" missing from Christianity today that when understood correctly along with its corresponding message restores God's true Salvation Message to mankind. All this is explicitly set forth in as mentioned above by Taylor when he says in light of this revelation that "it is necessary to subdue the body" and this is done through submitting to the Torah and the message of the "Jewish Christ".

But note also that this Paul, at the hands of Rome, limits this "Salvation" offered by Paul's Gospel to ONLY those who "believe it". This limitation was obviously necessary, or there would have been no further need for Paul or his gospel. Salvation, therefore, was made conditional on belief in the gospel of Paul, and this again was crafted by Rome in "Paul's" name quite often. The true and conflicting Gospel of Jesus the Jew, a message of "deeds" over "creeds", reiterating the Ancient Egyptian "gospel" found in the 42 Negative Confessions was not taught by this "Romanized Paul" nor by Rome who forged so much in his name.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that in all of Paul's writings given us in the New Testament that he mentions only 2 of Jesus's teachings, two sentences only, and after doing that, Paul is quick to bring his own interpretation on the matter as if we needed it? According to Paul, mankind were still in their sins, repentance and renewed obedience to the Laws of God had no place for this Law and its requirements of mankind "ended with Christ". By "believing the accepted 'creed'" and by "baptism" anybody could bring himself within the operation of this "new dispensation" or Salvation. This is where "faith" came in, and explains the necessity for the strangest of all doctrines, that faith counts for more than works ["creed" counts more than "deed"]. If you remember we proved in the first article in this series that this is not what Jesus taught on the matter. The question remains: who will you trust to for your Eternal Life: Paul's message on inheriting Eternal Life or Jesus' message of inheriting Eternal Life?

Following such reasoning it follows almost as a logical necessity that "he who believes and is baptized shall be saved, and he who believes not shall be damned." There you have it in a nutshell. Case closed!

Above all this Romanized Paul wants his audience to believe that his "gospel" is the word of the Lord. The Greek word is Strong's # 3056...Logos:

- 1) of speech
- a) a word, uttered by a living voice, embodies a conception or idea
- b) what someone has said
- 1) a word
- 2) the sayings of God
- 3) decree, mandate or order
- 4) used of the moral precepts given by God
- 5) Old Testament prophecy given by the prophets
- 6) what is declared, a thought, declaration, aphorism, a weighty saying, a dictum, a maxim

Notice that Paul is referencing his "vision" as the "word of the Lord". There is only one problem. This same Paul says in 2 Cor 13:1:

1 This is the third time I am coming to you. In the mouth of two or three witnesses shall every word be established. (KJV)

We have Paul's own admonition that every Word from God must pass the test of being verified in the mouth of two or three witnesses. We simply do not find such a "Pauline doctrine of salvation" as espoused by Paul in the New Testament in the Old Testament or in the writings of the Prophets of the Old Testament. It is just not there; thus our major problem. We have a unique and contradicting revelation of just one person!

In fact just the opposite of what Paul taught is found in almost every book of the Old Testament and the Hebrew Scriptures.

Verification of Paul's doctrines, by two or three other witnesses as taught by Paul himself, are simply wanting.

This brings into question the veracity of such a doctrine as taught by this Romanized Paul.

When one has a through understanding of the Hebrew Scriptures, as they exist in the Hebrew texts and not the forged Greek texts, and these committed to memory, then when one approaches the Pauline corpus of literature in the New Testament, one finds hundreds of misquotations, mistranslations, verses taken completely out of context, as well as the lifting of parts of two or three Jewish passages and combining them in order that they say something completely different than what the original authors intended. Not only that you can see pure Scriptural inventions for what they truly are; lies! With such an understanding of the texts one see just how there prior "religious beliefs" of Judaism, for example which exalts the Law, were subsequently changed along with the identity of "the Christ". This escapes most Christians who have not dedicated themselves to such intense study as I and others.

When, for instance, Paul was spurned by the Jews (among whom he had only a scant following) and had to turn to the "heathen" to get a hearing, though still insisting on "the Jew first", he had neither difficulty nor scruples in "proving" that "uncircumcision was no bar to salvation," since the Law no longer applied in his understanding. For, he argued, "if they (the Jews) which are of the law be heirs, faith is made void and the promise made of none effect" (Rom. 4:14).

Answer for yourself: What "promise"? One possibly made by Jesus?

Far from it. Jesus is never so much as quoted by this self-appointed apostle of "Christ" in his epistles. In Acts 20:35 Paul is represented as quoting from Jesus, "It is more blessed to give than to receive." But nowhere in his epistles does he quote him.

It is another Scripture text which Paul had unearthed, a "prophecy", that had not the slightest bearing on the matter he was discussing, and the sole office of which was to lend support to his fanciful theories. Here is the "promise" as quoted by Paul: "its it is written, I have made thee a father of many nations" (Rom. 4:17). Therefore, argues Paul, "if they which are of the law be heirs, faith is made void and the promise to Abraham of none effect."

In this wise Paul argued difficulties out of his way, showing from the Scriptures how this or that proposition of his must needs be so, until, by a master-stroke, he proved— from the Scriptures—that the Scriptures were no longer of any account at all:

"For Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth" (Rom 10:4). "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved" (Rom. 10:13).

"But now we are delivered from the law, that being dead wherein we were held; that we should serve in newness of spirit, and not in the oldness of the letter" (Rom. 7:6).

"For the priesthood being changed, there is made of necessity a change also of the law" (Heb. 7:12).

"Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law" (Rom. 3:4). "For sin shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the law, but under grace" (Rom 6:14).

This is the way Paul met the objections of the Jews when they opposed the Scriptures and his use of them in his anti-Law teachings. Not being able to meet their arguments, he got rid of the Scriptures themselves.

The old "covenant" has lapsed and a new one has taken its place. " In that he (God! says, A new covenant, he bath made the first old. Now that which decayeth and waxeth old is ready to vanish away" (Heb. 8:13).

"Christ has redeemed us from the curse of the law" (Gal. 3:13).

" The law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ." (Gal. 3:24).

How convenient for Paul....but the Jewish people and their Rabbis knew and know today different.

Answer for yourself: Then what has taken its place?

I will let Paul himself answer this question: " Remember that Jesus Christ of the seed of David was raised from the dead according to my gospel" (2 Tim. 2:8).

No longer, be it noted, "according to the Scriptures," but "according to my gospel."

" In the day when God shall judge the secrets of men by Jesus Christ according to my gospel" (Rom. 2:16).

"But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed" (Gal. 1:8).

Answer for yourself: Where did Paul get his gospel, for which he claimed such authority that he would tolerate no interference with its decrees even by an angel from heaven?

I will again let Paul give his own answer:

"I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it, but by the revelation of Jesus Christ" (Gal. 1:12).

Now we are supposed to believe that this Jesus Christ, a supposed Jew and hoped for Messiah, just did away with the Laws of Moses and the Laws of Noah and yet is the hoped for Messiah. That is impossible to a "thinking believer".

Paul admits that he got "his" Gospel in a trance, that is; for, as we shall presently see, Paul never had any communication with a historical Jesus himself either directly or indirectly; never even troubled to inform himself what Jesus taught by consulting those who might have known. The texts supposedly teach us that after his conversion he waited 3 years before he went and spoke to the Apostles, and then after a short visit where he saw Peter and James, it would be another 14 years before he would see the Apostles again. This does not sound normal to me. This same Paul boasts that his knowledge is all derived by "inspiration" obtained from a trance where there is not any collaboration for "two" or "three" witnesses which he already attests is the mark of truth. Here are his own words: "I conferred not with flesh and blood, neither went I up to Jerusalem to them which were apostles before me" (Gal. 1:16-17). Again, "It pleased God . . . to reveal his Son in me, that I might preach him among the heathen" (Gal. 1:15-16). Notice if you will Paul's comment that the Son was "revealed in me" and not "to me." This dear ones is the Gnostic Christ who lives with, the fruit from the Descent of the Soul into this physical realm we call mankind. Paul awakened to "the Christ Within" and His saving role in his life.

We cannot know, of course, what communications Paul had with God; but we can prove for certain that he had none with Jesus; for his conversion did not take place until after the death of this Jesus. How long after may be surmised from a statement of Paul's to the Corinthians: "He (Jesus) was seen of Cephas, then of the twelve: after that he was seen of above five hundred brethren at once: of whom the greater part remain unto this present, but some are fallen asleep" (1 Cor. 15:5-6).

All these are cited as witnesses to the resurrection of Jesus, so they are witnesses of the resurrected Christ only. There is no mention of any one of them having known Jesus when still living. Now, whatever may be the value of their testimony in this connection, it is good evidence that Jesus had been dead at the time when there was a sect in existence of "above five hundred brethren" whom Paul had persecuted (Gal. 1:13); I which again is good evidence that Paul did not join them until years after, when "some had fallen asleep."

These believers evidently were among those who believed in the resurrection of the body, a doctrine which, according to Josephus, was held by some of the Jewish sects. Some of these evidently believed that Jesus had risen. Many scholars believe that the disappearance of his body—removed probably by his friends so as to protect it against desecration by his enemies—may have given rise to this belief. The memory of Jesus was held in reverence by many of the Essenes, and particularly by the "Nazarenes," as the sect was called when Paul joined it. "For we have found this man (Paul) . . . a ringleader of the sect of the Nazarenes" (Acts 24: 5). But he was not known to them as "Christ," and they were not known as "Christians," until after Paul had become a convert and succeeded in convincing some of them of his theories, as is plainly set forth in Acts 6:25-26. These earliest follower of "the Christ" were called "Chrestians".

"Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus, for to seek Paul: and when he had found him, he brought him to Antioch. And it came to pass, that a whole year they assembled themselves with the church [of the Nazarenes], and taught much people. And the disciples were called Christians first at Antioch" (Acts 11:25-26). The "disciples" were those of Paul, of course.

When, therefore, Paul claims to have received his apostleship directly from "Jesus Christ," it must be understood that he refers to the Christ of his vision and internal revelation, and not to a historical Jesus, whom he had never met.

So we see more clearly now how the Salvation Messages of the "Jewish Jesus" of the Synoptic Gospels which pointed mankind to the Law and the Commandments of God was later re-invented as an anti-Law Gospel when Rome altered the Salvation message of God and changed it from "deeds" to "creeds".

CONTRASTING THE GOSPEL OF JESUS VS THE GOSPEL OF PAUL #3

After studying the glaring differences and contradictions between the Gospel of Jesus and the Gospel of Paul we now move on. Many scholars will tell us that Paul, if not the actual originator of the Christ-myth, was certainly the author of the Christian scheme of salvation, which in every essential is the antithesis of the teachings of Jesus. This Romanized Paul had help by the Johannie writer who is definitely influenced by this earlier Pauline literature. This statement about Paul is close to the truth for the documents that carry his name today definitely give us "another gospel" different from the one taught by the "Jewish Jesus" and "the Christ" in the Synoptic Gospels but we cannot lay the total blame of this upon this Paul for we have concrete evidence that many of his writings were tampered with by Rome long after his death. This is tough medicine for the Christian to see yet acknowledge. In hope and in courage let us continue our investigation in order that our faith be grounded in truth and not in errors inherited from the Roman Church.

It will be interesting here to continue to contrast this Gospel of Paul with that of Jesus in this final article in this series.

We possess an excellent summary of the Gospel of Jesus in the Parable of the Last Judgment, which I will quote in full:—

"And before him [the King] shall be gathered all nations: and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats. And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left." " Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world: for I was an hungred, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in: naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison and ye came unto me." " Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, and fed thee? Or thirsty, and gave thee drink? Or when saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in? Or naked, and clothed thee? Or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee?" "And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me".

Answer for yourself: What should I have noticed here? Well, several things the last of which is not only the "deeds" of love done but it was not unto Jesus, that is, but unto the "King", who is the speaker, were these acts or "deeds" done. The King tells us that when we do acts of charity and righteous to these "brethren" of his it is as we did it "personally to him".

- 1) a brother, whether born of the same two parents or only of the same father or mother
- 2) having the same national ancestor, belonging to the same people, or countryman
- 3) any fellow or man
- 4) a fellow believer, united to another by the bond of affection
- 5) an associate in employment or office
- 6) brethren in Christ
  - a) his brothers by blood (the Jewish people)
  - b) all men

"Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels: for I was an hungred, and ye gave me no meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me no drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me not in: naked, and ye clothed me not: sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not." "Then shall they also answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee?" "Then shall he answer them, saying, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to me" (Matt. 25:32-45).

Answer for yourself: Does this message agree with the Gospel of Paul? No, it does not!

As may readily be seen, in all that is essential this parable which stresses "works" and not "faith" is the very antithesis of the gospel and philosophy of Paul. On the other hand, after reading the first two articles in this series, you should not fail to note the remarkable agreement of this parable, down to the smallest detail, with the narratives already quoted; not only as regards doctrine, but also in respect of style and diction. Without a doubt Jesus speaks of "deeds" done which leads to Eternal Life and "deeds" not done which leads to Eternal judgment. You have to admit that there is not one word from the mouth of Jesus concerning if these addressed in this parable believed in or failed to believe in such things as his death, his Messiahship, his resurrection, his death as an atonement, sacraments, his divinity, etc.

A study of Paul's life will reveal to you that he was a mystic, ever following after the supernatural, the mysterious, and the miraculous. Paul's emphasis in "his" gospel concerns "cosmic salvation" and not an "earthly salvation" which merits Eternal Life when one dies. We find nothing of the king in the Gospel of Jesus. All of Jesus' utterances relate to the mundane affairs of man in "this" life and little is said about the "world to come". Jesus' emphasis, as we as his Salvation Message was always "earthly-centered"; where the rubber meets the road. Paul's Salvation Message was "other-worldly"; manly because he never knew an earthly or historical Jesus and only by a vision did he meet a "Cosmic Jesus". Jesus' parables are all centered around some familiar, some "earthly" and homely event that is manifested in some form of obedience and "works" as the fruits of one's obedience to the Laws and Commandments of God as the fruit of one's faith. Jesus spent over 95% of his time teaching his followers about how to live this life and in all of Paul's epistles he references only "two" of Jesus's teachings. If we did not have the Synoptic Gospels, which were written after Paul and his writings, then we would not know the slightest things about this Jesus, the Jewish Christ and his message to mankind, what he believed and taught as God's way to Eternal Life and Salvation and any differences when compared to this Romanized Paul and his writings. In other words, without Jesus's teachings contained in the Synoptic Gospels we would not know what this Jesus Christ believed to be God's message for all mankind. We would only be left with this Romanized Paul and the forged epistles in his name given us by Rome and we would never know that this Romanized Paul and his message of Salvation contradicted that of Jesus. This Paul, it appears, was more concerned with "his" gospel being received by the non-Jews than Jesus's message of mankind's necessary obedience to God's Laws and Commandments which James reiterates when agreeing with the Holy Spirit in Acts 15 that the "non-Jews" must keep and obey these Laws of Noah and the Covenant of Noah and writes letters containing such a command for the Pauline Gentile Churches in Asia, Minor, which were to be taken and taught to the Gentile churches in Asia Minor following the Acts 15 council.

Oh by the way Paul was given such letters in Acts 16 and one would think that if Paul was obedient to James and the first Church Council then the bulk of his letters would yet be written and one would expect them to have these Pauline epistles to contain many references to these very same Laws that James commanded of these Gentile Churches; a message by the way that agreed completely with Jesus' Gospel. They these Pauline letters denigrate the Laws and Commandments of God. Still, Paul makes both pro-law statements and anti-law statements in his letters which he never reconciles. Indeed he can't! Either God expects us to live by His Law or He doesn't. There is no in-between. But to be fair, I must make mention the fact of his pro-law statements. One reason I do this is because among the growing sect of Messianic believers, there is a small number who call themselves "observant" Messianics. They continue to believe, as Jesus taught, that the Law stands today. But in their endeavor to try and maintain some semblance of credibility with other Messianics, (who are really little more than Christians with a Jewish flair... and an umbilical cord attached directly to mainstream Christianity) these observant Messianics will engage in bend-over-backwards apologetics for Paul and do everything they can to argue he was pro-law. Apparently they continue to feel the need to embrace the picture of an infallible New Testament. We shouldn't at all be surprised about the fact that Paul made both pro, and anti-law statements because of other statements he made... like the following;

"...to the Jew I became as a Jew, that I might win Jews; to those who are under the law, as under the law, that I might win those who are under the law; to those who are without law, as without law (not being without law toward God, but under law toward Christ), that I might win those who are without law; to the weak I became as weak, that I might win the weak, I have become all things to all men, that I might by all means save some." 1 Corinthians 9:20-22

At the very least, it is apparent that Paul was a chameleon who blended with his surroundings whatever they were at the time! Paul clearly taught contradictory messages for the purpose of making everybody happy... something you would never find "the Christ" doing. There is no simple misunderstanding about it. Even Paul's contemporaries accused him of encouraging others not to practice the law of Moses. It is the main issue in much of the book of Acts 21.

Acts 21:21 And they are informed of thee, that thou teachest all the Jews which are among the Gentiles to forsake Moses, saying that they ought not to circumcise their children, neither to walk after the customs. (KJV)

They even had him there in the flesh to explain himself and straighten out the misunderstanding if indeed it was so simple, but the obvious seems to go unnoticed that the issue is never settled in the book of Acts. James, the leader of "myriads" of Messianic Jews, never does come to Paul's rescue when everyone would naturally think he certainly would have if it all were just a simple misunderstanding of Paul's teaching. This fact I have established earlier on other of our websites. Paul was more concerned with making a reputation for himself by mass conversions of non-Jews which he figured would help with his acceptance by the Jerusalem establishment who was wary of him being a former Sadducee who persecuted their very ranks.

One of Christianity's favorite Pauline passages that clearly suggests we ought not bother trying to keep God's Law comes from the first part of the book of Romans. Right off... in chapter 1, Paul tries to establish some fundamental premises on which to continue building his doctrine. He says;

For in it the righteousness of God is revealed from faith to faith; as it is written, "The just shall live by faith". Romans 1:17

This was a favorite passage of the Christian reformer Martin Luther. He believed, as Paul clearly lays out later in Romans and Galatians, this faith that the just are supposed to live by is as opposed to living by the law. Paul eventually turns it into an either-or... mutually exclusive incompatibility of faith and law. Notice again that Paul feels compelled to prove his doctrine by quoting Scripture. This observation alone should make it go without saying that the Scripture he quotes had better paint the same picture, or his premise is groundless. Here again Paul or this pro-Pauline writer misquotes Scripture albeit slightly. The passage he quotes is Habakkuk 2:4.

"Behold the proud, his soul is not upright in him, but the just shall live by his faith."

In this passage's context, and more accurately translated, it is obvious that what God is saying here is that the just person (someone who is righteous) shall live (as opposed to dying) "by" (literally "because of") "his" (personal, as opposed to general) faithfulness: (literally, "steadfastness", ) to righteous living. Let me shorten this up for better understanding. It is this: The righteous person will survive if he is steadfast in his righteousness. Nowhere in this picture is the idea: If an unrighteous person wants to become righteous, he must live by the phenomenon of faith.

This one subtle abuse of Scripture by Paul is only the beginning. From here, he builds on his doctrine by continuing to make more blatant abuses that end up taking him and his doctrine into extreme error. By the end of the book of Romans, Paul is so far off the mark and from God's Revelation to mankind concerning His Law and Commandments it's hopeless! Watch where he goes from here in chapter 3.

Whenever someone suggests to a Christian (most particularly evangelical Christians) that the law of God still stands today, one of the first things out of their mouths to refute the suggestion comes from Romans 3. We are quickly informed that no one is able to keep the law according to Paul, and all are guilty of breaking it and forever remain labeled by it... unrighteous. Here is the quote we hear:

"There is none righteous, no, not one". Romans 3:10

This passage is a quote Paul makes from the Tanakh in an effort to prove his case. From verse 10 on through 18 is Paul's apparent direct quote from Scripture that is supposed to prove to us that no one is righteous, but all are full of evil. Please read all eight verses for yourself.

Answer for yourself: But is Paul honest in this quote? Were these texts quoted by Paul or this Pauline writer used in the same context as the original writer from the Hebrew Scriptures? No.

No such single passage exists in the Hebrew Bible! What Paul quotes is a compilation of no less than SIX separate passages that have been jerked out of their original context from the Psalms and the book of Isaiah... and they are all strung together in such a fashion as to appear as one. We have seen this deceptive practice of Paul's before, where in Romans 9, he pastes together two short passages from Genesis and Malachi concerning Jacob and Esau! Paul's or this pro-Pauline anti-Gnostic writer's accuracy in quoting from the Psalms is not any better. The first passage he quotes in verses 10-12 comes from Psalm 14. Here is his version first.

As it is written: "There is none righteous, no, not one; there is none who understands; there is none who seeks after God. They have all gone out of the way; they have together become unprofitable; there is none who does good, no, not one."
Romans 3:10-12

Now here is the passage quoted accurately, and in its context.

"The fool has said in his heart, 'there is no God'. They (of these atheistic fools) are corrupt, they (of these atheistic fools) have done abominable works, there is none (of these atheistic fools) who does good. The Lord looks down from heaven upon the (corrupt) children of men to see if there are any who understand, who seek God. They have all turned aside, they have together become corrupt; there is non who does good, no, not one. Have all the workers of iniquity no knowledge, who eat up my people as they eat bread, and do not call on the Lord? There they ( these evil people who devout God's people, the unrighteous who devout the righteous) are in great fear, for God is with the generation of the RIGHTEOUS. Psalm 14:1-5

In David's picture there are no atheistic fools who do good! This passage is obviously not speaking of every human being, but of a very distinct group of people whom David describes as:

- fools,
- atheists,
- workers of abominations,
- corrupt,
- ignorant, and
- workers of iniquity.

Of course, not one of them do good. And these evil people are contrasted with a second group of real people known as "my people" and "the generation of the RIGHTEOUS".

Answer for yourself: Then is Paul correct and have the churches taught this passage correctly? Did God ever say that "that there is none righteous, no not one" as we have been led to believe in Roman 3:10 and by Paul or this pro-Pauline writer? No, He did not!

Even in these very passages that Paul or this Romanized Pauline writers quotes from, there are obviously those whom God calls "righteous"! This is hardly the picture Paul wants us to get from this Psalm or from his anti-Law bias in the Book of Romans. Notice also Paul's embellishment of this passage. He would have us believe the phrase, "no, not one" is used twice when it is only used once. The first time Paul uses the phrase is where it doesn't exist, and it is coupled with the word "righteous" which Hebrew word doesn't exist in this part of the Psalm, or anywhere near the words "no, not one". Instead the Hebrew word for righteous shows up later in verse 5 and directly implies that there are those who are righteous! So much for "no, not one".

In Paul's string of quotes from Romans 3:10-18, he continues in verse 13 to take Scripture snippets out of their context from Psalm 5:9 and Psalm 140:3. In verse 14 he snips from Psalm 10:7. Verse 15,16 and 17 he yanks from Isaiah 59:7,8. And verse 18 he jerks from Psalm 36:1. In each and every case, the people spoken of in these passages are specifically evil men, and in the greater context of these passages, the evil men are contrasted with people who are called "the righteous", "the upright", and "the innocent". Please check for yourself. Not only is there no support for Paul's picture in these passages, but in each of the passage he takes out of context we find a comparison of people who are "unrighteous" and people who are "righteous". This is the very opposite of what Paul said in Roman 3 and we have been led astray. God is teaching us here that it is possible for man to make himself acceptable to God!

In Psalm 5 we find again a contrast between two different people;:

- Ps 5:5 5 The foolish shall not stand in thy sight: thou hatest all workers of iniquity. (KJV)
  - Ps 5:11 11 But let all those that put their trust in thee rejoice: let them ever shout for joy, because thou defendest them: let them also that love thy name be joyful in thee. (KJV)

In Psalm 140 we find again a contrast between two different people:

- Ps 140:3 3 They have sharpened their tongues like a serpent; adders' poison is under their lips. Selah. (KJV)
  - Ps 140:13 13 Surely the righteous shall give thanks unto thy name: the upright shall dwell in thy presence. (KJV)

In Psalm 10 we have again a contrast between two different people:

- Ps 10:3 3 For the wicked boasteth of his heart's desire, and blesseth the covetous, whom the LORD abhorreth. (KJV)
- Ps 10:7 7 His (the wicked...see above) mouth is full of cursing and deceit and fraud: under his tongue is mischief and vanity. (KJV)

Ps 10:17-18 17 LORD, thou hast heard the desire of the humble: thou wilt prepare their heart, thou wilt cause thine ear to hear: 18 To judge the fatherless and the oppressed, that the man of the earth may no more oppress. (KJV)

In Isaiah 57 we again find a contrast between two different people:

- Isa 59:7-8 7 Their feet run to evil, and they make haste to shed innocent blood: their thoughts are thoughts of iniquity; wasting and destruction are in their paths. 8 The way of peace they know not; and there is no judgment in their goings: they have made them crooked paths: whosoever goeth therein shall not know peace. (KJV)
  - Isa 59:20 20 And the Redeemer shall come to Zion, and unto them that turn from transgression in Jacob, saith the LORD. (KJV)

In Psalm 36 we again find a contrast between two different people: Ps 36:1 1 The transgression of the wicked saith within my heart, that there is no fear of God before his eyes. (KJV)

- Ps 36:7 7 How excellent is thy lovingkindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. (KJV)
  - Ps 36:10 10 O continue thy lovingkindness unto them that know thee; and thy righteousness to the upright in heart. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: What is this writer of the Book of Romans, the first epistle in the New Testament names "Romans" which gives conscious credibility to Rome and authority for later Church doctrine, wanting us to know and believe by misquoting and taking these Hebrew Scriptures out of context?

Antisemitic Rome, through either this Paul or a later pro-Paulinist writer, wants us to believe that no one becomes righteous through the works of the law. But there are many whom God called righteous. From Genesis 7:1 where He says to Noah, "I have seen that you are righteous before Me in this generation", all the way through to the New Testament where Jesus says, "many prophets and righteous men desired to see what you see, and did not see it...", there are many references to righteous men. Take an exhaustive concordance and look for yourself under the word righteous.

After supposedly proving his premise that no one can be righteous under the law with his deceptive quoting of Scripture, Paul is forced to try and find for us a good working reason as to why God gave man the law at all in the first place! Here is his logic.

"Now we know that whatever the law says, it says to those who are under the law, that (for this purpose) every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become guilty before God. Therefore by the deeds of the law no flesh will be justified in His sight, for by the law is the knowledge of sin." Romans 3:19,20

This begins to defy words to describe the profane lie that it is. But understand if you are going to destroy and nullify God's Laws given to all mankind since the beginning of time then you have to come up with some reason for the law's existence in the first place; especially after annihilating the truth!

Answer for yourself: Are we really to believe that it's God's purpose to make man guilty before Him?

Answer for yourself: If God intentionally made His law impossible for man to keep, would that not make God the author of unrighteousness and guilt?

Now for some fresh air. Here's God's version of why He gave man the law.

"Oh, that they had such a heart in them that they would fear Me and always keep all My commandments, that (for this purpose) it might be well with them and with their children forever!" Deuteronomy 5:29

"And the Lord commanded us to observe all these statutes, to fear the Lord our God, for our good always, that (for this purpose) He might preserve us alive, as it is this day. Then it (observance of God's Laws) will be righteousness for us, if we are careful to observe all these commandments before the Lord our God, as He has commanded us." Deuteronomy 6:24,25

But Paul disagrees in Romans 3:22. Instead of righteousness coming by obeying the Laws and Commandments of God we find according to Rome's antisemitism and altered Hebrew Scriptures given us in Paul's name it comes by "faith":

Rom 3:22 22 Even the righteousness of God which is by faith of Jesus Christ unto all and upon all them that believe: for there is no difference: (KJV)

One more example. I dare you to contrast the following two verses and not go crazy trying to figure out this schizophrenic Paul in the

New Testament:

Rom 2:13 13 (For not the hearers of the law are just before God, but the doers of the law shall be justified. (KJV)

Rom 3:28 28 Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: So which is it? Do we follow this Jewish Jesus as our example of "the Christ" and his message of Eternal Life and Salvation or this Roman Paul and his message or messages since they conflict? Does this Paul breed confidence that he can be trusted let alone knows up from bottom?

There are two different Gospels here; one by a Jewish Jesus and "the Christ" and one opposing it given to us by Rome in the name of Paul or a later Pauline writer. One is a lie and one is true. Since I showed you that the Roman Pauline Gospel is a mishmash of forged Hebrew Scriptures and Hebrew texts taken out of context then a blind man can see the deception. And I only touched the surface with this Pauline Problem in this article. One of these Gospels is a lie and one it the truth. Sadly as a Christian I never was taught the truth and had to find it out on my own; but if I had never studied for myself I would have died a deceived Christian and been labeled by God after my death as one who is "wicked" like the texts above showed us because I followed the wrong message of Salvation my whole life as a typical Christian and lived without the Law in my life thinking another lie that "Christ" is the end of the Law.

I have shown you but a few of the Pauline lies in the New Testament given us by Rome which has shaped the horrible history of the world for the last 1,800 years. This blasphemous lie by itself should finish this Romanized Paul off and reveal him as a false prophet worthy of death according to the Torah. The Synoptic Gospels and the Salvation Message of God from the mouth of the "Jewish Jesus" and "the Christ" never taught anything remotely close to this.

The next time you read Paul's epistles notice how much space is devoted to his defense of his apostleship and understand he is defending himself to the Jerusalem church which knew that he "teachest all the Jews which are among the Gentiles to forsake Moses, saying that they ought not to circumcise their children, neither to walk after the customs" of the Jews. These "customs" happened to be manifestations of obedience to the Law and Commandments of God. So before you are misled by Christian teachings about Paul understand historically why Paul was rejected by Jerusalem. We have devoted a large amount of space on another of our websites to the Paul problem and we hope you investigate it.

THE PARABLE OF THE GOOD SAMARITAN

Now let us get to the parable at hand. Though there are many lessons crowded into the parable of the good Samaritan, but the one which, by way of contrast with the teachings of Paul, is perhaps more obtrusively manifested than any other is the parable's implied scheme of "salvation." We must look deeply at the hidden message and not the obvious context. If you contrast Paul's views on salvation, as seen in Rom. 10:13 [For whosoever shall call upon the Name of the Lord shall be saved (faith only)], we find that Jesus and Paul had two completely different ideas as to what constituted God's Salvation. Because of the Gentile influence this and many other such key words, such as "salvation", have been invested with theological meanings they were not intended originally to convey. But a typical Christian would never know this unless he investigated for himself what Judaism taught about salvation. Over the years, as my studies increased, I found that on the whole one of the main fallacies of the Gentile Church and its hermeneutics (interpretation of Scriptures) was its failure to apply a rationalist interpretation but rather an allegorical or "spiritualized" interpretation to the Jewish Scriptures. Words have been mistranslated or misinterpreted on purpose by Gentile theologians in order to make them fit in with either their existing pagan doctrinal theology or its evolutionary projections. Jesus certainly did not understand by "salvation" transportation to a kingdom in the clouds, as has already been explained in prior articles on "salvation" as well as the first two in this series; and this will become abundantly clear the more you study and contrast the different views on salvation as held by Jews and Gentiles.

According to this Paul them, anybody might save himself most easily by "believing on the Lord Jesus Christ according to my Gospel". Well we saw that ain't so.

I wish something so easy was true but we stand amazed when viewing the Jews who for two thousand of years now have refused to receive the "free gift" of salvation contingent only upon mental ascent to a dogma. In place of this easy salvation, the Jews continues to observe their Covenant and endeavor to observe its Covenant stipulations which is the only guarantee of acceptance and fellowship with God under such a Covenant. This is our responsibility as non-Jewish believers as well; adhere to and observe our Covenant stipulations and responsibilities.

According to Jesus, you cannot save yourself at all, except only by saving others. Those who seek to save themselves, heedless as to what happens to their neighbors, are deceiving themselves. This is the meaning of that seeming paradox that "Whosoever will seek his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life because of me shall find it."

Answer for yourself: What does "because of me" mean? "Because of me" is understood by many scholars to mean "in consequence of my teachings, or by obeying these 'laws' which I preach unto you." The Greek words unfortunately have been translated "for my sake"; a rendering which is agreeable to Pauline theology, but quite inconsistent with the character and teachings of Jesus, and not warranted by the context.

When Jesus said "Whosoever will seek his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life because of me shall find it" is not mere sentiment, but a necessary truth. It means that you cannot save yourself by fasting, incantations, baptisms, or mental assent to an accepted dogma about Jesus or what his death was later interpreted by Gentiles to mean. Your individual safety is bound up with that of your neighbors. Therefore to save yourself you must "save others"; you must see to it that there shall be none neglected or oppressed; that there are no pitfalls (or temptations), and that none are menaced. In short, you can assure your own salvation only by making sure that none need perish within the grasp of your influence. This is true salvation.

I was never more amazed in my life when studying the word for "salvation" over ten years ago, when after looking up every one of the seventeen different meanings for the word "save, saved, and salvation" in the Strong's Concordance that sixteen of the meanings for the word "salvation", as used in both the New and the Old Testaments, refereed to this life and not the next life after death. Overwhelming God was showing me that salvation is something for this life more than the next. But the sermons I heard since a child had told me otherwise. My Christian and Pauline doctrine had focused on "other-worldly" salvation almost to the exclusion of "salvation as manifestations of earthly deeds in response to correct doctrine". My Christian doctrine concerning Eternal Life was shown to be wrong the more I looked into things like this as my experience in scholarly study testified to my errors of Christian doctrine accepted as Divine Truth. Consequently my study confirmed my worst thoughts; my "deeds" were either lacking or in short supply or were the "wrong ones". No longer could I feel confident of my salvation based upon what I believed that Paul wrote which was no more than "his gospel" and "his theology" which I was seeing diametrically opposed what Jesus taught. I was a follower of Paul more than Jesus. The last time I checked Paul is believed by no one to be Messiah, yet we believe Paul over Jesus. This is not noticed by most, so Bet Emet endeavors to bring this to the readers attention in order that he can have a better grasp of his faith in view of hidden truths which bring correction to Christian error.

BOY ARE YOU SURPRISED...CONSIDERING WHAT YOU WERE TAUGHT

Another remarkable feature of the parable is the surprise of both the "blessed" and the "condemned"; for apparently neither of them expected things to turn out as they did. The wonder is, how this lesson could have remained all these centuries buried in the Gospels unnoticed and unheeded.

The "blessed" were quite unaware of having done anything meritorious. They probably were simple folk who attended to the daily affairs of life, feeding and clothing those dependent on them, and giving help where such was needed; not with any ulterior motive or expectation of reward, but just as part of the daily round of duties. And as part of those duties they fed the hungry, clothed the naked, succored the weak, visited the prisoners, and comforted those that mourned. It was these deeds that constituted them "the blessed of the Father." We are not told of any other merits of theirs, whether they ever attended the synagogue or whether they were Jews even.

There is again no mention about "faith," which is so strong a point with Paul; no mention about Paul's or anybody else's gospel; about Adam's "fall" or a "promise" to Abraham; nor about "believing on the Lord Jesus Christ." Sorry to break your bubble but it simply is not there. The silence of such doctrines and their absence from the teachings concerning Eternal Life and the religious belief system of Jesus is deafening!

Just as the "blessed" were rewarded in virtue only for their good deeds towards their fellow-men, and without reference to their creed, dogmas, doctrines, sect, Pauline theology, or nationality, so the others were condemned solely because they did not attend to the needs of their neighbors. They failed to observe the Second Tablet of the Law (horizontal commandments between man to man); the same tablet we saw that Jesus referred to consistently as "necessary" in an earlier article when asked concerning inheriting Eternal Life. For all we know, the "blessed" may have been Gentiles who never attended a synagogue; and the "cursed" pious Jews, priests and Levites, who spent most of their time in prayer and in fasting (First Tablet of the Law). Of such little account did Jesus consider these rites that, as on other occasions, he did not even mention them; but rather Jesus choose to give greater prominence to the importance of good works, so little thought of by Paul. This is the deception. It basically boils down to this: we must either believe Jesus and "his gospel" or Paul and "his gospel". But be not deceived; these two gospels are in direct contradiction of each other. You might never have seen this but that does not change the fact that they oppose each other.

WHAT WAS THE RELIGION OF JESUS ANYWAY THAT TEACHES SALVATION CORRECTLY?

Answer for yourself: But, I hear many ask, if this is as you say, what was the religion of Jesus ? Was he an advocate of "grace" to the exclusion of "works" as Paul would have us believe? Was Jesus a secularist?

I desire the reader to note the antithesis suggested by the two words and then to reflect why or whence that implied contrast. When he has found the answer, it will be the severest indictment of the Churches that have created this antithesis and a complete condemnation of their pseudo-religion.

If we turn to the dictionary we find the word "secular" thus defined:

"pertaining to this present world, or to things not spiritual or holy; relating to things not immediately or primarily respecting the soul, but the body; worldly; temporal."

It is quite obvious that theology is responsible for this definition. "Religion" and the "affairs of life"; "holiness" and "temporal duties"; "body" and "soul"; "piety" and "duty": these have not only been divorced, but made antagonistic; with the result that a religion and a piety have been evolved that are the consummation of selfishness.

To prove this we need only contemplate a piety as free from "worldliness" as conditions of life permit and the result will be, not a saint but an ascetic; a person who has renounced this world with all its duties, who has debased even his own body, in the hope of thus being able to save his own soul. As if such a pitiful human wreck could have any soul left worth the saving! Yet the irony of the whole thing is that the above scenario describes perfectly the Catholic Monks of the Dark Ages who were the poster children of the Catholic Church and their Gentile theology during the Dark Ages. This is typical of Christianity and not of Judaism; the religion of Jesus the Jew.

I am aware that no sane person is likely to carry his fervor so far as the ascetic I am contemplating. Yet the latter would but carry to its logical conclusion the doctrine which denounces this world and its duties as "temporal" or "secular" in opposition to what the Churches consider as "spiritual" or "religious". The result is not "saintliness," but selfishness run mad.

There is a counterpart to such a "saint." It is the self-indulgent, pleasure-seeking, sensuous egotist who cares as little about what becomes of the rest of mankind in this world as the ascetic cares about their fate in the next. They are the two extremes of a false conception of existence, actuated by like motives. The ascetic sacrifices the pleasures of this world as a price for future and eternal bliss; and the "worldling" who does not believe in the future life is trying to get what "pleasures" he can out of this. Each of them is trying to get the most for himself; they differ only in taking opposite chances. That there are duties in this present world which are sacred because pertaining to this present life, does not occur to either; and in consequence both are classed in the parable among "the cursed."

If the parable teaches anything at all, it is this, that of all the iniquities and abominations none is greater than the doctrine which would divorce the duties of this life and of this world from religion, or would stigmatize such duties as "secular," "temporal" or "worldly," in opposition to "holy," "spiritual," or "religious." The classification is an erroneous one, based as it is on false conceptions of life, duty, and religion. Not that which is secular or temporal is opposed to religion, but that which is sordid, selfish, and iniquitous. This is the criterion that is decisive in the Parable of the Last Judgment. The whole religion of Jesus consists in "temporal" or "secular" duties, and of course could consist in nothing else. The aphorism of "serving God rather than man" is but an easy way of trying to escape one's duties and responsibilities under the Second Tablet of the Law.

You cannot serve God save by serving God's children; this is the teaching of Jesus. Your praise is blasphemy; your gifts, if given as bribes for future rewards, sacrilege; and your fasts hypocrisy. The essence of religion is this: "Inasmuch as ye have done it to one of the least of these, you have done it unto me."

To live a life of love, of justice, of mercy, of forbearing and forgiving, helping the weak, succoring the needy, seeing in each fellow-creature a child of the "Father which is in heaven," sanctifying that Fatherhood by recognizing your brotherhood, is not worldliness, but righteousness; and to neglect these duties and to devote all your time and thought to praying to God for your own welfare is not "spiritual" or "holy," but sordid and selfish.

The Parable of the Last Judgment leaves no room for doubt as to what constituted righteousness in the eyes of Jesus. The Christian Church who has traded "works" for "faith" should reexamine the parable of the Good Samaritan and prepare to repent of following a "false gospel". They and their Pastors must come to understand that the Law, that Paul tell us we are no longer under, is the EXACT WAY that man is assured, though his obedient actions, that his efforts were the "loving way" of God as each Commandment and Law is nothing more than as aspect of the Holy God; 365 negative Commandments which God is not and which God does not do; 248 positive Commandments which reveal what God is and what God does. Let me remind you that it is "these loving aspects of God, called Laws, that Paul teaches that we are no longer under!

Long habit of thought and association of ideas have invested the words "religion," "spiritual," and "pious" with a theological flavor that assigns to them meanings that are opposite to "secular," "temporal," or "worldly." But, as I have already pointed out, the life of a praying and ascetic may be as sordid and selfish as that of the sensuous egotist; whilst a person who never goes to church or chapel may, notwithstanding, be unselfish, religious, and "spiritual" in the strict sense approved by the head of the Church and Christianity.

I grant that, to the eye, the priest's example in the parable of the Good Samaritan makes for a prettier picture. The priest's religion is also much the easier to follow. But do not tell me that it is the "warmer," or that it can satisfy that secret yearning of a truly devout soul which seeks happiness in the consciousness of having done its duty. Do not misunderstand me. I am not speaking against church, pastor, or priest. Far from it. I am one. Both have a mission, and a sacred one. It is their errors I am trying to expose; errors inherited from

Gentile Christianity and their fraudulent document which contains them...the New Testament. It is good for people to congregate and to join in prayer, in communion of thought and of sentiment. Such acts stimulate religion, but are not religious in themselves. They may be aids to religion, but cannot be substitutes for it. Go to church by all means. But if you should pray or sing a hymn to God that shall be acceptable and the acceptance of which you shall feel in your heart, I challenge you to take home with you that hungry mother with the half-starved infant in her arms standing at the street corner in the hope of alms that you passed up on your way to church or when you decided to give your pastor and your church your tithe which God has already said cannot be used for such things as building funds, rent, insurance, pastor dinners, television ministries, blacktopping the parking lot, remodeling, symposiums, etc. Feed the child and then watch the mother's eyes. Hymn after hymn and prayer after prayer will ascend, and no doubt the divine spirit in your own heart will receive and respond to songs and prayer, but although never a sound is uttered in such good "works" as the fruit of your faith, there will come the promised response to you: "Inasmuch as ye have done it to one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me."

But your duty does not end with feeding mother and child and dismissing them with a present, however generous. You cannot buy your salvation in this easy fashion. You will have to find out the cause of that woman's distress, and if it be due to some social wrong or some social institution, then the fault is at your own door. No amount of praying can relieve you of the duty to help to remove the iniquity through which that woman has been reduced to that pitiable plight. The rabbis teach us that such confrontation with religious error is the sanctification of the Name of God and failure to confront one who teaches contrary to the only true religion God gave mankind profanes the Name of God. That is why Bet Emet writes hard-nosed truthful articles that grab your attention and your hearts. Nor can you be safe yourself while that pitfall is allowed to remain.

There is an unmistakable correspondence between the character of Paul and his teachings, as there is between the character and teachings of Jesus. But there is no correspondence whatever, nor any point of contact, between the two philosophies or the characters of their respective authors.

Whether we compare their lives, doctrines, or trains of thought, this Romanized Paul is in every respect the antithesis of Jesus. Paul was austere, narrow-minded, bigoted, doctrinaire, superstitious, and intolerant. Jesus was in every respect the opposite. Paul cursed those who dared differ from him (Gal. 1:8); Jesus enjoined "love your enemies"—and practiced it, too.

- "He that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven" was the formula of Jesus; "He that believeth on the Lord Jesus Christ" was the formula of Paul.
- Paul believed in the efficacy of oaths, and thought it necessary even for God so to confirm his promises (Heb. 6:17); Jesus said, "Swear not at all . . . but let your communications be Yea, yea; Nay, nay; for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil" (Luke 6:35).
- Paul's God was jealous and vindictive (Heb. 4:12), from whose wrath he endeavored to save the elect. Jesus knew no such vindictive deity. His God was a loving Father, who sendeth his rain on the just and on the unjust, and who "is kind even to the unthankful and to the evil" (Luke 6:35).
- Hence Paul speaks of "saints" or the "elect"; Jesus never uses either of these terms, but speaks of the "righteous" and the "unrighteous," and of both as "the children of the Father."
- Paul's sole concern was for his saints. Jesus came to call sinners to repentance.
- Paul's reasoning is always specious, superficial, and plausible. Jesus appealed to reason and to the facts of nature. "As it is written . . ." said Paul. "Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time . . . but I say unto you" was the form of address used by Jesus.
- Paul argued much against the "law," as being no longer of any account. But Jesus, when asked "What must I do to inherit life?" answered, "Obey the law."
- Paul is as insistent that "works without faith" are of no avail as Jesus is emphatic that piety of any kind without good deeds in the service of others is useless.
- Paul had practically abandoned all hope in a possible uplifting of mankind. "There is none righteous, no, not one" (Rom. 3:10). Jesus, on the other hand, believed in the potential goodness of man: "Ye are the salt of the earth"; "Ye are the light of the world." "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect."
- Paul saw no hope for any regeneration. "By the deeds of the law there shall no flesh be justified" (Rom. 3:20); and the only salvation of mankind he could see was in his gospel of the atonement of Christ. He did not think it was in man to save himself at all, save through being "ransomed." The very idea of ascribing to Jesus such a senseless and mischievous doctrine as that one man's disobedience should be visited on all mankind, or that by merely believing in the goodness of someone else people should be able to atone for their own, misdeeds, is too ludicrous for serious discussion.
- According to Jesus there can be no such atonement as is so confidently proclaimed by Paul. You are warned off the altar even, and advised to "agree with shine adversary quickly . . . lest at any time the adversary deliver thee to the judge.... Thou shalt by no means come out thence till thou hast paid the uttermost farthing" (Matt. 5:25-26).

Thus we might go on showing that every doctrine or dogma of this Romanized Paul was a negation of something which Jesus enjoined on mankind as necessary for their regeneration.

Indeed, if it were not for the misuse of terms, Paul might be described as the veritable "Anti-Christ," in the sense of being an adversary of the only true religion God gave mankind; the religion of Jesus which stressed obedience to the Laws and Commandments of God as the Will of God for all mankind.....which just happens to be Biblical Judaism whereby the non-Jew, by faith and works, is grafted into Israel of God and does not find his standing with God apart from the Israel of God as tries the Christian Church in a Covenant of their own making!

THE TRUTH ABOUT BIBLICAL ATONEMENT

In the 18th chapter of Ezekiel, the prophet was teaching his people a fundamental biblical principle: A righteous person cannot die vicariously for the sins of the wicked. This notion was identified as thoroughly pagan and was to be avoided by the Jewish people at all costs, and is taught emphatically throughout the 18th chapter of Ezekiel. In verses 20-23 the prophet declares that repentance alone provides full forgiveness of sin.

Ezek 18:20-23 20 The soul that sinneth, it shall die. The son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, neither shall the father bear the iniquity of the son: the righteousness of the righteous shall be upon him, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon him. 21 But if the wicked will turn from all his sins that he hath committed, and keep all my statutes, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall surely live, he shall not die. 22 All his transgressions that he hath committed, they shall not be mentioned unto him: in his righteousness that he hath done he shall live. 23 Have I any pleasure at all that the wicked should die? saith the Lord GOD: and not that he should return from his ways, and live? (KJV)

Never are blood-sacrifices or the veneration of a crucified messiah mentioned throughout Ezekiel's thorough and inspiring discourse on sin and atonement.

Ezekiel's teaching was not new. The Jewish people were warned throughout the Torah never to offer human sacrifices. When Moses offered to have his name removed from the Torah in exchange for the sin that the Jewish people had committed with the golden calf, the Almighty abruptly refused Moses' offer.

Exod 32:31-33 31 And Moses returned unto the LORD, and said, Oh, this people have sinned a great sin, and have made them gods of gold. 32 Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin--; and if not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou hast written. 33 And the LORD said unto Moses, Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book. (KJV)

Moses, who was righteous with regard to the golden calf, could not suffer vicariously for the sin of the nation. Rather, only the soul that sinned would endure judgment.

Now let us look at the Biblical Doctrine of Atonement as taught in the Hebrew Scriptures and by Judaism today; a teaching I might add that has not changed for over 3,500 years I might add.

CONTRASTING THE GOSPEL OF JOHN VS THE GOSPEL OF JESUS (THE JEWISH CHRIST) #1

If you have not already done so let me refer you to an earlier article in this series that goes into depth concerning the Gospel of Jesus for Salvation and Eternal Life. We want to compare what Jesus, the New Testament "Christ" taught for Salvation and Eternal Life in the earlier article with what supposedly John the Apostle taught concerning Salvation in Jesus' name and see if both Salvation Messages are the same. Theoretically it should be the "same" but as I will show you it is NOT!

Answer for yourself: Why are there again conflicting ways for the salvation of the Soul? Where is this "one faith" we read about in Ephesians? How many "roads" to salvation are there?

Answer for yourself: What if we have misunderstood the "only" road for salvation for our Soul and read unknowingly corrupted versions of it which were added later to the Sacred texts in our Bibles, salvation messages thousands of years removed from their original meanings?

Well, remembering what the New Testament Christ taught; namely that the true gospel of God is that Eternal Life and Salvation comes to man as the fruit of his belief in God and his earnest attempt to obey the Laws and Commandments of God and live an ordered existence of love and peace, then let us examine the Johannie literature and see for ourselves if John's "gospel" is the same as that taught by the "Jewish Christ" or if it conflicts and contradicts it as does the gospel of Paul and later "pro-Pauline" writers. Let me state right now for those not aware there are "two" different Pauline Gospels in the New Testament; one Gnostic and one "pro-Roman". By the reference above I mean the "pro-Roman" Gospel and not the Gnostic Gospel which is correct. This basic introductory study is only for the purpose of showing the readers on a deeper level the contradictions that are within our New Testament regarding the salvation of the Soul; in time I hope to steer the "truth-seeker" to the only true Gospel and salvation of our Soul which has been taught unchanged from the beginning of time and the Old Kingdom of ancient Egypt until the second century where we encounter the Roman "radical reinterpretation" of the ancient Sacred Wisdom and the birth of "Plan B" regarding the salvation of the Soul of mankind.

Biblically and historically, justification through faith in Jesus Christ (or salvation by grace through faith) has been the center of the Christian Gospel. There is a great controversy growing today within our churches and theological schools threatening the unconditional Gospel of grace by compromising faith alone as the condition for salvation. From the beginning of the church, defense of the Faith focused largely on the Paul's explanation, reiteration, and defense of faith alone as the condition of salvation. This is the explicit concern of the epistles to the Romans and Galatians, and it surfaces as well in some other epistles, such as Ephesians, Colossians, Philippians, and First John. Don't get me wrong "faith" is very important but it is not the "whole" of the salvation process; in fact "faith alone" is deficient. Action upon one's faith is necessary to active faith into a "living" and "creative" faith. More on that later.

John's Gospel explicitly states that it, the Gospel of John, was written to bring people to salvation and faith. Yet its message and language does not receive preeminent treatment in the Gospel debate. When it does, its simple message is often obscured or tainted by theological baggage or presuppositions. In this article, I will discuss the purpose of John's Gospel and its message for obtaining Eternal Life and Salvation as contrasted with the opposing message of the Jewish Jesus and "the Christ". We will come to see that the writer of the Gospel of John supports "faith alone" as the one and only condition for salvation where Judaism and the ancient World Religions and Sacred Wisdom of the ancients taught "faith plus works or action" for the Spiritual progression of the Soul that leads to salvation! This is where the Laws of God come in as the "teacher of our Soul" that leads to a higher life ethic and progressive Spiritual evolvment of our Soul into the "fullness and stature of the Christ" of which we read. So to say "Christ is the end of the Law", a statement that nullifies the very purpose of our incarnation, is a blasphemous lie of theology never believed by the real Paul; only the later "Romanized Paul".

A favorable distinctive of John's Gospel is his unequivocal statement of why he wrote it. He declares in John 20:30-31: And truly Jesus did many other signs in the presence of His disciples, which are not written in this book; but these are written that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing you may have life in His name.

Three corresponding emphases are evident in this purpose statement; of course here we are referring supposedly to a "literal-historical" person and not the Divine Mind of God, the Mystical and allegorical Christ that indwells "all of mankind".

- First, the "literalized" Gospel of John declares that this historical Jesus is the divine Son, the revelation of God: "Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God." This merely continues the obvious emphasis on the human being named Jesus and his deity in the Gospel. This "Jesus" is God! Along with this statement that this "Jesus" is the "Son of God" or "God manifested in the flesh" it also relates "salvation" with "believing" in this theological statement that this one person born in Galilee is the "only Christ". In short, the book begins and ends with Christ's deity; the deity of one man among the whole human race. Absent from such a theological statement is the true passage of Paul which related to all mankind: "Col 1:26-27 26 Even the mystery which hath been hid from ages and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints: 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory:" The quandary for us is to come to the knowledge of the truth regarding "the Christ"; is he limited to one person and separated from the whole of humanity as Rome maintains or is he birthed into the life of every human being. This lies at the very basis of such a theological position in the New Testament.
- A second emphasis, more germane to our discussion, is the presentation of belief as the proper "saving" response to this revelation about Jesus Christ: "that you may believe." The evangelistic intent is obvious. It is hardly necessary to show that Christ's deity revealed by word or miracle in this Gospel is typically followed by someone believing or by an appeal to believe. We are distinctly told to "believe that "the", a definite article referring to "only one" (as in the Only Christ), Christ is found ONLY in the historical person of Jesus of Nazareth, the Jesus Christ of the Gospels. Again, this "Christ" is limited to but one person; a Christ whose access is again limited to the door of the Roman Catholic Church "only" and there is "no salvation" outside of the Roman Church where "this only Christ" can be found! Make no mistake about it; this has been and "is" Roman dogma not only during the Dark Ages but today as well.
- The third emphasis that presents Eternal Life as the result of belief: "that believing you may have life in His name."

Given John's clear purpose, we would expect to see a clear condition for receiving Eternal life, and we do. That condition is most frequently expressed by the verb "pisteu") "believe," which is used 98 times in John

(compared to 34 times in the 3 Synoptic Gospels and 16 times in the rest of the NT). Now put your "thinking hats on" and ask yourself why this "theme" of "believing" is not stressed equally throughout the New Testament if it is the very core of "salvation". It should strike you rather strange that only one Gospel, the Gospel of John stresses believing 98 times when 3 other whole Gospels only stress this same "dogmas" ten times each let alone only 16 times in the whole of the non-Gospel writings that make up the whole of the New Testament. Surely this is out of balance to say the least; it is almost crying out that someone has an "agenda" in the writing of the Gospel of John not found in the rest of the New Testament.

Another pattern we see is the consistent effect of believing, which is salvation. Though sometimes faith is underdeveloped, faulty, weak, or minimal, it is always sufficient for Eternal life according to the writer of the Gospel of John. Faith alone is sufficient for Eternal Life apart from "works". According to this writer Jesus said that whoever believes "has" (present tense) eternal life and "has passed" (perfect tense) from death into life (5:24).

John 5:24 24 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life. (KJV)

This is the present possession of the believer. The blind man who was given sight was able to declare "Lord, I believe!" (9:38), though it took him some time to come to that point of faith. In John, salvation is not conditioned on how one believes, but whom one believes "in", or not the kind of faith, but the object of one's faith; in particular this "Jesus only".

This is more than convenient for a church who is developing at the same time a dogma that there is "no salvation" outside of the Roman Church where one can find "Jesus only". If you think that I am not stating the truth of the exclusive salvation of Christianity obtained only through the Roman Church and their dogmas then read this:

Concerning this doctrine the Pope of Vatican I, Pius IX, spoke in an allocution (address to an audience) on December 9th, 1854 he said: "We must hold as of the faith, that out of the Apostolic Roman Church there is no salvation; that she is the only ark of safety, and whosoever is not in her perishes in the deluge" There are many such pronouncements.

This dogmatic position only leads to others like the notion of feeding on Christ (John 6:57),

John 6:57 57 As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father: so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me. (KJV) including eating his flesh and drinking his blood (6:54) (the Eucharist or Communion),

John 6:54 54 Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life; and I will raise him up at the last day. (KJV) is another analogy of the faith that supposedly obtains Eternal Life, as is clear in 6:35 and 6:47.

John 6:35 35 And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst. (KJV)

John 6:47 47 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me hath everlasting life. (KJV)

This is similar to the drink of living water (eternal life) offered to the Samaritan woman (4:10, 14).

John 4:10 10 Jesus answered and said unto her, If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee living water. (KJV)

John 4:14 14 But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life. (KJV)

To eat and drink is to appropriate or receive something upon which life depends. Notice please that there is no work or merit associated with these activities, there is no "training of the Soul" and no progressive Spiritual development and perfection of our Soul in such activities; in other words there are "no works" or "deeds" that elevate our Soul to a higher righteousness. Rather, the benefit is from what is appropriated, which corresponds to the object of faith, which is Christ.

John's Gospel is distinguished from the Synoptic Gospels by its unique selection of material not found in Matthew, Mark, and Luke. It is commonly observed that 92% of its material is unique when compared to the Synoptics. It is also commonly agreed that this material presents a more doctrinal reflection in contrast to the more historical approaches of the Synoptic accounts. This can be clearly seen when John's prologue is compared to those of the Synoptics.

A fortunate distinctive of John's Gospel is his unequivocal statement of why he wrote it. He declares in John 20:30-31:

And truly Jesus did many other signs in the presence of His disciples, which are not written in this book; but these are written that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing you may have life in His name.

Three corresponding emphases are evident in this purpose statement. First, it declares Jesus is the divine Son, the revelation of God: "Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God." This merely continues the obvious emphasis on Jesus' deity in the Gospel. Here a man is made God. This my friends is idolatry according to Laws of Moses and the Laws of Noah and this blasphemy is treated as a Divine revelation in the Gospel of John worthy of man's acceptance and reverence.

This opening purpose statement also explains why John declares in v 30 that only certain miracles were recorded. Besides the explicit statements, it is commonly observed that deity is revealed through the selection of miraculous signs that Jesus performs (cf. 10:37-38; 14:10-11)

John 10:37-38 37 If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not. 38 But if I do, though ye believe not me, believe the works: that ye may know, and believe, that the Father is in me, and I in him. (KJV)

John 14:10-11 10 Believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the words that I speak unto you I speak not of myself; but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works. 11 Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: or else believe me for the very works' sake. (KJV)

Consider as well the "I am" statements He makes. In short, the book begins and ends with Christ's deity. The evangelistic intent is obvious. It is hardly necessary to show that Christ's deity revealed by word or miracle in this Gospel is typically followed by someone believing or by an appeal to believe. Furthering the argument for evangelistic intent is the third emphasis that presents Eternal Life as the result of belief: "that believing you may have life in His name." John's purpose was to induce and foster faith in this supposed "literal" and "historical" Jesus as "the Son of God" for Eternal Life and in so doing guarantee the dominance of the Roman Church as a world power. One commentator expressed John's purpose as the "birth, growth, and completing of faith in the disciples." The church at large has always taken John's purpose in 20:31 at face value and understood this Gospel's intent to lead people to faith and a full life that comes only through the organized Church. Through the ages, believers have probably used John more than any other piece of literature to confront people with the Gospel. A modern illustration of this is the millions of pocket Gospels of John that have been distributed for over a century to share the Good News.

Given John's clear purpose, we would expect to see a clear condition for receiving eternal life, and this of course is "belief". Belief in Jesus as the Son of God is the expected and hoped for response to the revelation of Jesus Christ as the Son of God and this again comes from the texts which declare it so. Had the texts had a different message then of course I hope you understand that that people would have believed "otherwise".

The doctrines of the deity of Christ and the atonement are existing religious teachings coming from false "literalizations" applied to the Mystery Religions which all non-Jews would have been familiar long before Paul. These teachings were only reinforced later by a Romanized Paul which further was made to look at he supported a "literalized Jesus Christ"; no so when you begin to study and see for yourself the Gnostic Paul beside the Romanized Paul in the New Testament.

Answer for yourself: Were these doctrines something Paul made up or borrowed? What did Jesus teach regarding the atonement? Did Jesus teach a different atonement than Paul and later "pro-Pauline" writers? He sure did and the above set of studies will show clearly that the New Testament depiction of atonement is false.

The writer of the Gospel of John uses the word "come" in a rather interesting way. Another metaphor for "faith" is his use of the word "come" with has connotations with both eating and believing. Coming, drinking, and believing are used synonymously in 7:37-38 as the condition for salvation.

John 7:37-38 37 In the last day, that great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, If any man thirst, let him come unto me, and drink. 38 He that believeth on me, as the scripture hath said, out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water. (KJV)

To come is to trustingly approach Christ for help. Again, please notice, that such an response by a person entails no human merit or effort as would doing "good works" or "practicing righteousness" or "righteous deeds" which are laid out in the Commandments of the Torah and other ancient Sacred Books.

Another word that may represent faith is word often used by John as "receive". The promise that any who receive Christ will become children of God is closely linked to believing in 1:12.

John 1:12 12 But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name: (KJV)

"Believe" appears to be in close proximity to "receive" here in order to explain it. In 1:12 to receive is to welcome or accept as true the person or words of Jesus Christ (3:11, 32-33; 5:43).

John 3:11 11 Verily, verily, I say unto thee, We speak that we do know, and testify that we have seen; and ye receive not our witness. (KJV)

John 3:32-33 32 And what he hath seen and heard, that he testifieth; and no man receiveth his testimony. 33 He that hath received his testimony hath set to his seal that God is true. (KJV)

John 5:43 43 I am come in my Father's name, and ye receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him ye will receive. (KJV)

This is in contrast to those who "did not know" and "did not receive" Jesus as the Christ in 1:10-11. Not only in the earliest centuries would accept this Roman "radical reinterpretation" of the ancient Sacred Religion and scholarly estimates indicate around 18 million of these "true believers" were slaughtered over the course of the Dark Ages by the vicars of Christ and Roman Church.

These pictures of "faith" in the Gospel of John all denote "receptivity, agreement, or trust".

Answer for yourself: What do all of these responses to the dogmas in the Gospel of John have in common?

They are all essentially simple activities and essentially passive. None communicates the idea of merit, work, effort, or achievement. They require the "believer" to do "nothing". Neither do they communicate an exchange of one's life or the ongoing submission of one's life to Jesus as Master in order to obtain eternal life. When we observe the clear statements in John about the condition for salvation, the effect of this condition, and the pictures of this condition, we conclude that John presents "faith alone in Christ alone" or the "dogmas created around him" as the only condition for salvation. One only needs to believe the "dogmas" of Christ; few are aware that these dogmas of Christ were in a perpetual state of "flux" and "creation" over the earliest centuries of the Roman Church and their Church Counsels.

Answer for yourself: Have you read the article on "Jesus" and "the Christ" and their message of "Salvation"? If you have then you see clearly that this message in the Gospel of John concerning "obtaining Salvation" is 180 degrees opposite to what is taught in all 3 of the Synoptic Gospels concerning obtaining "Eternal Life" and "Salvation". Please read this and see this for yourself! This presents a real problem for the "thinking" believer and it should because the salvation message of the Synoptic Gospels contradict 180 degrees the "faith only message" in the Gospel of John!

Let us continue.

Critics notice that besides what "John says" the very important "things that John does not say". It is extremely significant that we do not see qualifiers with the word "believe". John does not condition salvation on whether one "really believes" or "truly believes." Neither does he speak of "genuine faith," "real faith," or "effectual faith." There is only one kind of faith. One either believes in something or he does not. Therefore, those who speak of "spurious faith" or "false faith" are psychologizing faith as the Scripture neither does, nor provides a basis for doing. In contrast, John does use qualifiers to distinguish the real from the fraudulent in other concepts. He speaks of the "true light" (1:9), "true bread" (6:32), "true vine" (15:1), "true worshipers" (4:23), and "true God" (17:3). When he shows that even the unsaved can be referred to as disciples (6:60-64), he later calls the saved who adhere to His word "disciples indeed" (8:31).

Also in John, we do not see other conditions attached to faith or any condition replacing faith. For example, the word "repent" (in reference to obedience to the Laws and Commandments of God) does not even occur even once in John's Gospel but yet "repent" was the very "first" word mentioned by Jesus as conditional for receiving "the Kingdom of God" into one's life.

Answer for yourself: Can we really consider the Gospel of John "Good News" if it does not teach repentance which is foundational to "entering the Kingdom of God" as does the other 3 Gospels?

In spite of the strained efforts of some to impose repentance on the salvation accounts in John, scholars find the opposite and little if any mention of repentance in John's Gospel. In the incident of the woman at the well (4:1-26), Jesus' disclosure of the Samaritan woman's multiple mates would have been a perfect time to call her to repentance from her sin. But yet we find none as if Jesus condones here behavior and infidelity and adultery. Instead we find Eternal life offered on the condition of asking (4:10) and drinking (4:14), both expressions of believing "only"; no works or repentance needed here! Again strange but true Jesus makes no mention of "repentance" to this sinner. John makes God's salvation totally and absolutely free and makes it clear that salvation is not conditioned on human merit but let the reader understand that the Torah and the Books of Moses say different as well as the Prophets.

Now pay close attention to what I say next. Here is another "dogma" connected to Roman theology.

Christianity teaches that Salvation is not based on "human merit" and that there is nothing that a person can do to make himself "acceptable to God". This is the foundational teaching that is connected to the doctrine of "original sin".

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that Biblical Judaism does not teach nor believe in the Christian doctrine of "Original Sin" but yet Christianity teaches this as if the Hebrew Scriptures teach it; it should grab your attention that Biblical Judaism teaches that the Hebrew Scriptures do "not" teach this! Many Christians who profess to believe in the doctrine of "original sin" do not know what it teaches. Even more Christians are ignorant of its history and origin: that it had its roots in a heathen philosophy, that it has evolved, and that it was made a dogma of the Roman Catholic Church in the fifth century A.D., primarily by the influence of Augustine. Finally, most Christians do not know the fact that the doctrine of original sin is really a theory.

It is probably shocking for the Christian who has been taught the "theory of original sin" as Bible truth to be told that not one word of any of this horrible teaching can be found in the Bible. Christians believe the theory of "original sin" to be a Bible doctrine because Christian theologians, preachers, and Sunday school teachers teach it as if it was a Bible doctrine that they are quoting directly from the Bible, and give this teaching a semblance of credence by spouting Bible texts quoted out of context. However, this theory is not a Biblical Doctrine at all. You cannot find the Bible teaching this "concept" in either the Old or New Testament unless you "read" into texts ideas not present in the text in the first place. Here is another "man made" dogmas that litters the pages of our Bibles; no different from the many in the Gospel of John addressed above.

Answer for yourself: Where can you find written in the Bible that "The whole human race existed in Adam at the time of his transgression"? Or that "Adam's will was the will of the species"? Or that "In Adam's free act the will of the race revolted against God and the nature of the race corrupted itself"? Or that "All men existed as one moral person in Adam, so that in Adam's sin we sinned, we corrupted ourselves, and brought guilt and merited condemnation upon ourselves"? Or where can it be found written in the Bible that "Adam was the federal head and moral representative of the race, and God made a covenant with Adam, agreeing to bestow upon all his descendants eternal life for his obedience and making the penalty for his disobedience to be the condemnation of all his descendants"? Or where in the Bible can it be found written that "All men are guilty and condemnable for the depraved nature with which they are born"? Nowhere! These theories are not in the Bible. You can search the Bible through from cover to cover and you will never find a word of these theories on its pages. The fact that mere men have had the boldness to teach these theories as Bible truths is a serious and sobering fact. God has twice warned men not to tamper with his Holy Word, neither adding to it nor taking from it. Deut. 4:2, Rev. 22:18, 19. But yet we continually "add to" and "take away" from this Divine Revelation because we fail to study the Hebrew texts and listen to the Rabbis expound upon God's Word as we should being "Gentiles" in need of the "light God gave to the nations, the 'Jewish people'" who are equipped to teach the Hebrew Scriptures better than any "non-Jew" ever born.

Now back to "merit" mentioned above as related to the "salvation message"; merit of course being denied by Christianity as necessary to "faith" for man's salvation. Let us see who is true here.

Answer for yourself: Have you ever looked up the word "grace" in the Hebrew? Have you examined the contexts in which it is used. Christianity teaches over and over again that we are "saved" by "grace" and never stops to see what the word means. We saw above that Christianity teaches as well "faith only".

Answer for yourself: Would you believe that the word "grace", when looked up in the Hebrew, to get it full and complete meaning when connected to "salvation", has hidden in the original language the concept of "merit"; that man "merits" grace from God does which is based upon his "obedience to the Laws and Commandments of God"? Probably not but you need to know this and I hope it gets your attention.

Now you see the importance of "repentance" and "obedience" to the Laws of God as our Covenant responsibilities. Let us look when we have time to a "eye-opening" article on "grace" and "merit" which now brings the whole of the Gospel of John and its "salvation message" under "suspicion".

I hope you took time to read the above link; having done so then let us continue.

CONTRASTING THE GOSPEL OF JOHN VS THE GOSPEL OF JESUS (THE JEWISH CHRIST) #2

We continue from the first article in this series.

Also, we do not find salvation conditioned on continual obedience in the Gospel of John. If anything, we could argue that John's Gospel purposefully introduces us to those who believed in Jesus as Savior, but were less than fully committed as disciples or were partially obeying Him. Martha believed and was obviously saved (11:27; and we can assume Mary and Lazarus were too), but there is no indication that she followed Christ in the fullest sense of leaving home and family. Less than full confession and commitment to God are also found in the "secret disciple," Joseph of Arimathea (19:38). The same could be said for Nicodemus.

John 19:39 39 And there came also Nicodemus, which at the first came to Jesus by night, and brought a mixture of myrrh and aloes, about an hundred pound weight. (KJV)

John 19:38 38 And after this Joseph of Arimathaea, being a disciple of Jesus, but secretly for fear of the Jews, besought Pilate that he might take away the body of Jesus: and Pilate gave him leave. He came therefore, and took the body of Jesus. (KJV)

In addition, the Jewish rulers mentioned in 12:42 believed in Christ, but did not confess Him publicly for fear of being ostracized by the other Jewish leaders.

John 12:42 42 Nevertheless among the chief rulers also many believed on him; but because of the Pharisees they did not confess him, lest they should be put out of the synagogue: (KJV)

The significance of John's lack of embellishment of faith and the absence of any other conditions, like repentance or righteous works, emphasizes this one condition of "mental ascent or faith only" as the sole and sufficient means of obtaining Eternal life. In terms of the data, what is present and what is absent, there is an overwhelming case presented in John for "faith alone in Christ" alone and "belief alone in dogmas of Christ" (which come through the Roman Church) as the only condition for salvation but Judaism and the Hebrew Scriptures and the Gospel preached by the 3 Synoptic Gospels say differently.

In spite of the teaching of the ancient Spiritual Wisdom, the righteous teachings and Laws of ancient Egypt and Judaism, the Jewish Gospel of "the Jewish Christ" which can yet be found within this adulterated New Testament given us by Rome, the Roman Church continued to teach and presently teaches today:

John 20:31 31 But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye might have life through his name. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Does the Gospel of John begin to look more like religious "propaganda" the more we look at it and is it possible that this "easy salvation" was intended to "grab the minds" of common Gentiles who were ignorant of the requirements of Eternal Life in the Hebrew Scriptures and ancient Spiritual Wisdom and build a "group" or "movement" among the ignorant "non-Jews" of the world? Let me encourage you not to underestimate the "agendas" of selfish men with ulterior motives who represented various "sects" desiring authority among men in the early growth of the Roman Church. The destruction of "truth" is a small price to pay for such power and authority over men's minds and resources.

John has spoken definitively on what it takes to be saved in his opinion. His presentation carries the weight of his purpose for writing, "that you may believe." Let the debate over the Gospel begin with John's Gospel, unless we would accuse John of preaching half a gospel or "easy-believeism", or charge him with "compromising the Gospel of 'the Christ'", acceding to the modern culture, or cheapening the Gospel.

Contrary to what the writer of the Gospel of John has to say the Books of Moses and the Prophets agree that one's eternal existence in the hereafter is determined by moral behavior and attitudes which are defined in detail by the Torah and the Laws of God!

Although there is no "Christian notion" of saving grace in Judaism, it is taught that God always offers even the most evil men the possibility of repentance (teshuvah, "turning"). Such is God's grace we saw above in the article that ties "mankind's merit" to receiving "grace from God"! After such repentance one can atone for one's rebellion against God's ways by positive action and proper deeds in obedience to the Laws and Commandments in our Covenant with God. This action is delineated in both the "Positive" and "Negative" Commandments and Laws in the Two Tablets of the Laws of Moses. But understand that the notion of individual salvation and heavenly existence is not prominent in Judaism. I found long ago that there are 17 words in the Old and New Testament for "save, saved, salvation, and saving" and all but "3" uses of all these words refer to the "here and now" and only 3 times does the concept of "salvation" refer to the time "after the death of our physical bodies". It sure appears that God desires to "save us now" and in so doing this prepares us for the "salvation" to come after we die. This is something you need to ponder.

In fact many Jews criticize Christianity for being a "selfish" religion, too concerned with personal eternal rewards. The notion of an afterlife is not well developed in the Old Testament but it certainly is in Egyptian religion from where Judaism arose. Later writers speculated unsystematically about a final day of judgment. Jews still hope for the coming of the Messiah, who will hand out eternal judgment and reward to all. This hope is largely communal; the entire Jewish race and the whole of creation is in view more than individual men. In the end the moral life of man here on earth is considered the most proper concern of man; final judgments are best left to God. Salvation is achieved through faith and continual prayer to God, strict adherence to Divine commandments (Jewish Torah and Law), giving to the poor, "loving your neighbor as yourself," and bringing God's message to humanity by your example (a responsibility of God's "chosen people"). Confessions and repentances are expressed through Yom Kippur when one fasts, asks forgiveness from others and from themselves, and commits to do good deeds in the future. If this sounds familiar to you then you are aware of the true "Gospel of Jesus" and if not then I invite you to study this out for yourself whereby you see clearly how the Gospel of Jesus was later replaced by the Gospel of the Romanized Paul and later "pro-Pauline" writers with a "pro-Roman" and antisemitic agenda.

NOW I DON'T WANT TO UPSET YOU ... BUT...

I wish to relate what a host of modern scholars are teaching us today in light of the archeological discoveries made in these last two hundred years as well as the restoration of the Hebrew language and the true Hebrew Bible which was for all practical purposes lost to most for some 1,700 years. Despite all of this literature continuously being cranked out about Jesus today and the significance of the issue of the "Jesus Story", in the public at large there is a serious lack of formal and broad education regarding religion and mythology.

and most individuals and the vast majority of Christians today are highly uninformed in the areas of Gnosticism, Egyptian Religion, and Astrotheology. This is tragic for each of these areas of study make a dramatic contribution to "truth-seekers" coming to see and understand the "Jesus Story" accurately today. Concerning the issue of Christianity, for example, the majority of people are taught in most schools and churches that Jesus Christ was an actual historical figure and that the only controversy regarding him is that some people accept him as the Son of God and the Messiah, while others do not. This is something you need to study out for yourself and come to your own personal conclusion concerning the truth behind "the historical Jesus" and the "Jesus Story". Don't believe anyone about this very important aspect of your "faith", even me, until you have personally done the scholarly studies to find this truth for yourself!

Answer for yourself: Why is this so important? Simply because the Gospel of John attaches belief in this "supposed" historical person with Eternal Life along with accurate orthodox "belief" in both his "identity" and his "death, life, works, burial, and resurrection". However, whereas this is the raging debate most evident in this field today, it is not the most important. Shocking as it may seem to the general populace, the most enduring and profound controversy in this subject is whether or not a person named Jesus Christ ever really existed.

Answer for yourself: If it can be shown upon serious scholarly study that the "New Testament Jesus Christ" is a "literalized" adaptation of prior "allegories" and "Divine myths" of the Ancient Sacred Spiritual Wisdom concerning the Descent of the Soul into matter, God's incarnation into flesh and His mediation via "the Christ" and Divine Mind in mankind, otherwise known as the Descent of the Christ into all flesh as told through the vehicle of personification and anthropomorphic language, then what does this do to one's trust in his "personal salvation" which is based upon an assumed historical character which is now shown upon serious study to never existed historically? Add to this the total forgery of every Hebrew Messianic Prophecy when translated into our English Bibles and our Jesus vanished in textual dishonesty. Add to this the total silence of history, Roman, Greek, and Jewish writers who fail to utter one sentence concerning this supposed miracle worker in the time frame in which he lived, then the Gospel of John is exposed for what it truly is; a literalistic piece of propaganda created in parts to bolster the authority of the emerging Roman Church. Now don't get me wrong, when you get enough "keys" to understand and interpret the ancient Spiritual Wisdom then you will be able to read the Gospel of John and spot the "truth" from the "error" and "corruptions" in it. But this only comes with much study of the ancient Spiritual Wisdom.

Answer for yourself: Where do we stand before God when we come to terms with these problems and discover for ourselves that a "historical Jesus" never existed as we have been taught by Rome? Where is our "acceptance with God" then when we live our whole life with a "false Gospel" of "belief only" and denigrate and flaunt our lives before God "outside" of His Laws and Commandments of our Covenant that we were taught since childhood and by our Christian birth faith were supposedly "ended" and in their place a "Plan B" substituted which proves us only a cheapened "grace" falsely teaching us that we are no longer under these "Laws" for Spiritual progression and development of our Soul?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that if this "Jesus" can be shown to not be a historical person then the whole of Christian theology and their Salvation Message is built upon sinking sand and crumbles before the light of modern scholarship? All the more reason to seek out and study out the Jewish revelation of God and their Messiah "from a Jewish viewpoint" and having done that then look to ancient Egypt from which all later religions find their origin. I found that by such personal study over the years when coupled with scholarly studies into other areas of critical importance impacting "key" Christian dogmas developed during the 2nd through the 5th century; dogmas concerning the truth about the Hebrew Messianic Prophecies, the truth about the Jewish Messiah, Gnosticism, Egyptian Religion, and Astrotheology, I had all that I ever would need to plow through religious propaganda inherited from a religion gone astray as a child in this Christianized Western Hemisphere and in so doing come to clearly see, without a doubt, the Divine truth behind our "Jesus Story" which is so tragically misrepresented to us today as a "supposed-historical" person who is made to be a "false salvation" to billions. You can well see you take the challenge of Bet Emet Ministries and begin to seek truth over fiction.

Although this raging debate behind this "Jesus Story" today may not be evident from publications readily found in popular Christian bookstores, when one examines this issue closely, one will find a tremendous volumes of literature that demonstrates, in the minds of many scholars, logically and intelligently, time and time again, that the New Testaments' depiction of this "Jesus Christ" is but a later "literalization" or earlier ancient Spiritual allegories and Spiritual myths of the "Descent of the Soul" into mankind which is captured through symbolical and anthropomorphic language over thousands and thousands of years. You will come to see that the ancient Spiritual Wisdom, from nation to nation, from Sacred Book to Sacred Book, has always been about the Descent of the Soul and Divine Mind of God "into matter"; this Divine Mind being God's Krst/Karest/ Christ; called by different names from nation to nation but having the same Divine idea behind each one. Sadly this "Christ in you", "your hope of our glorification" as Divine Mind in an animal body, has been taken from us, from you and sadly limited to but one person; Rome's created "Jesus of Nazareth"; a city that was not even built yet in the first century in Israel. This Christ in you, when striped from you is created and transformed by the monks of Rome into Rome's "historical person" to be equated with the Jewish Messiah expected of the Jews. Now don't believe a word I say and you should not until you do the studies like I have. After creating a Roman fraud that is perpetrated to the ancient world of ignorant Gentiles, then mankind has lost the very truth of his Identity, that as Plato and other Spiritual giants have said: "man is a god (Christ) in an animal body". If you take the challenge I offer and do these studies then you will have the eyes of your understanding opened like never before and you will see clearly which "Gospel is true" and which is "not", which "Salvation Message is true" and which is "not". I have found the truth. I only wish to help others find their way in this theological maze that exists today. I will leave such a study up to you, the reader, as well as the conclusions from your personal examination of the evidences; but by all means examine the evidence that exists outside your Church class room. But let it be said that the parallels between the "Jesus Story" and prior "sungods" and "Sungodmen" which are replayed in our New Testament goes a long way in substantiating that the this New Testament "Son of God" is little more than a "literalized" and "historicized" replay of the allegorical Divine Nature that exists in every Child of God; never limited to but one person as Rome has done. No wonder all the ancient nations had their "Christ Stories"; false termed "Pagan Christ" by Roman Christianity in hopes that you never go looking there for knowledge that will expose their falsification of the indwelling Christ in you. Our "Jesus Story" is the same story as the "Christ Stories" found in mythological characters along the same lines as the Greek, Roman, Egyptian, Sumerian, Phoenician, Indian or other godmen, who are all presently accepted as myths rather than historical figures. But even at that they are "literal" when you come to understand that this is Your True Nature, the Christ is the Divine Mind of God tabernacling in you as the Bishop and Savior of your Soul. This is our Consciouenss; a god in an animal body awaiting awakening to empower you to your Spiritual Destiny since imprisoned in this body of fleshly death.

This means that the Gospel of John must be reevaluated for truth and rather than being a "historical revelation" of a human being as "the Christ" separated from the whole of mankind it has to be seen correctly as an "allegory" of the life of "the Christ" in all of God's Children; it is the story of the Divine Soul within each of us; it is the story of "The Christ" in each of us from the birth of the Soul in our incarnation, its life, development, maturation, and its release at the death of our physical bodies and then its rebirth anew once again. Such is the true Salvation of God and always has been. If you doubt this then begin to study ancient Egypt and see for yourself Luke chapters 1-3 on the walls of the Temple of Luxor as referring to the Horus or Christ "birthed" in mankind thousands of years before Rome's created "Jesus of Nazareth".

If one ever decided to delve deeply into this large body of work, and I did over the last twenty years, one uncovers evidence that the Jesus character is based upon much older myths and heroes from around the globe that has existed thousands and thousands of years. One discovers that this story is not, therefore, a historical representation of a Jewish rebel carpenter who had a physical incarnation in the Levant 2,000 years ago. In other words, it has been demonstrated continually for centuries that this character, a "literalized" and "carnalized" Jesus Christ, was invented and did not depict a real person who was either the "Son of God" or was "evemeristically" made into a superhuman by enthusiastic followers. "Evemerism," named after Evemeris, a 4th Century B.C.E. Greek philosopher who developed the idea that, rather than being mythological creatures as was accepted by the reigning intellectuals, the gods of old were in fact historical characters, kings, emperors and heroes whose exploits were then deified. Evemerists have put forth a great deal of literature attempting to prove that Jesus was a great Jewish reformer and revolutionary who threatened the status quo and thus had to be put to death. Unfortunately for historicizers, no historian of his purported time, either Jewish, Greek or Roman, even noticed this "great reformer" and no "unforged" testament to his existence outside this one Book, the Roman New Testament, exists today that can substantiate his physical existence. In Ancient History of the God Jesus, Dujardin states, "This doctrine [Evemerism] is nowadays discredited except in the case of Jesus. No scholar believes that Osiris or Jupiter or Dionysus was an historical person promoted to the rank of a god, but exception is made only in favor of Jesus. . . .It is impossible to rest the colossal work of Christianity on Jesus, if he was a man." The standard Christian response to the Evemerists has been that no such Jesus, stripped of his miracles and other supernatural attributes, could ever "have been adored as a god or even been saluted as the Messiah of Israel." (Dujardin) This response is quite accurate: No man could have caused such a hullabaloo and hellish fanaticism, the product of which has been the unending spilling of blood. The crazed "inspiration" that has kept the Church afloat merely confirms the mythological origins of this tale. "The general assumption concerning the canonical gospels is that the historic element was the kernel of the whole, and that the fables created round it; whereas the mythos, being pre-extant, proves the core of the matter was mythical, and it follows that the history is incremental. . . . It was the human history that created round the divinity, and not a human being who became divine" (Massey, The Historical Jesus and the Mythical Christ). The bottom line is that when one removes all the elements of those preceding deities and myths that contributed to the formation of this Jewish god-man - which is what Evemerists insist on doing - there is nothing historical left to point to. As Massey says, " . . . a composite likeness of twenty different persons merged in one . . . is not anybody.

When one does the necessary studies into Egyptian religion, Gnosticism, Comparative religions, and evaluated the evidence both "for" and "against" a "historical Jesus" and then, equipped with this information, examine both Judaism and the Hebrew Scriptures and traces their purposeful forgery into both the Christian Old and New Testaments along with a serious study of Astronomy and the Ancient's allegories of the path of the Sun through the Zodiac yearly and how these, when personified, match almost 99% exactly the chronology of the "Jesus Story" in the New Testament, for example from the Gospel of Matthew, chapter 1 through chapter 28, then it seems rather pointless to believe in a religious dogma of "faith only" in someone who never lived or "faith only" concerning this Roman New Testament and its supposed identity of this "Jesus" for Salvation or Eternal Life as the writer of the "Gospel of John" would have us believe!

When you do such studies then you can say that this "allegorical Jesus Christ", this same "Jesus", the "personified Christ", in the New Testament, agrees almost 100% with the Salvation message given mankind in the beginning of Creation. From Egypt all the way down to Biblical Judaism we trace a continuous thought among the Ancient Wisdom, from nation to nation, which is centered on faith "in God" and "man's responsibility to obey the Laws and Commandments of God" in his respective Covenants made with his Creator. Here we find the true Salvation message of God that progressively elevates our Soul and its perfection into the true Image of God our Father and sadly, having lost the "gnosis" or "keys" to interpret and understand these prior "sungods" of the Ancients which were nothing more than personifications of the path of man's Soul and its path to its salvation, which was again but symbols and myths symbolizing the Descent of the Divine Soul into human kind, whether on purpose or by accident Rome presented the world with a "literalized Christ" limited to but one person instead of the "indwelling Christ within" and the truth of our True Being and the Divine Nature of man has been lost for the last 1,800 years. This loss of Divine truth of man's Divinity is tragic because Rome attached to and their supposed "literal-historical" Jesus Christ a religious dogma that teaches a "believe or be damned" theology that replaced the true Salvation Message of God given Egypt and Israel of "faith" and "active response" to our faith in living God's ordered existence as seen in Laws and Commandments of God which elevate our Soul to perfection. There is really "Good News" today; today like never before we can recover the truth today concerning God's true Salvation Message given mankind and although Egypt has been destroyed along with mankind's earliest Monotheism their children, the Jews, try as mankind will to eradicate them and their Divine Revelation, have paid the ultimate price in personal sacrifice to preserve and offer this true message of Salvation to the World yet today. For that we must be forever humble and thankful. Baruch HaShem!

CAN JOHN'S GOSPEL BE TRULY CONSIDERED A "GOSPEL" ... "GOOD NEWS" ... SINCE IT NEVER MENTIONS REPENTANCE?

One of the most striking facts about the doctrine of repentance in the Bible is that this doctrine is totally absent from John's gospel. There is not even so much as one reference to it in John's twenty-one chapters! Yet one lordship writer states:

"No evangelism that omits the message of repentance can properly be called the gospel, for sinners cannot come to Jesus Christ apart from a radical change of heart, mind, and will."

THIS IS AN ASTOUNDING STATEMENT

Answer for yourself: Since John's gospel does omit the message of repentance, are we to conclude that its gospel is not the biblical gospel after all?

The very idea carries its own refutation. The fourth evangelist explicitly claims to be doing evangelism (John 20:30-31). It is not only the theology of the gospel of John that is deficient; it is the theology found in lordship salvation. Indeed, the desperate efforts of lordship teachers to read repentance into the fourth gospel show plainly that they have identified their own fundamental weaknesses. Clearly, the message of John's gospel is incomplete and inadequate without any reference to repentance whatsoever.

In fact it is even plain that John the evangelist avoids the doctrine of repentance at a point where it could have been introduced with ease. The point in question is found in the very first chapter, for it is in this chapter that the fourth evangelist reports a dialogue between John the Baptist and a delegation from the religious leadership of Jerusalem. After listening to John deny that he is either the Christ or Elijah, or "the Prophet," the delegation hears him identify himself as simply a "voice of one crying in the wilderness" (Jn 1:19-23). Exasperated, they pose a new question: "Why then do you baptize if you are not the Christ, nor Elijah, nor the Prophet?" (Jn 1:25).

As everyone who has read Matthew, Mark and Luke knows, John the Baptist preached a "baptism of repentance" (Mk 1:4; Lk 3:3; see Mt 3:11). At this critical moment in his dialogue with this influential delegation of Jews, we expect John to announce the purpose of his baptizing ministry in terms of repentance.

But this he doesn't do. Instead, he simply says:

I baptize with water, but there stands One among you whom you do not know. It is He who, coming after me, is preferred before me, whose sandal strap I am not worthy to loose (1:26-27).

Not a word-not a syllable-about repentance. And if ever there was a perfect place for the evangelist to inject this theme into his gospel, this is the place. But his silence is deafening!

Many Bible scholars have thought-no doubt correctly that the unnamed disciple of John the Baptist who is mentioned in John 1:35-40 was none other than the fourth evangelist himself. But if the evangelist was a personal "pupil" of the Baptist before he attached himself to this new teacher (Yeshua), his silence on the theme of repentance is made all the more amazing.

The silence of chapter one persists to the very end of the book. The fourth gospel says nothing at all about repentance, much less does it connect repentance in any way with eternal life.

Only a resolute blindness can resist the obvious conclusion: The writer of the Gospel of John did not regard repentance as a condition for eternal life where as the other Apostles did! If he had, he would have said so.

Answer for yourself: After all, that's what his book is all about: obtaining eternal life..is it not (Jn 20:30-31)?

GRACE AS AN ACT OF GOD'S UNMERITED FAVOR...OR IS IT MERITED AFTER ALL...AND AGAIN HAS WE BEEN MISLED BY PAUL'S OVEREMPHASIS UPON GRACE?

In the previous articles earlier listed in this website I have tried to make the reader and "truth seeker" think on a deeper level than maybe he has ever done before in his life. I have tried to expose the contradictions in these contrasting "theologies" in order to show the reader that this "One Faith" of which we read in the Book of Ephesians is anything but that! I have tried to expose what we call today "Paul's message gospel" as one of his own creation and one which so often contradicts the very teachings of Jesus as the "Jewish Christ"; a gospel which in reality is not "good news" to anyone who is trying to pattern their lives after Jesus and his teachings concerning the Kingdom of God, let alone the same teaches earlier given man by Moses and the Prophets. A hint is in order to save the reputation of the "true Paul". Our inherited Bibles from Rome contain two completely different Pauls; a Gnostic Paul teaching Metaphysical ideas that express accurately the Divine Realm as well as a counterfeit Paul of Rome's making. Cleverly done these "contradictory" Pauls are synthesized together in such a way that only those with a "keen Spirit" and "sharp eye" notice the "Pauline Problem" in our New Testaments. Let me emphasize again that I take no joy in having to expose Paul in this manner which I must, but you deserve the truth about God and what He has really said to mankind. "Hath God said"? Yes! He has, and if you only read Paul and his epistles without balancing them with the teachings of Moses, the Prophets, and the "mind of the Jewish Jesus" and likewise fail to do comparative studies from the sources from which Paul quotes, I can guarantee you that you have not heard God but rather a humanly conceived "reinterpreted" Spiritual Wisdom which Rome gave the world which deviated from the path of God which had been given to the world "unchanged" for thousands of years previously. The Jewish people, and a few Christians, have always understood and knew this. But most don't because "preaching" has replaced "study"; study being the highest form of Worship one can give God as understood in first century Biblical Judaism. It is part of our calling at Bet Emet Ministries to get the truth to you in order that "you make your calling and election certain."

IS GRACE "UNMERITED FAVOR" AS PAUL WOULD HAVE US BELIEVE?

We most likely grow up in church hearing over and over again that "grace is unmerited favor"; at least I sure did. It may surprise you but I will show you in this article that nothing could be further from the truth. As our study advances I will often mention "Paul"; we must remember that what we often assume is the authentic writings and beliefs of Paul are not that at all; rather, they are the contradictory theology of the later writers of the New Testament replacement theologies emanating from Rome. Having said that then Paul's writing, or a later "pro-Pauline writer", makes it seem that God's "election" of an individual or group to a favored status was a capricious or whimsical decision which "did not depend on man's desire, effort, obedience, or works; but on God's mercy alone". Let us begin to see this by looking at Rom. 9:16:

Rom 9:16

16 So then it is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth [Paul's reference to actions or works of man], but of God that sheweth mercy. (KJV)

Here again in Romans 9:13 Paul reiterates the same thought; that the grace of God is to be received by faith alone (without works), however clothed in slightly different attire.

Rom. 9:13

As it is written, Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated.

God's love, as well as his grace, according to this "Romanized" Paul, is unmerited. Paul make it look as if it is arbitrary. In Romans 9:13 Paul illustrated his thesis this time with lines from Malachi 1:2,3: "Jacob I loved and Esau I hated."

Answer for yourself: Could it possibly have been Edom's actions (works) which caused God to hate Esau?

Answer for yourself: Far more than an arbitrary decision by God, can you see that God's grace is measured out to those who deserve it (Let us remember that Edom did not because of their harsh treatment of Israel and the Spiritual seed of God).

Now please pay close attention. Malachi wrote these words in memory of Edom's (Esau's descendants) malicious treatment of Judea and its people. Esau was the ancestor of Edom, therefore his name is used symbolically for that nation as Jacob's is for Israel. The Edomites had gloated over Judea's fall to Babylonia, had cut off the escape of Judean fugitives, and had joined in the plunder of the Temple. Their treachery and malice knew no bounds. Their conduct, like ours as well, brings either the blessings of God or His punishment. Their conduct influenced God's attitude toward them as it does ours as well. Their persecution of Israel brought harshness from God toward them.

Answer for yourself: Have we forgotten God's promise to Abraham in the Abrahamic Covenant which states (Gen. 12:3): "And I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee:"?

The above passage definitely refers to "merit" and its role in receiving from God His blessings.

This is another way of saying faith is fulfilled with obedience and God "ordained works"!

These "ordained works" are the Commandments and Laws that frame our very Covenant with God. That is why the Torah, the Laws of God, are in Hebrew called "Instruction"; not a curse as Rome's New Testament maintains. In the last article we showed you Paul's stance on the matter from Romans 4:5 "But to him that worketh NOT, but believeth on him who justifieth the ungodly his faith is counted for righteousness." We showed you the folly of such in the last article. God NEVER justifies the "ungodly" but such a condition sure was connivent for Rome and their religious reign of terror called the "Dark Ages". This passage is just another example of a lie written into the Sacred Texts espousing connivent theology for Rome.

Again we encounter the same thought expressed just a little different. Paul ignored the historical reason for God's antagonism to Edom (Esau) which the prophet Malachi expressed in God's name in Mal. 1:2-3. It was because of Edom's conduct (works) that God was displeased with them. Let me remind you that Edom believed in the God of Israel, for it was Esau's seed. Edom failed to "obey" the God they "believed in". But "faith alone" apart from "works" was not enough to justify Edom before God. The Christian Church of today needs to re-think their stance on "faith" and "works" and realize the real reason for the Torah as the "Instruction" of God for mankind; it trains the Soul to practice righteousness which leads to the evolution of the Divine Mind within man and his Spiritual evolution of his Soul. Their violation of the commandments of God brought a strong rebuke from God. It does the same for us regardless of what this Romanized Paul is made to say.

Answer for yourself: Is it misleading for Paul, or the Romanized Paul, to use a quote from an Old Testament Scripture that is tied to a historical event and use it completely differently to reinforce one's own agenda in the New Testament without instructing the readers that you are doing so? You figure it out. To me it sure is!

Answer for yourself: Can you see that God's blessing is not arbitrary or based upon "faith alone" as Rome's Paul would have you believe, but comes in response to man's actions, in this case the blessing of Israel by others and not the punishment of them?

Answer for yourself: Can you see that this Roman Paul's choice of Edom for his example betrays his own doctrine; that he chose a nation which had "faith" but their "works" caused the rebuke of God? It sure seems to me that if Paul were correct, as he wants us to think, then Edom should have been approved of God apart from their works....but they were not!

But when reading this New Testament given us by Rome which was canonized in 380 A.D. we find this Romanized Paul assuring us that “But to him that worketh NOT, but believeth on him who justifieth the ungodly his faith is counted for righteousness”, but the example of Edom given by this same Paul for his proof, in reality, proves the exact opposite! This is where we must put our thinking hats on and if we do then we see beneath the deception that lays before us looking "sacred" in a Black leather book.

The prophet Malachi's words did not condone random or arbitrary rejection by God of Esau's descendants; Malachi gave the reason for God's rebuke of Edom, even if Paul didn't. We we look at Malachi and compare what he says with this Romanized Paul's misrepresentation of the truth then we see the deception in the Pauline writings for what it truly is; a theological lie created by Rome that profits not and leads billions astray in their relationship with God.

THE DECEPTION OF PAUL DOES NOT END THERE...HE CONTINUES

Even more devious is the way this Romanized Paul portrayed God in Rom. 9:15 which is derived from Ex 33:19. I say “devious” for his audience was primarily Gentile in its makeup and unaware of the nuances that are inherent in the Hebrew language from which he wrote and spoke. The same surely applies to day to pews filled with Christians who don't know the slightest things about the Hebrew language and how it has been so badly misrepresented in their Christian Bibles. The Greek is not immune from the alteration of these prior Hebrew Sacred ideas either. I want you to notice that in the Greek and English translation below we come to the same conclusion from an English reading and interpretation that would make us think, incorrectly by the way, that God does arbitrarily dispense grace to whom He desires.

Exod 33:19

19 And he said, I will make all my goodness pass before thee, and I will proclaim the name of the LORD before thee; and will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and will shew mercy on whom I will shew mercy. (KJV)

LOOK WHAT IS HIDDEN BEHIND THE HEBREW WORD FOR

"WHOM"

“Whom” in Hebrew is the Strong’s Number 834. 834 'asher-

- 1) (relative pronoun)
  - a) which, who
  - b) that which (what)
- 2) as a conjunction:
  - a) that (in an objective clause)
  - b) when
  - c) since
  - d) as
  - e) "if" (this means "conditional")

Answer for yourself: Now we must look at all the meanings inherent in the word "whom" as given in the Hebrew language. Now, having read them above, then did you notice that the Hebrew word "whom" carries with it the context of receiving the grace of God as a "conditional aspect"? It is not "automatic"!

Answer for yourself: Can you see for yourself that the passage from Exodus, from which this Paul quotes NEVER contained an idea that God will be gracious arbitrarily to anyone, yet the exact opposite is true, that God's grace toward man is "conditional" upon man's beliefs and his resultant obedience and conduct which flow out from his beliefs?

Answer for yourself: What if our Spiritual "beliefs" are incorrect, lets say about the Jewish Law, and we don't know it because we never studied enough to know what lies beneath the texts we read in our Bibles? What if this "Law" never has ceased and we live like it does not matter being basically ignorant of the 66 Laws that frame our Gentile Covenant before God? Could we be blocking receiving the "grace of God" in our lives and not know it? Could this "conditional" aspect of God's grace apply to us and we not know it? And who better merited God's grace (in this instance to have God revealed to him) than Moses to whom the passage is addressed?

The intent here in the Exodus passage, as seen within the context of the entire Torah, is that God will have pity on those who deserve it, who "merit" it!

The whole Pentateuch is unequivocal and open-and-shut in its message of reward and punishment based upon human behavior. Thus the role of the Torah and the Law and Commandments of God given to teach man the way to receive the Grace of God in his life. Such human behavior is or is not the consequence of obedience to the commands of God which are nothing more than opportunities to exhibit and live out our faith correctly and thereby receive and "merit" the conditional "grace of God"

Exile was the penalty for disobedience to God's laws; prosperity of the nation in its own land was compensation for adhering to God's commands. There is nothing arbitrary, capricious, or random about who enjoys "election" or favor and when he is compensated. It depends on man's effort, not God's whim. This is the message of James and his epistle; not the Romanized Paul which says "Christ is the end of the law".

I am not wanting to kick a dog which he is down, but again, in this instance the Romanized Paul is incorrect in changing the meaning of the original text when he writes about such a doctrine in the New Testament. We need to know this because in recognition of this one very truth is your opportunity to awaken to the truth of the Law and Torah for your life. This truth and reality is beyond doubt to those who will look deeply enough to see if for themselves through their personal study. We at Bet Emet Ministries will help lead you through this Roman maze of convoluted theology created over 2,000 years that has captured your mind and Spirit with a "false gospel". We again are led into deception and error by much but not all of the Pauline literature; the "key" is discerning the "truth" from the "error" when reading Paul. This is not impossible; it only requires your diligent effort to study to find the truths hidden from you by Rome and their "radical reinterpretation" of the Ancient Spiritual Wisdom which we have received in our Christian Bibles today.

As a child growing up in church I heard with regular frequency the phrase "grace is unmerited favor" as it was the fruit of Pauline theology. Now that you have seen past the deception and misinterpretation of the New Testament and just one of the Pauline writings, let me ask you this question.

Answer for yourself: So, is the grace of God "unmerited favor" or "merited favor" as you have now discovered that grace (the word "whom", remember) is always conditional between God and man. It is determined by man and his actions which are a product one way or the other of his faith or lack of it as applied to the Laws of God. Definitely faith "works" either obediently or the lack of faith manifests itself in acts of disobedience to the commands of God. It is either one way or the other.

Answer for yourself: What other foundational doctrines have we learned in error because we have listened to Paul more than Jesus, Moses, and the Prophets, and what sins do we commit unknowingly because we are brainwashed by Pauline theology? Our comprehensive CD has it all for those who want the "truth" and consider themselves "truth seekers".

Answer for yourself: Could you be like Edom, and be "hated" (allegorically) by God and not know this truth until you die, because you, like Edom, have faith with the "wrong works" or "no works at all" and have trusted a Romanized Paul your whole life and therefore stand today guilty before God of having lived your life under "faith only" paying no regard or little toward obedience to the 66 Commandments of God that frame your Covenant with God?

Answer for yourself: Have I caused you to rethink what you have accepted in church unquestioningly? I hope so.

Answer for yourself: What sins do we commit unknowingly because we are brainwashed by Romanized Pauline theology and have failed to understand the message of the real Bible due to reading the New Testament which is full of mistranslations, misquotations, and verses taken out of context to promote "another gospel"? The irony of accepting a Romanized Pauline theology, which is in reality "another gospel" never ceases to amaze me. Oh God give us the desire and ability to study to find Your truth. Shalom.

WHO ARE YOU GOING TO BELIEVE FOR YOUR ETERNAL LIFE: JESUS OR PAUL? #1

Disclaimer: It is important for the reader to understand that in this website, in comparing first century Judaism and the "pattern of worship" given to the "non-Jew" by God as well as unveiling of the historical truths concerning the non-Jewish "believer" in the first century against the later alterations and changes made to this "pattern of worship" by the emerging Roman Gentile Church of Rome in the 3rd century I will use a "literal-historical" approach to the "Jesus Story". If you have studied and ran across some of our other websites then you know that "the Christ" can be interpreted from 3 different perspectives down through recorded history: "mystical", "mythological", and "literal-historical". Only after one has spent a considerable time in dedicated and scholarly studies in such areas as Biblical Judaism, the Jewish Messiah and true Messianic prophecy as taken from the Hebrew Scriptures and not the later forged texts of Rome, comparative manuscript evidences, the history and origin of the Roman New Testament, the true origin and creation of the New Testament, the Gnostic Paul vs the falsified Roman Paul, the Essenes and their "literal godman", Ancient Wisdom literature, Jewish and Gentile Gnosticism, Egyptian religion and the ancient "Jesus Story" that beings with Ancient Egypt, Comparative religions, Astronomy and Astrotheology can he understand and be certain which two of the above three methods of interpretation of "the Christ" are accurate and factual. Again for purposes of comparing Judaism's truths vs Christianity's alterations of it over the early centuries and the implications that this holds for the "non-Jew" and "Godfearer" today then we adopt in this website and for all studies in this website a supposed "literal-historical" interpretation of "the Christ" as well as the Jesus of the New Testament. Only in so doing can we adequately contrast the truths of Judaism vs Christian theology and by so doing follow the lineage of these "Divine Truths" back down the corridors of history to the earliest Divine revelations given to mankind by the Creator which were intended for both "Gentiles" and "Jews" as well. You will, in time, come to see that there is a "Pattern" to the worship of God given all mankind in the beginning of recorded history of the race and this "pattern" can be traced throughout recorded history and will culminate with Biblical Judaism and will subsequently be destroyed in the 3rd century by the emerging antisemitic Roman Church. I will let you be the judge of the results of such studies and leave to the reader to draw the necessary conclusions as we attempt to compare Jewish and Christian theological perspectives all the while dealing with the "New Testament Jesus" in a "literal-historical" manner in order for such an accurate comparison to be done effectively. ## EXAMINING YESHUA AND HIS TEACHINGS CONCERNING ETERNAL LIFE

For many of our readers the information in this article will be startling. After reading this article you will see for yourself that if you follow contemporary Christianity and its teachings then you are following Paul and not Jesus/Yeshua, because Yeshua' message of redemption is entirely opposite to what Paul teaches. I can hear many of you say...."that's not so" or "he is wrong." Let me sincerely tell you that in the beginning, even after my seminary training I did not see it as clearly as I do today. But I beg of you to read this article and THINK...THINK....of what I will show you. For in the end, you are directly responsible before God, and HaShem is sending you and many of His children today appeals to repent and return to the true faith once given to the saints. Time is of the essence, and it will be horrible to die and find out that you followed the wrong faith...a faith that does not save.

One last thing; you might wonder what the end-result should be of such a series of studies. It is our hope at Bet Emet ministries that when you complete these articles the reader will be able to understand that Christianity is best understood and practiced from a Jewish viewpoint which restores the Sabbaths and the Seven Biblical Festivals. Such emphasis is almost totally lacking in the Christian church today. Also, a renewed emphasis in proper tithing and righteous giving hopefully will replace the current perversion of giving as seen in most churches and on televisions today. What you will come to see is that all these above things, and more, embody the true salvation experience. Let us begin...shall we?

YESHUA WAS A JEW...AND TAUGHT BIBLICAL JUDAISM

I think few will take issue with my statement that in the New Testament Yeshua is pictured as a Jew who believed in Judaism and taught others to be faithful to his religion's precepts and laws forever!

In this article I will quote many verses from the New Testament, and it is important to understand from the outset that although much in the New Testament is unreliable, when we find places in it which agrees with Moses and the Prophets we have found a witness to the Word of God as recorded in the Tanakh (the Jewish Bible). Let us not stagger at the comment that "much in the New Testament is unreliable," because in this article I will show you that many of these New Testament verses oppose Moses and the Prophet, let alone Yeshua's teachings, and are irreconcilably contradictory to the Gospel Yeshua preached which can be found along side them in the New Testament. Both passages confirming that Yeshua believed and both taught Moses and the Prophets regarding salvation, as well as verses contradicting what Yeshua taught, have remained included in the New Testament through the ages. These verses remain for a purpose today. They remain to show the careful reader and student the truth amidst fiction as written in the New Testament.

Likewise, the purpose could well be to reassure Jews who are in doubt about their Judaism, and are thinking of leaving Judaism for Christianity, that Judaism and Torah has always been and will always be the road to God for the people of God; both Jew and Non-Jew. Those unsure Jews and deceived Christians perhaps can have their belief in God, Torah, and Israel (Judaism) kindled and can be kept on God's pathway by the very same Christian Book through which they have unknowingly deserted their true people and God! Indeed, Jews who already have left their faith as well as Christians who are returning to the Jewish faith once given the saints are daily having their eyes opened to the truths I will reveal in this article. Prayerfully, many will return as baal teshuvah and through repentance turn to the God of Israel, who surely is waiting with fatherly understanding and forgiveness. Believe Yeshua in this matter - Eternal life is obtained through Judaism. Paul teaches otherwise and contradicts Yeshua on this matter.

For devout Jews who were once Christians and Christians who have studied to see the errors of their prior faith and have returned to a more correct and Biblical Sinai faith, the revelations in this article will be very comfortable corroboration of their firm faith in the holiness of the religion of Yeshua; namely Biblical Judaism. Others who read these verses will bring to them their own heritage and will make of them what they will. In other words they will continue to selectively hear what they choose regardless of the facts presented here.

These pages of reverse proof-texts are intended to strengthen the course God set up for Jews as well as Non-Jews and to fortify their faith and devotion to His plan of salvation for all mankind. In effect, here you will discover confirmation of Biblical Judaism's everlasting truth and validity through the words of Yeshua and others in the New Testament. Often this confirmation will conflict with what Paul taught, but more on that later. Now, let's get into it.

WHO WILL YOU BELIEVE.....YESHUA OR PAUL? LISTEN.....YESHUA SPEAKS!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Matt 5:17-19 17 Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil. 18 For verily I say unto you, Till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled. 19 Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven: but whosoever shall do and teach them, the same shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven. (KJV)

Try and read the above passage over three or four times. Get the intent of Yeshua into your mind and soul. You can read this over and over and never end your astonishment; especially in light of what you have heard preached in your churches. Remember, these are Yeshua' words saying he is here to follow the law of Moses, not end the law. Until the world ends, the law as written will be in effect. Jews and Non-Jews who obey the law and teach it are greatly loved by God, while those who transgress the law and teach its transgression are not. Notice that although the word "fulfill" could mean "to complete or end," in this case and context it clearly means "to obey and do." We know this because the following sentence continues the idea that the law will not change until the world ends, which still has not occurred two thousand years later. Just look outside your window.

Luke 16:16-17, "The law and the prophets were until John (the Baptist): since that time the kingdom of God is preached, and every man presseth into it. And it is easier for heaven and earth to pass, than one little of the law to fail."

Preaching the kingdom (God's rule and reign over mankind through submission to the King's decrees....laws and commandments) is emphasized since John the Baptist, Yeshua said. But the laws of the Torah are still effective and good, to be fulfilled until the world ends. Notice for yourself that in no way does "until John" signify the end of the law, because the very next sentence substantiates the law's validity forever (easier for heaven and earth to pass....notice again that this has not occurred yet).

Luke 16:19-20,22-24,27-31, "There was a certain rich man, . . . And there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, . . . the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom: the rich man also died, and was buried; And in hell he lift up his eyes, being in torments, . . . And he cried and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, . . . I pray thee . . . send him (Lazarus) to my father's house: . . . that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torment. Abraham saith unto him, They have Moses and the prophets; let them hear them. And he said, Nay, father Abraham: but if one went unto them from the dead, they will repent (Yeshua and not Paul). And he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, though one rose from the dead."

Answer for yourself: Is this a New Testament teaching?

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that Yeshua in the New Testament is teaching that making it to Abraham's bosom (Heaven) was connected to listening to Moses and the Prophets?

Answer for yourself: What is this parable from Luke really teaching?

Notice first that it is Yeshua and not Paul who is doing the teaching in this story. Yeshua clearly relates in this story that the laws of Moses and the words of the prophets which teach repentance lead the faithful to Abraham's bosom, instead of hell. Moses and the prophets are the pathway to eternal life in heaven according to Yeshua. Yeshua taught this and not Paul. If you will be honest with yourself most of you are typical Christians who read our articles, and the vast majority have been told by their Pastors and Churches that they are not under the Law (Moses and the Prophets), but rather, they are under grace (Paul). They have been told that the Law (Moses and the Prophets) has passed away for Christians and they are no longer under the Law but under grace (Paul's gospel). In other words you have listened to Paul more than you have to Yeshua.

Answer for yourself: But how can the teaching of Paul in this regard be opposite to what Yeshua said, and since opposite, who are you to trust for your eternal life?

Matthew 19:16-19 (Mark 10:17,19) (Luke 18:18,20), ". . . Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life? And he said unto him . . . if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments . . . Which? Yeshua said, Thou shalt do no murder, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Honor thy father and thy mother: and, thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself "

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that "having eternal life" is connected by Yeshua with "keeping the commandments" (all of these except one are categories of the law and commandments called The Ten Commandments and under each of these categories are grouped 613 other laws)?

Answer for yourself: Is Yeshua just referring to the Ten Commandments or is there something we as Non-Jews unacquainted with Yeshua's religion are missing in this teaching?

It may amaze you but upon my study of Biblical Judaism I have discovered that each Tablet of the Law was separated by commandments between man and God and between man and man. In other words, the First Tablet of the Law is dealing with how man relates to God according to God's commandments, and the Second Tablet of the Law is dealing with how man relates with mankind. But more than that, each of the Ten Commandments is best understood as categories consisting of many commandments within the 613 Commandments grouped under each of the ten headings. So in effect, when Yeshua tells this man "thou shalt not steal" he is telling the man to obey all the different facets of the broad commandment, because under such a heading the Bible enumerates the various ways such a commandments can be kept and broken.

Answer for yourself: Is Yeshua teaching that eternal life and salvation in Heaven is connected to keeping and observing the Laws of God? The answer to that question is yes.

There you have it. The way to eternal life for both the Jew and the Non-Jew and salvation in heaven, according to Yeshua, is living like a good Jew and submitting to the laws of the commandments of God. These detailed instructions by Yeshua are plainly presented.

Notice that in the following verses the man asks what more he needed do. And Yeshua replies, to be perfect he should sell everything he owns and give it to the poor and receive treasure in heaven: "and come and follow me." The man, on hearing this, leaves disturbed because he has great wealth and doesn't want to lose it. There is no indication that the "follow me" means anything else but to accompany Yeshua penniless. The message remains intact that observing Torah law gives eternal life. Perfection is another story.

Mark 12: 28-31 (Matthew 22:36-40), ". . . Which is the first (great commandment in the law) commandment of all? And Yeshua answered him, The first of all the commandments is, Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord: And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength: this is the first commandment. And the second is like, namely this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these. (On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets)."

So, Yeshua selected Deuteronomy 6:4-5 and Leviticus 19:18 as the greatest two laws. This was very Jewish of him, as most rabbis would completely agree, especially Rabbi Hillel. He chose the Shema prayer, the Jew's affirmation of God's oneness and dedication to love of Him together with Judaism's great moral teaching of loving people with the love you have for yourself. What could be more indicative of the essence of Judaism?

Luke 10:25-28, ". . . Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life? He said unto him, What is written in the law? how readeest thou? And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind: and thy neighbor as thyself. And he said unto him. Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live."

Answer for yourself: Did you make the connection between “inherit eternal life” and “thou shalt live” as also referring to eternal life? I hope you did because this is typical of Hebrew parallelism.

Answer for yourself: Have you noticed that in Luke 10:25-28, Matthew 19:16-19, Mark 10:17-19, and Luke 18:18-20 something very important is repeated?

Answer for yourself: What is it?

Namely, that possessing and inheriting eternal life is always connected with doing something.....not with believing something!

Answer for yourself: How does Luke 10:25-28 teach us more than we learn from Mark 12:28-31?

The writer of the Gospel of Luke goes one step further than the just given, Mark 12:28-31. Here we have the New Testament teaching us of the indisputable link between the “doing” of the commandments of God and eternal life, which is the reward for obeying them.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that Yeshua is teaching in the New Testament that eternal life is to be taught from the Law.....the same Law that tells us “what to do” and what you most likely have been told has passed away or which you are no longer under?

It is evident that Yeshua said, in the New Testament no less, that the law of Moses, as epitomized in Deuteronomy 6:5 and Leviticus 19:18, is the pathway to personal salvation and eternal life. Yes, Yeshua said this as found in the New Testament.
Let us continue.

Mark 12:32-34 32 And the scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast said the truth: for there is one God; and there is none other but he: 33 And to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbour as himself, is more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices. 34 And when Jesus saw that he answered discreetly, he said unto him, Thou art not far from the kingdom of God.... (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that acknowledging the oneness of God, and not the Trinity or triuneness of God, is connected with the reward of God's kingdom and eternal life?

Answer for yourself: Did you likewise notice that loving God and one's neighbor who is created in the likeness of God is connected with inheriting God's eternal life?

I John 5:3, “For this is the love of [for] God, that we keep his commandments: and his commandments are not grievous

Answer for yourself: Since we are told that loving God is connected to eternal life, did you notice the New Testament teaches “how” the love for God is to be manifested?

Answer for yourself: Does the New Testament teach us that loving God is manifested through the keeping of the 613 commandments? It sure does!

This is a straight follow-through of Mark 12:28-31, which connects the acknowledgment of the oneness of God, loving Him, and loving ones neighbor as written in the law, with the reward of God's kingdom. Burnt offerings and sacrifices are secondary to the commandments in Judaism and always have been. With no Temple, there is no doubt about this low degree of importance. This passage demonstrates Yeshua' Judaism through and through. Notice likewise that the term "Master" means good teacher, not anything more.

Matthew 7:12 (Luke 6:31), "Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets."

If you thought that "do unto others" is not Judaic or that it is different from "love your neighbor as yourself" you see here that it is totally of Jewish origin. Yeshua declared that it is the law and the prophets. It is Judaic.

Luke 11:28, ". . . blessed are they that hear the word of God and keep it."

Notice also with me that when the writer of Luke penned this verse, that there was not a New Testament in existence and that the only possible identity we can give to "the word of God" is the Law, the Prophets, and the Writings....the Jewish Bible.

Matthew 7:21, "Not every one . . . shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven."

Again we find the expressed will of the Father in the Law, Prophets, and Writings...the Jewish Bible.

Matthew 3:15, ". . . it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness . . ."

These powerful statements are tucked in between verses which emphasize other ideas. But they can stand alone. And, standing alone they are Judaism's own. Yeshua believed that the will of God is revealed in the word of God, the Hebrew Bible. In the Hebrew Scriptures we learn the law of Moses (Torah) and the Prophets. Thereby, we can perform righteousness as God desires by adhering to what they teach. This Yeshua believed.

Luke 19:8-9, ". . . half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken any thing from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold. And Yeshua said unto him, This day is salvation come to this house forso much as he also is a son of Abraham."

What comes next is very important to keep your ears open. It appears that Yeshua believed that even a partial fulfillment of the commandments of the Torah is sufficient to be accepted by God. In the above verse it is recorded for us that Zaccheus repented by observing 2 commandments. In fact, as taught by Yeshua, even by rectifying transgression of the Torah's laws and doing good deeds a person is deserving of salvation. As Jews trust, it is the trying to please God, it is the effort, not the success in total compliance with God's ordinances which is required of us to be righteous and gains us salvation.

Answer for yourself: How confident should we feel about our salvation if we have followed teachings that state that obedience of the law or the striving to observe the laws and commandments of God don't matter any longer because we are saved by "grace" or that this same law that Yeshua connects with eternal life has been taught to us as if it has passed away and of little importance in our lives any longer?

Answer for yourself: Are we absolved by God to not try to choose those things to please Him by keeping His commandments? Is this conduct really connected to eternal life as Yeshua taught, or is he wrong and Paul right?

All the more reason to study to learn how to acquire mitzvot and commandments, thereby taking upon yourself the yoke of the Kingdom of God. Such obedience to commandments is both pleasing to God as well as our demonstration of our love for Him and our fellow man. To do otherwise is not to love God, but rather, show our ambivalence toward Him and our neighbor.

Luke 13:28, "There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when ye shall see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets, in the kingdom of God, and you yourselves thrust out."

Keep your ears open for this as well. Here Yeshua said that the fathers of Judaism and the goodly Hebrew prophets are all accepted into the kingdom of God. Evidently, good Jews need nothing more than the Hebrew religion for life eternal in Yeshua's own belief.

Now for the hard part.

Notice that Yeshua also said that many of his followers (the "ye" in the above verse) will not get into God's kingdom and inherit eternal life and salvation because of their sinfulness.

Answer for yourself: Does this same New Testament teach that "transgression of the law is sin"? Yes.

Answer for yourself: Did you notice what is missing from the above words of Yeshua?

There is no Pauline religious belief system mentioned as a means of salvation for the followers of Yeshua!

There is no Christological "belief" presented here as an antidote for spiritual wickedness for mankind.

There is no "easy believeism" taught by Yeshua or his Apostles as a way to eternal life; on the contrary, every time he and the other Apostles emphasize the same thing: namely an earnest attempt to live by the commandments and laws of God for eternal life!

If you have paid attention so far in this article I have shown you repeatedly that Yeshua repeatedly connects eternal life with keeping and observing the Law and Commandments of God.

Nowhere does Yeshua teach that a belief "in him" brings for its adherents eternal life! In fact he teaches just the opposite!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

John 4:22, "(to Samaritan) Ye worship ye know not what: we (the Jewish people) know what we worship: for salvation is of the Jews."

Yeshua "worships" what Jews worship, namely God.

Answer for yourself: Salvation is of whom...the Jews (Jewish theology) or the Christians (Christian theology)?

This passage from John 4:22 is even more startling when one realizes that the Samaritan woman who is part Non-Jew mixed with Jewish heritage and ancestry. In other words, she is a mixture: not only of blood line but religious teaching as well. She is a perfect example of the Christian today who follows Paul instead of Yeshua. He has part right and part wrong.

Lets look at Paul where he get some things correct.

I Corinthians 6:9-10, (Paul) "Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind, Nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God."

Answer for yourself: Who are these people? These are people who break the Laws and Commandments of God. Take a look at the Second Tablet of the Law and read the article on the true Gospel Message of Jesus as he reiterates that Salvation is based on the Second Tablet of the Law more than the First Tablet of the Law. Then contemplate what I show you on that article seriously.

Answer for yourself: In this passage are you aware that Paul is in full agreement with Yeshua and his teachings on eternal life?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that there are commandments in the Torah forbidding each of the above conducts?

Although Paul adds some of his own ideas, the listing of "thou shalt nots" is derived from the commandments. He stresses what he considers unrighteousness and Paul says that transgression of the Law prevents people from earning reward of heaven. Paul, here, reveals his faith in the teachings of the Torah and its stance on eternal life. Paul is in agreement with Yeshua and the other Apostles and their teachings on inheriting eternal life. So far so good.

But I wish I could end here but I cannot. In the next article we will look intently to where Paul deviates from and teaches against Yeshua's teachings concerning eternal life. This exercise will be difficult for many, but as I have tried to show you, such an exercise to recover truth is very necessary because your eternal life is dependent upon whom you believe and follow....Yeshua or Paul. More to follow in the conclusion to this article. Let us now look at Paul's Salvation Message and see if it agrees with what you just read.

EXAMINING WHERE PAUL DEPARTS FROM YESHUA AND HIS TEACHINGS CONCERNING ETERNAL LIFE

Paul shaped the Gentile Church after 70 C.E. in a manner which stripped away all links to Judaism and cursed it at the same time. The New Testament in places says Judaism is bad and abandoned by God, while Christianity is good and beloved. In other places the New Testament teaches just the opposite as you were shown in article one of this series. In places the New Testament says the law of Moses is not valid and the Covenant is dead for the Jews. Instead of Moses being taught to all mankind, Paul teaches that the Church's laws and the existing Covenant is dead for the Jews as well as Non-Jews. Instead, the Church's laws and the New Covenant take their place. While Paul advanced separation from Judaism, Yeshua announced Judaism's greatness. The same New Testament in which you just saw Yeshua promote Judaism, in other places debases Judaism through Paul. I just showed you that Yeshua was a practicing, believing Jew who taught faithfulness to his religion's Torah and the Jewish way of salvation. Yeshua affirmed Torah, Moses, and the Prophets as the way to God and eternal life. He and his family all observed the Jewish customs, holidays, and Saturday Sabbath in the synagogue. Yeshua said personal salvation is obtained through Judaism and not another way. In fact Yeshua would command that such teachings be taken into all the world whereby all Non-Jews be taught to "observe those things" Yeshua had commanded of his followers. Paul and his brand of Christianity, in contradiction to all that had been both believed and taught before by Moses, the Prophets, as well as Yeshua, has announced a new way to salvation, through belief in Yeshua's vicarious atonement for sins and resurrection, not through faith in God and obedience to Him through His commandments, but through belief in Yeshua's death for sins and resurrection from death.

Answer for yourself: Can you find just one time where Yeshua teaches the same salvation doctrine as espoused by Paul?

What I ask you to do is keep the teachings of Yeshua in focus as you read Paul. The New Testament, in places, contradicts itself. That is a fact. You must be sharp enough to see it for yourself when you read. No matter what Paul says he cannot invalidate Yeshua's own words in the same book. It is a matter of who you will believe. If you listen to Yeshua, as I have laid out for you, you see that he proclaimed continually Judaism's eternal truths. Paul will not. Now let us look at Paul.

PAUL CONTRADICTS HIMSELF...DID YOU EVER SEE IT BEFORE?

What is the most perplexing for me when studying Paul is that he is not consistent in what he says. Most of you have never probably seen this but I will in the remaining pages attempt to reveal to you the contradictions that come from the mouth and pen of Paul regarding salvation. When we look at Yeshua his message is consistent with what has always been taught by Moses and the Prophets. But with Paul we have another matter because he won't always agree with what he has said before. But if you are not sharp in your Bible study you can easily overlook such things. Let us begin our critical examination of the message of Paul on salvation.

Remembering what Yeshua just said about eternal life and observance of the commandments let us contrast Paul's view on the matter.

Answer for yourself: Does Paul in Romans 2:13 agree or disagree with what Yeshua has said about eternal life and the observance of the commandments of God? Well, let's read it and see.

Romans 2:13 For not the hearers of the law are just before God, but the doers of the law shall be justified.

So far so good. Paul in this verse agrees with the message of Yeshua regarding acceptance and eternal life with God..

But just wait. Now on the back of the same page in my Bible where the above verse was quoted from Paul, we see Paul writes something totally different and contradictory to the teachings of Yeshua in Romans 3:28:

Romans 3:28 Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law.

Answer for yourself: In light of what I just showed you can you justify Paul's quick turn-around on this doctrinal stance so quickly, let alone a change in the same epistle?

Notice that within the space of 44 verses Paul reverses completely his stance on justification and righteousness through obedience to the law and commandments of God. Just 44 verses!

Answer for yourself: Did Paul teach "doing the Law" for justification AFTER THE CROSS in Romans 2:13? DEFINITELY YES!

Answer for yourself: Does Paul contradict himself in Romans 3:28? DEFINITELY YES!

Answer for yourself: So what are we to believe in the face of such contradictions of Paul when contrasted with the teachings of Yeshua and the other Apostles which teach otherwise than Paul?

Answer for yourself: Seeing this material for yourself, who are you going to believe for your salvation....Yeshua, Moses, and the Prophets and their message of salvation or Paul and his message whatever it is in its final form?

I Corinthians 6:11

And such were some of you: but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Yeshua, and by the Spirit of our God.

Please take note that the above verse says that those who "were" transgressors had been helped by the Christologic message of Paul and belief in his gospel which taught justification of the unGodly through belief in the death and resurrection of Yeshua for eternal life.

Answer for yourself: How did that happen?

Let us understand what is really being said by Paul in this verse. Let us remember that Paul has just previously taught in 1 Corinthians 6:9-10 that the heathen who are guilty of the transgression of the Laws of God is led to death and separation from God, let alone the loss of eternal life. Having understood this, then we can understand his message intended for Non-Jews whereby he uses "Yeshua" literally as bait to get the Non-Jew to believe in "Paul's Yeshua" as a way for their eternal life. Let us understand that Paul used cunning (become all things to all men in order to win some) in not telling the heathen he has to accept the Torah right off the bat, but rather shrewdly uses this "Pauline Yeshua" and relaxation of the Torah in his effort to win converts from the heathen gradually. Because Paul's adherents among the Non-Jews, in patterning themselves after such a Jewish Rabbi and his ethical teachings, would gradually develop lives of ethical and moral conduct which would assure that they become more Godly than before. Such is repentance which is the first step in coming to God. Of course, if you give up evil you are closer to God, Christianity's way, Judaism's way, or any other way.

But there is one important difference from those who Paul was attempting to teach and you...the reader of this article. You are not like the heathen, but rather, most likely have been raised in church most of your life. With your religious background and your love for God most of your life what excuse do we have not to obey God fully and choose those things which please him which I have demonstrated is His Law?

Luke 1:46-47,50-55, "And Mary said, My soul Both magnify the Lord, And my spirit hath rejoiced in God, my Savior. And his mercy is on them that fear him from generation to generation. He hath showed strength with his arm; he hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts. He hath put down the mighty from their seats, and exalted them of low degree. He hath filled the hungry with good things; and the rich he hath sent empty away. He hath helped his servant Israel in remembrance of his mercy; As he spake to our fathers, to Abraham, and to his seed for ever."

Answer for yourself: Did Mary, Yeshua' mother, call the God of Judaism, the same God who gave her People the Torah for salvation her Savior or did she, based on her new revelation, call her son Yeshua the “new” Savior?

Mary knew what most Christians don't. That's because today's Christians have read and believe Paul more than the Gospels. God alone is the Savior not Yeshua or His Messiah. Hence, Jews have salvation by God the Father and need no second or alternate source of salvation. She spoke of God's greatness and His help of His servant, Israel. She spoke of God's message to Abraham's children, that the Covenant is eternal. This was the understanding of Mary after she was allegedly informed that she would have, according to the New Testament, a miraculous virgin birth and that the child would be the Messiah. As you surely can see, she spoke as a traditional, believing Jewish person, not the holy figure of Christianity.

Luke 1:6, (Luke) "And they (Zacharias and Elizabeth) were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless."

Answer for yourself: According to the New Testament does “walking in the commandments and ordinances of the Lord” allow a person to be “blameless” before God? It sure does.

Jews as well as Non-Jews can be free of sin, blameless, following the law of Moses, as exemplified by these two people. Therefore, we know according to the New Testament witness that the law does give justification for eternal life.

Again let us see what Paul has to say on the matter.

Romans 4:3, (Paul) "For what saith the scripture? Abraham believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness."

Answer for yourself: You most likely have heard this passage your whole life. But do you know what believing truly consists of as spoken of in this verse?

Believe without response, or as James said it “faith without works is dead” is the meaning of the passage. Abraham believed God according to the revelation of God and RESPONDED because of that belief. He took his son to Mount Moriah to be offered to God. Abraham had faith and he had a concrete response to that faith. Consequently, righteousness in God's eyes is believing God's instructions and doing as God commands. In Abraham's situation, it was offering his son Isaac as a sacrifice. In our situation, it is obeying and following God's commandments in His Torah and His laws, not just believing they exist.

Answer for yourself: Do you find that following God's commandments somewhat difficult or foolish to keep and observe since the vast majority of Christianity today teaches because of Paul that the Christian is no longer under the law but under a grace which allows him to break and not keep these laws at will?

Lets see what Paul has to say about being righteous and walking in the commandments and ordinances of God.

Answer for yourself: Is this Paul's doctrine as well and does he agree with Yeshua and the Apostles on this major issue? No, again we see where Paul contradicted the teachings of Yeshua.

Rom 3:20-22 Therefore by the deeds of the law there shall no flesh be justified in his sight: for by the law is the knowledge of sin. 21 But now the righteousness of God without the law is manifested, being witnessed by the law and the prophets; 22 Even the righteousness of God which is by faith of Yeshua Christ unto all and upon all them that believe: for there is no difference:

Remembering what you previously read in the first article concerning the teachings of Yeshua, let us examine closely the above passage from Paul for contradictions to what both Yeshua, Moses, and the Prophets taught.

1. Moses (the Law) and Prophets NEVER taught that obedience of God's laws did not justify, in fact it was just the opposite they taught; namely, that obedience to the laws of God does justify.
2. Moses (the Law) and the Prophets NEVER taught that righteousness existed apart from obedience to the laws of God, in fact they taught just the opposite.
3. Paul discounts what Moses, the Prophets, and Yeshua all taught and held in common, and substitutes his own theology that replaces 4000 years of Biblical Truth with a “BUT NOW” theology of justification before God through belief in Yeshua' death and resurrection.

Answer for yourself: Who are we to believe? What do the other Apostles have to say?

1 John 5:2-3, (John) ". . . we love the children of God, when we love God, and keep his commandments. For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments: and his commandments are not grievous."

Earlier I stated that we love God by keeping his commandments. Now we see the second phase of the Greatest Commandment: loving His children and our neighbors. Notice also that ironically only by loving our neighbor are we actually loving God! Such loving of God and our neighbor requires fidelity to His laws, which are not hard to bear or perform. So, we read here in the New Testament that the commandments of the Torah are to be kept and can be kept. These laws should be observed to demonstrate our love of God and our fellow man.

Answer for yourself: Can I obey literally all of God's laws?

It may be beyond human ability to perform all our duties to God, always and perfectly. But, God gave the commandments which are not hard to uphold, when you use all your good intentions with all your heart. God's laws require your effort, not perfection; thus the gift of God in giving man repentance whereby mankind can make himself "acceptable to God".

Again let us look at Paul.

Romans 3:24 Being justified freely by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus: 25 Whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation through faith in his blood, to declare his righteousness for the remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God; 26 To declare, I say, at this time his righteousness: that he might be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Yeshua

Again you should notice Paul is teaching a completely different message from what Yeshua, Moses, Prophets, and the Apostles taught. Again Paul stands alone in his belief. No where is any of Paul's theology can we find references to what Yeshua, Moses, the Prophets or other Apostles taught.

Rom 10:9-16

9 That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Yeshua, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. 10 For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.

Again we see that Paul has a different way of salvation from what was taught by Yeshua, Moses, the Prophets, and the Apostles as demonstrated in the first article in this series. Paul stresses "faith only" or a "creed" and not "deeds" for righteousness and this message of salvation and way of inheriting Eternal Life is NOT what Yeshua, Moses, the Prophets, and the other Apostles taught; namely walking in the commandments of God for righteousness.

Answer for yourself: Who are you going to trust for correct teaching for eternal life...Paul or Yeshua, Moses, the Prophets, and the Apostles?

If you are honest with yourself up to now I have repeatedly shown you that Yeshua's message revolved around keeping the Commandments and ordinances of God. Yeshua both taught and knew for certain that love for God and those created in His image could only be accomplished by adhering to a standard of righteousness (God's laws) set by God and not by man. Thus the need and availability of God's laws and commandments, which when earnestly attempted to keep produces acceptance and salvation. Remember God requires our effort and not our perfection.

Again look at Paul and his views on the law.

Romans 7:12,14,16,22, (Paul) "Wherefore the law is holy, and the commandment holy, and just, and good. For we know that the law is spiritual: . . . I consent unto the law that it is good. For I delight in the law of God after the inward man:"

I Timothy 1:8, (Paul) "But we know that the law is good, if a man use it lawfully;"

Answer for yourself: Does it stand to reason that God would need to replace something that is holy, just, spiritual, and good?

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that Paul even said that he delights in the law of God after the inward spirit?

2 Timothy 3:16-17, (Paul) "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that when Paul wrote this in his letter to Timothy that there was only the Jewish Scriptures (Law, Prophets, Writings) in existence and that the New Testament would not be canonized till 397 A.D. (almost 300 years later)?

Answer for yourself: Are you also aware that Paul is saying that the Law, the Prophets, and the Writings are, at the time of writing of this epistle which is around 30 years after Yeshua's death, profitable for DOCTRINE, REPROOF, CORRECTION, AND INSTRUCTION?

Answer for yourself: Don't you find it rather strange that something that is profitable for doctrine, reproof, correction, and instruction for the first church is considered passed away by today's church?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that Paul's writings and his theology were not, even by him, considered Scripture?

You should not find these facts surprising since the creation of a New Testament or the creation of an alternate view of salvation and how to attain it was the furthestmost thing from anyone's mind at this time....except Paul's.

I Peter 1:25, (Peter) "But the word of the Lord (the Law, Prophets, and Writings) endureth for ever...."

Understanding when Peter wrote this Paul's teachings were very limited in scope and accepted by only a few. In fact scholars today teach us that in no time during Paul's life did he have over 50 adherents to his message. In fact Paul would later say "all in Asia have forsaken me." All in Asia? This again shows you his message had a very limited scope since men from James continually followed him around to "undo" his teachings. Thus you can better understand why Paul was required to appear before James twice in his life. Literally this was to answer charges as seen in Acts 21:21: "And they are informed of thee, that thou teachest all the Jews which are among the Gentiles to forsake Moses, saying that they ought not to circumcise their children, neither to walk after the customs."

What I have demonstrated to you in this article is that Yeshua continually walked after the customs of Moses and the Prophets. Paul did not. Tragically we have grown up in Churches which did not follow Yeshua, the Prophets, or the customs as well. We grew up most likely in Churches that followed Paul and literally oppose the teachings of Yeshua, the Prophets, and the Apostles.

Answer for yourself: How are we to reconcile that the Law endures forever but your church teaches that Christ is the end of the Law and that the Law has ceased and that we are no longer under the Law but grace?

Amazingly, the verses presented above from the pen of the Apostle Paul and Peter affirm the validity of the laws and the commandments of the Torah. They are described as sacred and beneficial, effective and everlasting. So you must face the fact that after the cross Paul at one time believed the laws of God to be holy, just, spiritual and good. So did Peter for that matter.

Stop here and ask yourself this:

Answer for yourself: If the Torah is all these things of God, shouldn't the laws be performed and Biblical Judaism, which is the embodiment of such laws, be observed by all Jews and Non-Jews?

Romans 10:5, (Paul) "For Moses describeth the righteousness which is of the law, That the man which doeth those things shall live by them."

Answer for yourself: Did you again notice that the Apostle Paul states in agreement with Moses that "righteousness is of the law" and "that those do those things in the law" shall "live" by them (eternal life)?

But again another conflict of Paul is seen below.

Romans 3: 21 But now the righteousness of God without the law is manifested, being witnessed by the law and the prophets;

Answer for yourself: How are we to understand Paul's comments about a righteousness "without the law" in light of Yeshua's teachings that connect all righteousness with observance of the commandments?

Answer for yourself: How do you reconcile that Paul speaks of "righteousness without the law" in Romans 3:21 and "righteousness which is of the law" in Romans 10:5?

Answer for yourself: Are you willing to trust contradictions like this from Paul for your eternal life?

Answer for yourself: Although we are warned by Paul not to believe another "gospel," is it not evident to you that in comparison to Yeshua and his message about eternal life that ironically it is Paul who teaches "another gospel"?

Answer for yourself: Which of the two teachings are we to trust for our eternal life as taught by Paul...."the man which doeth those things (law) shall live (eternal life) by them" [Romans 10:5] or [Rom 10:9] "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Yeshua, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved"?

The Hebrew Bible teaches that the Torah's laws lead to virtue, which is rewarded by everlasting life. Paul, in this passage from Romans 10:5 admits that this is the message of Moses in the Holy Scriptures, who communicated God's will to the Hebrew people. Then he contradicts again this only 4 verses later!

James 5:16, (James) ". . . The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much."

I John 3:22, (John) "And whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight."

Answer for yourself: Could some of our prayers not being answered and our lack of receiving what we ask of God be because we believe we are under grace and not under the law and commandments of God and don't attempt to know let alone keep as many of them as possible?

These two verses, from two different Apostles, show that keeping commandments and being righteous are connected. Both lead to God's hearing us, being pleased, and helping us. The verse quoted is very Judaic in nature, and that's a fact.

James 2:8, (James) "If ye fulfill the royal law according to the scripture, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself, ye do well."

Answer for yourself: Is James telling us we "do well" if we fulfill and keep the law? Sure is.

A person is good if he obeys the golden rule as given in the law of Moses.

James 1:27, (James) "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world."

Here is the golden rule made specific and said to be the basis of religious requirements. Also, to be pure from worldly evils in general makes for a religious person. These are Jewish ideas, totally.

Let us look again at Paul.

Galatians 3:21, (Paul) "Is the law then against the promise of God ? God forbid: for if there had been a law given which could have given life, verily righteousness should have been by the law."

Here is where you have to read close as well as remember what you have already learned from reading Yeshua and the other Apostles regarding the law and its connection with eternal life. Strange as it may be to read, Paul is, in the first part of the verse anyway, seemingly lending support to the validity of the law of Moses. Now for a problem which most fail to grasp its significance. Paul is double-minded. Remember I told you that he contradicts not only himself but Yeshua and the other Apostles? Here again is another place where Paul deviates from the message of the other Apostles as well as the early church. For Paul says "if" the law could be effective Moses' law would suffice for salvation. Paul is in reality stating that it is his personal feeling that no such law exists which is connected to salvation. For Paul the condition "if such a law existed" indicates that such a law and condition does not exist...at least for Paul!

Answer for yourself: What? Is this a complete reversal by Paul of what he has said previously in some of his other epistles let alone a complete contradiction of the teaching of Yeshua and the other Apostles? It sure is.

Answer for yourself: Well, have you with your own eyes earlier in this article already seen that Yeshua said that keeping the commandments is the path to salvation and the law is effective to this end? If you read the article you have. This produces quite a dilemma for the Christian.

Answer for yourself: Does Paul agree or disagree with the teachings of Yeshua regarding salvation and eternal life? He does not!

Therefore, Paul, if he "believes" Yeshua, must conclude that righteousness is obtained by one's effort to follow and pattern one's life after the Scriptural laws. But this is not the message of Paul therefore we must question if Paul really "believed in Yeshua."

Notice that Paul actually contradicts Yeshua on this essential matter and, in effect, created Christianity's separation from its Hebraic roots in Judaism.

Paul claims that sin is not overcome, but is created, by the law. Ironically, it is Paul's teaching, not Yeshua's, which invalidated the law for the budding Church. Such destroys the teachings of Yeshua and the other Apostles!

WERE WE WARNED ABOUT PEOPLE LIKE PAUL BY YESHUA? AND HAVE WE HEEDED THE WARNING?

Let's read what Yeshua said about this kind of opposition. In Matthew 10:24 (Luke 6:40) (John 13:16) Yeshua said, "The disciple (Paul) is not above his master (Yeshua), nor the servant (Paul) above his lord (Yeshua)."

Answer for yourself: So we ask, whose statements take precedence...Yeshua's or Paul's?

Answer for yourself: Who is to be believed...Yeshua or Paul?

You have to decide that for yourself. We only desire to lay the materials out for you in such a way that you can make an intelligent decision.

Answer for yourself: What will you trust for your salvation...the message of Yeshua or Paul?

Answer for yourself: Which is truly linked to eternal life and God's salvation.....Christologies (believing in Yeshua) or Judaics (following the faith of Yeshua)?

Answer for yourself: What is the real message of salvation of God since the New Testament teaches two ways which are mutually exclusive of each other.....faith in Yeshua or adopting the faith of Yeshua?

Let me warn and encourage all of our readers that if you should "believe" on Yeshua to be saved, believe his teachings about the eternal and effective holy law of God revealed by Moses and begin to do them. Begin a life before God where you tell Him that His laws and commandments are important to you and that you choose to try to do them to the best of your ability because you know they please Him. Begin to live by as many as possible for in them you demonstrate your love of God and those created in His image. And you will be saved as a Jew or a Non-Jew when you leave this physical existence we call "life"

Paul also writes as follows:

Romans 14:14, (Paul) "I know. . . that there is nothing unclean of itself: but to him that esteemeth any thing to be unclean, to him it is unclean."

Certainly, this is true. Jews consider things unclean because God announced it in the Torah, not because they are unclean of themselves. The law of kashruth (kosher) is God's law, as detailed by those who seek Him. God's ordinances create uncleanness, not the thing itself. And Jews and Non-Jews who want to please God and get close to Him keep the kosher laws. This is what God desires of us.

Romans 3:1-2, (Paul) "What advantage then hath the Jew? or what profit is there of circumcision? Much every way: chiefly, because that unto them were committed the oracles of God."

Romans 9:4, Romans 10:2, (Paul) "Who are Israelites: to whom pertaineth the adoption, and the glory, and the covenants, and the giving of the law, and the service of God, and the promises: For I bear them record that they have a zeal of God . . ."

Romans 11:29, (Paul) "For the gifts and calling of God are without repentance."

Acts 2:5 (Author) "And there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, devout men . . ."

Jews have a fervor for God and are devout, said Paul. In other words, Biblical Judaism promoted enthusiasm for God. Jews were given the Covenant, the law, the prophets, and the promises. Jews minister to God by being His Chosen People. There is benefit, much benefit, in being Jewish. Paul even bolsters the firm foundation of the Torah, God's gift, lasting for eternity, without God changing His mind, without repenting of His Torah. That is what Paul actually said.

Notice that Paul, however, in a complete reversal of what he said elsewhere, is recorded to having believed that all these positive features of being Jewish are canceled, and of no avail, due to the Jew's lack of belief in Yeshua the Christ. We will leave Paul's reasoning and reversal to others. Instead, we ask you to keep in mind his positive appreciation of Judaism. And also remember that Yeshua said, in effect, that Judaism is of God. Yeshua, himself, taught that "Jews for Judaism" is the way even for the Non-Jew. We have shown abundant evidence of this in our present article.

Answer for yourself: Who is the authority you choose, Yeshua or Paul?

Ephesians 6:2-3, (Paul) "Honor thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise; That it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth."

Matthew 15:4 (Mark 7:10), "For God commanded (Moses said), saying, Honor thy father and mother: and, He that curseth father or mother, let him die the death."

These verses are Paul's and Yeshua's utterances, condemning anyone who doesn't bestow honor upon his parents, as taken from the Ten Commandments. This means dutifully regarding them and respecting them, and implicitly honoring your heritage as well. This commandment is considered important enough to be put forward separately. Therefore, shaming your parents and their teaching by turning from them and the God of their heritage is prohibited and deserving of worldly death as well as loss of life in the hereafter. This is also what we read elsewhere in the New Testament.

Luke 5:37-39, "And no man putteth new wine into old bottles; else the new wine will burst the bottles, and be spilled, and the bottles shall perish. But new wine must be put into new bottles; and both are preserved. No man also having drunk old wine straightway desireth new: for he saith, The old is better."

Yeshua's saying appears to fit Judaism and its offspring, Christianity. To carry this analogy through, the new wine, Christianity, should not be placed into the old, Judaism. This, of course, is just what happened. In order for it to be good, the new should be nurtured separately. Both are then properly maintained, the old as it should be and the new as it should be. This did not occur. Sadly, the new has caused great harm to the old by claiming to succeed it, while mixing with it. And the new, by so doing, has harmed itself. Isn't that the proper conclusion to be drawn? Taken one step further, Yeshua also said that those who know the old, Judaism, prefer it.

Answer for yourself: Shouldn't you, as a Non-Jew and most likely a follower of Yeshua, prefer it too?

Answer for yourself: Whose teachings will you trust to lead you to eternal life...Paul's [which are filled with contradictions of Yeshua, Moses, the Prophets, the Torah, as well as the other followers and Apostles of Yeshua who knew him personally and walked with him 40 days after his resurrection], or Yeshua's [which agree totally with Moses and the Prophets and which contains not one contradiction among them]?

I would think having read this article it is rather obvious.

NOW FOR THE BIG QUESTION

Since now you have seen for yourself that Yeshua's and Paul's way of salvation differ, that their Gospels differ and their methods of inheriting Eternal Life differ, then you should be asking yourself "Why"?

Answer for yourself: How did we get a supposed religious Divine book, our Bibles from Rome, with contradicting messages regarding both keeping and observing the Laws and Commandments of God as well as rejecting and discarding these Laws? How can these Laws be "necessary" for our salvation and then have "passed away" and "ended" at the same time? How can a supposed book from God be so backwards in approach; one minute reading a life devoted to "deeds" for eternal life and then the next reading "not by deeds will one be justified before God"? Something seems wrong here and it is and the core of it is Rome's hatred for the Jews and their faith that produces righteousness. We can lump this attitude under the key phrase "Antisemitism and anti-Judaism" for this is what we find in the various forgeries of these reported Divine texts given us by Rome which so contradict the salvation and gospel message of "the Christ" and "Jesus the Jew".

What you will come to see if you continue your diligent search for truth is that the New Testament documents which you have relied upon since your childhood as "received from God" are no such thing at all. Upon close scrutiny you will come to find that they are a collection of both truth and error; the problem is discerning one from the other. As you have already seen we cannot have two conflicting paths to salvation. There are many other discrepancies contained within these documents; many of which go unnoticed by those who do not devote a considerable amount of time for study into these areas. We at Bet Emet Ministries have and continue to do so in order to present you, our readers, the absolute best of scholarship in these areas in hopes you will be led to the truth before you die. Your rewards and standing in the World to Come hinges upon it. We realize that the reason for so much confusion today in the Christian community stems for the multiple contradictions within the New Testament which blurs "the faith once given to the saints". It is our hope by revealing to you the hundreds of misquotations of the Jewish Scriptures, the numerous Jewish Scriptures taken out of context by the New Testament writes to serve their own anti-Semitic agendas, and the gross mistranslations contained within it as well that you might come to see the truth for yourself....Yeshua was not a Christian and does not want you to follow such Gentile Christian doctrines that destroy the Sabbath, the Biblical Festivals, Monotheism, true righteous giving of the Tithe, true spiritual warfare, etc. Today we have a collection of writings that billions of people have accepted as "authoritative" for their faith and practice which are anything but that. If you have the courage to continue your study...you will be shocked, saddened, broken, and ashamed before you finish. You will see for yourself the greatest deception foisted upon mankind by the Roman Religious Establishment....a substitute faith that opposes what the real Yeshua believed at almost every turn of his life. You might be saying to yourself now: "those are big charges...can he prove it"? I would only ask that you prayerfully study and use the intellect that God has given you to see if what I say does not add up. You will never be sorry you did, and eternally grateful you continued in this rather difficult study. Shalom and may the LORD'S blessings overtake you.

JESUS' RELIGIOUS BELIEF SYSTEM...DID YOU KNOW IT CHANGED...WHO DID IT...AND WHEN?

If one consults a multitude of books on early church history one comes away from such an experience seeing that traditional Christian understanding of its own history - and the implicit understanding of most scholars - is that the evolution of Gentile Christianity was a gradual or incremental evolution away from Biblical Judaism and a gravitation backward to a "literalization" of the Ancient mystery religious doctrines that have more in common with astral and solar worship than with Moses and the Torah.

Answer for yourself: What did I just say? This is very complicated when you first begin to consider these "mystery religions" and their host of their "rising-dying sungods" but if you hang with it you eventually come to see that none of these "sungods" and their "lives" were ever believed to be "literal" by the devotees of various "gods" and "goddesses". I could go on and begin to teach what lies behind these "sungods" like they being the "personification of the Spirit of God in matter (flesh)" and further representations of "personifications of the Soul of man which is trapped in these fleshy bodies" but time and space will not allow. What you do need to hear and understand is that the evolution of Gentile Christianity away from Judaism was not good primarily because the antisemitic Gentiles would, in time, "literalize" almost all prior Ancient and Jewish metaphysical beliefs and understandings of the Divine Realm and in so doing create at the center of their "literalization" and "carnalization" of the "Divine" a similar "godman" figure we have come to know today as "Jesus". But this "Christ" or "Messiah" whom we as Christians call Jesus today was in the beginning intended to be a Jewish vehicle of Divine Truth and the human embodiment or vehicle for mankind to hear and receive the Ancients knowledge of the Divine as seen and expressed through the Jewish nation. Every nation has come to see this Divine Realm through their uniqueness as a nation and Israel was no different. They saw these Divine Truths through Jewish eyes as Babylon saw them through Babylonians eyes and as Egypt has previously seen them through Egyptian eyes. The "Christ" as the messenger and bridge between God (Spirit/Energy) and mankind (matter/flesh) was not unknown to these Ancient nations for all nations had their "Karsts, Christs" or "sungods". They were the same.

What we need to understand here is that Judaism received and carried these Ancient Divine and Religious truths as had earlier nations, like Egypt, and considered such Divine knowledge sacred no less than other nations which worshiped the One True God. They might have had different names for this One God but the concepts and central themes and ideas overlapped quite often. There is a "pattern" to be discerned here if you look at comparative religions and see the similar stories over and over; only the names have been changed.

Answer for yourself: Was this evolution away from Judaism and its "literalization" of all Ancient Spiritual allegories good or bad? Why does Christianity denigrate all "Ancient Religious Wisdom" and call it "pagan"? What is wrong with "pagan" mystery religions, astral worship, and solar worship? Why are we told by Christianity not to even read this information as many consider it a sin?

Well, honestly if you have done a lot, and I mean a lot of study into Gnosticism, Egyptian religion, Astronomy, and Anthropology then you will be equipped to answer the above question with a "maybe nothing" or with an "everything". You see, it is how you interpret and understand the Ancient Mystery religions that you either end up with either the most lofty Spiritual understanding of God that man can obtain in this physical existence or the basest idolatry and blasphemy known to man. In order to understand this answer it will take a whole website or two for your study in order to see the beauty and Spiritual superiority of the Mystery Religions when they are understood as "allegories" and "myths" of the highest Divine Truths ever known to mankind. Behind the current doctrinal and sacerdotal forms of "literalized Christianity" lie a deep Spiritual truth, a real Gnosis (Greek for "knowledge") of mankind's origin, nature, and destiny which has simply been "materialized" and "literalized" by the antisemitic Gentile Church of Rome in their traditional interpretation of the Hebrew and earlier Ancient "pagan" Scriptures. In so doing Rome destroyed the very beauty and awesome revelations of the Divine Realm that the Ancient civilizations cherished and revered. It is through the purposeful "literalization" and "carnalization" of these Ancient mystical understandings of the Invisible God that Christianity fell away for the Divine Truths that the Creator desired all mankind to come to understand. Very few professing lay Christians are aware to what extent the commonly received conceptions as to the origin of Christianity, based on the supposed historical veracity of the Gospel narratives, are in serious question today by those scholars who have made the closest study of the actual historical evidence. The correspondence of the Bible allegories with those of earlier Mystery Cults, such for example as those of Orpheus and of Mithra, as also those of more ancient Egyptian and Aryan sources, implies some historical connection in origins; and although this is exceeding obscure owing to the destruction by the early Gentile Roman Church creed-makers of every particle of evidence of this connection which they could lay their hands on, many clues still remain to which I must inform my readers. Although "literalized" almost beyond recognition, this Ancient Spiritual Knowledge and Wisdom or Gnosis is embodied in the Christian Scriptures, albeit sadly overlaid with "the precepts and doctrines" of men. I am not using the term "Gnosis" as applying merely to the tents of certain Gnostic sects which were more or less in evidence in the early centuries of the Christian era, but in connection with a "super-knowledge" which can be traced back to the remotest ages and the oldest Scriptures of which we have any literary records, and which was taught by Initiates, Adepts, and Masters of the Ancient Wisdom in the inner circles of those Mysteries and Mystery Cults which are known to have existed in Egypt and elsewhere, even in the remotest times. That is the sense in which the term "Gnosis" must originally be understood. Central to this "Gnosis" is the understanding that the God of the Cosmos has fashioned all things after a "Pattern", on "Order" that is maintained and functions through the operation of God's Laws. These Laws were seen "central" for all existence in the Heavens above and the Earth below. Such Laws, when modeled by mankind, assured mankind that God's Kingdom in Heaven would be manifested "on Earth". The very center of Egyptian Religion has as its creed: "So Above, So Beneath". Hidden in the New Testament we find a glimpse of this earlier "gnosis":

Matt 6:10 10 Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. (KJV)

The revelation of this Divine Principle was brought to man by "the Karast/Christ" which is the Divine Spark that animates all matter. This Christ "indwells" every man and woman and when man "awakens" to this "Christ within" then his Soul is "birthed" into a Spiritual awareness not known before and this Divine Energy within empowers man to rise above the carnal and animal impulses that reside in his fleshly body. Through patterning one's life after the Laws of God one attains a Spiritual perfection and maturity which is the goal of his existence. This indwelling Spark of the Divine God, Creator of the Cosmos, is the "Christ within", the Logos, the "Word" which illuminates and empowers man to be "Sons of God" in this earthly plane of existence. Gradually however, as "Christian" doctrine became hardened and more and more dogmatic, and the government of the Church fell into the hands of ambitious antisemites who were ambitious for worldly power, and quarrelling among themselves for precedence, this higher knowledge of the "Divine Christ within" became a heresy and along with that the "Laws of God" were made to "cease" through the forgery of the Roman New Testament and its purposeful misquotations and misapplication of Hebrew Scriptures. What records of this earlier The absolutes of God were negated and every man became a "law unto himself" and chaos ensued; we call it the Dark Ages. This "Ancient Wisdom" yet remains today but much of it is nothing more than gross misrepresentations from the pens of its bitter opponents among the Church "Fathers". The traditional dogmas of the Church which have come down to us through the centuries are seen in light of this restored "Ancient Wisdom and Gnosis" today as little more than gross "materializations" of the real teachings as to the Spiritual Nature and origin of mankind as contained in this Gnosis. These "materializations" of the real teachings and dogmas of the Ancients are found in the Gentile Church's literal historicizing of narratives of Jesus as "the Christ"; narratives which were originally intended as allegories covering deep Spiritual Truths which were not only identical but can be found as far back as 10,000 B.C.E. The stories of these "sungods" and "christs" are the same, the sacred "sayings" of these various nation's "christs" are the same; there is little if anything different between them from nation to nation for thousands of years other than what was originally understood and intended to be comprehended as stores depicting the "Divine birth, life, growth, temptations, spiritual maturation, and death of God/the Soul in matter (flesh)" as a picture or paradigm for all mankind to emulate became not that; rather became at the hands of Rome an isolated "literalized" event of only one person separate from all the others of mankind. "The Christ" was taken from mankind and confined into the supposed historical body of only one person; a person by the way who is no longer here but ascended. The real fact, therefore, is not that Gnosticism was a "heresy," a departure from the true "Christianity," but precisely the opposite; i.e. that Christianity in its dogmatic and ecclesiastical development was a travesty of the original Gnostic teachings of God's Law and the "Christ Within" all mankind and not limited to but one person as does the New Testament with its depiction of "Jesus" as "the Christ" (William Kingsland, The Gnosis or Ancient Wisdom in the Scriptures, p. 11-17). On several of Bet Emet Ministries websites I show you in detail how such a lofty and wonderful Spiritual Revelation can be debased into the grossest idolatry possible by mankind. Rome chose the latter. This "idolatry" goes unnoticed in our churches today in the worship of this "literalized Jesus" where the Torah and Ancient Wisdom understood that these "christs" are within all mankind and that mankind's worship is to be reserved for the One True God alone. This is the problem with Gentile Christianity who not only "literalized" the Christ but denigrated God's Laws and deemed them "old, archaic, and obsolete and passed away" in the New Testament. No wonder there anarchy in the world today when you have no longer Divine Absolutes and a judgment at the end of life as we know it as Egypt and Judaism teaches; in its place Christianity have its devotees a "get out of jail free" card with Jesus' picture on it this simply does not exist. Only only has to follow the logical thought and study of Bet Emet's Websites to see this for yourself and it begins with this website as we see the conflicting dogmas of Christianity as opposite Judaism and how Christianity so tragically misrepresented the Hebrew Scriptures.

If you think the above statements are not true then I challenge you to do your own personal study into these areas and disciplines above. Detailed and sustained study in these areas, when done in an unbiased way, can do nothing but confirm the the truthfulness of my answer. My assessment of Rome as bringing the world the grossest idolatry in the name of "Jesus" cannot be proven wrong once you possess adequate knowledge to see the whole of the "Jesus Puzzle". Humbly, if you do these studies then my position is invincible; you won't be able support the Roman Christian position any longer because the facts uncovered by your diligent study and hard evidence that comes before your face will not change; fables do. It can be proven by the testimony of many scholars today as well as the overwhelming evidence from archeology along with comparison of manuscripts that the later Gentile church modified or added to the Ancient Wisdom tradition once handed them and in so doing taught a "materialized" and "carnalized" historical Jesus (Bart Ehrman, The Orthodox Corruption of Scripture). What started with the teachings of "the Christ", understood as the vehicle in mankind's flesh to accomplish God's Salvation (the Hebrew name Joshua=the name Jesus=which means "God's Salvation") as the basic structure and true "gospel" which brought Biblical Judaism to it's zenith, ended up when remanufactured by Rome, as a rejection of almost all of what Judaism believed and stood far. This salvation from God for all mankind is ironically His "Joshua/Jesus", or should I say "Jesus"; but sadly this "literalized-materialized-carnalized Jesus" Rome gave us is not the "Jesus" God first gave mankind in the beginning of time and which was cherished among the Ancients for thousands of years. Simply said, Gentile antisemitism and aversion to the Laws of God successfully mutated Biblical Judaism and almost successfully destroyed all traces of it. Rome had to to this since the "anointed" Messiah promised since Egypt to Israel was to be a Jew and the Jews revered the Laws of God. Rome will not. This "Christ" given to Israel came teaching the same "gospel" and "message" which had been taught since the beginning of recorded time and as found in Egypt for thousands and thousands of years. It was the same message of Moses, himself better known as the Hebrew Pharaoh Akhenaten of the 18 Dynasty. This Ancient Wisdom and message stressed the Laws of God for mankind's welfare and salvation:

Matt 5:17-19 17 Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil. 18 For verily I say unto you, Till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled. 19 Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven: but whosoever shall do and teach them, the same shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven. (KJV)

This "Christ/Anointed" was to be God's "Joshua/Jesus" to Israel and anyone familiar with that fact and what it entails would have a hard time swallowing Roman replacement religion which was "lawless" and without God's Torah.

The history of Christianity that B. Ehrman, and a host of other scholars propose, by contrast, is not one of smooth and natural development. It is rather a bumpy ride with a succession of crossroads and turning points that confronted the Jewish and Gentile followers of the Jewish Christ (we can call him "Jesus" because the logia, or teachings of the Jewish Christ are really "God's Salvation". Note the word play with the word "Jesus".

Answer for yourself: Since I have repeatedly said that Rome "literalized" and made historical "the Christ as this Jesus" when it can be shown up to this time all Divine and Ancient Wisdom taught only "the Christ within all mankind as his Soul" then can you see how Roman Gentile writers would later "literalize" the very message of "God's Salvation" in the form of this "Jesus" as a historical person? THINK. This dear ones is what was done.

Events will occur that will cause fundamental alterations in the then current "orthodox" beliefs of Judaism and separation from these doctrinal positions by the "non-Jews" which create a separate movement which will come to be known as Gentile Christianity. Coming to grips with these changes in the "faith of Jesus" is essential to understanding the teachings of the Jewish Christ (Jesus), because it is through these changes that the Gentile church not only altered, but destroyed the "Jewish Messiah" and the "Jewish Christ" and replaced him with a "Christ of faith" of their own making who was patterned after the "literalized" godmen of the ages. Early Christian history seems so contradictory because it was "contradictory" - so many people were saying so many different things at such an early stage of Christian history. Religious pluralism thrived in this age of apocalypticism. This is the fruit of the apocalyptic enthusiasm that had gripped the nation prior to and after the first century when the Jews' were desperate for deliverance and the hope of the prophets drew near.

The evidence for diversity in early Christianity is widespread and comes from the writings of early church leaders, from historical accounts, and the New Testament itself. The literature of early Christianity is often strongly controversial, and the bitterness of the attacks on other followers of Jesus who are "misrepresenting" Christianity is quickly apparent. If you read the above articles on the contrasting and conflicting "Salvation Messages" of Jesus and "Salvation Messages" of Paul you saw such an example of conflicting teachings as both "paths" to salvation are diametrically opposed.

- Paul describes an angry confrontation he had with Peter in Galatians as with the host of Jews that continually followed him to undue his teachings let alone often beat him for the doctrines he was teaching that contradicted Moses and the Prophets
- Ignatius' letters to the churches on his way to martyrdom in Rome, around 100 A.D., literally castigate severely Judaism and Jewish Christianity. The Writings of Ignatius: Bishop of Antioch in Syria [ca 1-2 century] martyred in Rome by beasts (ca 105-116). On his way to Rome, he visits and then writes to various churches, warning and exhorting them to reject the Jews and anything Jewish (at that time the present faith of Jesus). He also writes ahead to Rome, and writes to Polycarp, bishop of Smyrna. Warned the church against heresies that threatened peace and unity, opposed Gnosticism and Docetism. In the

- Epistle to Smyrna, insisted Christ came in the flesh not just in spirit.
- Ireneaus, around 180 A.D., writes his Against Heresies where he attacks all beliefs others than his and labels all other "interpretations" except his as heresy.
  - The Epistle of Barnabas [ca 130]: This letter, probably not authored by the NT Barnabas, repudiates the claims of Jewish Christians at the time who advocated adhering to observance of the Mosaic Law (Laws of Noah are in these Laws of Moses as well). This Epistle argued that Christ provided salvation and man is no longer bound by the Law and goes so far as to compare living a holy life to unrighteousness. Just think on these absurd statements.
  - The Epistle of Mathetes (Believer/Disciple) to Diognetus: This Apologetic treatise written perhaps ca 200, presents a rational defense of the Gentile's interpretation of Christianity and their rejection of Judaism.
  - Justin Martyr, around 150 A.D., writes his Dialogue With Trypho the Jew where we find replacement religion at its best as he builds his case that his brand of "Christianity" has replaced the Jewish faith and they the Gentiles are the new Israel of God and have again replaced the Jews in this distinction.
  - Justin also wrote Apology and Second Apology where he attacked Docetism (the non-historical and physical Christ but the mystical Christ). Justin admitted that traces of truth were found in the writings of pagan authors since all people shared in the generative or germinative Word (logos spermatikos), but he insisted that only Christian had a truly rational faith.
  - Quadratus (second century) introduced himself as a Christian philosopher. Thus he began the dialogue which has extended to our own times between philosophy and theology. We knew of him only through Eusebius until a portion of his Apology was discovered written in Armenian. It was published at Venice in 1878. A complete version was found in a Syriac version on Mt. Sinai in 1889. According to Eusebius this apologia was delivered to Emperor Hadrian along with one by Quadratus; however some scholars believe that it was really delivered to Antonines Pius (D. 161). Whatever the occasion, Aristides defended the proposition that Christians had a more complete understanding of the eternal God than Jews or barbarians. He justified this by arguing that Christianity had a higher notion of God and more perfect rules for human conduct.
  - Hippolytus, (170-236), in the third century wrote his The Refutation of All Heresies. According to his refutation, the Ebionites (the earliest Jewish followers of Jesus) followed the heresy of Cerinthus and Carpocrates. Cerinthus held that Jesus was born of Mary in the same way as all men and that Mary was not a virgin. He claimed that Jesus was more just and more wise than all the human race. And then Hippolytus adds: They live conformably to the customs of the Jews, alleging that they are justified according to the law, and saying that Jesus was justified according to the law. And therefore it was (according to the Ebionaeans,) that (the Savior) was named (the) Christ of God and Jesus, since not one of the rest (of mankind) had observed completely the law. For if even any other had fulfilled the commandments (contained) in the law, he would have been that Christ. And the Ebionaeans allege) that they themselves also, when in like manner they fulfill (the law), are able to become Christs; for they assert that our Lord Himself was a man in a like sense with all (the rest of the human family). But Ebionism was not only addressed as he ran the gamut of religious sects of his day; especially gnosticism.
  - Origen (third century) comments that "many" Christians had differences of opinion with each other on "subjects of the highest importance" (De Principiis, Preface, section 2).
  - Tertullian is our earliest extensively preserved Latin Christian author [140-230], who aligned himself around 207 with the "Montanist" Christian movement that was considered "heretical" by the representatives of emerging mainstream Christianity. He is credited with writing five books Against Marcion, in addition to less lengthy polemical works such as Prescription Against Heretics, Against Hermogenes, Against the Valentinians, and Against Praxeus. Tertullian details for us his ideas on heresy in his Prescription Against Heretics, but like I said he himself joined the Montanists, who were themselves declared heretics at a later date by the official church.
  - Epiphanius was a bishop who is noted in the history of the early Christian church for his struggle against beliefs he considered heretical. His chief target was the teachings of Origen, a major theologian in the Eastern church whom he considered more a Greek philosopher than a Christian. Epiphanius' own principles were later discredited by the harsh nature of his attacks. He is credited with writing the Panarion which is a rather lengthy work directed against heresy in which he details and delineates the views of eighty various religious groups and of course denounces each one.
  - Theodoret was the bishop of Cyrus and a theologian, born at Antioch in Syria about 393; died about 457.

His major works are the Compendium of Heretical Fables in which he describes and attacks sixty heretical groups.

From this short summary list above anyone can see for themselves that early Christianity was not at all stable and had not one set of adopted and supported consensus of religious opinion. That would come but not after centuries of councils where these ideas would be debated and even submitted to murder and violence before a consensus would be achieved in order to stabilize Gentile Christianity. Glory to God in the highest; God has given the Gentile church His will after they cleaned up the blood off the floor of their Councils as they determined and added to this "Jesus Story". The winners of these battles and blood-baths gave us the New Testament which is the rejection of Judaism and its Divine Revelation which can be traced as far back as Ancient Egypt.

"Stability" is a characteristic of later Christianity, beginning about the time of Constantine and the council of Nicaea (in the year 325). It will take the power of Rome to bring religious ideas together and that itself will take centuries. After Constantine and the controversies raised at the council of Nicaea, there were still serious disputes, but they had a much narrower focus and did not occur nearly as frequently. Nicea was the theological watershed and the death knell for Jewish Christianity. In fact, there were only three truly great heresies after this point.

The first was the monophysite controversy, which concerned whether or not Christ had one or two natures; later there was the split between Roman Catholics and Eastern Orthodox over the authority of the pope; finally, there was the greatest heresy of all, that of Martin Luther and others, which launched the Protestant reformation (Akers, The Lost Religion of Jesus, p. 10).

For over 1600 years following Constantine, controversy over doctrinal matters - while it did occur - was the exception rather than the rule. But during the first four centuries after Jesus, Christianity was even more doctrinally divided than it is today. Moreover, these disputes did not involve political questions of church authority, nor obscure theological points that most ordinary Christians had difficulty understanding; they involved the very nature of God, Jesus, and salvation.

In Christian history, these early theological disagreements are both admitted and denied. Eusebius' fourth-century Ecclesiastical History details for us these various theological disagreements which threatened the church but they are not presented as serious but just as bumps on the road of church history, due to the sorts of misunderstandings that were bound to arise as any message was carried forward. Eusebius, in his Ecclesiastical History, distorts the truth of the events he reports. He presents a story of the followers of Jesus as having established a church and who wrote down the teachings of the Christ. They, according to Eusebius, faced opposition, persecution, and even setbacks along the way, but in general the gospel gained increasing numbers of adherents as time progressed. What the casual reader of Eusebius fails to note is that all along this route of theological diversity the religion and religious belief system of the Jewish "Jesus" and his first followers is continually being altered and changed by the antisemitic Roman Gentile juggernaut called "Roman Christianity". Three hundred years after the supposed death of Jesus the Roman Empire is made to look as if only "embraced" and "sanctioned" an exiting faith instead of altering it almost beyond recognition as it conformed it to their already existing "literalized" pagan ideas surrounding their sungods. Eusebius portrays Christian history as the record of revelation gaining increasing acceptance over time. That it did, but at the expense of the truth about a religion that carried both the legacy of Egypt and beyond as well as the Sacred Wisdom of the Ancients which promoted mankind's adherence to the Laws of God. Today we have the task of recovering the faith of the "Jewish Christ, the Jewish Jesus", "the faith once given to the saints".

From the above information alone you should have seen that Christianity did not emerge as a gradual and natural evolution or development from the teachings of Jesus, Moses, or the Prophets. Rather, you should have seen that Christianity, as it has become today, is a rejection and continual modification of Biblical Judaism whereby the "non-Jew", instead of finding his place within the Israel of God, has totally replaced God's message in Judaism along with the Jewish understanding of its "Christ/Messiah" and in so doing has destroyed the Ancient Spiritual Wisdom given mankind for all Eternity. Due to these theological diversities or, as some have called it, theological crises that shaped the direction of the Gentile church, we have almost totally lost today the truths once held dear and sacred by Abraham, Moses, and the Prophets. If you see and understand what has been said then the reality of the situation should hit home hard; namely, that the "historical Jesus" as depicted in the Gospel of John and often in the Synoptic Gospels, has little if anything in common with the religious doctrines that exist in his "Name" and are cherished by those who believe to be his followers or the followers of the "Jewish Christ". I guess you might have to ask, in light of what I have shared with you on this article, if you are really a follower of this Jewish Christ or this Jewish Jesus at all?

TZEDAKAH AND ITS CONNECTION WITH OBTAINING ETERNAL LIFE

Tzedakah, the Jewish term for helping the poor, is often translated as "charity." However, the Hebrew root tzedek is more closely translated as "justice" or "fairness."

Answer for yourself: What is the connection between giving to the poor and justice?

The word tzedaka derives from the Hebrew word tzedek, "justice." Performing deeds of justice is perhaps the most important obligation Judaism imposes on the Jew. In fact it goes deeper than that; the Hebrew Scriptures imposes the same for the "non-Jew" as found in the Laws of Noah. "Tzedek, tzedek you shall pursue," the Torah instructs (Deuteronomy 16:20).

Deut 16:20 20 That which is altogether just shalt thou follow, that thou mayest live, and inherit the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee. (KJV)

Strong's Concordance:

6664 tsedek (tseh'-dek); from 6663; the right (natural, moral or legal); also (abstractly) equity or (figuratively) prosperity: KJV-- X even, (X that which is altogether) just (-ice), ([un-]) right (-eous) (cause, -ly, -ness).

Brown-Driver-Briggs Hebrew Lexicon:

6664 tsedek- justice, rightness, righteousness

- a) what is right or just or normal, rightness, justness (of weights and measures)
- b) righteousness (in government)
  - 1) used of judges, rulers, kings
  - 2) used of law
  - 3) used of Davidic king, Messiah
  - 4) used of Jerusalem as seat of just government
  - 5) used of God's attribute
- c) righteousness, justice (in case or cause)
- d) rightness (in speech)
- e) righteousness (as ethically right)
- f) righteousness (as vindicated), justification (in controversy), deliverance, victory, prosperity
  - 1) used of God as covenant-keeping in redemption
  - 2) in name of the Messianic King
  - 3) used of people enjoying salvation
  - 4) used of King Cyrus

Leviticus 19:9-10

And when you reap the harvest of your land, you shall not reap to the very corners of your field, nor shall you gather the gleanings of your harvest. And you shall not glean your vineyard, nor shall you gather every grape of your vineyard; you shall leave them for the poor and stranger; I am the Lord your God. (Note: To glean is to gather the remains of the harvest left after the reapers collect)

Deuteronomy 4:19-22

When you cut down your harvest in your field, and have forgotten a sheaf in the field, you shall not go again to fetch it; it shall be for the stranger, for the orphan, and for the widow; that the Lord your God may bless you in all the work of your hands... And you shall remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt; therefore I command you to do this thing.

Deuteronomy 19:28-29

At the end of three years you shall bring forth all the tithe of your produce in that year, and shall lay it up inside your gates...and the stranger, and the orphan, and the widow, who are inside your gates, shall come, and shall eat and be satisfied; that the Lord your God may bless you in all the work of your hand which you do.

The reason for doing tzedakah is because these are acts necessary to bring justice and healing to our world. We believe every member of our community, whether single or married, young or old, healthy or ill, should have the basic things they need to live a decent life. In doing the work to make this world more just, we bring our traditions and our connection with the Eternal into our daily lives.

The Torah legislated that Jews give 10 percent of their earnings to the poor every third year (Deuteronomy 26:12), and an additional percentage of their income annually (Leviticus 19:910). Hundreds of years later, after the Temple was destroyed and the annual tithe levied upon each Jew for the support of the priests and Levites was suspended, the Talmud ordered that Jews were to give at least 10 percent of their annual net earnings to tzedaka (Maimonides, Mishneh Torah, "Laws Concerning Gifts for the Poor," 7:5).

Hundreds of years later, the Talmud taught: "Tzedaka is equal to all the other commandments combined" (Bava Bathra 9b). From Judaism's perspective, therefore, one who gives tzedaka is acting justly; One who doesn't, unjustly. And Jewish law views this lack of justice as not only meanspirited but also illegal. Thus, throughout history, whenever Jewish communities were selfgoverning, Jews were assessed tzedaka just as everyone today is assessed taxes.

Traditional Jews give at least ten percent of their income to charity. Traditional Jewish homes commonly have a pushke, a box for collecting coins for the poor, and coins are routinely placed in the box. Jewish youths are continually going from door to door collecting for various worthy causes. In many ways, charitable donation has taken the place of animal sacrifice in Jewish life: giving to charity is an almost instinctive Jewish response to express thanks to God, to ask forgiveness from God, or to request a favor from God. According to Jewish tradition, the spiritual benefit of giving to the poor is so great that a beggar actually does the giver a favor by giving a person the opportunity to perform tzedakah.

The Meaning of "Tzedakah" "Tzedakah" is the Hebrew word for the acts that we call "charity" in English: giving aid, assistance and money to the poor and needy or to other worthy causes. However, the nature of tzedakah is very different from the idea of charity. The word "charity" suggests benevolence and generosity, a magnanimous act by the wealthy and powerful for the benefit of the poor and needy. The word "tzedakah" is derived from the Hebrew root "Tzade-Dalet-Qof", meaning righteousness, justice or fairness. In Judaism, giving to the poor is not viewed as a generous, magnanimous act; it is simply an act of justice and righteousness, the performance of a duty, giving the poor their due.

Giving to the poor is an obligation in Judaism, a duty that cannot be forsaken even by those who are themselves in need. Some sages have said that tzedakah is the highest of all commandments, equal to all of them combined, and that a person who does not perform tzedakah is equivalent to an idol worshipper. Tzedakah is one of the three acts that gain us forgiveness from our sins. The High Holiday liturgy states that God has inscribed a judgment against all who have sinned, but teshuvah (repentance), tefilah (prayer) and tzedakah can reverse the decree.

According to Jewish law, we are required to give one-tenth of our income to the poor. This is generally interpreted as one-tenth of our net income after payment of taxes. Those who are dependent on public assistance or living on the edge of subsistence may give less; no person should give so much that he would become a public burden. The obligation to perform tzedakah can be fulfilled by giving money to the poor, to health care institutions, to synagogues or to educational institutions. It can also be fulfilled by supporting your children beyond the age when you are legally required to, or supporting your parents in their old age. The obligation includes giving to both Jews and gentiles; contrary to popular belief, Jews do not just "take care of our own." Judaism acknowledges that many people who ask for charity have no genuine need. In fact, the Talmud suggests that this is a good thing: if all people who asked for charity were in genuine need, we would be subject to punishment (from God) for refusing anyone who asked. The existence of frauds diminishes our liability for failing to give to all who ask, because we have some legitimate basis for doubting the beggar's sincerity. It is permissible to investigate the legitimacy of a charity before donating to it.

We have an obligation to avoid becoming in need of tzedakah. A person should take any work that is available, even if he thinks it is beneath his dignity, to avoid becoming a public charge. However, if a person is truly in need and has no way to obtain money on his own he should not feel embarrassed to accept tzedakah. No person should feel too proud to take money from others. In fact, it is considered a transgression to refuse tzedakah. One source says that to make yourself suffer by refusing to accept tzedakah is equivalent to shedding your own blood.

There are levels of Tzedakah. Certain kinds of tzedakah are considered more meritorious than others. The Talmud describes these different levels of tzedakah, and Rambam organized them into a list. There are eight degrees of tzedaka, each one superior to the other. The highest degree . . . is one who upholds the hand of a Jew reduced to poverty by handing him a gift or a loan, or entering into a partnership with him, or finding work for him, in order to strengthen his hand, so that he will have no need to beg from other people" (Maimonides, Mishneh Torah, "Laws Concerning Gifts to the Poor," 7:7).

The levels of charity, from the least meritorious to the most meritorious, are:

- 1. A person gives but is not happy when s/he digs into the pocket in order to give.
- 2. A person gives cheerfully, but gives less than s/he should.
- 3. A person gives, but only when asked by a poor person.
- 4. A person gives without having to be asked, but gives directly to the poor. The poor person knows he gave the help, and the giver knows who was benefited
- 5. A person gives a donation in a certain place, but walks away so that the giver does not know who received the benefit. The poor person knows the giver however.
- 6. A person makes a donation to a poor person secretly. The giver knows who was benefited, but the poor person does not know who the giver was.
- 7. A person contributes anonymously to the tzedakah fund which is then distributed to the poor.
- 8. The highest level of charity is to give money and help to prevent another person from becoming poor. For example, teaching a person a trade, finding them a job, lending money, teaching them to sustain themselves.

"Tzedaka may not save us, but it makes us worth saving" (Professor Reuven Kimelman, "Tzedaka and Us," rephrasing the words of Abraham Joshua Heschel, "Prayer may not save us, but it makes us worth saving").

Answer for yourself: Is "tzedakah" connected to obtaining Eternal Life? I believe it is. Let me explain.

Answer for yourself: Do Jews believe in an after life? Simply put, yes this "after life" is better called "life after life." The belief in an eternal life is one of the basic teachings of Judaism as well as Christianity. As a matter of fact, Maimonides (a foremost Jewish philosopher and expert of Jewish Law) included this belief in his Thirteen Principles of Jewish Faith. The Jewish soul is "Godly," meaning it is invested with an infinite quality that is not subjected to the limitations of time and space, just as God Himself is. According to Jewish belief, it is only the body that dies, while the soul lives on into eternity.

Answer for yourself: Where does the soul go after death? This question implies travel and movement, which only exist in this physical universe. So, the soul "goes," if that can be said at all, to a "place"--a state of existence--that is completely drenched in Divine Radiance, unlike our current existence. Here, Godliness is hidden. There, Godliness is manifest. In Judaism, this place is called the World to Come, while life on Planet Earth is referred to as "This World." After death, then, the soul goes to the World to Come. Our souls' eternal life makes it so important for us to maximize our time in this world. Because the amount of radiance the soul is capable of absorbing in the World to Come is directly proportionate to the spiritual acts performed by the soul in This World. It's kind of like taking a test--the more you study, the better you do. To prepare our souls for the World to Come, the Jews study Torah and perform mitzvot like "tzedakah" mentioned above. These spiritual acts feed and nourish our souls. However, they do not study the Torah or perform mitzvot merely to earn a reward in the World to Come--this is seen as selfish. In summation, the question may be rephrased: do Jews believe in death? And the answer, ultimately speaking, is "no." For a fundamental part of Jewish belief is a state of existence in which the World to Come and This World will merge, restoring our dear departed loved ones to robust life and wiping physical death away forever. But key to overcoming this "death" is the ability to perform acts of "justice" like "tzedakah".

Tzedakah" is charity; charity of money, charity of words, charity of right things. Actually, tzedakah is much more than "Charity." Charity just means checks, cash or change, but "tzedakah" is so much more. "Tzedakah", as we saw above, literally means "righteousness." It means the right response for the situation. Look for the guy on the sidewalk begging for handouts and try to understand that he may not be mentally equipped for society right now, but until he gets some serious help, he needs to eat, just like you; don't judge him but rather love him and dump a few coins in his cup. The next time you see someone in need you might stop and think and give of your time and resources like taking time out of your busy day to get your battery cables out of the trunk of your car to give a someone's dead battery a jump. Use your connections and influence at work to get a man a job. Listen with a sympathetic ear to another's pain and cry for help. Help an old lady across the street. Give directions to a lost tourist, or direction to a lost soul. Do what is good by giving of our self, your life, your "Soul" to others and that form of "giving" can be defined as your time or your finances which are but by-products of your very life and Soul. Try loaning a friend a good sum money if she really needs it and don't make a point of asking for it back—they won't forget, believe me. Help a widow put her kids through school or feed the poor whom we have with us always. We don't need "bigger ministries", you are the ministry. We need to involve everyone and not send a few. The opportunities are endless and you partake in that grand scheme of the Creator called "salvation". Literally, God's "salvation" comes only through you and your love, sacrifice, and actions toward. If you don't go and if you don't give then God cannot reach them. Mourners can keep their loved ones' values and beliefs alive in the world by committing time and effort to a worthy cause. From volunteering in the soup kitchen where their deceased love one used to work, to welcoming out-of-towners visiting sick relatives in the hospital, to setting up a bereavement support group, helping others embodies the Jewish idea or principle of gemilut hasadim--acts of lovingkindness which is "tzedakah in action".

Jewish tradition singles out six particular acts as gemilut hasadim:

- providing clothes for the naked,
- visiting the sick,
- comforting mourners,
- accompanying the dead to the grave,
- providing for brides, and offering hospitality to strangers. (Sotah 14a, Eruvin 18a, Shabbat 127a-b).

These deeds considered especially holy because, according to rabbinic legend God performed them for human beings. In the Midrash, God attended Eve at her wedding to Adam, comforted Isaac as mourned for his father, and buried Moses. (Sotah 14a).

Answer for yourself: Does this not remind you of what you read in the New Testament?

Matt 25:32-40 32 And before him shall be gathered all nations: and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats: 33 And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left. 34 Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world: 35 For I was an hungred, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in: 36 Naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came unto me. 37 Then shall the righteous (Hebrew-tzedakah...remember?) answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, and fed thee? or thirsty, and gave thee drink? 38 When saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in? or naked, and clothed thee? 39 Or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee? 40 And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.
(KJV)

The Talmud has high praise for such efforts: "He who gives a coin to a poor man is rewarded with six blessings. But he who encourages him with friendly words is rewarded with 11" (Bava Batra 9a). That is why "tzedakah" delivers from death and the evil decree.

Prov 10:2 2 Treasures of wickedness profit nothing: but righteousness delivereth from death. (KJV)

Proverbs 10:2: "Tzedakah delivers from death."

We just saw this principle in Matthew 25 in the judgment of the "nations".

In the Talmud, Baba Batra 10a

It has been taught: R. Judah says: Great is tzedakah, in that it brings the redemption nearer, as it says, Thus says the Lord, Keep judgment and do righteousness [tzedakah], for my salvation is near to come and my righteousness to be revealed."

R. Judah also used to say: Ten strong things have been created in the world. Rock is hard, but iron splits it. Iron is hard, but fire softens it. Fire is hard, but water quenches it. Water is strong, but clouds bear it. Clouds are strong, but wind scatters them. Wind is strong, but a body can bear it. The body is strong, but fright crushes it. Fright is strong, but wine banishes it. Wine is strong, but sleep works it off. Death is stronger than all, and tzedakah saves from death, as it is written, Righteousness [tzedakah] delivers from death."

Jewish folk tradition took this Proverb 10:2 literally; according to ancient belief, the dead spent 11 or 12 months being judged or atoning for sins in preparation for entry into Paradise. While in this state of limbo, tzedakah given in the name of the deceased was thought to hasten the redemption of the soul.

Three of the six acts of gemilut hasadim are particularly resonant for mourners: visiting the sick, comforting mourners, and showing respect for the dead. Bereaved people who found consolation in Jewish tradition and within their communities sometimes wish to "return the favor" by getting involved in programs and committees directed toward other mourners, or even starting new programs for unmet needs.

I want the reader to understand the connection between tzedakah and the judgment of the Soul after death.

Answer for yourself: What do we remember about Dorcas as mentioned in the New Testament? It only mentions one thing; she was resurrected from the death and she gave "alms" which is tzedakah "which delivers from death" (THINK)!

Acts 9:36-40 36 Now there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Dorcas: this woman was full of good works and almsdeeds which she did. 37 And it came to pass in those days, that she was sick, and died: whom when they had washed, they laid her in an upper chamber. 38 And forasmuch as Lydda was nigh to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sent unto him two men, desiring him that he would not delay to come to them. 39 Then Peter arose and went with them. When he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber: and all the widows stood by him weeping, and shewing the coats and garments which Dorcas made, while she was with them. 40 But Peter put them all forth, and kneeled down, and prayed; and turning him to the body said, Tabitha, arise. And she opened her eyes: and when she saw Peter, she sat up. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Why was Cornelius, a "gentile" singled out in the New Testament for a deeper revelation of God in Acts 10? It only says that his prayers and alms came up to God.

Acts 10:1-2 1 There was a certain man in Caesarea called Cornelius, a centurion of the band called the Italian band, 2 A devout man, and one that feared God with all his house, which gave much alms to the people, and prayed to God alway. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: What did we see above that delivers from the "death" decree uttered by God yearly that many receive at the High Holidays of Judaism? We saw above that God has inscribed a judgment against all who have sinned, but teshuvah (repentance), tefilah (prayer) and tzedakah can reverse the decree.

Answer for yourself: Do you see a "Pattern" developing as to how to obtain more of an "earthly life" as well as an "Eternal Life" in these Hebrew Scriptures which are in places echoed in the New Testament?

Let us look at this Jewish Christ and see what we can learn about the role of tzedakah and obtaining Eternal Life.

“As Jesus started on his way, a man ran up to him and fell on his knees before him. ‘Good teacher,’ he asked, ‘what must I do to inherit eternal life?’” Mark 10:17

Answer for yourself: Did you understand the magnitude of the question asked: "What Must I Do To Inherit Eternal Life"?

To most people, there is no question of more concern than, “what happens after death?” Is there really eternal life? If so, how do we attain it? The Jewish Christ is recorded as teaching upon this issue and these questions in the tenth chapter of the book of Mark as seen above. As is recorded that the Jewish Christ was passing through town, a rich young man approached Him and asked this troubling question. “Good teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?” The young man was quite sincere in asking. Unlike some of the Pharisees, he was not trying to trap Jesus; he was honestly seeking an answer to the mystery of Eternal Life. The reason that the young man asks such a question is that Eternal Life is not a topic clearly addressed in the Scriptures. An afterlife is rarely mentioned, and when it is, it is cloaked in the vagueness of prophecy. The fact is, that after reading Scripture, the Sadducees concluded that there was no afterlife. The Torah and the Prophets are all but mute on the subject of life after death. Topics, such as, the resurrection of the dead and the world to come are only alluded to in the Tanakh. Indeed, even Messiah’s coming is unclear. So, we can assume that the rich young man was one who had thoroughly searched the Torah, the Prophets, and the Writings. That, he had listened to the teachings of the Pharisees and was still wondering about the after life.

“Why do you call me good?” Jesus answered. “No one is good—except God alone. You know the commandments: ‘Do not murder, do not commit adultery, do not steal, do not give false testimony, do not defraud, honor your father and mother.’” Mark 10:18-19

This Jesus is recorded responding to the young man’s question by challenging him, “Why do you call me Good? No one is Good—except God.”

Answer for yourself: What did He mean?

Jesus' answer, “Why do you call me Good? No one is Good—except God” can only be understood in light of the daily Jewish prayer called the Amidah. In this prayer, God is called “The Good One.” It is not used as an adjective. It is a title. He is “The Good” and His Name is “The Good.” While this blessing of the Amidah does not date back to Jesus', but 50 or so years after the time of the New Testament Jesus, it clearly shows Rabbinic thought of the day. The seventeenth benediction of the Amidah reads:

“the Good One, for Your compassions were never exhausted, the compassionate One for your kindnesses never ended... Everything alive will gratefully acknowledge You, And praise and bless Your great Name sincerely, forever, for your Name is The Good.”

We can also find this thought in the Talmud, Menachot 53a:

Let the good come and receive the good from the Good for the good...“And receive the good” — this refers to the Torah, as it is written, “For I have given you a good teaching.” ‘From the Good’ — this refers to the Holy One, blessed be He, as it is written, “The LORD is good to all...”

So we learn that in Rabbinic thought “The Good” is a title ascribed to God, and goodness is something derived solely from God. We also learn that the revelation of that “goodness” is found in the commands of the Torah. Jesus is telling the young man that there are no secrets to inheriting Eternal Life, but that it is a matter of doing what is right and good as outlined in the commands of the Torah (mitzvot, tzedakah). Jesus then goes on with a list of those commandments. It is of utmost importance that the readers take a second and note that Jesus neither lists all of the commandments nor does Jesus imply that one is more important than another, but Jesus ONLY mentions the commandments from the Second Tablet of the Law, commandments between "man to man" and in so doing he uses a few to represent the whole of the Torah concerning the treatment of his fellow man.

Answer for yourself: Is Jesus answering that Eternal Life and its obtainment is more connected to what "man does to his fellowman (deeds) rather than what how man responds to God (the First Tablet of the Law)? Yes he does. Is Jesus saying that Eternal Life is more connected to how man responds to the only God he can see, the one in his fellow man than the Invisible God whom He cannot see? He sure is.

Mark 10:20-23 20 And he answered and said unto him, Master, all these have I observed from my youth. 21 Then Jesus beholding him loved him, and said unto him, One thing thou lackest: go thy way, sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, take up the cross, and follow me. 22 And he was sad at that saying, and went away grieved: for he had great possessions. 23 And Jesus looked round about, and saith unto his disciples, How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God! (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Even though the lawyer believed that he had done adequately the requirements of God in His Torah notice if you will that Jesus mentions that something is "lacking" in this man's pursuit of Eternal Life?

The man was lacking "tzedakah" which "delivers from death".

Jesus sees that the young man has a genuine sincerity and, in Mark 10:21, we are told that He “loved him.” Jesus looked at him and loved him. “One thing you lack,” he said. “Go, sell everything you have and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven. Then come, follow me.”

In Matthew’s version of this encounter, the young man further asks, “What do I still lack?” Surely there must be something hidden, some more difficult thing that I must do to receive Eternal Life. There must be something more than just Torah! If we look again to Matthew’s account, Yeshua replies:

“If you want to be perfect, go, sell your possessions and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven. Then come, follow me.” Matthew 19:21

The key word here is perfect. Now, He is not saying that the way to Eternal Life is to sell everything and give it to the poor. Eternal life, Jesus has already stated, was partly making and partly keeping covenant and the commandments within it. In addressing the young man’s question, “What must I do?” Jesus adds “to be perfect” to it. Jesus tells the rich young man that, “if you want to be perfect” or, we could say, “if you are serious and want to live your life to the highest standard,” then “go, sell all your possessions and give them to the poor.”

Answer for yourself: As you have seen above on the teaching of "tzedakah" the Sages considered ‘giving charity’ one of the highest acts of righteousness. The word for righteousness in Hebrew you know know from this article is "tzedakah". Thus, the term tzedakah became equated with giving to the needy. In Rabbinic usage, the word tzedakah is generally understood as charity given to those in need. Every synagogue has a tzedakah box where one may give to the poor. In fact the Tithe requires that 2 years out of 6 ALL THE TITHE IS TO BE GIVEN TO THE POOR!

Answer for yourself: Does your church allocate 2/3 of its tithe collected 2 years out of 6 like the commandments of the Hebrew Scriptures mandate? Do you tithe to your church and allow your money and tithes to be "robbed" from God by the traditions of your denomination or the agenda for your church board or pastor? Are you unwittingly being made an "accessory to robbing God" by giving your tithe to places which misappropriate the use of the tithe in God's name? What about its connection to YOUR ETERNAL LIFE? Because of the way you tithe are you going to hear one day after you die "you lack on thing"?

Got you attention with that I bet. Let us go on in a spirit of "repentance" concerning your tithe and the good news is that repentance, like prayer and tzedakah "also delivers from the evil decree" of "death Eternally". Yet, while selling all you have and giving it to the poor would be extremely righteous this went against the Rabbinic teaching of that day. Even though the Rabbis always encouraged charity and generosity, they also warned against excessive charity, saying that one giving charity should be cautious that he should not become impoverished and in need of charity himself. We find this in the Talmud Kethuboth 50a:

"Rabbi Elai said, 'It was decreed that if a man wants (to give charity) he should not give more than a fifth of what he has.' Likewise it was also taught, 'If a man wants (to give charity), he should not give more than a fifth of what he has, otherwise he himself might come to be in need (of the help) of people.'"

Answer for yourself: So, if this is the advice of His fellow Rabbis, why would Jesus ask the young man to risk poverty? What we are seeing is Jesus calling His disciples to a higher standard of righteousness and trust in God? We see only that Jesus, this Jewish Christ, is calling his followers to listen and learn than they should not concern themselves with the wealth of this world, but should exchange it for the wealth of the coming age. A calling we find alluded to in the Talmud Baba Bathra 10a:

"R. Yosef b. R. Yehoshua said. He was sick and had an out-of-body experience [where the soul briefly leaves the body and then returns]. His father asked him, 'What did you see in your out-of-body state?' He replied, 'I saw a topsy-turvy world; those that are on top in this world [respected for their wealth and power] are at the bottom in the World to Come; and those that are on the bottom in this world [the poor and downtrodden], are on top.' His father told him, 'You did not see an upside-down world but an unconfused, sensible world.'"

The Kingdom of Heaven is topsy-turvy. If you want riches in the world to come, then give your wealth to the poor in this life. The young man was standing before the God's Jewish Christ, His oracle of the moment. Jesus ends the discussion by inviting the rich young man to discipleship. "Come, follow me," is the invitation to become a disciple. But, the cost of discipleship, for the young man, was too high...and, "he went away sad." It is no less high for us. This Jewish Christ is still asking us to follow Him. He is still calling us to a higher standard of righteousness.

Answer for yourself: Will you heed what you learned in this article or will we go away sad? If you do then you might not be as popular with your pastor or not have lunches with him if you divert your tithe knowing these truths but your popularity with God goes sky-high!

JESUS AND HIS TEACHINGS ON THE GENTILE'S SALVATION

The Noahide Commandments are the Commandments given by the Torah to the Gentiles (first given to Adam and later given to Noah), which according to rabbinic tradition and the First Church Council in Acts 15:17-19 and Acts 15:28-29 (which was headed up by James, the Lord's brother and head of the Jerusalem church) were given by God to Gentiles like Adam and Noah, that if obeyed, will be rewarded with eternal life! According to rabbinic teaching & Acts 15 (which Yeshua believed and would have agreed with himself), those Gentiles who observe these precepts are assured their share in the World to Come, regardless of what fanciful interpretations were later to be invented by both the Catholic & Protestant churches and most probably heard in your modern churches. Jesus was and is a Jew. He never ascribed to Baptist, Methodist, Catholic, Assembly of God, Church of Christ, or Mormon church doctrine. He believed and taught the truth as received from his Father in Heaven.

The Christian must come to an understanding that the religion of Jesus (Judaism) has always recognized two different religious codes:

1. the 613 Laws and precepts given to the Jews following their liberation from Egypt, and
2. the earlier Noahide system of legislation for all mankind.

DID JESUS INTEND TO REPLACE OR ABOLISH JUDAISM AND START A NEW RELIGION?

The eighteenth century Talmudist Rabbi Jacob Emden wrote a letter that has been discovered which states:

"Jesus never intended to abolish Judaism, but only to establish a new religion for the Gentiles based upon the ancient Noahide Commandments transmitted by Moses on Mount Sinai."

Let me say that Emden more correctly should have said "RE-ESTABLISH" for the Gentiles the religious foundations that had previously been given by God to the Gentiles since the Garden of Eden and Sinai. Emden stressed in his letter that Jesus brought about a "double blessing" to the world, by strengthening the Torah of Moses and at the same time removing idolatry from the midst of the Gentiles. Unfortunately, Emden's thesis in the letter never gained a substantial following by fellow Jews. The most obvious reason would seem to be the frequent harsh statements made by Jesus against the rabbis and Jews of his time (Matt. 23). This chapter in Matt. 23 has seldom been correctly interpreted by the Christian Church because the church, for the most part, lacks the facts & information concerning the historical, religious, and political background surrounding Yeshua's statements which are necessary to correctly understand such a chastisement of a particular "sect" within the Pharisees, and not the Pharisees as a whole! Jesus was not condemning the Pharisee movement, for he was proud to be one, especially a Pharisee belonging to ## the School of Hillel. Jesus was not replacing Judaism with Christianity!

Emden helps us understand the original intentions of Jesus and Paul as he analyzes the beginnings of Christianity. According to the Jewish rabbi, Jesus and his Apostles, which were later sent by Jesus to the Gentiles acted entirely within the Halakhah (correct and accepted Jewish law) in re-creating and re-establishing the religion God had previously given to the Gentiles which was based on the Noahide Commandments (the basic seven Noahide Laws consist of prohibitions against idolatry, blasphemy, killing, stealing, sexual sins, eating the limb of a living animal (cruelty to animals), and the imperative to establish courts of justice). According to the Jewish Talmud and Tosefta, those Gentiles who observe these statutes are considered to be of the Hasidim (pious ones) of the Nations and merit a share in the World to Come. Even within the Alenu prayer which is prayed by Jews and "God-Fearers" every Sabbath, it states "May all inhabitants of the earth recognize and know....". This means the Gentiles. This prayer for Gentiles is another proof that the will of God is for Gentiles not to perish but have everlasting life. In the Mishnah (the Oral Law), in Pirke Avot 4.1 it states: "Every assembly that is for the sake of Heaven will in the end be established." Christian assemblies are for the sake of Heaven, yet I must sadly inform you that they have accepted "IN PART" the Noahide Commandments, but not totally! God had given them all to the Gentiles!

THE "FIRST" GREAT COMMISSION...NO...IT IS NOT WHAT YOU THINK

Jesus and Paul were acquainted with the Essene authors and their Scrolls. Many passages in the New Testament bear striking similarity to the Scrolls (see my previous newsletter about Jesus and the Secret of the Dead Sea Scrolls). A comprehensive overview of the writings and materials available to us today reveal the Essenes to have been extremely pious Jews who scrupulously followed the Torah (the instruction and teaching of God, more commonly called the "Law"), whereas Jesus and Paul are by many portrayed incorrectly as having forsaken their Jewish origins and replaced the Torah with a new religion-Christianity. This never happened; at least not by Jesus! At least this is the general picture one is presented with; and one will not be able to see through it without diligent study. But this premise goes against Emden's letter. A Christian should know that the Talmud records for us that Moses commanded the Jews to spread the knowledge of the Noahide commandments to all mankind!! Did you hear that? God commanded Moses to spread the knowledge of the Covenant with Noah and its requirements to all Gentiles in the world. Judaism acknowledges this "Gentile Covenant for Salvation" as from God since the time of Mount at Sinai. The questions we have to ask ourselves is this:

- Does history record for us such an ambitious attempt to bring the Noahide Laws to Gentiles, and if so, who was behind it and when did it occur?"
- Were the pious Essenes the ones who attempted such a mission to the Gentiles in the generation preceding Yeshua's birth?
- Did Jesus and Paul, through their ministries, follow in the Essene's footsteps and try to bring to fruition what the Essenes began in the generation before their birth?
- Where do the Gentiles correctly fit into the teachings of Jesus and Paul?

As Christians, we must constantly search for the correct interpretations of such an event if we are to correctly understand the Bible and its message to the Gentile and his salvation.

WE NEED TO STUDY THE HISTORY OF THE CHURCH

A passage in the Jerusalem Talmud records for us:

"Menahem the Essene and 160 Essene disciples left the Jewish community"

(remember not all Essenes lived in & around the Dead Sea) "about 20 B.C. on a mission to the Gentiles to take the "world" the Noahide Covenant, thus assuring obedient and observant Gentiles a place in the World to Come."

This Menahem served as a vice-president of the Sanhedrin under the sage Hillel who was the Nassi (President of the Sanhedrin) some thirty years before Yeshua's birth. The Mishnah makes quite clear that Menahem subjected himself totally to Hillel's authority (who loved the Gentiles), thus establishing a link between the Essenes and Hillel (who was a conservative Pharisee). Also of importance is the link between the two camps (Essenes & Pharisees) in that they were both known as "Hasidim." Menahem the Essene left Hillel's Sanhedrin for his mission to the world and was then replaced by the sage Shammai (who did not like the Gentiles). Shammai succeeded him as vice-president, probably about 20 B.C., and the influences of Hillel began to be replaced with those of Shammai.

STILL MORE QUESTIONS THAT NEED ANSWERS

- Was Menahem forced out by Shammai and his followers?
- Did Hillel's disciples join Menahem in his mission to the Gentiles?
- Did later rabbis approve of Menahem's mission to the Gentiles?
- Did Shammai lend his support to the Gentile mission or did he discourage the Jews from being a light to Gentiles?
- In the time of Jesus did the teachings of Hillel or Shammai have influence over the people of Israel and direct the course of the nation?
- Which of these two Pharisee schools supported Jesus and which did Jesus rebuke in Matt. 23?
- Was Jesus against all the Pharisees?

THE STORMY RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN HILLEL AND SHAMMAI

The first disputes regarding the Oral law (that was passed down for some 1700 years from Moses at Sinai) took place at this time between the sages and students of Hillel and Shammai (beginning about 20 years prior to Yeshua's birth). Their respective schools (Bet Hillel and Bet Shammai) were to clash over 350 times on issues of the Oral Law during the next hundred years. Nor were these always minor disputes for even once the Zealots connected with Shammai massacred and killed many of the Pharisees. The issues between Bet Hillel and Bet Shammai went to the very core of what Judaism stood for (and what Jesus stood for). One of the major areas of contention was Judaism's attitude toward salvation of the Gentiles.

Answer for yourself: What side would Jesus agree with?

The Schools of Shammai and Hillel both accepted all of the commandments contained in the five "written" books of the Torah (Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, and Deuteronomy). But the written law of Moses is too brief to be applied to practical issues of everyday life, and it was accepted that God also gave an oral and more detailed tradition was originally given to Adam, then to Noah, and finally handed down to Moses at Sinai. The debates of Bet Hillel and Bet Shammai centered on this oral tradition.

This oral tradition was passed down by Moses and it was forbidden to be set to writing. It was this Oral Law that later caused controversy among the rabbis; especially Bet Shammai and Bet Hillel. Finally, out of fear it would be forgotten due to all the persecution of Judaism and the deaths of its leaders at the hands of Gentiles, the sages permitted it to be committed to writing. The first major works were the Mishnah (200 A.D.) and the Tosefta (4th century), followed by two Talmuds; the Babylonian Talmud and the Jerusalem Talmud (5th century). The Babylonian version is more popular than the Jerusalem Talmud. Also at this time, books of homilies known as Midrash began to appear. The two major commentaries to the Babylonian Talmud are those of Rashi and the Tosefta. Why did I mention these works? The Mishnah, Talmud and Tosefta are the works of primary interest and authority when researching the Jewish law and tradition that surrounded Jesus and his teachings in the first century.

GOD CHOSE HILLEL'S INTERPRETATION FOR ALL TIME....A VOICE FROM HEAVEN

The School of Shammai came upon the Jewish scene 20 years before Yeshua's birth, and flourished for around 100 years. After the destruction of the Temple in 70 A.D., the seat of the Sanhedrin was relocated to Yavneh, where the Halachah (accepted interpretation of Jewish Law) of the School of Bet Hillel became once again the established Halachah (accepted interpretation for all issues of Jewish law). Also at this time it is recorded by the Rabbis that God, in a "bat kohl" spoke from Heaven and a Heavenly Voice was heard declaring the Law was to be from that time forward decided in favor of the interpretations of the School of Bet Hillel. Since that time all Jewry has accepted the teachings of Bet Hillel.

HOW COULD JESUS REPLACE WHAT GOD APPROVED?

Now listen closely. Jesus' debates with the Pharisees recorded in the New Testament were actually disputes with the Pharisees representing the School of Shammai and NOT the School of Hillel. Jesus adopts the views of Hillel on "all" matters of halachah (interpretation) except on the matter of divorce, where he sides with the School of Shammai (strict interpretation). At the time of Jesus the interpretations and teachings Bet Shammai were influencing Jewish life and institutions more than Hillel's, and it was this way for almost 100 years. Through Shammai's teachings Israel was "loosing her way." Hillel had died when Jesus was 13-14 years old, and Hillel's influence in Israel was rapidly being replaced with the contemporary teachings of Shammai. Jesus (who accepted and agreed with Hillel) and Shammai (and Shammai's many students) were to clash continually! The Shammai Pharisees (and not the Hillel Pharisees) were responsible for handing over Jesus to the Chief Priest, and Sadducees and Romans for crucifixion, and this was a violation of Jewish Law. Couple this with the relationship the Shammaites had with the Sadducean Zealots in the priesthood, little wonder that the Chief Priests (Sadducees) capture Jesus and hand him over to the Romans to be crucified. Notice that the Hillel Pharisees (whom the majority of the people supported and followed) had nothing to do with Yeshua's crucifixion (it was they who warned Jesus to flee for his life in Luke 13:31). When you read Matt. 23 you cannot help but see Jesus chastising the Pharisees; but what we fail to notice is that there were many sects within Phariseism and Jesus says "Pharisees who"....indicating that many were not to be included in his rebuke of the insincere Pharisees. Jesus took odds with the Shammaite Pharisees, not the Hillel Pharisees!

The Christian Church's failure to understand this has led them to erroneously believe that Jesus was rejecting his own religion rather than calling for repentance within it!

WE MUST UNDERSTANDING THE TIMES OF THE BIBLE IF WE ARE EVER TO GLEAN TRUTH

The Jewish people knew from ancient prophecy that their Temple in Jerusalem would be destroyed by the Gentiles (Dan. 9). Bet Hillel believed that reaching out to the Gentiles (since historically Israel had failed to be "a light unto the Gentiles" and had thereby violated the Second Tablet of the Law which carries the more severe punishment for its violation) was the correct approach to possibly avoiding the coming destruction. Hillel and his students maintained that righteous Gentiles merit salvation just as Jews do (Hillel, like Jesus, accepted the teachings connected with the Laws of Noah), and it was their hope that a mission to the Gentiles could avert the destruction of their land and win God's approval, thus influencing God to repent of the destruction prophesied. Bet Shammai however looked down upon the Gentile world, holding that NOT even the most righteous Gentile could merit a share in the World to Come. Shammai believed the Gentiles deserved "hell" and no attempts should be made to alter their destiny. The Jewish people and their teachers have since declared Bet Shammai's views to be null and void, as did the Heavenly Voice toward the close of the first century (just the way God spoke at Yeshua's immersion). Shammai and the Bet Shammai were indeed the Pharisees and priests that Jesus of Nazareth and Paul of Tarsus had to contend with within the pages of our Bibles, and not the Hillel Pharisees. Paul the Apostle's insistence that Gentiles be admitted into the early Messianic Jewish Church was based on Bet Hillel's position that righteous Gentiles merit salvation. Let us not forget that it is recorded that Paul had studied under Rabban Gamaliel the Elder, a grandson of Hillel where he received such instruction! Now you can better understand that the anti-Jewish passages contained in the New Testament were directed against the Shammaites, and not the Judaism which followed Bet Hillel, or even today which follows the instruction and interpretations of Hillel.

UNDERSTANDING JESUS AND PAUL

Jesus and his disciples, especially Paul, warned all men everywhere not to "destroy" the Torah of Israel. A Jew is not permitted to leave his Torah, for Paul wrote in his letter to the Galatians Chapter 5 (remember Galatians was written to Gentiles) "I, Paul, say to you that if you (writing to Gentiles) receive circumcision (along with immersion that makes you a Jew), the Messiah will do you no good at all" [the opportunity to become part of the Israel of God without circumcision will be available to you since it will be through Yeshua's ministry that the Laws of Noah, which did not require circumcision, were to be taken to the non-Jewish world. I will deal with the meaning of that last phrase in more detail in a future newsletter. But for now, Paul goes on to say "You can take it from me that every man (Gentile) who receives circumcision [conversion] (whether a Jew by birth or a converted Gentile) is under obligation to keep the "entire" Torah" (613) [this is simply because when a non-Jew underwent circumcision he was making "full conversion" whereby he would be obligated for the whole 613 Commandments anyway]. Paul is teaching us that a Gentile (like you and me) who is immersed in repentance and who is circumcised [makes conversion] is obligated to keep the entire Torah!

Answer for yourself: Did you hear that?

Answer for yourself: What about Paul and his teaching that the Law is passed away? It must now be obvious that Paul never intended for that to be your understanding; he never said that! Our problem is that we misinterpret the teachings of Paul not having a proper background necessary to understand correctly what he is saying. Let us begin with what happens when we are "Born-Again".

WHAT DID "BEING BORN AGAIN" MEAN TO JESUS? THEN SHOULD I NOT AGREE WITH HIM? JOHN 3 AS YOU HAVE NEVER SEEN OR UNDERSTOOD IT BEFORE

Before going on we must address a very important question: What happens when I am Born-Again? In answering this we must deal with a very important issue that is often overlooked. When a Gentile turns from idols, repents, and accepts the faith of the One God of the Universe, he identifies with God. As Gentiles we identify with God through the one he sent to reveal Himself ; namely Jesus and his ministry which brought the non-Jews of the world the knowledge of God, Torah, and Israel. Sadly, however, by the time Jesus came knocking on your door he had been completely altered whereby he no longer was a Torah observant Jew, but rather came dressed like Zeus and Constantine. As Christians you were taught that you were buried into the likeness of Yeshua's death, and raised in newness of life through identification with God through the mikvah bath (water immersion). Christians call it baptism. A more correct understanding is that the non-Jewish believer in God (in the act of repentance and faith) literally stands at his own Sinai, is immersed and repents of sin and begins a new life with God as did his Gentile forefathers (the Egyptians are a type and shadow of Ephraim, the other house of Israel) and says, like the Jews of old did, "All that the Lord has spoken we will do" (Ex. 19:8). Notice that the Bible say "all" the people said it at Sinai (this included the mixed-multitude of Gentiles and Jews together)! Included in that group were a mixed multitude of Gentiles along with Jews/Semites that teaches us a very important lesson for our lives. At Sinai both Gentiles and Jews/Semites confessed adherence to the Covenant offered by God. God had previously instructed that they "wash their clothes", which is an idiom for immersion in water of their bodies (this was their Born-Again experience with the God of Israel). This might be startling to you but the concept in the Gospel of John, chapter three, concerning being "Born-Again" is not the invention of Jesus. Being "Born-Again" is a Jewish concept that has existed since the Garden of Eden with Adam. Now hear this, this immersion and repentance from sin is to be repeated throughout one's life. Examples in Scripture that the Children of Israel were "Born-Again" repeatedly (immersed and attained a new-heightened status before they met with God) are before each Sabbath, each Feast and Festival, following repentance of sin, and for a lady, after her menses on a monthly basis before she could return to her husband's bed. Jesus was immersed repeatedly in his life, yet the only one recorded for us is the one immersion the day before he observed the Yom Kippur Festival (Day of Atonement). Being "Born-Again" is not a concept originated by the Gentile church. It is a Jewish concept!

Amazing! As the repentant person entered into the immersion bath (this "watery womb" and "watery tomb") he would then emerge as if "Born-Again" from a watery grave and a watery womb (with a renewed status before God). He is then considered a new creation (2 Cor. 5:17)! If you were Jewish you would have been instructed correctly concerning the mechanics of Biblical Immersion (being Born-Again) since you were a child, and would not have to be like many Christian Gentiles who have not had the truth concerning such an important doctrine, not to mention is resultant responsibilities of obedience to Torah. It is startling that such a Jewish concept is considered the backbone of the Christian faith and the Christian fails to have the correct understanding regarding immersion and being Born-Again as Jesus understood it. As believers we should have understood it correctly from the beginning, which we have not. A Gentile entered into the watery tomb and watery womb and emerged, no longer considered a Gentile, the old things have passed away (his condition of being a Gentile), behold God made all things new (he now is a part of Israel)! He was now considered a citizen of the Israel of God! Upon emerging from the watery tomb in which he was "Born-Again" he had the status of a Jew. He became Israel! He was considered as if he had always been Israel, for he had no past and it was forbidden to bring up his past for it was as if he had always been Israel.

ARE YOU TRULY GRAFTED INTO ISRAEL OR NOT?

The Gentile, after turning from idols and repentance (as a sign of his faith in the One God of Israel), and after following immersion in the Mikvah (baptism), was grafted into Israel as Paul would later tell us. The repentant Gentile believer chose God and His Torah. He chose to become "chosen". Since he is Israel, then these commandments given to "Israel" now apply to the Gentile Christian who considers himself a follower of Jesus, his teachings, and His God. Is that your understanding? It was Yeshua's understanding and still is his today. The tragedy of the matter is that the Contemporary Christian Church has not studied to know who they are. They are included in the House of Ephraim; they are Israel. The Commandments of God as seen in the Torah are for them, not just the Jew born in the land!

LET US BE SURE WE UNDERSTAND EACH OTHER

A "Gentile" is a term signifying a non-Jew, who is NOT a "son of the covenant" and is only subject to the seven Noachide Laws. Once a Gentile came to the understanding of the one true God, he would turn from idols and worship the God of Israel. These were the "God fearers", who accepted certain basic Jewish obligations along with the Noachide precepts. According to this, idolatry, shedding of blood, and grave sexual sins were forbidden to Gentile believers. These were originally the Noachide precepts accepted also by the Synagogue on which the Gentiles were obliged. Let me remind you that we see in Acts 15 (at least 25 years after the death of Jesus) the admonition for the Gentiles to adhere to Noachide Laws to be accepted in the believing community of Israel (it was James as leader of the Jerusalem church who referred back to the Noahide Laws in addressing the question of Gentile salvation). It is logical that the Apostolic Church of Jerusalem should accept the view of the Synagogue on the conditions which Gentiles needed to fulfill in order to be "saved" and accepted in the "family of Israel". It can be easily shown that the fulfillment of other commandments of Judaism were not prohibited to Gentiles. On the contrary, the Noachide precepts were only seen as the minimal condition for Gentiles to be recognized as "God-fearers". These were so understood by the uncircumcised "God-fearers" themselves, who were attracted to the Jewish way of life and accepted many Jewish commandments without becoming full proselytes (Sabbath, festivals, Tallith, etc). This was also the attitude of Gentile Christian "God-fearers", as may be seen from the Epistle to the Galatians; many of them wished to observe as many Jewish precepts as they could. It is evident that, while the leadership of the mother Church in Jerusalem decided to lay no burden upon the Gentile believers beyond the Noachide precepts, it did not object to their voluntarily observing more (Col. 2:16-17). Among the figures of the early Church who instructed Gentile Christians to observe more precepts than these essential "Noahide" ones was Peter, as we know from Paul's criticism of him for demanding that Gentiles live like Jews (Gal. 2:14). Rather than interpreting the apostolic decree of Gentiles adhering to the Laws of Noah as a minimum, Paul saw in the Noachide precepts the maximum obligations of Gentile Christians. Rather than Peter being incorrect, a more comprehensive understanding of the Bible reveals Paul to be incorrect.

GET IT CORRECT PAUL ...OR DON'T TEACH IT AT ALL

The more you study the more you see that all this "Pauline" literature in the New Testament was not written by him but since we grow up with the "tradition" that Paul wrote these epistles and established the doctrines contained within them then for simplicity sake in this website I will "assume" that Paul is the writer. Only later on another website will I show the reader the truth about the Gnostic Paul. So now we look at the Romanized Paul and the antisemitic doctrines attributed to him which were "penned" in his name long after his death by an antisemitic Rome.

Paul remarks in a letter to the Corinthians (1 Cor. 7) that the circumcised (Jews or converted Gentiles) should not remove the marks of circumcision, nor should the uncircumcised (Gentiles become Jews) circumcise themselves. Wait a minute. Paul contradicts himself (like a lot of preachers today). In Galatians 5 he says "if you Gentiles get circumcised" and then he says "don't do it", can't he make up his mind?

Answer for yourself: In Acts 16 Paul circumcised his disciple Timothy. Timothy was not a Jew was he?

Answer for yourself: If he was a Gentile why bother, right?

This contradiction of Paul is very puzzling.

Answer for yourself: Sadly many have incorrectly interpreted Paul as teaching that circumcision was abandoned with the coming of Jesus, but was it? Acts 16 is over 20 years after the time of this Jesus and Paul is still "circumcising".

Answer for yourself: We have failed to understand properly, so what is the clear truth of the matter?

Jesus and his Apostles did not wish to destroy the Torah (Law) from Israel, God forbid; for it is written so in Matthew 5:17, Jesus having said, "Do not suppose that I have come to abolish the Torah. I did not come to abolish, but to fulfill. I tell you this: So long as heaven and earth endure (do they yet exist today?), not a letter, not a stroke, will disappear from the Torah (the Law) until it is achieved. If any man therefore sets aside even the least of the Torah's demands, and teaches others to do the same (the majority of Pastors who preach the contemporary Christian message), he will have the lowest place in the Kingdom of Heaven, whereas anyone who keeps the Torah, and teaches others so, will stand high in the Kingdom of Heaven."

Bet Emet Ministries teaches Gentile and Jewish commitment and observance to the Torah, not because we desire to be "high" in the Kingdom of God, but because we love God and His Word, and would never think of destroying it by misinterpreting it or failing to study to arrive at the correct meaning of these truths for the people of God today.

It is therefore exceedingly clear that Jesus never dreamed of destroying the Torah as have the majority of churches today that carry his name but substitute "another Gospel" for the true Gospel of Christ.

WHAT TO DO WITH TIMOTHY?

Paul does not contradict himself because of his circumcision of Timothy, for the latter was the son of a Jewish mother, and a Gentile father (Acts 16), and Paul knew that the child of a Jewish mother is considered a "full Jew", even if the father should be a Gentile. Paul thus acted entirely in accordance with the Halakhah (interpretation of Jewish Law) by circumcising Timothy. This would be in line with his position, following the Jerusalem Council of Acts 15 in 50 A.D., that no longer will Gentile believers be required to "become fully converted Jews" to be accepted into Israel; that the Gentile believers could now remain as "God-Fearers" and be accepted fully by the Jews (1 Cor 7, Acts 15). Gentiles no longer had to "convert" to Judaism and become "fully Jewish" for inclusion with equal standing within the Israel of God. The Gentiles as "God-Fearers" were to also be accepted as grafted into Israel (as demonstrated by Cornelius in Acts 10 who was a "God-Fearer" and who had not yet been circumcised). It is important to note that as a "God-Fearer", Cornelius yet observed the Noahide Laws, honored the Sabbath, and ate kosher (proper killing, dressing and preparation of animals intended for food as well as the removal of all blood). The baptism of Cornelius into the Holy Spirit as had been the Jews earlier in Acts 2 during the Festival of Pentecost was the evidence needed to convince the Jerusalem church that the middle-wall of partition was being removed between Jews and "unclean Gentiles". From this we learn that obedience to the Noahide Laws, without circumcision (to remain only as a "God-Fearer" and not fully convert to Judaism), was no longer to be a barrier between the "unclean Gentiles" and the Jews.

For example, table fellowship at the Shabbat (Sabbath observance) and the Festivals could now be shared together! This was understood from Peter's vision in Acts 10 concerning "unclean foods" which the Lord cleansed (symbolic of cleansing of men, and not the animals designated as unclean in Leviticus). Shammai's "Eighteen Measures" (one of which commanded Jews not to eat or enter into the homes of Gentiles-remember Shammai hated Gentiles) was overturned by God with the revelation at Cornelius' home. God corrects Shammai and those that followed his teaching. Peter's vision of the unclean foods represented the "unclean Gentiles" which God had cleansed; the vision was not meant to tell Peter that God had cleansed the "unclean foods". Let us not confuse this issue.

HOW DOES GOD VIEW YOU TODAY KNOWING THIS?

Timothy had to be circumcised since he was Jewish (because his mother was Jewish) and, therefore, was required to observe all the commandments of the Torah (613). Gentiles who observe the Noahide Laws are forbidden to observe "ALL" the Torah like a Jew is required, unless they desire to be circumcised and identify totally with the Jew and his Torah (full-conversion); if so then they are no longer "God-Fearers" but have become full-fledged Jews and undertake all the 613 Commandments. Following Immersion into Israel the Gentile is no longer considered a "Gentile", he is now Jewish (either partly or completely depending upon circumcision). All who become circumcised (converted) following immersion are bound by all the commandments (613). Understanding the immersion process is crucial for the Christian; once you are immersed in faith and repentance, and you identify with Israel, you emerged from that watery womb and tomb as a Born-Again "God-Fearer" who is grafted into Israel. You became "Israel" and are a Spiritual Jew (regardless if you were aware of it or not). You are not considered a "partial-Jew" unless you are uncircumcised. If you are circumcised you are then considered a "Full-Jew"!

Answer for yourself: Did you hear that?

The majority of you set in your churches thinking you are "Christians" and God's Word says you are "Jewish" (children of Abraham) and are the Israel of God. You have not replaced Israel, you became a part of Israel. You are obligated to observe the Torah (that part of the Law that refers to you according to your Covenant stipulations) and, because of your lack of study, you have let your unlearned pastors and teachers tell you repeatedly that you are "under grace" and "not under Law." You are under both! I just showed you that a proper understanding of immersion and the teachings of Jesus & Paul tell you otherwise. Now, let me ask you as a Christian an important question.

Answer for yourself: Who are you going to believe; your pastor or Jesus and Paul?

Answer for yourself: With such an obligation to the "Christian" who now becomes aware that he is either "part-Jewish" or "fully-Jewish" (Judaism is not a race but a religion; the religion of Jesus) what are you to do concerning the Commandments which are addressed to you requiring your obedience to the Shabbat (Sabbath), Pesach (Festival of the Passover), Hag HaMatzah (Festival of Unleavened Bread), HaBikkurim (First Fruits), Shavuot (Festival of Pentecost), Rosh HaShannah (Jewish New Year), Yom Teruah (Festival of Trumpets), Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement), and Sukkot (Festival of Tabernacles)?

Surely you should want to begin to observe and keep them according to Scripture. Failure to do so is sin!

IS IT BEGINNING TO MAKE SENSE?

Christian scholars have assumed from certain passages in the Gospels that Jesus wished to give a new Torah to take the place of the Torah of Moses. He could not do such a thing unless he sinned.

Answer for yourself: How could Jesus have then said explicitly that he came only to fulfill it?

The truth of the matter is that Jesus never came to abolish Judaism, but only to re-establish the religion for the Jews and the Lost Sheep of Israel (assimilated Gentiles from the captivity of Northern Israel). In the unique situation we find in the first century this referred from that time onward the faith that God had given them from the beginning-Noahidism! Nor was this religion new, but actually ancient; it being the observance of the Seven Commandments of Noah, which were forgotten purposefully by Shammai and his students in their bigotry toward the non-Jews. Such men and ideas were influencing the people of Israel in Yeshua's day; thus Jesus came not for those who are well but those who need a physician and who are sick; sick with hatred for the Gentiles whom God loved and to whom He had called Israel to be a light unto to show them the Torah (the Noahide Laws). God had intended for the Gentiles to be redeemed all along. Jesus came for the "lost sheep of the house of Israel"; who had lost their way and purpose for the truths that they had been entrusted with. These truths were not only for them, but the Gentiles as well. It is important to understand that as there were "people who were lost" in Israel, there were others like the Essene Menahem and the Hillel Pharisees who had not "lost their way" and needed little if any correction by

Jesus!

WHAT REALLY HAPPENED WITH THE GREAT COMMISSION?

Yeshua's Apostles, in fulfillment of the Great Commission of their master, established these Seven Commandments anew (Acts 15, Acts 21). However, those born as Jews (with Jewish mothers), or those Gentiles where were immersed and circumcised as "full-converts" to Judaism (Ex. 12:49; one law shall be to him that is home-born, and unto the stranger) are obligated to observe all 613 of the commandments of the Torah without exception.

Answer for yourself: Are you a circumcised Gentile Christian who has been immersed in Yeshua's name and "Born-Again" into Israel? Then that means you!

For the uncircumcised Gentile God reserved the Seven Commandments which they have always been obligated to be adhered to and fulfilled by non-Jewish believers. It is for that reason that they were forbidden pollution of idols, fornication, blood, and things strangled (Acts 15). Yeshua's Apostles also forbade them circumcision (to do so would mean full conversion) and the Sabbath observance (exactly like the Jews observed it). The mandatory observance by "God-Fearers" was similar, but not exactly alike the Jewish observance.

This may sound so different from what your traditional Christian message has been, but your Christian message is incorrect if it does not agree or line up with the Apostle's Doctrine. All of what I have shared with you is in accord with the law and custom of the Torah, as expounded by the Jewish sages, the true transmitters from Moses at Sinai, and understood by Jesus of Nazareth in the first century (they sit in Moses' seat...listen to what they say). Our understanding today is incorrect if it violates the truths as Jesus understood them. We do not know more about salvation than Jesus. It was to the Hillel Pharisees Jesus referred to in Matt. 23 who set in Moses' seat and to whom we are to listen for correct doctrine. We are not to follow the examples of any leaders if they do not line up with the Apostle's Doctrine of Acts 2:42. This teaching on immersion and conversion is Apostolic Doctrine as Jesus taught his disciples, and any other interpretation other than his is NOT correct. We are not to follow any Pharisee's examples unless they live what they preach (that means the Pharisee Preachers of today who fail to teach and live the truth of Apostolic Doctrine)! Jesus tells us not to follow them unless they agree with him! Good advice. This same admonition is given in Deut. 17:8 ff., where the authority to teach and lead the people were given to the religious leaders God put over the people of "Israel". These occupy Moses' seat.

IT IS TIME TO GET SERIOUS ABOUT WHAT WE LEARNED

Answer for yourself: Do the Baptists, Methodist, Catholics, Assemblies of God, or any other denomination or non-denomination occupy Moses' seat? No. The Catholic and Protestant denominations are far from being Jewish. Salvation is of the Jews according to Jesus.

Answer for yourself: Do you dare tell him he made a mistake?

It was these Sages and Pharisees who said that it is forbidden to circumcise a Gentile who does not accept upon himself the yoke of "ALL" the Commandments. In America male babies are circumcised apart from the truths of God's Word (we are commanded to circumcise on the 8th day and no within the first 2-3 days of a newborn's life) and thus their circumcision would not apply. That means circumcision that does violate Scripture does not automatically make you a "full-fledged" Jew. You are still a "God-Fearer". Identification with Israel is by faith and free will. You must choose to stand at your personal Sinai and say to God "I will do all that you say".

Answer for yourself: Do you want to obey God? Do you want to honor His Name with your life?

Going to churches that teach error does not accomplish anything. It is bondage just like Egypt!

Answer for yourself: Have you ever been to Sinai? Will you ever go? Have you chosen to return to your Egypt of ignorance and false traditions and false religion that amount to idolatry?

The Sages likewise said that the Gentile is commanded NOT to "fully" observe the Sabbath as does the Jew (yet he is to remember and keep it). Acts 20:6 recounts for us the Gentile believers and how they were taught by Paul to remember and keep the Sabbath. It is here we find the Gentile Church keeping Jewish ordinances well over thirty years after Yeshua's death.

Answer for yourself: What would later change this pattern?

As far as the Gentiles ("God-Fearers") were concerned, they were not commanded to observe all the Torah (the 613 mitzvot). The Gentile "God-Fearers" did not have to accept all the 613 mitzvot and are not enjoined to observe all of the 613 commandments. However, it is completely different as far as Jews are concerned, for they became obligated to fulfill the Torah because God delivered them from the bondage of Egypt to be the people of His possession. Therefore they and their children became subject to it forever and so are those Gentiles who make full-conversions to Judaism.

LET US PUT IT ALL TOGETHER NOW

It should be easy to see that Jesus and his Apostles never meant to abolish the Torah of Moses from one who is born a Jew. Likewise, did Paul write in his letter to the Corinthians (1 Cor 7) that each should adhere to the faith in which each was called. They therefore acted in accordance with the Torah by forbidding circumcision to Gentiles, according to Halakhah, as it is forbidden to one who does not accept the yoke of the commandments (all 613). They knew that it would be too difficult for the Gentiles to observe the Torah of Moses. Let us not forget that the Gentiles never had the Revelation of the Torah at Sinai, the Ark of the Covenant, the Tabernacle, the Two Tablets, the prophets, or the Temple & Tabernacle services as were given to Israel. The Gentile's only experience was that they were strangers from the Covenant promises of Israel, aliens for the commonwealth of God's people, without hope and without God in the world.

The rabbis thus took the Gentiles the revelation of God and instructed them not to be circumcised unless they wished to be fully converted to Judaism (this had no bearing upon immersion since it was required for "partial" as well as "full" conversion). It would suffice that the Gentiles observe the Seven Noahide Commandments, as commanded upon them through the Halakhah from Moses at Sinai. This was the minimum requirements for inclusion into Israel.

Rabbi Emden was correct; Jesus brought a double kindness into the world. On the one hand, he strengthened the Torah of Moses majestically. Acts 24:20 states that many thousands of Jews were believers in Jesus as Messiah in the first century and zealous for the Torah (Law); this was over 30 years after Yeshua's death and resurrection. The ministry of Jesus helped return the "children of Israel back to their Fathers; the Patriarchs and their faith" and thus fulfill Malachi's prophecy.

On the other hand, Jesus did much good for the Gentiles (provided they do not turn about his intent as they please, as some foolish ones have done because they did not fully understand the intent of the authors of the Gospels and epistles). Jesus obligated his Apostles to fulfill the Great Commission by taking the Gentiles (as a minimum) the Seven Commandments of Noah so that they should not be as the beasts of the field and continue to live their lives as pagans and animals. He also bestowed upon them ethical ways, and in this respect he was much more stringent with them than the Torah of Moses. It is not necessary to impose upon Jews such extreme ethical practices, since they have been obligated to the yoke of Torah since Sinai. Israel took the oath at Sinai and are already trained in proper practice and nature of the Second Tablet of the Law (ethical monotheism and the horizontal relationships man-to-man). It would be for Paul to constantly correct, reprove, teach Apostolic Doctrine, and instruct the Gentiles in his travels since it was to his audience he would write "you are strangers from the Covenant promises, aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, without hope and without God in the world".

If Christians would study they would understand what I have detailed in this teaching. No longer would the Church erroneously teach to abolish the Torah of Moses and Jesus. Such sin and foolishness would and should cease.

Because of these errant scholars, hatred has increased toward the Jews who are blameless of any guilt concerning Yeshua's death and proceed innocently to observe their Torah with all their heart (intellect), soul (dedication and commitment to action) and might (resources and property). The leaders of the Churches of Jesus should study to learn correctly for themselves before they lead their people into sin and astray from the will of God for their lives. The Jew is the brother of the Christian. Ephraim (the grafted-in Gentile) and Judah make up Israel. As members of the Christian faith, how good and pleasant it might be if you would observe what was commanded to you by your first teachers, sent directly to you by Jesus, with his message, and not the message that Roman anti-Semitism has created these last 2000 years.

Now...you have heard the truth....maybe for the first time in your life. Let us act according to the truth as Jesus understood it.

Now let us further our studies in looking at Rabbi Hillel and what he had to say concerning the Gentile's salvation.

RABBI HILLEL AND THE GENTILE'S SALVATION

Tradition records for us three heathen who appeared before the two leading rabbis of their time, Hillel and Shammai (both contemporaries of Jesus in the first century) for the purpose of coming to the God of Israel through "conversion". The first potential convert was interested in accepting only the written law's authority, but not the oral tradition; the second, and most famous, asked to be taught the entire Torah (the main essence of the religion of Jesus) while standing upon one foot, while the third aspired to become a convert so that he might attain the office of high priest. Shammai rebuffed them and drove them off with a "builder's measuring rod" harshly, while Hillel's gentleness and patient instruction won them over to the faith of Jesus. Hillel and Shammai flourished during the era of the Second Temple, or end of first century B.C.E. and the beginning of first century C.E., and were contemporaries of Jesus.

LET US TAKE A CLOSER LOOK...TO UNDERSTAND WHAT WE JUST READ....

Shammai's actions are rather baffling. He scolded the first heathen and had him removed from the premises whereas the latter two were repulsed with a "builder's measuring rod". Many have believed that Shammai was either in the building business or a carpenter by trade. This is all the more puzzling since one of Shammai's favorite teachings was (Avot 1:15) "to receive all men with a cheerful countenance." Was it generally his practice to use his building rod on those he disagreed with?

And Hillel's instruction to the famed second heathen defies comprehension. To his request to be taught the entire Torah while standing on one foot, Hillel replied, "What is hateful unto thee, do not do unto thy neighbor-this is the entire Torah; the rest is commentary." This negative metaphoric contraction of the 613 commandments of the Torah finds no counterpart in Talmudic literature. Two interpretations exist today: 1). God is referred to in scripture as "neighbor" or "friend," or 2) that the prohibitions of theft, adultery and "most commandments" of the Torah can be classified in this vein. Later commentators adopted the more literal view that Hillel was referring to the Golden Rule, love thy neighbor as thyself (Lev. 19:18), but his reference to it in a negative form was in order to incorporate certain halakhic principles into the teaching.

TWO TYPES OF "GRAFTING OF GENTILE BELIEVERS INTO ISRAEL" EXISTED IN ANCIENT TIMES...THE GER TZEDEK & GER TOSHAV....& THE LAWS OF NOAH

Gentiles were grafted into Israel as either a "Ger Tzedek" or a "Ger Toshav."

- The Ger Tzedek accepted all 613 commandments of the Torah, and after circumcision and or ritual immersion, was recognized as a full Jew.
- The Ger Toshav obligated himself only to the Seven Noahide Commandments, after which he was permitted to settle in the Land of Israel, and the Jewish community became liable to see to his economic well-being.

Judaism considers the Seven Noahide Commandments to be the cornerstones of all religion and civilization, having been incumbent upon the human race since the time of Adam. Judaism accepts the opinion today of Rabbi Hillel (a contemporary of Jesus) that a non-Jew who accepts these Commandments as divinely ordained and practices them is considered one of the Hasidim (righteous ones) of the Nations, and merits a share in the World to Come. Judaism has always viewed other religions from the perspective of whether or not they conform to the Noahide Commandments.

According to Exodus 23:33, idolaters were not permitted to live in ancient Israel, lest they cause the people to sin. If a Gentile wished to settle there, he would appear before three learned men, accept the Noahide Laws, and would then be permitted to settle with the status of the Ger Toshav. Convert #2 sought this Ger Toshav status from Hillel. When he inquired to be taught the entire Torah while standing on one foot, he was not jesting; he was referring to the Seven Noahide Commandments, which can easily be imparted in a brief span of time (as one stands on one foot). Hillel's reply to "thy neighbor," was referring to the second party involved which was understood to represent God, one's fellow man, and the animal world as well. Hillel was actually offering a brief synopsis of the Noahide Commandments.

A CLOSER LOOK AT RABBI SHAMMAI AND HIS VIEWS ON GENTILE SALVATION

Rabbi Eliezer ben Hyrcranus, a leading sage of the first century A.D., was a member of the School of Shammai. He held the opinion, as did Shammai his teacher, that a Gentile who observes the Noahide Commandments does NOT merit a share in the World to Come. This was also the stance of the School of Shammai and was prevalent in Israel before the time of the death and resurrection of Jesus. It would a direct result of Yeshua's ministry that this situation would change.

Unlike Shammai, Hillel and his students maintained that righteous Gentiles merit salvation just as Jews do (Hillel, like Jesus, accepted the teachings connected with the Laws of Noah), and it was their hope that a mission to the Gentiles could avert the destruction of their land and win God's approval, thus influencing God to repent of the destruction prophesied in Daniel chapter nine (now you understand another reason for Hillel's and Yeshua's support for a Great Commission to take the Gentiles the Torah). Bet Shammai (the school of Shammai) however looked down upon the Gentile world, holding that NOT even the most righteous Gentiles could merit a share in the World to Come. Shammai believed the Gentiles deserved "eternal separation from God" and no attempts should be made to alter their destiny. The Jewish people and their teachers have since declared Bet Shammai's views to be null and void, as did the Heavenly Voice toward the close of the first century (just the way God spoke at Yeshua's immersion). Shammai and his students from the School of Bet Shammai were indeed the Pharisees and priests that Jesus of Nazareth and Paul of Tarsus had to contend with within the pages of our Bibles, and not the Hillel Pharisees. Paul the Apostle's insistence that Gentiles be admitted into the early Messianic Jewish Church was based on Bet Hillel's (School of Hillel) position that righteous Gentiles merit salvation. Let us not forget that Paul had studied under Rabban Gamaliel the Elder, a grandson of Hillel where he received such instruction! Now you can better understand that the anti-Jewish passages contained in the New Testament were directed against the Shammaites, and not the Judaism which followed Bet Hillel, or even today which follows the instruction and interpretations of Hillel. Jesus was closer to Bet Hillel positions than Bet Shammai's positions as recorded in the New Testament.

When each of these three heathen in our story requested Shammai to instruct them concerning the Noahide Commandments, Shammai would have advised each that a Ger Toshav, Ger Hashav or even an observant Noahide, received no reward in the afterlife. It was this figurative "measuring rod" (his erroneous interpretations of Torah which in this instance taught obedience without immortality) that repulsed the Gentile. The allusion to the tool is not to be taken literally. Shammai would use the same "measuring rod" on the third heathen, by advising him that a Ger Tzedek (a full-convert) had no rights to the high priesthood.

Hillel gently pointed out that any Jew not born as a Kohen (descendent of Aaron) was similarly not entitled to the office.

In the case of the first convert, who expressed an interest in the written law only and not the Oral Law or tradition (a Sadducean position-like the Christian church of today) was a blatant act of heresy. Therefore one can understand another reason that Shammai threw him out. Hillel's (who believed in the Oral Law as well) gentleness won him over.

The gratitude of the two Ger Tzedeks and the "one-footed" Ger Toshav to Hillel are expressed in the Talmud's concluding comment:

"Some time later the three met in one place; they said, Shammai's impatience sought to drive us from the world, but Hillel's gentleness brought us under the wings of the Shekhinah (Divine Presence)."

Thus we can conclude that the term "conversion" was to be understood as the transformation of a pagan into an observant Noahide who observed the Seven Laws of Noah as seen by James' insistence in Acts 15

A FIRST GREAT COMMISSION AND MISSION TO THE GENTILES BY THE HASIDIM

Moses obligated the Jews to spread the knowledge of the Noahide commandments to all mankind. A well known statement of Hillel states (Avot 1:12), "Be thou of the disciples of Aaron, one who loves peace, pursues peace, loves mankind, and draws them nigh to the Torah." Hillel was alluding in this quote to a movement to spread knowledge of the Noahide Commandments to all mankind (Gentile Torah). What better way could one show love for all mankind than to try to bring personal salvation to the Gentiles through faith and observance of the Noahide Laws? With that understanding it is not surprising that Hillel acts as he does with the three heathen men as he explains to each what the Torah expected of them as observant Noahides.

Jesus exceeds Hillel in that he desires that his followers, as Hasidim of the Nations (righteous Gentiles), do even more than the required minimum (Laws of Noah). Such is seen in Yeshua's positive statement: "do unto others as you would have them do unto you," which when observed, goes far beyond the minimum observance of the Seven Laws of Noah. Hillel thus lays the halakhic groundwork for the salvation of all mankind, and Jesus concurs. Historically such an outreach to the non-Jewish nations was undertaken by Hillel and various Essenes in 20 B.C.E. in hopes of averting the destruction of the Temple as prophesied by Daniel.

THE "SECOND MISSION" TO THE GENTILES...THE GREAT COMMISSION OF MATTHEW 28

Jesus would later command his Apostles to go into all the world and make disciples of all nations (the Gentiles). Inherent in this is the commandment for the Gentiles of all nations to adhere to the Laws of Noah as the basic minimum that God required for the gift of eternal life. It is in this message that a Gentile becomes a "God-Fearer", is immersed in Yeshua's name and identifies with his God, and is "Born-Again". He now is no longer a Gentile but is a "new-creation" and has become a citizen of the Israel of God. He has the option to later convert fully (circumcision) to the religion of Jesus if he so desires.

Once a Gentile came to the understanding of the one true God, he would turn from idols and worship the God of Israel. Such Gentiles were the "God fearers", who accepted certain basic Biblical and Jewish obligations along with the Noachide precepts. According to this, idolatry, shedding of blood, and grave sexual sins were forbidden to Gentile believers. These were originally the Noachide precepts accepted also by the Synagogue on which the Gentiles were obliged. Let me remind you that we see in Acts 15 (at least 25 years after the death of Jesus) the admonition for the Gentiles to adhere to Noachide Laws to be accepted in the believing community of Israel. James, the pastor of the Jerusalem Church, calls these Noachide Laws and Commandments "necessary" and mentions as well that they seemed good to the Messianic believers as well as the Holy Spirit in Acts 15. For me this puts Divine approval of the decision of the Church Council to impose these "necessary" things upon the non-Jews for acceptance into the Israel of God. It is logical that the Apostolic Church of Jerusalem should accept the view of the Synagogue on the conditions which Gentiles needed to fulfill in order to be saved. It can be easily shown that the fulfillment of other commandments of Judaism were not prohibited to Gentiles. On the contrary, the Noachide precepts were only seen as the minimum condition for Gentiles to be recognized as God-fearers. These were so understood by the God-fearers themselves, who were attracted to the Jewish way of life and accepted many Biblical and Jewish commandments without becoming full proselytes (Sabbath, festivals, etc). This was also the attitude of Christian "God-fearers", as may be seen from the Epistle to the Galatians; many of these Gentile believers wished to observe as many Jewish precepts as they could. It is evident that, while the leadership of the Mother Church decided to lay no burden upon the Gentile believers beyond the Noachide precepts, it did not object to their voluntarily observing more (Col. 2:16-17). Among the figures of the early Church who instructed Gentile Christians to observe more precepts than these essential ones was Peter, as we know from Paul's criticism of him for demanding that Gentiles live like Jews (Gal. 2:14). Rather than interpreting the apostolic decree as a minimum, Paul saw in the Noachide precepts the maximum obligations for Gentile Christians. Rather than Peter being incorrect, a more comprehensive understanding of the Bible reveals Paul to be incorrect (see Isa. 56 where God is pleased that the non-Jewish believer goes beyond the minimum).

SEPARATION IS INEVITABLE

The liberation of Gentile Christianity from the responsibility to the Biblical and Jewish commandments was a necessary step in order for Christianity to become a Gentile religion, separate from Judaism. It is impossible to know whether Paul was aware that by his "Gospel" he helped to achieve this aim in that he does not speak explicitly about the necessity of separating Christianity from its Jewish roots and he never says that this was his intention, but it is clear that in fact such was his historical role. Paul would later teach that the Jewish way of life in many aspects would had no validity for Christians, but the mother Church in Acts felt differently. For Christian "God-fearers" it was not easy to accept Paul's demand; the complete or partial rejection of Jewish precepts was for many Gentile Christian "God-Fearers" a painful operation. But if Christianity was to become a world religion it had to become "free from the Law". Only a Christian free from the law could separate himself from Judaism and embark upon a path that rejected the very tenants and foundations of Biblical Judaism; the religion of Jesus.

FULL CONVERSION AND THE GER TZEDEK

With the rise of Christianity the teachers of Israel sought to distinguish between the heathens of the past and those Gentiles who were subject to religious values and morality. The very term "Ger Tzedek" (righteous gentile) stands for the gentile who turned from idols and made a sincere conversion to the faith of Jesus in the first century. Such a person was respected and welcomed by the Jewish community. The "Ger Tzedek" submitted to circumcision, immersion, and brought a sacrifice to the temple. Upon completion of such, he was considered as "one born in the land." He had full status as a Jew.

PARTIAL CONVERSION AND THE GER HASHAR/GER TOSHAV

There are two other terms for righteous Gentiles: Ger Hashar, and Ger Toshav. In the Bible the Ger Hashar is seen as "the stranger in the gate", and the Ger Toshav was known as "the stranger in the land." These also accepted the faith of Israel (ethical monotheism) and were immersed, but withheld themselves from circumcision. Such "Righteous Gentiles" had a place in the world to come, and it was believed that in the age of the Messiah all Gentiles would come to recognize the one true God according to Zech 14:9.

LETS MAKE IT EASIER STILL SHALL WE?

Once the Ger Tzedek was accepted as a Jew, he was entitled to all the privileges that Jews born into the faith enjoyed. Such converts to Judaism were numerous before the rise of Christianity. Within Palestine and outside, wherever Jews came into contact with pagans, Judaism held a strong attraction. It was expected of the Gentile that given enough time, he would develop from the Ger Hashar to the Ger Tzedek (make a full conversion to Judaism). The later development of Christianity offered the attraction of monotheism and at the same time imposed fewer restrictions on its new adherents than did Judaism. Commencing with the fourth century, when Christianity became the official religion of the Roman Empire, Jews were restricted in their own worship and were no longer permitted to continue their missionary activity and we find the conversion of the Ger Hashar, Toshav and Tzedek dwindling. In spite of the peril to Jews and proselytes alike, we read throughout history of various instances where Christians joined the ranks of the oppressed Jews once they had been shown and taught the truth.

TRINITARIANISM AND NOAHIDISM...WHAT IS THE TRUTH FOR THE CHRISTIAN?

Judaism ruled that Trinitarianism is not to be considered an idolatrous practice if adhered to by a Gentile, whereas it would be so if practiced by a Jew. The above opinion was rendered by R. Jacob Tam; an outstanding twelfth century Tosafist and grandson of Rashi. R. Tam expressed such a concept as within the idea of "Shittuf" (belief in God the Father, along with an additional deity). Such a belief is permitted to Gentiles (Christians) without them being considered idolaters by Jews and Judaism.

Traditional Christians believe in the divinity of Jesus, and many have even sought to convert Jews to this belief. This is not allowed for a Jew as it constitutes gross idolatry before HaShem. Gentile Christianity needs not make Jews idolaters by spreading their own corrupt theologies. In this regard we can find only two occasions where Jesus is asking Jews to believe in him as the Son of God (notice I did not say as God the Father or God the Son):

- When healing a blind man in John 9:35.
- Before raising Lazarus from the dead in John 11:26.

A blind man was considered by the Talmud to be the equivalent of a dead person, and this had halakhic implications (a blind person was exempt from all the Commandments of the Torah). Thus he is exempt from the commandment requiring him to believe in only "one" God. It is believed that Jesus is introducing an halakhic concept here, namely, that Shittuf (Trinitarianism) is permitted in order to save a Jewish life (both the blind man and Lazarus were considered dead, exempt from idolatry as understood by normal Judaism, and could now believe in Jesus as God's Son for healing and life after death). For although the Talmud rules that a Jew must give his life rather than practice idolatry (murder and sexual immorality as well), Jesus would have interpreted this to apply to actual idolatry (worship of sun, rocks, fertility cults, etc.), or at least a lesser form of it. Such a belief in a second deity is permitted to Gentiles in Judaism, despite the Noachide Laws and their ban on idolatry. The ban on idolatry in Noahidism accepts Shittuf (it allows the belief in Jesus as God). Let me also note that the Messiah of God has a beginning and no end where as God has no beginning and no end. God created from Himself the Spirit of the Messiah before the foundation of the world to act as the redemptive aspect of God to man! This anointing has come upon many but on Jesus I believe unlike any other.

At the same time we must remember that even some Christians do not interpret Yeshua's references to himself as the Son of God, as an allusion to his divinity or equality with the Father.

WHO WERE THE LOST SHEEP OF ISRAEL?

In Matthew 10:5 Jesus informs us that he came to preach "only to the lost sheep of Israel." We can now understand that he wished his fellow Jews to accept Bet Hillel's view that Gentiles too merit salvation. Much Jewish suffering could have been avoided, including the Temple's destruction in the first century, had the Shammaites abandoned their hatred of the outside world and accepted Yeshua's message of love for God and your neighbor (the Gentile).

We can even see in Yeshua's statement to his disciples in Matt. 28:19 (the Great Commission), that following his death, they are to "make disciples of all the Nations (Gentiles).

In this we see Yeshua's love for the Gentile. Again Jesus is negating the views of Bet Shammai (which had poisoned the people of Israel with hatred for the non-Jews (Gentiles) after Hillel's death), while actually confirming Bet Hillel's position that the Gentiles too merit that the message of salvation be given to them.

BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF EARLY CHRISTIANITY...IT WAS JEWISH

Such a restoration of the Early Church's Belief System as taught and handed down by Jesus reveals to us what "true Christianity" is to be all about. Gentile converts to Yeshua's movement within Judaism were first taught the "Noahide Laws" which consisted of laws on idolatry, blasphemy, unchastity, bloodletting, robbery, eating the flesh of still-living animals, and courts of justice.

Every Gentile entering the Jesus Movement was obligated to obey the Noahide Laws. In addition they adhered to the Ten Commandments. Besides remembering and keeping the Sabbath observance, they refraining from riotous living, they supported the Temple with the Temple 1/2 shekel tax (notice this is a "usage tax" and is not the tithe), and they observed and kept the Festivals of the Lord. They were not required to be circumcised, but they were required to observe the laws of Kosher and refrained from eating unclean foods in order to not become an obstacle that would prevent worshipping with the Jews and sharing Sabbath meals where they both partook of the Lord's Supper together, as well as share the Feasts and Festivals.

Answer for yourself: Has your church or Pastor taught you "THE" Faith Once Given To The Saints as I have shown you in this article?

Answer for yourself: If not, maybe you should look somewhere else where in truth the real message of Jesus is being taught? Shalom.

HOW TO GET TO HEAVEN ACCORDING TO JESUS...DOES JESUS CORRECT CHRISTIAN DOCTRINE?

Many people in the Gospel asked that very same question directly to Jesus and let's see what the reply was;

"And behold, one came up to him, saying, "Teacher, what good deed must I do, to have eternal life?"

"And he said to him, "Why do you ask me about what is good? One there is who is good. If you would enter life, keep the commandments." Matthew 19:16-17

Here according to Jesus, to enter Heaven, we follow the commandments.

Answer For Yourself: A question to the Christians is: why would Jesus mislead this man if the only way to heaven was through the blood of Jesus? Surely Jesus would know that later "some" of his followers would teach that we no longer are under Law (Commandments) but grace as Paul would teach in Rom 6:14:14 For sin shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the law, but under grace?

Answer For Yourself: Was Jesus misleading this man by teaching that Works will open the Gates of Heaven?

CAN WE BELIEVE WHAT WE READ WITHOUT STUDY?

"Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." Matthew 5:10

Answer For Yourself: Is Jesus in this verse saying that those who are persecuted for living life devoted to righteousness and who are possibly martyred will go to Heaven and those who die and suffer for a good cause will go to Heaven? NO

According to Thayer's Greek Lexicon...the word for RIGHTEOUSNESS:

- 1) to make to run or flee, to put to flight, to drive away
- 2) to run swiftly in order to catch a person or thing, to run after
- a) to press on: figuratively, used of one who in a race runs swiftly to reach the goal
- b) to pursue (in a hostile manner)
- 3) in any way whatever to harass, to trouble, to molest one
- a) to persecute

- b) to be mistreated, to suffer persecution on account of something
- 4) without the idea of hostility, to run after, to follow after someone or something
- 5) metaphorically, to pursue, to seek after eagerly, earnestly endeavor to acquire

Often words have more than one meaning as in this case so one must look at the context of the passages before and after the questionable one to clarify meaning. In the Sermon on the Mount Jesus' theme is holy and righteous living that elevates man toward God. Martyrdom has nothing to do with it but since asceticism is the backbone of Roman Catholicism and they controlled the Greek manuscripts that would later make up the New Testament they made sure their doctrines replaced the meanings Jesus intended when it suited their purpose. No greater example can be found than this for as you can see the meaning intended by Jesus is:

- to run swiftly in order to catch a person or thing, to run after
- to press on: figuratively, used of one who in a race runs swiftly to reach the goal
- without the idea of hostility, to run after, to follow after someone or something
- metaphorically, to pursue, to seek after eagerly, earnestly endeavor to acquire

*As you can see Jesus is teaching that those who pursue, seek swiftly after, sets as a goal a righteous live, and who earnestly endeavor to acquire righteousness are those BLESSED OF GOD!

WHAT IS THIS "RIGHTEOUSNESS" THAT WE ARE TO RUN SWIFTLY AFTER TO OBTAIN?

We need only to again look at Thayer's Greek Lexicon for the answer as we examine the Greek word used which means:

1343 dikaiosune-

- 1) in a broad sense: state of him who is as he ought to be, righteousness, the condition acceptable to God
- a) the doctrine concerning the way in which man may attain a state approved of God
- b) integrity, virtue, purity of life, rightness, correctness of thinking feeling, and acting
- 2) in a narrower sense, justice or the virtue which gives each his due

Answer For Yourself: Is Jesus teaching that there is a "way" in which man can attain a state of approval with God and, according to Jesus, that way is the way or "righteousness"? WOW! Why doesn't Jesus make mention of the Cardinal religious doctrines which will later be formed around him and his life that his later Gentile followers will teach as necessary for Eternal Life and the Kingdom of God like "belief" in his death, his resurrection, or this death as a sacrifice for one's sin? Is it not puzzling that directly from the mouth of Jesus we find no such "teachings" recorded in all his sayings in the New Testament? Could it be that the message of salvation taught by Jesus is not the one the Gentile Church would later teach in his name?

The answers for the above questions are both easy and difficult. Unless one has done some considerable study in comparative religions of the non-Jewish nations and their influence upon certain "sects" within Judaism then one is incapable of seeing that the "salvation message" as taught by the non-Jews in Jesus' name is nothing more than the replaying of the Osirian legend; the only things new is that the doctrines surrounding Osiris are applied to Jesus. You might not want to know this, admit this, or accept this. That is "ok" by us at Bet Emet, by your denial of this does not change the fact THAT THIS PLAGIARISM BY THE GENTILE BELIEVERS IN JESUS EXISTS AND IT IS IN DIRECT OPPOSITION TO WHAT JESUS TAUGHT HIMSELF AS THE WAY

OF SALVATION FOR THE WORLD.

Answer For Yourself: According to the certain selected passage, as recorded in the New Testament, are we led to believe otherwise than a way of live lived in obedience to the Commandments of God culminating in a life of righteousness as the way of Eternal Life? We sure are!

Answer For Yourself: And is Jesus again being misleading since all Christians claim that the one and only way to Heaven is through the blood of Jesus as the church teaches since Jesus was persecuted and killed?

A LAWYER ASKS A VERY IMPORTANT QUESTION....HOW TO ENTER HEAVEN

And behold, a lawyer stood up to put him to the test, saying, "Teacher, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?"

Jesus said "What is written in the law? How do you read?"

And he answered, "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your strength, and with all your mind; and your neighbor as yourself."

And he said to him, "You have answered right; do this, and you will live." Luke 10:25-28

The lawyer asked the teacher Jesus how to have eternal life and Jesus replied "Read"... "The Law"..... "Obey the Law" believe in God and love your neighbor.

Answer For Yourself: Why in front of all these people would Jesus not tell them the so-called "only way that the Christians of today are saying" as the way to Heaven..." no way to heaven except through the blood of Jesus", why would Jesus contradict today's Christians and Pastors? Could we innocently be incorrect in what we believe because we have been taught in error because the document we look to for "salvation" has been corrupted from the Eternal Truths such a document should have contained?

Answer For Yourself: Are Christians freed from the Law as the modern Christians teach?

"Whoever then relaxes one of the least of these commandments and teaches men so, shall be called least in the kingdom of heaven; but he who does them and teaches them shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven." Matthew 5:19

Answer For Yourself: Why would Jesus teach this if he came so that his blood can relax the Law, why is it when he was on earth, he taught not to relax the Law? And notice Jesus says that those who follow the Laws will be the Highest in Heaven.

"Not every one who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of my Father who is I heaven." Matthew 7:21

Answer For Yourself: Salvation according to some Christians comes from taking Jesus as your god and accepting the claimed blood sacrifice, while on the other hand, Jesus seems to be saying the opposite. Why is that?

Answer For Yourself: Aren't Christians supposed to follow the Teachings of Jesus?

Answer For Yourself: As far as Salvation is concerned, many over the world, in other religions no less, are following the Teachings of Jesus better than most Christians, why haven't the Christians started yet?

"For whoever does the will of my Father in heaven is my brother, and sister, and mother." (Mark 3:35) If Jesus is god, why would he claim that who ever follows the Commandments would be the brother or mother of god ?

Answer For Yourself: What does being a brother or mother of God mean? Try examples of those who are in RELATIONSHIP (in this instance relationship with God)!

"Jesus said to him, 'If you would be perfect, go, sell what you possess and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me.'" Matthew 19:21

Jesus said that having treasure in Heaven is accomplished by "giving to directly to the Poor." Jesus is Teaching Piety to Enter Heaven.

"Again I tell you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God." Matthew 19:24

This Verse was very revealing to me, Jesus is repeatedly saying, a rich man will not enter Heaven.

Some Christians of today claim that Jesus died for all sins, yet Jesus repeatedly taught that greed will prevent you from entering Heaven.

Answer For Yourself: What about those Christians who are rich? Aren't they saved according to the 10% that they give their church? Remembering Jesus mandate to obey the Commandments of God for Eternal Life, it is not very comforting to learn that the vast majority of Christian Churches which collect the Tithe violate the Commandments regarding Tithing in the way they collect it and how they allocate the funds. In reality they are robbing God by not using the funds collected in the prescribed manners as commanded in the Law. That makes the givers accessories to robbing God as they give to institutions which do not themselves obey the Commandments of God in this regard. Make no mistake about it this is a violation of the Commandments which Jesus already said are necessary to inherit Eternal Life since the Church never used the funds collected in the percentages required by the Commandments which say where the moneys collected are to be used and allocated. Such is robbery of God and few know it! It will be a terrible thing to wake up "dead" one day and find out that all the money you gave to your church financing the "Kingdom of God" did just the opposite and your introduction to God will be as a robber and one who thwarted the Kingdom of Heaven with each check you wrote to your church!

THE TRADITIONAL CHRISTIAN MESSAGE OF SALVATION

Now according to the vast majority of Christian Churches and Christians of modern day, who ever believes in the blood of Jesus, believes in his resurrection and lordship, and accepts Jesus as god, then that is the only way that person is saved, not through works.

Rom 10:9 9 That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. (KJV)

I must say this is a very "convenient" passage in the New Testament that makes "salvation" so easy; all you have to do to be saved and inherit Eternal Life according to Paul is simply "believe in Jesus," or in a certain doctrine about him; in this case just believe and say that you believe that Jesus was raised from the dead and that makes him Lord then you have received the most precious gift God can give...Eternal Life.

There is but one MAJOR problem with the above verse.

This "convenient verse" cannot be found in the earliest New Testament manuscripts; in fact it is absent in the first New Testament collected by Marcion in and around 150 A.D. In fact, this "convenient verse" does not show up until we reach the second century and then "poof" we have it. I guess Paul was on "life supports" in order to write this verse some 150 years following his death. The attempted humor is to offset the tragic implications that one who is equipped with the facts must realize. The New Testament, in places, is a concoction of religious jargon that has gone a long way to destroy the truth of the faith of Jesus and what he actually taught and believed himself concerning the way of God. Oh my friends, the tragedy of this is our love for God is often compromised by lies taught as truth. Discernment is the key and this comes with a price; much study and knowledge must be amassed before one can find his way through this maze of conflicting religious doctrines in this supposed "Divine" revelation called the New Testament. Oh, by the way, one does not find Romans chapter 9, 10, or 11 till the second century as well, and remember is is there we find "Israel" blinded by God to truth. Again, so convenient to blaspheme the whole of Jesus' people as untrustworthy and incapable of teaching the non-Jews about God in light that they are Eternally called to do so as the "light of the world."

Now let's see if Jesus again contradicts the church;

"Truly, truly, I say to you, he who hears my word and believes Him who sent me, has eternal life; he does not come into judgment, but has passed from death to life." John 5:24

It is clear that according to Jesus the way to Heaven is to believe in God (who Sent Jesus) and to hear (follow) the words of Jesus (which happen to be G-d's words) and not the words of the later Gentile Church which is filled with anti-Semitism, so much so that they will change the whole of the salvation message and pretend it was given by God in their altered and forged documents which today find their way into the collection called the New Testament.

Answer For Yourself: Does Jesus want us to believe in his blood or to believe that he and his message is from God?

"Jesus said to them, "I am the bread of life; he who comes to me shall not hunger, and he who believes in me shall never thirst. John 6:35

Therefore Jesus is telling them that if they believe in him (While he was Alive) that they will receive paradise.

"Truly, truly, I say to you, he who believes in me will also do the works that I do; and greater works than these will he do, because I go to the Father." John 14:12

Truly, Honestly, I give you my Word Jesus Says: the Human who does Works as I do (Jesus followed the Laws of Moses) then that human will follow me to the Father (God).

"Again Jesus spoke to them, saying, "I am the light of the world; he who follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the light of life." John 8:12

Answer For Yourself: What does a light do? it guides, directs, it shows you the Right Path, A light does not symbolize one to be sacrificed, but instead, one to Guide.

Therefore I am Puzzled as to why Jesus would name off all these specific teachings and keys to enter Heaven except the one that the Christians teach (his blood). Are you?

According to Jesus, all men are blessed and will be in Heaven because they believe God sent Jesus and they follow works (which is nothing more than the Commandments of God actualized and lived out practically and concretely). I pray that Christians will at least follow the words of Jesus and may "his teachings" lead them to Truth.

ARE YOU SAVED BY WORKS? NO...FAITH AND WORKS

This is not to say that we can work our way into Heaven which is a common misunderstanding of Christians. But faith in God, a living faith that obeys, coupled with the knowledge of the Commandments of God, as aspects of Covenant responsibility, as well as obedience to them, are required to inherit Eternal Life according to Jesus. Paul taught otherwise.

You have to decide who you are going to believe; Jesus or Paul. The problem is the corruption of the documents which report to be Divine Revelation and within this New Testament document we have differences and conflicting doctrines on Eternal Life as taught by Paul and by Jesus. Often I hear some say "you are wrong, they don't conflict." Let me say that only betrays the shallowness of one's study; again one might deny, or refuse to admit, or even study such things out, but my justification is that one can never disprove it for in-depth and objective study will reveal it to the honest seeker. The facts are that these documents comprising the New Testament have been altered from the original "mind of Christ" and are not a true picture of the events recorded to the teachings held by the original followers of Jesus. But you have to study this out to see. So hopefully you will do that.

This is to clarify that we can not be saved by Faith alone, even in religious doctrines about the life of Jesus as interpreted by the Gentile Church to inherit Eternal Life; nor can salvation be obtained by adhering or accepting this or that doctrine about Jesus which is nothing but the fruit of Catholic debates over the centuries as they hammered out their own version of Osirian Christology and applied that to Jesus. Again, according to Jesus, our way to Heaven is to obey those Laws of Moses respective of our Covenant to inherit Eternal Life. For the non-Jew he must realize that within these 613 Laws of Moses one finds the residue of a prior Covenant containing 66 Commandments for non-Jews. It is called the Covenant of Noah. That is where the non-Jew must start and hopefully graduating with the knowledge of Isa 56 that he can choose to take upon himself other Commandments and Sabbaths of the the LORD to demonstrate his love for God. Such is love my friend. A love that obeys and reaches out for the righteousness which only comes as fruit from Commandment obeyed and not "passed away" by some new religious interpretation by the anti-Semitic church of yesteryear.

It is said well by Jesus's younger brother and disciple (James) who said; "Faith without works is Dead" {Jas 2:26}

Answer For Yourself: Have you fallen into the deception of death faith?

It is time for serious study to recover the truths about the Historical Jesus, as well as the corruption of the New Testament as a fraudulent representation of the true faith of Jesus before it is too late. What we at Bet Emet will hope you will do is begin a serious study of the early Faith Once Given To The Saints and if you do, then you will discover, as have thousands who have read our Ministry, as well as others, how the New Testament was corrupted by Gentile sun-worshippers who today are called Early Church Fathers and how the oral traditions and manuscripts were altered and passed down to the unsuspecting like you and me today. We have inherited "lies" passed off as religious truths because we accept without question a document which is blend of pagan sun worship in many doctrines, many of which have been passed off as divine truth. Basically, the New Testament is nothing but a re-hash of Osiris and the original G-dman Savior replayed through the life of a Jewish Rabbi. Every Gentile nation has one almost and the many of the doctrines of the New Testament can be traced directly back through successive Gentile nations whereby you can see this for yourself. Surely Jesus is more than a replay of Egyptian Sun Worship.

Answer for yourself: If Jesus is sent by God, and he came to die and his blood was to redeem as parts of the New Testament says as the way to inherit Eternal Life, then why come at all as many pagan myths existed where this was done before prior to Jesus by a whole host of crucified g-dmen? Why come at all if he has nothing new to offer?

Surely Jesus' ministry was a correction to the status-quo and a hope for the non-Jewish world caught up in such false worship!

I got news for you. Little has changed in the non-Jewish world. Sun-myths reign in 2.5 billion of the world's population today. They are called Christians. Now it is up to you to see if what I have said is true. Sadly, if you look you will find such deceptions in the texts you believe to be Divine and Infallible in the New Testament once you undertake such a serious study. Have faith and above all have courage for the truth can be recovered. You just read it in the mouth of Jesus. But not all who are portrayed with a message from God in the New Testament have one! But understand the faith and beliefs of the historical Jesus stand apart from vicarious atonement and many of the doctrines of Paul and the Church. Many will try to read vicarious atonement" into texts and even alter them to suit their purpose. You can begin with Isa. 53 which the scholars say the Essenes worked over more than any texts they had! That is why the Isaiah in the Christian Bible, for the Septuagint, reads COMPLETELY different from the Isaiah in the Jewish Tanakh! The Essenes to which many look to day for hidden truth developed into little more than sun-worshippers in the days of Jesus in rejection of Judaism toto. Their alteration of the Tanakh proves a different theological agenda from the Jews in Jerusalem. Basically in closing, you have to make a big decision and decide if you want to be a follower of Jesus or a follower of the other doctrines of the New Testament which contradict Jesus' message on how to obtain Eternal Life. The choice is yours. Shalom.

THE HISTORICAL MEANING OF “BEING BORN AGAIN” AS CONTRASTED WITH WHAT CHRISTIANITY TEACHES TODAY: WHAT ARE WE TO BELIEVE? #1

- Answer for yourself: Are you “born again” according to what Jesus taught or according to what your Gentile Pastor teaches?
- Answer for yourself: Is there the remotest possibility that you might not be “born again” according to the Hebrew Scriptures and what it meant to Jesus, but "born" again according to Gentile theology?

Before you say "no way" you better get seated and read the whole of these two article for I promise you an eye opening experience if you do.

- Answer for yourself: Do you know the difference alluded to in the above two questions when the concept of "born again" is viewed in its Jewish context and later in its Gentile context?
- Answer for yourself: If we today in the Christian Church attach a different meaning to the Hebrew concept of “being born again” which is all together foreign and different from what it meant to Jesus when he spoke about it to Nicodemus, then what does Jesus think about our misinterpretation of such an important concept, or even more, what is the result of such a misunderstanding when we are judged in the world to come (Heaven)?

2 Cor 5:17 17 Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new. (KJV)

- Answer for yourself: Are you a “new creation” as taught by Paul, or are you just “another creature”?
- Answer for yourself: If you call yourself a “new creation” and your Pastor or those on TV call you a “new creature,” does calling yourself a “new creature” make you one, and do you know what being “one” actually entails?
- Answer for yourself: Have you fulfilled the requirements in the Bible to actually be a “new creature” according to Paul in II Cor. 5:17, and do you know what they are?

- Answer for yourself: What are you to do when most of you find out that you have not been taught correctly about what is required to be a “new creation in Messiah?”

Those are thought-provoking questions to say the least. I know most of you who are reading this article are tempted to put it down and consider what I have asked you to consider as absolute folly. I can only plead with you to read these two articles in full, and understand for yourself what I discovered over fifteen years of in-depth Bible study which was never taught to me by the Christian Church or even Seminary.

In order to peak you curiosity to read this article in full, I will expose at this time the real meaning Paul intended his Gentile hearers to have when he taught them about being a “new creation in Christ.” Let us examine the passage in II Cor. in detail from resources like a Christian Greek Lexicon.

2 Cor 5:17

Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new. (KJV)

First of all it is mandatory we understand correctly what the word “creature” means in the original language in which Paul spoke and later was recorded in Greek.

The Thayer’s Greek Lexicon [a Christian book no less] defines “creature” in II Cor. 5:17 as follows: 2937 Strong’s Numbers: ktisis- the act of founding, establishing, building, etc.

- a) the act of creating, creation
- b) creation, that is, a thing created; used of individual things, beings, a creature, a creation
  - 1) anything created
  - 2) after a rabbinical usage (by which a man converted from idolatry to Judaism was called)
  - 3) the sum or aggregate of things created
  - 4) an institution, an ordinance
- Answer for yourself: Don’t you find it almost startling that the concept accompanying the idea of being “new creature” carries with the intended meaning of turning from idols and idolatry to Judaism and not a religion like Christianity which is full of idolatry and considers itself a replacement for Judaism?
- Answer for yourself: Don’t you find it almost startling that the concept accompanying the idea of being “new creature” carries with the intended meaning of turning from idols and idolatry to Judaism where Biblical Feasts and Festivals are observed instead on pagan holidays to which the early Catholic Church attached the name of Jesus centuries ago?
- Answer for yourself: Don’t you find it almost startling that the concept accompanying the idea of being “new creature” carries with the intended meaning of turning from idols and idolatry to Judaism where the Sabbath is both observed and remembered instead of replacing it with the day already set aside by the pagans for sun worship?
- Answer for yourself: If your church does not teach and model for you the correct interpretation of the Bible by promoting the interpretation of these Hebrew Scriptures from a Jewish perspective since it is a Hebrew document, then how comfortable should you feel considering your faith and the practice of your faith since it probably contains very little that is Jewish; especially in light that you most likely have been taught to reject the Sabbath and the Seven Biblical Festivals?
- Answer for yourself: If your church does not teach and model for you the correct interpretation of the Bible by promoting the correct interpretation of the Hebrew Scriptures from a Jewish perspective [especially since it is a Jewish book] then how comfortable should you feel considering your Gentile Christian faith and the practice of your faith when it finally dawns upon you that you have been following a religious belief system that deviates drastically from what Jesus believed?

WHERE WE MUST BEGIN TO UNDERSTAND CORRECTLY “BEING ## BORN AGAIN"

I guess I could just dive right in and tell you that we as Christians and followers of Jesus has completely misunderstood the Jewish concept of being "born again" but it would serve us well to first understand the historical context of such passages in order to fully appreciate the Jewish concept of being "born again" and the discourse between Nicodemus and Jesus as found in John chapter 3.

The Noahide Commandments are the Commandments given by the Torah (the Old Testament) to the Gentiles of the world (first given to Adam and later given to Noah), which according to Rabbinic tradition and the First Church Council in Acts 15:17-19 and Acts 15:28-29 (which was headed up by James, the Lord's brother and head of the Jerusalem church) were given by God to Gentiles like Adam and Noah. It is these commandments which if obeyed by the non-Jews of the world will be rewarded with eternal life! According to Rabbinic teaching & Acts 15 (which Jesus believed and taught himself along with his followers), those Gentiles who observe these precepts are assured their share in the World to Come, regardless of what fanciful interpretations were later to be invented by both the Catholic & Protestant churches and most probably heard in your modern churches today. Jesus was and is a Jew. He never ascribed to Baptist, Methodist, Catholic, Assembly of God, Church of Christ, or Mormon church doctrine. He believed and taught the truth as received from his Father in Heaven. The Christian must come to an understanding that the religion of Jesus (Biblical Judaism and not Rabbinic Judaism) has always recognized two different religious codes:

- 1) the 613 Laws and precepts given to the Jews following their liberation from Egypt [the Laws of Moses were added upon the existing Noahide revelation and commandments]
- 2) the earlier Noahide system of legislation for all mankind predated the Laws of Moses

DID JESUS INTEND TO REPLACE OR ABOLISH HIS RELIGION?

The eighteenth century Talmudist Rabbi Jacob Emden wrote a letter that has been discovered by archeologists which states: "Jesus (Yeshua) never intended to abolish Judaism, but only to establish a new religion for the Gentiles based upon the ancient Noahide Commandments transmitted by Moses on Mount Sinai." Let me say that Emden more correctly should have said "RE-ESTABLISH" for the Gentiles the religious foundations that had previously been given by God to the Gentiles since the Garden of Eden and later renewed at Sinai. Emden stressed in his letter that Jesus brought about a "double blessing" to the world, by strengthening the Torah of Moses and at the same time removing idolatry from the midst of the Gentiles. Unfortunately, Emden's thesis in the letter never gained a substantial following by fellow Jews. The most obvious reason would seem to be the frequent harsh statements made by Jesus against the rabbis and Jews of his time (Matt. 23). This chapter has seldom been correctly interpreted by the Christian Church because the church, for the most part, lacks the facts & information concerning the historical, religious, and political background surrounding Yeshua's statements which are necessary to correctly understand such a chastisement of a particular "sect" within the Pharisees, and not the Pharisees as a whole! Yeshua was not condemning the Pharisee movement, for he was proud to be one, especially a Pharisee belonging to the School of Hillel. Yeshua was not replacing Judaism with Christianity!

Emden helps us understand the original intentions of Yeshua and Paul as he analyzes the beginnings of Christianity. According to the Jewish rabbi, Yeshua and his Apostles, which were later sent by Yeshua to the Gentiles of the world, acted entirely within the Halakhah (correct and accepted Jewish law) in re-creating and re-establishing the religion God had previously given to the Gentiles which was based on the Noahide Commandments (the basic seven Noahide Laws consist of prohibitions against idolatry, blasphemy, killing, stealing, sexual sins, eating the limb of a living animal (cruelty to animals), and the imperative to establish courts of justice). According to the Jewish Talmud and Tosefta, those Gentiles who observe these statutes are considered to be of the Hasidim (pious ones) of the Nations and merit a share in the World to Come. Even within the Alenu prayer which is prayed by Jews and "God-Fearers" every Sabbath, it states "May all inhabitants of the earth recognize and know....". This means the Gentiles. This prayer for Gentiles is another proof that the will of God is for Gentiles not to perish but have everlasting life. In the Mishnah (the Oral Law), in Pirke Avot 4.1 it states: "Every assembly that is for the sake of Heaven will in the end be established." Christian assemblies are for the sake of Heaven, yet I must sadly inform you that they have accepted "IN PART" the Noahide Commandments, but not totally! God had given them all to the Gentiles and we are not told today about them in our Christian Churches!

THE FIRST GREAT COMMISSION...20 BC? YOU HAVE GOT TO BE KIDDING? NO; I AM NOT!

Yeshua and Paul were acquainted with the Essene authors and their Scrolls. Many passages in the New Testament bear striking similarity to the Scrolls (see my previous newsletter about Yeshua and the Secret of the Dead Sea Scrolls). A comprehensive overview of the writings and materials available to us today reveal the Essenes to have been extremely pious Jews who scrupulously followed the Torah (the instruction and teaching of God, more commonly called the "Law"), whereas Yeshua and Paul are by many portrayed incorrectly as having forsaken their Jewish origins and replaced the Torah with a new religion-Christianity. Such a study also reveals many problems with Essene theology but this is a study done elsewhere and is too extensive for this article. This portrayal of Yeshua forsaking his Jewish faith never happened; sadly I cannot say that for Paul [see Acts 21 where Paul was known to forsake Moses {commandments} and teach Jews to quit circumcising their children]! At least this is the general picture one is presented with in the majority of churches today; and one will not be able to see through it without diligent study. But this premise goes against Emden's letter. A Christian should know that the Talmud records for us that Moses commanded the Jews to spread the knowledge of the Noahide commandments to all mankind!

Answer for yourself: Did you hear that?

God commanded Moses to spread the knowledge of the Covenant with Noah and its requirements to all Gentiles in the world. Judaism acknowledges this "Gentile Covenant for Salvation" as from God since the time of Mount at Sinai. The questions we have to ask ourselves is this:

- Answer for yourself: Does history record for us such an ambitious attempt to bring the Noahide Laws to Gentiles, and if so, who was behind it and when did it occur?"
- Answer for yourself: Were the pious Essenes the ones who attempted such a mission to the Gentiles in the generation preceding Yeshua's birth?
- Answer for yourself: Did Yeshua and Paul, through their ministries, follow in the Essene's footsteps and try to bring to fruition what the Essenes began in the generation before their birth?
- Answer for yourself: Where do the Gentiles correctly fit into the teachings of Jesus and Paul?

As Christians and followers of Yeshua, we must constantly search for the correct interpretations of such an event if we are to correctly understand the Bible and it's message to the Gentile and his salvation.

LET US LEARN FROM HISTORY

A passage in the Jerusalem Talmud records for us: "Menahem the Essene and 160 Essene disciples left the Jewish community" (remember not all Essenes lived in & around the Dead Sea) "about 20 B.C. on a mission to the Gentiles to take the "world" the Noahide Covenant, thus assuring obedient and observant Gentiles a place in the World to Come." This Menahem served as a vice-president of the Sanhedrin under the sage Hillel who was the Nassi (President of the Sanhedrin) some thirty years before Jesus' birth. The Mishnah makes quite clear that Menahem subjected himself totally to Hillel's authority (who loved the Gentiles), thus establishing a link between the Essenes and Hillel (who was a conservative Pharisee). Also of importance is the link between the two camps (Essenes & Pharisees) in that they were both known as "Hasidim." Menahem the Essene left Hillel's Sanhedrin for his mission to the world and was then replaced by the sage Shammai (who did not like the Gentiles). Shammai succeeded him as vice-president, probably about 20 B.C., and the influences of Hillel began to be replaced with those of Shammai [who was strongly anti-Gentile and deemed no Gentile worthy that the message of God's salvation be taken to them].

QUESTIONS NEEDING ANSWERS

- Answer for yourself: Was Menahem forced out by Shammai and his followers? Yes.
- Answer for yourself: Did Hillel's disciples join Menahem in his mission to the Gentiles? Yes.
- Answer for yourself: Did later rabbis approve of Menahem's mission to the Gentiles? Yes and No, depending on the particular school of Pharisees to which we refer.
- Answer for yourself: Did Shammai lend his support to the Gentile mission or did he discourage the Jews from being a light to Gentiles? He strongly discouraged it.
- Answer for yourself: In the time of Yeshua did the teachings of Hillel or Shammai have influence over the people of Israel and direct the course of the nation? Shammai was in ascendancy.
- Answer for yourself: Which of these two Pharisee schools supported Yeshua and which did Yeshua rebuke in Matt. 23? The School of Hillel supported Yeshua and the School of Shammai was rebuked by Yeshua.
- Answer for yourself: Was Yeshua against all the Pharisees? No, not at all, for he would say only two days before his death that the Pharisees (no longer the Sadducees) are the religious leaders of Israel, for from now on they sit in Moses' seat!

THE STORMY RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN HILLEL AND SHAMMAI

The first disputes regarding the Oral law (that was passed down for some 1700 years from Moses at Sinai) took place at this time between the sages and students of Hillel and Shammai (beginning about 20 years prior to Yeshua's birth). Their respective schools (Bet Hillel and Bet Shammai) were to clash over 350 times on issues of the Oral Law during the next hundred years. Nor were these always minor disputes for even once the Zealots connected with Shammai massacred and killed many of the Pharisees. The issues between Bet Hillel and Bet Shammai went to the very core of what Judaism stood for (and what Jesus stood for). One of the major areas of contention was Judaism's attitude toward salvation of the Gentiles.

Answer for yourself: What side would Yeshua agree with?

The Schools of Shammai and Hillel both accepted all of the commandments contained in the five "written" books of the Torah (Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, and Deuteronomy). But the written law of Moses is too brief to be applied to practical issues of everyday life, and it was accepted that God also gave an oral and more detailed tradition was originally given to Adam, then to Noah, and finally handed down to Moses at Sinai. The debates of Bet Hillel and Bet Shammai centered on this oral tradition.

This oral tradition was passed down by Moses and it was forbidden to be set to writing. It was this Oral Law that later caused controversy among the rabbis; especially Bet Shammai and Bet Hillel. Finally, out of fear it would be forgotten due to all the persecution of Judaism and the deaths of its leaders at the hands of Gentiles, the sages permitted it to be committed to writing. The first major works were the Mishnah (200 A.D.) and the Tosefta (4th century), followed by two Talmuds; the Babylonian Talmud and the Jerusalem Talmud (5th century). The Babylonian version is more popular than the Jerusalem Talmud. Also at this time, books of homilies known as Midrash began to appear. The two major commentaries to the Babylonian Talmud are those of Rashi and the Tosefta. Why did I mention these works? The Mishnah, Talmud and Tosefta are the works of primary interest and authority when researching the Jewish law and tradition that surrounded Jesus and his teachings in the first century.

GOD CHOSE HILLEL'S INTERPRETATION FOR ALL TIME..IT CAME THROUGH A VOICE FROM HEAVEN

The School of Shammai [anti-Gentiles] came upon the Jewish scene 20 years before Jesus' birth, and flourished for around 100 years. After the destruction of the Temple in 70 A.D., the seat of the Sanhedrin was relocated to Yavneh, where the Halakhah (accepted interpretation of Jewish Law) of the School of Bet Hillel became once again the established Halakhah (accepted interpretation for all issues of Jewish law). Also at this time, God spoke from Heaven and a Heavenly Voice was heard declaring the Law was to be from that time forward decided in favor of the interpretations of the School of Bet Hillel. Since that time all Jewry has accepted the teachings of Bet Hillel. But this was too late to save Israel from the judgment of God for violating the commandments of the Second Tablet of the Law....the Commandments affecting relationships between man and men [Jew/Jew; Jew/Gentile].

HOW COULD YESHUA REPLACE WHAT HIS FATHER APPROVED?

Now listen closely. Jesus' debates with the Pharisees recorded in the New Testament were actually disputes with the Pharisees representing the School of Shammai and NOT the School of Hillel. Every Christian needs to set down and thing hard upon what I just said; especially in light of the teaching of anti-Semitic Gentile Christianity that all Pharisees opposed Jesus. Such a teaching is simply not true and a tragic misrepresentation of history. Jesus adopts the views of Hillel and the School of Hillel on "all" matters of Halakhah (interpretation) except on the matter of divorce, where he sides with the School of Shammai (which held a more strict interpretation). At the time of Jesus the interpretations and teachings Bet Shammai were influencing Jewish life and institutions more than Hillel's, and it was this way for almost 100 years. Through Shammai's teachings Israel was "loosing her way." It would be primarily the influence of Shammai and his hatred of the non-Jew by which Israel will fail to "merit" the Kingdom of Heaven and her King and the day of her visitation. The prophecies would not be fulfilled and the Messiah would not be revealed to a nation of Priests which hated those to whom she was called to go. Hillel had died when Jesus was 13-14 years old, and Hillel's influence in Israel was rapidly being replaced with the contemporary teachings of Shammai. Jesus (who accepted and agreed with Hillel) and Shammai (and Shammai's many students) were to clash continually! The Shammai Pharisees (and not the Hillel Pharisees) were responsible for handing over Jesus to the Chief Priest, and Sadducees and Romans for crucifixion, and this was a violation of Jewish Law. Couple this with the relationship the Shammaites had with the Sadducean Zealots in the priesthood, little wonder that the Chief Priests (Sadducees) capture Jesus and hand him over to the Romans to be crucified. Notice that the Hillel Pharisees (whom the majority of the people supported and followed) had nothing to do with Yeshua's crucifixion (it was they who warned Jesus to flee for his life in Luke 13:31). When you read Matt. 23 you cannot help but see Yeshua chastising the Pharisees; but what we fail to notice is that there were many sects under the umbrella of the Pharisees and Jesus says "Pharisees who"....indicating that many were not to be included in his rebuke of the insincere Pharisees. Yeshua took odds with the Shammaite Pharisees, not the Hillel Pharisees!

The Christian Church's failure to understand this has led them to erroneously believe that Jesus was rejecting his own religion by chastising the pharisees rather than calling for repentance within it by whose "who" had departed from God's will!

WE MUST UNDERSTAND THE TIMES AND THE TEXTS

Now let us learn something that Christianity has never taught you.

The Jewish people knew from ancient prophecy that their Temple in Jerusalem would be destroyed by the Gentiles (Dan. 9 describes 490 years that are allotted to the Jewish people to either usher in the Messianic Kingdom or else suffer destruction). Bet Hillel believed that reaching out to the Gentiles (since historically Israel had failed to be "a light unto the Gentiles") was the correct approach to possibly avoiding the coming destruction. I cannot stress the importance of the above consideration in the minds of the Jews like Hillel in the times of Jesus. Hillel and his students [School of Hillel Pharisees] maintained that righteous Gentiles merit salvation just as Jews do (Hillel, like Yeshua, accepted the teachings connected with the Laws of Noah), and it was their hope that a mission to the Gentiles could avert the destruction of their land and win God's approval, thus influencing God to repent of the destruction prophesied. Bet Shammai however looked down upon the Gentile world, holding that NOT even the most righteous Gentile could merit a share in the World to Come. Shammai believed the Gentiles deserved "hell" and no attempts should be made to alter their destiny. The Jewish people and their teachers have since declared Bet Shammai's views to be null and void, as did the Heavenly Voice toward the close of the first century (just the way God spoke at Jesus' immersion). Shammai and the Bet Shammai were indeed the Pharisees and priests that Jesus of Nazareth and Paul of Tarsus had to contend with within the pages of our Bibles, and not the Hillel Pharisees. Paul the Apostle's insistence that Gentiles be admitted into the early Messianic Jewish Church was based on Bet Hillel's position that righteous Gentiles merit salvation. Let us not forget that Paul had studied under Rabban Gamaliel the Elder, a grandson of Hillel where he received such instruction! Now you can better understand that the anti-Jewish passages contained in the New Testament were directed against the Shammaites, and not the Judaism which followed Bet Hillel, or even today which follows the instruction and interpretations of Hillel.

UNDERSTANDING YESHUA'S MESSAGE

Yeshua and his disciples warned all men everywhere not to "destroy" the Torah of Israel. Understand that is Paul's theology early in his life; sadly we have letters later in his life that teach the opposite. It is not my wish to get into the "Paul Problem" in this article but let it suffice that the truth about Paul has not often found the light day; especially in light of Gentile tradition that has overtaken historical truth.

Answer for yourself: Did Paul change his religious beliefs during his life or did the Gentile church create theology and put it in Paul's mouth? You might be surprised at the answer to that question.

A Jew is not permitted to leave his Torah, for Paul wrote in his letter to the Galatians Chapter 5 (remember Galatians was written to Gentiles) 'I, Paul, say to you that if you (writing to Gentiles) receive circumcision (along with immersion that makes you a Jew...ie., conversion), the Messiah will do you no good at all.'

Answer for yourself: What did Paul mean by the above comment?

I will deal with the meaning of that last phrase in a future newsletter but the core of truth related to this statement by Paul is that the death of Yeshua caused a movement within a Gentile hating Judaism taking God and the Gentile's Covenant to the nations to the world; no longer was forced circumcision of the Gentile and full conversion the only option for the non-Jew to be taken the salvation of the Jews and fellowship with other Jews. Enforced circumcision was the tactic of the Shammai Pharisees to keep Gentiles apart from them. This is not love but rather hatred of the Gentiles. Acts 15 is the turning point on this. Paul goes on to say "You can take it from me that every man (Gentile) who receives circumcision [prior to Acts 15 circumcision was understood as necessary for the Gentile coming to God thereby converting to Judaism]. It was the belief of the early church that Yeshua was the Messiah and because of this belief and his death and expected return that James and the Jerusalem church repented of their bigotry toward the non-Jew and no longer could enforce circumcision upon the non-Jew as had been done previously. This major step by Jews occurs in Acts 15 and letters were written to strengthen the Gentile churches thereby enforcing this decision for all Gentiles (Acts 15 and 16). A Jew by birth of course was circumcised and is obligated to keep the "entire Torah" but a converted Gentile was also expected to be circumcised and immersed and likewise under obligation to keep the 'entire' Torah " (613). But this was to change with Acts 15 and the repentance of James and the Jerusalem Church in regards to enforced circumcision of the non-Jew. A "converted" Gentile was considered "Jewish" and obligated to keep the 613 mitzvot as were other natural born Jews. Paul is teaching us that a Gentile (like you and me) who is immersed [traditional way of receiving non-Jews into faith with God] and who is circumcised [again part of the conversion process] is obligated to keep the entire Torah as if we were born a Jew! But since Yeshua's death lead to a movement within Judaism that repented of their stance toward non-Jews and no longer required circumcision of the non-Jew then to not take advantage of this nullifies the benefit of Yeshua's death and the movement that it produced. If one did not recognize this blessings [no longer required of a non-Jew to be converted to be accepted by God] that comes from the death of Yeshua then we better understand Paul's statement that Yeshua [believed to be the Messiah] profited them not at all.

- Answer for yourself: Did you hear that?
- Answer for yourself: What about Paul and his teaching that the Law is passed away?

It must now be obvious that Paul never intended for that to be your understanding; he never said that! Our problem is that we misinterpret the teachings of Paul not having a proper background necessary to understand correctly what he is saying. Let us begin with what happens when we are "Born-Again". Understand that Judaism was becoming divided in how to handle the non-Jew. The Jewish hatred for the Jews had enforced full conversion and circumcision on the male in hopes of it being a deterrent from having to deal with them since the Jews looked down on the non-Jew. But not all Jews did; as we just saw in Yeshua and the Pharisee School of Hillel. Judaism was torn within on what to do with the non-Jew. Previously being circumcised and then immersed meant full conversion. This was called "Being Born Again" in a Jewish context. This is not a Christian term; only stolen by them and given a new definition much later. But being "Born Again" has been wrenched from its Jewish context and given a meaning completely different from what it meant to Jesus/Yeshua. Now the question of enforcing circumcision as part of this process was being rethought by Jews who were repenting of their bigotry toward the Gentiles. Acts 15 again will be the pivotal point in this theological diversity and the Messianic branch of Hillel Phariseism will change their ways. Yet at the same time the Shammai School will continue their repressive measures toward the non-Jew and sadly this will be the dominant stance for Israel and will ultimately lead to its destruction in 70 C.E.

More to follow in the concluding article where we will tackle the intricate meanings of being "Born Again." Shalom.

THE HISTORICAL MEANING OF “BEING BORN AGAIN” AS CONTRASTED WITH WHAT CHRISTIANITY TEACHES TODAY: WHAT ARE WE TO BELIEVE? #2

In the previous article we examined the condition of the non-Jew in relationship with Israel and it's responsibility to be a Priest to the nations. We saw historically that Israel had failed in such a mission. Yet at the same time we saw a small section of Judaism which understood Israel's failure to bring the non-Jew to God and had repented of such bigotry toward the non-Jew and had mobilized several movements and attempts to reach the non-Jewish world with the Laws of Noah and the Covenant of Noah that provided Eternal Life for the non-Jewish believer. We also saw how the doctrine of circumcision which had never been required of the non-Jew as used by the Jews as a deterrent to keep the non-Jew from interaction and fellowship with the Jews.

Answer for yourself: What was Judaism to do with the non-Jew and how would they be led to God? Would full conversion to Judaism which required circumcision and immersion be required or only immersion and what was the Jewish understanding of the SPIRITUAL DYNAMICS that accompanied such immersion?

You might now be aware of it at present but the answers to above questions have the potential to change you life.

Now let us continue where we left off in the first article.

WHAT DID THE CONCEPT OF “BEING BORN AGAIN” MEAN TO JESUS? SHOULD IT MEAN THE SAME TO ME?

Before going on we must provide the reader some background information about immersion and its connection to being "Born Again." We must at first understand that "Born Again" is a Jewish concept and not a Gentile concept, not a Baptist concept, not a Catholic concept, and not even a Christian concept. If you want to know what being "Born Again" means the way Jesus and Nicodemus used it in John 3 then you have to ask a Jew or a Jewish scholar. To do otherwise and seek the meaning from the Vatican or any Evangelistic ministry that is on our televisions guarantees you receive an anti-Semitic replacement religious doctrine devoid of Divine truth. I apologize for other Christian ministers who have failed to such sufficiently in order to learn what these very important concepts meant to Jesus before they begin to teach them; sadly doing it wrong. We can change the meaning of "Born Again" and its intricate involvement with immersion as applied to both Jews and non-Jews but in so doing we only deceive ourselves from what God intended it mean. We can alter religious doctrines all day long and believe me this has been done but down deep in your heart I would hope you would want to know what being "Born Again" meant to Jesus and understanding it as such. For the very life of me I cannot understand how anyone can call himself a Christian or a follower of Jesus/Yeshua and not want to believe like Jesus and accept what he believed about being "Born Again." Startling as it might sound the vast, vast majority of Christendom will tell you that they are "Born Again" never knowing what it really means. Even more tragically such a declaration by the vast majority of Christians make them out to be liars as the fruit of being "Born Again" in the context used by Jesus in John 3 is absolutely lacking in their lives. I will make this very plain in the forthcoming article. So this article will be one of the biggest challenges possibly in your religious life.

Answer for yourself: What did being "Born Again" mean to Jesus/Yeshua? What happens when one was "Born Again" according to its Biblical definition and not the later Gentile reinterpretation of it?

In answering this we must deal with a very important issue concerning how a man comes to God and what is involved in it. This spiritual dynamic is often over looked by Gentile advocates of the current teaching of "Born Again" adopted by Gentile Christianity which finds its origins in the false atonement connected with a "literalized" sunworship. There is a "true Biblical Atonement" but due to our forged Christian Bibles which are not truthful to the Hebrew Scriptures we never learn of this; that is until we die and meet God face to face. Roman Christianity changed not only this atonement but many other "major doctrines" as well in their unbelievable hatred of the Jews. If you think I am kidding then I challenge you with all that I can muster to read the following websites over the next months and see if the evidence and facts unknown to presently are not overwhelming and totally convincing.

What you will find is the above studies is that the Spiritual concept of the "dying/rising" godman refers not to some supposed historical person named Jesus but to the God in you, your Soul who is to awaken in your fleshly body and coupled with your awareness of your Divine status and responsibilities before God you hopefully will elevate your existence in this physical plane of existence by feeding your Soul/Spirit on the true bread that comes down from Heaven, the Torah, and in so doing allow your Soul to grow, mature, and accomplish its intended purpose in its incarnation. In such studies you will see how the "pattern" of the dying/rising "godman" was tragically literalized by Rome in earliest centuries of the Christian era and in so doing see as well the altered the "Gospel" of God and His message as to how the Soul is to achieve Eternal Life in this incarnation in "you". Rome, changing this "Gospel" and Message of God for all mankind as robbed us of the truth concerning the Soul and its mission in this world when emphasis is laid on "belief" instead of "deeds in obedience to the Laws of God". Literalizing the "godman" and the "dying/rising godman", which was always understood "allegorically" for the Soul within by these Ancients, termed "pagans" by Rome, we today have been given a false "Christ" let alone "Messiah" by Rome. We tragically live out our existence as Christians never understanding what is required or desired in "being Born Again" and tragically die unprepared for our reunion with the Father. Boy, that is a lot to take in but if can and will this then you will see how important the concept of "being Born again, which I just described to you above, is for you and your Soul

Now it is time for the truth concerning being "Born Again." Biblically speaking when a person, either a Jew or Gentile turns from idols, from sin, and repents, and prays and asks forgiveness, and makes restitution, or bring alms following his repentance, confession, and prayer then he has received forgiveness of his sin. This is known Biblically as atonement. This is what the historical Jesus understood concerning both his Jewish Scriptures and his faith of Biblical Judaism. Of course Gentile Christianity and its New Testament accepts an alternate atonement. Without study into the origin of this replacement atonement no one will ever know that it is reproduced sun worship applied to a Jew by Rome. Now it is given that such a one who repents, prays, confesses his sin and brings restitution and alms is one already introduced to the God of Israel. Usually of course this is a Jew. Unknown to most Christians is that a Jew was born into Covenant with God unlike Gentiles and was circumcised the 8th day of his life which was the "sign" of that Covenant. When a Jew became a son or daughter of the Covenant then they were immersed according to the teachings of the Tanakh. This was not a simple water dip as we are taught by Gentile Christianity. Something SPIRITUAL happened to the one immersed that was noticed by God but not by man. These immersions were called "BEING BORN AGAIN" each and every time they were done; it was NOT a one time event! The Rabbis understood that not all the Commandments from God were the same and one special group of Commandments were called "Hukkim" which was understood by the Rabbis as "commands from God that did not make human sense yet accomplished spiritual realities in the Heavens." Immersion is one such "Hukkim." This gets somewhat technical so I would like to paraphrase if I might. The Rabbis understood such an "Hukkim" concerning immersion as a "spiritual step toward the Throne of God in the Heavens." They understood to the rational mind such immersion would seem to not have any affect on our "spiritual standing before God" but yet understood that it did. This was so important to the Rabbis that we understand the great number of immersion baths located outside the Temple for the worshippers would be immersed become attending "church" if you get my drift. They understood what we as Christians don't; namely that through immersions one was accomplishing something spiritual in their walk before God. Now understand that immersions such as these "Hukkim" were not done indiscriminately; but rather they were commanded at specific times.

- One was instructed to immerse following repentance from a sin where he was again "moving closer to God in the spirit realm."
- But more than that the Rabbis saw that the Tanakh commanded "being Born Again" through these immersions (mikveh) before one observes or celebrates the Sabbath and each of the Seven Biblical Festivals. These "mo'ed" are "appointed times" and "rehearsals" with God and special times with God. One prepares his heart and then "immerses" before sanctifying such "appointed times" with God because at these special times commanded by God one again is "moving closer to God in the spirit realm."
- A woman following her menses and her uncleanness since being tainted with blood was commanded to be "Born Again" through immersion before she could take her place again in the community and her husbands's bed.

As you can see the Rabbis understood such "immersions" and "mikvehs" as Commands by God that did not make rational sense yet God is God and God understands the need for these "immersions" be done by man whereby man was drawing closer to God in the Spirit realm. We find that only one "immersion" by Yeshua is recorded in the New Testament and that is the one right before Yom Kippur. Little wonder that a myriad of Jews had repented of their sins and had grouped themselves to be "immersed" like Yeshua before Yom Kippur. This was mandatory before one could observe or partake of Yom Kippur which was beginning at the dusk of the very day.

This explains the Jewish concept of being "Born Again" but does not explain it as applied to the non-Jew. This we will do now.

THE GENTILE AND BEING "BORN AGAIN"

The New Testament describes quite adequately the standing of the non-Jew with God:

Paul in writing to Gentiles states:

Eph 2:12 12 That at that time ye were without Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world: (KJV)

That is pretty bleak if you ask me. This is the Gentile's standing with God before he learns how to approach and be accepted with God. Israel we saw in the first article was hesitant in taking the non-Jew his Noahide Covenant and the ways by which he could be accepted with God. In fact we saw that Israel made it very difficult upon the non-Jew by enforcing circumcision upon a fully adult male in hopes that it served as a deterrent to keep them away from the Jewish people. We also mentioned that if a non-Jew desired to identify with the Jewish people and become a son of the Covenant as a Jew than he would be required to convert to Biblical Judaism through circumcision and immersion just like the Jew. This means that the non-Jew was being "Born Again" just like the Jew in his drawing closer to God following his repentance, prayer, confession, restitution, and alms which he was taught to bring according to the Tanakh.

This sticking issue if you remember was over "circumcision" or the "lack of circumcision" and the acceptance of such a one into the Israel of God by the Jewish people. We find a perfect example of a non-circumcised Godfearer in Cornelius in Acts 10.

When a Gentile was taught of God through the Jewish people and accepts the faith of the One God of the Universe, he identifies with God. As Gentile Christians and followers of Yeshua we likewise identify with God through the one He sent to reveal Himself; namely Yeshua (Jesus). It is through the name of Jesus we as non-Jews were instructed about the God of Jesus in the first place. The Gentile (in the act of repentance and faith) literally stands at his own Sinai, as did his Gentile forefathers (the Egyptians are a type and shadow of Ephraim, the other house of Israel) and says, like the Jews of old did, "All that the Lord has spoken we will do" (Ex. 19:8). Notice that the Bible say "all" the people said it at Sinai (this included the mixed-multitude of Gentiles and Jews together)! Included in that group were a mixed multitude of Gentiles along with Jews and this fact teaches us a very important lesson for our lives. At Sinai both Gentiles and Jews confessed adherence to the Covenant offered by God. God had previously instructed that they "wash their clothes."

Answer for yourself: Is there any special significance to this mixed multitude "washing their clothes?"

The Rabbis teach that "washing their clothes" is an idiom for immersion in water of their bodies. Here we see the example of both Jew and non-Jew experiencing the concept of "immersion" and being "Born Again" as taught by the Rabbis.

This again is the Hebrew "mikveh" where both Jew and Gentile were "drawing closer to God in the spirit realm."

Having turned from the false gods of Egypt and turning to the true God and Creator Moses was instructed to have both Jew and Gentile (Mixed Multitude) draw closer to God [be Born Again} in the Spirit through immersion. This was not forgiveness of sins since that was already accomplished through their repentance. Let us be clear on that and this was not their salvation as that was already accomplished by faith and their resultant actions based on their faith in the true God. This was more of a SANCTIFICATION of setting themselves apart unto God whereby they drew closer to God. Something that they did not understand was being accomplished through their immersion. The Rabbis call this "Hukkim."

The Rabbis teach that this is an illusion to both the Jews and non-Jews being Born-Again to the God of Israel. But again understand this was NOT a one time event but an experience to be repeated throughout their lives in their worship of God.

JOHN 3 AND BEING BORN AGAIN...WAS THIS NEWS TO ISRAEL?

This might be startling to you but the concept in the Gospel of John, chapter three, concerning being "Born-Again" is not the invention of Jesus. Being You have seen if you have read these two articles that "Born-Again" is a Jewish concept that has existed since the Garden of Eden and Adam. Now hear this...being "Born Again" is to be repeated throughout one's life....even your life as a Christian! A typical Jew was "Born Again" with each new encounter with God throughout his life. A Gentile convert had his "hello" experience with the God of Israel through immersion required in conversion [that was his first Born Again experience] but yet this experience of drawing near to God was expected to be repeated throughout his live by continually being "immersed" and "Born Again" after every repentance, before each observance of the Sabbath, before each observance of a Biblical Festival, and for the woman after her menses monthly.

Answer for yourself: Can we find in Scripture examples where righteous Jews were continually "Born Again?"

Examples in scripture where the children of Israel were "Born-Again" repeatedly (immersed and attained a new-heightened status before they met with God) are before each Sabbath, before each Feast and Festival, following repentance of sin, and for a lady, after her menses on a monthly basis before she could return to her husband's bed. This will be news to most but Yeshua was immersed repeatedly in his life. Yeshua, being a Torah observant Jew, was immersed before each Sabbath service and before each Biblical Festival each year. If you added it up you would find that Yeshua was immersed a minimum of 59 times a year. That being true we are misled in understanding this concept because recorded for us is just only one immersion of Yeshua in the New Testament and that one is the immersion the day before he observed the Yom Kippur. Yom Kippur is the Festival called the Day of Atonement and as I shared earlier every Torah observant Jew had to be immersed before he could participate in observance of Biblical Feasts and Festivals. Thus we would expect Yeshua to be immersed prior to Yom Kippur and we do in New Testament.

Sadly Christian scholars debate down through history with large volumes the reason for Yeshua's immersion; never stopping once to try to understand it from a Jewish perspective. I find their lack of insight and scholarship amazing and as an ordained Pastor and Seminary graduate I am ashamed of my fellow colleagues who know so little but profess so much.

Being "Born-Again" is not a concept originated by the Gentile church. It is a Jewish concept!

Amazing! As the repentant person entered into the immersion bath (a picture of a "watery womb" and "watery tomb") only to emerge as if "Born-Again" from a watery grave and a watery womb (with a renewed spiritual status before God). It was a new start for the believer. If he had sinned and repented God granted him a new status; a new start with God was his. This was perfectly symbolized through the rising from a figurative grave to life anew with God. This was again perfectly symbolized through the emergence from a watery womb to life anew with God. The pictures and symbols and metaphors which help explain this Spiritual advance with God are perfect once you understand that something supernatural happens between the believer and God in time of drawing closer with God. God knows it; He commanded it be done. We look at it without our Hebrew Roots and interpret it incorrectly and try to relegate it to a once in a life-time experience and attach a completely foreign meaning to it that God never intended. We not only have lost truth but the opportunities to draw closer to the God we say we love.

The Rabbis call this a "Hukkim" commandment; it does not make human sense but yet God requires it. The immersed one is then considered a new creation (2 Cor. 5:17) as he emerges from the water! Remember that this was also required of a Gentile convert coming to God for the first time. He was drawing close to God for the first time in his life through this Hukkim immersion. But immersion and being "Born Again" was not only to accompany repentance after one sinned or turned to God for the first time in one's life since being a non-Jew but was commanded all the time before one observes and celebrates a Biblical Holy Day or the Sabbath. Being "Born Again" was not a once in a life-time SALVATION EXPERIENCE because one believes some theology about Jesus as Paul would make it out to be in Romans 6; rather it dealt with sanctification and dedication to God which is to be repeated throughout one's life. At least that is what it meant to a Jew like Jesus. It many not have meant that to Paul, himself a Gentile convert that often departed from Jewish faith but that is whole other problem that bears your study. Also of note was that immersion and being "Born Again" applied to the non-Jew as he was immersed as part of his conversion to Judaism once he already had faith in God and had repented of his sin. This was in all the above cases a step toward God by the repentant Gentile. After his initial immersion it was then expected of him to be repeatedly immersed just like the Jew when he observed the Biblical Festivals and the Sabbath. In such a way we find the Gentile just like the Jew experiencing this drawing near to God.

Rom 10:12 12 For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon him. (KJV)

I wish everyone really believed the above verse. If you were Jewish you would have been instructed correctly concerning the mechanics of Biblical Immersion (being Born-Again) since you were a child, and would not be like many Christian Gentiles who have not had the truth taught them concerning such an important doctrine. It is startling that such a Jewish concept is considered the backbone of the Christian faith and the Christian fails to have the correct understanding regarding immersion and being Born-Again as Jesus understood it. As believers we should have understood it correctly from the beginning, which we have not. A Gentile entered into the watery tomb and watery womb and emerged, no longer considered a Gentile, the old things have passed away (his condition of being a Gentile estranged from God is over), behold God made all things new (he now is a part of the Israel of God just like the Jew)! He was now considered a citizen of the Israel of God!

Eph 2:12-13 12 That at that time ye were without Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world: 13 But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh ...(KJV)

Understand the non-Jews were brought nigh to God not only by the death (blood) of Jesus which began a movement out of a Gentile hating Judaism to them in the world whereby they were instructed in the Covenant of Noah [Acts 15.16] but were brought nigh unto God by faith and immersion whereby they "drew near to God in the Spirit realm" through this Hukkim Commandment called a mikveh!

Upon emerging from the watery tomb in which he was "Born-Again" he had the status of a Spiritual Jew...a child of God. He became Israel! He was considered as if he had always been Israel, for it was said by the Rabbis following conversion that it was if the non-Jew had no past and it was forbidden to bring up his past for it was as if he had always been Israel.

ARE YOU GRAFTED INTO ISRAEL OR NOT? OR DO YOU WANT TO REMAIN OUTSIDE THE ISRAEL OF GOD AS AN ANTISEMITIC CHRISTIAN?

The Gentile, after turning from idols and repentance (as a sign of his faith in the One God of Israel), and after following immersion in the Mikveh (baptism), was grafted into Israel as Paul would later tell us. The repentant Gentile believer chose God and His Torah. He chose to become "chosen". Since he is Israel, then the commandments given to "Israel" now apply to the Gentile "Christian" who looks to Yeshua, his teachings, and His God.

Answer for yourself: Is that your understanding? It should be!

It was Jesus' understanding and still is his today. The tragedy of the matter is that the Contemporary Christian Church has not studied to know who they are. They are included in the House of Ephraim; they are Israel. The Commandments of God as seen in the Torah are for them, not just the Jew born in the land!

LET'S MAKE SURE WE UNDERSTAND CORRECTLY

A "Gentile" is a term signifying a non-Jew, who is NOT a "son of the covenant" and is only subject to the seven Noahide Laws. Once a Gentile came to the understanding of the one true God, he would turn from idols and worship the God of Israel. These were the "God Fearers", who accepted certain basic Jewish obligations along with the Noahide precepts. This is more than Noahidism! People often misunderstand because my E-mail address is "bennoah1" but I am not a Noahide; I have gone beyond that and adopted Isa. 56 and consider myself a Godfearer like Cornelius in Acts 10. The Noahide movement stops short of a fuller dedication to God and that is not for me. According to the Laws of Noah idolatry, shedding of blood, and grave sexual sins were forbidden to Gentile believers. These were originally the Noahide precepts accepted also by the Synagogue on which the Gentiles were obliged. Let me remind you that we see in Acts 15 (at least 25 years after the death of Jesus) the admonition for the Gentiles to adhere to Noahide Laws to be accepted in the believing community of Israel (it was James as leader of the Jerusalem church who referred back to the Noahide Laws in addressing the question of Gentile salvation). But this was considered the "MINIMUM." It is logical that the Apostolic Church of Jerusalem should accept the view of the Synagogue on the conditions which Gentiles needed to fulfill in order to be "saved" and "accepted" in the "family of Israel". It can be easily shown that the fulfillment of other commandments of Judaism were not prohibited to Gentiles or Noahides. On the contrary, the Noahide precepts were only seen as the minimal condition for Gentiles to be recognized as "God-Fearers". These were so understood by the uncircumcised "God-Fearers" themselves, who were attracted to the Jewish way of life and accepted many Jewish commandments without becoming full proselytes (Sabbath, festivals, Tallith, etc). Understand that it would be these Godfearers who were also immersed before Sabbaths and Festivals like converts and Jews. This was also the attitude of Gentile Christian "God-Fearers", as may be seen from the Epistle to the Galatians; many of them wished to observe as many Jewish precepts as they could. It is evident that, while the leadership of the mother Church in Jerusalem decided to lay no burden upon the Gentile believers beyond the Noahide precepts, it did not object to their voluntarily observing more.

Acts 15:19-21 19 Wherefore my sentence is, that we trouble not them, which from among the Gentiles are turned to God: 20 But that we write unto them, that they abstain from pollutions of idols, and from fornication, and from things strangled, and from blood. 21 For Moses of old time hath in every city them that preach him, being read in the synagogues every sabbath day. (KJV)

It would be here that the non-Jews once having come to God would continue to grow spiritually and take upon themselves other Commandments over and beyond the minimum of the Laws of Noah. Needless to say this included repeated immersions and being "Born Again" before Sabbaths and Biblical Festivals.

Among the figures of the early Church who instructed Gentile Christians to observe more precepts than these essential "Noahide" ones was Peter, as we know from Paul's criticism of him for demanding that Gentiles live like Jews (Gal. 2:14). Rather than interpreting the apostolic decree of Gentiles adhering to the Laws of Noah as a minimum, Paul saw in the Noahide precepts the maximum obligations of Gentile Christians. They need not do or observe more according to Paul. Rather than Peter being incorrect, a more comprehensive understanding of the Bible reveals Paul to be incorrect; thus the biased view of the Gentile New Testament which it totally incorrect historically and Scripturally (regarding the Hebrew Scriptures).

Answer for yourself: Are you beginning to wonder how much less of God we have in our lives today because we were never taught correctly the concept of being Born Again by the anti-Semitic Gentile Church and have failed to draw nearer to God through these Hukkim Commandments most of our lives?

GET IT CORRECT PAUL OR DON'T TEACH IT AT ALL!

Paul remarks in a letter to the Corinthians (1 Cor. 7) that the circumcised (Jews or converted Gentiles) should not remove the marks of circumcision, nor should the uncircumcised (Gentiles become Jews) circumcise themselves. Wait a minute. Paul contradicts himself (like a lot of preachers today). In Galatians 5 he says "if you Gentiles get circumcised" and then he says "don't do it."

Answer for yourself: Can't Paul make up his his mind? Under the Laws of Noah Gentiles were never to be circumcised, and it was this ruling that was given to Paul in Acts 15 and 16 in letters which he and Barnabas and others were to take to the Gentile Churches in their journeys strengthening them.

Answer for yourself: But how could a Gentile be told to not remove the marks of circumcision if it was never required of him at all? This is something that was understood by God to be voluntary as seen in Abraham's circumcision; himself a non-Jew.

In Acts 16 Paul circumcised his disciple Timothy.

Answer for yourself: Timothy was not a Jew was he?

Answer for yourself: If he was a Gentile why bother, right?

This contradiction of Paul is very puzzling.

Answer for yourself: Sadly many have incorrectly interpreted Paul as teaching that circumcision was abandoned with the coming of Yeshua the Messiah, but was it? Acts 16 is over 20 years after Yeshua and Paul is still circumcising!

Answer for yourself: We have failed to understand properly, so what is the clear truth of the matter?

Yeshua and his Apostles did not wish to destroy the Torah (Law) from Israel, God forbid; for it is written so in Matthew 5:17, Jesus having said, "Do not suppose that I have come to abolish the Torah. I did not come to abolish, but to fulfill. I tell you this: So long as heaven and earth endure (do they yet exist today?), not a letter, not a stroke, will disappear from the Torah (the Law) until it is achieved. If any man therefore sets aside even the least of the Torah's demands, and teaches others to do the same (the majority of Pastors who preach the contemporary Christian message), he will have the lowest place in the Kingdom of Heaven, whereas anyone who keeps the Torah, and teaches others so, will stand high in the Kingdom of Heaven."

Bet Emet Ministries teaches Gentile and Jewish commitment and observance to the Torah, not because we desire to be "high" in the Kingdom of God, but because we love God and His Word, and would never think of destroying it by misinterpreting it or failing to study to arrive at the correct meaning of these truths for the people of God today.

It is therefore exceedingly clear that Jesus never dreamed of destroying the Torah or changing the meaning of being "Born Again" as have the majority of churches today that carry his name and substitute "another Gospel" for the true Gospel of Christ.

WHAT TO DO WITH TIMOTHY?

Paul does not contradict himself because of his circumcision of Timothy, for the latter was the son of a Jewish mother, and a Gentile father (Acts 16), and Paul knew that the child of a Jewish mother is considered a "full Jew", even if the father should be a Gentile. Paul thus acted entirely in accordance with the Halakah (interpretation of Jewish Law) by circumcising Timothy. This would be in line with his position, following the Jerusalem Council of Acts 15 in 50 A.D., that no longer will Gentile believers be required to "become fully converted Jews" to be accepted into Israel; that the Gentile believers could now remain as "God-Fearers" and be accepted fully by the Jews (1 Cor 7, Acts 15) without circumcision. But yet they might not have to be circumcised to convert but in their worship of the God of Israel they will be expected to observe the Hukkim immersions before the Sabbath and Festivals [being Born Again repeatedly]. Gentiles no longer had to "convert" to Judaism and become "fully Jewish" for inclusion with equal standing with Jews within the Israel of God. The Gentiles as "God-Fearers" were to also be accepted as grafted into Israel (as demonstrated by Cornelius in Acts 10 who was a "God-Fearer" and who had not yet been circumcised). It is important to note that as a "God-Fearer", Cornelius yet observed the Noahide Laws, honored the Sabbath, and ate kosher (proper killing, dressing and preparation of animals intended for food as well as the removal of all blood). The baptism of Cornelius into the Holy Spirit as had been the Jews earlier in Acts 2 during the Festival of Pentecost was the evidence needed to convince the Jerusalem church that the middle-wall of partition was being removed between Jews and "unclean Gentiles". Understand this "baptism" of the Spirit was a miracle of hearing for Cornelius, as had the various disciples from seventy different nations in Acts 2 understood Hebrew when spoken by Peter yet never knowing the language. This was a miracle of hearing and not "tongues" as taught incorrectly by Charismatic Christianity. It literally was a reverse of the Babel curse when all nations spoke different languages but understood them. This is what we find with Cornelius and Acts 2 in spite of the erroneous teaching of Charismatics. Cornelius could all of a sudden understand Peter yet spoke no Aramaic or Hebrew. From this experience with Cornelius in Acts 10 we learn that obedience to the Noahide Laws, without circumcision (to remain only as a "God-Fearer" and not fully convert to Judaism), was no longer to be a barrier between the "unclean Gentiles" and the Jews. This event will have a supreme impact in the Acts 15 council which is coming shortly. For example, table fellowship at the Shabbat (Sabbath observance) and the Festivals could now be shared together with the Jews without circumcision of the Gentile. This is what the death of Jesus accomplished; a new repentant understanding of the place of the non-Jew and his acceptance within the Israel of God by Jews previously blinded by their hatred of the Gentile. This was understood from Peter's vision in Acts 10 concerning "unclean foods" which the Lord cleansed (symbolic of cleansing of men [Gentiles], and not the animals designated as unclean in Leviticus). So many Christian commentators get this wrong.

Shammai's "Eighteen Measures" (one of which commanded Jews not to eat or enter into the homes of Gentiles-remember Shammai hated Gentiles) was overturned by God with the revelation at Cornelius' home. God never told a Jew that he could not enter into a Gentile's home or eat with a non-Jew; Shammai did. God corrects Shammai and those that followed his teaching. Peter's vision of the unclean foods represented the "unclean Gentiles" which God had cleansed; the vision was not meant to tell Peter that God had cleansed the "unclean foods". The message to the Jew is that no longer were they to treat the non-Jews like "dogs" and enforce circumcision upon them thereby keeping them away from God or only accepting them if they submitted to circumcision. Circumcision was to be no longer required for non-Jews to be accepted by Israel for God never required it of them; Israel was to no longer require this of them either. But immersion, another part of the conversion process understood as being "Born Again," was to continue. This was not to change since it accomplished something Spiritual in the Heavens. Let us not confuse this issue.

HOW DOES GOD LOOK AT YOU...A GENTILE CHRISTIAN BELIEVER TODAY?

Timothy had to be circumcised since he was Jewish (because his mother was Jewish) and, therefore, was required to observe all the commandments of the Torah (613). Gentiles who observe the Noahide Laws are forbidden to observe "ALL" the Torah like a Jew is required, unless they desire to be circumcised and identify totally with the Jew and his Torah (full-conversion); if so then they are no longer "God-Fearers" but have become full-fledged Jews and undertake all the 613 Commandments. Following Immersion into Israel the Gentile "Born Again" and is no longer considered a "Gentile", he is now Jewish (either partly or completely depending upon circumcision). All non-Jews who become circumcised following immersion are bound by ALL the commandments (613). Understand up front seldom if ever a Gentile male in the USA is circumcised on the 8th day as part of his faith or the faith of his parents according to the Bible. Let us understand as well that the immersion process is crucial for the Christian and he needs to understand it correctly as it applies to him. Once you as a Christian are immersed and identify with Israel, you emerged from that "watery womb" and a "watery tomb" as a Born-Again "God-Fearer" who is grafted into Israel without circumcision as part of any conversion process to Judaism. But yet you are immersed into the "Israel" of God and "drew close to God in a Spiritual way in the Spirit realm" and you never knew it. You are at that time considered by God as a Spiritual Jew regardless if you were aware of it or not or whether you Christian denomination or non-denomination recognizes this or not. Their doctrines cannot change the truth no matter what they think or believe. As a Gentile male who is immersed you are not considered a "partial-Jew" unless you are uncircumcised. If you are circumcised and immersed then you are yet considered a "partial-Jew" because your circumcision had no bearing upon you converting to Judaism. Of course in America circumcision is done without any spiritual significance whatsoever to the non-Jew and thereby cannot apply in any manner to a voluntary conversion to Judaism even though one is later immersed. That is why a Gentile today when he converts to Judaism still has his male member "pricked" to draw blood by the Rabbi in a token "circumcision" along with an immersion.

Answer for yourself: Did you hear that?

The majority of our readers most likely set in their churches thinking they are "Christians" and God's Word says that you are "Spiritually Jewish" (children of Abraham) and are the Israel of God. You have not replaced Israel no matter what your corrupt Christian Scriptures might fraudulently say; you became a part of Israel. Such doctrines are the fruit of Roman anti-Semitism. There is no such thing as a God ordained replacement religion even though Gentile Christianity might think in such an incorrect manner. You as a Gentile "Christian" are obligated to observe the Torah (that part of the Law that refers to you as a Godfearer and represents your Gentile Covenant before God), and sadly because of the great lack of true scholarship in Gentile Christianity you have let your unlearned pastors and teachers tell you repeatedly that you are "under grace" and "not under Law." You are under both; just examine your Covenant and you will quickly see this for yourself! I just showed you that a proper understanding of immersion and the teachings of Yeshua & Paul are in complete opposition to what Gentile Christianity believes "Born Again" means. This concept has been totally stripped from its Jewish context and given a totally different meaning that God never intended it have. Now, let me ask you as a Christian an important question.

Answer for yourself: Who are you going to believe; your pastor or Jesus? It is time to do some serious study into the origin of Gentile Christianity and contrast it with what the Jesus of history believed about God and the Hebrew Scriptures before they were altered by Rome to suit their own religious beliefs.

Answer for yourself: With such an obligation to the "Christian" who now becomes aware that he is either "part-Jewish" & "Spiritual Israel" (Judaism is not a race but a religion; the religion of Jesus) what are you to do concerning the Hebrew Scriptures which by example teach that the Gentile is expected to observe the Shabbat (Sabbath), Pesach (Festival of the Passover), Hag HaMatzah (Festival of Unleavened Bread), HaBikkurim (First Fruits), Shavuot (Festival of Pentecost), Rosh HaShannah (Jewish New Year), Yom Teruah (Festival of Trumpets), Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement), and Sukkot (Festival of Tabernacles)? More than likely in your Christian Church you don't observe any of these and immersion is a one time event tied not to drawing closer to God at each of these appointed times with God but accepting that particular brand of belief and set of doctrines surrounding Jesus as espoused by what particular denomination or non-denomination you are involved in at present.

Surely if you love God and desire to obey Him more than your Gentile traditions then you should want to begin to observe and keep these Holy Days of YHWH according to Scripture because informed study will reveal that not only the Jews but the non-Jews kept these Biblical Holy days all through the Hebrew Scriptures. Not only that they kept the Biblical Sabbath and not the Roman day of the Sun is our custom today. Along with this goes the concept of continually drawing closer to God at each of these "appointed times" by continually being "Born Again" throughout our lives according to the teaching of the Rabbis and the Hebrew Scriptures that Jesus used and believed in with all his heart.

PLEASE TELL ME THAT IT IS BEGINNING TO MAKE SENSE

Christian scholars have assumed from certain passages in the Gospels that Jesus wished to give a new Torah to take the place of the Torah of Moses. He could not do so unless he sinned.

Answer for yourself: How could Jesus have then said explicitly that he came only to fulfill the Torah (Law). In Hebrew this carried the connotation of rightly interpreting the Torah and not just obeying it but obeying it properly. Yeshua never came to abolish Judaism, but came to re-establish the religion of Judaism not only for the Jews calling for repentance and return to obedience to the Scriptures but also included the same message for the Gentiles because within Judaism exists the faith that God had given the the non-Jew from the beginning-Noahidism! At the waters of Marrah Moses reiterated the Laws of Noah before he built upon them the additive Laws known today as the Laws of Noah. Noahidism is the foundation on which the Laws of Moses rests. Nor was this religion new, but actually ancient; it being the observance of the Seven Commandments of Noah, which were forgotten purposefully by Shammai and his students because of his hatred of the non-Jew. Such hatred of the non-Jew was influencing the people of Israel in Jesus' day; thus Jesus came not for those who are well but those who need a physician and who are sick; sick with hatred for the Gentiles whom God loved and to whom God had called Israel to be a light unto to show them the their own Torah-their Instruction in the Noahide Laws. Along with this was a call for Jews to return to God in repentance and this was necessary before they could be an effective witness to the nations; Israel could not give to the nations what she did not have...righteousness. God had intended for the Gentiles to be redeemed all along. Jesus came for the "lost sheep of the house of Israel"; who had lost their way and forgotten their responsibility as God's Royal Priesthood to the Gentile nations. Israel had been entrusted with Divine truth for the world and she was not sharing it. She was in danger of severe judgment if she failed to repent. These truths were not only for them, but the Gentiles as well. It is important to understand that as there were "people who were lost" in Israel, there were others like the Essene Menahem and the Hillel Pharisees who had not "lost their way" and needed little if any correction by Yeshua! That is why Yeshua said the "kingdom" had been taken from the Sadducees and given to the Pharisees [Hillel School] when he said the Pharisees set in Moses' seat:

Matt 23:2 2 Saying, The scribes and the Pharisees sit in Moses' seat: (KJV)

The Greek word for "sit":

2523 kathizo- 1) to make to sit down to set, to appoint, to confer a kingdom upon one

Here we find that the rulership delegated by God to the Sadducees was stripped from them by God's representative as a spokesman for God and given to Hillel Pharisees which was the ONLY branch of Judaism that even attempted a Gentile outreach taking the Laws of Noah and the Covenant of Eternal Life to the Gentile world. Sadly the anti-Semitic Gentile New Testament blasphemes all Pharisees whereby one read and thinks that the only good Pharisee is a "dead" Pharisee. Such is the hatred spread by the New Testament; a Roman replacement religious document.

WHAT REALLY HAPPENED IN THE GREAT COMMISSION?

Jesus' Apostles, in fulfillment of the Great Commission of their master, established these Seven Commandments anew (Acts 15, Acts 16, Acts 21). However, those born as Jews (with Jewish mothers), or those Gentiles where were immersed [Born Again] and circumcised as "full-converts" to Judaism (Ex. 12:49; one law shall be to him that is home-born, and unto the stranger) are obligated to observe all 613 of the commandments of the Torah without exception. Notice if you will that the non-Jews partake of some of what the Jews were given but not all. But much was held in common by both and both Jew and Gentile keep the Sabbath, Festivals, and were "Born Again" repeatedly in their walk with God throughout their lives as this article has demonstrated beyond any doubt.

Answer for yourself: Are you a Gentile Christian [circumcised or non-circumcised] who has been immersed into the Israel of God through the ministry of Yeshua and his followers and "Born-Again" into Israel? Then that means you!

For the Gentile God reserved the Seven Noahide Commandments which they have always been obligated to fulfill. It is for that reason that they were forbidden pollution of idols, fornication, blood, and things strangled (Acts 15). Yeshua's Apostles, agreeing with the School of Hillel, would no longer enforce circumcision on the non-Jew for inclusion into the Israel of God (to do so would mean full conversion) and they would no longer enforce Sabbath observance (exactly like the Jews observed it) but teach it to the Gentile in a somewhat modified fashion. The mandatory observance of the Sabbath by "God-Fearers" was similar, but not exactly alike the Jewish observance.

This may sound so different from what your traditional Christian message has been, but your Christian message is incorrect if it does not agree or line up with the Apostle's Doctrine. I just taught it to you as it existed in the days of Jesus. All of what I have shared with you is in accord with the law and custom of the Torah, as expounded by the Jewish sages, the true transmitters from Moses at Sinai, and understood by Jesus of Nazareth in the first century (they Jews today are the legacy of the Pharisees that survived 70 C.E.; they sit in Moses' seat...listen to what they say).

Our Gentile Christianity and religious dogmas and understanding today is incorrect if it violates the truths as Jesus and the School of Hillel understood them. We do not know more about salvation than Jesus and the Jewish people and sages that agreed with him no matter what we think or have been taught by our Gentile authorities

It was to the Hillel Pharisees Jesus referred to in Matt. 23 who set in Moses' seat and to whom we are to listen for correct doctrine. No greater example need be given than the doctrine of being "Born Again." We are not to follow the examples of any leaders if they do not line up with the Apostle's

Doctrine of Acts 2:42.

Answer for yourself: Has Rome and their New Testament correctly portrayed Apostolic doctrine and how do you know for sure if have never studied Biblical Judaism and made your own comparisons of religious dogmas between them?

This teaching on immersion, being "Born Again," and conversion of the Gentile along with the role of the Godfearer is Apostolic Doctrine as Yeshua understood it and as taught by his disciples, and any other interpretation other than this is NOT correct. We are not to follow any spiritual examples unless they live what they preach and unless that line up with Biblical truth that can be demonstrated from historical and linguistic study (that means the Pharisee Preachers of Christianity today who fail to teach and live the truth of Apostolic Doctrine! No greater "Pharisees" have ever lived than the anti-Semitic Gentile Church of the last 1800 years. Jesus tells us not to follow them unless they agree with him! Good advice. This same admonition is given in Deut. 17:8 ff., where the authority to teach and lead the people were given to the religious leaders God put over the people of "Israel". These occupy Moses' seat and it is time for the Christian Church to set at the feet of the Rabbis and learn truth for a change.

One of the reasons why Gentile Christianity refuses to learn from the Jewish sages and Rabbis and would rather repeat Gentile Religious dogmas which are incorrect without even knowing it because of that one passage in Romans 11 which teaches that Israel was blinded.

Rom 11:7 7 What then? Israel hath not obtained that which he seeketh for; but the election hath obtained it, and the rest were blinded (KJV)

This is all well and good UNTIL you find out that this passage was completely lacking from the original Romans until well after 180 A.D. when it miraculously appeared under the influence of Irenaeus which gave the world the 2nd New Testament in response to Marcion's 1st New Testament which Rome did not like. But even more the whole of Romans chapter 9, 10, and 11 cannot be shown to have existed before 180 A.D. again under Irenaeus' influence. So much for the Gentile Church's refusal to accept anything Jewish...like the correct understanding of being "Born Again."

IT IS WAY PAST TIME TO GET REAL

Answer for yourself: Do the Baptists, Methodist, Catholics, Assemblies of God, or any other denomination or non-denomination occupy Moses' seat? No. The Catholic and Protestant denominations are far from being Jewish and often very far from having truth. Salvation is of the Jews according to Yeshua and that will never change. Sadly such anti-Semitic doctrines created by Irenaeus has blinded the Gentile from truth; it is the Gentiles who are blinded to truth and not the Jews.

Answer for yourself: If by change the Jews were wrong then what does that do to Jesus and what he said concerning who is to take the reign of the Spiritual direction of Israel and the resultant responsibility for enlightening the Gentiles? Do you dare tell Jesus that he made a mistake and he should have said the Crystal Cathedral or TBN sit in Moses' seat?

It was these Sages and Pharisees who said that it is forbidden to circumcise a Gentile who does not accept upon himself the yoke of "ALL" the Commandments. In America male babies are circumcised apart from the truths of God's Word (we are commanded to circumcise on the 8th day and not within the first 2-3 days of a newborn's life or a year later as some do) and because of our failure to circumcise according to the Biblical example along with our failure to teach Biblical truth [take Born Again for an example] instead of anti-Semitic doctrines the Gentiles remain "aliens to the commonwealth of Israel." When a Gentile male is finally circumcised it has no connection to the Biblical injunction and therefore the doing so later coupled with a later immersion does not render him a "convert" to Judaism. The Gentile becomes a "God-Fearer" and not a convert. Identification with Israel is by faith and free will. You must choose to stand at your personal Sinai and say to God "I will do all that you say".

Answer for yourself: Do you want to obey God?

Answer for yourself: Do you want to honor His Name with your life?

Going to churches that teach error does not accomplish anything and your fellowship with darkness surely does not honor God when our worship of Him is in error and our religious beliefs as Gentile Christians are contradicted by Biblical faith.

Answer for yourself: Have you ever been to your personal Sinai and told God you will do all that He says?

Answer for yourself: Will you ever go?

Answer for yourself: Will you choose to return or remain in your Egypt of ignorance and false traditions and false religion that amount to idolatry instead of choosing the freedom of Spiritual truth when it is presented to you?

The Sages likewise said that the Gentile is commanded NOT to "fully" observe the Sabbath as does the Jew (yet he is to remember and keep it). Acts 20:6 recounts for us the Gentile believers and how they were taught by Paul to remember and keep the Sabbath. It is here we find the Gentile Church keeping Jewish ordinances well over thirty years after Yeshua's death. At one time the Gentile Church had such truths of which I speak; sadly today under Constantine's influence these truths are buried.

As far as the Gentiles ("God-Fearers") were concerned, they were NOT commanded to observe all the Torah (the 613 mitzvot). The Gentile "God-Fearers" did not have to accept all the 613 mitzvot and are not enjoined to observe all of the 613 commandments. However, it is completely different as far as Jews are concerned, for they became obligated to fulfill the Torah because God delivered them from the bondage of Egypt to be the people of His possession. Therefore they and their children became subject to it forever and so are those Gentiles who make full-conversions to Judaism.

LET'S SUM IT ALL UP

It should be easy to see that Jesus and his Apostles never meant to abolish the Torah of Moses from one who is born a Jew. Likewise, did Paul write in his letter to the Corinthians (1 Cor 7) that each should adhere to the faith in which each was called. This being the case after Jesus' death a moment began with Jesus' followers whereby they repented of their hatred of the non-Jew and began to earnestly take the Gentile nations Gods offer of Eternal Life as found in the Laws and Covenant of Noah. Unlike before the disciples of Yeshua/ Jesus forbid mandatory circumcision of the Gentiles before having anything to do with them. Yet they taught them correctly about being "Born Again."

The rabbis and teachers like Hillel and the Jerusalem Church [Acts 15/16] thus took the Gentiles the revelation of God and instructed them not to be circumcised unless they wished to be fully converted to Judaism (this had no bearing upon immersion since it was required for "partial" as well as "full" conversion). It would suffice that the Gentiles observe the Seven Noahide Commandments, as commanded upon them through the Halakhah from Moses at Sinai. This was the minimum requirements for inclusion into Israel.

Rabbi Emden was correct; Jesus brought a double kindness into the world.

- One the one hand, he strengthened the Torah of Moses majestically (Acts 24:20 states that many thousands of Jews were believers in Yeshua as Messiah and zealous for the Torah (Law); this was over 30 years after Yeshua's death and resurrection). The ministry of Jesus helped return the "children of Israel

- back to their Fathers; the Patriarchs and their faith" and thus fulfill Malachi's prophecy.
- On the other hand, Yeshua did much good for the Gentiles (provided they do not turn about his intent as they please, as some foolish ones have done because they did not fully understand the intent of the authors of the Gospels and epistles. Yeshua obligated his Apostles to fulfill the Great Commission by taking the Gentiles (as a minimum) the Seven Commandments of Noah so that they should not be as the beasts of the field and continue to live their lives as pagans and a little above animals. He also bestowed upon them ethical ways, and in this respect he was much more stringent with them than the Torah of Moses. It is not necessary to impose upon Jews such extreme ethical practices, since they have been obligated to the yoke of Torah since Sinai. Israel took the oath at Sinai and are already trained in proper practice and nature of the Second Tablet of the Law (ethical monotheism and the horizontal relationships man-to-man). It would be for Paul to constantly correct, reprove, teach Apostolic Doctrine, and instruct the Gentiles in his travels since it was to his audience he would write "you are strangers from the Covenant promises, aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, without hope and without God in the world".

If Christians would study they would understand what I have detailed in this teaching. No longer would the Church erroneously teach the cessation, abolition, or replacement of the Torah of Moses and Yeshua. Such sin and foolishness would and should cease.

Because of these errant Christian scholars, hatred has increased toward the Jews who are blameless of any guilt concerning Yeshua's death and proceed innocently to observe their Torah with all their heart (intellect), soul (dedication and commitment to action) and might (resources and property). The leaders of the Churches of Jesus Christ should study to learn correctly for themselves before they lead their people into sin and astray from the will of God for their lives and teach gross error in Jesus' name. This does anything but honor him. The Jew is the brother of the Christian. Ephraim (the grafted-in Gentile) and Judah make up Israel. As members of the Christian faith, how good and pleasant it might be if you would observe what was commanded to you by your first teachers, sent directly to you by Yeshua, with his message, and not the message that anti-Semitism has created these last 2000 years. The Christian Church is in desperate need of being "Born Again" into TRUTH that its historic Fathers rejected along with forging religious documents that have almost guaranteed to this day that such truth remain hidden from the Gentile. No greater example could be given than the corruption of what Jesus knew and taught concerning being "Born Again."

Let us continue our studies by seriously evaluating whether, in light of what we have learned in these last few articles, if we can truly say that we are followers of Jesus.

THE JEWISH UNDERSTANDING OF SALVATION

I am asked a lot by our readers to define "salvation" as related in the Christian Bibles we have inherited in the New Testament. This might seem difficult at first but there are two different "salvation messages" in the New Testament. If you have never seen this then let me direct you to these conflicting messages; one given by the "Jewish Christ" and one by the "Romanized Paul". Besides that there are also two conflicting ways to obtain "Eternal Life" as taught in the New Testament; again, one from the "Jewish Christ" and one from the "Romanized Paul". Hidden behind this Paul of Rome's making is the Gnostic Paul who agrees with the "Jewish Christ" but in order to understand and discern the difference in these Pauls the reader must be competent in understanding the different manifestations of Gnosticism and its unique relationship to Natural Law and the Jewish Torah. That is a study well worth the effort.

I believe everyone will understand and agree that we, living in the Western Hemisphere, have inherited a "Judeo-Christian" faith and this is the very foundation of our nation. Mixed in this "Judeo-Christian" faith is a mixture of both "truth" and "falsehood"; again the goal is discerning the difference and such is not possible without effort on part of the reader and student to understand the theological differences between Judaism and Gentile Christianity as it developed apart from its mother's faith.

There are many substantial and vital distinctions between Judaism and Christianity. Of course, there are many similarities as well, primarily because Christianity emerged from Judaism. However, the emergence was not a direct line. Christianity broke from Judaism, forming a new religion, so it is misleading, however comfortable the thought might be, to believe that the two religions are essentially the same, or to see Christianity as the natural continuation of Judaism. No greater example can be seen than in contrasting the very heart of these two contrasted religions; by that I mean the opposing teachers concerning "salvation" as taught by this great faith of Judaism and her separated daughter, Christianity. The differences between the two religions will be explored in this article concerning only the message of salvation.

As a preface, it is useful to repeat Judaism's central belief that the people of all religions are children of God, and therefore equal before God. All people have God's love, mercy, and help. In particular, Judaism does not require that a person convert to Judaism in order to achieve salvation. The only requirement for that, as understood by Jews, is to be ethical and this is accomplished by following a "pattern" for the soul which regulates the behavior of the animal we call "mankind". While Judaism accepts the worth of all people regardless of religion, it also allows people who are not Jewish but who voluntarily wish to join the Jewish people to do so. It is not really possible to summarize either Judaism or Christianity fairly in this one article therefore your personal study is encouraged.

However, the Divine Book we have inherited, by that I mean the Christian Bible, does not present a clear picture or message regarding what "Eternal Life" actually consists let alone how to inherit it and "be saved". Over these last twenty years I have discovered that almost every nation that has ever existed has had its own Divine and Unique understanding of this Creator and "His Christ" and this original message from the Divine concerning "salvation". From Ancient Egypt on down through the hallways of recorded history we find nation after nation having received this same Divine Revelation from the Creator mediated to them by God's mediator, or Christ or "Karast". Having done these studies we find that each of these Divine Revelations are unique to each nation and interpreted through the eyes and history of each of these succeeding nations. What is amazing when you see this when studying comparative religions is that although these Divine Revelations and "Salvation Messages" are uniquely interpreted by each of these nations as separate and a distinct people they all possess overriding "common themes" and this is what is important. Judaism, like Ancient Egypt, has common Divine Ideas and "theologies" that amazes the students of these religions once they are recognized and compared. It is not a stretch to say that Judaism is but a later "reflection" of the Divine Wisdom of Egypt. Having said that it is important to note that our "Judeo-Christian" nation has inherited this same "Salvation Message" as mediated through the "Jewish Christ" of which we read in our Christian Bibles. But there is a problem. The problem is that with the emergence of Rome and their antisemitic "theology" in the 2nd through the 5th centuries then this long standing "Salvation Message" is corrupted and "blurred" almost beyond recognition and it takes one well versed in such detailed New Testament and Jewish studies to sort it all out correctly once again. We at Bet Emet Ministries has done this in our websites. Thus, being asked about "salvation" so often by my readers I thought I would set out in specific terms what the Jewish understanding of "salvation" both "was" and "is" today. Having come to this understanding then all the more do the contrasts and contradictions from the later Gentile Roman viewpoint become apparent and stand apart from this earlier Divine Revelation recognized by antiquity by almost all.

Jews and Christians share a common hope for the redemption of humankind. Both acknowledge that personal salvation can be achieved in the here and now and that full redemption for the world is yet to come. Both await the messianic fulfillment the end of time, whether conceived of in terms of a personal messiah or a messianic age. However, despite these similarities, there are fundamental differences in Jewish and Christian concepts of salvation. Although the same terminology is often used, Christians and Jews have different frameworks into which this language fits.

For Judaism, salvation is available to Jews in this life through their faithful observance of Torah. Jews prefer to use the phrase "have a share in the world to come" rather than "salvation". Redemption, defined as a share in the world to come, is available through the quality of Torah-living and not through belief in a particular saviour-figure. What most Christians fail to understand in light of what most hear preached erroneously from the pulpits Judaism NEVER taught that "salvation" for the Jew or the "non-Jew" was obtained by fulfilling the "Law" correctly never once breaking one Commandment or Law. Judaism never taught that in reality one is expected by the Creator to live one's life never falling short in fulfilling the Law at times; in reality this happens to all since we all fail at times. But Judaism DOES TEACH that this Law is a "training manual" to develop the Soul and humankind; it, when followed as a "pattern" for life, elevates man over time to a point of Spiritual maturation and attainment before God. The Torah is the training manual for life and only through repentance and renewed obedience can man lift himself up and make himself acceptable to God and this is attained through a life-time of continued conformity to God's Laws and Torah. This is God's "true salvation" of mankind; both in this physical life and this physical plane and the "world to come".

Contrary to popular Christian stereotypes, faith not works, is the key to personal redemption in Judaism. But "faith" plays a huge part in Judaism but faith does not stand apart from "works" and "acts of obedience to the Laws of God" in Judaism as it does in Christianity. Good deeds are important as a means to verify and substantiate "saving faith" but they are not a substitute for it. Judaism requires "both" where as Christianity does not. Christianity teaches salvation "by faith alone". In Christianity redemption is not the reward "merited" or "earned" through the quantity of good deeds as it is in Judaism but through faithfulness to God "alone"; in reality this "faithfulness to God" is defined in Christianity as a set of orthodox "religious dogmas" or some "creed" connected somehow to the supposed historical life of the Christian Christ. In Judaism the Commandments and Laws of God, incorrectly called the "Law" when in Hebrew it is rightfully called "instruction" or "teaching" as in "the Torah" which is the instrument by which Jews are taught to express their faith in God and they do it through obedience to concrete "positive" actions approved by God and refraining from "negative" actions not sanctioned as "acceptable" by God. These are the "Positive" and "Negative" Mitzvot in the Torah and they number 613 for the Jew (the Laws of Moses) and 66 for the "non-Jew" (the Laws of Noah). In terms of other faiths, Judaism recognizes that the righteous of all nations "have a share in the world to come" or the possibility of salvation through ethical conduct and behavior. Redemption is available outside the Jewish faith by faithfulness to God through a person's particular religious tradition when it coincides with "the ethical teachings" of the Torah. As we will see shortly Judaism stipulates that for Gentiles to become "the righteous of the nations" there are seven laws, or better understood as the 7 Categories of the Laws of Noah, which are incumbent upon the "non-Jews" in order to be included in "the world to come". These are often called the Noahide Laws. These laws provide the minimum requirement by which non-Jews can share in the world to come. While redemption is a future, undisclosed hope for Christianity I found that Judaism stresses that salvation is a gift immediately accessible in the present. Through Jewish teaching and religious instruction, through the living of such teaching out by following the Divine pattern in one's life as found in the Torah, a Jew becomes a part of the Olam Haba (the world to come, i.e., member of those worthy of salvation). Thus the Torah is the means to salvation, illuminated pathway to achieving such a desired end. In reality the Torah is the measure of a person's worth before God. Basically this teaches that it is not the quantity but the quality of Torah living that is reckoned by God as meriting "Eternal Life".

For Christianity, however and traditionally, salvation is only possible through the Christian Christ whom they define as the "Jesus" of the New Testament and faith in events in his life as connected by Christian theology as affecting one's redemption. The Church believes that Jesus' death on the cross was the once-for-all sacrifice that, in some mysterious sense, atoned for the sin of humanity. Traditionally, personal salvation is attained through one's personal and conscious acceptance of Christ as his "saviour and Lord"; therefore those without such faith in this Christian Jesus as "the Christian Christ" and the life-events in his supposed historical life interpreted as bringing "saving grace" to one's life then all face eternal damnation. This is technically called a exclusivist approach to salvation. Today, however, two alternative Christian approaches to other faiths have emerged. These are the inclusivist and pluralist positions. Instead of seeing other religions demonic, some Christians want to affirm them. There are nuances within inclusivism and pluralism, but in general it would be fair to say that inclusivists argue that the creator God is working through every religion. Christ is saving the adherents of other religions without them realizing. When Christians encounter a person from another faith, we are to assume that God is working anonymously through God's Christ their lives (whether they know it or not). This is the official position of the Catholic Church. On other hand the pluralist theologian would affirm that salvation is available apart from belief in Christ and normative Christian dogmas. Each religious tradition can offer salvation for its adherents if they turn from self-centredness to God-centredness. Although many Christians are sympathetic to such religious pluralism, the the official position of most Christian churches is the exclusivist approach mentioned above where "only Christians" who have accepted the Christian Jesus "are saved" and this is only because they have and maintain a faith in the "creeds" and "theological dogmas and doctrines" of organized Christianity.

It is important for Christians to understand the role of the Law in Salvation. The Jew does not draw down either salvation or redemption from some Heaven, but Jewish deeds are understood as the preparation for the righteousness of God to give mankind "salvation" and "redemption". Such preparation for "salvation" and "redemption" come from opportunities during one's life whereby he can conform himself to the Divine Behavior as defined in each of God's Laws and Commandments. Over time, over one's life, the Torah has a Spiritual way to transform and conform one's life to a higher ethic than the animal nature that lays at the heart of each human being. The Yetzer Ra, the evil nature in mankind, is not a desire to do evil in the way we normally think of it in Western society: a desire to cause senseless harm. Rather, it is usually conceived as the selfish nature, the desire to satisfy personal needs (food, shelter, sex, etc.) without regard for the moral consequences of fulfilling those desires. The Yetzer Tov is the moral conscience, the inner voice that reminds you of God's law when you consider doing something that is forbidden. The Torah sharpens one's Divine Nature and allows it to master in one's live and exert control over the Yetzer Ra or the evil and selfish nature in mankind. Mankind, over time, is trained by living as best he can these Torah precepts and Laws to master this baser nature that exists in him and submit it to the higher Divine Self, the Yetzer Ra. Thus the Torah prepares an individual to turn in faith to God; the turning of individuals to God prepares the way for God's gracious act of redemption which comes as a result of man reaching out for Divine perfection in this human plane and again this "perfection" is defined by each of the Laws and Commandments in the Torah which define for man what "God approves" and what "God disapproves". The rest is up to man to "choose life" and "be ye holy for God is holy". Thus, we imitate God in our lives the more we conform and allow ourselves to be transformed by the Torah and mimic these actions as defined by each Law and Commandment that we incorporate in our lives. The stress in Judaism is on discovering opportunities in personal life for the response of faith and opportunities in political life for God's reaching out of redemptive power is the key that brings God's salvation and redemption nearer to us in the life we live long before we die. At death, we inherit the fullness of God's salvation and in our lives we inherit and merit the grace according to our obedience to these Laws and Commandments.

Christians in dialogue with Jews often confuse this emphasis on the need for concrete opportunities in which personal salvation and national redemption can take place with a humanistic arrogance. True ecumenical sharing can begin only when the spiritual element of the Jewish hope for salvation and redemption is clearly understood. Christians need to realize that Judaism stresses deeds as a means to faith, not as substitutes for it. Salvation is made possible because God graciously gave a Torah in which opportunities for a faithful turning to God are numerous. The grace of God should be seen in His giving mankind in the first place the "blueprint", if you will, and laying out clearly these Laws and Commandments to mankind in order to show man what is acceptable and not acceptable with the Divine Creator and then the gift of repentance and forgiveness when man falls short of the Divine Pattern in his life. The goal is that at the end of man's life he will have grown in "Torah obedience" to a greater degree than when young and then God can judge and reward him with good and not bad. Coupled with this is when older, when mankind's lusts selfishness ebbs to a new low with advanced age, then man can again be judged by God at death for good and not bad. Such should be seen in God's grace working in mankind to help mitigate the judgment when mankind falls short of the desires of God. So then, if you follow what I have said, then the Jew, as well as the "non-Jew", does not actually earn salvation by multiplying large quantities of sterile actions but rather "merits" it through a life-time of practice of the Torah hopefully becoming more Torah obedient the longer he lives before God. Only one action, faithfully performed, is sufficient. God's grace, however, has made the faithful turning possible through the instrument of Torah and this, as I said, is coupled with the gift of repentance and forgiveness when man turns from violating these Laws and turns again to God in Torah obedience.

A final point needs to be made. Torah presents the Jew with opportunities for turning in salvific faith. All human beings, however, are graced with opportunities of their own (whether they know it or not). Every day the Creator allows for opportunities in each of our lives to live out the Torah. As you can see it helps to not only know these Laws but the every nuances in these Laws in order to live a life pleasing to God. At the very least the seven divine instructions given to Noah provide non-Jews with such opportunities for turning in salvific faith. Of course, it goes without saying, Christianity is an antisemitic and an antinomian ("anti-Law") faith and seldom do we encounter Christians with a comprehensive understanding of these Laws of Noah let alone the many nuances contained within them. Seldom have we ever heard preached from Christian pulpits the elucidation of these Laws of Moses and or Noah.

Answer for yourself: What is the tragic consequence of such lack of knowledge regarding these Laws? Simply said, a Christian has no way of knowing if his "conducts and behaviors", let alone "religious beliefs" in this Christian influenced Western hemisphere are in violation of these Divine Laws. A typical Christian usually assumes that they are not; after years of study of the Judeo-Christian roots of Christianity I had shed so many tears because my life as a typical Christian was so often opposed to what is taught in these Divine Laws. I would learn a hard lesson, a lesson that will eventually culminate in my resignation as a Christian Pastor, namely, that a huge amount of Christian religious instruction and dogma had rendered me a violator of these Divine Laws in the Torah and I stood as a Divine Law-Breaker before God but yet I considered myself a "good Christian". Tears flowed during those years when my true standing before God became apparent to me as a Christian pastor who had taught so many "untruths" thinking I was "right" before I finally came to study out the origins of my Christian faith and the fruit of such repentance on my part is this article and ministry which God allows to exist today which endeavors to reach out to Christians with the truths they were deprived of by an antisemitic Rome which changed everything in the 3rd century.

A couple of more things need be said.

Judaism does not accept the notion of original sin, the idea that people are bad from birth and cannot remove sin by themselves but need an act of grace provided by the sacrificial death of Jesus as atonement for all of humanity's sins. For Christians, there are no other forms of salvation other than through Jesus. In contrast, the Jewish view is that humans are not born naturally good or naturally bad. They have both a good and a bad inclination in them, but they have the free moral will to choose the good and this free moral will can be more powerful than the evil inclination. Indeed, Jewish ethics requires the idea that humans decide for themselves how to act. This is so because temptation, and with it the possibility of sin, allows people to choose good and thus have moral merit. The Jewish view is not that humans are helpless in the face of moral error. Christianity has the opposite view and stresses that "grace" is "unconditional favor". The next time you hear that from the pulpit or from some pastor's mouth open a Hebrew Lexicon and ask him to explain why the Hebrew word for "grace" is CONDITIONAL (as in "conditional" to attempted obedience to God's Laws that falls short at times but renews itself in repentance as one picks himself up once again and embarks upon the path to righteousness once again by attempting to live by these Divine Laws and Commandments once again).

In general, Jewish thinkers have focused on the ways to lead a good life on Earth and improve this world, leaving concerns about death and beyond until the appropriate time. Judaism has stressed the natural fact of death and its role in giving life meaning. Of course, issues of death are inevitably important. The fear of death, concern about the fate of our own Soul and those of our loved ones, ethical concerns that some people die unfairly, all these and many other issues are discussed in Jewish literature. Since God is seen as ultimately just, the seeming injustice on Earth has propelled many traditional Jewish thinkers into seeing the afterlife as a way to reflect the ultimate justice of human existence. Traditional thinkers considered how individuals would be rewarded or punished after their deaths. There are a few rare descriptions of life after death. Traditionalists gave the name Gehenna to the place where souls were punished. Many Jewish thinkers noted that since, essentially, God is filled with mercy and love, punishment is not to be considered to be eternal. There are, similarly, many varying conceptions of paradise, such as that paradise is the place where we finally understand the true concept of God. It is also possible that there is no separate Heaven and Hell, only lesser or greater distance from God after death. In addition, punishment might be self-determined on the basis of suffering in kind the suffering the person brought about. That is, Judaism doesn't have a clear sense of Heaven and Hell, with different places in Hell for different punishments. Rather, the idea is that God uses the afterlife to provide ultimate justice and for the wicked to seek some sort of final redemption. Judaism does not believe people who are Gentiles will automatically go to Hell or that Jews will automatically go to Heaven on their basis of their belonging to the faith. Rather, individual ethical behavior is what is most important. Many traditional Jews believe that Judaism provides the best guide to leading such an ethical life, and that again because they have always cherished the Torah and given their lives to preserve it while early Roman Christianity discarded it and in so doing gave license to Rome to what whatever they wished without impunity. They call this period of Christian History "the Dark Ages".

In closing, a basic Jewish presupposition is that the righteous from all nations inherit the world to come (cf. TB Sanhedrin 105a). While redemption may be national and particular, salvation, because it is individual and personal, is universal. The Jew denies salvation to no human being; only Christianity and its exclusive theology does that in our world today. Religious traditions may vary, but salvation is possible for the non-Jew no less than for the Jew.

BY PRACTICING RIGHTEOUSNESS CAN A GENTILE MAKE HIMSELF ACCEPTABLE TO GOD? TAKE CORNELIUS FOR EXAMPLE...THE SALVATION OF THE GENTILE

We pick up our thought process by relating "obedience to the Law/Commandments particular to our Covenant as "non-Jews". By that I mean the Covenant of Noah and it's relationship to becoming righteous and acceptable before God."

I know that this concept of making oneself "acceptable to God" is foreign to Gentile Christianity yet it finds itself smack dab in the middle of the New Testament buried in the Greek, the original language of the text, which is never noticed unless one studies or reads the New Testament in Greek and not English. What we must be conscious of in our study is that the following religious concepts, like making oneself acceptable to God, are not only found in the New Testament but agree totally with the Laws of Noah and Biblical Judaism as well.

Paul continues to reveal the hidden mysteries of God to the Gentiles in the Book of Ephesians 2:3-5, KJV:

- 3 Among whom also we all had our conversation in times past in the lusts of our flesh, fulfilling the desires of the flesh and of the mind, and were by nature the CHILDREN OF WRATH, even as others.
- 4 But God, Who is rich in mercy, for His great love wherewith He loved us,
- 5 Even when we were dead in SINS, hath quickened us together with MESSIAH (by UNDESERVED PARDON ye are saved;),

Before the CONVERSION of these GENTILE EPHESIANS, they lived in SIN.

Answer for yourself: What did we discover in the last teaching as to what "sin" was in the New Testament?

Matt 7:23 And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity. (KJV)

The Strong's Concordance: Strong's number #458 anomia (an-om-ee'-ah); from 459; illegality, i.e. violation of law or (genitive case) wickedness: KJV-- iniquity, X transgress (-ion of) the law, unrighteousness.

Now let us look at the root word:

459 anomos (an'-om-os); from 1 (as a negative particle) and 3551; lawless, i.e. (negatively) not subject to (the Jewish) law; (by implication, a Gentile), or (positively) wicked: KJV-- without law, lawless, transgressor, unlawful, wicked.

Now we have already learned that the "non-Jew", in his Covenant with Noah, was given 66 Laws and Commandments which are again repeated as the foundation in the Laws of Moses. So we see that those who are told to depart from Christ are those who are ignorance toward, in violation of, and in transgression of the Laws of Moses, especially for Gentiles who share 66 of these same Laws in the Laws of Noah!!!

As Gentiles, who were born as aliens to the commonwealth of Israel, strangers from covenant promises, without hope and without God, the Death Penalty for transgression of the Law...which is exactly "what" one earns for committing SIN, as Romans 6:23 says (THE WAGES OF SIN IS DEATH)-hung over Gentiles, just as it does for anyone who PRACTICES SIN (remember transgression of the LAW is defined as "sin" in the New Testament). Only those who turn FROM sin, and turn in OBEDIENCE to God's Every Word" will be given the Gift only God can give...Eternal Life! We will be given access to the Tree of Life!

As we have read in Isaiah 59: 1-2, it is OUR INIQUITIES and SINS (as seen in the breaking God's Laws) that cuts us off from God. These same Scriptures tell us that the reason God will not listen to someone, is because they are a sinner...they practice sin (they practice breaking the Laws in their Covenant with God)!

Before the Word of God was given to the Gentile people as a whole, they were cut off from God. Before this, only the tribes of the Children of Israel (Jews) were given God's Laws, which guided one to God's salvation. Israel has ceased, in large part, being a "light" to the nations and there was little hope for the Gentile peoples unless they could come to the saving knowledge of God, His Laws, and His Covenant.

SALVATION GOES TO THE NON-JEWS.....

In Acts 11:18; Acts 10:34-35, KJV:

- Acts 11:18 18 When they heard these things, they held their peace, and glorified God, saying, Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted repentance unto life. (KJV)
- Acts 10:34 34 Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons: (KJV)
- 35 But <235> in <1722> every <3956> nation <1484> he that feareth <5399> (5740) Him <846>, and <2532> worketh <2038> (5740) righteousness <1343>, is <2076> (5748) accepted <1184> with Him (God)<846>.

Let us set the stage. Peter had, against his will, been sent to the home of an "unclean" Gentile. However this particular Gentile was a "Godfearer" who had accepted the God of Israel and was already living by the Laws of Noah which were part of the faith of the Godfearer. However, since he remained "uncircumcised" he was not accepted by "certain" Jews since lacking this he was not eligible for conversion. So he remained "apart" from the Israel of God in the "certain Jew's" eyes but not in God's eyes as we are about to see. Paramount for our understanding is that such a one who turned from idols to serve the living God was "saved". Notice also that he was "saved" in the text many years after the death of the New Testament Jesus and he had not even yet heard the typical Christian message about this Jesus; in fact he knew nothing about this Jesus or adhering to any established doctrine concerning "Yeshua" for salvation. He was just a Godfearer as pictured all the way through the Jewish Scriptures as an example of non-Jews who had faith in the Only True God and who was "saved" accordingly. Understand as we go on that this condition of "salvation" for the "non-Jew" was no longer accepted by bigoted Jews who considered Gentiles "dogs" and wished no social or religious contact with them. Only if the "non-Jew" was circumcised was he considered "born" again and acceptable to the Jews, at least in the eyes of "certain Jews" like the School of Shammai. This is the whole issue of Paul and Galatians which is overlooked by most who fail to realize that Paul was talking only about "one" law..the law of circumcision which the "non-Jew" was not under!

While Peter was in Cornelius' home, before he even talked with him about Yeshua, the Holy Spirit fell upon Cornelius has He had the Jews years before. This will be very problematic for Christian theology because not knowing to be "saved" by belief in Yeshua or his death or his blood as Christians teach, here is Cornelius "accepted" by God and "filled with the Spirit of God" and he does not yet know or accept any of the Christian theology you and I are told are necessary for salvation.

Answer for yourself: According to Peter, are those who practice and work righteousness accepted with God? Yes.

Before we can go on verse 35 bears our investigation. Let us see who the "nation" refers to in that verse.

Lexicon Greek 1484 1484 ethnos {eth'-nos} probably from 1486; TDNT - 2:364,201; n n AV - Gentiles 93, nation 64, heathen 5, people 2; 164

- 1) a multitude (whether of men or of beasts) associated or living together
- 1a) a company, troop, swarm
- 2) a multitude of individuals of the same nature or genus
  - 2a) the human race
- 3) a race, nation, people group
- 4) in the OT, foreign nations not worshipping the true God, pagans, Gentiles
- 5) Paul uses the term for Gentile Christians

Answer for yourself: Does not Peter say that in referring to "ethnos" that those of a race, or nation who worketh righteousness (who like Cornelius had not yet learned of Yeshua or the theology connected with his death which would be developed later) find eternal life through obedience to righteous acts? It sure does. Again this negates totally Christianity's salvation message through the death and blood of Yeshua if the account of Cornelius is to be believed. I personally believe it is to be believed because it lines up with Biblical history and Biblical Judaism correctly.

Answer for yourself: Besides, have you ever studied true Biblical Atonement for yourself and seen how it operates and just what is done in it to accomplish forgiveness of sins and Eternal Life? Well, you must and the time is now. After this study it will be impossible to look at the New Testament's depiction of the death of Jesus as an atonement for your sin any longer!

Answer for yourself: Have you ever studied out for yourself the Hebrew Isaiah chapters 52 and 53? Again if you do then you will see that it is impossible to connect any of this to a New Testament Jesus. The truth awaits you and these two studies alone will show you why the Jewish people, who know their faith, and their Rabbis cannot and will not accept the New Testament Jesus.

HOW THE NON-JEW BECOMES ACCEPTABLE TO GOD

Now let us reaffirm what these multitude of Gentiles and heathens who were without the knowledge of the True God and who were not worshipping the true God were to DO (accomplish righteous works) to become acceptable to God.

We are told they must WORK RIGHTEOUSNESS to be accepted with God. Notice that

ACCEPTANCE WITH GOD is not belief alone but involves the WORKING OUT OF TANGIBLE DEEDS THAT AFFIRM ONE'S FAITH!

Answer for yourself: Can we be assured of acceptance with God if we have faith and no righteous works? No because faith without "works" is dead.

Answer for yourself: Is it possible that this "working out" of practical deeds and manifestation of practical righteousness is nothing more than the accurate and correct response of one's faith in obedience to Laws and Commandments? It sure is.

Lexicon Greek 2038

2038 ergazomai {er-gad'-zom-ahee} middle voice from 2041; TDNT - 2:635,251; v AV - work 22, wrought 7, do 3, minister about 1, forbear working + 3361 1, labour for 1, labour 1, commit 1, trade by 1, trade 1; 39

- 1) to work, labor, do work
- 2) to trade, to make gains by trading, "do business"
- 3) to do, work out (as in "working out one's salvation by fear and trembling)
- 3a) exercise, perform, commit
- 3b) to cause to exist, produce
- 4) to work for, earn by working, to acquire

Answer for yourself: Do you not recognize that Peter is saying that those Gentiles who perform acts of righteousness, thereby causing righteous works to exist, are accepted with God? I hope so.

Answer for yourself: Does this verse not say that being accepted with God is based upon earning, and working, and acquiring acceptance with God through righteous acts? It sure does.

Lexicon Greek 2041 2041 ergon {er'-gon} from a primary (but obsolete) ergo (to work); TDNT - 2:635,251; n n AV - work 152, deed 22, doing 1, labour 1; 176

- 1) business, employment, that which any one is occupied
- 1a) that which one undertakes to do, enterprise, undertaking
- 2) any product whatever, any thing accomplished by hand, art, industry, or mind
- 3) an act, deed, thing done: the idea of working is emphasized in opp. to that which is less than work

Answer for yourself: Is a "work" a deed? Yes.

Answer for yourself: Is not the emphasis upon the "doing" of a deed instead of "believing" only? It sure is.

Answer for yourself: Did not Jesus say that by their fruits (not their faith) you shall know them? Yes he sure did.

Answer for yourself: And what is it that we as Gentiles are to work toward? Biblical Righteousness.

WORKING RIGHTEOUSNESS.....BEING ACCEPTED BY HIM (GOD)...ACTS 10:35

The Greek word for "righteousness" is as follows:

Lexicon Greek 1343 1343 dikaiosune {dik-ah-yos-oo'-nay} from 1342; TDNT - 2:192,168; n f AV - righteousness 92; 92

- 1) in a broad sense: state of him who is as he ought to be, righteousness, the condition acceptable to God
- 1a) the doctrine concerning the way in which man may attain a state approved of God
- 1b) integrity, virtue, purity of life, rightness, correctness of thinking feeling, and acting
- 2) in a narrower sense, justice or the virtue which gives each his due

Answer for yourself: Does "righteousness" describe a condition that brings a state of acceptance with God? Yes.

Answer for yourself: Does not true Biblical righteousness relate to "doing" more than just "believing?" I hope you said "yes."

Answer for yourself: Since "working righteousness" relates to the way one can attain an approved state with God, then does it not stand to reason we must respond in obedience to commandments (like keeping the Commandments of the Seven Biblical Festivals, the Sabbath, and the correct use of the Tithe...all of which most of Christianity violates)? Yes.

Answer for yourself: Since Acts 10:34-35 is written long after the time of Jesus and teaches us that a condition of "acceptance" with God may be attained by working righteousness and practicing righteous deeds, then are we to trust solely in our faith in Jesus for "acceptance with God" if this verse connects such "condition of acceptance" with righteous works, acts, and deeds? No, and if you have the courage to check out our other web site, even the two links above, we will demonstrate beyond any doubt how such false ideas got connected to the death of the New Testament Jesus!

Answer for yourself: Is not "working and doing righteous acts" the correct way to feel and act according to the Greek word used by the Holy Spirit in this Scripture? It sure is.

INVESTIGATING THE "ROOT" WORD FOR RIGHTEOUSNESS

Now let us focus in more detail on what God says we are to "work" toward. We are to work toward righteousness. Let us now investigate the "root" word for righteousness.

Lexicon Greek 1342 1342 dikaios {dik'-ah-yos} from 1349; TDNT - 2:182,168; adj AV - righteous 41, just 33, right 5, meet 2; 81

1) righteous, observing divine laws

- 1a) in a wide sense, upright, righteous, virtuous, keeping the commands of God
  - 1a1) of those who seem to themselves to be righteous, who pride themselves to be righteous, who pride themselves in their virtues, whether real or imagined
  - 1a2) innocent, faultless, guiltless
  - 1a3) used of him whose way of thinking, feeling, and acting is wholly conformed to the will of God, and who therefore needs no rectification in the heart or life
  - 1a3a) only Christ truly
  - 1a4) approved of or acceptable of God
- 1b) in a narrower sense, rendering to each his due and that in a judicial sense, passing just judgment on others, whether expressed in words or shown by the manner of dealing with them

Answer for yourself: Did we see the word for "righteous" in the Bible means observing Divine Laws like the Laws of Moses for the Jews and the Laws of Noah for the "non-Jews"? We sure did.

Answer for yourself: Did we not see that "righteous" in the Bible means keeping the Commandments and the Laws of God, these same Laws that make up the many stipulations in our Covenants with God, either Jewish or Gentile? We sure did.

Answer for yourself: Does "worketh righteousness" that leads to being accepted by God mean (according to the Greek word "diakaios") observing divine Laws and Commandments? It sure does.

Answer for yourself: Does "worketh righteousness" that leads to being accepted by God mean (according to the Greek word "diakaios") keeping the commandments of God? It sure does!

Answer for yourself: Can we be considered "righteous by God" if we have a DIFFERENT way of thinking, feeling, and acting that is not totally or wholly conformed to the will of God? No we cannot be considered "righteous" by God.

Answer for yourself: Can we be "righteous" by faith alone and be confident of our acceptance with God since this verse directly says that those who practice righteous acts and deeds (and not just have faith or believe) are accepted with God? You better not bet on it.

Answer for yourself: If we act contrary to the Laws and Commandments of God which are the expressed manifestations of "righteousness" then can we be certain that we are approved and acceptable of God? No. We can be certain that we have displeased Him and are not approved and accepted by Him.

THE EXAMPLE OF CORNELIUS....IT COMPLETELY REFUTES WHAT CHRISTIANITY TEACHES ABOUT SALVATION

God is NO "Respecter of persons". ONLY those who REVERE Him (by OBEYING His word, and who WORK RIGHTEOUSNESS) by practicing God's Commandments, Laws, Statutes, and Judgments in their daily lives, are accepted BY YAHWEH.

Before God opened the "Way of Salvation" to the Gentiles, it was considered UNLAWFUL, even to the Believers (who were then all Hebrews, by the way), to rub elbows with the Gentiles. However, this was not an Ordinance from God or part of the Written Law, but from the oral teachings of Shammai who hated Gentiles and was the leading Torah scholar of his day. This ordinance was stated by Peter in Acts 10:28, KJV:...it is an unlawful thing for a man who is a Jew to keep company, or come unto, one of another nation...

According to "these" ordinances by a Rabbi named Shammai, it made no difference that any Gentile might be practicing RIGHTEOUSNESS...as Cornelius the GENTILE centurion was doing in Acts 10:1-4, KJV. Cornelius, a DEVOUT man and one that FEARED God with all his heart was accepted by God because his prayers and alms (works) had come up to God as acceptable sacrifices. Let us understand that his prayers and alms were manifestations of Commandments and Laws, they were his works, his faith in action, thus they were "works of righteousness." Notice also that his prayers and alms had come to God and God had declared him accepted BEFORE PETER ARRIVED AND PREACHED JESUS TO HIM! Thus he was accepted by God and Peter will come to that understanding shortly when the same miracle that happened to the Jews at Pentecost in Acts 2, some 17 years ago, will happen to Cornelius. Like the Jews in Acts 2 who gathered from all nations around the globe at the Festival of Pentecost and had their "ears and understanding opened" to understand all languages of mankind once again as man had done before Babel, Cornelius, who did speak Hebrew, had his "ears and understanding opened" to Peter speaking Hebrew. This SAME miracle spoke volumes to Peter and he realized that in spite of "erroneous theology" like that of R. Shammai God has put no difference between the Jews and the Gentiles! And this was before Jesus was preached to him!!!

Answer for yourself: Can a Gentile be "accepted by God" by doing and working before he hears about Jesus? Yes.

Answer for yourself: Can a person be "accepted with God" by living a life of "active faith and practical righteousness" and be damned to Hell because he has not heard about Jesus yet? NO, not according to what you just saw in Acts 10 concerning Cornelius! Acts 10 shows us that although one has NOT learned or heard of Jesus, his righteous acts (not his theology about Jesus) brings ACCEPTANCE WITH GOD!

Answer for yourself: Should we not follow the teachings of the Bible concerning what true salvation is regardless of what we have heard others say since childhood about what the church has taught about salvation? Yes.

The word translated 'devout' in Acts 10:2 is as follows:

[A] devout <2152> [man], and <2532> one that feared <5399> (5740) God <2316> with <4862> all <3956> his <848> house <3624>, which <5037> gave <4160> (5723) much <4183> alms <1654> to the people <2992>, and <2532> prayed <1189> (5740) to God <2316> always <1275>.

Lexicon Greek 2152 eusebes {yoo-seb-ace'} from 2095 and 4576; TDNT - 7:175,1010; adj AV - devout 3, godly 1; 4

- 1) pious, dutiful

Root Word...Lexicon Greek 4576 sebomai {seb'-om-ahee} middle voice of an apparently primary verb; TDNT - 7:169,1010; v AV - worship 6, devout 3, religious 1; 10

- 1) to revere, to worship

Just a note about "middle voice" of the adverb "devout". Whenever "middle voice" is used it means....SOMETHING ONE DOES HIMSELF.....the action is done to him by himself...

In other words, Cornelius was making himself HOLY by KEEPING the Laws of God (Laws of Noah) and practicing as a life-style righteous works!

Answer for yourself: Did Cornelius' faith come before God as a memorial or his works? His works.

Answer for yourself: Would Cornelius' works have been considered "righteous" by God if they had been works and deeds that violated the Commandments and Laws, yet still being "religious works?" No. Obedience is better than any sacrifice WE can give God. We must give God what He asks and not try to improve on it or go beyond what He asks.

Only "living by" God's Holy Laws and Commandments that frame our respective Covenants, both Jewish and Gentile, can one be "holy" because it separates the obedient person from the majority of mankind who do not obey the LORD but lean on their on understanding and fail to study to learn the truth about God and His revelation given to mankind that was corrected terribly by Rome in the 3rd century when they changed and "reinterpreted" almost everything; even "the Christ" and the "Jesus Messiah" as well as true Biblical Atonement. If one lives any other "way," then he lives in sin and God then, correctly, considers that person to be a sinner. God, assuredly, is no "Respecter of persons", so even IF a GENTILE OBEYS HIM, then that Gentile is "ACCEPTED BY HIM" regardless if that person is a Jew, Christian, Muslim, Hindu, etc. God has proven this through the instructions He gave through Moses, saying previously in Exodus 12:48-49, KJV: And when a "stranger" shall sojourn with thee...ONE LAW shall be to him that is homeborn, and unto the STRANGER (Gentile) that sojourneth among you.

The word translated 'stranger' in this verse is word # 1616 in Strong's Hebrew Dictionary: the word "ger", and means: foreigner, alien. This is the Gentile like you and me!

Answer for yourself: Did the Text say that there is "Only One Law" for both Jews and Gentiles? Sure did!

Answer for yourself: Are the Gentiles to yield to the Law given to the Jews because salvation if of the Jews or Jews to decide which of the 2,000 different Christian denominations and their "various and conflicting laws" to obey? I think the answer is obvious! The Gentile is to yield to the law given to the Jews which is the Torah!

Answer for yourself: Is salvation of the Gentiles or the Jews? Jews. Have you heard them? Have you studied Judaism and contrasted it theologically and doctrinally with Christianity and noted how Christianity changed everything in the 3rd century because they hated the Jews and did not want to live according to the Laws of God?

Answer for yourself: How can the Jew possibly submit to the Law given the Gentile (understand that he is not supposed to) if the Gentile Christian is taught that the Law has passed away? He can't!

Now the Apostle Paul was speaking to the Ephesians, who were strangers before God's Word was delivered to them. When they received God, they were no longer "strangers" to the covenant promises made to Israel (in thy Seed Abraham all NATIONS (Gentiles) will be blessed)! Through the teaching of Paul, who shared the God of Israel and His requirements of them, they had accepted God's Holy Laws, which they had broken in times past, and these "non-Jews" were given the opportunity to be justified through repentance to Yeshua's message (which results in works of righteousness). In Ephesians 2:19, KJV: Now therefore you are no more strangers and foreigners, but FELLOW CITIZENS with the saints, and of the household of GOD. The Gentile who comes to faith in God through the ministry of Yeshua and his legacy becomes a fellow-citizen WITH THE JEWS IN THE ISRAEL OF GOD!

Answer for yourself: As a Christian, are you standing alone in your identification with God trusting in a false salvation message of Rome and opposed to the Jew/Israel, or are you, as Ephesians tells us, part of Israel and considered as "fellow citizen" with the people of God in Israel because you have been grafted into Israel and recognize, cherish, and obey the Laws of your Covenant with God (the Laws of Noah for the "non-Jew")? You are "the Israel of God" which is a more true identification and designation than calling yourself a Christian which was a derogatory term used by the enemies of Way and the sect of the Nazarene. I hope you are beginning to see that you are engrafted into Israel and do not stand apart from the root and fatness of the Olive Tree which supports you; nor the Law of God that provide the very foundation of your Covenant with the Creator.

Answer for yourself: Are fellow citizens of the "same nation" (both Jew and Gentile) under the same Laws. Sure are!

Answer for yourself: For example, in America do the laws of murder apply to everyone or just a certain class of people? To everyone. Get the picture?

Let us end with a big question.

Answer for yourself: Are you really a follower of Jesus? Well read this and then the answer to that become more clear than ever before for there are two different "gospel" messages out there; there is a short study were we contrast the different salvation messages of Jesus against the completely different salvation message of the Romanized Paul and then a 3 article series on contrasting the gospel messages of Paul vs Jesus and show the reader how they are in conflict in "key" places. They plans of salvation and gospel messages are not the same and to the degree that you understand this, recognize this, and follow the correct one then and only then can you call yourself a true "follower of the Christ" or a "follower of Jesus".

by practicing righteousness can we make ourselves acceptable to god?

Shalom.

THE FATAL FLAW OF CHRISTIAN THEOLOGY: ITS FAILURE TO UNDERSTAND THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM CORRECTLY #1

We have read and hear the passage below and many other similar passages just like it our whole lives growing up in the Christian Church:

"For this is My blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins."
(Matthew 26:28)

It seems so plain, so certain. All you have to do is just read it; "Jesus saves!" "Jesus is our Savior!" We read this familiar "saying" nailed to trees as we drive through the country. It is posted on the sides of many trucks I see driving around; "Jesus saves!" In many countries around the world, such messages are displayed on walls of buildings and in other public places. Millions of people who grow up in a Christian dominated society sincerely believe that the "Christian Jesus" is their Savior. If you were to ask them, "How does Jesus save us?" they would probably reply, "Jesus died for us" or, "Jesus died for our sins." Others voice their belief that Jesus' death was an atonement for their sin as prophesied in the Hebrew Scriptures. Some will tell you that Jesus was the "literal" fulfillment of the Jewish Scriptures and the long awaited Jewish Messiah. Many will tell you that this "Christian Jesus" was the long awaited "Savior" of the world and that his coming was prophesied by the Prophets in the Jewish Scriptures. Even the New Testament records for us that Paul believed the same thing:

1 Cor 15:4 4 And that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day according to the scriptures.
(KJV)*

Answer for yourself: Have you ever read for yourself when reading the "whole" of the Old Testament, either in the Greek or Hebrew, that the messiah was to come, die, and be raise from the dead the 3rd day as prophesied in the Jewish Scriptures? Have you ever read for yourself when reading the "whole" of the Old Testament, either in the Greek or Hebrew, that Jesus and his death was given by God as an atonement for our sin? Notice that I said the "Greek and Hebrew" Old Testament and not the "English". If you had then you will have a hard time finding the above "theology" in I Cor. 15:4 "anywhere" in the Jewish Scriptures because simply "it is not there at all"! No, we don't find this I Cor. 15:4 statement anywhere in the Hebrew Scriptures simply because there are no Hebrew Scriptures in existence that say such a thing as of 9:15 P.M. today and the "editor" or "editors" of I Corinthians made it up out of thin air! You have to go to the corrupted Isaiah in our Christian Bible which has over 6,000 alterations when compared to the Hebrew Isaiah to begin to find such an idea added to the text but again this "altered" Isaiah is not a "translation" but a re-worked theological document created for the sole purpose to read "Jesus" backwards into the text in "key" places.

I wash shocked when after Seminary trying to run down the reference to which this New Testament passage above "explicitly" referred and never finding one. But this is but one of a multitude of supposed "quotes" or "fulfillments" in the New Testament which have no origin in the Hebrew Scriptures. Sadly we read something in the New Testament and have been conditioned our whole lives to "assume" that since it is written there, in this "holy book" of Christianity, it has to be a Divine Truth. We should have searched out the origin of these supposed quotes in the real Hebrew Scriptures and then we would have known better than to trust "everything" we read in this New Testament. But many will say "But, I don't read Hebrew" and how could I know?" Well, we have great study aids today that will provide for the non-Hebrew speaking Christian the Hebrew-English translations where he can see these "additions, deletions, inventions, and other corruptions" of the Hebrew Scriptures for himself. Now the purpose of this introduction is for me to actually that that of all these New Testament deceptions that we read in our Christian Bibles the greatest of all apply to the doctrine of "atonement". Let me show you.

Few if any Christians have ever studied Judaism thoroughly. Sadly Christians who write books are the chief culprits and mislead untold numbers by filling their heads with "untruths". Fewer still have ever studied thoroughly the subject of "atonement" in-depth enough as taught in the Hebrew Bible to know how the Sacrificial System actually works and consequently never come to the truth as to how one actually received "atonement" let alone if God has anywhere mentioned in the Hebrew Scriptures that mankind sin can be atoned for by one man's death. Few never study enough to know for certain that nowhere in the Hebrew Scriptures can be found the idea that one man's death, or the death of the "righteous-innocent" can pay for the sins of the guilty or the sins of a multitude. It simply is not there. Again, we have to go to the "altered" books in the English translation of our Christian Bibles to get a "hint" of such an idea. And millions of Christians never study the Sacrificial System and learn how it operated and only hear of "blood" over and over their whole lives and erroneously think the Sacrificial System is focused only on "blood" when actually the "blood" had very little to do with it as we shall see.

Answer for yourself: If you were asked, "How can Jesus' death save us?" what would you say? Could you find the basis of this belief that the death of one "righteous" atoned for the sins of the "unrighteous" in the unaltered and unforged Hebrew Scriptures or do you have to go to the corrupted Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures that later will become the foundation for all later Christian Bibles to find this idea? Do we have to turn to all the later "doctored" English translations of these Hebrew Books with their purposefully mistranslated, purposefully misquoted, purposefully taken out of context passages, and astoundingly "invented" passages to find such an idea? Or has no one yet told you the truth concerning our Christian Old Testaments and the quotes we find from them as recorded in our New Testaments? Does your pastor know the truth about the Bible from which he preaches? Has he done these studies? If he answers "yes" then you should ask him, after reading these articles, to explain to you why he remains in the pulpit once you see these alterations for yourself.

In the Christian Bible, in the New Testament, we find reiterated often that Jesus died for the remission of our sins. We've all heard that repeatedly in our sermons and Sunday school classes since we were children.

Amazing the Jewish Faith, Biblical Judaism, and the Jewish people whom were given the Sacrificial System in the first place by God do not believe in such a doctrine that a "man" or "messiah" can die for the sins of another because the Hebrew Scriptures, from beginning to end, teach not nor require the death of the innocent for the guilty but repentance of the guilty for the "forgiveness" of sins. So we have a two thousand year old theological problem that exists up to our day. We have dealt with Biblical atonement in other articles but there is one point I wish to add in this article and that has to do with idea of "types and shadows" which are often applied to the New Testament Jesus as the "fulfillment" of God's Divine Plan of Salvation for all mankind. Christianity teaches that many events, persons, and objects in the Old Testament and other scriptures were "types", "shadows" or foreshadowings of the coming of Jesus Christ. Prototypes and intimations are constantly used by Christianity as "symbolisms" foreshadowing events in the life of this Jesus as well as the death of Jesus as the "final atonement" for sin.

For example, we are told by Christianity that the scapegoat and purification rites of the Day of Atonement signify Christ's salvation wrought by suffering and death (Heb. 9:7-12). It would behoove us to read this long passage at this time as it is but a picture for all similar passages that assures us that this Jesus' death has achieved for us our atonement and forgiveness for our sin before God:

Heb 9:7-12 7 But into the second went the high priest alone once every year, not without blood, which he offered for himself, and for the errors of the people: 8 The Holy Ghost this signifying, that the way into the holiest of all was not yet made manifest, while as the first tabernacle was yet standing: 9 Which was a figure for the time then present, in which were offered both gifts and sacrifices, that could not make him that did the service perfect, as pertaining to the conscience; 10 Which stood only in meats and drinks, and divers washings, and carnal ordinances, imposed on them until the time of reformation. 11 But Christ being come an high priest of good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building; 12 Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us. (KJV)

Again, it seems so simple. We read this passage over and over and never stop to look up in our Greek Lexicons and Dictionaries in order to find the "real meaning" of the Greek or Hebrew words we have read in English translation. Failing to do this we are often deceived by the words we read in our English Bibles and never know it. No greater example could be found that in this passage than where we find the word "errors" used in Hebrews 9:7. If we take the time to consult the Christian Lexicons, like Strong's Concordance we find the word "error" is actually:

51 agnoema (ag-no'-ay-mah); from 50; a thing ignored, i.e. shortcoming: KJV-- error.

That does not tell us much. That does not really tell us much and many will not see the purpose of such exhaustive study but now watch what we see when we use a better book; the Thayer's Greek Lexicon:

51 agnoema- " a sin committed through ignorance or thoughtlessness"

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that the idea in the passage is that the High Priest on the Day of Atonement brought blood into the Holy of Holies and applied it to the altar for a particular type of sin which we find in the Greek work are "sins of ignorance"? What is not mentioned in this verse in Hebrew above? Intentional Sins!

Answer for yourself: Is there a difference between "sins of ignorance" and "intentional sins" in regard to the Sacrificial System? Oh, you better believe it night now!

Answer for yourself: Why do we not find that "intentional sins" are mentioned but only "unintentional sins" or the "sins of ignorance" mentioned?

Simply because the Sacrificial System NEVER atoned for sins done on purpose or done deliberately. Willful disobedience of the Laws of God were never atoned for by the Sacrificial System. That means when we "think" about something before we do it and then we go ahead and do it and such a thought or action on our part can be found written in the Hebrew Scriptures as forbidden then such conduct and behavior by us is then "intentional" and no blood sacrifice can be brought to atone for such an action on our part. The same can be said for things "commanded of us by God" which are positive in nature and we fail to do them. Both are violations of God's Laws and are considered "sins" and our failure to do "right" and what God demands is "sin". We are, as the Bible said, cut off from God whether we "feel it" or "know it". But the good news is that there is a remedy, but surprisingly we find if we study our the Sacrificial System and how it actually operated it is not "blood/death" but rather "life" that "atones" as I will explain in a second.

What we find when we study Judaism and get behind the dynamics of Hebrew 9:7-12 is the fact that historically the whole of the Sacrificial System as taught in the Hebrew Scriptures as well as in Judaism is centered around blood sacrifices for "sins of ignorance" ONLY! Ironically in our "doctored" New Testaments with their "fixed" translations we can find this same truth in our Christian Bibles but it lies buried in the Greek and we will not find these truths in the English of our Bibles and most likely you, the reader, does not know Greek and never looked up these English words in Greek Lexicons. Thus you never see the hidden truths that lay beyond our sight. Well I have and I spent years, many years, looking up and studying almost every verb and noun in both the Hebrew and Greek and English Bible. I wanted the truth and in Seminary this fundamental Baptist boy saw clearly that there were way to many contradictions for me to believe that God could not say the same thing correctly twice in both the Jewish and Hebrew Scriptures and the later Greek and later English translations. Evident to me is that there are either really ignorant people writing this Holy Book who cannot follow the Holy Spirit or else theological agendas and antisemitism was at work and that this is the reason for the rejection of the prior Divine Revelation from God which is so clearly set out in these same Hebrew Scriptures. Over the years I proved to myself beyond any doubt that this was the sad truth to which we have all fallen as Christians and followers of "the Christ".

Again, Christianity maintains that by "types" and "shadows" that the New Testament Jesus is the fulfillment of the Old Testament; in particular that he is the "final sacrifice" for sins. They call Jesus the "lamb of God"; again making it plain that this human sacrifice is the ultimate sacrifice for sin. I think we all can agree that if this New Testament Jesus is to be a true "type and shadow" of something Divine or of some Spiritual Truth then it naturally follows that he must meet all the qualifications set out in the "Divine Pattern" in order to be God's true "type and shadow and fulfillment" and not just meet one of many qualifications of something if what is to be "believed" about this Jesus is to be trusted as representative of a Divine Truth.

Well that was the introduction. So let us begin this inquiry into a big, big big, big question as we look at this Jesus being an atonement for our sin as the writer of Hebrews 7:12 maintains since he contradicts himself in this passage and says that the Sacrificial System only covered "unintentional sins and sins of ignorance" but yet goes on to say in these same verses that this Jesus and his death procured for mankind "eternal redemption" for ALL sin (which would include "intentional sins"). But yet we have seen that no blood offering of any kind in the Old Testament Sacrificial System could ever be offered for "intentional sins"!

Answer for yourself: Is the writer of Hebrew just not familiar with the Sacrificial System? Could God have used someone so ignorant of what he writes that he gets is wrong for the world? Or does the writer of Hebrews have a "theological agenda" and is intentionally saying a distortion of the truth in order to condition his hearers to believe and accept only what he wants his hearers to understand and believe?

Something is wrong here but hey, the ignorant unschooled Gentiles of the first century who lacked theological degrees and who could not read Hebrew were ignorant basically of Judaism and its religious dogmas unless they had "converted" and the writer or editor of Hebrews knew this. His deception goes undetected by the ignorant masses and so little has changed today for we grow up in Christian environments never knowing the need to look up these words in our Bibles in their original languages, both Greek and Hebrew, let alone compare what we are taught in our Christian Churches and our English translations with what the Jewish faith has taught for thousands of years before the rise of antisemitic Rome who gave us this New Testament in the first place.

Failing to do so we never learn that there is only one way to atone for "intentional sin" and it was never through the Sacrificial System but yet we are told that this death of this Jesus paid for "both" somehow. But this is impossible and no amount of "blood" could ever atone for "intentional sin" but we never are told or taught this in our Christian Churches. So much for "types and shadows". The Divine Pattern, if connected to this Jesus, does not have to be "twisted" or "concealed" or "modified" if there is a true fulfillment but don't tell me that it is when it is not and let me grow up believing this error when in fact just the opposite of what I have heard my whole Christian life is true. Ask your Pastor next time you see him how he missed this when he is supposed to be your spiritual guide and preaches such things as normal Christian dogmas from the pulpit which so badly distort the actual Divine Truths behind the Sacrificial System. No wonder the judgment of teachers is to be feared when they err because they mislead multitudes and shape there Eternal judgments; often negatively.

Answer for yourself: Is the blood sacrificial system man's only conduit to atonement and is there possible the forgiveness of sin without the shedding of blood? Judaism always knew and taught that fictiveness of sin and atonement is not "connected" ultimately with "blood" and yet knows this today and we never hear of it let alone are taught by Jews in our Churches when the same Bible says "salvation is of the Jews". You might need to read "salvation is of the Jews" and reflect that it is not saying Rome or Tulsa or the Crystal Cathedral or TBN.

Answer for yourself: Does the Bible set forth ONLY blood atonement to expiate sin and can Jesus' death, if efficacious at all, be applied to all types of sin, to both "unintentional sin" and "intentional sin"? Can this Jesus and his death be considered efficacious for all types of sin or only "unintentional sin" according to the Hebrew Scriptures? What are we to do with our "intentional sins" since it appears that this Jesus and his supposed death has no bearing on our "intentional sins"? If we have found such a big deception here, as connected with atonement and the Christian historical teaching on Jesus and atonement, then it is possible or likely that there are more "theological" deceptions in our Christian Bibles? Does this deception go beyond just the Christian teachings on atonement and the death of this Jesus? You can be sure it does!

Let me set the stage for this further investigation into these two sets of questions. Evangelical Christians assert that for the past nineteen centuries, since the destruction of the second Temple in 70 C.E., the Jews have lacked the essential and indispensable animal Sacrificial System for atonement. Consequently, they maintain and assume, not knowing accurately the Hebrew Scriptures that within them God has provided many "non-blood" atonements, that God must have provided a blood atonement in place of the animal sacrifices of the past and this must be the death of Jesus. This "belief", that the Jews are without an atonement today because they are unable to bring "blood sacrifices", had damned all Jews in the eyes of the majority of Christians because they don't believe in the Jesus of Christianity. What we must realize in considering such a Christian position regarding the Jews is that such ideas are based more off of what we have heard preached our whole lives instead of what we have read and studied in the Hebrew Scriptures for ourselves. Being basically unknowledgeable of the Old Testament and how the Sacrificial System before Seminary and during my early years of Jewish study I was like most Christians when it came to considering "blood sacrifice". I was "pulpit taught" and like most Christians assumed what I had heard was true and was led to believe that the death of this Jesus on the cross is somehow the ultimate atonement provided by God for mankind's sin. In support of the claim that atonement can only be achieved through the shedding of blood, Christianity and my Christian pastors cited often Leviticus 17:11, which reads, "For the life of the flesh is in the blood; and I have given it to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that maketh atonement by reason of the life". They conclude from this verse that only by being covered in the blood of the cross can man have any hope of being forgiven by God for his sins. I did not have the answers in Seminary but sure had "questions". But again of troubling concern for me when in Seminary is why the Jews for some 2000 years have rejected this "easy believeism" that we in Christianity have inherited surrounding our Jesus and the New Testament which describes this supposed messiah's death for the world's sin. Surely the Jews can read like us and the New Testament again makes it so plain. But it would not take long for me as my studies advanced to see the truth behind the Hebrew Scriptures that goes lacking when reading the English of my Bible; case in point is this issue between "unintentional" and "intentional" sins as they relate to the Sacrificial System.

Answer for yourself: What can we learn from the Hebrew Scriptures and the teaching of Judaism, whom by the way was given this Sacrificial System in the first place and whom is better equipped to explain how it operated, regarding the above crucial verse in Leviticus 17:11?

We will pick up this study in the next article in this series as we come to the truths behind "atonement" and how the Hebrew Scriptures, for thousands of years, taught how it is to be obtained.

THE FATAL FLAW OF CHRISTIAN THEOLOGY: ITS FAILURE TO UNDERSTAND THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM CORRECTLY #2

Well we really opened a can of worms with that first article but my intention is to make the reader "think" and hopefully begin his personal study into these areas which I address. That being said contrary to the Christian claim and New Testament teaching that blood sacrifice is the only method of atonement in the Bible, there are three methods of atonement clearly defined in the Jewish and Hebrew Scriptures:

- The sin sacrifice,
- Repentance,
- Charity

Answer for yourself: Is it possible to understand the "sin sacrifice" without study of the dynamics involved in such a sacrifice as expounded by the Jewish Rabbis and others knowledgeable of Judaism? No, not really. Without such knowledge one approaches these "texts" and reads concepts into the often repeated word "blood" that are simply not there and you will come to see that very soon.

Answer for yourself: Do you know that all 3 of the above methods of obtaining atonement are related and can be thought of as "identical"? Can you see a link?

Maybe you can already. More, on that later when we look at "life" as related to "blood" as Judaism teaches and not "death" as related to "blood" as Christianity has taught for 2,000 years. Early on I saw it clearly in my studies in Seminary in my outside reading and in my early years of study into Judaism following Seminary.

Christianity, my birth faith, is built upon "death" and Judaism is built upon "life".

Answer for yourself: Have you ever stopped long enough to wonder what the true God and the revelation of Himself to mankind was to teach? Is God focused on teaching us about "life" or "death"? There is only one correct answer to the last question. Take a guess! If you cannot see it yet from what I shared so far on atonement then we must press one for you must see this Divine truth before we finish these articles. Now we go deeper.

You can imagine my shock as a Christian pastor while studying intently the Jewish Roots of my Christian Faith that the sin sacrifice (known in the Jewish scriptures as korban chatat) did not atone for all types of sin, but rather, only for man's most insignificant iniquity: "unintentional sins." I began having thoughts that scared me really as I was beginning to see cracks appear in my "Jesus theology" which I had trusted since I was a child. This is never easy. The facts of my study were before me; the sin sacrifice and blood sacrifice of animals has always been Biblically inadequate as found in the Hebrew Scriptures to atone for a transgression committed intentionally. The brazen sinner was barred from the sanctuary, and had to bear his own iniquity because of his rebellious intent to sin against God. The sin sacrifice was inadequate to atone for a transgression committed intentionally no matter how much "blood" was spilled or sprinkled on the altar. The Torah teaches this fundamental principle in Numbers 15:27-31.

27 And if one person sin through error (unintentional), then he shall offer a she-goat of the first year for a sin-offering. 28 And the priest shall make atonement for the soul that erreth, when he sinneth through error (unintentional), before the LORD, to make atonement for him; and he shall be forgiven, 29 both he that is home-born among the children of Israel, and the stranger (notice....the "non-Jew" as well) that sojourneth among them: ye shall have one law for him that doeth aught in error (unintentional). 30 ¶ But the soul that doeth aught with a high hand (intentional), whether he be home-born or a stranger, the same blasphemeth the LORD; and that soul shall be cut off from among his people. 31 Because he hath despised the word of the LORD, and hath broken His commandment; that soul shall utterly be cut off, his iniquity shall be upon him.

I would like to include at this time a comment by a famous Rabbi on this passage which deals with the subject matter of this article:

The Stone Chumash notes the words of Ramban, Rabbi Moshe ben Nahman, (Moreh Nevuchin 3:41)

And the nefesh (SOUL) that make (SIN) with high handedness, {whether} from the native-born or from the convert (Gentile), scorns Hashem; cut off the nefesh (SOUL) of that one from within the nation. Because he has despised Hashem's Word and broken His Commands, that nefesh (SOUL) must surely be cut off; his guilt remains on him.

This statement from God immediately follows the procedure for atonement of accidental, unintentional and unwitting sins. These were sins that just happened along the way in the normal course of one's life and they just accidentally occurred. They were not premeditated. They were not planned. They were not intended to be defiant. They were thoughtless sins. They were spontaneous sins. Many were unrealized even as sins. There is a very big difference between this category of sin and deliberate, defiant, premeditated, high handed sins. Just the same, that does not let us off the hook for our sins because Leviticus 5 states that man is guilty before for "unintentional sins" and "sins of ignorance" as well.

To understand this better all that is necessary is to look around and to examine our own actions.

- Who among us has not sinned deliberately and defiantly?
- Who has not acted with premeditation in their heart and sinned knowing it was a violation of God's Torah as defined by Ramban?

Each of us knows, we have all at time or times in our lives individually scorned and embarrassed God and His Laws by breaking them thus shaming His Name! That being the case, doomed. Many would say "Yes", God has clearly stated, "...cut off the nefesh (Soul/life) of that one from within nation." Even worse, God says, "his guilt remains". Christianity's answer is Jesus but Judaism says differently and they, remind you, don't have these forged Scriptures that we do in Christianity. Therefore Judaism's answer demands our utmost attention.

Answer for yourself: Does this mean that if we are not believers in the Christian Jesus that we are sentenced to wander through life carrying our increasingly heavy pack of deliberate, defiant, premeditated, high handed sins? Christianity would say "Yes", Judaism says "No". We need to look at examples in the Bible that teach us how God handled sin in the lives of others and apply these Divine Principles to our lives if we ever hope to find the truth about this matter.

King David was also involved in a deliberate, defiant, premeditated, high handed sin by killing Uriah and taking his wife, Bath-sheba... as his wife. In addition the Prophet, Nathan, said, "Why have you despised the Word of God to do this evil in His eyes?" From this we see King David was guilty of this very serious sin.

Answer for yourself: What did he do? How did he react?

King David immediately owned his own actions. He recognized his sin! He confessed his sin. He didn't hesitate! He didn't fudge on words. He said, "I have sinned against God." The incredible beauty of David, who is just like us, is that he understood his sin was against the Torah of God. He acknowledged his wrong immediately, beginning the path of repentance. David's failure was horrendous. His fall was great, but his rise through repentance was phenomenal. We see the beauty of his rise in Psalms. His tremendous repentance is recorded in Psalms 51. He confesses his sin and requests graciousness, kindness and mercy. He pleads with God to blot out his transgressions and all of this is accompanied with being cognizant of his sin and being broken in spirit and humbled in heart. Anyone who has failings of high handedness and "intentional sin" can, as we learn from King David, be on the road to repentance and forgiveness as he by following his example.

Answer for yourself: Let us go deeper for a second. In the above passage did you notice that the same atonement for "unintentional" sin is required by God of both the Jew and the "non-Jew"? Did you notice that the same verdict applied to both the Jew and the "non-Jew" when speaking of "intentional sin"? So does God treat both Jew and "non-Jew" the same regarding how to atone for sin? He sure does!

If you never noticed this then please take time to notice that God puts a big difference between "unintentional" and "intentional" sin but does not make any difference whatsoever between "Jew" and "non-Jews" as to how to atone for sin!

The Hebrew Scriptures teach that if a person sins unintentionally, then he shall offer a one-year-old female goat for a sin offering. The priest shall make atonement before the Lord for the person who goes astray when he sins unintentionally, making atonement for him that he may be forgiven. Now "intentional" sin is a whole other matter.

The person who does anything defiantly, whether he is native or an alien ("non-Jew"), that one is blaspheming the Lord; and that person shall be cut off from among His people, because he has despised the word of the Lord and has broken His commandment (Law....66 given to the "non-Jew" in the Covenant of Noah and 613 given to the Jew in the Covenant of Moses), that person shall be completely cut off; his guilt shall be on him. But there is a remedy which we saw above for such "intentional sin".

Answer for yourself: If the sin sacrifice was necessary in order to atone for "unintentional sins" only then how can this Jesus atone for "intentional sins" when the blood sacrificial system made no such provision? That is the $64,000 question which Christianity cannot answer for all "Jesus Saves" theology falls on this one issue which lies at the heart of the Sacrificial System.

Answer for yourself: If we hold to the rule of "types and shadows" then does it not appear that if Jesus' death was somehow an atonement for sin that it only would have to apply as well ONLY to "unintentional sins" and not "intentional sins"?

Answer for yourself: What are we to do with our "intentional sins" and how are they to be atoned since the blood sacrifices never applied to "intentional sins"? Would this not apply to Jesus if we are to be true to "types and shadows"? Is Christianity right and Judaism wrong or is Judaism right and Christianity wrong? What of God's Word which is Eternal? Can God change to "Plan B" and not violate Himself? What of the God "who changes not"?

Mal 3:6 6 For I am the LORD, I change not;.... (KJV)

This is a serious question going to the very issue of the death of this Jesus for sin. Wow, what a thought and with it should come the courage to investigate the Sacrificial System of Judaism for yourself and see just how and what role the "blood" actually played in such a process and if it had anything to do actually with "forgiveness" or if it was only a vehicle for the "life" or "soul" to be placed upon the Altar. What we don't see or understand yet without more study is that in such a blood sacrifice it really is the "life", called the "Soul" in the Hebrew, and not the "blood" that is placed on the altar in the form of the "blood of the animal". The blood is but an inert vehicle that carries the Soul whereby one's Soul can be placed on the Altar in communion with God. What we find out when we do such studies is that it is not so much "the blood" which does the actual accomplishment of forgiveness but the Soul which "is in the blood".

Answer for yourself: Is this not what we saw with King David? It was he, himself, who cried out to God and had a broken heart and asked for forgiveness earnestly and repented. It was David's Soul, the "Soul/Life" in his blood, as Leviticus 17:11 says, that cried out to God in repentance. Here is a nugget: The "blood" is used in Scripture ONLY as an allegory for the Soul, that Divine Life of mankind expressed through his mind, his will, and character. It is this which is placed on the altar in the Sacrificial System and is the goal of the whole Sacrificial System which begins with repentance which achieves restored communion with God as pictured when the blood (man's Soul) is placed on the Altar with God after identifying with the animal's soul (his blood). It is the Soul, the very person himself, when he repents and turns from sin that gets God's attention and in so doing God responds with forgiveness for such repentant sin. Through the blood it is the "repentant Soul" that is placed upon the Altar with the Presence of God and this is the way it should be and is according to proper understanding of the Sacrificial System. It is the "Soul", your Soul and my Soul which repents that procures our atonement! But we never learned this in Christianity for we could only see the word "blood" and the focus was always on "blood" when the real agent procuring the atonement before God is the "life" or "Soul" in the blood. Let me show you.

Let us read the verse in the Tanakh:

11 For the life of the flesh is in the blood; and I have given it to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that maketh atonement by reason of the life.

Now the KJV:

Lev 17:11 11 For the life of the flesh is in the blood: and I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls: for it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Do we have an accurate translation in our Christian Old Testament? No! What is missing? "BY REASON OF THE LIFE"!

Again, the Hebrew Scriptures teaches us the truth. The Hebrew Scriptures makes is very clear and apparent as to what actually is the "atoning agent" in the whole of the Sacrificial System as it operated in the first place. Atonement is procured from "life" and not "death"! I mentioned that before.

Brown-Driver-Briggs Hebrew Lexicon: the Hebrew word for "life" in the verse is "nephesh"!

Answer for yourself: What does "nephesh" mean? It means "your Soul". It is the "Soul", your Soul which atones and which resides in "the blood" as the passages says:

life (nephesh-Soul) of the flesh is in the blood and it is this same Soul which procures atonement for sin.

I have given it (nephesh-the Soul which is carried in our blood) to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls

So, by proxy, the blood, as the vehicle for the Soul, is placed upon the altar and this placing of the Soul on the altar following ones repentance, confession of sin, prayer, restitution if needed, and charity atones for "intentional sin" with God. Don't get confused by the reiteration in the second clause of Lev. 17:11 since Hebrew is a language of synonymous parallelism and often says the same things twice in a row as we find here. The second clause reiterates the first. As the Soul is "in the blood" this same blood, by carrying the Soul, allows the Soul to be placed on the altar with God when this same blood is placed on the altar. So goes the blood, so goes the Soul. Understand it is the Soul by being placed on the altar following repentance that the picture is complete; namely, that all is well with this Soul representing the person bringing the sacrifice since he had been assumed to have repented, confessed his sin, been remorseful of his sin, prayer, made restitution if needed, and provided charity before brining his offering and identifying with the innocent animals by laying on of hands. By proxy the animal's blood and Soul will be the actual Soul placed on the altar but through identification it is reckoned by God as if the person had brought his own blood and his own Soul before God and placed it on the altar. Thus you now see how the sacrificial system worked in detail and how now the "death of another" for the guilty has no place in Judaism or with God. This is the true "type" and "shadow" that we should have learned from the beginning.

This is the principle for all atonement; that which required the Sacrificial System (unintentional sin) as well as that which did not (intentional sin).

Answer for yourself: What should we learn here?

For "unintentional sin" your Soul was placed on the altar with God by the Priest for you but for "intentional sin" your repentance before God was necessary before God would accept your Soul on the true altar in Heaven (remember the "pattern in the Mount"). For in this way ONLY, and by that I mean repentance for "intentional sin", would God accept your Soul as atonement for your personal "intentional sin". And this repentance required several things that we will get into in later articles.

Now let us look at the definition in detail as taken from Brown-Driver-Briggs Hebrew Lexicon:

5315 nephesh- a soulself, life, a creature, a person, an appetite, a mind, a living being, a desire, an emotion, a passion

- a) what breathes, the breathing substance or being, a soul, the inner being of man
- b) a living being
- c) a living being (with life in the blood)
- d) the man himself, a self, a person or an individual
- e) the seat of the appetites
- f) the seat of emotions and passions
- g) the activity of mind (uncertain)
- h) the activity of the will (uncertain)
- i) the activity of the character (uncertain)

Answer for yourself: What do these last 5 statements all have to say about "atonement"? Simply, that it resides in the free will of mankind and in his desires to live for God or not, to repent when it hits home to him that he has sinned against the Laws of God. It resides in the desires and "appetites" of man either to repent or not and of course you see immediately the connection to his emotions such as the presence of brokenness or not and others issues of the heart that affect his heart and his will to repent.

As Christians we have always heard of animal sacrifices and the blood being sprinkled on the altar and that this is how one made atonement for their sin. Truthfully, this interpretation and understanding voiced by Christianity concerning the Sacrificial System and atonement is not actually correct and fails to teach the truth about the Sacrificial System and how one actually obtained "atonement". The reader will hopefully now come to see this the more he reads and studies these articles. I would find these truths out when accidentally reading a Christian commentary on Leviticus and would be shocked to read the real dynamics of "how" the sinner actually obtained atonement "before" the actual animal was slain and its blood placed on the altar. And this, mind you, was never taught to me in church or in Seminary; I would find out accidentally when studying Judaism intently for several years following Seminary while searing out "the mind of Christ" (through the eyes of Judaism). In fact although the blood is a big part of the sacrificial system and although we read "blood, blood, blood" all the time in these passages actually it is not the "blood" at all that obtains one's atonement; the "blood" is actually "inert" and has no power whatsoever. The "active" agent in procuring one's atonement was one's previous repentance, his prayers, his contrite and broken heart, and his deeds of charity and it was these actions, if he did them and which were done long before he brought a animal or purchased an animal at the Temple, that made his atonement and restored his right-standing before God. If the sinner was repentant and his life exhibited these spiritual efforts then his soul was "at-that-moment" [notice the word-play with "atonement"] considered by God as "if it had never sinned". Then and ONLY THEN was he commanded of God to go to the Temple and bring a "blood sacrifice" and put that blood on the altar.

Answer for yourself: And why was that? Simply because the blood of the animal was the vehicle for the animal's soul, his "life" actually. The sinless animal's blood, in reality his "Soul", was put upon the altar in the form of his very own blood. Now the repentant sinner was not required to place his "life" or his "blood" on the altar for obvious reasons but following his authentic repentance then he was able by "proxy" to lay hands on that innocent animal and in so doing identify with this animal and the animal became his substitute and vehicle through this laying on of hands in which the repentant's sinner's life (his own blood, his own Soul) was reckoned as if it were placed on the altar in the form of "blood" instead of "blood/Soul" of the innocent animal. Thus it was not the animal and his life that was in communion with God or restored to communion with God pictured when placed on the altar but the repentant sinner who, through identification with the "innocent animal", was making a statement that his life had been restored to communion with God and it was this same repentant sinner that made a public demonstration of this Spiritual fact through this sacrifice and in so doing well telling God and all mankind that all was well with "his Soul" by going through with the animal sacrifice.

Answer for yourself: What should this teach us? The Sacrificial System is but a "picture" demonstrating for us one's Spiritual Condition with God that was obtained "before" he ever brought the sacrifice in the first place. It is but a picture of the spiritual reality that the one bringing the sacrifice was really placing "his Soul" on the altar to commune with God and this was again was done through identifying with the "blood/Soul" of the innocent animal. So if you get what I am teaching the Sacrificial System obtained "nothing" for those bringing the sacrifices. The "shedding of blood" in the Sacrificial System OBTAINED NOTHING" for the sinner. It was all about what he had done before God about his sin before he got there.

Answer for yourself: What does this say to us about the shed blood of Jesus as some form of atonement for us now that you know the truth? What does that do to the teaching of "types and shadows" as applied to Jesus' death? Could we have been misled as Christians and Judaism be correct all these years and we not know it because our Christian Bibles are "fixed" by Rome to hide the truth about how the Sacrificial System actually worked and this mind you was done to make sure that few, if any, found out the truth behind the Roman presentation of the "Jesus Story".

Answer for yourself: But what about Isaiah chapter one where it appears God does not want animal sacrifices and admonishes the people bringing them? That is an often repeated question that must be dealt with.

When you read Isaiah chapter one you see that God says that He is angry with the senseless killing of animals and most Christians read this as God is saying that the Sacrificial System is obsolete and is being "passed away" only to be later replaced by the death of Jesus.

Answer for yourself: Is there any validity to this idea?

We need to realize first off that the context of Isaiah chapter 1 refers to where non-repentant sinners were coming to the altar and slaying animals but their unrepentant Souls before God were not worthy to be placed on the altar with God and in so doing they were actually lying to God about their "repentant" condition as well as the Priests and others who witnessed their sacrifices. What we need take note of here is that these sacrificers were making a false declaration as to their spirituality before God as well as man and although man might not see the true nature of their spiritual standing before God the Creator sure did and seeing the "non-repentant" hearts of those just going through the motions and just killing animals "on the way to church" admonishes the useless and wanton destruction of life when those doing so were only "lying" to themselves and God as well. Thus, as we have learned, the Soul was to be placed on the altar which was to be a picture of the repentant condition of the Soul of the sinner but in this case this was not the true picture of the "blood" or "Soul/life" of the sinner who had brought such sacrifices without repentance in his life. Now you can see the importance of prayer and repentance before God in the Sacrificial System as it is connected with either "obtaining atonement" and "not obtaining atonement" and the senselessness of a later developed theological "vicarious atonement" created by Rome which lies at the very center of Christianity today which required no repentance.

Answer for yourself: Then is it beginning to appear that something other than "blood" is really "the" key to one obtaining atonement? It sure is.

Man is responsible, both "Jew" and "non-Jew" to place his repentant Soul before God in order to atone for his "intentional sins". It is rather simple when you see it. Is is our very "life", our "Soul" that resides "in our blood" that is the actual atoning agent if and when it repents, prays, confesses, and returns to God in obedience to His Laws and Commandments. This understanding always has and always will not allow the death of the "innocent" for the guilty let alone one die for another no matter how ennobling such a death might be considered later.

THE FATAL FLAW OF CHRISTIAN THEOLOGY: ITS FAILURE TO UNDERSTAND THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM CORRECTLY #3

In the previous two articles I have tried to make you "think" once you are given the true "facts" that lie behind the Sacrificial System in Biblical Judaism as it relates to "blood atonement". These facts and information presented, of course as you can see, is crucial and lies at the very heart of the New Testament Jesus and his death which is taught by mainline Christianity as the "final atonement" for mankind's sin. We have seen that Christianity and Biblical Judaism remain 180 degrees apart in their belief in how man is to obtain atonement for his sin.

Answer for yourself: Who is right? Well, there are other things we call study and examine to help us gather more evidence which shows us which of the two camps, Judaism or Christianity, are the more correct in their teachings on Biblical Atonement.

We only have to look to Acts 21 to see where James, around 60 C.E., some 30 years following the supposed death of Jesus which we are taught today is the "final atonement for mankind's sins", commanded of Paul to observe the Nazarite Vow, a vow by the way that required animal sacrifices and blood atonement offerings. Think about this for a second. He we supposedly have the closest Jewish followers of this Jesus observing a "vow" long after his death that required the shedding of an animal's blood; blood which obtained for the person making this vow "atonement". This dramatic Nazarite Vow which by the way gain "required the shedding of blood which was placed on the altar" when properly understood shows us that these supposed followers of this Jesus sure did not believe in the slightest that some earlier death of this Jesus was somehow the final sacrifice for sin let alone the final atonement for anything. I challenge the readers to follow this out in their studies by examining Numbers chapter 6 and putting this together with Acts 21 and this Nazarite Vow commanded of Paul by James, the head of the Jerusalem Church, and then ask themselves that if these supposed followers of this Jesus, men whom we are taught knew him best, did not believe that Jesus' death was the final atonement for their sin then answer for yourself why these men of the Jerusalem Church, whom we are told believe the same Christian dogmas about Jesus' death as we do today, evidently did not! This should make you wonder when this teaching of the death of this supposed Jesus as the final atonement for mankind's sin was really created or "borrowed" for ancient legend by Rome and incorporated in the New Testament which we have today.

Answer for yourself: Could this "final atonement doctrine" as connected to Jesus' death be a political-religious ploy to exonerate Rome of all the hideous things that it did yet claim absolution and pardon before the world that they terrorized? One only has to look at Constantine and his Hitler-like life and death-bed "immersion" that washed away all his sins right before his death to see that righteous conduct mattered not by Rome in these years; all that mattered is that "might made right" and in order to "get away with it" before the eyes of the world they conveniently had their "I get away with it" doctrine attached to a simple belief in "Jesus" and his atoning death that vindicated all they did. The only problem is that the Hebrew Scriptures teach that there is no forgiveness or atonement without repentance.

An interesting Scripture must now be addressed and that is Leviticus 17:11 for it is pregnant with meaning. Contrary to the Christian claim that Leviticus 17:11 proves that man can only atone for his iniquity through the shedding of blood, this verse only explains the prohibition of eating blood. In the immediate context of Leviticus 17:11 we find that the Torah is speaking of the prohibition of eating blood, not the subject of sin and atonement. The Torah discusses blood atonement in this verse only as a by-product of its central theme. This crucial message is lost when Christians quote Leviticus 17:11 alone, without the surrounding texts as its proper background. Leviticus 17:11 begins with the conjunctive Hebrew word "ki" (pronounced kee), meaning "This is because....". Whenever a verse begins with this word, it is explaining what has just been related in the previous verse. The previous verse, Leviticus 17:10, must be consulted and reads,

10 ¶ And whatsoever man there be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers (non-Jews) that sojourn among them, that eateth any manner of blood, I will set My face against that soul that eateth blood, and will cut him off from among his people.

Leviticus 17:11 then continues this message and explains,

11 For the life of the flesh is in the blood; and I have given "it" (the life) to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood (the life that is in the blood) that maketh atonement by reason of the life.

Many things much be said here. First of all Leviticus 17:11 explains Leviticus 17:10 by revealing that consuming blood is forbidden because it may only be used in the act of sprinkling of the animal's blood on the altar for an atonement (the actual red blood is the vehicle for the Soul that resides in the blood...remember?). God tells us that as far as He is concerned, since He is the "life giver" and all "life is sacred", it is a grievous sin to use it for anything else (the "life" is in the blood again...remember?). The Torah therefore commands us in Leviticus 17:13 - only three verses later -- that when slaughtering an animal, the blood must be poured on to the floor and covered with earth, rendering it useless.

Deuteronomy 12:16, also says: "Only you shall not eat the blood; you shall pour it on the earth like water."

Answer for yourself: What should we learn here?

Leviticus 17:10-11 is therefore declaring two principles about blood:

- You may not eat it
- Among all the various rituals associated with the sin sacrifice, such as the laying of the hands on the animal thus identifying the "sinner" with the animal, slaughtering, collecting, carrying, sprinkling, placing of the animal on the altar, etc., it is only the sprinkling the blood on the altar that brings about the completion of the atonement which began before with the sinner's repentance. Thus, you therefore may not eat the blood which "carries the very Soul and Divine Life of God). Critical to understand right now is that this verse does not state or imply that one cannot have atonement for sin without a blood sacrifice. Such a message would contradict all of the Jewish Scriptures which clearly outline two other methods of atonement more pleasing to God than a sacrifice - heartfelt repentance and charity.

We must deal with this first issue of eating or "drinking blood" and why it is prohibited.

Gen 9:4 4 But flesh with the life thereof, which is the blood thereof, shall ye not eat. (KJV)

Deut 12:23 23 Only be sure that thou eat not the blood: for the blood is the life; and thou mayest not eat the life with the flesh. (KJV)

Blood, representing life or man's very Soul, was a very important part of the idolatrous religious practices of the people and nations surrounding Israel. Israel was clearly instructed by The Holy One of Israel through Moses not to imitate this abhorrent pagan practice of ingesting blood in any manner. Although the actual blood was later to be substituted with wine in many of the sacred banquets of pagan religions, there is ample evidence to support the claim that literal blood was consumed as part of the ritual worship of pagan deities, and this as a form of atonement. You should see that even these "pagans" understood the very importance of blood and its integral connection with all "life". But this was not the Divine intent as we have seen.

Now we look at Hebrews 9:22 as given below.

Answer for yourself: Where is the writer of Hebrews 9:22 taking this verse from the Hebrew Scriptures? From where does he quote it and its teachings?

Again we have another purposeful and terrible misquote of Leviticus 17:11 and a gross misrepresentation of what the whole of the Hebrew Bible teaches in this Hebrews 9:22 verse. First of all the statement "without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness of sins" is found nowhere in the Jewish and Hebrew Scriptures; we have to look at the Christian manipulation of these Hebrew Scriptures to find it and we do in Hebrews 9:22.

Heb 9:22 22 And almost all things are by the law purged with blood; and without shedding of blood is no remission. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: What should the reader notice right off? The author of this book misquotes Leviticus 17:11 when he states "Indeed, under the law almost everything is purified with blood, and without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness of sins." Although this quote in Hebrews 9:22 is always cross referenced in a Christian study Bible to Leviticus 17:11, it is actually a stunning misquote of the original text and what it actually teaches!!!

Again what I found during my 5 year study of Judaism as compared with Christianity following Seminary is that my birth faith, the faith that I had studied and become ordained, was a faith built off of purposefully misquoted, mistranslated, and "invented" Hebrew texts. I realized to my horror that my faith and my Pastorate was built upon a misrepresentation of the true faith of Judaism and in reality a false faith that was proclaiming consistently misquoted Hebrew Scriptures and other passages conveniently "invented" in order to present to the world a substitute religion that required no repentance whatsoever. In fact the bottom line is that my birth faith, a faith that stresses only "belief" in this Jesus without repentance, is a faith that is an abomination to the real truth of the Hebrew Scriptures. Thus, my resignation and repentance from organized religion and my Pastorate when the evidence became so overwhelming that I no longer could continue being ashamed before God every time I went to Church all the while trying to justify my position on this mega church staff by the "good" that I was doing and the "Judaism" I was teaching under the disguise of "Christianity". I was really teaching "Judaism" under the window dressing of Christianity the final 4 years that I was there. But finally my tears and shame would overwhelm me the more I studied and saw the depth of this false religion which had captured my life and the lives of so many more. Somebody had to tell the world the truth and this mantle became mine over the years.

We cannot pick and choose parts of Hebrew Scriptures to make our Christian dogmas. If we want to use Leviticus 17:11 to bolster the position that blood sacrifices are indispensable for procuring an atonement, we must use all of the verse, not just a part of it. We cannot take our scissors and cut out "pieces" here and there to make our cardinal Christian dogmas that will validate what we have heard preached about this Jesus. We must take the whole of the verse and apply it if we are to ever see clearly just if this Jesus is all that he is preached to be. Leviticus 17:11 specifically says that the blood of the sacrifice must be "placed upon the altar" to make atonement for your souls." That is to say, Leviticus 17:11 explicitly declares that blood can only effect atonement if it is placed on the altar. Jesus' blood, however, was never placed on the altar and it ran upon the earth. If the church is going to take the "blood" part of the verse literally, they must also take the "altar" part literally as well. Jesus' blood was never sprinkled on the altar, and therefore his death could not provide atonement for anyone. So much again for "types and shadows".

But we need not end our thought process quite yet. The Torah strictly prohibited the Jewish people from offering human sacrifices under any circumstances. The message of Abraham should have taught us that! There is not one place throughout the entire corpus of the Jewish scriptures where human sacrifices are condoned or taught as the way to God. Rather, throughout the Book of Leviticus we find that only distinct species of animals are permitted for use in blood sacrifices and no where is there any mention that a human sacrifice is pleasing to God or required or even allowed. Just the opposite is taught by God stopping Abraham from sacrificing his son. Again, as you now beginning to see more clearly, the the wanton destruction of "life", the "life in resides in the blood", the "Soul in the blood" is prohibited by God. Such desecration of this Divine Life of God, the Soul, by consumption of blood or eating of blood is not permitted in Lev. 17:11.

Now for a very important thought. Since this passage in Lev. 17:11 is predominately concerned with the prohibition against consuming blood, we must look elsewhere in the Bible for instructions concerning atonement for sins. This full import of this passage in Leviticus will become clearer later on. The passage does say that since blood symbolizes the life of the animal, it, "the blood which carries this Divine Soul", can be used as a means of atoning for our sins. But we must think "Soul" and not really "blood" if we are truly to ever understand the dynamics that are going on behind the scenes and the passages we read.

Answer for yourself: What does this passage in Leviticus 17:11 "not" say? It does not say, however, that blood, used a symbol of the Sacrificial System, is the only means of atoning for sins. Truly, the Holy Hebrew Scriptures tell us of several other things that can be used instead of the blood of a sacrificial ram or bullock and we will see this as we move on. What are some "non-blood" ways taught in the Hebrew Scriptures commanded by God that allows man to atone for his sins?

Throughout the Jewish scriptures, the prophets declared that repentance, prayer, and charity are more pleasing to God for atonement than a blood sacrifice. This should give us cause to think concerning what we have just learned above.

The Prophets in the Hebrew Scriptures repeatedly forewarned the Jewish people from becoming obsessed with blood offerings. Other methods of atonement were more efficacious and would even replace animal sacrifices.

Answer for yourself: Can you think of a replacement for "blood" sacrifice in the Hebrew Scriptures?

We need look only at King David as he declares in Psalm 40:7 that

"Sacrifice and meal offering You have not desired; but my ears You have opened; burnt offering and sin offering You have not required."

Answer for yourself: What does this verse state that God accepted as an atonement for sin other than blood? What we find is the "grain" was a substitute for "blood" as found in the Hebrew Scriptures.

These words of the Bible hardly agree with the Christian doctrine that sin can only be expiated through the shedding of blood.

It is important to note that in a Christian Bible this verse appears as Psalm 40:6. Again if we compare this quote in the Christian Psalms with the Hebrew original in Psalms we have again been tragically misled by Christianity which fails to preach the whole Counsel of God. Because the Psalmist's words in the original Hebrew were deeply offensive to the early church, a church by the way that was built upon the death of this supposed Jesus, we find that the writer of Hebrews 10:5-6 continues to misrepresent and forge the Hebrew Scriptures and here he altered Psalm 40:7 to read instead

"Sacrifice and offering You did not desire, But a body You have prepared for Me. In burnt offerings and sacrifices for sin You had no pleasure."

Notice how King David's original words, "but my ears You have opened" (the intent was that King David was speaking of God opening his understanding to the Hebrew Scriptures and the Torah) have disappeared entirely in the Hebrews quote. Instead, this New Testament author replaced this expunged clause with the words "But a body you have prepared for Me."

Answer for yourself: What body? Well, this is the body of Jesus because you need a "body" if you are to have an "incarnation" and "infancy stories".

This is but one more startling alteration of the Jewish scriptures out of hundreds that exist and is but another example among hundreds where we find the early emerging non-Jewish Gentile Church rejecting step by step the faith of the mother Jewish Church and in so doing this non-Jewish Gentile Church creates a replacement religion of their own making and in so doing thumb their nose at God while violating His sacred texts as well:

Deut 4:2 2 Ye shall not add unto the word which I command you, neither shall ye diminish ought from it, that ye may keep the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you. (KJV)

You just saw this for yourself and this is repeated throughout the Christian Bible and we read these Christian passages today never knowing the truth of what we read and "what we should have read" instead. Behind this deception is the total rejection of "key" Jewish theological religious beliefs and doctrine which had been handed down since Egypt and cherished by the Jewish nation for thousands of years and in their place the "reinterpretation" and "replacement" of then by the emerging antisemitic Gentile Church and their own Bibles.

Ezekiel condemns the doctrine of vicarious atonement. The prophet Ezekiel warned against Christendom's central doctrine that an innocent human being can die for the sins of the wicked.

Throughout the 18th chapter, Ezekiel warned his people that this erroneous teaching that a righteous man could die for another man's sins was contrary to the will of God. The way for the sinful man to come right by God is to turn away from his rebellious ways, repent, and thereby the penitent is assured complete forgiveness. Throughout Ezekiel's uplifting sermon on the forgiveness of sin, blood sacrifices are never mentioned. Ezekiel 18:1-4, 19-23 reads:

"The word of the Lord came to me, saying: 'What do you people mean by quoting this proverb about the land of Israel, saying: `The fathers eat sour grapes, and the sons' teeth are set on edge?' As I live, declares the Sovereign Lord, you will no longer quote this proverb in Israel. For every living soul belongs to Me, the father as well as the son -- they are Mine. Which ever soul sins, it shall die.... Yet you ask: Why did the son not bear the sin of the father? But the son, justice and righteousness did he do, all My decrees did he safeguard and perform them. He shall surely live. The soul that sins, it shall die! The son shall not bear for the sin of the father, nor the father bear for the sin of the son. The righteousness of the righteous person shall be upon him, and the wickedness of the wicked person shall be upon him. As for the wicked man, if he should turn away from all his sins which he did, and safeguard all My decrees, and do justice and righteousness; he shall surely live. He will not die. All his transgressions which he committed will not be remembered against him. For the righteousness which he did, he shall live. Do I desire at all the death of the wicked man -- the words of my Lord, God -- is it not rather his return from his ways, that he might live."

Answer for yourself: Ever read the Prophets? Every read about the future and the Biblical Festivals in the "world to come"? If Jesus was the final sacrifice, why is the sacrificial system returning as found in the Prophets in the Hebrew Scriptures? That should give you cause to think as well as well if this Jesus is the final atonement for sin when these same Hebrew Scriptures teach that the world will be partaking of them.

In spite of what we have learned so far the New Testament continue to teach otherwise and is clear that the animal sacrificial system never could atone for sin in any permanent way, and indeed the entire purpose of the animal sacrificial system was, in the language of the Book of Hebrews, supposedly foreshadowing Jesus' death on the cross (Hebrews 10:1). But we have seen that this not so since the animal sacrificial system did not apply to "intentional sin" above let alone the other issues addressed above. The New Testament is still not telling the whole truth on the matter.

Hebrews 10:4 insists that the animal sacrificial system had no lasting value. "For it is not possible that the blood of bulls and goats could take away sins." Of course we have now learned that this is true; the animal's death and its blood but was a representation of the sacrificer's blood (the animals Soul represented before God the Soul of the repentant sinner after he had laid his hands upon the animal before its death). This statement in Hebrews 10:4 was however a necessary assertion for the author of Hebrews because if the animal sacrifices really worked, then all should wonder why Jesus' death was yet a necessary part of Christian doctrine as it is today. The author makes it appear that it should have been sufficient to keep bringing animal offerings but as we have seen the sacrificial system was not about the "animal" but about man and his animal nature as it repented from its bent toward sin and in so doing purging his Soul of guilt and receiving forgiveness. Such a Soul, once in repentance, was restored to right fellowship with the Creator and this Spiritual Condition was demonstrated publicly to all by the repentant sinner bringing a substitute for his Soul and placing it on the altar with God's Presence and this substitute was the blood (life) not of the repentant sinner but the blood (life) of the animal which he was to sacrifice because this animal had the very life and energy of the person invested in it. The person bringing the animal, or the money he used to buy one, represented his life and energy he had invested in caring for the animal, feeding it, nurturing it, loving it and when offered on the altar the animal and its "soul" carried a part of the repentant sinners' very "life" and "energy" as well to the altar. So by proxy the animal was a fitting picture of the Soul of the person brining the sacrifice after his repentance for the sins of ignorance which often he knew not but desired to atone for as commanded by God in Leviticus 5.

The New Testament therefore repeatedly declares that Jesus was the final sacrifice for all time (Romans 6:10; Hebrews 9:12; 10:10; 10:18) and there would no longer be any future need for the return of the animal sacrificial system. This doctrine, however, completely contradicts the words of the prophets who clearly foretold that the animal sacrificial system would return in the messianic age (Jeremiah 33:17-18; Zachariah 14:21; Ezekiel 43-44). Christians often try to explain this problem away by claiming that the reason animal sacrifices will return is to point back to Jesus. This response, however, is a rationalization that is not even used in the New Testament, and thoroughly contradicts the statements in Romans and Hebrews. Moreover, this response makes little sense.

There were other means of atonement.

"And Moses said unto Aaron, 'Take a censer, and put fire therein from off the altar, and put on incense, and go quickly unto the congregation, and make an atonement for them: for there is wrath gone out from [YHWH]; the plague is begun.' And Aaron took as Moses commanded, and ran into the midst of the congregation; and, behold, the plague was begun among the people: and he put on incense, and made an atonement for the people." (Numbers 16:46-47)

Here, incense can be used to atone for sins in the same manner as the blood sacrifices of animals. Notice what else could be used in place of blood:

"The rich shall not give more, and the poor shall not give less than half a shekel, when they give an offering unto [YHWH], to make an atonement for your souls. And thou shalt take the atonement money of the children of Israel, and shalt appoint it for the service of the tabernacle of the congregation; that it may be a memorial unto the children of Israel before [YHWH], to make an atonement for your souls." (Exodus 30:15-16)

The phrase "to make atonement for your souls" in these verses is the same expression as in Leviticus 17:11:

"We have therefore brought an oblation for [YHWH], what every man hath gotten, of jewels of gold, chains, and bracelets, rings, earrings, and tablets, to make an atonement for our souls before [YHWH]." Numbers 31:50)

In these passages, money could be used to make atonement for the children of Israel. The principle here is not that atonement can be bought [this was the practice of the great Catholic church whose priests routinely sold forgiveness]. Rather, this is about doing charitable things with money. This is where "tzedekah" and "gemilut hasidim" enters into the picture as other forms of atonement. In this case, the money was to be used for the physical maintenance of the temple building.

In spite of all this evidence and knowledge Christianity continues to teach otherwise never heeding or listening to the Jews and their Hebrew Scriptures which correct all later Greek and English versions of our Bibles. In fact Christianity continues to teach that God justifies the "ungodly" and that the "innocent" can die for the sins of the guilty; the Hebrew Scriptures flatly repudiates such a teaching.

Answer for yourself: Where did this idea originate that one man, or that anyone for that matter, could atone and pay for the sins of one or more people? It should be perfectly clear by now that such notions stem from the Babylonian mystery religion of ancient Mesopotamia. What is certain is that the idea that an innocent person can be killed instead of those who are guilty is not consistent with what the Bible teaches. After the sin of the Golden Calf, the God of Israel was so outraged that His intentions were to totally annihilate and destroy the Israelite people.

Answer for yourself: What does the righteous Moses offers to do? He offers to die in their place (substitutionary atonement).

Notice the response to Moses suggestion: "Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin...; and if not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou hast written. And [YHWH] said unto Moses, Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book." (Exodus 32:32-33)

Throughout the Bible, Israel's God says that one person cannot die for the sins of another:

"Fathers shall not be put to death for their sons, nor shall sons be put to death for their fathers; everyone shall be put to death for his own sin" (Deuteronomy 24:16)

"But everyone will die for his own sin; each man who eats sour grapes, his teeth will be set on edge" (Jeremiah 31:30)

"The person who sins will die. The son will not bear the punishment for the father's iniquity, nor will the father bear the punishment for the son's iniquity; the righteousness of the righteous will be upon himself, and the wickedness of the wicked will be upon himself" (Ezekiel 18:20)

"He who justifies the wicked, and he who condemns the righteous, both of them are an abomination to the Lord" (Proverbs 17:15).

"No man [Jesus included] can by any means redeem his brother, or give to 'God' a ransom for him" (Psalms 49:7)

Unlike the Greek Testament, The Holy Scriptures of the One True God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob clearly teach that we are responsible for our own actions and sins. We alone must account and pay the price. No virgin born savior deity from Babylonian mythology can contradict the clear instructions of the God

Answer for yourself: Now, are you not fully convinced that there are two different and conflicting theologies evident between the Hebrew Old Testament and the New Testament regarding atonement? What other teachings between the Hebrew Old Testament and the New Testament are 180 degrees opposite?

THE FATAL FLAW OF CHRISTIAN THEOLOGY: ITS FAILURE TO UNDERSTAND THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM CORRECTLY #4

We all like prophecy but there is some that nails to the wall the distortions of Christian theology regarding atonement. Let me show you.

Answer for yourself: If indeed Jesus came as the final sacrifice to atone for the sins of the world, why do The Holy Scriptures proclaim that the Third Temple will be built and sacrifices resumed during the Messianic era?

The vast majority of average Christians are completely ignorant of these prophecies, as they have been cleverly hidden by their editors of the Scriptures they read. Notice the clear teachings of The Holy Scriptures regarding this:

"Even those I will bring to My holy mountain, and make them joyful in My house of prayer. Their burnt offerings and their sacrifices will be acceptable on My altar; for My house will be called a house of prayer for all the peoples." (Isaiah 56:7)

"From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia My worshipers, My dispersed ones will bring My offerings." (Zephaniah 3:10)

"All the flocks of Kedar will be gathered together to you, the rams of Nebaioth will minister to you; they will go up with acceptance on My altar, and I shall glorify My glorious house." (Isaiah 60:7)

"And I will make a covenant of peace with them; it will be an everlasting covenant with them. And I will place them and multiply them, and will set My sanctuary in their midst forever." (Ezekiel 37:26)

"And He will sit as a smelter and purifier of silver, and He will purify the sons of Levi and refine them like gold and silver, so that they may present to [YHWH] offerings in righteousness. Then the offering of Judah and Jerusalem will be pleasant to [YHWH], as in the days of old and as in former years." (Malachi 3:3-4)

Answer for yourself: Convinced yet? Loot at the future atonement connected to this Third Temple and what does this have to say about Jesus' death as a "final atonement" for anything?

(Ezekiel 45:17) "And it shall be the princes part to provide the burnt offerings, the grain offerings, and the libations...to make the atonement for the house of Israel."

Apparently, if you have been paying attention, Jesus' death and supposed sacrifice did not make atonement for the sins of all the world if we are to believe Acts 21, James, Paul, the Sacrificial System, and the Prophets (only "unintentional sins" were atoned by blood...remember?).

Answer for yourself: If the death of Jesus had atoned for all sins for all time, why will atonement need to be made during the messianic era? Christian ministers usually stumble badly over this one. This should make you want to know just what and when is this "Messianic Era" we hear so much about but never seems to come. But that is a whole other study.

So, it is evident that in spite of the huge amount of teaching that is in agreement in the Hebrew Scriptures Christianity continually claims that only through bloodshed can atonement be made. This fact also show that Christians and Christian teachers who teach such things are not only ignorant of the Hebrew Scriptures but are unfamiliar with how compassionate and merciful the Holy One of Israel really is. Sometimes, God forgives us simply because He is kind, loving, compassionate and merciful. Even when we don't seek our Creator appropriately, He has the ability to reach out to us with love and forgive us:

"Who is a [Elohiym] like unto thee, that pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage? He retaineth not His anger for ever, because He delighteth in mercy." (Micah 7:18)

"Their heart was not steadfast toward Him, nor were they faithful in His covenant. But He, being compassionate, forgave their iniquity...remembering that they were but flesh." (Psalms 78:36-39)

"You have not brought Me the sheep of your burnt offerings...or the fat of your sacrifices, but you have burdened Me with your sins...Nevertheless, I will wipe out your transgressions for My own sake, and I will not remember your sins." (Isaiah 43:23-25)

Answer for yourself: So, let me ask you: "How familiar are you with the Hebrew Prophets"?

Answer for yourself: Have you ever tried to validate the Christian atonement message by comparing it with what the Prophets said in the Hebrew Scriptures?

Answer for yourself: If Christianity claims that one must be covered by the shed blood of the Messiah in order to make atonement for his sins is valid, why cannot this claim not be validated by the writings of the Prophets? Why does not Judaism teach this since, after all, it is their Messiah to begin with and not Rome's?

Time and time again, the writings of the prophets emphasize prayer and repentance as the method to atone for sins. Let me give the reader a challenge and you can call me or email me the answer if you can find one. I challenge any Christian to produce a scripture from The Holy Hebrew Scriptures and Jewish Bible that teaches us that we must believe in the atoning blood of a Messiah in order to obtain salvation. What the prophets teach us is that our own obedience to the laws of Israel's God combined with sincere repentance and prayer for forgiveness along with righteous deeds of charity and love will atone for sin if done with the proper attitude of humility.

"That every man will turn from his evil way, then I will forgive their iniquity and their sin." (Jeremiah 36:3)

"Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return to [YHWH], and He will have compassion on him; and to our [Elohiym]. for He will abundantly pardon." (Isaiah 55:7)

"And if My people who are called by My name humble themselves and pray, and seek My face and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." (II Chronicles 7:14).

"But if the wicked man turns from all his sins which he has committed and observes all My statutes and practices justice and righteousness, he shall surely live; he shall not die. All his transgressions which he has committed will not be remembered against him; because of the righteousness which he has practiced he shall live...When a wicked man turns away from his wickedness which he has committed and practices justice and righteousness, he will save his life...Repent and turn away from all your transgressions, so that iniquity may not become a stumbling block to you (Ezekiel 18:21-22,27,30).

"By loving kindness and truth iniquity is atoned for..." (Proverbs 16:6). "If you return to [Elohiym] you will be restored; if you remove unrighteousness far from your tent...then you will delight in [Elohiym]..." (Job 22:23-27).

Clearly, the central teaching of The Holy Scriptures that we must break away from our sinful past and sincerely repent. This is the only way to restore our relationship with the Holy One of Israel. If one strays from the path set forth by the laws of the God of Israel, one must repent and return to the path. This is how forgiveness is obtained. I have shown you that when reading these texts without understanding of the Sacrificial System that the reader misses the fact that when sacrifices were offered, they in and of themselves did not effect atonement but were but a "picture" of the prior repentance of the sinner and the resulting condition of his Soul long before the animal was ever killed. The sacrifice was part of the process; it helped bring them to the core of atonement, which is achieved by repentance.

Isaiah chapter one is critical that we understand it correctly. Many Christians read verses 10-15 and believes that God hates their scarifies and rituals and the texts, without proper interpretation, might appear as such

Hear the word of the Lord, you rulers of Sodom; give ear to the law of our God, you people of Gomorrah: "To what purpose is the multitude of your sacrifices to Me?" Says the Lord. "I have had enough of burnt offerings of rams and the fat of fed cattle. I do not delight in the blood of bulls, or of lambs or goats. When you come to appear before Me, who has required this from your hand, to trample My courts? Bring no more futile sacrifices; incense is an abomination to Me. The New Moons, the Sabbaths, and the calling of assemblies; I cannot endure iniquity and the sacred meeting. Your New Moons and your appointed feasts My soul hates; they are a trouble to Me, I am weary of bearing them. When you spread out your hands, I will hide My eyes from you; even though you make many prayers, I will not hear. Your hands are full of blood."

God begins by saying: "You rulers of Sodom . . . you people of Gomorrah".

Answer for yourself: What is God saying here? God is obviously trying to get the attention of the leaders and people of Judah, by associating them with two cities synonymous with sin and judgment.

God asks these leaders and people a question: "what purpose is the multitude of your sacrifices to Me?".

That is what these articles are all about. I am asking the reader the same question: "What is the purpose and heart behind the Sacrificial System? Was it substitutionary atonement as Christianity teaches or repentance of the Soul and a return to the Torah?".

Even in the midst of their rebellion, Judah continued its religious ceremony and ritual. They continued the sacrifices, they continued the burnt offerings, they continued offering the fat of fed cattle, they continued burning incense, they continued their assemblies and their sacred meetings - and God was sick of them all! They continued to "go to church" and it became a habit of sort. Now watch what God says and we see how the Lord describes His reaction to these religious formalities: I have had enough . . . bring no more futile sacrifices . . . an abomination to Me . . . I cannot endure . . . My soul hates . . . they are a trouble to Me . . . I am weary of bearing them."

What a sobering thought! We can offer God all kinds of religious rituals and ceremonies, all kinds of religious service, and God may hate it and consider it an abomination and we never know! We have fallen into the same trap. As Christians we, like Judah, have been taught by our religious leaders that the answer is in perfect attendance to religious ceremonies and "church attendance" and a few dollars in the offering. But if our hearts are not changed, and humbled, and surrendered to the Lord, it makes no difference. Without the right heart, God hated their religious ceremony and service as he does ours. Just killing animals and "trusting in the blood" without a change of heart was fatal and God was warning them about this here in Isaiah chapter 1. "When you spread out your hands" (a posture of prayer in that ancient culture where one prayed with heads bowed and hands folded where one prayed with the face turned towards heaven and the hands spread out to heaven), receives God's response that "I will hide my eyes from you . . . I will not hear."

Answer for yourself: With all this blood offered and atonement offering being offered by the thousands why was God angry with these sacrifices He had commanded of them in the first place and why is He hiding his eyes from these people and their leaders? What was missing if anything with the blood sacrifices that had worked before? Was it something to do with the condition of the sinner?

Verses 16-20 offer us the clues we need. The Lord offers a cure. "Wash yourselves, make yourselves clean; put away the evil of your doings from before My eyes. Cease to do evil, learn to do good; seek justice, rebuke the oppressor; defend the fatherless, plead for the widow." "Come now, and let us reason together," says the Lord, "Though your sins are like scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they are red like crimson, they shall be as wool. If you are willing and obedient, you shall eat the good of the land; but if you refuse and rebel, you shall be devoured by the sword"; for the mouth of the Lord has spoken.

There you have it. What was missing was "their free will to repent" so that when the blood was placed on the altar it was to accurately represent "a repentant Soul" and not a Soul that continued in wrong-doing but yet went through the motions of the religious formalism and ritual as was his habit to which he was so accustomed. "Wash yourselves, make yourselves clean . . . Learn to do good, seek justice, rebuke the oppressor, defend the fatherless, plead for the widow" paints us a picture describing the corruption of Judah's leaders and people and their bad treatment of one another. Many centuries later, the apostle John would repeat Isaiah's message: If someone says, "I love God," and hates his brother, he is a liar; for he who does not love his brother whom he has seen, how can he love God whom he has not seen? (1 John 4:20). The leaders and people of Judah wanted to say they loved God by their religious ceremonies and attendance of religious formalities, but the Lord cared more about how they treated other people, especially the weak (the fatherless . . . the widow). This goes to the very heart of the perversion of the tithe which is rampant in Christianity today.

"Come now, let us reason together," says the Lord: The Lord God invites His people to come reason with Him. What He offers us isn't just offered because He is "bigger" than us and has the right to dictate whatever terms please Him. God's direction for us is reasonable. It is smart. It is the best way to live and that way is life and Soul while lives a life of repentance. True reason will drive any honest man to the most humble adoration and submission towards God. But Israel, like us so often, was not repentant. God thus says, using in Hebrew an antithetical parallelism: "Though your sins are like scarlet, they shall be as white as snow". This is so often misunderstood for what we rally have here is a contrast between two opposing views; God's view who see the people's sins as "scarlet" while they yet maintain that they are "white as snow". We have the repeat of this contrast in the next clause: God again views the people's sins "red as crimson" but yet the people mistakenly consider this sins before God "white as wool". God wins all contrasts and divergence of opinions.

The Lord offers a repentant, humbled Judah true and complete cleansing from sin but only if they repent of their evil ways and do something about their lives. Repentance is in order and a return to the Torah is warranted. Thus God said that there is something that only they can do for themselves and not anything that another can do for them. There is not substitution for their atonement but repentance only:

Wash yourselves, make yourselves clean . . . Learn to do good, seek justice, rebuke the oppressor, defend the fatherless, plead for the widow".

Notice that God commands mankind in the "middle voice"; you have to "wash yourself", you have to "clean yourself", you have to "teach yourself to learn to do good", you have to "teach yourself to seek justice", you have to "learn to discern right and wrong and begin yourself to rebuke the oppressor", you have to begin to "defend" the fatherless yourself, you have to begin to "plead for the poor and the widows and orphans" yourself. This is true repentance from a selfish life when your focus has only been yourself and other "God wants your rich" sermons.

Now you understand why God rebukes and speaks so harshly about the Sacrificial System once you see that the picture of the blood and Soul of the slain animal was not a true picture of Soul of the sinner who had brought his sacrifices but failed to repent of his sin prior to coming to the Temple. All the slain animals and all the blood in the world from these animals could never be a true picture of the Soul of man had it never repented. Thus God was angry with the non-repentant sinner killing senselessly all these animals never being a picture of the innocent Soul of the animal in the process. That is why Isaiah chapter one rebukes these people who killed animals at the Temple but failed to bring with them a repentant heart before God!

Answer for yourself: What is repentance? Returning to God by forsaking our evil ways which are all the ways in which we violate the Positive and Negative Commandments in our Covenants with God; either the Mosaic Covenant for the Jew and the Noahide Covenant for the "non-Jew" and praying for forgiveness.

Ok, it now seems much simpler. One will tend to read the Ten Commandments and say to most of them "I don't do that" and feel that he is right with God. There is another Big, Big , Big Problem.

Matt 22:29 29 ...Ye do err, not knowing the scriptures,...(KJV)

The Rabbis best of all know how to interpret the Hebrew Scriptures on 4 levels. Just reading them in English is not good enough for so much is lost in the translation even if translated correctly. What I uncovered in my studies over these early years of my Pastorate is that so much of my normative and tradition Christian religious belief system were in violation of so many of these Ten Categories and the subsets of interpretations of them as given by the Rabbis. Our "Jesus Theology" alone renders us as blasphemers and idolators and we only begin there. The way we tithe in our Christian Churches makes us robbers of God as we give money to our Pastors who use these gifts in any way that they see fit. As if that is not enough we are defined by these same Commandments when we give our tithes to others who misuse them as equal to murderers according to the Rabbis because the Rabbis interpret such misuse of the tithe the withholding of life from others and such is murder in their eye and the eyes of God. And the sad fact is that we never hear this and die and enter into the Presence of God thinking as we were taught as traditional Christians that we are "accepted" with God because of our "Jesus theology" only to find out our whole lives as first-pew setters we are in reality "idolators, blasphemers, robbers, and murderers" and never knew it. We might not have killed with a gun but failing to observe the Law of God regarding our finances and tithe properly is tantamount to violating "thou shall not kill" and we do this daily by holding back "life" from others while we build bigger ministries to preach the wrong "good news" and selfish-false gospel that no Jew like this Jesus would ever teach or preach. It is time somebody really sounded an alarm in Zion instead of turning up the music. And we can begin with the truth about atonement.

Now you are beginning to see why the prophets were constantly correcting the Israelite people for relying on blood sacrifices as the essential element of atonement instead of repentance and obedience to God's Eternal laws. Isaiah 1:11-18 is a perfect case in point above.

"The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the Lord." (Proverbs 15:8).

Answer for yourself: What is the meaning of "wicked" in the above verse?

7563 rasha` - wicked, criminal

- a) a guilty one, one guilty of crime (substantive)
- b) wicked (hostile to God)
- c) wicked, guilty of sin (against God or man)

Answer for yourself: What is sin? Let us let the New Testament define that?

I Jn 3:4 4 Whosoever committeth sin transgresseth also the law: for sin is the transgression of the law. (KJV)

So the idea I want you to get is that if you don't know the Jewish faith, the faith of the Revelation of God through this Jewish Christ, then you cannot be certain if what you are being taught in Gentile Christianity is the truth or not! Read that statement again. You will find that the more you study Judaism and these Ten Categories of Laws broken down for us in 613 separate Laws and Commandments (66 belong to the "non-Jew") and the proper interpretation of each one of them that multiple and multiple Christian dogmas and doctrines are frightful and horrific violations of these Laws of Moses and Noah thus rendering the "believer" of such Christian dogmas and doctrines and those who follow them and act them out in various behaviors and conducts in their lives apostates from the "faith which was once delivered to the saints" (Jude 1:3). Bet Emet Ministries is a voice truly crying out in the wilderness of Christian apostasy today.

"To do justice and righteousness is more acceptable to [YHWH] than sacrifice." (Proverbs 21:3)

Answer for yourself: What is "justice"?

Brown-Driver-Briggs Hebrew Lexicon: word for "justice":

6666 tsedaqah- justice, righteousness

- a) righteousness (in government)
  - 1) used of judge, ruler, king
  - 2) used of law
  - 3) used of the Davidic King Messiah
- b) righteousness (of God's attribute)
- c) righteousness (in a case or cause)
- d) righteousness, truthfulness
- e) righteousness (as ethically right)
- f) righteousness (as vindicated), justification, salvation
- g) righteous acts

Answer for yourself: Did the Scripture tell us to "believe something" for salvation or to "do something for salvation"? Is "salvation" and "atonement" connected? Notice if you will that these verse said "do" righteousness if more important than sacrifice? Do you remember what God just said in Isaiah 1?

"Wash yourselves, make yourselves clean . . . Learn to do good, seek justice, rebuke the oppressor, defend the fatherless, plead for the widow"

Answer for yourself: Did you notice it connects "salvation" with "doing" and in particular "doing law" and connects this with "ethics" and "righteous acts" along with "salvation"? Could this be what the Book of Revelation says:

Rev 20:12 And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened: and another book was opened, which is the book of life: and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: As shown in this article and others if Christian dogmas and doctrines (atonement for example) can be shown "not" to be the "truth" then can the same Christian doctrines be defined as "righteous"? No.

Answer for yourself: Could it just be that when we allow the Rabbis to define each of these Commandments and Laws for us and learn which ones are in our Covenant with God as "non-Jews" then we can know for certain just what God has commanded of us and what He expects out of us along with what our "religious belief system" ought to be? And when these Laws and Commandments, rightfully interpreted by the Rabbis, can be shown to be violated by cherished Christian religious beliefs in our Churches are we to repent and turn from such error when it can be shown that so many of these "Christian Beliefs" as taught about Jesus, or the tithe for example, are in violation of these very Laws that reflect God's "justice" and "righteousness"? Yes we are as hard as it might be since being so highly indoctrinated with error since childhood having learned the wrong faith. These Laws of God forbid traditional Jesus Christology (Jesus is God theology and trinitarianism) taught in almost all Christian churches today. These Laws forbid the worship outside the "Pattern of Worship" given by God whereby all people, both Jew and "non-Jew", observe the same appointed times and Festivals of God. These Law are opportunities for us to "do" what the Hebrew Scriptures call "righteous acts" which God Himself defined as " Absolutes"! Only in this way can we be assured that our "works" are righteous and acceptable by God since it is God who is doing the "defining". We can tithe our whole lives for example and never give according to God's Law. We might have emptied our bank accounts and built a Pastor's dream but the Kingdom of Heaven received nothing from us. We might have trusted in Christian atonement only to wake up dead and find out we have no personal atonement for our lives for we sought not repentance thinking some "godman" of Rome's invention paid our sin debt for us when in fact this is not possible as we have shown repeatedly in these articles. We might have heard preaching our whole lives never knowing that is was error "knowing not the Hebrew Scriptures" and be unprepared for the judgment. This should wake the dead as the consequences of such folly championed by a Christianity today that wants to keep its people "dumbed-down" to its true Jewish Roots.

"For I delight in loyalty rather than sacrifice, and in the knowledge of God rather than burnt offerings." (Hosea 6:6).

"Has [YHWH] as great a delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices as in obeying the voice of the Lord? Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken more than the fat of rams." (1 Samuel 15:22)

"With what shall I come to [YHWH], and bow myself before the [Elohiym] on high? Shall I come to Him with burnt offerings, with yearling calves? Does [YHWH] take delight in thousands of rams, in ten thousand rivers of oil? Shall I present my firstborn for my rebellious acts, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul? He has told you, O man, what is good; and what does [YHWH] require of you but to do justice, to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God" (Micah 6:6-8)

Answer for yourself: Do you now begin to see what the very wise king Solomon was trying to explain in 1 Kings 8, when he said that even though the Israelite people may not always have access to the sacrifices and the Priesthood, they would always have access to the Holy One of Israel? Solomon, the wisest man who ever lived by gift of the God of Israel, understood that repentance and one's life, his Soul to God given in obedience to God's Laws, and not blood is the Scriptural form of atonement.

Notice if you will that there is no mention of a cross or a dead messiah in King Solomon's prophetic message as to how Israel is to acquire forgiveness of their sins. Surely if the Messiah was to come as part of God' plan and shed his life for the forgiveness of sin and provide Eternal Life for all then Solomon, the wisest man on earth, would have mentioned it to someone. The text is plain; only the contrite and repentant prayer of the remorseful sinner can bring about a complete atonement. Although King Solomon's timeless message stands out as a theological impossibility in Christian terms, it remains the centerpiece of the Judaism's system of atonement throughout its long and bitter exile. Thus we have a paradox of the greatest extreme between the Jewish and Christian understanding of atonement.

If and when you ever get the courage to study the "Jesus Story" and delve into Gnosticism and Comparative Religion and Astronomy then the nails are hammered with an Eternal thud into the casket of Christian aberrant theology. It is here you find these solar gods dying and rising and you will learn to expect this as they are personifications of "the Sun" which is the Energy we see that gives all creation life. The Sun, not God, but a symbol of the whole of the Universe and Cosmos which is this God who emanates life to all things, was the pattern for all later personifications of this Intelligent Energy which is expressed to us in cycles of birth, life, death and rebirth like this Sun. The stories of these Sungods are almost all identical and parallel the "Jesus Story" from beginning to end. Not unique to them is that fact since being personifications of the Sun and this Intelligent Energy we call God they all "poured out their blood" for mankind that mankind might live and have life abundantly; easily seen when you study is that this "red blood poured out for us" is the bright sunlight at the Sun's death at sunset only to return at sunrise in a new birth. This is the blood of the gods that we read about in stories personified today to which we have lost the "keys" necessary to interpret their meanings correctly. Once you see the parallel of the "Jesus Story" and his shed blood being replayed over and over again for some 10,000 years beginning with Osiris and Horus and on and on down through history then you come to understand that something is wrong with our "unique historical Jesus" and his crucifixion which again is the way most of these Solar gods all died. To attach forgiveness of our personal sin and affronts to God and His Torah to some "sunset and sunrise" to which is true meaning is long forgotten is utter foolishness of the highest degree. No wonder the Jewish nation will not accept this Christian "Jesus Story".

Rom 9:4-5 4 Who are Israelites; to whom pertaineth the adoption, and the glory, and the covenants, and the giving of the law, and the service of God, and the promises; 5 Whose are the fathers, ...(KJV)

Is is Israel and Judaism that have the true Holy Scriptures not forged and faked like those in Christianity, it is Israel and Judaism that have the Biblical tradition, it is Israel and Judaism that have the manifestations of God's glory and power in history, it is Israel and Judaism that have God's Holy Law, Commandments, and Torah, it is Israel and Judaism that was given the Tabernacle and Temple and the service and worship before God and the commission to teach the world these Divine Truths, and it is Israel and Judaism that have been given the promises of God as well as having the Fathers of the true faith. It is Israel and Judaism that have been given the truth about atonement.

Answer for yourself: And what were the Gentiles given represented very adequately by Rome?

Eph 2:11-12 11 Wherefore remember, that ye being in time past Gentiles in the flesh, who are called Uncircumcision by that which is called the Circumcision in the flesh made by hands; 12 That at that time ye were without Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world: (KJV)

Amazingly, these Gentiles who are called by Paul "aliens" and "strangers" from all that Israel and Judaism possessed above and who are yet called in the first century strangers from the Covenants of God and who also have "no hope" without Israel and their revelation of God and who stand before the Creator as being "without God in the world" are incredibly today to be believed to have usurped Israel and Judaism and reinterpreted

Judaism from beginning to end and in so doing have given the world a completely alternate and contrasting method of atonement. Even more incredible it is these same Gentiles who are familiar with the Sun pouring out its energy and its "blood" for the salvation of mankind who will in a little more than a hundred years begin to attach this same allegory of "the pouring out of the blood of the god and his dying and rising" to a supposed historical person and in so doing usurp thousands of years of Divine Revelations that not only can be found all the way back to Ancient Egypt some 10,000 years but have the overlapping Divine understanding that man's way to God is through living the Laws of God and repentance when he fails. The Ancients understood that God commands of man to live a life in harmony (ma'at) in the whole of the Cosmos whereby man patterns his life after the Laws of God seen operating above his head and round his life in Nature. This is the witness of both Heaven and Earth to the Laws of God in the Cosmos; Laws that when obeyed bring peace and manifest love. Repentance was for them as it will be later for Israel the key to restoring one's right relationship with God when one strays in sin. Such is the teaching of the Ancients and the teaching of the Laws of Moses and Noah and the backbone of the Sacrificial System and the atonement that it pictured for all.

Lastly, let us remember the story of Jonah who went to Gentiles. He was sent to the evil city of Ninevah to warn them of their impending destruction. Jonah does not come into the city and tell the people that unless they begin offering sacrifices they are doomed. He does not tell them that unless they accept on faith that the shed blood of Israel's Messiah will atone for their sins they are lost. No! He warns them to repent.

Answer for yourself: What did they do? Did they say: "Hey, the theology about Jesus is not created yet?" No. These Gentiles did what all men know in their hearts to do since God's Laws are first found among the Gentiles and not the Jews. Their response to his warnings is: they fast, pray, and turn from their evil ways and repent and return back to God's laws that restore harmony between man and God and man and other mankind. And they were "saved" and they obtained "atonement" before God which was witnessed by their safety and "salvation" from God's judgment. Now let us look at the text.

Answer for yourself: What is God's response to their repentance?

"When [Elohiym] saw their deeds that they turned from their wicked way, then [Elohiym] relented concerning the calamity which He had declared He would bring upon them, and He did not do it." (Jonah 3:10).

Answer for yourself: Another case in point is good to examine now. How did Daniel advise king Nebuchadnezzar to atone for his sins?

"Therefore, O king, may my advice be pleasing to you:

Redeem your sins by doing righteousness, and your iniquities by showing mercy to the poor." (Daniel 4:27).*

Answer for yourself: What did these man of old know that we as Christians do not today? They knew God's true atonement resides inside man, it is His Soul that repents when in error and in so doing restores God's favor and life to his life. This is the ONLY atonement ever given man by the Creator.

We have seen in earlier articles the subject of the "sin sacrifice" and we have touched on heavily "repentance" and "charity" and "righteous deeds". We must in closing touch on prayer as a form of atonement.

After the ten northern tribes split away from Judah, a civil war prevented most of Israel from Temple worship. The prophet Hosea addressed this situation and instructed the people accordingly: "Return, O Israel, to [YHWH] your God, For you have stumbled because of your iniquity. Take words with you and return to [YHWH]. Say to Him, 'Take away all iniquity, and receive us graciously, for we will render as bullocks the offerings of our lips.'" (Hosea 14:1-2)

We are taught here that we are able to approach our Creator directly with prayer, which is possible at all times and regardless of the size of our bank accounts; and He assures us that sincere prayer can achieve forgiveness for our sins:

Ps 51:14-17 14 Deliver me from bloodguiltiness, O God, thou God of my salvation: and my tongue shall sing aloud of thy righteousness. 15 O Lord, open thou my lips; and my mouth shall shew forth thy praise. 16 For thou desirest not sacrifice; else would I give it: thou delightest not in burnt offering. 17 The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise. (KJV)

Ps 69:30-31 30 I will praise the name of God with a song, and will magnify him with thanksgiving. 31 This also shall please the LORD better than an ox or bullock that hath horns and hoofs. (KJV)

Ps 86:5-6 5 For thou, Lord, art good, and ready to forgive; and plenteous in mercy unto all them that call upon thee. 6 Give ear, O LORD, unto my prayer; and attend to the voice of my supplications. (KJV)

2 Chr 6:21 21 Hearken therefore unto the supplications of thy servant, and of thy people Israel, which they shall make toward this place: hear thou from thy dwelling place, even from heaven; and when thou hearest, forgive. (KJV)

The Holy Scriptures of Israel are very clear. Prayer, a humble attitude, and above all, sincere heartfelt repentance is what the Holy One of Israel requires of His people in order to atone for sins. No doubt He knew thousands of years in advance that there would come a time when some would wrongly rely on the blood of a deified human sacrifice to vicariously replace obedience to His laws. It is evident to anyone with eyes to see that a comparison between The Holy Scriptures of Israel and the Greek Ne Testament to 'Baal' will reveal two entirely different religions. One is dedicated to the One True Eternal One of Israel; the other is dedicated to just another of many mythological savior gods of the Babylonian mysteries that are long forgotten to be but personifications of the movement of the orbs of Heaven. Now, interestingly, when you study these movements of the orbs you find the most incredible revelation of the Soul, its birth, its life, its challenges, its failures; its death, and its rebirth. Note the connection to the Soul almost everywhere; not only in atonement, but in blood, the sungods, the movement of the orbs of Heaven. God is teaching us everywhere about this Divine Life which we are and His intended growth of this Divine Life in this physical realm in which we live. This is what makes the study of "the Christ", this Divine Life, this Divine Soul in us, so exciting. Sure its hard because we have to "unlearn" before we can really "learn" the truth. But it can be done.

Right now I will close with a letter from one of the hundreds of E-mails I get daily. This one I hope speaks to you for I understand a voice crying in the wilderness of Christianity today with the message I bring is not popular and is often dangerous. But truth is truth. Now read this and then we close this study on atonement. But remember this is all about the Soul which is the Divine Christ in each of us. The problem is that we also a supposed "literal-historical Christ" of Rome's making that has blurred the true understanding of the Christ. Now the letter:

"Dear Pastor Lyons, I have now made my way through your Gnostic and Egyptian web sites and am now reading the astrology site. This is just fantastic! Sir, you have given my Biblical and Historical studies direction and understanding. Your love of God and compassion for the human race just shines all through your writings. THANK YOU for your gift. You warned me in the beginning that this was not a quick study. Sir, it's a lifetime study and I pray that I'm up to the task! As a lay student of history, nothing I have ever read has so fascinated me, enriching my life and most importantly my spiritual understanding. Words can not express my gratitude. Please let me know how I can acquire your study CD as mentioned in your article on the famous quote of St Augustine."

This gentleman finally "saw it". He was able to wade through all the Roman lies and mistranslations and textual forgeries and misrepresentation of the Jewish Messiah by Rome and see that the Divine Truths that the Ancient Religion given mankind in the beginning of time has been changed by Rome in the 3rd century to where it almost unrecognizable today without a teacher who can provide the "keys" to get to the truth behind the "Jesus Story" that we have inherited and swallowed "hook, line, and sinker". This reader was able to not only see how the Soul actually worked in obtaining atonement and see how the "Jesus Story" is but a personification of this Soul in matter and a human body as an "example" for us to follow but he also saw the role of repentance so crucial to obtaining this atonement when we fail God's Laws. He was able over time to study through the truth about "the Christ" and the Roman transfiguration of this "Christ" and he did so by coming to terms with the "Mystical Christ" of Gnosticism and the "Mythological Karast/Christ of Egyptian Religion of some 10,000 years ago. He was able to see for himself that Judaism carries these Divine Truths yet today like no other religion in the world and it should as you will come to see is such studies that it is these Jews of the Bible who are biologically the children and offspring of Egypt who kept and revered these Divine Laws in the first place and who taught atonement right in the beginning of time. Sad to say but such study reveals the sorry state to which Christianity has fallen at the hands of the antisemitic Gentile Church for the last 1,700 years since it is they who have tried to destroy this Ancient Divine understanding of the Divine Realm imparted to mankind by the Creator in the beginning of our existence.

I hope that time will come when Israel's true messiah will appear and usher in an era of peace when all nations will believe in and seek to worship the one true Holy One of Israel of our fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. But this day will never come because some Celestial pilgrim will descend upon this planet in some sort of a "return"; it will only come when the truths of Judaism and all other religions which teach this same truth covers this world.

Hab 2:14 14 For the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the LORD, as the waters cover the sea. (KJV)

At that time, the expounders of Christianity will deeply repent of the day when they not only Jews but all mankind to break the first commandment and worship another (Jesus) besides the Holy One of Israel and gave the world a false atonement theology that kept from them the important role of repentance and thereby ill-equipped them for their day of death and their judgment by God.

Disclaimer: It is important for the reader to understand that in this website, in comparing first century Judaism and their Messiah with later Christianity and their presentation of the Jewish Messiah along with the unveiling of the historical truths concerning the non-Jewish "believer" in the first century, I will use a "literal-historical" approach to the "Jesus Story". If you have studied our other websites then you know that "the Christ" can be interpreted from 3 different perspectives down through recorded history: "mystical", "mythological", and "literal-historical". Only after one has spent a considerable time in dedicated and scholarly studies in such areas as Biblical Judaism, the Jewish Messiah and true Messianic prophecy as taken from the Hebrew Scriptures and not the later forged texts of Rome, manuscript evidences, the history and origin of the Roman New Testament, the Gnostic Paul vs the Roman Paul, the Essenes and their "literal godman", Gnosticism, Egyptian religion and the ancient "Jesus Story", Comparative religion, and Astrotheology can he understand and be certain which two of the above three methods of interpretation of "the Christ" are accurate and factual. Again for purposes of comparing Judaism vs Christianity and the implications that this holds for the non-Jew and "Godfearer" we adopt in this website and for all studies in this website a supposed "literal-historical" interpretation of "the Christ" as well as the Jesus of the New Testament. Only in so doing can we adequately contrast the truths of Judaism vs Christianity theology and by so doing follow the train of these Divine Truths back down the corridors of history to the earlier Divine revelations given to mankind by the Creator which were intended for both "Gentiles" and "Jews" as well. I will let you be the judge of the results of such studies and leave to the reader to draw the necessary conclusions as we attempt to compare Jewish and Christian theological perspectives all the while dealing with the New Testament Jesus in a "literal-historical" manner in order for such an accurate comparison to be done effectively. I will leave the conclusion you draw concerning the Jesus of the New Testament up to you and your personal study of the materials available to us today. Craig Lyons M.Div.

Let me begin with a quote from the New Testament...from an epistle written to non-Jews like most of our readers.

2 Cor. 13:5

Examine yourselves, whether ye be in the faith; prove your ownselves.....

I think that this is a very good idea to prove to ourselves that what we believe is true; in fact I have practiced self-examination of such religious beliefs in light of the facts regarding the "real historical Jesus" for over a decade. Because of such self-examination in light of my discoveries as I combed through 2000 years of Biblical history, culture, as well as in-depth analysis of Biblical language, I have been forced to change much of my religious belief system along the way. It is my desire that this article challenge you to scrutinize your religious beliefs as I have been challenged over the years. May God witness truth to your soul.

Answer for yourself: Was Jesus a Christian and would he ascribe today to the vast majority of doctrines taught in his name in churches which go by his name as well?

Well let us investigate. But first we need to set the stage for what is coming next. Try and be as honest with yourself as possible in answering these next questions.

TO WHICH RELIGION WOULD A PERSON BE A MEMBER IF HE DID THE FOLLOWING?

- Was circumcised on the eighth day.
- Kept Sabbath from Friday sundown to Saturday sundown.
- Attended a synagogue regularly.
- Kept the Biblical Festivals such as Passover, Hag Ha Matzah (Unleavened Bread), Shavuot (Pentecost), Rosh HaShannah, Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement), Sukkoth (Tabernacles) and Hanukkah.
- Was a citizen and friend of Israel and believed Israel is the example for all non-Jewish people in the world
- His Bible contained the Torah, the Prophets and the Writings ONLY!
- Quoted passages as authoritative from the Mishnah (the Oral Law).
- Taught that Deuteronomy 6:4 was the most important commandment.
- Wore a tallith and phylacteries in religious services
- Did not eat unclean foods
- Taught the eternalness of God's Covenants and His Laws
- Taught that faith without works is no faith at all
- Taught that salvation is more concerned with events in the here and now than what occurs beyond the grave

I suppose that most of you came up with the same answer.....you don't have to be a scholar to recognize that one that practiced such a faith does not practice Christianity.....he holds to the teachings of Judaism.

NOW, LET'S TAKE A LOOK AT ANOTHER PERSON. SEE IF YOU CAN IDENTIFY THE RELIGION OF THIS PERSON

- Keeps the Sabbath on Sunday which is the legacy of Sun worship today.
- Attends a church which most likely rejects most things Jewish.
- Keeps Easter and Christmas which were pagan festivals made to look religious to those who don't know the difference.
- Carries a Bible containing an Old Testament and a New Testament which ironically contradicts the Old.
- Stresses a person's beliefs over his actions.
- Teaches that people had to be "saved" by acknowledging a creed or an established set of beliefs in order to go to heaven.
- Teaches that they are not under the law and that the Law has passed away and they are under grace.
- Teaches that the church had replaced Israel as God's people and sees itself as the fulfillment of prophecies given to Israel.
- Teaches that you can eat anything...even Biblically unclean foods
- Attaches no special significance to circumcision

I bet you got the right answer again – a Christian.

GOING DEEPER THAN YOU POSSIBLY HAVE EVEN GONE BEFORE

Now let's take this discussion one more step by answering this question.

Answer for yourself: If a Jew wanted to become a member of a Christian religion could he continue practicing Judaism in the church?

The answer is so simple. You would only have to ask your Pastor that one question to get the answer. Probably in the 99.9% of the cases the answer would be - NO!

TURN ABOUT IS FAIR PLAY

Answer for yourself: If a Christian wanted to become a convert to Judaism could he continue practicing Christianity and the items listed above? Again the answer is rather obvious.

Now, the percentage moves upwards, probably in 100% of the cases the answer would be - NO!

It is very apparent that not only are Judaism and Christianity different religions, they are exclusive in many ways. This reveals an amazing fact which can be seen by asking one very simple question –

WHICH RELIGION DID JESUS BELONG TO...CHRISTIANITY OR JUDAISM?

- Was circumcised on the eighth day.
- Kept Sabbath from Friday sundown to Saturday sundown.
- Attended a synagogue regularly.
- Kept the Biblical Festivals such as Passover, Hag Ha Matzah (Unleavened Bread), Shavuot (Pentecost), Rosh HaShannah, Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement), Sukkoth (Tabernacles) and Hanukkah.
- Was a citizen and friend of Israel and believed Israel is the example for all non-Jewish people in the world
- His Bible contained the Torah, the Prophets and the Writings ONLY!
- Quoted passages as authoritative from the Mishnah (the Oral Law).
- Taught that Deuteronomy 6:4 was the most important commandment.
- Wore a tallith and phylacteries in religious services
- Did not eat unclean foods
- Taught the eternalness of God's Covenants and His Laws
- Taught that faith without works is no faith at all
- Taught that salvation is more concerned with events in the here and now than what occurs beyond the grave

Now for the easy part. The answer to the above question is a matter of historical record which is easily attested to by the New Testament itself-- Jesus was a Jew, not a Christian and he was certainly not both. It is clear that Jesus was a practicing Jew who lived a very observant Jewish life-style.

In fact we cannot find any instance whatsoever where Jesus ever: Kept the Sabbath on Sunday, attended or affiliated with any group which rejected things Jewish, kept the pagan festival of Ishtar/Easter or the sun god's birthday (Saturnalia...December 25th....Christmas) which were pagan festivals made to look religious to us today, ever taught anything that contradicted the Old Testament as does much in the New Testament, ever stressed a person's beliefs over his actions, ever taught that people had to be "saved" by acknowledging a creed or an established set of beliefs in order to go to heaven, ever taught that people are not under the law or that the Law had passed away and they were under grace alone, ever taught that the church had replaced Israel as God's people, and ever taught that you can eat anything...even Biblically unclean foods.

JESUS NEVER RENOUNCED JUDAISM OR QUIT BEING A JEW

An amazing discovery for any Christian is the fact that there is simply no evidence that Jesus ever renounced Judaism and quit being a Jew. Also, his teachings do not indicate that he ever wanted any Jew to renounce their Judaism and join a new religion. If this revelation every breaks into your conscious mind then you will have to confront Gentile Christianity for what it has actually become despite Jesus's wishes or example set for us.

Answer for yourself: How then, did Jesus get credited with the distinct label that he was the person responsible for creating a new religion?

Answer for yourself: How did Jesus get credit for creating another religion which opposed the religion and way of life he continued to live...even up to his death?

Let us try to answer questions raised by such an assumption:

LOOKING THROUGH THE EYES OF A JEWISH RABBI NAMED JESUS

Answer for yourself: Would a rabbi prohibit circumcision or downplay its significance?

Answer for yourself: Would a rabbi change the Sabbath to another day...let alone to the day set aside for sun worship by the pagans?

Answer for yourself: Would a rabbi create a replacement for the synagogue?

Answer for yourself: Would a rabbi substitute a pagan feast which was clearly idolatrous, Ishtar (Easter), for Passover?

Answer for yourself: Would a rabbi want his followers to celebrate the birth of a Roman god (Saturnalia -- December 25)?

Answer for yourself: Would a rabbi teach his students to not keep the biblical commandments or that they no longer applied when God already said they were forever?

Answer for yourself: Would a rabbi teach Gentiles to hate Jews?

Answer for yourself: Would a rabbi add books to the Torah in spite of the warning in Deuteronomy forbidding the changing or adding to the Word of God?

Answer for yourself: Would a rabbi replace Deuteronomy 6:4 as the most important commandment?

Answer for yourself: Would a rabbi teach Gentiles that it is permissible to eat unclean food when Noah, himself a non-Jew separated animals based on the principle of clean/unclean long before there were any Jews?

The answer to all the above questions is that a rabbi wouldn't, and that includes a rabbi named Jesus!

TOUGH - THOUGHT PROVOKING QUESTIONS YOU NEED TO ANSWER FOR YOURSELF

Answer for yourself: If Jesus didn't create a new anti-Jewish religion, who did?

Answer for yourself: Who is responsible and what were their motives in replacing the faith of Jesus with a faith about Jesus?

Answer for yourself: Was it the men who acquired leadership after Jesus' departure and the death of the Apostles who did such a thing ?

Answer for yourself: Were those responsible for changing the faith of Jesus actually Jews or Non-Jews and were their motives in changing Jewish doctrines consistent with anti-Semitism?

Answer for yourself: Did they continue teaching Jesus's message and his gospel or did they change Jesus's message in places, and are you, at the present not yet aware of it at your present level of knowledge?

THE BOOK OF ACTS PAINTS US A PICTURE WE WOULD DO WELL TO EXAMINE CLOSELY

The book of Acts provides us with some very valuable information too long overlooked by most Christians. Acts 21:17-25 records Paul's return to Jerusalem and his meeting with the leaders of the "church." Keep in mind that these were the men who had been personally taught by and lived with Jesus. Their words provide us with some very enlightening information. The translation given below is based on a cultural and historical methodology. Your translation most probably reflects the doctrines of the Roman church and therefore may differ.

"You see, brother (referring to the Apostle Paul), how many thousands of Jews have become faithful (observant). All of them are zealous for the Torah (Law). They have been informed that you have taught the Jews of the Diaspora to not keep the Torah, that they should not circumcise their children or live according to the Jewish religion.... Take these men and do the following... so that everybody will know that there is no truth in these reports about your teachings, but that you yourself are living an observant life-style and keeping the Torah."

REMEMBERING THAT THIS IS A PICTURE OF JESUS' CHURCH

A quick summary provides us with some very significant information. Understanding that this passage reflects events which occurred long after Jesus's death then I ask you to be truthful to the text as well as yourself in asking yourself this: Is your church producing the same results?

- Jews who believe in Jesus are becoming more faithful (observant to the Law) because of the message taught by Jesus's followers.
- The message of Jesus's church caused adherents to become zealous for the Torah (Law).
- The members of Jesus's church kept the Laws of Moses (the Torah).
- The members of Jesus's church circumcised their children.
- The members of Jesus's church lived according to the traditions of the elders of Judaism (the Jewish religion).

Notice that Paul did as he was requested - Paul example, at least while he was in Jerusalem under the watchful eyes of the Apostles, wasn't teaching the Jews to abandon their religion. On the contrary, Paul's behavior and example was one as "under the law" and as one who lived an observant Jewish life-style.

Answer for yourself: How then could he have been the author of a doctrine that advocated rejecting the law as is ascribed to him by most Christians today?

Answer for yourself: Not meaning to over-stress this point, but are you really getting the importance of this message as taught by Jesus's church in Palestine?

IS YOUR CHURCH PREACHING THE SAME GOSPEL AND MESSAGE AS YESHUA'S CHURCH?

Again looking at Acts 21 for our information.....let us examine what we are taught by this New Testament picture:

- The message of the apostles caused Jews to repent and become observant Jews who practiced Judaism faithfully.
- The apostles were causing Jews to become eager for the Torah and to pursue it with fervor. It is clear that they were not teaching them that "they were under grace and no longer under the law" or that "the law has passed away after Jesus's death" as we have been told today. This one point is in complete opposition to most fundamental teaching of every modern Christian doctrine.
- The Jewish members of the early church continued to circumcise their children. In other words, they continued to see themselves as participant's in the Abrahamic Covenant, just as every practicing Jew does today. Their children were Jews, not members of some new mystical religion that replaced Judaism.
- The Jewish members of the early church continued to practice Judaism. They did not switch to a new religion.

HOW ARE WE TO INTERPRET PAUL'S ACTIONS?

When we look at Paul's actions, after being ordered by James to take several men with him to the Temple, thereby paying for their animal sacrifices in order to prove that he was an observant Jew by bringing blood sacrifices and sin offerings necessary in finishing his Nazarite vow, we are faced with two possibilities: (A) Paul intentionally deceived the apostles and the Jews in Jerusalem; or, (B) Paul's image and/or the teachings attributed Paul may have been altered by the Roman Church a hundred or more years later.

Answer for yourself: Did Paul intentionally deceive the apostles by faking his true beliefs when bringing sacrifices in the Temple after Jesus's death?

Answer for yourself: If Paul did deceive them, could you put much confidence in his teachings at other places in the New Testament? Remember he already has said that he can become anything to anyone to prove his argument and accomplish his goals.

Answer for yourself: On the other hand, if Paul's words were changed by the Roman Church could we base our foundational beliefs on forged documents?

Christianity, almost universally, requires a Jew to convert to Christianity before he can become a member of the church or be saved. This conversion process forces the Jew to renounce his or her Judaism and terminate or redefine many Biblical and Jewish practices.

Having read this article so far, please think deeply while answering these next questions:

Answer for yourself: Would your church require a Jew to renounce or stop practicing Judaism if he or she wanted to become a member?

Answer for yourself: How many circumcisions have you attended for the children of Jewish members of your church?

Answer for yourself: How many of your church's members are Jewish and are zealous for the Torah and are pursuing it with fervor?

Answer for yourself: Does your church conduct at least one Torah study per week?

Answer for yourself: How many of your church's Jewish members are observant Jews?

Answer for yourself: When was the last time you attended a Passover Seder, or a Rosh HaShannah or Yom Kippur service at your church?

Answer for yourself: Do you have a rabbi or a minister well educated in the Hebraic Roots of Christianity leading your church?

Your answers to the above questions are probably -- Yes, None, None, No, None, Never and Minister.

I want you take some time to think about the next question before you answer it.

Answer for yourself: What would your church require a rabbi to do if he applied for membership?

Answer for yourself: Would they allow him to continue to be a rabbi, practice Judaism, teach the Torah, wear his prayer shawl, observe all the Jewish festivals and teach the members that they were under the Law?

Answer for yourself: What if that rabbi was Jesus?

Are you beginning to see the truth?

Without a great deal of effort it becomes glaringly apparent that neither Rabbi Jesus, the apostles nor the Paul of Acts 21, would be allowed to join a Christian Church the likes of which we see today. On the other hand, it is also clear that Rabbi Jesus would not participate in any religion that not only opposes, but is actively dedicated to destroying his Father's religion!

Gentile Christianity has for centuries felt it was given a mandate from God to "save the world." This is the goal and stated mission of Christianity.

THE SILENT SLAUGHTER OF TRUTH

Answer for yourself: How is this mission to "save the world" to be accomplished?

Just ask the Southern Baptist Convention who just last year vowed to win every Jew to Jesus by the year 2000. To put it very simply, the goal is to convert every Jew (non-Christian) to Christianity. The Jewish convert must renounce his Judaism (or any non-Christian religion he may hold), agree to accept the doctrines of Gentile Christianity and oppose any religion that opposes Gentile Christianity.

Instead of a physical holy war (Jihad), Gentile Christianity has engaged in a doctrinal holy war. As I stated above, Christianity is an exclusive religion. Christians are not allowed to simultaneously practice Islam, Buddhism, Judaism or any other religion. Therefore, if Christianity was to attain its goal of "getting every person on the face of the earth to believe in Jesus," including all the Jews, Judaism would be totally destroyed and cease to exist. If this were ever to happen, and I pray it does not, then Christianity would have the dubious honor which Hitler in vain tried to achieve; namely the eradication of not only the Jewish people from the face of this planet, but the total destruction of the true faith of Jesus...Biblical Judaism.

This would accomplish something that the crusaders, the inquisition, Hitler and a number of others have failed to accomplish.

Answer for yourself: How do you think a Jewish Jesus would react to the idea that such a mission was being carried out in his name?

This really gets weird when you think about it! Christians base their proof for their ultimate salvation on a Jewish rabbi named Jesus (Jesus), who was an observant Jew who faithfully practiced Judaism. On the one hand, his religion would most probably not allow him to practice modern Christianity. On the other hand, modern Christianity would not allow him to practice its religion without first renouncing his religion -- Judaism!

This should present a very important challenge to every Christian:

If a Jewish Jesus could not, and would not, practice a religion dedicated to destroying his religion, how can anyone who bases their salvation on Rabbi Jesus participate in and perpetuate it?

Answer for yourself: Would Rabbi Jesus agree with the church's salvation message which is based on such a system? Are you getting the drift of this discussion?

Answer for yourself: How did the religion that Rabbi Jesus and his followers practice evolve into what it is today? To begin to unravel this problem lets ask how a religion whose foundational position focused on teaching its members "to keep the Law" became a religion whose main message was that "members are no longer under the Law."

Early Christian writers taught that the Law had been fulfilled with the coming of Jesus. Fulfilled, as they defined it, meant that it had been canceled and therefore was of no importance to Christians. However, to Rabbi Jesus, "fulfilled" meant (1) to keep the Law; and (2) to correctly interpret the teachings of the Bible. There is absolutely nothing said by Rabbi Jesus that would support modern Christianity's doctrine of grace.

Next, the Roman Christian leaders focused on the story of God's unconditional and unending support. However, they claimed that this was something new and was created when God made a new covenant of grace. Again, this was unknown to Rabbi Jesus and his apostles. Early Gentile Christian leaders and theologians continued to develop their new doctrines from the mid-second century on through the seventh century. As they refined their arguments they became much more antagonistic toward Judaism.

This Gentile anti-Judaic movement spanned almost all of Christianity -- from the Roman African communities represented by Tertullian (160-220 C.E.), to the Iranian monk Aphrahat (300-350 C.E.) of the eastern Syriac Christian tradition, and to Bishop John Chrysostom (349-400 C.E.) in Antioch.

Studies have clearly shown the extent to which leaders of the early church attacked Judaism for its position on the law, calling Jews "slavish adherents to the letter of the law." They claimed that Judaism was allowed to continue to exist primarily as an example of degradation.

Answer for yourself: What do you think that rabbi Jesus would have thought about that position?

Origin, the third-century leader of the Christian community in Caesarea, summed up the difference between Judaism's and Roman Christianity's approaches to Scripture:

"It seems necessary also to explain how certain people by failing to read or understand Scripture correctly have given themselves up to a great many errors, since the way one ought to approach the understanding of divine letters is unknown to a great many people. And so, the Jews, through the hardness of their heart and because they wish to seem wise in themselves, have not believed in our Lord and Savior...."

Now the reason that those we have just mentioned [Jews and heretical Christians] have a false understanding of these matters is quite simply that they understand Scripture not according to the spiritual meaning but according to the sound of the letter...."

[But] a person ought to describe threefold in his soul the meaning of divine letters, that is, so that the simple may be edified by, so to speak, the body of the Scriptures; for that is what we call the ordinary and narrative meaning. But if any have begun to make some progress and can contemplate something more fully, they should be edified by the soul of Scripture. And those who are perfect... should be edified by that spiritual Law (Rom. 7:14) which has a shadow of the good things to come (Heb. 10:1), edified by the spirit of Scripture. Thus, just as a human being is said to be made up of body, soul, and spirit, so also is sacred Scripture, which has been granted by God's gracious dispensation for man's salvation."

This new scheme for reading Scripture, and the charge that Jews miss all but the literal meaning, made for powerful arguments. Origin's dichotomy between "letter" and "spirit," or in other words, between reading biblical materials either at their face value for norms of behavior and as a more generalized stance toward the world, set the stage throughout history for Christians to increase the fervor of the charge of legalism. Legalism became synonymous with Jewish, and therefore was viewed in a negative light. However, the word "legalism" simply means someone that "lives in accordance with or adheres to a legal system."

Answer for yourself: What would you call someone who "did not adhere to or live in accordance with a legal system"-- a Christian? The products of this anti-Jewish tradition still shapes the thoughts of over 1.6 billion Christians regarding Judaic law.

I am challenging every Christian to make a decision to return to the religion, teachings and life-style expounded by Rabbi Jesus. Don't misunderstand what I am saying: I am not advocating adopting and accepting the current "theology or faith" about Jesus; rather, return to the real faith of Jesus and the place within it for the Gentile Godfearer. As I stated above, according to the book of Acts, your conversion experience to the faith of the Apostolic church of Jesus as seen in Acts 21 should have made you zealous for the Torah and brought you back to an observant Biblical life-style as defined by the commandments of God.

Answer for yourself: Has it?

Becoming a member of Rabbi Jesus's movement should have caused you to become a serious student of the Torah. You should be teaching the Torah to others, especially the flood of Gentiles who are coming to you to be taught.

Answer for yourself: Has it?

Answer for yourself: Is there any other way for you to be a "light to the Gentiles?"

If you are a Gentile, you will also need to take a very close look at Acts 15. Gentiles who were coming to the movement originated by Rabbi Jesus were given very special instructions. First they were to place themselves under specific laws. For all practical purposes those laws were the Ten Commandments. Of special importance was their keeping the Jewish Sabbath and studying the Torah at the synagogue with the Jews.

Keeping the Jewish Sabbath is something that you can do immediately, however; many of you may find it difficult to locate a synagogue where you will be allowed to study the Torah. For very good reasons, after thousands of years of persecutions, the Jewish community is very cautious. I believe that as Christian Jews return to the synagogue, because of the teachings of Rabbi Jesus, the doors will be opened wider to Gentiles desiring to know the God of Rabbi Jesus.

Two things must be kept in mind as both Jews and Gentile Christians choose to return to the teachings of rabbi Jesus. First, almost two thousand years of conflict between Judaism and Christianity has left many scars. Both religions have developed reactionary doctrines and theologies. A reactionary doctrine created as a reaction to the another religion's actions or doctrines.

An example would be the Jewish position concerning kneeling for prayer. Because Christians knelt for prayer, the Jews took the position that they should no longer kneel but stand for prayers. Judaism altered its form of worship because of this practice of Christianity. There have been many reactionary doctrines created both between and within both religions. This is an area of research that deserves much attention. I would challenge my readers to consider such a research project.

It must be kept in mind that the Judaism of Jesus is not exactly the same as the Judaism of today. Also, the movement attributed to Jesus is not the same as modern Christianity. Obviously, many things have taken place since the time of Jesus which resulted in the separation and numerous differences between the two religions.

It is of the utmost importance for both Christians and Jews to understand these changes. You must know when the changes were made, identify the people who were responsible for making the changes, and discover why they made them. You must come to an understanding which changes were motivated by inspiration, which were produced by the hunger for power and wealth and which were the results of human frailties such as anger, rejection, fear and hatred.

As you embark on this journey you will quickly come to realize that you have stumbled upon the greatest cover-ups in history.

As you become more acquainted with the truth upon your study you will realize two very important things:

- Leaders, especially scholars, have always been aware of this information and have deliberately chosen to ignore it.
- This information has been virtually within the grasp of every American. In many cases it is as close as an encyclopedia or attainable today through the Internet.

Today, there are over 2.5 billion Christians on the face of the earth – the vast majority who believe in their heart they are true followers of Jesus, but as I have shown you, are practicing a different religion from which Jesus practiced. If they all returned to the teachings and life-style taught in Acts, we would see a moral and ethical revolution that would literally rock the foundations of the world and no longer would America, touted to be the most Christian nation in the world, be recognized as the world's most violent and law-breaking nation of the world. That should make you wonder what it would be like if Christians really followed the faith of Jesus and if your church would really allow you to be like Jesus.

INTRODUCTORY COMMENTS ON THE NEW TESTAMENT

The problem of the divisions in early Christianity raises a further question:

why can't we just turn to the New Testament to resolve outstanding issues which were confusing in early Christianity?

This is the instinctive reaction of many Christians, especially Protestants.

Answer for yourself: Isn't the New Testament precisely such a guide for anyone needing clarification?

There are several reasons why doing this does not work:

- First of all, the New Testament itself displays a wide variety of contradictory viewpoints and agendas; the writings themselves are not historical records as much as advocacies for different audiences within the early Christian communities.
- Secondarily, the New Testament leaves out a number of viewpoints and ancient gospels.
- Thirdly, it was subject to extensive editing and modification.

All this could be overlooked, perhaps, if early Christianity were otherwise a unified, coherent movement; but early Christianity was anything but unified and coherent, as we have already seen.

The New Testament can easily be invoked for support of countless mutually contradictory explanations of Jesus. As a result, even those seeking to interpret the Bible literally often come to a completely different understanding of what that literal interpretation is. On the basis of the Bible, some Christians are pacifist, while others support war; some support capital punishment, others oppose it; some accept alcohol, while others do not; some allow divorce, some allow divorce only in cases of adultery and some do not allow divorce at all; and so on. Each viewpoint can cite its favorite verses or interpretations. Fundamentalists may object that the New Testament is complete and consistent and provides a reliable guide for life and religion; but if this is the case, it is hard to explain all the contradictions among the fundamentalists themselves.

THERE ARE NUMEROUS DISCREPANCIES , BOTH MAJOR AND MINOR, IN THE NEW TESTAMENT ACCOUNTS:

- The conflicting methods of salvation as taught by Jesus and Paul
- The conflicting and completely opposite Gospels attributed to Jesus and Paul and John
- The hundreds of purposeful misquotations, mistranslations, scriptural inventions, and purposefully misapplied Hebrew Scriptures found in both the Christian Old and New Testaments.

- The names of the twelve apostles
- The location of Jesus' post-resurrection appearances,
- The completely different genealogies in Matthew and Luke, for example.
- The synoptic gospels (Matthew, Mark, and Luke), called "synoptic" because their pictures of Jesus are similar to each other, but which are sharply different from the depiction of Jesus in the gospel of John.
- The letters of Paul, in turn, present a very different picture of Jesus than that found in the synoptic gospels.
- Sometimes there are even contradictions: for example, Jesus affirms that he has come to fulfill the law and condemns those who violate even the least of the law's commands (Matthew 5:17-19); but in the letters of Paul we find that Jesus supposedly annulled the law and we find that Paul classifies his adherence to the law as "so much garbage" (Ephesians 2:14-15, Philippians 3:8).

To the impartial reader it is obvious that many different ideas are at play; centuries of exegesis designed to harmonize the New Testament writings cannot overturn the problems that lurk there.

John Dominic Crossan, author of several books about Jesus, points out that we can construct almost any picture of Jesus we want to by selecting the "right" texts. Jesus can be shown "to be for or against legal observance, for or against apocalyptic expectation, for or against Gentile mission, for or against Temple worship, for or against titular claim, for or against political revolt, and so on" (Quoted in Dart, The Jesus of Heresy and History, p. 156).

But even putting this aside, the New Testament would be a poor guide to historical reality. The New Testament is highly selective; gospels that did not meet with the approval of the early church were eliminated. Due to the twentieth-century discoveries at Nag Hammadi, we now know what the New Testament might have looked like if history had turned out a bit differently. As diverse as the New Testament is, it pales in comparison with the diversity of the range of views held by significant numbers of the followers of Jesus just within the first century after Jesus. It should not be necessary to repeat the statement of Hans-Joachim Schoeps that the New Testament "must surely be regarded as a tendentious, contrived product of the second century" (Schoeps, Jewish Christianity, p. 3), or Robert Funk's conclusion that the New Testament is "a highly uneven and biased record of various early attempts to invent Christianity" (Funk, Honest to Jesus, p. 314).

Moreover, it may be next to impossible to fully reconstruct what the original texts of even the "approved" New Testament books said. Helmut Koester reminds us that the oldest known manuscripts of parts of the New Testament are over a century later than the presumed original versions; and it is precisely in the first century when the most serious corruptions of the texts (changes, additions, and deletions) are likely to have occurred. Koester concludes that "textual critics of the New Testament writings have been surprisingly naive in this respect" (Koester, op. cit. note 2, p. 19).

Even within the sphere of the orthodox there was disagreement as to which books should be included. The Muratorian canon, based on a manuscript thought to originate as early as the third century, fails to include Hebrews, I Peter, II Peter, one of the letters of John, and James, all of which are in the modern New Testament; it does include, however, the Apocalypse of Peter and the Wisdom of Solomon, which ultimately were not included. Some writers even attacked the Gospel of John in reaction to the Montanist heresy, a heresy with strong apocalyptic and pentecostal elements (Funk, op. cit. note 6, p. 113). It was not until the fourth century, with Athanasius, that someone mentions the exact twenty-seven books that now constitute the New Testament. But Eusebius, who lived about the same time, describes the books of James, Jude, II Peter, II John, and III John as disputed (James and Jude are mentioned as disputed in Ecclesiastical History 2.23.25; II Peter, at 3.3.1; and II and III John, at 3.24.17), indicating that even at this late date there is still some considerable debate going on.

Bet Emet Ministries has detailed the confusion and constant disagreement, even murder, that occurred over the centuries as the Canon of the New Testament was argued into completion. The sad fact of these horrific details are at another website: <http://geocities.com/faithofyeshua>

Even as late as the Reformation, Martin Luther objected to the inclusion of the letter of James in the New Testament; and Catholics and Protestants disagree to this day over the Apocrypha.

This short introductory article is not a detailed attempt to determine either what the canon should have been, or to determine which of the sayings of Jesus (or the "logia", or the Ancient Wisdom taught through the Jewish Christ as he spoke through the Prophets in Israel) from the canonical or other gospels are "authentic." We do this on the website above. Our task is both more humble and more fundamental. It is more humble, because evaluation of all New Testament and other texts for authenticity is completely beyond the scope of this website; we have done that at another site. But it is more fundamental, because it establishes the framework within which any discussion of the truths and facts about the historical Jesus must take place: the history of Christianity.

Answer for yourself: For if we do not understand the basic context and history of his teaching, how can we hope to ever understand the exact words?

The New Testament provides important evidence about the historical Jesus and the history of early Christianity. Please pay attention at my next comment for it is possibly one of the most important facts that I can ever relate to you.

The New Testament cannot be taken simply at face value: it is a highly edited, inconsistent document put together to support the viewpoint of a single party in early Christianity, namely the victorious party. It is the outcome of early Christian history not just a record of it.

The starting point of historical Jesus research is history; we must first establish the historical context of the Jewish Christ and his mission and message as filtered through the Jewish nation. We believe that this website along with other others can establish this historical context and its importance for both the Jew as well as the "non-Jew" as followers of the Jewish Christ.

HISTORY AND REVELATION

"But how do you know"?

It might seem from the foregoing discussion that we are trapped in relativism: we are faced with equally plausible but contradictory interpretations of Christian records.

Answer for yourself: Jesus as Gnostic teacher, Jesus as military revolutionary, Jesus as social critic, Jesus as dying savior - with countless equally possible interpretations, how can we decide for or against any of them?

Let me propose a simple criterion for evaluating any theory about Jesus:

Answer for yourself: Does it make sense of Christian history? "Christian history" means, of course, the life of Jesus (most Jesus theories do a pretty good job with this); but it also includes later events as well. The mission of Paul, the destruction of Jerusalem, the controversies over gnosticism in the second century, and the council of Nicaea in the fourth century- all of these need to be included.

Pick up any book on the historical Jesus, whether written two hundred years ago or yesterday, and you will most likely find no substantial discussion of Marcion and his role in second-century Christianity, no mention of the destruction of Jerusalem in the year 70 and its effect on Christianity, no mention of Jewish Christianity, no discussion of the other countless schisms in early Christianity, and no discussion of the council of Nicaea. There are only a handful of books in English whose primary subject is Jewish Christianity. Among these are : Danielous, The Theology of Jewish Christianity, 1995; Koch, A Critical Investigation of Epiphanius' Knowledge of the Ebionites, 1976; Ludermann, Opposition to Paul in Jewish Christianity, 1989; Schoeps, Jewish Christianity, 1969; Skriver, The Forgotten Beginning of Creation and Christianity, 1991; Vaclavik, The Vegetarianism of Jesus Christ, 1987.

With a few exceptions, most books on the historical Jesus pass all of this by. A few pages, a few paragraphs, or even a few footnotes are all that you will see on key historical issues. "Let's concentrate on the New Testament texts relating to Jesus," they seem to be saying, "and let the later history of Christianity take care of itself." The texts "float in the air," outside of time, space, and history.

We cannot understand Jesus or "the Christ" without first understanding early Christian history. The very records that we invoke for the understanding of this New Testament Jesus were themselves decisively shaped by later events. We must, therefore, turn to these later events to understand the earlier records. The history of early Christianity is exactly what shaped the text of the New Testament - and any criterion of what the "good" and "bad" texts are must rely on some idea of that history. Most scholars, if they are tempted at all to go down the path of Christian history to understand Jesus, quickly turn back after encountering the demons of schism. But it is precisely these demons we must confront.

In this website we have sought to establish a very rough outline of a "road map" for the history of early Christianity. We have also proposed a framework for understanding who Jesus was: the history of early Christianity. Early Christianity was highly schismatic, and this fact complicates our knowledge of

Jesus. We do not yet want to take sides, or say that someone was right or wrong; we simply want to see the problem and work our way back to the original question that led to the confusion:

Did the followers of Jesus, both Jew and "non-Jew", see the Jewish law as a guide for their lives?

Yes! In spite of what Paul might say, in spite of what Rome did to the texts to present ideas that the Law has passed away, the resounding fact of critical investigation and correct interpretation of the events and times of Jesus is that resoundingly the followers of Jesus revered and kept the Law as part of their covenant stipulations and responsibilities before God. It is this knowledge that the Gentile Church has tried to destroy and has done I might say a very admirable job up to now...it is time to correct such an abomination!

MY CONCLUDING REMARKS...IN PREPARATION FOR MORE SERIOUS STUDY THAT WILL BENEFIT THE "NON-JEWISH" BELIEVER

The idea that Christianity developed gradually from its beginnings, based on the teachings of Jesus but perhaps making certain additions or changes as the tradition developed, has a powerful hold even among the most liberal of scholars. Christianity did not develop this way, however. Rather, there was wide discord in early Christianity - something that was actually to Christianity's advantage, since in the rapid growth of Christianity, those features that had more appeal to the people of the Roman Empire would spread more rapidly and ultimately define what Christianity was. Had the followers of Jesus uniformly remained a Jewish sect, Christianity very likely would not have become the religion of the Roman Empire.

These schisms in early Christianity were not concerned with matters of detail of the Christian message nor with obscure questions of theology. They cut to the very heart of what Christianity was and is. They were the material of the repeated crises that dotted the landscape of early Christian history.

It is against this backdrop that we consider the history of Jewish Christianity.

THE TWO BIGGEST QUESTIONS YOU WILL EVER HAVE TO ANSWER

Answer for yourself: Were the followers of this Jesus, as depicted in the New Testament, a book given us by Rome, following a new path, a new religion that was transmitted from God through this Jesus, and did it supersede everything that Judaism represented and was this "new religion" to be understood as a "correction" of Biblical Judaism?

Answer for yourself: Or were these followers of this Jesus, as depicted in the New Testament, simply Jews, who sought to return to the true and original Law of God as revealed to Moses?

This was the issue that continually faced Christians in the first four centuries.

Now for the sad fact of the answer you have been given by Gentile Christianity to the above questions:

The final resolution of these questions by orthodox Gentile Christianity was that Christians had no allegiance to the law of Moses as such, but rather first to Jesus and the church he founded, which replaced the law of Moses. This resolution created a paradox: in the beginning, Jesus and all his followers were Jews; in the end, the church condemned the Jewish Christians as heretics.

NO GREATER ERROR HAS EVER BEEN MADE IN THE HISTORY OF MANKIND!

Because of this the "non-Jewish" believers in God have misunderstood so much concerning their own faith. Theological errors abound and escape the sight of most and are tragically called "orthodoxy" today; errors that would horrify one if he possessed the knowledge to see them exposed by the light of personal study. Twenty years of scholarly study will blow the lid off this "Roman Lie" received by the whole of the Western Hemisphere as "Orthodox Christianity" today. Because of such theological errors, fostered by Gentile antisemitism, disobedience within Gentile Christianity abounds and dear ones such sins of ignorance is sin regardless of whether you know it or not. Therefore, it is time for deep teaching and a call for Teshuvah...Repentance. And because of this sad legacy of Gentile Christianity our relationship with God is hindered, whether we know it or not; and so much worse, our love for Him is not in Spirit and in Truth. God desires better, He deserves better! I hope to contribute in some small way to the changing of such a sad state of affairs that exists in Gentile Christianity today. And this is done by my providing the fruit of my scholarly studies undertaken in my personal pursuit of truth; truth long held from us as "non-Jewish" believers in this "Jesus Story" and "the Christ".

With the former studies we have laid a foundation that allows us to march forward in pursuit of truth as we discover and restore the "Pattern of Worship" given mankind; both Jew and "non-Jew".

THE TASK AT HAND: RECOVERING GOD'S PATTERN OF WORSHIP TO THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH...JEWISH WORSHIP AS SEEN FROM THE NEW TESTAMENT

It may be surprising to many of you, but the New Testament, that is, the collection of Christian writings that came into existence in the second half of the first century as well as the next two centuries as well, bears abundant witness to the existence of a "Pattern of Worship" which can be traced backwards to Abraham (a non-Jew) and even beyond. For simplicity sake we will often refer to this as "Jewish liturgy" as we can see this "Pattern of Worship" apply not only to the Jewish Messianic congregations but the Gentile Messianic congregations as well which we will later see emerge in Asia Minor!

LET ME PREPARE YOU FOR WHAT YOU WILL SEE IF YOU STUDY THIS "PATTERN OF WORSHIP" AS REVEALED TO THE ANCIENTS

We at Bet Emet Ministries often get E-Mails asking "how do we find a place to worship today which follows the examples we read about in the Book of Acts?". Sadly there is no good answer for this since traditional-mainline Christianity does NOT follow the "Pattern of Worship" revealed in the Jewish Bible nor really in the New Testament as you will come to see as you study beyond the surface of the stories that we read in the New Testament. You will also come to see that neither does Gentile Christianity follow this "Pattern of Worship" as taught in the true "Apostle's Doctrines" which we should all desire to adopt in our personal lives and worship of God. As you study more into this area of knowledge you can begin to discern a very marked "Pattern of Worship" which you will see reflected by the Jews of the first century which has "roots" that go as far back as Egypt and Sumer. This "Pattern of Worship" not only involves special "appointed times of the Creator" but revolve around the equinoxes and solstices; each of which carry special " messages from the Creator which sadly Christianity today has totally lost.

The parallels between Jewish Worship and this "Ancient Pattern" (once you see it) will be startling as Ancient Divine Revelation from God concerning how He is to be loved and worshiped will be revealed for the simplicity which it possessed which tragically today has been lost to most. As you have seen if you have studied in detail our Egyptian-Christian Website then you have seen for yourself the undeniable link between the Jewish nation as the descendants of the Egyptian people. That being so then one should expect that the "roots" of "Jewish Worship" should go back to their Egyptian forefathers as well and we should likewise expect Biblical Judaism to express this same "Pattern of Worship" which likewise their forefathers possessed from the earliest Revelations of God to mankind. You will not be disappointed when you both discern and search for this "Pattern of Worship" and its links to the earliest Revelation given to mankind on this plant as it is there for all discerning readers to behold. What should concern us however is if we can locate this same "Ancient Pattern of Worship" not only in the earliest understanding and worship of mankind of the Creator but if this "Pattern of Worship" can be traced down through history and if this "Pattern" can be found in Biblical Judaism as well as later when the non-Jews were taught throughout the world by men like the Apostles and Paul as we see in the both the "first" and "second Great Commissions. If we can find this same "Ancient Pattern or Worship" taught to the non-Jews, lets say in second century in various "churches" throughout Asia Minor. then the implications for us today are startling in light of the fact that mainline Gentile Christianity has little in common with this "Revealed Pattern of Worship" today. That should give you cause to think if we are not contemporary "Nabads and Abihus" in our worship of God.

This is a startling revelation in light of our experience today as contemporary Christians whose worship is patterned after little, if any, Jewish liturgy as was our counterparts in the first three-four centuries! Roman Christianity has changed not only the Sabbath but the Biblical Holy Days as well and we as Christians and followers of "the Christ" has been given a completely different religious calendar filled with "rituals" totally foreign to this "Ancient Pattern of Worship". The witness in the New Testament of Jewish liturgy is unfortunately not descriptive. In other words, it tells us that in the time of Jesus and beyond as seen in the Book of Acts, that certain prayers, holy days, observances, rituals, and ceremonies existed, but it does not tell us in detail their composition, true meaning, or how they were practiced. But that does not meant that we cannot know this information today as Judaism as preserved this "Pattern of Worship" for all of mankind today. The New Testament tells us little about the content, structure, and dynamics of such liturgy and that was done on purpose. For example the Greek word for "Passover" (Pesach) is used 30 times in the New Testament and 29 times it is translated the same and we read "Passover" as we should. But in the Book of Acts, the book which expressed the example of the emerging Gentile Christian Church from Biblical Judaism it is not translated as it has been done 29 times before. Instead of "Passover" we find it purposely mistranslated as "Easter" in order to maintain the sun-worship of the Gentiles and their fertility cults. So on purpose we don't see an accurate picture of the Gentile Church observing the Passover historically as we today know they did but instead get a false picture of the Gentile and his worship of God which sadly has survived for over 1900 years at present. This is only the tip of the iceberg when one truly gets involved in such a study.

If you wanted to learn what the realities that are behind the terms, prayers, rituals, observances, and ceremonies recorded in the Hebrew Scriptures and other Jewish writings let alone hinted at in the New Testament then you have only one recourse open to you: you must study hard in order to learn but also to draw your own conclusions as you see this information as yourself. Only by your own study of this "Pattern of Worship" will you be convinced and thereby be fully persuaded that what lies ahead for you is your repentance of the false worship we inherited from antisemitic Rome and your own experience through your own direct participation in such liturgies and observances which is lacking in Christianity today. I encourage you to consult a variety of sources where you can read about the various liturgical rites and texts used in the Jewish worship of God as they follow the "Pattern of Worship" that they have inherited that has its roots in the earliest Revelation of God to mankind that archeologist have found today. But let me caution you and prepare you for such a study. In doing this type of study we stumble at the beginning because we link the words we read to our very own inaccurate personal experiences and the realities that are a part of our very own cultural world, instead of their intended meaning when spoken in their original setting. We must be on our toes to remember our quest is to recover "the faith once given to the Saints".

The apostles and the first readers of the Christian scriptures were in a privileged hermeneutical position: when they read of the synagogue and Sabbath and Passover, they were brought in contact with realities they knew and were familiar with; for example it can be shown that non-Jews, Gentiles, observed "the Passover " long before Moses. Did you catch that? Why? What did they know that you don't? They did it because God has commanded it and later this command is recorded for us in the later Hebrew Scriptures but we miss it since being falsely programmed to think that such things are "Jewish" and does not pertain to the Gentile and non-Jew. It is time to study hard and look for this "Pattern of Worship", not only practiced by the Jews but non-Jews in the Hebrew Scriptures as well. It is time that things we find observed in the Bible which are labeled "Jewish" be re-labeled as they should have been all along and that word is "Biblical". We must be modern day detectives of the Hebrew Scriptures as well as the New Testament in order to find the "nuggets of truth" which sadly today have been obscured by Rome's redaction and forgery of our Christian Old and New Testaments. We must become competent "detectives" of the Bible we inherited in order to discern that the Holy Scriptures instructs us to celebrate and observe certain "appointed times with God" and realize that even if such newly discerned observances are foreign and strange to us that that does not mean we cannot repent and return to God in repentance for only in so doing can we be ASSURED that we are worshiping the Father in Spirit and in Truth.

John 4:24 24 God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.
(KJV)

Instead of Passover the Gentile church adopted Easter which was totally foreign to the Jewish believers in the first century let alone by them considered an idolatrous expression of pagan worship. The same can be said sadly for the Biblical Feasts and Festivals, rituals and prayers, fasts, etc. And it goes even deeper when we see the wholesale replacement of the religious doctrines cherished by Ancients become little more than "literalized Sun Worship" when Rome gets their hands on it. It is called appropriately Replacement Religion and we know it not today in our Churches thinking our "Book" and our experiences is as it should be and accepted by God. One only needs to think of Nadab and Abihu who were killed by God in their false worship of Him. This is our lesson to learn which few ever hear.

Present-day readers (and those of centuries past) of the Christian scriptures find themselves in the opposite hermeneutical situation: a situation of uneasiness and danger. Uneasiness, because they keep encountering terms now outside their cultural horizon; danger, because they are easily tempted to fill the Jewish words with a content alien to them, a context often 180 degrees opposite their original intended meaning! Such a failure in correct interpretation of the words of our Bibles have lead Christians to mistakenly believe when reading the New Testament that the Jesus described in the New Testament came to replace Jewish worship with a new variant of Christian worship! This phenomena is extremely important because it shows clearly that the New Testament writings can be approached with different and opposite understandings which may be in harmony or out of harmony with those of the religion of Jesus (Judaism). If they are in harmony, the writings reveal hidden yet luminous meanings which those without the proper understanding of the Hebrew behind the English overlook. Such conditions result in one reading the New Testament with a mistaken understanding, thus arriving at the erroneous conclusion of seeing Jesus and his followers replace the faith and religion given to them by God with one that denies the eternal truths and precepts enumerated at Sinai and before.

If then, we are to avoid misinterpreting the liturgical information provided in the New Testament literature, we must have recourse to other sources that are more directly and explicitly Jewish that explain in detail what is only alluded to in the New Testament. This statement explains the series of publications that Bet Emet has recently begun in order to cite some of the many New Testament passages that attest to the existence of Jewish liturgy in early Christianity before changed by Roman paganism. We must reconstruct this Jewish revelation which was taken to Gentile lands in the first through fourth centuries before Constantine at Nicea destroys almost all traces of it. Our studies will contain important documentation concerning implications for the Gentile worshiper of God concerning the liturgy in the Temple and synagogues, the liturgy as seen in the Sabbath, and the liturgy as seen in the celebration and observance of Passover, Pentecost, Tabernacles, Hanukkah, and Yom Kippur. Next we will examine "the prayer" (Shema), and the Lord's prayer. Lastly we will conclude with sources from the Mishnah, the Talmud, and the prayer book (Siddur). Let us not forget that our inquiry is to ascertain and confirm not only the presence of Jewish worship in the early Christian communities in Asia, Minor, both Jewish and Gentile, but to come to an understanding of the worship service as it existed "THEN" in order to model our lives in such worship that was both THEN and can be NOW "in spirit and in truth."

WHAT IS A MOED?

The order of Moed ("appointed time") provides specific instructions for the rituals, observances and laws related to holidays and festivals. "Moed" is the biblical word used to describe special days that are set apart from non-sacred days. The Torah prescribes six such sacred occasions:

- The weekly Sabbath,
- The Pilgrimage Festivals of Pesach (Passover),
- Shavuot (Pentecost)
- Sukkot (Tabernacles),

and what have become known as the High Holidays--

- Rosh HaShannah and
- Yom Kippur.

Additionally, the Mishnah in Seder Moed depicts the special days of Purim and as well as the 4 fast days. The absence of Hanukkah from this list has engendered considerable discussion, and may indicate the displeasure of the early Mishnah-era sages with the Maccabean dynasty. Thus you can see that the Hebrew term "moed" is a very important term in the Hebrew Scriptures and often goes unnoticed in our Scripture reading in the English. For our purposes it is important that we see just what the term means in its original language.

In the Hebrew the word for "festival" is translated:

Strong's number #4150 mowed, mo-ade'; or mo`ed, mo-ade'; or (fem.) mow`adah (2 Chron. 8:13), mo-aw-daw'; from 3259; prop. an appointment, i.e. a fixed time or season; especially a festival; conventionally a year; by implication, an assembly (as convened for a definite purpose); technically the congregation; by extension, the place of meeting also a signal (as appointed beforehand):-appointed (sign, time), (place of, solemn) assembly, congregation, (set, solemn) feast, (appointed, due) season, solemn (-ity), synagogue, (set) time (appointed).

LAW OF FIRST USE IN THE TaNaKh (BIBLE):

Genesis 1:14 And God said, "Let there be lights in the expanse of the sky to separate the day from the night, and let them serve as signs to mark seasons and days and years, And let them be lights in the expanse of the sky to give light on the earth." And it was so.

This idea is repeated in the Psalm to indicate this relationship of an appointed time marked off by the moon:

Psalms 104:19 The moon marks off the seasons, and the sun knows when to go down.

Mo'ed in this next passage alludes to a festival. The rabbinic sages believe that this event occurred on Passover:

Genesis 17:19-21 Then God said, "Yes, but your wife Sarah will bear you a son, and you will call him Isaac. I will establish my covenant with him as an everlasting covenant for his descendants after him.

And as for Ishmael, I have heard you: I will surely bless him; I will make him fruitful and will greatly increase his numbers. He will be the father of twelve rulers, and I will make him into a great nation. But my covenant I will establish with Isaac, whom Sarah will bear to you by this time next year."

Genesis 18:10-14 Then the LORD said, "I will surely return to you about this time next year, and Sarah your wife will have a son." Now Sarah was listening at the entrance to the tent, which was behind him. Abraham and Sarah were already old and well advanced in years, and Sarah was past the age of childbearing. So Sarah laughed to herself as she thought, "After I am worn out and my master is old, will I now have this pleasure?" Then the LORD said to Abraham, "Why did Sarah laugh and say, 'Will I really have a child, now that I am old?' Is anything too hard for the LORD? I will return to you at the appointed time next year and Sarah will have a son."

Genesis 21:1-3 Now the LORD was gracious to Sarah as he had said, and the LORD did for Sarah what he had promised. Sarah became pregnant and bore a son to Abraham in his old age, at the very time God had promised him. Abraham gave the name Isaac to the son Sarah bore him.

MO'ED IS TRANSLATED AS FEAST:

This word "mo'ed" is often translated "feast". God's "feasts" are appointments God made with mankind as we can see in:

Lev 23:4-7 4 These are the feasts of the LORD, even holy convocations, which ye shall proclaim in their seasons. 5 In the fourteenth day of the first month at even is the LORD's passover. 6 And on the fifteenth day of the same month is the feast of unleavened bread unto the LORD: seven days ye must eat unleavened bread. 7 In the first day ye shall have an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work therein. (KJV)

The Strong's Concordance #4150:

4150 mowed` (mo-ade'); or moed` (mo-ade'); or (feminine) mow`adah (2 Chronicles 8:13) (mo-aw-daw'); from 3259; properly, an appointment, i.e. a fixed time or season; specifically, a festival; conventionally a year; by implication, an assembly (as convened for a definite purpose); technically the congregation; by extension, the place of meeting; also a signal (as appointed beforehand): KJV-- appointed (sign, time), (place of, solemn) assembly, congregation, (set, solemn) feast, (appointed, due) season, solemn (-ity), synagogue, (set) time (appointed).

Brown-Driver-Briggs

4150 mowed` or moed` or (feminine) mow`adah (2 Chr. 8:13)- an appointed place, an appointed time, a meeting a) an appointed time 1) an appointed time (in general) 2) a sacred season, a set feast, an appointed season b) an appointed meeting c) an appointed place d) an appointed sign or signal e) the Tent of Meeting.

Notice with me how God is so specific about these "appointed times and appointed places" with His children:

Leviticus 23:4-7 "These are the LORD'S appointed feasts, the sacred assemblies you are to proclaim at their appointed times: The LORD'S Passover begins at twilight on the fourteenth day of the first month. On the fifteenth day of that month the LORD'S Feast of Unleavened Bread begins; for seven days you must eat bread made without yeast...

Leviticus 23:15-16 "From the day after the Sabbath, the day you brought the sheaf of the wave offering, count off seven full weeks. Count off fifty days up to the day after the seventh Sabbath, and then present an offering of new grain to the LORD.

Leviticus 23:24 "Say to the Israelites: 'On the first day of the seventh month you are to have a day of rest, a sacred assembly commemorated with trumpet blasts.

Leviticus 23:27 "The tenth day of this seventh month is the Day of Atonement. Hold a sacred assembly and deny yourselves, and present an offering made to the LORD by fire.

Leviticus 23:34 "Say to the Israelites: 'On the fifteenth day of the seventh month the LORD'S Feast of Tabernacles begins, and it lasts for seven days.

Leviticus 23:37 ("These are the LORD'S appointed feasts, which you are to proclaim as sacred assemblies for bringing offerings made to the LORD by fire--the burnt offerings and grain offerings, sacrifices and drink offerings required for each day.

Deuteronomy 31:10-11 Then Moses commanded them: "At the end of every seven years, in the appointed time of the year for canceling debts, during the Feast of Tabernacles, When all Israel comes to appear before the LORD your God at the place he will choose, you shall read this law before them in their hearing.

Isaiah 33:20 Look upon Zion, the city of our festivals; your eyes will see Jerusalem, a peaceful abode, a tent that will not be moved; its stakes will never be pulled up, nor any of its ropes broken.

I could go on but you get the point hopefully; namely, God has set aside special times and places for meeting with mankind. These are the Festivals of God that reveal the times and the seasons with attendant Divine messages that are connected with God's equinoxes and solstices and can be shown, as we do on this website as well as the Egypt-Christian website, to have been observed by both Jews and non-Jews in the Hebrew Scriptures as well as shown in extrabiblical sources as well.

MAN'S PAGANIZED COPIES OF GOD'S MO'EDS ARE HATED BY GOD:

Isaiah 1:13-14 Stop bringing meaningless offerings! Your incense is detestable to me. New Moons, Sabbaths and convocations--I cannot bear your evil assemblies. Your New Moon festivals and your appointed feasts my soul hates. They have become a burden to me; I am weary of bearing them.

Without knowing the history of Judaism as well as how the sacrificial system worked then there is absolutely no way a Christian can read the above verse and come away with an accurate understanding of what is going on in that verse. This passage has always bothered me because God had commanded that Israel keep these "appointed times" and yet here He states that He hates them.

Answer for yourself: Is it possible that Israel had changed the meanings and elements of them and returned back to a paganized form of them (a lesson to Christianity if I have ever heard it; like substituting Easter for Passover) as well as observing them out of tradition and not out of repentance? This is what is the problem here and it would do the reader well to study the true dynamics and meaning of the Jewish Sacrificial System in the Old and New Testament if he ever hopes of coming to terms with this passage. Bet Emet Ministries has extensive websites detailing the loss of this "Pattern of Worship" as we find in Roman Gentile Christianity today. These two issues are at the heart of the above verse and rebuke in Isaiah.

Two things are at the center of Isaiah's consternation with Israel.

Galatians 4:8-11: Formerly, when you did not know God, you were slaves to those who by nature are not gods. 9 But now that you know God--or rather are known by God--how is it that you are turning back to those weak and miserable principles? Do you wish to be enslaved by them all over again? 10 You are observing special days and months and seasons and years! (Remember- they are turning back to special days and months in their worship that they practiced as pagans before they came to know God!) 11 I fear for you, that somehow I have wasted my efforts on you.

WHAT DOES THAT SAY ABOUT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH SINCE SHE HAS LIKEWISE TURNED BACK TO PAGAN HOLIDAYS AND PUT JESUS' NAME ON IT TO CHRISTIANIZE PAGANISM?

"CONCERNING THE 'END TIMES' WHICH OCCUR AT THE MO'ED-FESTIVALS:

Daniel 8:19 He said: "I am going to tell you what will happen later in the time of wrath, because the vision concerns the appointed time (Strong's # 4150) of the end.

Daniel 11:25-27 "With a large army he will stir up his strength and courage against the king of the South. The king of the South will wage war with a large and very powerful army, but he will not be able to stand because of the plots devised against him. Those who eat from the king's provisions will try to destroy him; his army will be swept away, and many will fall in battle. The two kings, with their hearts bent on evil, will sit at the same table and lie to each other, but to no avail, because an end will still come at the appointed time (Strong's # 4150).

Daniel 12:6-7 One of them said to the man clothed in linen, who was above the waters of the river, "How long will it be before these astonishing things are fulfilled?" The man clothed in linen, who was above the waters of the river, lifted his right hand and his left hand toward heaven, and I heard him swear by him who lives forever, saying, "It will be for a time, times and half a time. When the power of the holy people has been finally broken, all these things will be completed."

Habakkuk 2:3 For the revelation awaits an appointed time (Strong's # 4150); it speaks of the end and will not prove false. Though it linger, wait for it; it will certainly come and will not delay.

Psalms 75:1-8 {For the director of music. [To the tune of] "Do Not Destroy." A psalm of Asaph. A song.} We give thanks to you, O God, we give thanks, for your Name is near; men tell of your wonderful deeds. You say, 'I choose the appointed time; it is I who judge (Rosh HaShanah) uprightly. When the earth and all its people quake, it is I who hold its pillars firm. <Selah> To the arrogant I say, 'Boast no more,' and to the wicked, 'Do not lift up your horns. Do not lift your horns against heaven; do not speak with outstretched neck.'" No one from the east or the west or from the desert can exalt a man. But it is God who judges: He brings one down, he exalts another. In the hand of the LORD is a cup full of foaming wine mixed with spices; he pours it out, and all the wicked of the earth drink it down to its very dregs.

LOOKING AT THE FUTURE:

We have feasts being celebrated in a Temple which has not yet been built because it is too big for Mount Zion:

Ezekiel 45:17 It will be the duty of the prince to provide the burnt offerings, grain offerings and drink offerings at the festivals, the New Moons and the Sabbaths--at all the appointed feasts of the house of Israel. He will provide the sin offerings, grain offerings, burnt offerings and fellowship offerings to make atonement for the house of Israel.

Zechariah 8:19 This is what the LORD Almighty says: "The fasts of the fourth (17th of Tammuz), fifth (Tisha B'Av), seventh (fast of gedaliah) and tenth (10th of Tevet) months will become joyful and glad occasions and happy festivals for Judah. Therefore love truth and peace."

CONCERNING THE TABERNACLE, WE HAVE A VERY UNUSUAL USE OF 'MO'ED.' IT IS USED 140 TIMES!

Exodus 27:21 In the Tent of Meeting (mo'ed) [again Strong's # 4150], outside the curtain that is in front of the Testimony, Aaron and his sons are to keep the lamps burning before the LORD from evening till morning. This is to be a lasting ordinance among the Israelites for the generations to come.

21 In the tent of meeting (congregation Strong's # 4150) without the veil which is before the testimony, Aaron and his sons shall keep it in order from evening to morning before Jehovah: it shall be a statue for ever throughout their generations on the behalf of the children of Israel. (ASV)

21 In the tent of meeting (congregation Strong's # 4150) outside the veil, which is before the testimony, Aaron and his sons shall dress them from evening to morning before Jehovah: [it is] an everlasting statute, for their generations, on the part of the children of Israel. (DBY)

Answer for yourself: Could it be possible that this meaning for "mo'ed" could be applied to church meetings and congregations today? And if so, then what about the meaning that the word carries....celebration of festivals?

CONCERNING WHERE GOD DWELLS:

Isaiah 14:12-14 How you have fallen from heaven, O morning star, son of the dawn! You have been cast down to the earth, you who once laid low the nations! You said in your heart, "I will ascend to heaven; I will raise my throne above the stars of God; I will sit enthroned on the mount of assembly [again Strong's # 4150], on the utmost heights of the sacred mountain. I will ascend above the tops of the clouds; I will make myself like the Most High."

Psalms 74:1-4 {A <maskil> of Asaph.} Why have you rejected us forever, O God? Why does your anger smolder against the sheep of your pasture? Remember the people you purchased of old, the tribe of your inheritance, whom you redeemed--Mount Zion, where you dwelt. Turn your steps toward these everlasting ruins, all this destruction the enemy has brought on the sanctuary. Your foes roared in the place [again Strong's # 4150] where you met with us; they set up their standards as signs.

Lamentations 2:5-7 The Lord is like an enemy; he has swallowed up Israel. He has swallowed up all her palaces and destroyed her strongholds. He has multiplied mourning and lamentation for the Daughter of Judah. He has laid waste his dwelling like a garden; he has destroyed his place of meeting. The LORD has made Zion forget her appointed feasts and her Sabbaths; in his fierce anger he has spurned both king and priest. The Lord has rejected his altar and abandoned his sanctuary. He has handed over to the enemy the walls of her palaces; they have raised a shout in the house of the LORD as on the day of an appointed feast [again Strong's # 4150].

PASSOVER USAGE:

Exodus 13:6-10 For seven days eat bread made without yeast and on the seventh day hold a festival to the LORD. Eat unleavened bread during those seven days; nothing with yeast in it is to be seen among you, nor shall any yeast be seen anywhere within your borders. On that day tell your son, 'I do this because of what the LORD did for me when I came out of Egypt.' This observance will be for you like a sign on your hand and a reminder on your forehead that the law of the LORD is to be on your lips. For the LORD brought you out of Egypt with his mighty hand. You must keep this ordinance at the appointed time year after year.

Exodus 23:15 "Celebrate the Feast of Unleavened Bread; for seven days eat bread made without yeast, as I commanded you. Do this at the appointed time in the month of Abib, for in that month you came out of Egypt. "No one is to appear before me empty-handed.

Exodus 34:18 "Celebrate the Feast of Unleavened Bread. For seven days eat bread made without yeast, as I commanded you. Do this at the appointed time in the month of Abib, for in that month you came out of Egypt.

Numbers 9:2-3 "Have the Israelites celebrate the Passover at the appointed time. Celebrate it at the appointed time, at twilight on the fourteenth day of this month, in accordance with all its rules and regulations."

Numbers 9:7 And said to Moses, "We have become unclean because of a dead body, but why should we be kept from presenting the LORD'S offering with the other Israelites at the appointed time?"

Numbers 9:13 But if a man who is ceremonially clean and not on a journey fails to celebrate the Passover, that person must be cut off from his people because he did not present the LORD'S offering at the appointed time. That man will bear the consequences of his sin.

Deuteronomy 16:5-6 You must not sacrifice the Passover in any town the LORD your God gives you Except in the place he will choose as a dwelling for his Name. There you must sacrifice the Passover in the evening (the appointed time), when the sun goes down, on the anniversary of your departure from Egypt.

II Chronicles 8:12-13 On the altar of the LORD that he had built in front of the portico, Solomon sacrificed burnt offerings to the LORD, According to the daily requirement for offerings commanded by Moses for Sabbaths, New Moons and the three annual feasts--the Feast of Unleavened Bread, the Feast of Weeks and the Feast of Tabernacles.

II Chronicles 30:21-22 The Israelites who were present in Jerusalem celebrated the Feast of Unleavened Bread for seven days with great rejoicing, while the Levites and priests sang to the LORD every day, accompanied by the LORD'S instruments of praise. Hezekiah spoke encouragingly to all the Levites, who showed good understanding of the service of the LORD. For the seven days, of the feast, they ate their assigned portion and offered fellowship offerings and praised the LORD, the God of their fathers.

So, mo'ed is used, in reference to the Lord's Passover, seven (7) times in the Torah and nine times in the TaNaK. With the exception of a reference to Succoth, below, there is no other feast which is called by name and referenced "mo'ed". None!

Also, in the Apostolic writings we have the following "appointed times" in reference to Passover:

Matthew 11:25 At that time Jesus said, "I praise you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because you have hidden these things from the wise and learned, and revealed them to little children.

Matthew 12:1 At that time Jesus went through the grainfields on the Sabbath. His disciples were hungry and began to pick some heads of grain and eat them.

Matthew 26:18 He replied, "Go into the city to a certain man and tell him, 'The Teacher says: My appointed time is near. I am going to celebrate the Passover with my disciples at your house.'"

SUCCOTH-TABERNACLES USAGE:

Hosea 12:9 "I am the LORD your God, [who brought you] out of Egypt; I will make you live in tents (reference to Festival of Tabernacles) again, as in the days of your appointed feasts.

In the Apostolic Writings we have the Greek word used in the Septuagint to translate mo'ed:

DEFINITION:

2540 kairos, kahee-ros'; of uncertain. affin.; an occasion, i.e. set or proper time:-X always, opportunity, (convenient, due) season, (due, short, while) time, a while. Comp. 5550.

5550 chronos, khron'-os; of uncert. der.; a space of time (in gen., and thus prop. distinguished from 2540, which designates a fixed or special occasion; and from 165, which denotes a particular period) or interval; by extens. an individ. opportunity: by impl. delay:-+ years old, season, space, (X often-) time (-s), (a) while.

CONCERNING THE ESCHATON...THE END

1 Thessalonians 5:1-11 Now, brothers, about times and dates we do not need to write to you, For you know very well that the day of the Lord will come like a thief in the night. While people are saying, "Peace and safety," destruction will come on them suddenly, as labor pains on a pregnant woman, and they will not escape. But you, brothers, are not in darkness so that this day should surprise you like a thief. You are all sons of the light and sons of the day. We do not belong to the night or to the darkness. So then, let us not be like others, who are asleep, but let us be alert and self-controlled. For those who sleep, sleep at night, and those who get drunk, get drunk at night. But since we belong to the day, let us be self-controlled, putting on faith and love as a breastplate, and the hope of salvation as a helmet. For God did not appoint us to suffer wrath but to receive salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ. He died for us so that, whether we are awake or asleep, we may live together with him. Therefore encourage one another and build each other up, just as in fact you are doing.

Notice, Paul instructs the early Messianic church to encourage one another and build another up around the festival days.

Answer for yourself: When was the last time your church every did that?

Luke 21:5-36 Some of his disciples were remarking about how the temple was adorned with beautiful stones and with gifts dedicated to God. But Jesus said, "As for what you see here, the time will come when not one stone will be left on another; every one of them will be thrown down." "Teacher," they asked, "when will these things happen? And what will be the sign that they are about to take place?" He replied: "Watch out that you are not deceived. For many will come in my name, claiming, 'I am he,' and, 'The time is near.' Do not follow them. When you hear of wars and revolutions, do not be frightened. These things must happen first, but the end will not come right away." Then he said to them: "Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. There will be great earthquakes, famines and pestilences in various places, and fearful events and great signs from heaven. "But before all this, they will lay hands on you and persecute you. They will deliver you to synagogues and prisons, and you will be brought before kings and governors, and all on account of my name. This will result in your being witnesses to them. But make up your mind not to worry beforehand how you will defend yourselves. For I will give you words and wisdom that none of your adversaries will be able to resist or contradict. You will be betrayed even by parents, brothers, relatives and friends, and they will put some of you to death. All men will hate you because of me. But not a hair of your head will perish. By standing firm you will gain life. "When you see Jerusalem being surrounded by armies, you will know that its desolation is near. Then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains, let those in the city get out, and let those in the country not enter the city. For this is the time of punishment in fulfillment of all that has been written. How dreadful it will be in those days for pregnant women and nursing mothers! There will be great distress in the land and wrath against this people. They will fall by the sword and will be taken as prisoners to all the nations. Jerusalem will be trampled on by the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled. "There will be signs in the sun, moon and stars. On the earth, nations will be in anguish and perplexity at the roaring and tossing of the sea. Men will faint from terror, apprehensive of what is coming on the world, for the heavenly bodies will be shaken. At that time they will see the Son of Man coming in a cloud with power and great glory. When these things begin to take place, stand up and lift up your heads, because your redemption is drawing near." He told them this parable: "Look at the fig tree and all the trees. When they sprout leaves, you can see for yourselves and know that summer is near (season). Even so, when you see these things happening, you know that the kingdom of God is near. "I tell you the truth, this generation will certainly not pass away until all these things have happened. Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will never pass away. "Be careful, or your hearts will be weighed down with dissipation, drunkenness and the anxieties of life, and that day will close on you unexpectedly like a trap. For it will come upon all those who live on the face of the whole earth. Be always on the watch, and pray that you may be able to escape all that is about to happen, and that you may be able to stand before the Son of Man."

Matthew 24:42-47 "Therefore keep watch, because you do not know on what day your Lord will come. But understand this: If the owner of the house had known at what time of night the thief was coming, he would have kept watch and would not have let his house be broken into. So you also must be ready, because the Son of Man will come at an hour when you do not expect him. "Who then is the faithful and wise servant, whom the master has put in charge of the servants in his household to give them their food at the proper time? It will be good for that servant whose master finds him doing so when he returns. I tell you the truth, he will put him in charge of all his possessions.

Mark 12:1-11 He then began to speak to them in parables: "A man planted a vineyard. He put a wall around it, dug a pit for the winepress and built a watchtower. Then he rented the vineyard to some farmers and went away on a journey. At harvest time he sent a servant to the tenants to collect from them some of the fruit of the vineyard. But they seized him, beat him and sent him away empty-handed. Then he sent another servant to them; they struck this man on the head and treated him shamefully. He sent still another, and that one they killed. He sent many others; some of them they beat, others they killed. "He had one left to send, a son, whom he loved. He sent him last of all, saying, 'They will respect my son.' "But the tenants said to one another, 'This is the heir. Come, let's kill him, and the inheritance will be ours.' So they took him and killed him, and threw him out of the vineyard. "What then will the owner of the vineyard do? He will come and kill those tenants and give the vineyard to others. Haven't you read this scripture: 'The stone the builders rejected has become the capstone; The Lord has done this, and it is marvelous in our eyes'?"

Acts 1:4-9 On one occasion, while he was eating with them, he gave them this command: "Do not leave Jerusalem, but wait for the gift my Father promised, which you have heard me speak about. For John baptized with water, but in a few days you will be baptized with the Holy Spirit." So when they met together, they asked him, "Lord, are you at this time going to restore the kingdom to Israel?" He said to them: "It is not for you to know the times or dates (not given to them but how about us if we interpret the Scriptures properly?) the Father has set by his own authority. But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit comes on you; and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the ends of the earth." After he said this, he was taken up before their very eyes, and a cloud hid him from their sight.

Matthew 8:28-32 When he arrived at the other side in the region of the Gadarenes, two demon-possessed men coming from the tombs met him. They were so violent that no one could pass that way. "What do you want with us, Son of God?" they shouted. "Have you come here to torture us before the appointed time?" Some distance from them a large herd of pigs was feeding. The demons begged Jesus, "If you drive us out, send us into the herd of pigs." He said to them, "Go!" So they came out and went into the pigs, and the whole herd rushed down the steep bank into the lake and died in the water.

Matthew 13:24-30 Jesus told them another parable: "The kingdom of heaven is like a man who sowed good seed in his field. But while everyone was sleeping, his enemy came and sowed weeds among the wheat, and went away. When the wheat sprouted and formed heads, then the weeds also appeared. 'The owner's servants came to him and said, 'Sir, didn't you sow good seed in your field? Where then did the weeds come from?' "'An enemy did this,' he replied. 'The servants asked him, 'Do you want us to go and pull them up?' "'No,' he answered, 'because while you are pulling the weeds, you may root up the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest. At that time I will tell the harvesters: First collect the weeds and tie them in bundles to be burned; then gather the wheat and bring it into my barn."

Matthew 24:20-22 Pray that your flight will not take place in winter or on the Sabbath. For then there will be great distress, unequalled from the beginning of the world until now--and never to be equaled again. If those days had not been cut short, no one would survive, but for the sake of the elect those days will be shortened.

Mark 13:29-33 Even so, when you see these things happening, you know that it is near, right at the door. I tell you the truth, this generation will certainly not pass away until all these things have happened. Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will never pass away. "No one knows about that day or hour, not even the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but only the Father. Be on guard! Be alert! You do not know when that time will come.

Luke 21:7-9 "Teacher," they asked, "when will these things happen? And what will be the sign that they are about to take place?" He replied "Watch out that you are not deceived. For many will come in my name, claiming, 'I am he,' and, 'The time is near.' Do not follow them. When you hear of wars and revolutions, do not be frightened. These things must happen first, but the end will not come right away."

Revelation 1:3 Blessed is the one who reads the words of this prophecy, and blessed are those who hear it and take to heart what is written in it, because the time is near.

II Thessalonians 2:1-8 Concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our being gathered to him, we ask you, brothers, Not to become easily unsettled or alarmed by some prophecy, report or letter supposed to have come from us, saying that the day of the Lord has already come. Don't let anyone deceive you in any way, for that day will not come until the rebellion occurs and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the man doomed to destruction. He will oppose and will exalt himself over everything that is called God or is worshiped, so that he sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God. Don't you remember that when I was with you I used to tell you these things? And now you know what is holding him back, so that he may be revealed at the proper time. For the secret power of lawlessness is already at work; but the one who now holds it back will continue to do so till he is taken out of the way. And then the lawless one will be revealed, whom the Lord Jesus will overthrow with the breath of his mouth and destroy by the splendor of his coming.

Revelation 11:16-19 And the twenty-four elders, who were seated on their thrones before God, fell on their faces and worshiped God, Saying: "We give thanks to you, Lord God Almighty, the One who is and who was, because you have taken your great power and have begun to reign. The nations were angry; and your wrath has come. The time has come for judging the dead, and for rewarding your servants the prophets and your saints and those who reverence your name, both small and great--and for destroying those who destroy the earth." Then God's temple in heaven was opened, and within his temple was seen the ark of his covenant. And there came flashes of lightning, rumblings, peals of thunder, an earthquake and a great hailstorm.

Revelation 12:10-14 Then I heard a loud voice in heaven say: "Now have come the salvation and the power and the kingdom of our God, and the authority of his Christ. For the accuser of our brothers, who accuses them before our God day and night, has been hurled down. They overcame him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony; they did not love their lives so much as to shrink from death. Therefore rejoice, you heavens and you who dwell in them! But woe to the earth and the sea, because the devil has gone down to you! He is filled with fury, because he knows that his time is short." When the dragon saw that he had been hurled to the earth, he pursued the woman who had given birth to the male child. The woman was given the two wings of a great eagle, so that she might fly to the place prepared for her in the desert, where she would be taken care of for a time, times and half a time, out of the serpent's reach.

Daniel 12:6-7 One of them said to the man clothed in linen, who was above the waters of the river, "How long will it be before these astonishing things are fulfilled?" The man clothed in linen, who was above the waters of the river, lifted his right hand and his left hand toward heaven, and I heard him swear by him who lives forever, saying, "It will be for a time, times and half [a time]. When the power of the holy people has been finally broken, all these things will be completed."

Revelation 22:8-10 I, John, am the one who heard and saw these things. And when I had heard and seen them, I fell down to worship at the feet of the angel who had been showing them to me. But he said to me, "Do not do it! I am a fellow servant with you and with your brothers the prophets and of all who keep the words of this book. Worship God!" Then he told me, "Do not seal up the words of the prophecy of this book, because the time is near."

Luke 21:20-28 "When you see Jerusalem being surrounded by armies, you will know that its desolation is near. Then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains, let those in the city get out, and let those in the country not enter the city. For this is the time of punishment in fulfillment of all that has been written. How dreadful it will be in those days for pregnant women and nursing mothers! There will be great distress in the land and wrath against this people. They will fall by the sword and will be taken as prisoners to all the nations. Jerusalem will be trampled on by the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled. "There will be signs in the sun, moon and stars. On the earth, nations will be in anguish and perplexity at the roaring and tossing of the sea. Men will faint from terror, apprehensive of what is coming on the world, for the heavenly bodies will be shaken. At that time they will see the Son of Man coming in a cloud with power and great glory. When these things begin to take place, stand up and lift up your heads, because your redemption is drawing near."

MESSIAH'S APPOINTED TIME:

Matthew 26:17-18 On the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread, the disciples came to Jesus and asked, "Where do you want us to make preparations for you to eat the Passover?" He replied, "Go into the city to a certain man and tell him, 'The Teacher says: My appointed time is near. I am going to celebrate the Passover with my disciples at your house.'"

Romans 5:6 You see, at just the right time, when we were still powerless, Christ died for the ungodly.

Mark 1:14-15 After John was put in prison, Jesus went into Galilee, proclaiming the good news of God. "The time has come," he said. "The kingdom of God is near. Repent and believe the good news!"

Mark 10:28-30 Peter said to him, "We have left everything to follow you!" "I tell you the truth," Jesus replied, "no one who has left home or brothers or sisters or mother or father or children or fields for me and the gospel Will fail to receive a hundred times as much in this present age (homes, brothers, sisters, mothers, children and fields--and with them, persecutions) and in the age to come, eternal life."

Luke 12:54-56 He said to the crowd: "When you see a cloud rising in the west, immediately you say, 'It's going to rain,' and it does. And when the south wind blows, you say, 'It's going to be hot,' and it is. Hypocrites! You know how to interpret the appearance of the earth and the sky. How is it that you don't know how to interpret this present time?"

Luke 19:41-44 As he approached Jerusalem and saw the city, he wept over it And said, "If you, even you, had only known on this day what would bring you peace--but now it is hidden from your eyes. The days will come upon you when your enemies will build an embankment against you and encircle you and hem you in on every side. They will dash you to the ground, you and the children within your walls. They will not leave one stone on another, because you did not recognize the time of God's coming to you."

Notice this was written to believers in Yeshua like the church today.

John 7:1-9 After this, Jesus went around in Galilee, purposely staying away from Judea because the Jews there were waiting to take his life. But when the Jewish Feast of Tabernacles was near, Jesus' brothers said to him, "You ought to leave here and go to Judea, so that your disciples may see the miracles you do. No one who wants to become a public figure acts in secret. Since you are doing these things, show yourself to the world." For even his own brothers did not believe in him. Therefore Jesus told them, "The right time for me has not yet come; for you any time is right. The world cannot hate you, but it hates me because I testify that what it does is evil. You go to the Feast. I am not yet going up to this Feast, because for me the right time has not yet come." Having said this, he stayed in Galilee.

I Peter 1:3-5 Praise be to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! In his great mercy he has given us new birth into a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, And into an inheritance that can never perish, spoil or fade--kept in heaven for you, Who through faith are shielded by God's power until the coming of the salvation that is ready to be revealed in the last time.

Matthew 16:1-4 The Pharisees and Sadducees came to Jesus and tested him by asking him to show them a sign from heaven. He replied, "When evening comes, you say, 'It will be fair weather, for the sky is red,' And in the morning, 'Today it will be stormy, for the sky is red and overcast.' You know how to interpret the appearance of the sky, but you cannot interpret the signs of the times. A wicked and adulterous generation looks for a miraculous sign, but none will be given it except the sign of Jonah." Jesus then left them and went away.

Acts 3:18-24 But this is how God fulfilled what he had foretold through all the prophets, saying that his Christ would suffer. Repent, then, and turn to God, so that your sins may be wiped out, that times of refreshing may come from the Lord, And that he may send the Christ, who has been appointed for you (will die on a Passover)--even Jesus. He must remain in heaven until the time comes for God to restore everything, as he promised long ago through his holy prophets.

For Moses said, 'The Lord your God will raise up for you a prophet like me from among your own people; you must listen to everything he tells you. Anyone who does not listen to him will be completely cut off from among his people.' 'Indeed, all the prophets from Samuel on, as many as have spoken, have foretold these days.

Ephesians 1:7-10 In him we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, in accordance with the riches of God's grace That he lavished on us with all wisdom and understanding. And he made known to us the mystery of his will according to his good pleasure, which he purposed in Christ, To be put into effect when the times will have reached their fulfillment--to bring all things in heaven and on earth together under one head, even Christ.

I Corinthians 4:5 Therefore judge nothing before the appointed time; wait till the Lord comes. He will bring to light what is hidden in darkness and will expose the motives of men's hearts. At that time each will receive his praise from God.

CONCERNING PRAYER:

Ephesians 6:13-18 Therefore put on the full armor of God, so that when the day of evil comes, you may be able to stand your ground, and after you have done everything, to stand. Stand firm then, with the belt of truth buckled around your waist, with the breastplate of righteousness in place, And with your feet fitted with the readiness that comes from the gospel of peace. In addition to all this, take up the shield of faith, with which you can extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one. Take the helmet of salvation and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God. And pray in the Spirit on all occasions with all kinds of prayers and requests. With this in mind, be alert and always keep on praying for all the saints.

MISCELLANEOUS USAGE:

Galatians 6:7-10 Do not be deceived: God cannot be mocked. A man reaps what he sows. The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction; the one who sows to please the Spirit, from the Spirit will reap eternal life. Let us not become weary in doing good, for at the proper time we will reap a harvest if we do not give up. Therefore, as we have opportunity, let us do good to all people, especially to those who belong to the family of believers.

JOHN THE BAPTIST WAS BORN AT PASSOVER, SO:

Luke 1:8-20 Once when Zechariah's division was on duty and he was serving as priest before God, He was chosen by lot, according to the custom of the priesthood, to go into the temple of the Lord and burn incense. And when the time for the burning of incense came, all the assembled worshipers were praying outside. Then an angel of the Lord appeared to him, standing at the right side of the altar of incense. When Zechariah saw him, he was startled and was gripped with fear. But the angel said to him: "Do not be afraid, Zechariah; your prayer has been heard. Your wife Elizabeth will bear you a son, and you are to give him the name John. He will be a joy and delight to you, and many will rejoice because of his birth, For he will be great in the sight of the Lord. He is never to take wine or other fermented drink, and he will be filled with the Holy Spirit even from birth. Many of the people of Israel will he bring back to the Lord their God. And he will go on before the Lord, in the spirit and power of Elijah, to turn the hearts of the fathers to their children and the disobedient to the wisdom of the righteous--to make ready a people prepared for the Lord." Zechariah asked the angel, "How can I be sure of this? I am an old man and my wife is well along in years." The angel answered, "I am Gabriel. I stand in the presence of God, and I have been sent to speak to you and to tell you this good news. And now you will be silent and not able to speak until the day this happens, because you did not believe my words, which will come true at their proper time."

Luke 4:9-13 The devil led him to Jerusalem and had him stand on the highest point of the temple. "If you are the Son of God," he said, "throw yourself down from here. For it is written: "'He will command his angels concerning you to guard you carefully; They will lift you up in their hands, so that you will not strike your foot against a stone.'" Jesus answered, "It says: 'Do not put the Lord your God to the test.'" When the devil had finished all this tempting, he left him until an opportune time.

Luke 12:58 - 13:1 As you are going with your adversary to the magistrate, try hard to be reconciled to him on the way, or he may drag you off to the judge, and the judge turn you over to the officer, and the officer throw you into prison. I tell you, you will not get out until you have paid the last penny." Now there were some present at that time who told Jesus about the Galileans whose blood Pilate had mixed with their sacrifices.

Acts 13:6-12 They traveled through the whole island until they came to Paphos. There they met a Jewish sorcerer and false prophet named Bar-Jesus, Who was an attendant of the proconsul, Sergius Paulus. The proconsul, an intelligent man, sent for Barnabas and Saul because he wanted to hear the word of God. But Elymas the sorcerer (for that is what his name means) opposed them and tried to turn the proconsul from the faith. Then Saul, who was also called Paul, filled with the Holy Spirit, looked straight at Elymas and said, "You are a child of the devil and an enemy of everything that is right! You are full of all kinds of deceit and trickery. Will you never stop perverting the right ways of the Lord? Now the hand of the Lord is against you. You are going to be blind, and for a time you will be unable to see the light of the sun." Immediately mist and darkness came over him, and he groped about, seeking someone to lead him by the hand. When the proconsul saw what had happened, he believed, for he was amazed at the teaching about the Lord.

Acts 14:16-18 In the past, he let all nations go their own way. Yet he has not left himself without testimony: He has shown kindness by giving you rain from heaven and crops in their seasons; he provides you with plenty of food and fills your hearts with joy." Even with these words, they had difficulty keeping the crowd from sacrificing to them.

Matthew 12:1-8 At that time Jesus went through the grainfields on the Sabbath. His disciples were hungry and began to pick some heads of grain and eat them. When the Pharisees saw this, they said to him, "Look! Your disciples are doing what is unlawful on the Sabbath." He answered, "Haven't you read what David did when he and his companions were hungry? He entered the house of God, and he and his companions ate the consecrated bread--which was not lawful for them to do, but only for the priests. Or haven't you read in the Law that on the Sabbath the priests in the temple desecrate the day and yet are innocent? I tell you that one greater than the temple is here. If you had known what these words mean, 'I desire mercy, not sacrifice,' you would not have condemned the innocent. For the Son of Man is Lord of the Sabbath.'

Mark 11:11-13 Jesus entered Jerusalem and went to the temple. He looked around at everything, but since it was already late, he went out to Bethany with the Twelve. The next day as they were leaving Bethany, Jesus was hungry. Seeing in the distance a fig tree in leaf, he went to find out if it had any fruit. When he reached it, he found nothing but leaves, because it was not the season for figs.

Luke 8:11-15 "This is the meaning of the parable: The seed is the word of God. Those along the path are the ones who hear, and then the devil comes and takes away the word from their hearts, so that they may not believe and be saved. Those on the rock are the ones who receive the word with joy when they hear it, but they have no root. They believe for a while, but in the time of testing they fall away. The seed that fell among thorns stands for those who hear, but as they go on their way they are choked by life's worries, riches and pleasures, and they do not mature. But the seed on good soil stands for those with a noble and good heart, who hear the word, retain it, and by persevering produce a crop.

Acts 7:18-20 Then another king, who knew nothing about Joseph, became ruler of Egypt. He dealt treacherously with our people and oppressed our forefathers by forcing them to throw out their newborn babies so that they would die. "At that time Moses was born, and he was no ordinary child. For three months he was cared for in his father's house.

Romans 3:22-26 This righteousness from God comes through faith in Jesus Christ to all who believe. There is no difference, For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, And are justified freely by his grace through the redemption that came by Christ Jesus. God presented him as a sacrifice of atonement, through faith in his blood. He did this to demonstrate his justice, because in his forbearance he had left the sins committed beforehand unpunished-- He did it to demonstrate his justice at the present time, so as to be just and the one who justifies those who have faith in Jesus.

Romans 8:18 I consider that our present sufferings are not worth comparing with the glory that will be revealed in us.

THE SAGES UNDERSTOOD THAT ISAAC WAS BORN ON PASSOVER:

Romans 9:9 For this was how the promise was stated: "At the appointed time I will return, and Sarah will have a son."

Notice in this story that both Abraham (because he had to hurry) and Lot served unleavened bread.

Answer for yourself: Could this be informing us that this is the passover time and that both non-Jews, Abraham and Lot, were observing the Passover? Did we also mention that Abraham had just circumcised himself which is required of a male who partakes of the Passover lamb?

Genesis 18:13-14 Then the LORD said to Abraham, "Why did Sarah laugh and say, 'Will I really have a child, now that I am old?' Is anything too hard for the LORD? I will return to you at the appointed time next year and Sarah will have a son.'

Romans 11:2-5 God did not reject his people, whom he foreknew. Don't you know what the Scripture says in the passage about Elijah--how he appealed to God against Israel: 'Lord, they have killed your prophets and torn down your altars; I am the only one left, and they are trying to kill me'? And what was God's answer to him? 'I have reserved for myself seven thousand who have not bowed the knee to Baal.' So too, at the present time there is a remnant chosen by grace.

Romans 13:10-11 Love does no harm to its neighbor. Therefore love is the fulfillment of the law. And do this, understanding the present time. The hour has come for you to wake up from your slumber, because our salvation is nearer now than when we first believed.

I Corinthians 7:3-5 The husband should fulfill his marital duty to his wife, and likewise the wife to her husband. The wife's body does not belong to her alone but also to her husband. In the same way, the husband's body does not belong to him alone but also to his wife. Do not deprive each other except by mutual consent and for a time, so that you may devote yourselves to prayer. Then come together again so that Satan will not tempt you because of your lack of self-control.

II Corinthians 6:1-2 As God's fellow workers we urge you not to receive God's grace in vain. For he says, 'In the time of my favor I heard you, and in the day of salvation I helped you.' I tell you, now is the time of God's favor, now is the day of salvation.

II Corinthians 8:13-14 Our desire is not that others might be relieved while you are hard pressed, but that there might be equality. At the present time your plenty will supply what they need, so that in turn their plenty will supply what you need. Then there will be equality,

Ephesians 2:11-13 Therefore, remember that formerly you who are Gentiles by birth and called "uncircumcised" by those who call themselves "the circumcision" (that done in the body by the hands of men)-- Remember that at that time you were separate from Christ, excluded from citizenship in Israel and foreigners to the covenants of the promise, without hope and without God in the world. But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far away have been brought near through the blood of Christ.

Ephesians 5:15-16 Be very careful, then, how you live--not as unwise but as wise, Making the most of every opportunity, because the days are evil.

Colossians 4:5 Be wise in the way you act toward outsiders; make the most of every opportunity.

I Timothy 2:5-6 For there is one God and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus, Who gave himself as a ransom for all men--the testimony given in its proper time.

II Timothy 4:2-6 Preach the Word; be prepared in season and out of season; correct, rebuke and encourage--with great patience and careful instruction. For the time will come when men will not put up with sound doctrine. Instead, to suit their own desires, they will gather around them a great number of teachers to say what their itching ears want to hear. They will turn their ears away from the truth and turn aside to myths. But you, keep your head in all situations, endure hardship, do the work of an evangelist, discharge all the duties of your ministry. For I am already being poured out like a drink offering, and the time has come for my departure.

I Peter 4:16-18 However, if you suffer as a Christian, do not be ashamed, but praise God that you bear that name. For it is time for judgment to begin with the family of God; and if it begins with us, what will the outcome be for those who do not obey the gospel of God? And, "If it is hard for the righteous to be saved, what will become of the ungodly and the sinner?"

Acts 17:24-26 "The God who made the world and everything in it is the Lord of heaven and earth and does not live in temples built by hands. And he is not served by human hands, as if he needed anything, because he himself gives all men life and breath and everything else. From one man he made every nation of men, that they should inhabit the whole earth; and he determined the times set for them and the exact places where they should live.

Galatians 4:8-11 Formerly, when you did not know God, you were slaves to those who by nature are not gods. But now that you know God--or rather are known by God--how is it that you are turning back to those weak and miserable principles? Do you wish to be enslaved by them all over again? You are observing special days and months and seasons and years! I fear for you, that somehow I have wasted my efforts on you.

SO, WAS THE ANSWER YES OR NO?

Matthew 11:2-7 When John heard in prison what Christ was doing, he sent his disciples To ask him, "Are you the expected one, or should we expect someone else?" Jesus replied, "Go back and report to John what you hear and see: The blind receive sight, the lame walk, those who have leprosy are cured, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, and the good news is preached to the poor. Blessed is the man who does not fall away on account of me." As John's disciples were leaving, Jesus began to speak to the crowd about John: "What did you go out into the desert to see? A reed swayed by the wind?...

Matthew 11:25-27 At that time Jesus said, "I praise you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because you have hidden these things from the wise and learned, and revealed them to little children. Yes, Father, for this was your good pleasure. "All things have been committed to me by my Father. No one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son and those to whom the Son chooses to reveal him.

LEVITICUS 23: THE PATTERN FOR WORSHIP FOR BOTH JEW AND "NON-JEW"

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying: 2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them: The appointed seasons of the LORD, which ye shall proclaim to be holy convocations, even these are My appointed seasons. 3 Six days shall work be done; but on the seventh day is a sabbath of solemn rest, a holy convocation; ye shall do no manner of work; it is a sabbath unto the LORD in all your dwellings. 4 ¶ These are the appointed seasons of the LORD, even holy convocations, which ye shall proclaim in their appointed season. 5 In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at dusk, is the LORD'S passover. 6 And on the fifteenth day of the same month is the feast of unleavened bread unto the LORD; seven days ye shall eat unleavened bread. 7 In the first day ye shall have a holy convocation; ye shall do no manner of servile work. 8 And ye shall bring an offering made by fire unto the LORD seven days; in the seventh day is a holy convocation; ye shall do no manner of servile work. 9 And the LORD spoke unto Moses saying: 10 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them: When ye are come into the land which I give unto you, and shall reap the harvest thereof, then ye shall bring the sheaf of the first-fruits of your harvest unto the priest. 11 And he shall wave the sheaf before the LORD, to be accepted for you; on the morrow after the sabbath the priest shall wave it. 12 And in the day when ye wave the sheaf, ye shall offer a he-lamb without blemish of the first year for a burnt-offering unto the LORD. 13 And the meal-offering thereof shall be two tenth parts of an ephah of fine flour mingled with oil, an offering made by fire unto the LORD for a sweet savour; and the drink-offering thereof shall be of wine, the fourth part of a hin. 14 And ye shall eat neither bread, nor parched corn, nor fresh ears, until this selfsame day, until ye have brought the offering of your God; it is a statute for ever throughout your generations in all your dwellings. 15 ¶ And ye shall count unto you from the morrow after the day of rest, from the day that ye brought the sheaf of the waving; seven weeks shall there be complete; 16 even unto the morrow after the seventh week shall ye number fifty days; and ye shall present a new meal-offering unto the LORD. 17 Ye shall bring out of your dwellings two wave-loaves of two tenth parts of an ephah; they shall be of fine flour, they shall be baked with leaven, for first-fruits unto the LORD. 18 And ye shall present with the bread seven lambs without blemish of the first year, and one young bullock, and two rams; they shall be a burnt-offering unto the LORD, with their meal-offering, and their drink-offerings, even an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD. 19 And ye shall offer one he-goat for a sin-offering, and two he-lambs of the first year for a sacrifice of peace-offerings. 20 And the priest shall wave them with the bread of the first-fruits for a wave-offering before the LORD, with the two lambs; they shall be holy to the LORD for the priest. 21 And ye shall make proclamation on the selfsame day; there shall be a holy convocation unto you; ye shall do no manner of servile work; it is a statute for ever in all your dwellings throughout your generations. 22 And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corner of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harvest; thou shalt leave them for the poor, and for the stranger: I am the LORD your God. 23 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying: 24 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying: In the seventh month, in the first day of the month, shall be a solemn rest unto you, a memorial proclaimed with the blast of horns, a holy convocation. 25 Ye shall do no manner of servile work; and ye shall bring an offering made by fire unto the LORD. 26 And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying: 27 Howbeit on the tenth day of this seventh month is the day of atonement; there shall be a holy convocation unto you, and

ye shall afflict your souls; and ye shall bring an offering made by fire unto the LORD. 28 And ye shall do no manner of work in that same day; for it is a day of atonement, to make atonement for you before the LORD your God. 29 For whatsoever soul it be that shall not be afflicted in that same day, he shall be cut off from his people. 30 And whatsoever soul it be that doeth any manner of work in that same day, that soul will I destroy from among his people. 31 Ye shall do no manner of work; it is a statute for ever throughout your generations in all your dwellings. 32 It shall be unto you a sabbath of solemn rest, and ye shall afflict your souls; in the ninth day of the month at even, from even unto even, shall ye keep your sabbath. 33 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying: 34 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying: On the fifteenth day of this seventh month is the feast of tabernacles for seven days unto the LORD. 35 On the first day shall be a holy convocation; ye shall do no manner of servile work. 36 Seven days ye shall bring an offering made by fire unto the LORD; on the eighth day shall be a holy convocation unto you; and ye shall bring an offering made by fire unto the LORD; it is a day of solemn assembly; ye shall do no manner of servile work. 37 These are the appointed seasons of the LORD, which ye shall proclaim to be holy convocations, to bring an offering made by fire unto the LORD, a burnt-offering, and a meal-offering, a sacrifice, and drink-offerings, each on its own day; 38 beside the sabbaths of the LORD, and beside your gifts, and beside all your vows, and beside all your freewill-offerings, which ye give unto the LORD. 39 Howbeit on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when ye have gathered in the fruits of the land, ye shall keep the feast of the LORD seven days; on the first day shall be a solemn rest, and on the eighth day shall be a solemn rest. 40 And ye shall take you on the first day the fruit of goodly trees, branches of palm-trees, and boughs of thick trees, and willows of the brook, and ye shall rejoice before the LORD your God seven days. 41 And ye shall keep it a feast unto the LORD seven days in the year; it is a statute for ever in your generations; ye shall keep it in the seventh month. 42 Ye shall dwell in booths seven days; all that are home-born in Israel shall dwell in booths; 43 that your generations may know that I made the children of Israel to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God. 44 And Moses declared unto the children of Israel the appointed seasons of the LORD.

Answer for yourself: What has this got to do with me, a Christian? Everything!

First of all hidden in the New Testament is the depiction of "non-Jewish" believers keeping and observing these "Appointed Times of God" both in the Old and New Testament and we will look at example in the forthcoming articles. But every Festival and Feast of these commanded in Leviticus 23 were observed by both the "Jews" and the believing "non-Jews". This is the fact of the Biblical texts when correctly studied and when we look behind the Greek and the Hebrew of these texts.

The Christian-professing world largely ignores the Biblical Holy Days, God's Holy Days (although many thousands of Christians do observe them today, just as the early Christian church did without fail), and instead observe traditional man-made holidays that are called Christian.

The first Christians were "Jews" and continued to honor the Sabbath and Biblical Festivals and the Jewish people continue to do so today. Evidence indicates that many Gentile Christians also continued to celebrate these Biblical Feasts along with the Jews both in Palestine and in Asia, Minor, for many centuries into the Christian Era until the time of Constantine.

For the first three centuries after Pentecost, the early "church" began falling away from the teachings of James and the Jerusalem assembly. This we will see occur over the next two to three centuries and was due largely to the growing influence of the Catholic Church which grew stronger and stronger through intimidation and threat of death. By the time of Constantine the followers of "the Christ" were divided over key doctrinal issues. On top of this, a vigorous persecution was setting in against any who opposed the Catholic Church.

In Vol. 2 of Philip Schaff's History of the Christian Church, Page 204, we read "Tertullian, at the close of the second and the beginning of the third century, views the Lord's day (that is, Sunday, my insertion) as figurative of rest from sin and typical of man's final rest, and says: 'we nothing to do with Sabbaths, new moons, or the Jewish festivals, much less with those of the heathen.'"

Page 205 of the same book, beginning of fourth paragraph: " The observance of the Sabbath among the Jewish Christians gradually ceased." Under the order of Emperor Constantine in 325 A.D. a council was called for his bishops to convene a council at Nice in Turkey (modern Isnik) to discuss and to settle various church related doctrines, one being which was the proper day of worship. Here is an interesting passage from Vol. 3 of Philip Schaff's History of the Christian Church, page 405,

"The feast of the resurrection was thenceforth required to be celebrated everywhere on a Sunday, and never on the day of the Jewish Passover, but always after the fourteenth of Nisan, on the Sunday after the first vernal full moon." (Passover is always on the 14th day of the first month at evening. - See Exodus 12:6)

Near the end of the passage we read, "It is our duty to have nothing in common with the murderers of our Lord."

The battle against the destruction of this "Pattern of Worship" continues. It is up to us study hard in order to find the truth for ourselves and then to hold it for dear life.

THERE EXISTS A "PATTERN OF WORSHIP" THAT GOD GAVE TO BOTH JEWISH AND NON- JEWISH BELIEVERS

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that within the Hebrew Scriptures that there exists a "Pattern of Worship" given by God that was followed by both Jews and non-Jewish believers in God both in the Old Testament and New Testament times?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that both historically and archeologically we can attest that this "Pattern of Worship" continued until early in the 4th-5th Century A.D. when Rome for all practical purposes changed it for everyone and today we seldom if ever stumble onto this prior existing pattern that God had intended that all His children, both Jew and non-Jew, observe in their worship of Him?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that the tabernacle was built according to the divine blueprint given to Moses by the Lord that followed this "Pattern" that exists in Heaven (Ex. 25:8-9)?

Ex. 25: 8 And let them make Me a sanctuary, that I may dwell among them. 9 According to all that I show thee, the pattern of the tabernacle, and the pattern of all the furniture thereof, even so shall ye make it (Tanakh, 1917)

LETS LOOK AT THE EVIDENCE THAT A PATTERN EXISTS

When attempting to understand the higher or Spiritual meaning in the Bible, the patterns of the Bible must be observed, marked and understood. If our beliefs go against the patterns in scripture we are in error. It is from Moses and the subsequent oral tradition that we have received the first five books of the Bible. When you read these books you see patterns occurring again and again. For example, again and again, you see the pattern of six periods of work, one of rest, which is the sabbath. We begin to see a cycle of repeating "appointed times with God" that exist not only in this world but the Spiritual World as well. At Bet Emet Ministries we try to point out these patterns along with their original intended meanings before so much of them were distorted by aberrant theology down through history. Not only in the books of Moses do you see these patterns, but in all the books of the Bible.

Answer for yourself: How did Moses, a Pharaoh no less, learn of these "Patterns of Worship of God"? Why did Moses and others write down these patterns? It is because God directed this to be done. In Moses' case, Moses was directed to make the tabernacle and all its furniture by the pattern shown to him on the mountain:

- Let them construct a sanctuary for Me, that I may dwell among them.. According to all that I am going to show you, as the pattern [type or image] of the tabernacle and the pattern [type or image] of all its furniture, just so you shall construct it. (Exod 25:8-9)

Exodus 25 8 And let them make me a sanctuary; that I may dwell among them. 9 According to all that I shew thee, after the pattern of the tabernacle, and the pattern of all the instruments thereof, even so shall ye make it.

- See that you make them after the pattern [type or image] for them, which was shown to you on the mountain. (Exod 25:40)

Exodus 25 40 And look that thou make them after their pattern, which was shewed thee in the mount.

- Then you shall erect the tabernacle according to its plan which you have been shown in the mountain. (Exod 26:30)

Exodus 26 30 And thou shalt rear up the tabernacle according to the fashion thereof which was shewed thee in the mount.

- Now this was the workmanship of the lampstand [candlestick], hammered work of gold; from its base to its flowers it was hammered work; according to the pattern [type or image] which the LORD had showed Moses, so he made the lampstand. (Num 8:4)

Numbers 8 4 And this work of the candlestick was of beaten gold, unto the shaft thereof, unto the flowers thereof, was beaten work: according unto the pattern which the LORD had shewed Moses, so he made the candlestick.

- Our fathers had the tabernacle of testimony in the wilderness, just as He who spoke to Moses directed him to make it according to the pattern which he had seen. (Acts 7:44)

Acts 7 44 Our fathers had the tabernacle of witness in the wilderness, as he had appointed, speaking unto Moses, that he should make it according to the fashion that he had seen.

- [Priests] who serve a copy and shadow of the heavenly things, just as Moses was warned by God when he was about to erect the tabernacle; for, see, He says, that you make all things according to the pattern which was shown you on the mountain. (Heb 8:5)

Hebrews 8 5 Who serve unto the example and shadow of heavenly things, as Moses was admonished of God when he was about to make the tabernacle: for, See, saith he, that thou make all things according to the pattern shewed to thee in the mount.

- For the Law, since it has only a shadow of the good things to come and not the very form of things, can never, by the same sacrifices which they offer continually year by year, make perfect those who draw near. (Heb 10:1)

Hebrews 10 1 For the law having a shadow of good things to come, and not the very image of the things, can never with those sacrifices which they offered year by year continually make the comers thereunto perfect.

- Now these things [in O.T.] happened as examples for us, so that we would not crave evil things as they also craved. (1Cor 10:6)

1 Corinthians 10 6 Now these things were our examples, to the intent we should not lust after evil things, as they also lusted.

In fact there was a "law of the burnt offering, the grain offering and the sin offering and the guilt offering and the ordination offering and the sacrifice of peace offerings, which the LORD commanded Moses at Mount Sinai in the day that He commanded the sons of Israel to present their offerings to the LORD in the wilderness of Sinai." (Lev 7:37-38) These laws were a shadow of things to come (Heb 10:1).

Hebrews 10 1 For the law having a shadow of good things to come, and not the very image of the things, can never with those sacrifices which they offered year by year continually make the comers thereunto perfect.

IMPORTANCE OF LEVITICUS 23

In Leviticus, chapter 23, it describes the appointed times ("feasts") of God: "And the Lord spoke to Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and say to them, Concerning the appointed times of the Lord, which you shall proclaim to be holy convocations, even these are my appointed times" (Lev 23:2).

Paul will later go on to state that these "appointed times with God" were types that revealed the whole plan of God to mankind including God's true salvation. The examples of blessing and punishment to Israel as well as their obedience unto God and His appointed times were examples whereby not only first century Israel but all of God's children were intended to learn from by God's Holy Nation and Royal Priesthood revealing them and their Divine messages to the non-Jewish world.

1 Corinthians 10 6 Now these things were our examples, to the intent we should not lust after evil things, as they also lusted.

1 Corinthians 10:11 11 Now all these things happened unto them for examples: and they are written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the world are come.

The Old Testament festivals and Sabbaths were typical representations of things that not only had valid meanings to those alive in the first century but to others who would come afterwards. We will explain these appointed times and show their higher meanings as we go through this website. We will see that the appointed times or seasons pictured in the special times with God reveal God's overall plan for mankind and his salvation to both the Jew as well as the non-Jew. These Divine Messages in these appointed times with God is the true salvation message of God.

THE LESSON OF KING DAVID...HOW DID WE MISS IT?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that Aaron and his sons were consecrated to their priestly vocation according to a "Divine Pattern" as well, and they offered the prescribed sacrifices unto God according to this same "Divine pattern"?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that King David was given the same pattern when told to build the Temple, set aside the Priests, and oversee the work of the service (worship) within the Temple (I Chron. 28:13)?

Answer for yourself: What was King David told by God?

1 Chr 28:10-15 10 Take heed now; for the LORD hath chosen thee to build an house for the sanctuary: be strong, and do it. 11 Then David gave to Solomon his son the pattern of the porch, and of the houses thereof, and of the treasuries thereof, and of the upper chambers thereof, and of the inner parlours thereof, and of the place of the mercy seat, 12 And the pattern of all that he had by the spirit, of the courts of the house of the LORD, and of all the chambers round about, of the treasuries of the house of God, and of the treasuries of the dedicated things: 13 Also for the courses of the priests and the Levites, and for all the work of the service of the house of the LORD, and for all the vessels of service in the house of the LORD.

Let us look and examine the the Hebrew word for :service and see what we find hidden in the Hebrew:

Strong's Concordance:

5656 `abodah (ab-o-daw'); or `abowdah (ab-o-daw'); from 5647; work of any kind: KJV-- act, bondage, + bondservant, effect, labour, ministering (-try), office, service (-ile, -itude), tillage, use, work, X wrought.

Brown-Driver-Briggs' Hebrew Lexicon:

5656 `abodah or `abowdah- labor, service

- a) labor, work
- b) labor (of a servant or a slave)
- c) labor, service (of captives or subjects)
- d) service (of God)

Now let us look a little deeper into the root word for the Hebrew word "service":

5647 `abad (aw-bad'); a primitive root; to work (in any sense); by implication, to serve, till, (causatively) enslave, etc.: KJV-- X be, keep in bondage, be bondmen, bond-service, compel, do, dress, ear, execute, + husbandman, keep, labour (-ing man, bring to pass, (cause to, make to) serve (-ingself,)), (be, become) servant (-s), do (use) service, till (-er), transgress [from margin], (set a) work, be wrought, worshipper,

What we see from these words is that there is a "MINISTRY" and "SERVICE OF OR UNTO God" and a "worship of God" that was given by the Spirit of God according to a "PATTERN" that as bondservants of the Most High we are compelled to follow

Answer for yourself: Did you see the picture emerging from the above passages as these Hebrew words were explained in depth to you?

Now we see that there does for certain exist a "Pattern" of "service" or a "Pattern of ministry" of or unto God in the Hebrew Scriptures in the Old Testament but for our purposes we need to know if there exists such a "Pattern of service" or "Pattern of Worship" in the New Testament.

Answer for yourself: Can we find references to this same "Pattern of service" or "Pattern of Worship" in the New Testament? We sure can!

Heb 8:5 5 Who serve unto the example and shadow of heavenly things, as Moses was admonished of God when he was about to make the tabernacle: for, See, saith he, that thou make all things according to the pattern shewed to thee in the mount. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that we find a similar reference to the word "service" as we did before in 1

Chron. 28:10-15? I hope so for the same reference to "service" unto God is in the New Testament as well.

The root word for "service" is very important in this context:

Strong's Concordance reveals to us the hidden meanings behind the word "service" in the above verse:

3000 latreuo (lat-ryoo'-o); from latris (a hired menial); to minister (to God), i.e. render, religious homage: KJV-- serve, do the service, worship (-per).

Now let us look at what the Thayer's Greek Lexicon has to say about this save Greek word we read translated as "service" in the above passage in Heb. 8:5:

3000 latreuo- 1) to serve for hire 2) to serve, to minister to, either to the gods or men and used alike of slaves and freemen a) in the New Testament, to render religious service or homage, to worship b) to perform sacred services, to offer gifts, to worship God in the observance of the rites instituted for his worship; used of priests, to officiate, to discharge the sacred office

Answer for yourself: Now have we see from passages taken from both the Hebrew Scriptures as well as New Testament examples that teach us that there is for certain a "Pattern of Worship" given to mankind which we are compelled to follow in our service or and worship of God? There certainly seems to be as these texts and the original meanings of the words and concepts reveal to us that this "Pattern of Worship" exists.

The very issue to which we speak is the WORSHIP OF GOD and this is connected to a "Pattern" which God intends be followed

Now it is for us to understand that there exists, whether we know it or not, a "Pattern of ministry" and a "Pattern of Worship" that exists both in the Old Testament and New Testament which is "the pattern of intended service and worship of God given to all mankind. This is called "ministry" according to the Hebrew word. I know that the term "ministry" is so overworked today but it is for us to try to discern what "this ministry" unto God is to entail:

- Can this "pattern" of service to, ministry to, and worship of God be discerned from the Jewish Scriptures as well as various New Testament texts?
- Can this "pattern" of service and worship of God be shown from examples in the Hebrew Scriptures and the Old Testament to have existed both before and after the time of Moses at Sinai and can it be shown that these examples of worship the same for both the Jew and non-Jew as well in many places?
- Can this "pattern" of service to, ministry to, and worship of God not only be found to exist both before and after Moses in the Hebrew texts but can we find examples of this "same" pattern in the New Testament both before and after the references to Jesus' death?
- Can this "pattern" of service and worship of God can be shown from examples in the Old Testament and New Testament texts to have existed not only before Jesus' death but also existed "unchanged" after Jesus' crucifixion and can we trace this same "pattern" into Asia Minor and see its incorporation through the efforts of Paul as well as other Apostles in their outreach to the non-Jew?
- If this "pattern" of service and worship of God can be shown to have been quite similar if not the same in many instances as practiced and observed by both Jews and non-Jews both before and after Jesus' crucifixion as well as being found existing in non-Jewish congregations for several centuries in Asia Minor through the efforts of the Great Commission then do I have this same "Pattern of Worship" taught to me today and do I follow this same "Pattern of Worship" of God in my life today and if not then why not?

These are powerful questions going right to the center of both our heads and hearts and the answers for them are available but only through hours of study as you personally find them for yourself. Only in this way can you be sure that no one will ever lie to you about these important matters any longer in your life.

If this answers to the above questions can be discerned from both Old and New Testament examples and if they give us evidence that these modes of worship overlap as applying "unchanged" in many regards for both the Jew and the non-Jewish believer who came to God through the ministry of Jesus's disciples and apostles then we need then only ask if our experience as Christians and followers of Jesus is yet today according to this "pattern of ministry" or if our experience is different and if so we must ask ourselves "why?" If we find that our experiences in our worship of God are not according to this "Pattern of Worship" handed down for thousands of years but one which deviates drastically from this "Pattern of Worship" then we have to honestly ask if we have let Israel and their Spiritual message be a light unto us (Israel is a light unto the nations/Gentiles). We have got to be ruthless in such an evaluation in order to determine if we have been misled by our spiritual authorities and ask ourselves if we have "worshiped God in vain".

Matt 15:9 9 But in vain they do worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men. (KJV)

In the articles that follow we will present evidence from both the Hebrew Scriptures and the New Testament which proves beyond any doubt that there does exist not only a "Pattern of Worship" as observed by both the Jew and non-Jew before Moses and Sinai but likewise observed and adhered to as well both before and after the New Testament's account of Jesus' crucifixion which indicates that nothing was changed by Jesus' death. One has to look to the official adoption of the Jesus Movement by the state of Rome in the early centuries A.D. in which "Christianity" became the state religion of Rome in order to see the organized changes made to this "Pattern of worship" as a Replacement Religion and Replacement "Pattern of Worship" emerges which has more in common with Sun Worship than with Heavenly Revelation from God. Today few if any know that ever happened and that we have departed from the "pattern" of worship given by God in His Holy Texts.

Most of us don't know much concerning this "Pattern of Worship" nor that one even exists today. The question that stares you right in the face after just an article of two is if you desire to want to see how as a Christian you have been taught the "deviation" from this "Divine Pattern of Worship" as well as if you, finally having seen this for yourself, can find the desire to repent and return to this "Divine Pattern of Worship of God" which was once given to the Saints.

Jude 1:3 3 Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints. (KJV)

The "Pattern of Worship" of which I speak is alluded to by Jude in the above passage. This "Pattern of Worship" has been given to all of mankind "ONCE" and it is up to us to "earnestly contend" for "THE" faith that only once spoken to Man by God. Lost for centuries we live in an awesome age where we have the ability today to not only discover this long lost "Pattern of Worship" but recover it for our lives in order to assure that our worship of God is in Spirit and Truth; for many it will be the first time in their lives that they can say this.

there exists a pattern of worship god gave to both jewish and non-jewish believers

NADAB AND ABIHU: A CASE STUDY IN DEVIATION FROM THE PATTERN OF WORSHIP

In this article we will be taught a very important lesson that sadly has escaped most of the Gentile Christian Church; namely, that there is a Divine "Pattern of Worship" that God has commanded and any deviation from it is displeasing to the Creator in spite of what we might think or believe. The seriousness of this lesson cannot be stressed enough.

You might have heard of Nadab and Abihu but we will become more acquainted with them momentarily. You need to position yourself to understand that the account of Nadab and Abihu occurs on their very first day to lead in worship the people of God. You might say that it occurs on their ordination day. It was their first day to lead the people of God in worship. As you read this document, please draw the analogy and question if at all possible if you have possibly been led in worship by contemporary "Christianized" Nadabs and Abihus.

Aaron and his sons had spent seven whole days within the tabernacle of meeting and now on this eighth day, they had been more than ready to begin the ceremonies which would complete their consecration to the priesthood. The ceremonies were tedious and difficult and they had to be followed and performed correctly to be pleasing to God. Aaron's brother and God's chosen mediator Moses, had been told by Yahweh,

"See that you make everything according to the pattern shown you in the mount" (EX. 25:40).

Now notice if you will that God tells Moses that there exists "a Pattern" that is to be followed by man when he worships God!

As you read this article, you will see that we have deviated from the "pattern" and you will quickly see that we (the Gentile Christian Church) have erred today and have not followed the "pattern for worship" as given by God. Let us draw the parallels to our situation as Gentile Christians who consider themselves followers of Jesus and "the Christ" today.

1 Cor 10:5-6 5 But with many of them God was not well pleased: for they were overthrown in the wilderness. 6 Now these things were our examples...(KJV)

Nadab and Abihu (Leviticus 10) had been very careful to do everything to the Lord's exacting specifications (but that would change). Aaron's sons Nadab and Abihu were very meticulous in slaughtering a calf, a kid, a bull, and a ram, washing and burning the kidneys, fat, and fatty lobe of the liver on the altar, pouring the blood at its base, burning the hide and flesh outside the camp, and then offering a grain offering mixed with oil. Let us not forget that this was done specifically according to the pattern given by God; the pattern He intended to be followed to the very "jot" and "tittle" of each command.

The high point of these preparations came when the glory of the Lord (God's Presence) appeared as a result of obedient worship and a great presence of fire went out from the Lord and entirely consumed the burnt offering and fat on the altar. During this last event Nadab and Abihu were moved with the rest of the congregation to fall on their faces in worship at this miraculous display of their Magnificent God, as He accepted with great pleasure, the sacrifice of His people.

Perhaps it was the emotion of the moment, yet nevertheless, whatever it might have been, it entered into the minds of these two sons of Aaron to make a generous gesture of worship to the Lord. Their hearts were no doubt filled with joy and thanksgiving at being chosen along with their father and the entire tribe of Levi to mediate God's dealings with His special people, Israel. God had taken extreme care to communicate to them the manner and spirit in which He was to be honored and worshipped, and they had been faithful to do all that He had asked of them. God would do the same to King David and Solomon when giving further instructions concerning "the Pattern of Worship" to be followed in the Temple as hopefully you have seen in the study of the prior articles.

Lev 10:1 And Nadab and Abihu, the sons of Aaron, took either of them his censer, and put fire therein, and put incense thereon, and offered strange fire before the LORD, which he commanded them not. (KJV)

Nadab and Abihu, however, were not content with worshipping "by the Book" or "by the Pattern of Worship" commanded by God; they wanted to excel in worship, and to do so, they would exceed God's expectations, hoping through their creativity to convey to Him their inestimable thanks and praise. They felt in their emotions and they reasoned in their minds that they were unable to express their gratitude doing only what the Lord had asked. They reasoned among themselves: "After all, if we do all that God required, surely He will approve if we improvise and bring Him what He has not asked for?" I can hear them now as they most likely reasoned and said to themselves: "We will go beyond the 'Pattern' for after all, does not God know our hearts?" This needs some deep thought in order to see if God can or will accept what man decides on his own to give God which God did not ask in lieu of what He did ask that man do and observe. The bottom issue here is the substitution of what the flesh manifests instead of the Spirit. Even more clearly we are speaking about Replacement Religion which is undetectable to the flesh of mankind since most are devoid of the necessary knowledge to even know that such a tragic substitution has even occurred.

So with love in their hearts (like us) and with great satisfaction in their own cleverness, Nadab and Abihu mistakenly devised a plan whereby they thought that they could draw closer to the Lord who chose them. With their father Aaron looking on, each took his censer and put fire in it. With eager hearts they approached the glory which so recently had accepted the sacrifice offered on the altar. "Surely" they thought to themselves drawing ever nearer the expression of Yahweh's presence, "this will assure Yahweh (God) of my appreciation for His selection of me to be a holy priest before Him." Can't you just picture Aaron as he looked on, his heart in similar fashion overflowing with gratitude to His Lord and with pride for his sons on this, their ordination day. Here they were, young men, selected by God to be members of a special class among all of the houses of Israel -- priests to the Most High God, of the order of Levi! They were God's worship leaders!

Answer for yourself: Can this apply to the Christian? Do we offer God "Strange Fire" in worship and not know it today?

Yet God will destroy and kill them for their false worship and their deviation from "the Pattern of Worship" which He had previously commanded. Tragically, they forgot that with God obedience is better than any sacrifice one can bring God.

This should hit home to us as followers of Jesus and "the Christ" since as Gentile Christians today we follow a different "Pattern of Worship" created by Rome instead of the "Pattern of Worship" commanded by God to Israel which was to be the template not only for the Jews but all non-Jews and God-fearers as they made their way to the Temple and the Presence of God.

Maybe not intentionally but surely we do the same as Nadab and Abihu as Gentile Christians at times in our lives when we are led astray by false teaching which we fail to see for what it really is; namely, deviation from what God had commanded in the first place concerning His "Holy Days and Sabbaths" let alone the associated rituals and observance that are parts of these "appointed times" with God.

Now let us pick up the story of Nadab and Abihu. The Hebrew Scriptures teach us that Aaron's worship was interrupted by a sudden commotion which he heard breaking out among the assembly. All of Israel was riveted on the Glory as they beheld again the fire which, having just moments before moved them to fall on their faces, was now once again coming out of God's Presence and began racing rapidly outward. This surely puzzled Aaron, because the sacrifice of the animals had been completely consumed and there remained not so much as a morsel to be devoured by this blaze. But these flames were different than before in that they did not reveal Yahweh's pleasure in the worship and the offerings of His people as they had before.

Screams of horror broke out as the realization settled upon the people of Israel that the flames were directed not toward the altar, but on the two sons of Aaron who had just been worshipping God. Aaron, shattered by what he saw, felt the panic and fear as it filled his soul. It surely seemed like an eternity to the gathering until the flames departed just as swiftly as they had appeared. Where once stood two young men, there were now two smoking carcasses. Unlike the sacrifices which had been totally consumed, the displeasure of the Lord at the institution of perverted worship was manifested in His leaving their lifeless bodies intact and on the ground.

Answer for yourself: Should this worship not have been accepted? Did not God know their hearts and their attempts to love Him after their own zeal?

Notice what Moses says immediately who was quick to speak to Aaron about what had just happened. Moses says:

"This is what the Lord spoke of when He said: 'Among those who approach me I will show myself holy; in the sight of all the people I will be honored.'" Lev. 10:3

Such honor of God is NEVER done in the flesh or zeal of man but in OBEDIENCE to what God has said and commanded.

Aaron's mouth was quiet! Two of his cousins, being thus commanded of Moses, came forward and conducted the remains of his two sons outside the camp, to the place where the unacceptable portions of the sacrifices were routinely taken.

Aaron, being a prophet and having a heart filled with the knowledge of the purposes of Yahweh, knew that it was obedience and not sacrifice that the Lord desired from His people. This may be news to you but God has not changed; we have! When we fail to observe God's Holy Days and "Appointed Times" and substitute for them our own inherited by antisemitic Rome because of their hatred of the Jewish nation then we must realize that we appear before God as just another Nadab and Abihu regardless of our emotional response that accompanies our feeble attempts to make God accept a substitute worship from what He commanded. Often we don't even know what we are doing and that we are dishonoring God when we lift our prayers and voices as we sanctify man's holidays taken from solar gods and goddesses to which Rome affixed the name of Jesus over 1700 years ago. Instead of the Sabbath of God we congregate on "Sun-day"; a day set apart for Helios the Sun god of Rome. Instead of the Passover we celebrate and observe as Christians a fertility cultic day called "Astarte" or "Easter" which commemorated licentious behavior representing the new life of Spring (Easter and bunnies as prolific breeders, eggs as symbol of fertility). Instead of observing the Festival of Tabernacles which symbolized the gathering of all men with God we celebrate Thanksgiving. And I could go on but you get the point. Instead of reading the "particular portions" of the Torah on God's Holy Days and Sabbaths along with the Haftorah (Prophets) as He commanded which convey the very specific messages He desires to communicate to His people corresponding to these specific days and time we have today over 2000 different Christian denominations all with a different passage with jumbled messages taken most likely from Rome's New Testament instead of the Holy Hebrew Scriptures recognized by the pre-Roman church. These specific readings may be new to you but if you desire to know more about them I suggest you read S. Spong's great book on this issue entitled Liberating the Gospels. In this book he will show you that basically the Gospel of Mark is little more than a midrash on the Synagogue readings (specific Torah and Haftorah portions read in succession through the Festival year beginning with Shavuot (Pentecost) and culminating at Pesach (Passover). These readings when taken in chronological order are the basic for the commentary of Jesus upon the synagogue readings which we find in his teachings as taken in "order" from Pentecost through Passover. I could not believe this when I first read this so I took the Gospel of Mark in my study Bible and took each paragraph/section, chapter by chapter beginning at chapter 1 through 16, and recorded the references to the Old Testament throughout the whole Gospel of Mark. After comprising the list of Old Testament references from each of the passages in Mark from chapter 1 through 16 I then compared them with the Torah and Haftorah readings for the synagogue in Israel in the first century and I about fell out of my chair. Although not 100 % accurate I found to my amazement that over 90% of the summary teachings of Mark flowed EXACTLY with the Torah/Haftorah readings of the synagogues in Israel in the first century in Israel. That only reinforced for the God's "Pattern of Worship" and I truly came to understand that on certain days and special times with God that God's message commanded for that day needs be read and not another which we usually say "God spoke to me and told me to tell ya". Sadly these are not from God when we have His expressed commands that ONLY certain passages and certain messages are to taught on certain "appointed times" with God. The analogy I make is that we surely don't say "happy anniversary" to someone when it is not his anniversary but his birthday. I hope you get the point. Get the book and begin to see God's "Pattern of Worship" for yourself. Now back to Nadab and Abihu.

Aaron's sons, regardless of the seeming innocence of their intentions, were surely guilty of disobedience in the worship of God. They were guilty of "Replacement Religion" as we today. Nadab and Abihu had been chosen by God to be a warning and an alarm to the congregation that God is to be obeyed to the letter, and that men were not to worship Him in ways He had not revealed. They had been the unwitting mediators of a great lesson by God to His people. And let me remind you that this "Pattern of Worship" has been given to King David and Solomon and handed down to the Holy Men of Old and we can find this "Pattern of Worship" not only in the first century in Israel but adapted and followed by Paul in Asia Minor among his Gentile congregations in the synagogues well into the 5th century before Rome finally succeeds in eradicating it.

God had not given Nadab and Abihu any instructions concerning the origin of the fire to be used nor did he command them to offer fire created by the hands of man. They had begun to think beyond the Word of God, and God, in His great care for the congregation, had given to them a strong reminder of the dangers of worshiping God with methods whose origins spring from the evil imaginations of the deceitful and sinful heart of man.

THE PROFANE WORSHIP IN MODERN ASSEMBLIES

Nadab and Abihu were by no means the only persons through whom the Lord has demonstrated his displeasure with unrevealed means of worship. We have the examples given to us of Uzzah, who in steadying the teetering Ark, forgot that the ground upon which it was in danger of falling was much cleaner than the hands of fallen man; of Saul, who in offering the sacrifice in the absence of the priest, committed the sin of presumption, losing forever in the process the kingdom to his posterity; of Jeroboam the first ruler of the Northern Kingdom, who created a feast to the Lord in his own heart, a sin into which all who followed him on the throne strayed, a sin which resulted finally in the kingdom entering into the captivity of the Assyrians; of Ananias and Sapphira, who gave of their belongings to the Lord, but in a deceptive manner and were carried lifeless from the assembly.

Although we have these examples in our Bibles, we have still not responded to Him in obedience when it comes to the subject of worship, in spite of the advantage we enjoy of the Re-Newed Covenant. New hearts have been given to His people and instead of residing in a temple made of stone or skins, His glory, His Holy Spirit has come to dwell within His people corporately and individually. In spite of these advantages over those who have gone before, most of Christianity is mired deep in worship forms of which not the Lord, but man is the author. While many would claim that they are in New Testament assemblies, those who are truly seeking after the will of God know that when they read the letters of Peter, Paul, James, John, as well as other passages, they are confused by the glaring differences in practice from the first century assemblies and the assemblies of today. Christians today are unknowingly offering to the Lord, sacrifices no less profane than that of Nadab, Abihu, Uzzah, Saul, Jeroboam, Ananias and Sapphira and they don't even know of this tragic departure from the "Eternal Pattern of Worship".

Answer for yourself: How you say? When was the last time you ever read Leviticus 23?

Various feast days, such as Christmas, Easter, Palm Sunday, and others, are all products of the heart of man, and are celebrated zealously with exhausting effort and care, while that which our Lord commanded that we do in remembrance of Him (the Passover for instance) is forgotten and replaced by Easter. It doesn't stop there! These are not just Jewish "day" for serious study will reveal to you that buried and hidden in these Hebrew texts are references to the non-Jews observing these days as well. Few understand today that the Lord's Supper has nothing to do with the grape juice and wafers taken in reverence in most Churches today, but rather refer to the three meals taken in observance of the weekly Sabbath service (the fourth of the ten commandments). And in our Christian churches we have changed the Lord's Supper entirely from its Hebrew and Jewish context as relating to the Sabbath to the day devoted to the worship of the Sun, namely, Sun-day.

Answer for yourself: Have you ever stopped and wondered why you keep and observe the commandment concerning adultery, stealing, murder, lying, etc., yet fail regularly (without remorse) to keep the Sabbath commandment when it is in the same list and more is written about this commandment than any of the others in Exodus 20?

Instead of the "coming together" for the Lord's Supper, (1Cor.. 10:16-17, 11:17-20, ACT 2:42-46, 20:7), the focus of the majority of believer's meetings (church gatherings) has become the glorification of the abilities of one person (usually the preacher) and the passive entertainment of the assembled (the inactive congregation). Though Christ warned his disciples against the taking upon themselves titles such as "Teacher", "Rabbi" (Aramaic "Teacher"), "Father", and "Master" claiming these to belong solely to himself and the Father, these men cling tenaciously to "Reverend", "Father", "Doctor" (Latin, "Teacher"), "Pastor" ("Shepherd") etc. Instead of following in the example of Paul, an itinerant missionary, to provide for himself with his own hands, these are the busybodies, the idle of whom Paul wrote to the Thessalonians, who bleed the church of finances which might be used according to the Hebrew Scriptures to take care of the widows, the infirm, the sick, the lame, the blind, and to share with the poor in keeping the Biblical Festivals and Sabbaths of God. Today in Christianity we don't even know how the tithe was commanded to be used when given and we use it for everything under the sun when areas designated by God to receive the tithe go unaddressed by the vast majority of Gentile Churches today. Instead of recognizing that God dwells in holy hearts and in His assembly, many attempt to build for him lavish buildings made with human hands which is not an area permitted by God in which we are to use "the Lord's Tithe". To make matters worse we rob God of His tithe which assuring the people that they are not yet how we use the funds make the given an accessory to robbery. Neglecting the holiness of His true temple, the temple made without hands, we blindly place our confidence in the majesty of cold stone structures and the architectural monuments to man's creativity.

It is time to cleanse the dwelling place of the Lord (ourselves). If your assembly is not responsive to His Word, and you have made every honest attempt to be the watchman and to warn them of their ways, then you are free from their blood. You must come out and cease being a part of the problem and become part of the solution.

Our publications at Bet Emet will seek to call God's people to obedience in worship. It is not intended to annoy the disinterested, nor is it intended to condemn those who are not practicing the truth. We can also look back to a time when we, being ignorant of these things, also did not practice the truth. We preach the uncompromising Word, convincing, rebuking and exhorting -- but with longsuffering and patient teaching! We know that there are out there many "who have ears to hear", who are waiting for loving words of correction and instruction. God does not save us to live lives of insignificance but to live lives of glory and honor. He warned us that many in that day were going to be in shock to find that they do not truly belong to Him. Many will even make claims to have cast out demons and performed miracles in His name. They may be sincere, but they are sincerely mistaken. Paul, for transgressions much less perilous expressed doubt about the reality of the faith of his hearers, saying such things as "I fear for you, that somehow I have wasted my efforts on you" (Gal. 4:11) and "Examine yourselves to see whether you are in the faith. Test yourselves." (2 Cor. 13:5).

We have a far more compelling need to examine the assembly. At stake is the eternal destiny not only of ourselves, but of those we love.

Please do not rely on a short walk up an aisle or immersion in water as the evidence of your "faith". You are not going to be judged by your faith, but by your works. In the great epistle of the gospel of salvation by grace through faith, Paul says this:

"God will give to each person according to what he has done".

This verse applies not only to doing good deeds, but incorporated proper worship of God as well!

"Examine yourselves to see whether you are in the faith; test yourselves. Do you not realize that Christ Jesus is in you -- unless, of course, you fail the test?" 2 Cor. 13:5

Now that you know the rest is up to you. Blessings....

HAVE WE FOLLOWED GOD'S "PATTERN OF WORSHIP" OR HAVE WE OFFERED GOD "STRANGE FIRE" IN OUR CHURCHES AND IN OUR WORSHIP?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that within the Jewish Scriptures we can find a "Pattern of Worship" given by God that was followed by both Jews and non-Jewish believers in God both in the Old Testament and New Testament times (well into the early 5th century and there are some records of this continuing until the 7th century)?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that both historically and archeologically we can attest that this "Pattern of Worship" and God's true message of Salvation connected to it continued down through history until early in the 3rd and 4th centuries A.D. when Rome, for all practical purposes, changed this "Pattern of Worship" and God's message of salvation connected with it?

A typical Christians seldom if ever stumbles onto the prior existing "Pattern of Worship" let alone this existing message of God connected with His "Appointed Times" which God gave to all mankind in the beginning of time, both Jew and non-Jew, to observe in their worship of Him.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that for another 300 years many Jews and "non-Jews" would give their lives to the Roman sword before they would allow themselves or their families depart from this "Pattern of Worship"?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that the tabernacle was built according to "the" divine blueprint given to Moses by the Lord (Ex. 25:8-9)?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that Aaron and his sons were consecrated to their priestly vocation according to a "Divine Pattern" as well, and they offered the prescribed sacrifices unto God according to a "Divine Pattern"?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that David was given the same "Divine Pattern" when told to build the Temple, set aside the Priests, and oversee the work of the service (worship) within the Temple (I Chron. 28:13)?

1 Chr 28:10-15 10 Take heed now; for the LORD hath chosen thee to build an house for the sanctuary: be strong, and do it. 11 Then David gave to Solomon his son the pattern of the porch, and of the houses thereof, and of the treasuries thereof, and of the upper chambers thereof, and of the inner parlours thereof, and of the place of the mercy seat, 12 And the pattern of all that he have we followed god's pattern of worship or have we offered god strange fire in our worship?

had by the spirit, of the courts of the house of the LORD, and of all the chambers round about, of the treasuries of the house of God, and of the treasuries of the dedicated things: 13 Also for the courses of the priests and the Levites, and for all the work of the service of the house of the LORD, and for all the vessels of service in the house of the LORD.

Let us look and examine the the Hebrew word for "service" and see what we find hidden in the Hebrew:

Strong's Concordance:

5656 `abodah (ab-o-daw'); or `abowdah (ab-o-daw'); from 5647; work of any kind: KJV-- act, bondage, + bondservant, effect, labour, ministering (-try), office, service (-ile, -itude), tillage, use, work, X wrought.

Brown-Driver-Briggs' Hebrew Lexicon:

5656 `abodah or `abowdah- labor, service

- a) labor, work
- b) labor (of a servant or a slave)
- c) labor, service (of captives or subjects)
- d) service (of God)

What we see from these words is that there is a "MINISTRY" and "SERVICE OF GOD" that was given by the Spirit of God according to a "PATTERN".

Even the New Testament alludes to this pattern:

Heb 8:5 5 Who serve unto the example and shadow of heavenly things, as Moses was admonished of God when he was about to make the tabernacle: for, See, saith he, that thou make all things according to the pattern shewed to thee in the mount. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: What should we learn from this?

Simply that it is for us to understand that a "pattern of ministry" existed both in the Old Testament and New Testament and this "Pattern" of intended service of mankind toward God was shared by both the Jew and the "non-Jew" and that it existed in spite of Roman Antisemitism up until the 5th century when it went "underground" in order to survive. Adherence by both Jews and "non-Jews" to this "Pattern of Ministry" or "Pattern of Worship" of God is called "ministry" according to the Hebrew words.

It remains for us to discern if:

- If this "pattern" of service and worship of God can be discerned from the Jewish Scriptures
- If this "pattern" of service and worship of God can be shown from examples in the Old Testament and New Testament texts to have existed not only before Jesus' death but also existed "unchanged" after Jesus' crucifixion
- If this "pattern" of service and worship of God can be shown to have been quite similar if not the same in many instances as practiced and observed by both Jews and non-Jews both before and after the time for the New Testament Jesus.

have we followed god's pattern of worship or have we offered god strange fire in our worship?

Simply that it is for us to understand that a "pattern of ministry" existed both in the Old Testament and New Testament and this "Pattern" of intended service of mankind toward God was shared by both the Jew and the "non-Jew" and that it existed in spite of Roman Antisemitism up until the 5th century when it went "underground" in order to survive. Adherence by both Jews and "non-Jews" to this "Pattern of Ministry" or "Pattern of Worship" of God is called "ministry" according to the Hebrew words.

I know that the term "ministry" is so overworked today but it is for us to try to discern if this "pattern" of service and worship of God can be discerned from the Jewish Scriptures and if examples of it can be determined to have existed both before and long after the time of Jesus' death as depicted in the New Testament and if this "Pattern of Ministry" and "Pattern of Worship" remained unchanged for both Jew and "non-Jew" long after the time of the New Testament Jesus.

If this "Pattern of Worship" can be discerned from New Testament examples as applying "unchanged" for both the Jew and the "non-Jewish" believer who came to God then we need then only ask if our experience as Christians and followers of Jesus and "the Christ" is yet today one that lines up according to this "Pattern of Ministry" or if our religious experience is different and if so we must ask "why?" Over the years of my study came to honestly recognize and admit that I had not allowed Israel to be a "light unto me" and in doing failed to see and recognize this "Pattern of Worship" given me by God as confirmed by scholarly Old and New Testament studies in both the Hebrew and Greek languages of my Bible. I quickly came to see that I had been misled by the English of my Bible let alone the Christian translators of my Bible which concealed this "Jewish Pattern of Worship" given by God and intended for both the Jew and the "non-Jewish" believers.

A LITTLE CATCH UP BEFORE WE GO ON

It is not my habit to chase rabbits here but let me give you a little "tid-bid" of knowledge which is shared on our other websites. Archeology today in the last 100 plus years is blowing the lid off the Catholic Church tradition and Christian mind control to which we have fallen prey not only Catholics but Protestants as well. Facts today reveal to us that these Patriarchs and Biblical heroes who were given this "Divine Pattern of Worship" were Egyptian Pharaohs and not "Jews" as we suppose. That means that men like King David, Solomon, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, etc., were linked to Egypt as rulers and we don't know it because of Ezra. We can thank Ezra for that, a Persian no less passed off as another Jew, in the Hebrew Scriptures which he would edit and reinterpret and write with an agenda to cover up this Egyptian link since Persia was at war with Egypt in 600 B.C.E. when the writing of Genesis were done in and Persia and afterwards in the "return". Having said that then know for now that this "Pattern of Worship" that we find given to King David (Thutmose III) and handed down to Solomon (Amenhotep III) and later to Moses (the Pharaoh Akhenaten) finds its roots in Ancient Egypt and beyond and has its origin in the earliest Divine Revelation given to mankind by God (Elohim). This "Pattern of Worship" revolves around the Invisible Creator who imparted within His creation the message of true salvation that is intricately linked with the solstices and the equinoxes (the times where we find the Biblical Festivals and Feasts by the way). It will take a lot of reading to not only familiarize yourself with these new concepts and the Divine Instruction and Messages from God attached to them but how they were later altered almost beyond belief by Rome in the 3rd and later centuries. But only through study will you be able to come to see the very simple message of God's True Salvation attached to these Biblical Feasts and Festivals, the "Appointed Times of God", which were given originally by our Divine Creator to all of His creation, both "non-Jew" and Jew, which we have lost almost entirely today. You can thank Rome and the "Early Church Fathers" and their hatred of the Jews for this. It is time we recover these truths and return to the "True Pattern of Worship" "once given the saints" and which the Jewish people carry with them today (since the Jews are the children of intermarriage of these Egyptians and Semites). Now let us continue.

UNDERSTANDING THE "WORK OF THE SERVICE" ..CORRECTLY

Having justified for your that worship of God in Israel was according to a "pattern", then let us regress to the events surrounding the beginning of Tabernacle worship. The Bible records for us that the "glory of the Lord appeared unto all the people." Fire came out from the Lord and lit the offering on the altar, consuming the sacrifice, "which when all the people saw, they shouted, and fell on their faces" (Lev. 9:23-24). We can only imagine the mixture of awe, wonder, and joy which the people experienced on this holy and festive occasion as Nadab and Abihu led the people in worship.

Moments later, the scene changed dramatically, as a terrible judgment fell upon Nadab and Abihu. In the midst of their activities, "there went out fire from the Lord, and devoured them, and they died before the Lord" (Lev. 10:2).

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that God killed them in their "church?"

Answer for yourself: What had they done, to provoke the anger of the Lord?

The biblical narrative tells us simply that they "offered strange fire before the Lord, which he commanded them not" (Lev. 10:1).

Nadab and Abihu had done something which was expressly forbidden.

Answer for yourself: What had they done that was so bad in worshipping God to demand that their lives be taken?

Surprisingly, they merely added something to the worship of God that He did not command. They added a bit of "strange fire" which the Lord had not commanded. The judgment which came upon them stands as a perpetual testimony against those who presume to worship God by means which lack divine decree and in ways that God has not commanded or sanctioned. It is a solemn warning: "the Lord spake, saying, I will be sanctified in them that come nigh me, and before all the people I will be glorified" (Lev. 10:3). God means that all false and man-made worship are detestable to Him and will not be accepted by Him and the deaths of Nadab and Abihu remain as eternal testimony to God's will in this matter. This has a very sobering though and warning to you and me that should motivate us to study our faith to be sure that as Christians we are following this "Pattern of Worship" in our Christian Churches.

Answer for yourself: Are we to understand by this story that God is displeased with synthetic worship and man-made "replacement" worship that deviates from His expressed commandments regarding how He desires to be worshipped as taught throughout both the Hebrew Scriptures as well as being found in many New Testament examples? We sure are. We must remember that this "Pattern of Worship" was commanded by God and not by man.

In order to gain a better understanding of scriptural principles of worship, we will make a further examination of precepts and examples from the Bible.

BIBLICAL PRECEPTS

In the book of Deuteronomy, Moses exhorts the children of Israel to keep the law of God. In chapter 12, he reviews scriptural precepts pertaining to worship.

The Lord forbids his people to imitate man-made "false" ways of worship; the Israelites were commanded to eradicate the remnants of corrupt worship from their midst. They were commanded to destroy have we followed god's pattern of worship or have we offered god strange fire in our worship?

"all the places" wherein the heathen served their Gods. They were instructed to purge the land of all the implements associated with false worship: "Ye shall overthrow their altars, and break their pillars, and burn their groves with fire; and ye shall hew down the graven images of their Gods." Even the terminology of corrupt worship was to be erased: "Destroy the names of them out of that place" (Deut. 12:2-3).

Answer for yourself: To the modern mind, this may sound strangely intolerant, but is it?

Answer for yourself: Do you believe that God is the same yesterday, today, and forever and that He changes not?

But the Lord warned his people against the danger of imitating the worship practices that deviated from the "Pattern of Worship" given to Israel in the Old Testament: "Ye shall not do so unto the Lord your God." The chapter concludes with a further warning against imitating heathen worship. "Take heed to thyself that thou be not snared by following them, after that they be destroyed from before thee; and that thou inquire not after their Gods, saying, How did these nations serve their Gods? even so will I do likewise. Thou shalt not do so unto the Lord thy God. What thing soever I command you, observe to do it; thou shalt not add thereto, nor diminish from it" (Deut. 12:30-32; cf. 4:2).

The sufficiency and authority of the Hebrew Scriptures are brought to bear upon the content of our worship. This is the meaning of the scriptural law of worship: all forms of worship must have express scriptural warrant, if they are to be admitted as legitimate means of worship. "The acceptable way of worshipping the true God is instituted by himself, and so limited by His own revealed will, that He may not be worshipped according to the imaginations and devices of men, or the suggestions of Satan, under any visible representation, or any other way not prescribed in holy scripture" (Westminster Confession, 21:1).

The biblical pattern of worship needs no supplements of human devising; indeed, such man-made innovations are a snare the very seed of idolatry.

When we consider the fallen nature of mankind, we see why the biblical precepts of worship are necessary. Since the fall of Adam, the nature of man has been thoroughly corrupt. This inherent corruption drives men away from God: "There is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after God" (Rom. 3:11). Thus, the native tendency of mankind is to pollute the worship of God, exchanging the truth of God for a lie, worshipping and serving created things rather than the Creator (Rom. 1:25).

Just as men are incapable of forging a method for their own salvation, so they are incapable of devising proper means to worship and serve God. Therefore, the only proper way to worship God is through the means established by the Lord Himself and we find His instructions for this worship of God given Israel in the Old Testament, which by the way, can be seen observed in the New Testament by both the "Jews" and "non-Jews" long after the time of the depicted death of Jesus.

WORSHIP IN THE WILDERNESS

During the wilderness wanderings, the Israelites had to be schooled in proper principles of worship. Their native tendency toward corrupt worship was shown early, while they waited for Moses to return from Mt. Sinai. Growing restless, Aaron and the people constructed a golden calf to serve as a visible symbol of deity.

Not understanding what really happened here and in these Hebrew texts, let alone the truth of Egyptian history at this time and the division of Egyptian religion, the Amon-Ra Priesthood and the Pharaoh Akhenaten (the Biblical Moses) due to the "changing of the Age" and the Precession of the Equinoxes with the accompanying change of the ruling constellation of Taurus being replaced by Aries, one fails to understand what really have we followed god's pattern of worship or have we offered god strange fire in our worship?

happened that involved this "golden calf" (Taurus centered worship of God). Virtually all expositors decry the action of the Israelites as idolatry. So did Moses since Osiris worship was at its height at this time in Egypt (the worship of the "godman"). What is often over looked, however, is the manner in which the Israelites justified their action. They did not view the calf as a newly-created deity; rather, they made the calf as a testimony of their divine deliverance from Egypt. The calf-image evoked a sense of the strength displayed in their deliverance. "These be thy Gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt. And when Aaron saw it, he built an altar before it; and Aaron made proclamation, and said, Tomorrow is a feast to the Lord" (Ex. 32:4-5).

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that Aaron, although using symbolism of a "bull" that was identified with the constellation Taurus which had ruled the Vernal Equinox (the Passover) for some 2,160 years, did not plan on worshipping the golden calf, but rather through the use of this "symbol" desired to re-direct the people's worship toward God by the use of this symbol? But Aaron had "added" to the worship of God something that Moses had forbidden in the Laws of Moses and for this he had "sinned" in his worship of God. To Aaron he appears not to have understood the seriousness of his actions in worshipping God but Moses sure did. All one has to do is remember the Laws of Moses and the 10 Commandments:

Exod 20:3-5 3 Thou shalt have no other gods before me. 4 Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth: 5 Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me; (KJV) Exod 20:3 3 Thou shalt have no other gods before me. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Aaron was intent on "worshipping" the LORD but did his methods in accomplishing this worship of God "offend God" and bring the judgment of God into his life? It sure did.

Although our intent is to worship God, have we, like the Children of Israel, added to the worship of God in our church or in our denomination, or omitted from our worship necessary elements commanded by God and thus stand condemned like Israel and know it not until we die; unless we study to find out the truth in these areas.

In other words, the Israelites did not claim to worship new deities that would be blatant idolatry. No, they intended the calf to serve as a symbol of deity; and Aaron seeks to honor the sacred name of the Lord through this monstrous invention. But even this simple worship, when their intentions were good, was idolatry and a sin of the highest magnitude and it occurred, remind you, when they were attempting to "worship God" no less.

Even the Anglican author, J. Packer, explains this incident as an attempt by Aaron to worship the Lord (not other Gods) an attempt using unlawful means. "Aaron made a golden calf (that is, a bull-image). It was meant as a visible symbol of Jehovah, the mighty God who brought Israel out of Egypt. No doubt the image was thought to honor Him, as being a fitting symbol of His great strength. But it is not hard to see that such a symbol in fact insults Him: for what idea of His moral character, His righteousness, goodness, and patience, could one gather from looking at a statue of Him as a bull? Thus Aaron's image hid Jehovah's glory." Knowing God (Downers Grove: Inter-Varsity Press, 1973), pp. 40-41.

Now, when Moses returned, he did not regard this matter lightly. He did not employ the tactic which Christianity has used for centuries (and which evangelical churchmen presently endorse), simply cautioning the Israelites not to worship false Gods, noting that the image itself was not a deity, and then allowing the image to remain strictly as a symbol. Moses "took the calf which they had made, and burnt it in the fire, and ground it to powder, and scattered it upon the water, and made the children of Israel drink of it. And Moses said unto Aaron, What did this people unto thee, that thou hast brought so great a sin upon

This sin had transpired while Moses was receiving the ten commandments on the mountain. And the Decalogue (the Ten Commandments) forbids not only the worship of false Gods, but it also condemns the worship of the true God by unsanctioned methods. The same condemnation of false worship of God is called "blasphemy" and "idolatry" and is found in the Laws of Noah and the Covenant of Noah as applying to all "non-Jews" of the world and the Mosaic legislation only builds upon it.

Answer for yourself: More to the point, when shown [presuming that you have read the prior articles in this website] that the celebration and observance of Biblical Festivals and the Sabbath is part of the "Divine Pattern of Worship" for all time (for both Jew and "non-Jew"), then are we guilty as Israel [as ingrafted Gentiles into the Israel of God] by substituting for the observance of the Biblical Festivals and Feasts of YHWH our Gentile Church Calendar which is full of paganized holidays to which we affix Jesus' name to the neglect of the true days of Biblical worship? Are we observing Easter of Passover this year?

Stop...read that again...and THINK!

THE SCRIPTURAL LAW OF WORSHIP

The first commandment declares, "Thou shalt have no other Gods before me" (Ex. 20:3). It is plain that the Lord God is the only proper recipient of worship.

The second commandment continues the focus on worship by telling us how God is to be worshipped. It does so in a negative sense, by forbidding us to worship God with human inventions. "Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image" (Ex. 20:4).

A graven image is not merely a statue of a false deity. If that were the case, the second commandment would be redundant of the first. Instead, the second commandment plainly forbids making or revering physical or artistic representations of the true God.

When the Lord revealed himself to the Israelites, He did so by means of His word not by physical images to be imitated or embellished. Therefore, He warned them: "Take ye therefore good heed unto yourselves; for ye saw no manner of similitude on the day that the Lord spake unto you in Horeb out of the midst of the fire: lest ye corrupt yourselves, and make you a graven image, the similitude of any figure," etc. (Deut. 4:15-16).

Let us take time to note that Roman Catholics and Lutherans divide the ten commandments differently than ordinary Protestants. Catholics and Lutherans combine the first two commandments into one, thus subsuming the second command as a mere appendix to the first. They divide the tenth commandment into two commands prohibiting different kinds of covetousness. Thus, they still maintain ten in number, but the effects on their doctrine of worship is devastating.

The apostle Paul instructed the Athenians, "We ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device" (Acts 17:29). Any attempt to represent God by human devices is an insult to the Lord.

Answer for yourself: Can God be a man, a physical man then? THINK!

His pronouncement is clear: "I am the Lord: that is my name: and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images" (Isa. 42:8).

BUT IT IS MORE THAN AN IMAGE

The prohibition expressed in the second commandment reaches beyond what we might call an image, in the strictest sense of the term. In its broader scope, this commandment really forbids the use of all man-made devices in worship. It directs us to a basic concept: that the only acceptable way of worshipping God is to render homage to Him according to the instructions given in His word. Any deviation from his word by adopting humanly-devised forms of worship is, de facto, a violation of the scriptural law of worship. This is devastating to Gentile Christianity which can be shown when investigated through in-depth study that many of it's very foundational doctrines and dogmas are profane to the core and which therefore render the worshipper as an idolator before God!

In practice, many modern Protestants have unwittingly adopted this same viewpoint. The second commandment is expounded as a mere expansion of the first, and restricted in application only to false deities and open homage to images. As a result, they admit images and false teachings into churches, ostensibly for didactic purposes. This modern interpretation is contrary to the Protestant confessions of the Reformation as delineated in the Heidelberg Catechism #96-98, Westminster Confession, 21:2-3; Westminster Larger Catechism, #107-109.

In other words, all religious ceremonies and institutions must have clear scriptural warrant, if they are to be admitted as valid expressions of worship...those which don't render the worshipper an idolator...and you may never know this until you die and let God tell your face to face (idiom for Yom Kippur)

TEMPLE WORSHIP

The designation of a central place of worship did not occur until the Israelites conquered and settled the land of Canaan. A central site for public worship had been anticipated since the time of Moses (Deut. 12:11; cf. 12:5, 14); but it did not reach fulfillment until the reign of David. During David's rule, the ark of the covenant was moved to Jerusalem, thereby establishing the city as the center for the sacrificial ordinances of the Levitical priesthood. Even so, the entire program of worship, from the tabernacle to the temple, was directed by divine revelation.

Tabernacle worship was structured according to the divine blueprint. The Israelites were instructed: "Let them make me a sanctuary; that I may dwell among them. According to all that I shew thee, after the pattern of all the instruments thereof, even so shall ye make it." Descriptions of the tabernacle furnishings reiterated that all things had to be made according to the God-given pattern (Ex. 25:8-9; cf. 25:40; 27:8; Num. 8:4; Acts 7:44; Heb. 8:5). Please take time to read these texts and note the "pattern".

Later, David provided Solomon with the plan for constructing the temple: "David gave to Solomon his son the pattern of the porch, and of the houses thereof and the pattern of all that he had by the spirit also for the courses of the priests and the Levites. All this, said David, the Lord made me understand in writing by his hand upon me, even all the works of this pattern" (1 Chron. 28:11-13, 19).

have we followed god's pattern of worship or have we offered god strange fire in our worship?

Solomon built the temple according to the heavenly blueprints left by David, and Jerusalem remained the seat of public worship for the entire kingdom of Israel.

After the death of Solomon, the kingdom became divided and the people slid into corruption and apostasy. The northern tribes swiftly embraced false worship, and never recovered from their apostasy. Within the kingdom of Judah, there were several seasons of reformation, amidst other waves of idolatry. The key to understanding the history of the Israelites is to note the critical connection between the worship of the people, and God's dealings with them in relation to their worship.

THE APOSTASY OF THE NORTHERN KINGDOM...AN EXAMPLE THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH SHOULD LEARN FROM

When the northern tribes seceded, Jeroboam took a pragmatic approach to worship in the northern kingdom, devising a "local" program of worship suited to his own purposes (1 Kings 12:28-33). Jeroboam's actions were wholly revolutionary. He established a new center for worship, new means for worship, and a new priesthood. It was not so much that Jeroboam encouraged his people to worship other deities, but that he devised new methods which displaced the Biblical means of worship; Jeroboam's offense was akin to Aaron's sin in making the original golden calf.

Answer for yourself: If you have read the earlier articles in this series and on this website can you not see the similarities in what Gentile Christianity has done; not only concerning the appointed times of YHWH such as the Sabbath and the Biblical Festivals (substituting Easter for the Passover, doing away with Unleavened Bread, reinterpreting Shavuot/Pentecost, not observing Rosh HaShannah or Yom Kippur or Tabernacles) but the many replacement doctrines concerning Jesus as well (evidence for this is on our other websites)?

Subsequent kings in the north, such as Ahab, blatantly embraced the worship of Baal. Later, when Jehu ruled the northern kingdom, he exterminated the house of Ahab, and repudiated the Baalism of his predecessors. Yet for all his zeal, Jehu retained the "sins of Jeroboam, which made Israel to sin" (2 Kings 10:29-31).

The reign of Jehu indicates that the guilt of Israel came not merely from idolatry, in the narrow sense of the term: that is, the worship of false deities. Jehu eradicated the worship of other deities and claimed to worship the Lord, but he clung to the unhallowed methods of worship instituted by Jeroboam. Thus, Israel was charged with corrupt worship for attempting to worship the true God, the Lord, with unsanctioned means.

The comparison here between Jeroboam and Jehu again illustrates that Jeroboam's original crime was in establishing alternative forms of worship from those enjoined in the Mosaic law (remember within the Mosaic Law are Laws for "non-Jews"..the Laws Of Noah which the Mosaic Laws built upon). Jeroboam's initial action took Israel to the slippery slope of corrupt worship. From there, the nation frequently degenerated into further idolatry by worshipping false Gods as well.

Therefore, let it be noted that the first step on the path of idolatry is taken when men presume to worship the Lord through means and measures not ordained in the word of God.

Answer for yourself: How much do you know about "idolatry" and just what it is? Is it possible that although we don't bow to fire or stones we yet practice idolatry in our Christian Churches and don't know we do? A sure test is to read the articles on our Laws of Noah Website where we define this according to the Rabbis and their interpretation of it. Hopefully you will take this challenge and then factor in just what we have been taught about this "Jesus" in our Churches and you will the terrible idolatry to which we have innocently fallen and of which we are guilty.

The kings of northern Israel were idolaters; the apostasy of the nation was thorough; and so the Lord destroyed the northern kingdom. A chilling account is provided in 2 Kings 17:4ff., with a summary judgment in verses 20-24 of that same chapter.

The 17th chapter of 2 Kings also explains the origin of the mongrel religion of the Samaritans. After the Assyrians conquered the northern kingdom of Israel, the Assyrian king deported the Israelites; he then used the land of Israel as a relocation center for Babylonians and other displaced persons (2 Kings 17:24-41). These heathen refugees "feared not the Lord: therefore the Lord sent lions among them, which slew some of them" (2 Kings 17:25).

Alarmed by this development, the king of Assyria sent back an Israelite priest to instruct the people how to serve the Lord. The people then professed to worship the Lord God, but they attempted to render service to the Lord by resorting to their customary idolatry, employing their own devices and priesthood. "So they feared the Lord, and made unto themselves of the lowest of them priests of the high places, which sacrificed for them in the houses of the high places. They feared the Lord, and served their own Gods, after the manner of the nations whom they carried away from thence. So these nations feared the Lord, and served their graven images, both their children, and their children's children: as did their fathers, so do they unto this day" (2 Kings 17:32-33, 41).

The technical term for such a religious admixture is syncretism. For centuries it has been the "modus operandi" of Roman Catholicism. Sadly this Samaritan approach to worship is only too prominent among professing Protestants and in the church growth movement among contemporary "evangelicals." The trends in popular culture and the deviant worship of the pluralistic masses are adopted as a way to make worship "relevant" and appealing to modern society.

THE KINGDOM OF JUDAH

After the separation of the northern tribes, the kingdom of Judah often embraced corrupt worship, beginning with the reign of Rehoboam: "Judah did evil in the sight of the Lord, and they provoked him to jealousy with their sins which they had committed, above all that their fathers had done. For they also built them high places, and images, and groves, on every high hill, and under every green tree. And there were also sodomites in the land: and they did according to all the abominations of the nations which the Lord cast out before the children of Israel" (1 Kings 14:22-24).

Today, many Roman Catholics and evangelicals decry the sins of abortion and homosexuality as manifestations of our nation's corruptions (which they are); but these contemporary moralists are generally silent about the heinous sin of corrupt worship.

When Asa became king in Judah, he instituted reform. In the scriptural account of his reign, he is commended for removing corrupt worship. "Asa did that which was good and right in the eyes of the Lord his God: for he took away the altars of the strange Gods, and the high places, and brake down the images, and cut down the groves: and commanded Judah to seek the Lord God of their fathers, and to do the law and the commandment. Also he took away out of all the cities of Judah the high places and the images: and the kingdom was quiet before him" (2 Chron. 15:2-5; cf. 1 Kings 15:12-19).

Read the above passage in "red" again and THINK!

have we followed god's pattern of worship or have we offered god strange fire in our worship?

Among the later kings there were both good and evil rulers. What is striking about the biblical narratives is that kings are consistently measured by their approach to worship. Those rulers who made an effort to restore Biblical worship are commended; those kings who resorted to idolatry (or tolerated corrupt worship) are criticized.

During the reign of Godly King Jehoshaphat, the people manifested an attachment to corrupt worship, in spite of efforts by the king to reform the land. "The people had not prepared their hearts unto the God of their fathers." Many resorted to sites of corrupt worship, "for the people offered and burnt incense in the high places," and these high places were not taken away (2 Chron. 20:33; 1 Kings 22:43; 2 Chron. 20:33).

Corrupt worship reveals a serious problem of the heart. In conducting unsanctioned worship, the people showed that their hearts were not right with God, regardless of what their professed motives might have been.

In subsequent generations, the kingdom of Judah degenerated into further idolatry and Baal worship. "They left the house of the Lord of their fathers, and served groves and idols: and wrath came upon Judah and Jerusalem for this their trespass" (2 Chron. 24:18).

Answer for yourself: Could anything be clearer? The Lord detests corrupt worship and He punishes this sin.

Hezekiah was a good king, and he issued a call for national repentance; he also established a program of reform (2 Kings 18:5-6; 2 Chron. 30).

The Passover was restored. Moreover, the people "arose and took away the altars that were in Jerusalem, and all the altars for incense took they away, and cast them into the brook Kidron all Israel that were present went out to the cities of Judah, and brake the images in pieces, and cut down the groves, and threw down the high places and the altars out of all Judah and Benjamin, in Ephraim also and Manasseh, until they had utterly destroyed them all" (2 Chron. 30:14; 31:1).

Under Hezekiah's leadership, we see two aspects of reform united:

- the positive work of restoring the Biblical "Pattern of Worship",
- and the negative work of removing the elements of unscriptural worship.

Both aspects are essential components of thorough reform.

As a negative facet of reform, Hezekiah "brake the images, and cut down the groves, and brake in pieces the brazen serpent that Moses had made: for unto those days the children of Israel did burn incense to it: and he called it Nehushtan [ a piece of brass]" (2 Chron. 18:4).

The destruction of the brazen serpent is an extremely important event, for it demonstrates the far-reaching scope of genuine reform. The brazen serpent was originally made at the command of God. It had not, however, been designated as an implement for use in the ordinary worship of the Lord. Therefore, because the brazen serpent had been superstitiously abused, it was necessary to destroy it.

Contemporary readers may find it difficult to comprehend this deed. It is easier to discern why Hezekiah led the people to destroy the high places, images, and groves dedicated to unsanctioned worship. But, truly, the brazen serpent was a hallowed symbol of God's former deliverance of the Israelites.

Answer for yourself: Why destroy it?

have we followed god's pattern of worship or have we offered god strange fire in our worship?

Answer for yourself: Why not simply caution the people against the abuse of a traditional symbol?

Hezekiah was wiser than both Papists and our modern evangelical churchmen, who would, no doubt, follow a more "moderate" course. The king realized that the serpent had become a snare; it fostered superstition. And Hezekiah knew that this superstition this corruption of worship was sufficient to provoke the wrath of God. Far better to dispense with a sacred relic, than leave it as a temptation for present and future generations.

As noted, the brazen serpent was included in no part of the ordinary worship of God. By comparison, the Passover was an integral part of the stated worship of God; therefore the Passover was renewed and restored. But since the serpent had no sanctioned role in the stated worship of God, it was better to remove it altogether.

After Hezekiah's rule the nation again drifted into apostasy. The last reforming king was Josiah. He purged "Judah and Jerusalem from the high places, and the groves, and the carved images, and the molten images. And they brake down the altars of Baalim in his presence; and the images, that were on high above them, he cut down; and the groves, and the carved images, and the molten images, he brake in pieces, and made dust of them, and strewed it upon the graves of them that had sacrificed unto them. And he burnt the bones of the priests upon their altars, and cleansed Judah and Jerusalem. And so did he in the cities of Manasseh, and Ephraim, and Simeon, even unto Naphtali, with their mattocks round about. And when he had broken down the altars and the groves, and had beaten the graven images into powder, and cut down all the idols throughout all the land of Israel, he returned to Jerusalem" (2 Chron. 34:3-7; cf. 2 Kings 23:4-14, 24).

In addition to purging the kingdom of corrupt worship, the young king directed repairs of the house of the Lord (2 Chron. 34-35; 2 Kings 22). After Josiah's death, the kingdom of Judah passed again into apostasy. The nation then fell to the Babylonians, and the Jewish people were carried away into exile.

Eventually, the Jews were permitted to return to their homeland and commence rebuilding the temple in Jerusalem. They were careful to restore the temple and its services according to the scriptural pattern (Ezra 3:10). When the construction was complete, "they set the priests in their divisions, and the Levites in their courses, for the service of God, which is at Jerusalem; as it is written in the book of Moses" (Ezra 6:18). Moreover, the Passover was restored (Ezra 3:10; 6:18, 20-22).

WHAT DOES ALL THIS MEAN TO THE CHRISTIAN?

With this in mind we are forced to confront the worship of God in the contemporary churches today which have substituted profane days of worship for the Holy Days of the Bible and the Lord's Sabbaths. To replace the "Pattern of Worship" in the Bible, given to both Jews and Gentiles with one of man's making birthed out of Roman Antisemitism, is an abomination that has gone unnoticed by most well meaning Christians for much too long. There is hardly any way you will every know of this or see this tragic loss of "true worship" unless you study and study hard. I am one who is called to do this to help others see the darkness that has overtaken them. There are many reasons for such neglect and oversight, and it is not our intent to discuss the various factors that contributed to the loss of such Biblical truth in this article. But as I end this article, I behoove you to "consider your ways" and listen to what Bet Emet Ministries, as well as other ministries today are saying about the false worship that is accepted as "righteousness" Sunday after Sunday in our churches. We need a new Josiah to have the courage to stand up and address the problem of corrupt worship as it exists in Christianity today. Bet Emet is one such voice among many today. We plead with those who read this article to request our free publications on such issues, for if you read them, you will come to understand what you now do not perceive. Your only sin is the sin of ignorance, for you have not had, for the most part, adequate religious teachers who were well versed in such issues. Thus, the blind follow the blind and both fall into the ditch! We at Bet Emet Ministries beg you to not let this be your legacy.

have we followed god's pattern of worship or have we offered god strange fire in our worship?

In the articles that follow we will present evidence from both the Jewish Old Testament and the New Testament which proves beyond any doubt that there did exist not only a "Pattern of Worship" as observed by both the Jew and non-Jew but both observed and adhered to this pattern well before and after the time given for Jesus' crucifixion which indicates that nothing was changed by Jesus' death. One has to look to the official adoption of the Jesus Movement by the state of Rome in which "Christianity" became the state religion of Rome to see the organized changes made to this "Pattern of Worship". Today few if any know that ever happened and that we have departed from the "Pattern of Worship" given by God in His Holy Texts.

ISRAEL'S OBLIGATION TO THE GENTILES: BEING GOD'S LIGHT TO THE NATIONS & SHARING "THE PATTERN OF WORSHIP"

The Jewish people have the obligation to be Ohr leGoyim (a Light unto the Nations). Israel as a nation is required to teach the non-Jews the Seven Laws of Noah, which are seven Universal categories of Law/Ethics based upon a belief in God.

Yet we as non-Jews are not without obligations to Israel ourselves. B'nei Noach has the obligation to encourage the Jews to perform this mitzvah along with the 613 mitzvot they are obligated to observe since their acceptance of the Torah at haSinai (Mount Sinai). But once you are educated and recover the truth concerning Acts 15 and the Covenant of Noah along with it's Covenant Stipulations called "Laws" then as an educated Gentile Christians or follower of Jesus then you have an even bigger responsibility before God. Study of these Covenant Laws detail often commandments and laws regarding your worship of God. Not knowing these we often fall into false worship and vain worship of God not knowing. Israel, as God's Priest and Holy Nation, was commissioned at Sinai to be a light to all non-Jewish nations whereby we might be instructed in the "Pattern of Worship" of God which He commanded himself.

As an "INFORMED BELIEVER" then you now also have the obligation of interfering with and stopping the missionary efforts of the "messianic" Jews and their fellow Christians which try to infect the Jewish people with their paganized form of Biblical faith which not only opposes "the Pattern of Worship" but debases it by replacing it with various forms of idolatry which is passed off as "worship" today to the unsuspecting and unknowing Gentiles. Apostasy into a man-made gentile religion is forbidden to the Jew - the Jew has an Eternal and Everlasting Relationship with God and within this Covenant is a place for the non-Jew worshiping along side the Jew according to "the Pattern" he examples to the wide world.

B'nei Yisrael (the Children of Israel [the Jewish people] have the Covenant of Faith (the Abrahamic Covenant of Circumcision - bris milah) and the Covenant of Moses (the Wedding Ceremony under the chuppah at Mount Sinai and the acceptance of the wedding ketubah, [contract]) - the Torah of God.

Yisrael has a special relationship with God, and a special responsibility.

Exod 19:6 6 And ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests, and an holy nation. These are the words which thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel. (KJV)

B'nei Yisrael [the Sons of Israel] are the Priests of Humanity unto God, and the non-Jews are the Laymen of Humanity unto God. Being the Chosen of God includes a greater responsibility - and for the Jew it is the way of life ordained by God. Choseness implies responsibility, and the Jew has the responsibility to be Jewish - to accept and observe the entire of the Torah - the 248 positive commandments and the 365 negative prohibitions, taught in both the Written and Oral Law.

A WORD OF WARNING.....THIS IS NOT A GAME

On that note let me say that conversion to Judaism is a serious matter because violation of the Laws of God is sin. The misplaced desire and zealotry for God does not need to be channeled into conversion to Judaism by the non-Jew where he stands before his personal Sinai before God and say as the Israel of old "I will do all that you say." I understand the desire and love for God that makes one yearn for God in such a way but failure to observe these other Commandments and mitzvot that are now required by God of the non-Jewish convert renders him now a greater sinner than before and that is not the goal of our love and desire of God. God understood this desire in the heart of the non-Jew once he learns the truth about the God of Israel and allows the non-Jew to approach Him in ways that go well beyond the Covenant of Noah (like keeping the Sabbath, observing the Festivals, putting up a mezuzah, keeping kosher, tithing correctly, etc.) As non-Jews we are allowed and encouraged by God to take upon ourselves more mitzvot and Commandments of God into our lives and incorporate them into our lives as Godfearers and Ger Toshavs. The principle can be found all through the Jewish Scriptures as well as Isa. 56. I suggest that the proper response short of conversion of the "informed believer" and educated Christian is to adopt Isa. 56 as a life-style as one's studies show him other ways whereby he might please God by going beyond the minimum.

Unlike the other religions of the world, Judaism does not believe that everyone must become "Jewish"; it neither solicits converts, nor does it suggest that everyone must follow our ways in order to approach God. Quite to the contrary! Maimonides in the laws of Kings (8:10) says: Moshe Rabbeinu (Rabbi Moses) did not give the Torah and the Commandments to anyone but Israel, as the verse says, "The Inheritance of the Congregation of Jacob." [It was also given] to anyone from the other nations who desires to convert... but we do not force anyone who does not want [to accept them] to accept the Torah and the Commandments. But even so, the Jewish religious nation is to be "a light unto the Nations" and in their siddur (prayer book) pray that the day will soon come when "all humanity will call upon Your Name... they will all accept upon themselves the yoke of your Kingship...." Has God nothing to say to gentiles?

Answer for yourself: How is a non-Jew to come close to God, to do His will? The answer is that God gave seven laws (or more accurately, seven categories of legal obligations) which are incumbent upon all humanity and are the core and center of the Covenant of Noah given to all mankind long before there was "Jews"; and they include 7 categories of Commandments with subsets under each...the following are the 7 categories:

- 1) Not to eat a limb or meat that was severed from a live animal
- 2) Not to curse the name of God
- 3) Not to steal or rob
- 4) Not to worship idols
- 5) Not to commit adultery or have other forbidden sexual relationships
- 6) Not to murder a fellow man
- 7) To establish courts of justice, to pronounce and mete out decisions for all mankind, and to ensure observance of the previous laws.

And with this, concludes Maimonides (8:11):

Anyone who accepts these seven commandments, and is careful to do them, this person is one of the 'Pious of the Nations of the World' and has a share in the World to Come. This is provided that s/he accepts them and performs them because they are God's command, part of His Torah, which the Rabbi Moses informed the Jewish people because they were commanded previously to the sons of Noah.

THE PROBLEM OF JUDAIZING...BUT IS IT REALLY A PROBLEM...OR THE EXAMPLE?

Whenever people have attempted to restore the Jewish or Hebraic root of their faith, the cry of Judaizing is heard. The non-Jewish believers who have a heart felt and sincere call to return to the Jewishness of Yeshua [Jesus] should not be intimidated by Gentile Christians or traditional Jews who reject the notion that such a return is impossible. The authority for such a return to Hebrew centered faith is found in both the Tanakh and the New Testament documents. Gentiles who have come to believe in the God of Israel through faith through the ministry of Yeshua's disciples have been, by God, grafted into Israel, made partakers of the commonwealth of Israel, made heirs to the promises of the covenants, and sharers in the rich heritage and tradition of the Jewish people. Believers should be free to identify with Yeshua and celebrate their Olive Tree connection!

JUDAIZING THE BIBLICAL TEXT

The Biblical text has little to say about Judaizing. The only reference in the Tanakh [Old Testament] is found in Esther 8:17. Here the Hebrew verb, yahad is used of those Gentiles in Persia who adopted the Jewish way of life out of fear of Esther's decree which allowed the Jews to avenge themselves on their enemies (Esther 8:13). The Septuagint (Hebrew translation of the Old Testament into Greek) uses the Greek word Ioudaizo and adds to the verse that the Gentiles were circumcised and actually converted to Judaism. In the New Testament Ioudaizo is usually translated to live as the Jews and actually occurs only in Galatians 2:14. Here Sha'ul [Paul] opposed Judaizing only when it had the potential of distorting the Biblical and Hebraic view of salvation by God's grace (Galatians 2:21). Although the ritual and ceremonial aspects of Torah are not binding on Gentile believers for salvation, it is questionable that Gentiles can ever understand their faith and calling without the observation of them.

THE JEWISH HERITAGE OF THE GENTILE CHURCH

It is one thing for a Gentile to feel he is bound by halachah (to obey the commandments of the Bible concerning Festivals and Sabbath and other rituals, ceremonies and customs of the Jewish people because he is already "saved"), and another thing, for one to feel compelled as a necessary part of one's Christian experience, to observe Sabbath, eat kosher foods and participate in the Biblical Festivals in order "to be saved." However, the Jewish Messianic Community in Acts 15 NEVER imposed these Jewish practices on Gentiles as an obligation "FOR" Gentile salvation, but be not mistaken dear reader, the obligations to keep the festivals, customs, ordinances, holy days, and Sabbaths were definitely imposed by James, the Lord's brother and head-Pastor of Jesus' church as 'necessary' for Gentiles since they are becoming "saved." It is here we encounter James teaching us that adherence to the Laws of Noah (Noah Covenant with all Gentile mankind) is yet binding upon the Gentile who turns from idols to the God of Israel. James knew what few Christians seem to know today; namely that if you are grafted into Israel then you will look like Israel. The Isa. 56 passages teaches us that non-Jews can go beyond the minimum and choose those things that please God and choose His Sabbaths. In this statement we see the binding together of the two olive branches: one Jewish and one Gentile. But not mistaken that the Jews are supposed to keep Gentile pagan holy days and holiday. The opposite is the case; after coming to the God of Israel the non-Jews were to be one with the Jewish people and observe with them God's appointed times and holy days as this pleases the Lord. Besides that the Old Testament can shown on many occasions the non-Jews who came to the knowledge of God keeping the sabbaths and holy days and festivals of YHWH. Before we can continue, we must have a thorough understanding of the Laws of Noah as they pertain to the Gentile believer in Yeshua today in the Christian church.

THE SEVEN LAWS (MITZVOT) OF THE SONS OF NOAH

It is quite clear from the Bible that God has ordained a separate and unique covenant with all mankind as He has made a special and unique covenant with the Jewish people. The covenant that God has made with all Gentile nations is not to be found in the perverted misinterpretations of a Gentile Church which has rejected the teachings of the original church of Yeshua (a totally Jewish institution for it's first seventeen years and which continued in Jewish faith until 325 C.E.). It is this "Jewish church" which was built upon the foundation of the Apostles and Prophets which has become tragically today a church built upon Roman Catholicism, Reformation theology, and upon the Charismatic Gentile misinterpretations of Hebraic Scriptures. Such fallacy that believes that a "New" covenant was given to replace an "Old" covenant is a total perversion of Yeshua's own words as recorded for us in Matt. 5:17ff: "Think not that I am come to destroy the Law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill." Remember, this is in the "red" of your Bibles. "New," as understood in "New Covenant," refers to a "RE-NEWED" prior covenant, not to a replacement of a prior covenant or a substitute for a previous covenant. To interpret any differently is a perversion of the Biblical text and creates new religion, and Jesus warns us that he has not come to destroy the Torah (Law), also known as the Old Covenant. These are such unfortunate terms that were chosen to express such a wonderful concept from God, but we have totally misunderstood the dynamics involved in the ministry of Yeshua.

What so many Gentiles fail to understand is that God's covenant with mankind started with Adam (himself a Gentile and not a Jew) in the Garden of Eden. According to Jewish tradition and Oral Law (called "Mishnah" and dating back prior to Moses), God had given to Adam, and later to Noah after the flood, certain basic laws of universal morality which were to be observed by all of Adam's (and later, Noah's) descendants.

These universal laws came to be known as the laws of the Benei Noah (i.e. children of Noah, since after the flood we are all Noah's children). Jews have, for the most part, never sought to covert Gentiles to Judaism, for there were never was a need to. Gentiles have their own covenant and path to God by faith in God and resultant obedience and observance of the commandments that God gave them. This was and still is the message of Yeshua in our Bibles. We should re-read our own Bibles and look for the "verbs" in Yeshua's discourses, and listen to what he tells and commands to be done, and quit listening to our 1500 different denominations tell us to do anything that is opposite to or in violation to what Yeshua says in the New Testament Scriptures.

This knowledge is nothing new. Even the original Christians knew this! It is we, the contemporary church of today, who have forgotten what the original Church of Jesus both believed and practiced for salvation. When I say "original" church I mean those Jews and Gentiles of the first two-three centuries, who came to faith in Yeshua (Jesus) as the Messiah of Second Temple Judaism and adopted and adhered to his message. The church of Yeshua (Jesus), as it exists today, as well as during it's long history, has, for the most part, rejected anything Jewish in nature. Thus, little study was done in Hebrew or very little effort expended to understand the Scriptures from a Hebraic perspective, both Old Testament and New Testament. We have forgotten that Yeshua (Jesus) is a Jew and he spoke Hebrew and taught from a Jewish perspective. The fact that Jesus is a Jew seemed to have little bearing on his message to us today. How unfortunate for the church today because they have failed "to let Yeshua's mind be in them..which is a Jewish mind". This has been for well over 1700 years a tragic mistake, for which we still suffer the consequences today by observing a replacement faith and religion which has little in common with the faith of Jesus. We follow Paul and his "unique" Gospel more than the true Gospel as taught by Jesus.

Answer for yourself: What does this mean to us? Simply that we have two different Salvation Messages and ways to inherit Eternal Life that conflict and contradict each other: one by Jesus and one by Paul? Which is correct? Well you have to study to find that out and our websites help you see through the deception to the glorious truth that Jesus models for us in this depiction in the New Testament.

JAMES-THE LEADER OF THE MESSIANIC COMMUNITY - JESUS' CHURCH WHICH HE WAS TO BUILD

James, the leader of the Yeshua Messianic Movement within Judaism at that time was asked regarding Gentiles who were listening to their "gospel", if these Gentiles who were accepting the message of Yeshua and his invitation had to convert to Judaism in order to be accepted as grafted into Israel. James rightly said to them (Acts 15) that all these Gentiles had to do was certain "essentials", and he proceeds to list a basic form of the laws of Benei Noach. Please notice also that James also says these "necessary things" also seemed good to the Holy Spirit as well (Acts 15:28)!

Answer for yourself: Did you catch that? The Laws of Noah seemed good to the head of the Messianic church as well as to the Holy Spirit as the answer as to how Gentiles were to become a part of believing Israel! Thus they were grafted into Israel and Paul would refer to this very thing later in the New Testament Scriptures.

An important fact we must understand is that "Christianity" at that time, while a "Messianic sect" within Judaism, and not apart from it, had not yet turned idolatrous as it has today. The Yeshua Messianic Movement, as it evolved and changed over the centuries under Gentile influence, began to claim that "it only" was the "true Israel". This new message ("another gospel" as was warned by Paul and as preached today), found its strength in Roman Catholicism and in the Reformation Protestant church. Such damnable doctrines surfaced as we confront today such as that pernicious error which teaches that the "church" is the "New Israel", and as "the church" has replaced natural Israel in the plan of God. This is blasphemous!

The message of such churches is the "inclusion of the Gentiles" into a "new" covenant with God, as if they did not possess one already. In ignorance, the Gentile Christian church has for centuries wanted to avoid any knowledge of the "Benei Noah" (sons of Noah) covenant that God has had with the Gentiles for thousands of years, even before there was a Jewish people. Such an ancient covenant would abrogate the Christian position of having to reach out to the Gentiles, claiming they (the Gentile) had no other avenue to God or relationship with God outside of the New Testament.

Dear Christian, God's Word is God's Word, regardless of Christian misinterpretations. The Word of God must be our authority, whether Jew or Gentile. This Word of God is the Bible that Jesus used; the Hebrew Scriptures and not the book created by pagan Rome some 400 years later called the New Testament! As Christians, we have failed to adhere to this cardinal principle when it comes to interpretation of our Bibles, and unfortunately let our Church's denomination and its doctrine stand above the Bible that Jesus used as our authority. As Christians we seldom read or thoroughly understand and know the Hebrew Scriptures. Shame on us! We must learn to study to find out the truth about the words of our Bibles; the Bible that Yeshua/Jesus read and loved...the Jewish Bible!

The Christian Church, to this day, holds itself to be the "replacement" for the Jewish people and therefore, the definer of right and wrong for the Gentile (and the Jew). The last time I read Matt. 23 I believe that Jesus says that the Pharisees (of whom he is one) are to sit in Moses's seat and not Gentiles. In the Greek the word "set" refers to "inherit a kingdom" and ironically Yeshua had just pronounced that the "kingdom" and rulership for God over the people of Israel had been taken from the pro-Roman Sadducees of his day and given to the Pharisees who would be the only group to survive the destruction of the Temple in 70 C.E. Though this "replacement" nonsense is clearly exposed in the Bible for the falsehood that it is, many sincere Gentile believers are still deceived into believing it. It is to these sincere Gentiles first that we at Bet Emet, as well as other similar ministries, as well as the Jewish community, have an obligation by Torah (law, instruction, teaching of God) Law to educate them in what God truly (and not falsely) said and demands of them.

THE LAWS OF NOAH...NECESSARY FOR THE GENTILE BELIEVER IN GOD

The laws of the Benei Noah (sons of Noah), although originating with Adam, are conveniently recorded in the Talmud (Jewish commentary) and expounded upon in Maimonides's Mishneh Torah, the great codification of Jewish Law written in the 12th century. This is required learning for every Jew and needs to be for every Christian as well (those laws pertaining to him and his covenant with God). For as it is known, the children of Israel (Benei Yisrael) have the obligation to be a "nation of priests", this means to be teachers and educators. The children of Noah, Benei Noah (i.e. all Gentiles) have the obligation to learn these laws and practice them. Only in this way does a Gentile draw close to God and fulfill his/her spiritual purpose here in this world. Faith in God with incorrect responses and obedience to God's commandments does not please God!

Answer for yourself: What level of spirituality can be achieved by the righteous children of Noah? To begin with, they are the ones who are called the "righteous Gentile." Of them, the prophet Elijah has said (Tana D'evi Eliyahu, Rabbah 9), "Heaven and Earth will bare witness to me, be it a man or woman, Jew of Gentile...all can receive the Holy Spirit. It all depends upon one's actions." For further elucidation on these commandments I recommend The path of the Righteous Gentile by Rabbi Haim Clorfene published by Targum Press (Feldheim) and The Seven Laws of Noah by Aaron Lichtenstein, published by Berman Books.

MAIMONIDES....MISHNEH TORAH

Maimonides, in his epic work Mishneh Torah, in the Laws of Kings 9:1, teaches us concerning the Laws of Noah:

"Six precepts were commanded to Adam":

- 1. The prohibition against worship of false gods.
- 2. The prohibition against cursing God
- 3. The prohibition against murder
- 4. The prohibition against forbidden sexual relations.
- 5. The prohibition against theft
- 6. The command to establish laws and courts of justice.

"To Noah God added":

- 7. The prohibition against eating the flesh from a living animal.

"Thus, there are seven Mitzvot" (commandments).

Again quoting from the Law of Kings 8:10 he states: "Our teacher Moshe (Moses) was commanded by God to compel all the peoples of the earth to accept upon themselves the laws given to the descendants of Noah."

Again quoting: "This obligation, to teach all the peoples of the earth about the Laws of Noah, is incumbent upon every individual in every era. The Jews must serve as 'a light to the nations' (Isa. 42:6) teaching them (the Gentiles) the Seven Mitzvot (laws) and instructing them in proper behavior...Similarly, the Chatam Sofer (Choshen Mishpat, Responsum 85) writes that it is a mitzvah (commandment) to guide the Gentiles in the service of God."

For whatever reason, teaching Gentiles the universal laws of the children of Noah has not been practiced in earnest since the days of the Second Temple. During the long exile of the Jewish people among the Christians and the Moslems, who both falsely claim to be the legitimate heir to the title "the chosen people of God", the Jews experienced extreme persecution from both Christians and Jews for observing the truth of their own Torah. Even more so would the Jews have suffered persecution if the Jews had hounded the Gentiles and shared with them the truth of the Torah which was, in reality, the responsibility of the Jew. Now that HaShem (God), in His mercy has returned the Jewish people to their homeland, we again find the Jewish people have the strength to take on the Gentiles and compel them to give up their idol worship religions and purge Christianity of its paganism. This might not sound like the most liberal of "live and let live" philosophies. But nowhere does Torah teach us to "live and let live". The Jewish people, as well as Gentile "God-fearers" (Acts 10) who have come to the truth concerning the faith once given to the saints, have an obligation to "shine the light" of HaShem's (God's) truth on error and deception. If this means we have to expose the falsehoods of the world's religions, then we are obligated to do so. At no time more so than in this generation are there so many Gentiles who have left their former religions and are seeking the real truth. Where will they turn? We, both Jews and Gentile "God-fearers" who have come to the faith of Yeshua (Jesus), instead of a faith-in Jesus, have been given this opportunity in our day and time to fulfill our obligation as teachers and "priests", to teach other Gentiles the experiential truth of the one and only God! This we do in preparation of the coming of Mashiah (Messiah). One of the groups leading this great effort are the world-wide sh'li'him (disciples) of Lubavitch. I support and applaud their endeavors.

Isaiah 42:6 calls God's people to be a light to the nations (Gentiles). Today, the Gentiles are embedded in deceit and false teachings in the majority of the Christian churches of our land. We, who understand and practice the faith of Yeshua (Jesus), both Jews and "God-fearers", must be a light to the nations of the world and the Christian church. This applies particularly to the present age, where there is far greater communication between Jews and Gentiles than every before. Many Jews and Rabbis are taking advantage of this phenomenon. We, as repentant, teachable, and enlightened Christians and followers of Jesus, must observe our obligation and engage other Gentiles, in heated debate if necessary. Halachah (proper interpretation of the Torah-the teaching of God) demands that we go on the offensive and compel the Gentiles to abandon their idolatry. This is not an option; this is Halachah! Rather than be influenced by these paganized Gentiles that comprise the majority of contemporary Christian churches of today, we must utilize our freedom of communication to convince the Gentiles to accept their Seven Mitzvot (categories of commandments).

LET US LOOK AT THESE SEVEN MITZVOT

"The Seven Mitzvot are by no means a narrow field of study. Rabbi Meiri (Sanhedrin 59A) states that most elements of the Torah are included within them (Are you not surprised?). For example, in order to observe the prohibition against the worship of false gods correctly, one must become aware of God's unity. Accordingly, a number of contemporary Sages have suggested the translation of certain basic Chassidic and Kabbalistic texts into English with the intent that they be studied by Gentiles."

My own experience has taught me that when Christians are exposed to the true meanings of the words of our Bibles, as understood in their original language, original culture, and with a correct historical understanding, many quickly abandon their false beliefs and began to repent and "do" what the Bible really says and commands. It is a shame so few Christians study the Bible in the original languages today; the fruit of which is error, deception, false doctrine, idolatry, and the practice of robbery of God's people within the Churches that bear God's name no less!

SEFER MITZVAH HA-SHEM: (BOOK OF THE COMMANDMENTS OF GOD):

It is forbidden for a Jew to cause a Gentile to violate one of the seven commandments of the children of Noah, because it is written, "You shall not place a stumbling block before the blind" (Lev. 19:14) therefore it is appropriate for all Israel to be aware of them. This is good advice to the Christian Church as well. Therefore I am writing down the seven laws of the children of Noah. All of them are to be found in Sanhedrin 56, and in the Mishneh Torah, Laws of Kings, chapters 9-10. This is but a short introduction into the Laws of God for the "non-Jew". We have devoted a whole website for a more through study of these very important Covenant Stipulation for the "non-Jew" in his relationship with God...the Covenant of Noah website.

Law #1:

The Gentile is warned not to practice idolatry. Maimonides clearly writes in the Laws of Idolatry, Chapter 9, Halachah 4 that Trinitarian Christianity is idolatry. This means that the Jews, as well as Monotheistic Christians (of whom there are too few!) have the obligation to go on the offense and (lovingly, if possible) guide the Christian population to recognize their hollow inheritance, the actual inception of this Gentile-Pagan idea into a Jewish faith, and the truths about the Council of Nicea where this idea gained acceptance in 325 C.E. in protests of the majority of "Christianity" at that time. It is time to come back to God in truth. In my personal opinion, I believe that most Christians have "their hearts in the right place," it is their heads that have been "tossed to and fro" by such false doctrines. We must not place a stumbling block before the blind and allow this to continue. We are commanded by Halachah to stand against such false teachings and reveal the truth to all nations.

Law #2:

The Gentile is warned not to curse God. If this is violated, one is guilty. This is true whether one cursed God using His Name or one of the terms used to refer to Him. According to the Holy Zohar (III, 273A), "HaShem (God), Torah, and Israel are one." In my opinion, the one who cursed the Torah, either the Oral Torah (Oral Law) or the Written Torah (Written Law) violates this commandment. Many a Gentile, violates this commandment, and is not even aware of his sin. While alleging love for God, the majority of Gentiles in the Christian churches of today express great contempt towards the Talmud and Judaism. We fail to realize that the Talmud is the embodiment of the Oral Torah (Oral Law), given at Mt. Sinai and often spoken of by Jesus in the New Testament. Being that HaShem (God) and His Torah are one, therefore the Gentile who curses or otherwise maligns the Talmud and the Jewish religion is guilty of violating this commandment, the same as if he was cursing God. But even more damaging, if possible, is the sin and guilt incurred by the Gentile Christian who believes and espouses that the New Testament has replaced the Old Testament (Torah). Never was such a more damnable doctrine devised than the one which denigrates the Old Testament, and teaches that the New Testament has replaced the Old Testament. Along with this evil Replacement Theology, as held by the majority of the Christian churches today, is the added guilt that we have violated the law of Noah in this regard, for God and Torah are one. How can we replace God with such a substitute? Therefore, the Christians who believes and espouses or maligns the Old Testament (the Bible Jesus used) is guilty, the same as if he was cursing God.

Law #3:

The Gentile is warned not to commit murder. If a Gentile kills another, even a fetus in its mother's womb, he is subject to capital punishment as far as God is concerned. Abortion is defined as murder by universal law. Therefore those who perform abortions have the legal definition as murderers.

Even more startling, the rabbis teach that if you misuse the tithe, or fail to tithe, or incorrectly tithe, you are not only guilty of stealing from God and His people, but such sin is considered murder as well as it leads to the demise of God's people. Understand that as a traditional Christian you are guilty of murder before God because you have never been taught the tithe correctly and have never given your tithes according to the way the Hebrew Scriptures command it be done. Your Pastor has made you an accessory to murder according to traditional Jewish exegesis of these verses. Remember Jesus is a Jew and believed like other Jews. This is truly alarming when this understanding hits home in your heart and head. Are you your brother's keeper? God considers that you and I are!

Capital punishment for murder is a commandment of God. God may have ordained this as a deterrent or for some other reason. One thing however is clear, we cannot second guess God's Divine morality. Our courts today may not follow God's commandments in this area, and we my interpret their leniency and grace as God's will, but to do so violates God's Word. We have been lulled asleep for the most part as Christians today because of the lack of study of God's word, and we lean upon our own understanding in these areas. There is a way that seems right with man, but the end-result is not of God.

Law #4:

The Gentile is warned not to partake in forbidden sexual unions. These are forbidden relations that a Gentile is warned not to violate: one is forbidden to have a sexual affair with one's mother, the wife of one's father, a married woman, the sister of his mother, and a member of the same sex (homosexuality) and an animal. Specifically this means a man with another man. Homosexuality is thus considered a crime against the universal laws of nature. On an interesting note, lesbianism is not clearly pointed out in this regard. Even in Jewish Law, whereas lesbianism is absolutely forbidden, its penalty is less than that for homosexuality.

One would be guilty of this sin in relationships with one's mother even if she was raped by his father, or if his father had relations with her only once. Regardless, she is his mother. Regarding the wife of one's father, one is guilty even after the death of one's father. Regarding a married woman, one is not guilty until one has relations with her in the natural manner after she has been intimate with her husband. However, a woman who is engaged or who has performed a marriage ceremony but who has not yet been intimate with her husband, one is not guilty over, for it is written, "and she has been intimate with her husband." (Ber. 20:3). All this refers specifically to a male Gentile and a female Gentile.

If however a male Gentile has sexual relations with a female Jew, whether in the natural way or in an unnatural way, he is guilty. If the female Jewess was engaged, the Gentile (who has relations with her) is stoned to death as would be a Jew. If the Gentile was to have sexual relations with a Jewess after her wedding ceremony, but prior to her being intimate with her husband, he is executed by hanging as would be a Jew. If the Gentile has relations with any other Jewess who is not a virgin, the penalty is death by decapitation, as it would be if the Gentile violates a married Gentile woman. The Gentile who has relations with a member of the same sex or with an animal is guilty regardless if the act was performed with an adult or child.

Law #5:

The Gentile is warned not to commit theft. There is no difference between stealing from a Gentile or stealing from a Jew. One who cheats or steals money, kidnaps someone (steals a life), does not pay due wages, or fails to pay due wages promptly, etc....even a worker who takes a lunch break when he should be working; all of these are guilty of violating this law of Noah. All of these are to be included in the definition of a thief. One is guilty of even the slightest monetary amount. If a Gentile steals something of the least monetary value, and another Gentile comes along and steals that from him, they are both liable.

Law #6:

The Gentile is warned not to eat a limb from a living animal, whether it be domesticated or wild. When an animal is slaughtered, even after its wind pipe and jugular vein have been severed, all the while that animal kicks, its flesh and meat which has already been removed for "food" are forbidden to the Gentile as the "limb from a living animal". One is guilty for this whether it be a domesticated or wild animal, clean or unclean.

Law #7:

The children of Noah have been commanded regarding judges. Gentiles are required by God to place judges and magistrates in each and every town so as to make judgments regarding the six commandments listed above. These Gentile courts must warn the people. A Gentile who violates one of these laws is executed by the sword (decapitation). It is for this reason that all the inhabitants of Shechem were subject to the death penalty. Shechem stole Dinah from the House of Jacob. Everyone in town saw and knew what he did, yet no one judged him or held him accountable for his actions.

A Gentile can be executed on the word of one witness, one judge, without warning, and by evidence given by a relative. It is this section of Halachah that justifies Baruch Goldstein taking lives in the Hebron mosque. The Moslem population (Gentiles) of Hebron have continually expressed its hatred of Jews and the inhabitants of the town have committed and have been sympathetic to the committing of acts of violence against Jews. Since that town of Hebron has not established judges to punish the anti-Israeli perpetrators of violence and terrorism, the entire town therefore became collaborators in the guilt of the perpetrators. The entire population therefore become subject to collective punishment. Baurch Goldstein acted as the single witness to this fact. He judged by what he saw, and acted as an executioner and in total compliance to the letter of the Torah. As unpopular as it might be by modern Gentile moral standards that have replaced the Torah with "grace alone", Baruch Goldstein was acting in compliance with the written will of God in the Torah (negatively called today "the letter of the law"). Let us never forget we must have an authority, and such is the Torah; it sits in judgment upon us, we do not sit in judgment upon it by erroneously applying our emotions or our experience upon it! Goldstein executed righteous justice, based upon the Bible, on a guilty population. This is the correct view according to the Torah (Law of Moses) and the universal laws of Benei Noah and the covenant of Noah, no matter what man's courts may decide today which do not follow God's Torah!

THE APOSTLE'S DOCTRINE (THE PATTERN OF WORSHIP) WAS TAUGHT IN THE SYNAGOGUES TO THE GOD-FEARERS & "NON-JEWS"

If you consider yourself a "Christian" today, either a Roman Catholic or a Protestant, then whether you realize it or not you are a member of the Church of Constantine. The Church of Constantine and its Religious Belief System is a far cry from what the Messianic Branch of Judaism taught in the first century. Such a radical departure from "the faith once given the Saints" as expressed by Jude 1:3 is termed today "Replacement Religion". Let us dwell on the following New Testament passage and notice clearly that not only does Jude mention a specific and particular "faith" as designated by the definite article "the" but also mentions very interestingly a "common salvation".

Jude 1:3 3 Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints. (KJV)

We should be struck immediately by the notation of this writer that there exists in his day a "common" salvation which is connected to a particular faith, called "the" FAITH, which was once and for all given to all of mankind.

Answer for yourself: How are we to understand this?

It really is not that hard. We need to understand that within Judaism and the Covenant of Moses are 613 Commandments or Mitzvoth which is the foundation of the Jewish faith. Digging deeper we find as well the basic 66 Commandments or Mitzvoth of the Covenant of Noah upon which the Covenant of Moses built upon. These Laws and Commandments given to Noah were previously given to all of Gentile mankind.

Answer for yourself: What is the implication of all this?

Well get ready for the shock of your life. This means that the very basis of Judaism today is the foundational Covenants first given to the non-Jew. In other words there is a place within Judaism a prior "faith" for the non-Jew without requiring his conversion to Judaism. Now at times Judaism and bigoted Rabbis did not always teach this but at times they did. Rabbi Hillel stands out as one who taught this truth and there were may others in the history of Israel. We are possibly more acquainted with this ancient concept today when we head sermons on being "grafted" into the Israel of God. We understand this simply as "Olive Tree" theology where the two peoples, both Jews and non-Jews, represent the one people of God. What I want to draw your attention to is the fact that within in one Religion, Biblical Judaism, was a collection of Covenants; some for the Jews and some for the Non-Jews as well. And more to the point when one sees this "overlap" of Covenants whereby the 66 Laws of Noah are contained within the 613 Laws of Moses then one should expect that there would be an overlap of Worship within them both as pertaining to ## both the Jew and the Non-Jew.

We see that the Hebrew term for the word "common" in the Greek according to the Strong's Concordance # 2839 is "koinos" (koy-nos'); probably from 4862; common, i.e.; which literally can mean "shared by all".

*Exod 12:49 49 One law shall be to him that is homeborn, and unto the stranger (non-Jew) that sojourneth among you. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: What should that teach us? We should see clearly that whether we were born Gentiles and non-Jews or Jewish by birth then together we as the one people of God share a common salvation and similar Covenants which overlap as consist of many of the same Laws and Commandments; many of which are identically the same, which reflect to each category of people their unique Covenant stipulations and personal requirements before God . Upon study we should see and become aware that the Jewish Covenant, the Covenant of Moses, is clearly based off of the prior Covenant of Noah given to the non-Jew.

Answer for yourself: So why is this of major importance to the Gentile Christian today? Simply because the New Testament records for us that the early Jerusalem Church as founded in Acts 15 lays down the requirement for the non-Jews to be accepted into the Israel of God without prior conversion to Judaism as had been expected up until that time. The importance of the prior sentence cannot be overstated. The non-Jewish believers in God were NOT to practice a different religion from the Jew but share the same one and the same "pattern of worship" as given to the Jew was to be shared by the Non-Jew as well. Understand that within this "common salvation" there were differences but the differences were few and we will look at those during our studies in this website. Two-thirds of the 613 Commandments given to Israel concerned the Priesthood only and within the remaining 200 or so let us not forget that 66 were identically the same as shared by the Non-Jew. Within the remaining 200 or so extra Commandments given Israel we see that 66 overlapped with the Laws of Noah given the non-Jew. There was much agreement between these Covenants first given the non-Jews and later reiterated and enlarged upon when given to the Jewish nation. Likewise there is overlap in the worship commanded by God of both the Non-Jew and the Jew as well.

THE SALVATION OF THE GENTILES...WHAT WERE THEY TAUGHT IN THE FIRST CENTURY AND UP AND UNTIL THE 3RD CENTURY WHEN EVERYTHING CHANGED?

Most Christians are familiar with the account in the New Testament detailing that before Paul's salvation experience on the road to Damascus, he persecuted the early Jewish believers, searching for them in the synagogues (Acts 22:19; 26:11).

*Acts 22:19 19 And I said, Lord, they know that I imprisoned and beat in every synagogue them that believed on thee: (KJV)

*Acts 26:11 11 And I punished them oft in every synagogue, and compelled them to blaspheme; and being exceedingly mad against them, I persecuted them even unto strange cities. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Understanding that Paul was the Apostle to the Gentiles then did you notice where it was that Paul found the Gentiles being taught about "the Christ" and the Jewish Messiah? What does this say to us about what they were being taught? You really need to think on this as it is very important to recovering that "present truth" which we have lost that I referred about in previous articles.

I have always desired to return to that unique time in the first century, sitting at James' feet or the feet of other Apostles, when I could have heard the "present truth" as taught by the Apostles and Disciples of "the Christ". Notice in the passage below the warning that there exists a "present truth" in the days of Peter which alternately means that not always will "this truth" possibly exist.

2 Pet 1:12 12 Wherefore I will not be negligent to put you always in remembrance of these things, though ye know them, and be established in the present truth. (KJV)

Notice if you will that Peter mentioned that there was a "present truth" which he described in the first century which sadly I have discovered, along with other truth seekers, gets diluted, corrupted, and altered down through time due to many influences; none of which are positive. The end result is that what we have inherited today in Western Christianity is anything but the reflection of that "present truth" as it existed in the first century.

It is our task to return to this "present truth" before it would be altered beyond belief as we find it today. This means we have to look to men like James who made a startling announcement in Acts 15 which for all practical purposes today the Church overlooks entirely. James decreed in Acts 15, when the Jerusalem Council made its famous decree, the "necessary things" required of the Non-Jews in order to be "saved" and included in the Israel of God since no longer would the Gentiles be required to be circumcised and converted to Judaism in order to be accepted in the Israel of God.

Acts 15:19-21 19 Wherefore my sentence is, that we trouble not them, which from among the Gentiles are turned to God: 20 But that we write unto them, that they abstain from pollutions of idols, and from fornication, and from things strangled, and from blood. 21 For Moses of old time hath in every city them that preach him, being read in the synagogues every sabbath day. (KJV)

We should learn a lot from this above passage. First of all we see that the non-Jews, both in Palestine and outside Palestine in Asia Minor, attended religious services on the Sabbath (Saturday) and not Sunday. This is part of the "Pattern of Worship" to which we are seeking to recognize let alone return. Also the teaching material of these Non-Jews were these same Covenant stipulations and responsibilities that I mentioned previously which are found in the Laws and Commandments which we find recorded in the Laws of Moses (the Torah). Both the Jews and Non-Jews Covenant stipulations in the forms of Commandments and Laws were taught at these times in order to equip men and women to draw closer to God in their personal lives. This is why as we will see that God commanded the Jews to read certain Torah passages on certain days throughout the year as well as this again is part of this "Pattern of Worship" in order that certain Divine Messages were given on certain special "appointed times" and days with God. God desires that all mankind, both Jews and non-Jews, learn to obey their respective Covenants with Him while at the same time adhering to this "Pattern or Worship" handed down to holy men of old for us today.

Having this record besides the historical evidence from Judaism that attests to the non-Jewish participation in the Synagogues of the first century then we can conclude for certain that not only the early Messianic Jewish believers but the non-Jewish Godfearers as well remained as a sect within Judaism worshipping in the synagogues not only in Israel but in Asia Minor as well where Paul and others ministered.

The earliest Messianic believers were ethnically Jewish and culturally Hebraic. Examination of Acts chapters 1 –10 (which comprise 7-10 years of history) shows us that we don't see any efforts on the part of the Jews to evangelize Gentiles. There are reasons for this that border upon bigotry by the Jews and hostility toward the Gentiles for their harsh treatment toward the Jewish nation in past Jewish history. This is one of the reasons why the Jews enforced circumcision upon the Non-Jew for it was a deterrent to keep them at arms length since many died from such procedures as adults since no longer possessing the mothers's antibodies that guard against infection when a baby. Yet not all of Israel felt this way and there were exceptions but the ruling Rabbi at this time, Shammai, had a dislike of non-Jews to the point where such efforts to reach out to the non-Jew in the middle first century were all but discontinued. That being the case God had to use supernatural means (including angelic visitation, visions, and a sovereign outpouring of the Ruach-Holy Spirit) to show the disciples that repentance had been granted unto the Gentiles also (Acts 10:1- 11:18). The Cornelius event in the New Testament is a very important turning point for Judaism as well and the non-Jewish world and we will examine this in detail shortly. This is a major turning point for the Messianic branch of Judaism but sadly mainline Judaism would not be concerned with this aspect of Gentile Salvation and continue to require full conversion of the non-Jew for inclusion in the Israel of God. Only after the evangelization of Cornelius' household was there a determined effort to evangelize non-Jewish people by the Messianic branch of Judaism which we see in Acts 11:19-21. But understand that in spite of this division within Judaism the non-Jew still attended the Synagogues and it was there he was exposed to the "pattern of worship" which was the same for the Jew and the non-Jew as handed down since the beginning of time as we shall see very soon in this website.

THE SALVATION OF THE GENTILES...ACCORDING TO ACTS 15

As alluded to previously Acts 15 records for us that Jewish as well as non-Jewish believers remained a sect within Judaism. The major difference was that now it would no longer be required for non-Jews to be circumcised and convert to Judaism to be recognized as "brothers" in the Israel of God. This chapter (Acts 15) recounts the Jerusalem council, which was established to answer the question, "How are gentiles saved?" Furthermore, they determined the minimum requirements for Gentiles to meet in order to be accepted within Messianic Biblical Judaism. Although Paul is called the apostle to the Gentiles, we must be careful not to think that he established Gentile Churches that met separately from the Messianic Jewish believers which gathered in the synagogue. Throughout the book of Acts we see that Paul's custom was to evangelize within the synagogue (Acts 13:5,14, 42, 44; 14:1; 17:1-2, 10, 17; 18:4, 8, 19; 19:8). At that time there were many Gentiles, known as Godfearers or proselytes at the gate (David Stern, Jewish New Testament Commentary, Jewish New Testament Publications, Inc., 1992, p 257), who met regularly within traditional Judaism throughout the world. They were the primary source of Gentile converts for Paul during his missionary journeys. (Acts 13:42-44; 14:1; 17:4, 12; 18:4; 19:10). Evangelization apart from the synagogue was more the exception than the rule (Acts 17:18-34). Thus, Paul, uniquely equipped to evangelize Gentiles, ministered mainly to those who would be most open to his message. Gentiles already meeting in the synagogue. Paul did not have the Gentile believers leave the synagogue and form "Churches." The non-Jews continued to meet in synagogues (except when persecution from non-Messianic Jews prevented them) as was the expression of the Messianic faction within Judaism both inside and outside Israel and in Asia Minor. This view is in harmony with the Pauline epistles where Paul sometimes appealed to the Jewish believers (Romans 2:17-29; 7:1) while at other times he appealed to the non-Jewish believers (Romans 11:13). In the book of Acts we learn that Paul established home congregations from Jewish and non-Jewish people who were already actively participating in the synagogue. Furthermore, they were believers who related to each other in Torah-based communities as one corporate expression (Acts 15:13-21; Ephesians 2:1 – 3:21).

So let us not forget the importance and role of the synagogue in the instruction of the non-Jew and his salvation experience and the types of teaching that he received there let alone the "Pattern of Worship" to which he was instructed and followed. It is here that he received what the Book of Acts calls "Apostle's Doctrine" and "fellowship".

Acts 2:42 And they continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers. (KJV)

In closing let us focus on the thought that it was through the Non-Jews continued attendance in the Synagogues of Israel as well as Asia, Minor, that the Non-Jew was to become acquainted with the "Pattern of Worship" the apostles doctrine were taught in the synagogues to the non-jews given to the Jew from the time of David and beyond and it is through this "Pattern of Worship" that the Non-Jew was taught how to worship the Creator as had the Jews since receiving "the Pattern of Worship" previously from God.

OVERVIEW OF THE PATTERN OF WORSHIP IN THE FIRST CENTURY CHURCH OR SYNAGOGUE...AND THE WARNING

In previous articles I have made plain to our readers that there exists a "pattern" of worship which was given by God and to which Jesus and his Apostles adhered. Not only that, this same pattern of worship can be shown to have been taught to the first non-Jews who came to the knowledge of God through Jesus and his Apostles's ministry. Sadly, obedience to this pattern for worship has almost been totally replaced by the Gentile Church of the earliest centuries and few are aware of such tragic events. I guess what gets to me the most is that when such information is made aware to Christians, instead of a spirit of repentance and brokenness at the realization of such events, most seem ambivalent to such an occurrence. What escapes most sadly is the heart-felt realization that instead of loving God as He has instructed, we have brought "strange fire" before God and expect Him to accept it. If God had not desired to be "loved" and "worshipped" in a certain ways He would not have instructed us to do so. But God did. We as Christians fall prey to the erroneous concept that what is happening today is what the Holy Spirit is doing in the world and what He sanctions. Such could not be further from the truth. Our experience is not a measure of truth. Only "the truth" can be called "TRUTH". Unless our experience lines up with the Word of God, correctly interpreted, then we can be assured that our experience is not a guarantee of truth or that it is in reality pleasing to God.

A Christian's religious belief system, when tested and exposed to contradictory facts from Biblical languages, Biblical history, Biblical culture, and archeology, must in the Spirit of Truth and Repentance, be flexible enough to change

Just ask Nadab and Abihu. Their deaths in worship before God tell us unmistakably that God does not tolerate nor accept "just any old worship". The message is startling in light of the fact that we have today over 2000 different denominations with little unity among them. As if that is not bad enough, unity in disobedience is not to be sought either. Obedience is better than any sacrifice. Again let me say, I am saddened to the deepest recesses of my heart and soul, when teaching such truths dug from years of intense study, only to be scoffed at by carnal believers who are basically Biblically uninformed, and who would rather rely on their experience instead of the Word of God as their measure of truth. Repentance in the face of disobedience is scarce today primarily because of an out-of-balance and distorted message of grace as espoused by mainline Christianity. Grace is not the antidote for disobedience in the light of truth. Repentance is. The very first words spoken by John the Baptist, Peter, as well as Jesus, as found in the New Testament is "repentance." Again sadly I have found as a Pastor that repentance is a doctrine only taught to beginner classes for new members in churches and not taught as a way of life. When shown that your experience is wrong and diametrically opposed to what the Scriptures say, the proper response is to rend our heart and turn to God in repentance. Anything thing less is definitely not the loving response God desires. In fact, failure to repent in the light of such Biblical knowledge that corrects our sinful experience is the mark of apostasy. It seems that most would rather be in good standing with their pastors and churches than with God. Such is crazy, but I fear our consciences are so seared in contemporary Christianity today that few can hear the message of the prophets God yet sends who cry aloud "repent for the Kingdom of God is near."

With that as a back-drop, and having understood that there is a pattern of worship, let us examine the pattern as it has come down to us. We cannot find the pattern of worship in Christianity, and not even in Messianic Christianity. Messianic Christianity comes closer than traditional Christianity, but close counts only in horseshoes. If you want to find and follow the pattern of worship for the non-Jew you must look to Old Testament as well as the New Testament and read it with a Hebrew perspective as well as look to the synagogue to find the liturgy as practiced by Jesus and those who came to God in his name. It is to this pattern we now turn.

THE SYNAGOGUE AND THE WORSHIP SERVICE

Worship was celebrated in the synagogue in the mornings (shahrit service), the afternoons (minhah service), and the evenings (ma'ariv service). The basis for each of the three services was the recitation of the "shema" and "tefillah" ("the prayer" referring to the Amidah or the "standing prayer") and the reading of the Torah (qeri'at Torah) portion for that day. For reasons of time the Torah was read only in the mornings on Tuesday, Thursday, and the Sabbath. In addition to the three basic foundations for each service was the inclusion of "set" prayers as the following outline shows:

A. Shahrit (Morning Service)

- Benedictions and introductory psalms.
- Kaddish
- Shema
- Tefillah-Amidah
- Alenu
- Kaddish (mourners')
- Final prayers

2. Minhah (Afternoon Service)

- Psalm
- Kaddish
- Tefillah-Amidah
- Alenu
- Kaddish

3. Ma'ariv (Evening Service)

- Short readings from the Psalms
- Shema
- Tefillah-Amidah
- Kaddish
- Alenu
- Kaddish (mourners')

Once one is familiar with such information as presented here, and has studied the materials for himself, then you will see for yourself what Bet Emet is teaching to be true. After coming to such conclusions based upon personal study your first question must be: Why was I not told this before?

It is the greatest tragedy in the world to have spent your whole life in church only to find out after you die that you have followed a neo-pagan form of worship of the God of Israel. Millions and millions of good Christians are dying and meeting God unprepared for what they will hear: "depart from me I never knew you." You may think that I flippantly used the above passage only to prove my point, but again what few realize is that the condition that elicits the above "departing from Jesus and God" is called iniquity in Matt. 7:21-23.

In conclusion let us look at the word in the Greek for "depart" as used in Matt. 7:21-23:

As Jesus said, 'Not everyone who says to Me, 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of My Father in heaven. Many will say to Me in that day, 'Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in Your name, cast out demons in Your name, and done many wonders in Your name?'

Please pay attention the this next verse and the Greek word used for "iniquity:"

And <2532> then <5119> will I profess <3670> (5692) unto them <846>, <3754> I never <3763> knew <1097> (5627) you <5209>: depart <672> (5720) from <575> me <1700>, ye that work <2038> (5740) iniquity <458>.

Let me say it another way:

And then I will declare to them, 'I never knew you; depart from Me, you who practice LAWLESSNESS'" (Matt. 7:21-23)!

The Greek word for "iniquity" is as follows:

BDB/Thayers # 458 458 anomia {an-om-ee'-ah} from 459; TDNT - 4:1085,646; n f AV - iniquity 12, unrighteousness 1, transgress the law + 4060 1, transgression of the law 1; 15

- 1) the condition of being without the law
  - 1a) Because one is ignorant of it
  - 1b) Because of violating it
- 2) contempt and violation of law, iniquity, wickedness

Let us look at the root word used:

BDB/Thayers # 459 459 anomos {an'-om-os} from 1 (as a negative particle) and 3551; TDNT - 4:1086,646; adj AV - without law 4, transgressor 2, wicked 2, lawless 1, unlawful 1; 10

- 1) destitute of (the Mosaic) law
  - 1a) of the Gentiles*******
- 2) departing from the law, a violator of the law, lawless, wicked

Answer for yourself: Do you not see that Jesus is referring also to Gentiles who are ignorant of and who are destitute of the Mosaic Law? What does this same about the "anti-Law" gospel taught in the New Testament? Could our Bibles be "forgeries" in places and we not know it? Does the Gospel of Jesus contradict the Gospel of Paul and is it possible that Jesus has a different message of Salvation and way of inheriting Eternal Life and does his way to "Heaven" contradict the way that Paul teaches inheriting Eternal Life in the New Testament? Who is right? Well you have to study this out to see for yourself.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that these same laws and commandments contained in the Mosaic Law deal with non-Jews and how they are to worship according to the pattern I have telling you about? You are now!

Answer for yourself: Are you a violator of the Mosaic Law in areas such as worship by failing to observe the Biblical Festivals or do you practice your church's pagan holidays which have been re-made to look religious by having Jesus' name attached to them?

Answer for yourself: Are you a violator of the pattern of worship in giving your tithe to organizations and churches who are using the money in ways contrary to how God said it was to be used?

Let us not be mistaken that giving of our finances to religious purposes and various churches is a form of worship, and again the pattern for giving is repeated several times in the Jewish Scriptures. Failure to comply with such pattern for giving makes you a robber of God. Giving your 10% to a church and letting them spend it any way they choose is not obedience to the pattern of worship as contained in your Bible. It might be your experience, but your experience is not accepted by God. Sadly almost all Christian Churches violate this giving commandment and do so by justifying that the money is still used for good purposes. Close but no cigar. Goodly purposes NEVER substitute for Godly purposes.

WHAT SHOULD YOU DO NOW THAT YOU KNOW THIS?

First of all don't believe anything I said. But let this information stimulate your own study in order for you to discover the same truths as I did. Then and only then can you be assured you are obeying God in such an important area as worship.

If God has opened your mind thus far to what I am saying, then I urge you to begin a genuine STUDY of the Holy Bible. You may wish to begin reading carefully and thoughtfully through every word of the New Testament. Look key words up in their original languages in which the Bible was written (Greek, Hebrew, and Aramaic). Only in this way will you find for yourself the hidden revelation and recover not only long lost spiritual truths but restore the "Pattern of Worship" for yourself and your family. If you need help call us at Bet Emet Ministries and we will teach you how to use the study aids available. Shalom.

BUT I NEVER KNEW THAT THERE WAS A PATTERN OF WORSHIP THAT GOD GAVE TO BOTH THE JEWISH AND NON-JEWISH BELIEVERS

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that within the Jewish Scriptures we can find a "PATTERN OF WORSHIP" given by God that was followed by both Jews and non-Jewish believers in God both in the Old Testament and New Testament times?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that both historically and archeologically we can attest that this "PATTERN OF WORSHIP" continued until early in the 4th Century A.D. when Rome for all practical purposes changed it for everyone and today we seldom if ever stumble onto the prior existing pattern that God had intended that all His children, both Jew and non-Jew, observe in their worship of Him?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that the tabernacle was built according to the divine blueprint given to Moses by the Lord (Ex. 25:8-9)?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that Aaron and his sons were consecrated to their priestly vocation according to a divine pattern as well, and they offered the prescribed sacrifices unto God according to a divine pattern?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that David was given the same pattern when told to build the Temple, set aside the Priests, and oversee the work of the service (worship) within the Temple (I Chron. 28:13)?

1 Chr 28:10-15 10 Take heed now; for the LORD hath chosen thee to build an house for the sanctuary: be strong, and do it. 11 Then David gave to Solomon his son the pattern of the porch, and of the houses thereof, and of the treasuries thereof, and of the upper chambers thereof, and of the inner parlours thereof, and of the place of the mercy seat, 12 And the pattern of all that he had by the spirit, of the courts of the house of the LORD, and of all the chambers round about, of the treasuries of the house of God, and of the treasuries of the dedicated things: 13 Also for the courses of the priests and the Levites, and for all the work of the service of the house of the LORD, and for all the vessels of service in the house of the LORD.

Let us look and examine the the Hebrew word for :service and see what we find hidden in the Hebrew:

Strong's Concordance:

5656 `abodah (ab-o-daw'); or `abowdah (ab-o-daw'); from 5647; work of any kind: KJV-- act, bondage, + bondservant, effect, labour, ministering (-try), office, service (-ile, -itude), tillage, use, work, X wrought.

Brown-Driver-Briggs' Hebrew Lexicon:

5656 `abodah or `abowdah- labor, service

- a) labor, work
- b) labor (of a servant or a slave)
- c) labor, service (of captives or subjects)
- d) service (of God)

What we see from these words is that there is a "MINISTRY" and "SERVICE OF GOD" that was given by the Spirit of God according to a "PATTERN."

Even the New Testament alludes to this pattern:

Heb 8:5 5 Who serve unto the example and shadow of heavenly things, as Moses was admonished of God when he was about to make the tabernacle: for, See, saith he, that thou make all things according to the pattern shewed to thee in the mount. (KJV)

Now it is for us to both understand that a "pattern of ministry" existed both in the Old Testament and New Testament which was a pattern of the intended service of mankind and worship toward God. This is called "ministry" according to the Hebrew word. I know that the term "ministry" is so overworked today but it is for us to try to discern:

- If this "pattern" of service and worship of God can be discerned from the Jewish Scriptures
- If this "pattern" of service and worship of God can be shown from examples in the Old Testament and New Testament texts to have existed not only before Jesus' death but also existed "unchanged" after Jesus' crucifixion
- If this "pattern" of service and worship of God can be shown to have been quite similar if not the same in many instances as practiced and observed by both Jews and non-Jews both before and after Jesus' crucifixion

If this can discerned from New Testament examples as applying "unchanged" for both the Jew and the non-Jewish believer who came to God through the ministry of Yeshua's disciples and apostles then we need then only ask if our experience as Christians and followers of Yeshua is yet today according to this "pattern of ministry" or if our experience is different and if so we must ask "why?" If not then we have to honestly ask if we have let Israel be a light unto us (as Gentiles as the nations of the world) as God has said they were to be in the Jewish Scriptures or if we have been misled in our "ministry and worship" toward God.

In the articles that follow we will present evidence from both the Jewish Old Testament and the New Testament which proves beyond any doubt that there did exist not only a "pattern of worship" as observed by both the Jew and non-Jew but both observed and adhered to this pattern well before and after Jesus' crucifixion which indicates that nothing was changed by Jesus' death. One has to look to the official adoption of the Jesus Movement by the state of Rome in which "Christianity" became the state religion of Rome to see the organized changes made to this "pattern" of worship. Today few if any know that ever happened and that we have departed from the "pattern" of worship given by God in His Holy Texts.

WORSHIPPING GOD IN SPIRIT AND IN TRUTH: THE PATTERN FOR THE NON-JEW

A "Gentile" is a term signifying a non-Jew, who is not a "son of the covenant" and is only subject to the seven Noachide Laws.

Once a Gentile came to the understanding of the one true God, he would turn from idols and worship the God of Israel. These were the "God fearers", who accepted certain basic Jewish obligations along with the Noachide precepts. According to this, idolatry, shedding of blood, and grave sexual sins were forbidden to Gentile believers. These were originally the Noachide precepts accepted also by the Synagogue on which the Gentiles were obliged. Let me remind you that we see in Acts 15 \(at least 25 years after the death of Jesus\) the admonition for the Gentiles to adhere to Noachide Laws to be accepted in the believing community of Israel and the Jesus Messianic Movement. It is logical that the Apostolic Church of Jerusalem should accept the view of the Synagogue on the conditions which Gentiles needed to fulfill in order to be saved.

BUT LETS NOT STOP THERE

It can be easily shown that the fulfillment of other commandments of Judaism were not prohibited to Gentiles. On the contrary, the Noachide precepts were only seen as the minimal condition for Gentiles to be accepted into fellowship with Israel and recognized as God-fearers. These were so understood by the God-fearers themselves, who were attracted to the Jewish way of life and accepted many Jewish commandments without becoming full proselytes (Sabbath, festivals, etc). This was also the attitude of Christian God-fearers, as may be seen from the Epistle to the Galatians; many of them wished to observe as many Jewish precepts as they could. It is evident that, while the leadership of the Mother Church decided to lay no burden upon the Gentile believers beyond the Noachide precepts, and the Jerusalem Church did not object to their voluntarily observing more (Col. 2:16-17).

Col 2:16-17 16 Let no man therefore judge you in meat, or in drink, or in respect of an holyday, or of the new moon, or of the sabbath days: 17 Which are a shadow of things to come; but the body is of Christ. (KJV)

Among the figures of the early Church who instructed Gentile Christians to observe more precepts than these essential ones was Peter, as we know from Paul's criticism of him for demanding that Gentiles live like Jews (Gal. 2:14). Rather than interpreting the apostolic decree as a minimum, Paul saw in the Noachide precepts the maximal obligations of Gentile Christians. Rather than Peter being incorrect, a more comprehensive understanding of the Bible reveals Paul to be incorrect. I call this the "Antioch Problem" or the "Antioch Incident".

What you must understand that we have in the accounts of the New Testament the Roman view and we all know that winners write history. Lacking is the accurate account that describes Peter's repentance along with Barnabas when confronted by the "men from James". The account in the New Testament does disclose however that they and the whole “house church” left the presence of Paul and went next door and no longer continued to break the kosher laws and the food Laws in the Laws of Noah in order to “become all things to all men that they might win some”. Breaking the Torah and sinning is never sanctioned by God in order to “win some”. Lastly, we then have Paul’s comment: “all in Asia forsook me”. No wonder!

The liberation of Gentile Christianity from the yoke of Jewish commandments was a necessary step in order for Christianity to become a Gentile religion, separate from Judaism. This is the genius of Paul or a later pro-Pauline writer. It is impossible to know whether Paul was aware that by his "Gospel" he helped to achieve this aim in that he does not speak explicitly about the necessity of separating Christianity from its Jewish roots and he never says that this was his intention, but it is clear that in fact such was his historical role. Paul taught that much of the Jewish way of life had no validity for Christians, but the Mother Church in Acts felt differently. For Christian God-fearers it was not easy to accept Paul's demand; the complete rejection of Jewish precepts was for many Gentile Christians a painful operation. But if Christianity was to become a world religion it had to become "free from the Law". Only a Christian free from the law could separate himself from Judaism.

With the rise of Christianity the teachers of Israel sought to distinguish between the heathens of the past and those Gentiles who were subject to religious values and morality. The very term "ger tzedek" (righteous gentile) stands for the gentile who turned from idols and made a sincere conversion to the Jewish faith in the first century. Such a person was respected and welcomed by the Jewish community. The "ger tzedek" submitted to circumcision, immersion, and brought a sacrifice to the temple. He is a proselyte and is considered a "Jew" upon his conversion. Upon completion of such, he was considered as "one born in the land."

There are two other terms for righteous Gentiles: Ger Hashar, and Ger ToShav. In the Bible the:

- Ger Hashar is seen as "the stranger in the gate", and the
- Ger ToShav was known as "the stranger in the land."

Answer for yourself: How do these "Ger Hashar and Ger ToShav" differ from the full convert, the Ger Tzedek"?

The Ger Hashar, and Ger ToShav also accepted the faith of Israel (ethical monotheism) and were immersed, but withheld themselves from circumcision. Such "Righteous Gentiles" had a place in the world to come, and it was believed that in the age of the Messiah all Gentiles would come to recognize the one true God according to Zech 14:9.

Zech 14:9 9 And the LORD shall be king over all the earth: in that day shall there be one LORD, and his name one. (KJV)

Once the Ger Tzedek was accepted as a Jew, he was entitled to all the privileges that Jews born into the faith enjoyed. Such converts to Judaism were numerous before the rise of Christianity. Within Palestine and outside, wherever Jews came into contact with pagans, Judaism held a strong attraction. It was expected of the Gentile that given enough time, he would develop from the Ger Hashar to the Ger Tzedek.

DRAWING BACK FROM CHOOSE THOSE THINGS PLEASING TO GOD

The later development of Gentile Christianity offered the attraction of monotheism and at the same time imposed fewer restrictions on its new adherents that did Judaism. In other words, many of the commandments of God were neglected, denied, and not taught to non-Jews nor were they expected to adhere to them by their non-Jewish teachers.

Answer for yourself: Was this God's will, that His Laws and Commandments were "neglected", especially in light of Isaiah 56 where the "non-Jew" is encouraged to "Choose those things that please Me and take hold of my Covenants and Sabbaths" says the Lord? No, way. We need to understand the role of Isaiah 56 for the "non-Jew" in light of Acts 15 where it says "Moses is taught in the synagogues every Sabbath" in response to the Gentile problem facing Judaism in the first century.

Commencing with the fourth century, when Christianity became the official religion of the Roman Empire, Jews were restricted in their own worship and were no longer permitted to continue their missionary activity and we find the conversion of the Ger Hashar and Tzedek dwindling. In spite of the peril to Jews and proselytes alike, we read throughout history of various instances where Christians joined the ranks of the oppressed Jews in order to adopt a more Biblically centered lifestyle. Sadly this never became accepted orthodoxy for the followers of Yeshua. This is again were the Gentile Christian Church broke from the "Pattern of Worship" given all mankind by God since the beginning of time. One only has to become familiar and understand the Egyptian religion to make the connections with the Divine Messages contained in the Jewish Biblical Festivals and Feasts to see this fact for themselves.

EXAMINING THE PATTERN OF WORSHIP AS IT WAS DESCRIBED BY JUSTIN MARTYR IN HIS DIALOGUE WITH TRYPHO THE JEW...150 C.E.

Let us first get our bearings: it is mid-second Century and Christianity's greatest apologist is writing possible his greatest treatise defending the Gentile Christian faith: Dialogue With Trypho The Jew. Again let us understand that the Great Commission has been undertaken now for at least 80 years following Jesus' crucifixion by his disciples and apostles. That being the case you should understand that the Jesus Movement of Jerusalem has already exerted great influence among the Gentile nations in obeying Jesus' command:

Matt 28:20 20 Teaching them (the Gentile nations) to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen. (KJV) Matt 28:20 20 Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen. (KJV)

Justin's Dialogue With Trypho The Jew is the earliest surviving writing which sets out fully the issues which separated Christians and Jews. This fascinating Dialogue With Trypho The Jew was written about 160 C.E. It draws on earlier Christian exegetical traditions; in places it has very deep roots in Jewish-Christian polemic and apologetic.

Although Justin and Trypho argue vigorously, they do not resort to personal abuse or to name-calling. At the end of the Dialogue, they agree to disagree; after praying for one another they go their separate ways. Most later Christian anti-Jewish writings are less moderate in tone; unlike Trypho, the Jewish opponent(s) often cave in and accept the "truth" of Christianity. However, if we have twentieth-century understandings of "tolerance" in mind, it would not be appropriate to claim either Justin or Trypho as models of "tolerance". Both the Christian and his Jewish partner in dialogue not only set out their respective very different religious positions, they go further: they appeal vigorously to one another to change sides, with the clear implication that the other side is wrong-headed.

Answer for yourself: How believable is Justin's claim that his Dialogue With Trypho The Jew records an extended discussion he had with a learned Jew, Trypho, shortly after the second Jewish revolt?

Opinions have differed widely. My own view is that the Dialogue With Trypho The Jew is neither a verbatim account of a two-day debate which took place in Ephesus between a Christian and a Jew, nor a wholly artificial compilation of Christian polemical traditions which is unrelated to discussions between Christians and Jews in the middle decades of the second century. There are points at which Trypho is little more than a puppet: he is allowed to say only what Justin wants him to say. However, many of the arguments and responses of both Justin and Trypho are found in other writings from this period. In several key passages Trypho echoes widely held Jewish objections to Christian claims and sets out Jewish basic convictions or interpretations of Scripture which are well attested elsewhere.

As we examine and analyze Justin's perception of the status quo of Christianity as it existed in 160 C.E. it is important to make sure we note the examples of "God-fearers" as well as "Proselytes" as discussed by Justin as this gives us a picture of what the Gentile was taught to do by those who knew Jesus best...his apostles and disciples. This was the "Pattern" for not only Gentile inclusion into the Israel of God but the "Pattern of Worship" as taught the "non-Jews" by the Jerusalem Church and their delegated authorities in Asia, Minor. I hope we are smart enough to understand that any changes to this "Pattern" that come after Justin do little more than destroy the efforts of the apostles and disciples to carry out Jesus' wishes and mandate and literally destroy the pattern of worship that you have seen by now that existed long before Abraham and which was reiterated by Moses for both the Jew and non-Jew. As we shall see, the Dialogue contains important references both to "God-fearers" and to "proselytes" which have been overlooked in recent scholarly discussion of these topics and these pictures speak volumes to Gentile Christians today if they have ears to hear.

WHO WERE TRYPHO'S COMPANIONS?

Several scholars have commented on Justin's characterization of Trypho the Jew. They have stressed that Trypho is a pleasant courteous Jew, and that, unlike many later Christian and Jewish disputants, Justin and Trypho respect one another. However, the role in the Dialogue of Trypho's companions has usually been quietly ignored, from Eusebius right up to the present.

In the very first extant sentence of the Dialogue Justin is met by an unidentified man who is accompanied by companions; the latter are referred to in the second sentence as the man's "friends". Most scholars except that the expected opening dedication is missing and that it probably mentions Ephesus in Asia Minor as the location of the dialogue (Eusebius, History of the Church, 94.18.6).

Answer for yourself: Do you grasp the importance of Ephesus being the location of this Dialogue between a Gentile believer and a Jew? We have in Justin's Dialogue his description of not only 2nd Century Judaism but Gentile believers in God who not only practiced the Jewish faith but were believers in Jesus as the Jewish Messiah. This is phenomenal for our information of the time period and what the Gentile believers in Jesus though Jewish evangelism had been taught concerning not only the accepted religious doctrines concerning Jesus in the 2nd Century long before Rome would take charge of the faith but we also have a through description by Justin of the Gentile's worship of God as it existed in the 2nd Century as taught by Jewish outreach.

The reader's curiosity is aroused immediately not only as to who is the person who engages Justin in conversation but as to whom are his companions. Before Trypho identifies himself and states that he is a circumcised Jew who has recently fled from the Bar Kochba war, his "followers and companions" inform Justin (and the reader of the Dialogue) that they are keen to hear "some profitable discourse" from Justin. But we are not told anything about the background of Trypho's companions at this point. This silence concerning the identity of Trypho's comparison turns out to be significant for a reason and we shall see soon why Justin desired to keep such identification of the companions identity silent.

The extended discussions between Justin and Trypho take place on two days, on both of which Trypho (but not Justin) is accompanied by friends. Indeed, Justin notes that some additional companions turned up with Trypho on the second day. Occasionally the companions intervene in the discussions to remind the reader of their presence.

Answer for yourself: What possible importance could this intervention by Trypho's friends in this religious dialogue between Justin and this circumcised Jew have? More on that later but you will be amazed!

These friends of Trypho never defend a point of view which differs from that of Trypho, but, as we shall see, these friends of Trypho are distinguished from Trypho in important respects. In the very last chapter (142), Trypho is still accompanied by his companions as he and Justin go their separate ways after praying for one another.

Although the companions are firmly in Trypho's court, Justin takes pains to distinguish between their reaction to Justin's Christian claims and Trypho's own reaction. Trypho's companions are portrayed as being more cynical about Justin's Christian claims than Trypho himself: they are therefore even less likely to become Christians.

Answer for yourself: What message, if any, are we to get from the increased cynicism of Trypho's friends toward Justin and his Christian claims? Again, more on that later.

This distinction (between Trypho and his friends) is set out clearly in the opening chapters, and maintained consistently thereafter; and this is very important and we must not forget that there is a similarity yet a dissimilarity between Trypho and his friends. In the first seven chapters, which are a prologue to the Dialogue as a whole, Justin tells Trypho about his intellectual pilgrimage and his conversion to Christianity. In response Trypho smiles and replies courteously, but his companions "laugh aloud" (8.3).

Answer for yourself: What did Trypho's companions know better than Trypho that made them laugh as Justin's profession of conversion to "Christianity"? Sorry, but you will have to wait for the bombshell to drop in a minute; please keep reading.

In the next chapter the reader is told that they "laughed aloud again and began to shout quite rudely" (9.2). Not surprisingly, Justin is offended and starts to break off the discussion. Trypho urges him to keep his promise and to continue. Justin agrees, with the provision that the companions must behave themselves and listen quietly. At this point two of the companions disappear, "with some jokes, and some jests at our zeal", Justin says ruefully. The remaining companions sit down quietly with Justin and Trypho, and after a brief conversation about the Bar Kochba war, they listen to the discussions between Justin and Trypho.

The hostility of Trypho's companions is not confined to the opening chapters. Towards the end of the second day of the discussions their rudeness is referred to again: "some of those who had come on the second day" protested at one of Justin's claims, and "cried out as though in a theatre" (122.4).

Answer for yourself: What possibly could be so funny that these friends and companions of Trypho would make such fun of Justin Martyr's heart-felt religious commitment?

DIALOGUE 8 & 9...BOUNDARIES BETWEEN GROUPS

In terms of the literary structure of the Dialogue, these two chapters are programmatic. They mark the transition from the Prologue to the main body of the Dialogue. Their structural role is confirmed by the fact that only here (8.3), and at the beginning and the end (141.5) of the whole Dialogue does Justin address Marcus Pompeius, the person to whom the Dialogue is dedicated. Most of the themes which will be discussed in the 133 chapters which follow are foreshadowed here.

Justin appeals to Trypho to become a Christian: "If you seek salvation seriously and have trusted in God, it is open to you, once you know the Christ of God and have become an initiate, to live happily."

Answer for yourself: Is there any significance to Justin's use of the term "initiate"?

According to Graham N. Stanton and Guy G. Stroumsa in their Tolerance And Intolerance In Early Judaism And Christianity (pp. 263-278) they tell us that the Greek word for "initiate" as used by Justin in his Dialogue is a technical term used to refer to one initiated into the rites of the mystery religions; in particular to immersions connected to mystery religions (pp. 275).

Answer for yourself: Is Justin really a follower of Rabbi Yeshua or is he trying to teach pagan religions under the disguise of a man named Jesus and is this the reason why the companions of Trypho are laughing and ridiculing him so much because they fully are aware of Justin's agenda since they were themselves Gentile "semi-proselytes" and Godfearers and were well acquainted with what Justin was teaching having been in those pagan religions before repenting and renouncing them and turning to the true faith of God...Biblical Judaism where the non-Jew has a place next to the Jew (Covenant of Noah and the Laws of Noah)?

Answer for yourself: Is there any literature that exists today to show that Justin was teaching paganism in Jesus' name and trying to spread existing paganism under the disguise of a Jewish man who was little more to him than a reincarnated sun-godman? Yes there is.

Eusebius, in his Church History, tells us that Justin, in his Dialogue with Trypho, says "there exists not a people, civilized or semi-civilized, who have not offered up prayers in the name of a crucified Savior to the Father and Creator of all things" (Hist. Eccl. lib i. ch. iv).

Trypho, knowing the re-dressed paganism as taught by Justin, immediately makes a counter-appeal to Justin. "When you have forsaken God and placed your hope on a man, what kind of hope yet remains for you?" From Trypho's perspective the failure of Christians to keep the Laws of their Covenant confirms that they are "Godless." Trypho fully understood that the religion that Justin promoted was literally the forsaking of the Divine Revelation given by the God of the Bible. In kindness Trypho acknowledges Justin as a friend and then urges him to be circumcised, then (as is commanded in the law) to keep the sabbath and the feasts and God's new moons, and, in short, to do all the things that are written in the law, and then perchance he will find mercy from God (8.4).

Answer for yourself: In reality what was Trypho trying to accomplish with Justin? He was inviting Justin to repent and enter into the Covenant with God; a Covenant which required circumcision and obedience to God's Holy Days and appointed times like the Sabbath and Festivals and New Moons.

Trypho then summarizes his own views concerning the Messiah, and alleges that Christians have shaped a kind of Messiah for themselves by denying the Messiah of the Jewish Scriptures and fashioning one of their own making from the personification of solar entities (http:// paganizingfaithofyeshua.netfirms.com).

A little later Trypho criticizes Christians for their failure to mark out a boundary between themselves and pagans (10.3). In other words Trypho the Jew blames Christians for maintaining their pagan religious ways and not repenting of such false worship when taught the truth!

I don't wish to prolong this but you need to take just a second to read right now an article concerning disturbing quotes about the paganization of the Christian faith by scholars and authors who truly know what they are taking about. They make the same case that Trypho and his companions were making to Justin in the early 2nd Century. THINK!

The issues which separate Justin and Trypho are set out clearly: Justin appeals to Trypho "to know the Christ of God"; Trypho urges Justin to "do all the things that are written in the law". Their agendas are very different. Both refer to a rather different "rite of entry" into their respective communities, baptism and circumcision.

Both claim that the other person has been led astray by false teachers. Trypho claims that Justin has been led astray by false speeches, and has followed men of no account; in fact both single out false teachers as responsible for the false stance taken by the other. Both hope that once the sway of the false teachers is shaken off, their rival will be able to change sides. In other words, from Justin's perspective, both synagogue and church hope that adherents of the rival community will be won over. In spite of tight social boundaries on both sides of the divide, movement is possible. As we shall see, the language of movement, "going over", is found more explicitly in Dialogue 47.

DIALOGUE 23: 2ND CENTURY DESCRIPTION OF THE "GOD-FEARERS"

Please understand that Justin in his Dialogue gives for all the world to see a "kodak-moment" of the Gentile Godfearer and his religious belief system as it existed in the 2nd Century A.D.; but few know this because they fail to study their own faith. Instead of reading about the origins of their Christian faith most Christians accept their experience as the barometer of truth instead of historical record and archeology which often will testify to the falsity of one's Christian experience today. One need only compare the religious belief system of the Gentile Godfearer who accepted Jesus as the Messiah in the 2nd Century A.D. with that of contemporary Christianity today to be horrified at the changes that have taken place over 1800 years which has almost completely destroyed the intended results of the Great Commission as first taught over the early centuries of the Jesus Movement before the establishment of the Roman state-religion called "Christianity." One good place to begin your comparison is to fully understand the religious belief system that Justin opposed in his day and which he strongly opposes in his Dialogue and fully understand that this religious belief system that Justin opposed was not only that of the Jews but the Gentile Godfearers who has likewise been taught by Jews themselves (these Jews were the Jewish followers of Jesus as we will quickly come to see)!!!!!!!!!!!!

At the end of a series of scriptural citations in chapters 21 and 22, Justin brings his argument to a climax by challenging Trypho and his companions: "If this is not so, tell me what you all think about the matters under discussion." And when no one answers, Justin adds: "Therefore to you, Trypho, and to those who wish to become proselytes I proclaim the Divine message ..." (23.3).

This is the first time the reader is given any specific information about the companions: they "want to become proselytes." This phrase can be understood in three ways:

- the companions could be either Jews or Gentiles who want to become proselytes to Christianity;
- or they could be Gentiles who want to become proselytes to Judaism.

Perhaps our first inclination is to assume that Trypho's companions are fellow Jews who are seriously interested in becoming Christians. That might seem appropriate in view of Justin's opening appeal to Trypho which we have just noted. However, the sustained hostility and cynicism of the companions makes this unlikely that they are Jews who are seriously interested in becoming Christians. In addition, the immediate context rules out the possibility that the companions are Jews. This passage comes at the climax of an extended discussion about circumcision which follows the programmatic chapters 8 and 9. Two sentences after the reference to the companions who wish to become proselytes, Justin makes an impassioned plea to them: "Stay as you have been born". And a familiar line of argument about Abraham's justification before circumcision then follows: the latter was just a sign. If Trypho's companions were Jews, there would not be any need to urge them to stay as they are and not to bother with circumcision. So the companions must be Gentiles.

Answer for yourself: Do they wish to become proselytes (i.e. convert fully) to Judaism, or to Christianity?

The latter view has been influential, largely as a result of the most widely available English translation, by A. L. Williams. Williams clarifies the ambiguous Greek by adding in brackets after "proselytes" the phrase "to the true faith". In other words Williams thinks that Trypho's companions are keen to become "proselytes" to Christianity. He is terribly wrong and this is how lies and false teachings are spread which led the flock astray.

Justin is keen to dissuade Trypho's companions from taking the final step of circumcision, for he knows (probably from experience) that it is even more difficult to convert to Christ those have become proselytes to Judaism than it is to convert Jews like Trypho. So he argues vigorously and at length that circumcision was not part of God's original purposes.

Answer for yourself: Again what do we see from Justin's account? We see that it was common for non-Jews to be instructed in the Torah and the Covenants of God whereby they and Jews were not only friends but often accepted circumcision and full conversion to Judaism as was the intention of the Great Commission which was to teach in all the world the Covenant of Noah and the opportunity for such Godfearers to make full conversion to Judaism if they so desired.

At the beginning of their lengthy discussion on this topic Justin lets Trypho have first say. Justin seems to be generous in allowing Trypho to deal the first card, but, as we shall see, Justin himself holds the trump card. Trypho's first card, (10.3) is the very first of the numerous explicit citations of Scripture in the Dialogue, Genesis 17:14: "The person who has not been circumcised on the eighth day shall be cut off from God's people." Trypho then claims that this command refers not only to born Israelites, but also to foreigners (including Justin himself), and to purchased slaves.

Answer for yourself: Did we not see in the prior articles that Abraham, a non-Jew, was circumcised as a "mark" of his Covenant with God long before Moses was commanded to be circumcised and later applied this to the whole of the Jewish males? We sure did.

In interpreting Genesis 17:14 to refer to three groups, Trypho goes further than the MT or the LXX which refer to only two groups: born Israelites and (foreign) purchased slaves.

But Justin ignores the point at this stage in the Dialogue and concentrates on his own arguments concerning circumcision. At the climax Justin attempts to trump Trypho's card concerning Genesis 17:14: he insists once again that circumcision was given as a sign, but not for righteousness. The sentences which follow are highly rhetorical:

Understand that the blood of that circumcision has been made useless, and we have believed the blood that brings salvation . . . Jesus Christ circumcises all those who will ... Come with me, all who fear God who wish to see the good things of Jerusalem. Come, let us go in the light of the Lord, for he has set his people free, even the house of Jacob ... (24.3).

These words are addressed directly to Trypho and his companions. The plea, "Come with me, all who fear God", is intriguing. These words are addressed directly to the companions: they fear God, and wish to see the good things of Jerusalem - and Justin urges them to join his side. We learn from this that Trypho's companions are referred to here as "those who fear God", a phrase found in several passages in Acts (10:2, 22, 35; 13:16, 26).

At Dialogue 10.4 the phrase "those who fear God" refers to Gentiles sympathetic to Judaism (many other scholars hold the same idea like Feldman, Jew and Gentile, p. 357). In this passage Trypho complains that Christians who claim to know God, do not keep the commandments - yet even those who fear God do (the reason being that obeying the Commandments shows God your adherence to His Covenant with them and their love for Him). Perhaps Trypho even has in mind his own companions, as well as other Gentiles sympathetic to Judaism. It is important to note that in both 10.4 and 24.3 the phrase

"those who fear God" is a very general way of referring to those sympathetic to Judaism and that this "pattern" is shown in many passages in the New Testament as well as found in Acts 10:2 and 10:22 with Cornelius and then again used in a universal sense in Acts 10:35. Again those Gentiles partial to Judaism is again seen in Acts 13:16 in Antioch of Pisidia in Asia Minor. In the context of these passages we see these non-Jewish Gentile Godfearers observing the Sabbath because Paul and Barnabas addressed them on the Sabbath day in the synagogues in Asia Minor (notice they were not "churches" in Asia Minor.

Justin's identification of Trypho's companions as Gentiles closely attached to Judaism who wish to become proselytes is striking. The companions are "God-fearers", even though Justin does not explicitly refer to them as such. In recent years (especially since the discovery of the Aphrodisias inscription) literature on "Godfearers" has become a growth industry. As far as I can see, none of the recent writers on this topic makes more than a passing reference to Justin. This is unfortunate. I am convinced that when Justin's evidence is set alongside the other varied and often baffling evidence, we are forced to conclude that Gentiles were attracted to Judaism for many reasons and that their relationship to Judaism took many forms. Today Gentile Christianity has little to do with Judaism and this is terribly unfortunate because it separation from the mother faith has robbed it of the "pattern" or worship God intended the Jew and Gentile share.

Before we leave chapter 23, we must ask why Justin has so much to say about circumcision in his opening exchanges with Trypho.

- First, he is responding to Jewish criticisms, well grounded in Scripture, of Christian claims.
- Secondly, he is deliberately ringing alarm bells for his Christian readers, some of whom were attracted to Judaism.
- Thirdly, and most important of all for my present purposes, he is appealing to Gentiles who currently had some form of attachment to Judaism and he was trying to influence them not to become proselytes, for he knew that proselytes were even less likely than Jews such as Trypho to respond to Christian preaching.

DIALOGUE 47: TOLERANCE AND INTOLERANCE

Several observations for the Christian need to be made from Dialogue 47. We have already seen that the programmatic chapters 8 and 9 imply that there is movement in both directions between Judaism and Christianity; in other words both were competing for recruits: this is what both Justin and Trypho assume in their opening appeals to one another. At 47.1 Justin reminds his readers of Trypho's initial appeal to him in 8.4 to become a proselyte.

Now here is where we must pay close attention. In response to a question from Trypho, Justin concedes that Jews who have become Christians and still wish to keep the law fully are to be accepted as long as they do not persuade Gentiles to keep the law, and as long as they have full fellowship with Gentile Christians.

Answer for yourself: What did we learn from this statement from Justin?

Justin admits that many Jews were currently believers in Yeshua/Jesus and such Jewish "believers in Jesus" were continually keeping the Law. Notice also that such Jewish believers in Jesus as Messiah did not at that time follow Paulinism whereby they replaced Law with grace as we have been taught today. In other words Paulinism was not successful in the 2nd Century as it has become today under the influence and power of the Roman state in the 4th Century A.D. Justin refers to this issue three times in this one fairly short but very important chapter.

The third reference is particularly important as it concerns the Gentile believers in both God and Jesus:

Justin concedes, somewhat reluctantly, that Gentile Christians who have been persuaded by Jewish Christians to keep the law will be saved. This means that Judaism even had influence among Gentile Christians (Justin's people). Justin then notes that there are some Gentile Christians who are much less tolerant than he is: they will not converse or share table-fellowship with those who acknowledge Christ and keep the law (both non-Jew & Jews). This means that the dividing lines were being drawn over the Law and not the issue of the Messiah and Law as you now know is the heart of one's Covenant with God!

In reality Justin is denying the Covenant of God and replacing it with one of the Gentile's own making...and this has continued for 1800 years up to our day!

Answer for yourself: What else is so striking about the above verse by Justin? He admits that salvation exists within Judaism and not only in Christianity as Christianity would have you believe today! WOW!

Answer for yourself: Why is Justin himself so cautious about Jewish Christians, and why are some of his fellow Christians so intolerant? Justin gives one answer himself: Jewish Christians who insist on keeping the law arouse the suspicion of Gentile Christians and their lives as examples of high piety was always a stimulus for the Gentile Christian to begin to examine the Jewish faith and the Torah whereby if one did such an activity he would quickly see for himself the falsification of the doctrines and teachings of Gentile Christianity and reject it and become converts to the Jewish faith (all the while maintaining belief in Jesus as Messiah). Justin knew that the end result of such activity would persuade Gentile Christians to keep the law, a position Justin will not tolerate (47.3).

Answer for yourself: Why should Gentiles who "believe on this Christ" not be encouraged by Jewish Christians to "live in accordance with the law appointed by Moses"?

Answer for yourself: Why is Justin, tolerant in many other respects, so intolerant at precisely this point concerning the Law?

As we find throughout history Jewish Christians have always insisted that the law should be kept as a sine qua non as far as salvation is concerned; but the Bible never really teaches this. Obedience is expected of one who has received the grace of God and His Salvation by faith (not faith in Messiah but faith in God). These Jewish Christians mean well but they fail to present to the non-Jew his Covenant with God which preceded the Mosaic Covenant; the Covenant of Noah. Failing to do this they assume that the only way the Gentile can find acceptance with God is through total conversion into the Covenant of Moses; such by now you have learned is not correct. However, Justin does not say that this is their position. He implies that they are encouraging Gentiles to keep the law alongside their faith in Christ (this law being the law of Moses and not the Law of Noah).

One senses Justin's fear at what is going on. Justin and the Gentile Christians are losing the quest for converts and Biblical Judaism is winning. What Gentile Christians fail to realize is that Biblical Judaism was a world religion and it would not be until Rome will throw her power as a Political State behind religion would Judaism begin to wain and Roman Christianity surge to the forefront. So we see Justin's hidden agenda at this point. The clue to a probable explanation comes in 47.4: Justin notes that some Gentile Christians who have been persuaded to keep the law have moved over completely to the Jewish religion; they have denied that "this is the Christ", and therefore cannot be saved. Their denial of "the Christ" involved the Gentile's belief in Jesus which is questioned once they realize that the Greek Scriptures have been purposefully falsified, misquoted, and mistranslated in order to promote a sun-godman of the Essenes in 200 B.C.E. Such Greek Scriptures the Jews have always rejected as false representations of the true Jewish Scriptures. That being so then one quickly comes to learn what were the true Jewish prophecies and in the light of their failure to be "fulfilled" then questions concerning Jesus as Messiah arise. I have dealt in other websites with these falsifications and the failures of these prophecies to be fulfilled:

- <http://www.geocities.com/bennoah1>
- <http://messianicprophecy.netfirms.com>

Other associated related studies can be found here:

- <http://returningtofaithofyeshua.freesevers.com>
- <http://faithofyeshua.faithweb.com>

Once one the student familiarizes himself with both the falsifications of the texts by the Essenes and later Gentiles as well as the failure of the true Jewish prophecies to be fulfilled then he can see more clearly why the events expected by the Jews did not occur and that such a failure cannot be laid at the feet of Jesus. Therefore the question about Jesus as Messiah cannot be truthfully answered and it yet remains a matter of faith. Time will tell.

Justin suspects that some Jewish Christians who encourage Gentile Christians to keep the law may in fact be responsible for turning them into proselytes to Judaism. The continuing attraction of Judaism to Gentiles, whether Christian or not, suggests that this is a plausible explanation. So I suggest that Justin is extremely sensitive concerning the status of Jews who have become Christians because he fears that some of them will encourage Gentile Christians to keep the law - and that will prove to be the crucial step on the path towards a complete transfer to Judaism.

This explanation is strengthened by sociological considerations. Justin's Dialogue provides ample evidence that in his day Judaism and Christianity were such keen rivals that sporadic conflict was always likely. Sociologists remind us that where groups are in conflict, the sharpness of the reaction to the "inner enemy" is in proportion to the sharpness of the conflict with the outer enemies. A group at odds with its arch-rival will react with even more hostility to a heretic than to an apostate, for a heretic still shares many of the goals of his former fellow members. Hatred is directed, not in the first place against opponents of its own view of the world order, but against the dreaded "internal enemy" who is competing for the same end.

In these terms, Jewish Christians who seek to persuade Gentile Christians to keep the law are an "inner enemy", "heretics", whose influence is to be feared.

DIALOGUE 122-3: "PROSELYTES"

These two chapters contain a set of vigorous exchanges over the interpretation of Isaiah 49:6 and 42:6ff., passages which refer to Israel as a "light for the Gentiles". Justin says to Trypho (and his companions): "You all indeed suppose that this [i.e. Isa. 49:6] was said of the stranger and the proselytes. But in reality these words were said of us (as if the Gentile Christians were the light of the world of whom Isaiah spoke and not Israel) who have been enlightened through Jesus ..." (121.1).

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that besides Ignatius who began replacement religion in his few letters around 110 C.E. one must wait for Justin around 160 C.E. for a an official construction of replacement religious doctrines to arise which would be the foundation for all that would come later in the Gentile Church?

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that in Justin's mind the Gentile Church which is apart from Judaism and Jewish Christianity has take the place of Israel in the Bible?

Justin continues, "These things also [Isa 42:6ff.], Gentlemen, have been spoken with reference to the Christ, and concerning the Gentiles that have been enlightened. Or will you say again: with reference to the Law and the proselytes he says these things'" (122.3).

Then some of those who had come on the second day (other Gentiles who have been enlightened toward Judaism and Trypho's friends) cried out as though in a theatre: 'What then? Does He [God] not say them with reference to the Law and those that have been enlightened by it' Now these are the proselytes' (122.4). These Gentile semi-proselytes to Judaism knew full well themselves that the passage misapplied by Justin was intended for them. They were the living proof and fulfillment of the verses in Isaiah; they had received the truth from the Jews as God had always intended!

In his reply Justin insists that Isaiah 42:6ff. does not refer to "the old law and its proselytes, but Christ and his proselytes, us Gentiles, whom he enlightened...". Justin denies not only that the Jews have enlightened Gentiles since Jacob but the historical fulfillment of the passage and since failing to exegete the passage properly reads into the passage what he desires; this has been done now for 1800 years by Gentile Christianity.

There are several points of particular interest in this passage.

- When Justin denies that the two passages from Isaiah refer to proselytes to Judaism, Trypho's companions fly into a rage. Their reaction suggests that they set great store by these passages: they insist that they themselves, as would-be proselytes, are enlightened by the law. A number of passages in Jewish writings state that the law is the light of the world, especially for proselytes. One need not only look at the Old Testament which testifies to this repeatedly but Philo: Joseph and Asenath; The Testament of the Twelve Patriarchs; Rabbinic traditions; and even the New Testament itself in places such as Rom. 2:17-20.

Rom 2:17-20 17 Behold, thou art called a Jew, and retest in the law, and makest thy boast of God, 18 And knowest his will, and approvest the things that are more excellent, being instructed out of the law; 19 And art confident that thou thyself art a guide of the blind, a light of them which are in darkness, 20 An instructor of the foolish, a teacher of babes, which hast the form of knowledge and of the truth in the law. (KJV)

Trypho and his companions quote this well-established Jewish exegetical tradition and insist that it refers to them. Justin, however, takes it over and replaces the law with Christ. In short, Justin and Trypho are rivals, both seeking "proselytes" among Gentiles; both claim that Scripture supports their appeal to Gentiles.

- (Justin claims that proselytes not only do not believe, but utter blasphemies against Christ's name doubly more than Trypho himself, and wish both to kill and to torment those who believe on him (122.2). No doubt the reference to the excessive enthusiasm of proselytes is rhetorical exaggeration. Justin immediately adds his own wry, but perceptive, comment: "For they [proselytes] are eager to become like you [Trypho and his fellow Jews] in everything." This suggests that proselytes are uneasy about their status and need to prove themselves, even though Justin alludes to the well-known rabbinic tradition that a circumcised proselyte "is like one who is native born" (123.1; cf. b. Yeb. 47b and 62a)
- In 122.1 "the stranger" is at least partly distinct from "the proselytes". Here we have further evidence for two groups with different levels of attachment to Judaism. This is what I have been teaching in this and other websites all along and we have now a 2nd Century witness by one opposed to Judaism that this is the case; different Covenants with different Covenant responsibilities and stipulations.

CONCLUDING OBSERVATIONS

Justin's Dialogue indicates that in the middle of the second century both Judaism and Christianity were concerned to maintain tight boundaries. Trypho complains that Christians (unlike Jews) do not mark themselves off from pagans (Christians were indistinguishable often from the pagans). Take time now to read the article entitled: Disturbing Quotes which concerns the Gentile Christian faith by scholars which speak about how Gentile Christianity is basically paganism unchanged where they only have attributed to a Jewish Rabbi prior pagan concepts and have tried to pass this off to the world as Divine Revelation He also mentions that some Jewish teachers forbid Jews to enter into conversation with Christians - lest they be persuaded by "blasphemous" Christian claims (38.1; 112.4). Justin's references to alleged Jewish persecution of Christians also point to Jewish anxiety lest community boundaries be breached.

Justin is concerned to maintain tight boundaries on the Christian side. He will not tolerate Jewish Christians who are not in full fellowship with Gentile Christians. Justin is very sensitive about Jewish Christians who persuade Gentile Christians to keep the law: he suspects that under their influence some Gentile Christians may move over completely to the Jewish polity (47.3-4).

And yet in spite of the concerns of both "synagogue" and "church" to maintain tight boundaries, there is movement across both boundary lines. This has happened in the past, and there is an expectation that it will happen in the future; but this is mainly determined by the availability of knowledge of the truth and its availability to the Gentiles who never had the opportunity to know the truth about Jesus and the Jewish Scriptures before they were altered by the Essenes and later by Rome. In short, there is keen "on the ground" rivalry - and this is surely the mainspring of the intolerance expressed on both sides.

Justin's Dialogue suggests that there were different levels of attachment to both communities. On the Jewish side there were proselytes whose status was often ambiguous; would-be proselytes, such as Trypho's companions; other Gentile sympathizers or "Godfearers"; some Jews who acknowledged Christ, but were not in full fellowship with Gentile Christians; and some Gentile Christians who had "gone over" to Judaism.

On the Christian side there were two kinds of Jewish Christians, one acceptable to Justin, and one not; there were also Gentile Christians who seemed likely to go over to Judaism (47.1-4).

No doubt both sides hoped to consolidate the level of commitment of those on the "fringes" of their communities. From a later period a tradition expresses what is likely to have been the case in Justin's "school" as well as in synagogues: "when the sage takes his seat to expound doctrine, many strangers become proselytes" (Cant. Rab. 1.15; cf. 1.3 and 4.2). This is simply because one the Jewish sages and scholars begin to teach the truth about history, the corruption of their Holy texts, God's warnings about the Gentile nations repenting from idolatry and sun-worship, and the truth about the Messianic prophecies then these Gentiles were become associated with Judaism in great numbers. Such threatened the powers of be in the Gentile world such as governments for example. This tide of association with Judaism had to stop. We seen the attitude of such Gentiles who had been instructed in Judaism having been once enlightened: they ridiculed and mocked Justin for failing to see what they had been shown and his failure to turn from such folly once it is exposed. To them Justin was a laughing stock. These enlightened Gentiles now recognized their solar worship for what it was; an affront to God and crude idolatry and they turned from idols to serve the living God.

1Thes 1:9 9 For they themselves shew of us what manner of entering in we had unto you, and how ye turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God; (KJV)

Justin would not do that. As we have seen, the Dialogue contains important neglected evidence for the existence in the middle of the second century of "God-fearers", even though Justin does not use a specific term for Gentiles who already have some attachment to the synagogue.

Answer for yourself: Why did Justin write his Dialogue? I do not think that his main aim was to "win over"

Jews such as Trypho. If that had been his hope and expectation, he would not have allowed Trypho to go his own way. Justin must have recognized that some Gentiles (such as Trypho's companions) were so strongly attached to Judaism that their conversion was unlikely. Perhaps his primary appeal (via his Christian "school") was to Gentiles who were broadly sympathetic to both Judaism and Christianity - Gentiles who did not appreciate the differences, Gentiles with a weak level of attachment either to Christianity or to Judaism. In other words he was trying to lay a foundation that not only might work in his day to dissuade Gentiles from associating with Judaism (semi-proselytes or fully converted Proselytes) as well as the days to come. Justin might not have succeeded with Trypho and his Gentile Godfearers but Rome will use this piece of literature to it's fullest advantage and Justin and his Dialogue become the very foundational document for Rome's Replacement Religious doctrines for 2000 years.

Let us end with this thought. Justin's friends, the two Gentiles who had been instructed in religious matters and texts by Israelites (the light of the world) both knew and saw the folly of Gentile Christianity. Let us not forget that they had once been where Justin was at...in the middle of idolatry and they like Justin did not know it. Upon instruction in the Torah and accepting their Covenant with God (the Covenant of Noah) they were contemplating going beyond the Laws of Noah and fulfilling Isa. 56 in their lives whereby they would acquire more mitzvot and make full conversion to Judaism. They, unlike Christians today, did not see the Law as a burden or a curse. What did they know that you have not been taught? These companions of Trypho demonstrate that it is perfectly permissible to believe in Jesus as Israel's Messiah and yet obey the Law of your Covenant. This is the way God intended...obedience to the Laws of our Covenant. The issues of the Messiah will honestly never be decided for sure until the Messiah either appears or returns. But belief in Messiah was never contingent upon salvation for either the Jew or the non-Jew and we see Justin admitting this in the 2nd Century C.E. Let us leave with this concluding remark The Great Commission had been continuing for almost 150 years and we see the fruit of it in the lives of Trypho's (himself a Jew) friends (themselves non-Jewish). They were practicing Biblical faith under the umbrella of Biblical Judaism and not Roman Christianity whereby they adhered to the Laws of their Covenant and desired to do more. The kodak-moment left to us by Justin is telling; Biblical Judaism whereby it is a light to the nations was a world power to be reckoned with as God intended. Sadly the power of Rome would later triumph over the power of Israel.

Answer for yourself: Understanding this picture as historically accurate from an "adversaries viewpoint" then did the Apostles go out carry out the Great Commission wrong following Pentecost? Not at all in fact we see that Gentile followers of Jesus were taught Judaism and their place within it way into the 2nd Century in fulfillment of the Great Commission. You need now ask yourself how we got so far away from the faith of Jesus and investigate to find the answers for yourself. Only then will you be fully convinced that we as non-Jews and Christian believers have lived our lives under the Roman yoke and not the yoke of the Torah and this has assured us that we live as apostates from the faith once given to the saints.

Besides commentary much of the above article was taken from Graham N. Stanton and Guy G. Stroumsa in their Tolerance And Intolerance In Early Judaism And Christianity (pp. 263-278)

DISTURBING QUOTES ABOUT THE CHRISTIAN FAITH...CAN THIS BE TRUE AND I NOT KNOW IT?

Let us begin this serious study with a series of very disturbing quotes. The information presented in these Web Pages is not provided as a form of entertainment. I strongly suggest that you do not continue your study and search for truth in these pages unless you are willing to take responsibility for what you learn.

2 Peter 2:21... "For it had been better for them not to have know the way of righteousness, than, after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandments delivered unto them. (KJV)

THE TESTIMONY OF THE APOSTLE PAUL INCRIMINATES THE FAITH THAT HE IS TEACHING THE GENTILES

We find Saint Paul, the first Apostle of the Gentiles, avowing that he was made a minister of the Gospel which had already been preached to every creature under heaven...

Col 1:23 23 If ye continue in the faith grounded and settled, and be not moved away from the hope of the gospel, which ye have heard, and which was preached to every creature which is under heaven; whereof I Paul am made a minister; (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did you catch that?

Paul is stating that he, the Apostle to the Gentiles, is preaching a message that HAS ALREADY BEEN PREACHED TO EVERY CREATURE UNDER HEAVEN! This bears some deep thought. I did just that. This opened my heart and mind to considerable in-depth study to fathom out the depths of what this one verse alluded.

Simply said, Saint Paul was preaching a God manifest in the flesh, who had been believed on in the world before the commencement of his ministry. Dear one, this could not have been Jesus of Nazareth, who had certainly not been preached at that time, nor generally believed on in the world till ages after. Saint Paul owns himself a deacon, which is the lowest ecclesiastical grade of the Therapeutan church. Many wonderful books yet exist which explains this verse. Unfortunately it is not comforting to a Christian to learn the truth about "the Gospel" which Paul taught. I will now quote from a rather old book by Bunsen called The Angel-Messiah published in London in 1867. The following quote is taken from page 240:

"The Gospel of which Paul's Epistles speak had been extensively preached and fully established before the time of Jesus by the Therapeutae or Essenes, who believed in the doctrine of the Angel-

Messiah, the Aeon from heaven; the doctrine of the "Anointed Angel," the doctrine of the atoning sacrificial death of Jesus by the blood of his cross; the doctrine of the Messianic ante-type of the Paschal lamb and of the Paschal omer, and thus the resurrection of Jesus Christ the third day according to the Scriptures-these doctrines of Paul can with more or less certainty be connected with the Essenes...It becomes almost a certainty that Eusebius was right in surmising that Essenic writing have been used by Paul and the evangelists. Not Jesus, but Paul, is the cause of the separation of the Jews from the Christians."

What Bunsen fails to tell us here explicitly, and which is alluded to only implicitly, is that the origin of this crucified "Angel-Anointed, Angel-Messiah", "Crucified Savior" had its roots in Ancient Astronomy of Egypt and before and is connected with the allegorized worship of the Sun by the Gentile nations.

What one fails to understand when he hears the word "Essene" is that in the time of Yeshua these "Essenes" were no longer a holy lineage from Zadok, but were rather Pythagorean in their beliefs. Such a religious synthesis explains on the part of the Essenes of the first century how they came to believe in the crucified sungod-men of which I will explain later in other websites. Let us resume for now.

The very ancient and Eastern doctrine of an Angel-Messiah had been applied to Gautama-Buddha, who predicted that another Avatar (an incarnated deity in some shape in the earth; usually of Hindu origin) would come upon the earth in six hundred years after his death. This time had nearly expired; so Jesus of Nazareth was proclaimed as the expected Messiah by these Buddhist Jews, and the Sun-Myths were interwoven with his real history. Jesus unquestionably possessed a nature as divine as it is possible for a human being to possess, or he would not otherwise have been received as the Angel-Messiah by a sect so pure and holy as were the Essenes.

But let us not stop short of the other disturbing quotes.

THE EARLY CHURCH FATHERS INCRIMINATE THEMSELVES AND THE GENTILE CHRISTIAN FAITH...AND I BET YOU NEVER KNEW THIS...DID YOU?

In Seminary I remember looking at the Library shelves that supported the multiple volumes of the Ante-Nicean Fathers. I beheld thousand and thousands of pages of their writings. I even amused myself that to read and understand such a large volume of literature would take years. It did and I was shocked at what I found within many of them.

What I came to admire about such writings is when you read enough of them you find that these "pro-Christian" writers often incriminated themselves with what they wrote. The following examples are for your benefit.

But a warning first. I don't desire to destroy anyone's faith in "Jesus" or "the Christ"; rather teach correctly and truthfully the concepts of "Jesus Christ", which can be found in Egypt as far back as 10,000 years B.C.E.. In order to do that we have to be diligent in scholarly study if we ever hope to wade through the lies of the Roman Church and their Antisemitism that changed the Ancient Spiritual Wisdom concerning this "Jesus/Horus" and "the Christ/Karast". So understand as you begin to read shocking quotes from many Christian heroes, who confess their forgery of "the Christ" and the "Jesus Story", as well as other historians and scholars listed below, know that I show this to you not to hurt your faith but to alert you to the FACT that the "Pattern of Worship" connected to "the Christ" and the Ancient Divine Revelation concerning God's "Pattern of Worship", as handed down from Egypt to the Jewish nation, has been tragically altered by Antisemitic Rome. Only when we face the horrible fact that we, as Christians and followers of "the Christ", have been deceived and lied to about God most of our lives in our forged Bibles, can we repent of a "false religion" and a "profane worship of God" and begin to seek and recover these long lost truths that teach the truth about God our Creator and His "Pattern of Worship" given to all mankind in the beginning of time. This is "the faith once given to the saints" we read about in the New Testament and this "one faith" is best found today in Judaism, the religion that Rome tried to destroy. Read Constantine's Easter Letter to see this for yourself.

I used to ask our congregation: "Do you want the truth before you die"? Well, if you do, keep reading but be prepared for just the "tip of the iceberg" which you find when you look into these statements in your own personal scholarly study.

JUSTIN MARTYR

Eusebius, in his Church History, tells us that Justin, in his Dialogue with Trypho, says "there exists not a people, civilized or semi-civilized, who have not offered up prayers in the name of a crucified Savior to the Father and Creator of all things" (Hist. Eccl. lib i. ch. iv).

The honesty of Justin Martyr as portrayed here is the heart of the subject matter of these web pages. I intend to show you that from the beginning of time the pagan nations had their "crucified Sun-gods" and much recorded about Jesus of Nazareth in the New Testament is nothing more than the "re-telling" of the same Sun-Myths; the only difference is that now they are applied to the life of Jesus the Jew. Do you want the truth before you die? Then keep reading.

EUSEBIUS

Eusebius says that "the names of Jesus and Christ were both known and honored by the ancients" (Hist. Eccl. lib. i. ch. iv).

Answer for yourself: How could this be?

Eusebius, the great champion of Christianity, admits in his book: "that which is called the Christian religion is neither new nor strange, but-if it be lawful to testify the truth-was known to the ancients" (Hist. Eccl. lib. 2, ch. v.).

Answer for yourself: How could this be?

Eusebius, who is our chief guide for the early history of the Church, confesses that he was by no means scrupulous to record the whole truth concerning the early Christians in the various works which he has left behind him (Eusebius, Hist. Eccl., ch. viii. p. 21).

Edward Gibbon, speaking of Eusebius says: "The gravest of the ecclesiastical historians, Eusebius himself, indirectly confesses that he has related what might rebound to the glory, and that he has suppressed all that could tend to the disgrace, of religion. Such an acknowledgment will naturally excite a suspicion that a writer who has so openly violated one of the fundamental laws of history has not paid a very strict regard to the observance of the other; and the suspicion will derive additional credit from the character of Eusebius, which was less tinctured with credulity, and more practiced in the arts of courts, than that of almost any of his contemporaries" (Gibbon, Rome, vol. ii., Philadelphia, 1876).

SAINT AUGUSTINE

Augustine is quoted as saying: "That in our time is the Christian Religion, which to know and follow is the most sure and certain health, called according to that name, but not according to the thing itself, of which is the name; for the thing itself which is now called the Christian Religion really was known to the ancients, nor was wanting at any time from the beginning of the human race until the time when Christ came in the flesh, from whence the true religion, which had previously existed, began to be called "Christian;" and this in our days is the Christian religion, not as having been wanting in former times, but as having in later times received this name" (Opera Augustini, vol. i. p. 12; quoted in Taylor's Diegesis, p. 42).

Answer for yourself: How could this be?

Now if you read these quotes you have to admit that they are very troubling to the contemporary Christian. I always heard: "Where there is smoke there is fire" [pardon the pun please]. If you find the courage to look beyond these quotes then you will find the kindling used by Rome for the profaning of the Ancient Spiritual Wisdom where they "literalized" all prior allegories, myths, and legends in creating a "literal-historical" Christ where before all Ancient understandings of the Logos/Karast/Christ had been expressed as Divine Allegories expressing the Divine Truth of God's Indwelling in all mater; ie, in particular in the flesh of mankind where He resides as "the Christ". These Spiritual Divine concepts were "literalized" by Rome and confined to "one person only" and in so doing mankind was robbed of the Divine Revelation of his Divinenes. The result of this adulteration of Spiritual Truth is that Christianity practiced by the Gentile Church has become little more than a manifestation of "literalized sunworship."

TERTULLIAN

Tertullian, one of the Christian Fathers (A.D. 200), originally a Pagan, and at one time Presbyter of the Christian Church in Africa, reasons in the following manner on the evidences of Christianity: "I find no other means to prove myself to be impudent with success, and happily a fool, than by my contempt of shame, - as, for instance, I maintain that the Son of God was born. Why am I not ashamed of maintaining such a thing? Why, but because it is itself a shameful thing. I maintain that the Son of God died. Well, that is wholly credible, because it is monstrously absurd. I maintain that after having been buried he rose again; and that I take to be mainly true, because it was manifestly impossible" (Taylor, Diegesis, p. 326).

For example, early Church Father Tertullian (@ 160-220 C.E.), an "ex-Pagan" and Bishop of Carthage, ironically admits the true origins of the "Jesus Story" or the "Christ Story" and of all other such godmen by stating in refutation of his critics, "You say we worship the sun; so do you" (Wheless, Forgery in Christianity, p. 147).

Interestingly, a previously strident believer and defender of the faith, Tertullian later renounced Christianity. (Wheless, Forgery in Christianity, p. 147).

OTHER INCRIMINATING QUOTES CHALLENGING THE TRUTHFULNESS OF THE CHRISTIAN FAITH

THOMAS PAINE

"The Christian religion is a parody on the worship of the Sun, in which they put a man whom they call Christ, in the place of the Sun, and pay him the same adoration which was originally paid to the Sun."

AMMONIUS SACCUS

Ammonius Saccus, a Greek philosopher, founder of the Neoplatonic school, taught that Christianity and Paganism when rightly understood, differ in no essential points, but had a common origin, and are really one and the same religion (Taylor, Diegesis, p. 329).

GODFREY HIGGINS

Godfrey Higgins, in Anacalypsis, states: "that every part of the vulgar Christian religion is the same as that of the vulgar religion of the Gentiles; that there is nothing new in the Roman Catholic religion; that, in short it is Reformed or Protestant Gentilism." He goes on to say: "several of the most important doctrinal parts of corrupt modern Christianity are nothing more than scraps of the Heathen mythologies of various kinds taught by different nations, long previous to the Christian era...the immaculate conception, the incarnation, the trinity, with its various hypostases, and the crucifixion and resurrection..." He further states: "It is more than probable that every part has been copied from some former religion; that no part of what has been really the system of the Christian priests was invented originally for their use. To tradition it is indebted for every doctrine and rite which it possesses; to fraudulent and dishonest practices it is chiefly indebted for their establishment."

CELSUS

Celsus, the Epicurean philosopher, wrote that "the Christian religion contains nothing but what Christians hold in common with heathen; nothing new" (Justin, Apol 2.).

Celsus, in the Octavius of Minucius Felix, says: "All these fragments of crack-brained opiniary and silly solaces played off in the sweetness of song by deceitful [Pagan] poets, by you too credulous creatures [that is, the Christians] have been shamefully reformed and made over to your own god]".

ISAAC DE CASAUBON

Issac de Casaubon, one of the greatest ecclesiastical scholars, says: "It mightily affects me to see how many there were in the earliest times of the Church, who considered it as a capital exploit to lend to heavenly truth the help of their own inventions, in order that the new doctrine might be more readily received by the wise among the Gentiles. These officious lies, they were wont to say, were devised for a good end" (Taylor, Diegesis, p. 44).

FAUSTUS

Faustus, writing to St. Augustine, says: "You have substituted your agape for the sacrifices of the Pagans; for their idols you martyrs, whom you serve with the very same honors. You appease the shades of the dead with wine and feasts; you celebrate the solemn festivals of the Gentiles, their calendars, and their solstices; and as to their manners, those you have retained without any alteration. Nothing distinguishes you from the Pagans, except that you hold your assemblies apart from them" (Draper, Science and Religion, p. 48. New York: 1876).

GREGORY OF NAZIANZUS

Gregory, writing to St. Jerome, says: "A little jargon is all that is necessary to impose on the people. The less they comprehend the more they admire. Our forefathers and doctors have often said, not what they thought, but what circumstances and necessity dictated" (Hieron ad. Nep., quoted in Volney's Ruins, p.

177, Boston, 1872).

ALBERT CHURCHWARD

Mythicist Albert Churchward stated a century ago: "The canonical gospels can be shown to be a collection of sayings from the Egyptian Mythos and Eschatology" (The Origin and Evolution of Religion).

BARBARA WALKER

The assertion that Jesus Christ is a myth [reincarnation of Pagan Sun-Myths] can be proved not only through the works of dissenters and "pagans" who knew the truth - and who were viciously refuted or murdered for their battle against the Christian priests and "Church Fathers" fooling the masses with their fictions - but also through the very statements of the Christians themselves, who continuously disclose that they knew Jesus Christ was a myth founded upon more ancient deities located throughout the known ancient world. In fact, Pope Leo X, privy to the truth because of his high rank, made this curious declaration, 'What profit has not that fable of Christ brought us!'" (The Woman's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets, by Barbara Walker, p. 471). Rev. Taylor, in The Diegesis, reports a slightly different version of Leo X's admission: "It was well known how profitable this fable of Christ has been to us." (footnote, p. 35.)

KERSEY GRAVES

The Jesus story incorporated elements from the tales of other deities recorded in this widespread area, such as many of the following world saviors and "sons of God," most or all of whom predate the Christian myth, and a number of whom were crucified or executed. Many on this list come from The World's Sixteen Crucified Saviors by Graves. This is not to suggest that all of these god-men characters were utilized in the formation of the Christian myth, as overt contact had not occurred in such places as Mexico or Bermuda. Also, modern orthodoxy does not allow for the dates provided by Graves, i.e., that Quetzalcoatl originates in the 6th B.C.E., a date far too early in the orthodox perspective. However, we utilize this list to demonstrate that the same concepts are found worldwide with and without cultural exchange, because they are derived from the same astro-theological observations. Also, we are in concurrence with the "ancient advanced civilization" theory ("Atlantis") that would allow for one or more centralized civilizations to have spread throughout the world during a very remote period in protohistory, thus taking with it the well-developed Mythos and Ritual, which would then mutate into the various forms found around the globe.

M. TURRETIN

Mr. Turretin, in describing the state of Christianity in the fourth century, says "that it was not so much the empire that was brought over to the faith, as the faith that was brought over to the empire; not the Pagans who were converted to Christianity, but Christianity that was converted to Paganism" (Taylor, Diegesis, p. 50).

EDWARD GIBBON

Edward Gibbon says: "It must be confessed that the ministers of the Catholic Church imitated the profane model which they were impatient to destroy. The most respectable bishops had persuaded themselves that the ignorant rustics would more cheerfully renounce the superstitions of Paganism if they found some resemblance, some compensation, in the bosom of Christianity. The religion of Constantine achieved in less than a century the final conquest of the Roman empire; but the victors themselves were insensibly subdued by the arts of their vanquished rivals" (Gibbon, Rome, vol. iii. p. 163).

EMPEROR HADRIAN

The early Christians were charged with being a sect of sun-worshippers (Bonwick, Egyptian Belief, p. 283). The Emperor Hadrian could see no difference between them and the followers of the ancient Egyptian god Serapis, who was the Sun. In a letter to the Consul Servianus, the Emperor says: "There are there [in Egypt] Christians who worship Serapis and devoted to Serapis are those who call themselves 'Bishops of Christ'" (Giles, Hebrew and Christian Records, vol. ii. p. 86. London: 1877).

JOSEPH WHELESS

"The reason why all these narratives are so similar, with a god-man who is crucified and resurrected, who does miracles and has 12 disciples, is that these stories were based on the movements of the sun through the heavens, an astro-theological development that can be found throughout the planet because the sun and the 12 zodiac signs can be observed around the globe. In other words, Jesus Christ and all the others upon whom this character is predicated are personifications of the sun, and the Gospel fable is merely a rehash of a mythological formula (the "Mythos," as mentioned above) revolving around the movements of the sun through the heavens." The logical question arises: Why, if Jesus is a historical character, are there are presently two dates for both Christmas and Easter? This purportedly well-known character, who set the world on fire, has no birthdate whatsoever, and the "historical" references and genealogies found in the gospel accounts differ from each other. The gospels are not history at all but a retelling of the Mythos. The historical Jesus is a phantom. "These, which cannot both be historical, are based on the two birthdays of the double Horus in Egypt." In addition, early Christian "doctors" were constantly contradicting themselves as to when exactly "the Lord" died or "ascended to heaven" after "he" was resurrected. Two of the most powerful early bishops, Irenaeus and Papias recorded that Christ lived to be very old, "flatly denying as 'heresy' the Gospel stories as to his crucifixion at about thirty years of age."

Joseph Wheless states, "The gospels are all priestly forgeries over a century after their pretended dates." "As said by the great critic, Salomon Reinach, 'With the exception of Papias, who speaks of a narrative by Mark, and a collection of sayings of Jesus, no Christian writer of the first half of the second century (i.e., up to 150 A.D.) quotes the Gospels or their reputed authors.'" In The Book Your Church Doesn't Want You to Read, John Remsburg states: "The Four Gospels were unknown to the early Christian Fathers. Justin Martyr, the most eminent of the early Fathers, wrote about the middle of the second century. His writings in proof of the divinity of Christ demanded the use of these Gospels had they existed in his time. He makes more than 300 quotations from the books of the Old Testament, and nearly one hundred from the Apocryphal books of the New Testament; but none from the four Gospels. Rev. Giles says: 'The very names of the Evangelists, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, are never mentioned by him (Justin) - do not occur once in all his writings.'" In A Short History of the Bible, Keeler says, "The books [canonical gospels] are not heard of till 150 A.D., that is, till Jesus had been dead nearly a hundred and twenty years. No writer before 150 A.D. makes the slightest mention of them." (J. Wheless, Forgery in Christianity).

"Those who concocted some of the hundreds of "alternative" gospels and epistles that were being kicked about during the first several centuries C.E. have even admitted that they had forged the documents." Wheless quotes the Catholic Encyclopedia: "Enterprising spirits responded to this natural craving by pretended gospels full of romantic fables, and fantastic and striking details; their fabrications were eagerly read and accepted as true by common folk who were devoid of any critical faculty and who were predisposed to believe what so luxuriously fed their pious curiosity. Both Catholics and Gnostics were concerned in writing these fictions. The former had no motive other than that of a PIOUS FRAUD."

Forgery during the first centuries of the Church's existence was admittedly rampant, so common in fact that a new phrase was coined to describe it: 'pious fraud.'" Wheless, op cit. Mangasarian states: "The church historian, Mosheim, writes that, 'The Christian Fathers deemed it a pious act to employ deception and fraud.' [Ecclesiastical Hist., Vol. I, p. 347.] Again, he says: 'The greatest and most pious teachers were nearly all of them infected with this leprosy.' Will not some believer tell us why forgery and fraud were necessary to prove the historicity of Jesus. . . . Another historian, Milman, writes that, 'Pious fraud was admitted and avowed by the early missionaries of Jesus.' 'It was an age of literary frauds,' writes Bishop Ellicott, speaking of the times immediately following the alleged crucifixion of Jesus. Dr. Giles declares that, 'There can be no doubt that great numbers of books were written with no other purpose than to deceive.' And it is the opinion of Dr. Robertson Smith that, 'There was an enormous floating mass of spurious literature created to suit party views.'"

Such prevarication is confessed to repeatedly in the Catholic Encyclopedia. Wheless: "The clerical confessions of lies and frauds in the ponderous volumes of the Catholic Encyclopedia alone suffice . . . to wreck the Church and to destroy utterly the Christian religion. . . . The Church exists mostly for wealth and self-aggrandizement; to quit paying money to the priests would kill the whole scheme in a couple of years. This is the sovereign remedy" (J. Wheless, Forgery in Christianity). As Wheless says, "The proofs of my indictment are marvelously easy."

THE EPISTLE OF BARNABAS & THE THE LOSS OF JEWISH "PATTERN OF WORSHIP"

Soon after the Jewish apostles died, leadership of the Church was transferred to people who had no great respect for Jews or Judaism. Rather than seeing Jewish people as erring brethren to whom they were indebted for the gifts of Scripture, the Messiah and Old Testament saints, the Jewish people were looked upon as reprobates hated by God. Sentiment expressed against some Jewish leaders by Jewish followers of Yeshua was used by later non-Jewish leaders as an indictment of all Jewish people. The Epistle of Barnabas, from the end of the first century, reflects this negative attitude and applies it to Jewish practices as well. As H. L. Ellison put it, "Already the so-called Epistle of Barnabas, which may go back to the last decade of the first century, uses such language about Jews, Judaism and the Law, as to make any effective contact between the two sides virtually impossible. As soon as it had the power, the Gentile Church did its utmost to defeat God's purpose. It persecuted and bullied, thereby automatically putting itself in the wrong. It spread the vilest calumnies about the Jews" (Ellison, H. L., The Mystery of Israel, Grand Rapids, Michigan: Eerdmans, 1966, 82ff).

Many writers did not display an accurate understanding of the very things they criticized, including the nature of the Old Testament revelation. Ignatius of Antioch, in the same period, was clear in indicating the uselessness of all Jewish things. Justin Martyr, one of the famed leaders of the early second century, spoke of Jewish people and practice in condescending terms. In his dialogue with Trypho, he expressed dismay over the fact that Jewish followers of Yeshua still maintained their cultural identity and practice. He accepted the possibility of their salvation, but could not understand Jewish practice as a way of expressing their faith. Justin believed that fulfillment by Yeshua eliminated Jewish things. These and other antisemites like them never desired adherence to this "Pattern of Worship" and influenced negatively many others to depart from it.

Two significant historical events, the 1st (66–70 CE) and 2nd (133–135 CE) Jewish revolts against Rome, changed the balance between the number of Jewish and Gentile believers in the body of Messiah. Moreover, other factors converged to cause the Gentile believers to separate themselves from their Hebraic roots and the synagogue. These events included:

- The influx of more Gentile converts than Jewish converts
- The destruction of Jerusalem, the Temple and traditional Judaism
- The expulsions of Jews from Rome and Judea
- The antagonism between traditional Judaism and the Messianic believers
- The growing battle between traditional Judaism and the increasingly numerous Gentile believers.
- Anti-Jewish Polemics and Writings such as the Epistle of Barnabas and many others

Few Christians have ever read the Epistle of Barnabas and do not know of its importance today. The Epistle of Barnabas (130-138 CE, probably in Alexandria) is valuable because it contains the first explicit mention of Sunday observance by the Christians. The writer who assumes the identity of Barnabas is acute in his attacks on almost all "Jewish" practices. The purpose of his epistle was to provide a basis for the total rejection of Judaism as a religious practice and to provide a theological basis for Christians to forsake "Jewish" practices and take on their new role as the true Israel. He condemned Christians who continued certain Torah observances by stating, "take heed to yourselves and be not like some, piling up your sins and saying that the covenant is theirs as well as ours. It is ours, but they lost it completely just after Moses received it . . ." (Epistle of Barnabas 4:6-9).

Answer for yourself: Did you catch that? Is declared sin for the Gentile believer to see that Jews and Gentiles share much of the same Covenants of God. Here we have the seedbed of Replacement Religion as Israel is being stripped of her "calling to the Gentile world" by this antisemitic writer masquerading as Paul's traveling friend Barnabas. Much could be said about this epistle but for now understand that it is singularly responsible for increasing intolerance to those Christians who desired to practice Scriptural commands which were modeled by the Jewish believers.

Many in the Church assume that practices such as Sunday worship and Easter celebration, etc., have existed since the book of Acts. Furthermore, many think the Biblical Holy Days were never a valid form of Christian worship. However, when we examine Church history we find a totally different picture. As we go back in time, approaching the era when the early Christian believers separated themselves from the Messianic believers, we discover that the earliest Christian assemblies worshipped on the Sabbath and kept the Biblical Holy Days. Numerous Christian and non-Christian historians of the ante and post-Nicene period have left us with a plethora of information concerning the practices and beliefs of the early Christian assemblies. It is a fact that the early Christian Gentile Churches not only continued to meet on the Sabbath but observed the Biblical Feasts and Festivals. Besides this we can see the Gentile being incorporated into the "Pattern of Worship" given to King David and handed down through Solomon and we can see that this same "Pattern of Worship" existed in first century both inside and outside Israel and was reflective of the synagogues in Asia Minor as well.

Answer for yourself: Were you aware that there even exists a "Pattern for Worship" given by God to mankind? Do you think that your Gentile Church even knows of this today? Are the Jewish people the only ones following this "Pattern of Worship" in the world today? Do you want to know of this "Pattern for Worship" given to David and follow it today as did the Gentiles and Jews of past centuries? Can God be happy that we have diverted from this "Pattern" and come up with our own "Replacement" worship?

Answer for yourself: What was this "Pattern of Worship" that was followed by the Jews and taught as well to the non-Jewish God-fearers who were coming to God and attending the synagogues of the first century both in side and outside Israel?

Answer for yourself: Can it be shown that this same "Pattern of Worship" was followed by the early Gentile Church up and until the edict of Constantine which abolished it in the middle 4th century?

Answer for yourself: Do we as Christians follow this "Pattern of Worship" today in Catholicism and Protestantism?

Answer for yourself: And if not then is possible to recover this "Pattern of Worship" today in our Christian Churches?

These are important questions that deserve our strongest attention and it is to these answers that we now seek through the study of the articles on this website. Let us begin our serious study into the non-Jewish believer in God (God-fearer) and see if we can find adherence to a Divine "Pattern of Worship" both in the Old and New Testaments. The results might surprise you and cause you to rethink what you are being taught today in your Christian Churches. The bottom line you will see is that we as non-Jews have inherited an antisemitic Replacement Religion instead of "the faith once given to the saints" (Jude 1:3).

Jude 1:3 Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that ye should earnestly contend for "the" faith which was once delivered unto the saints. (KJV)

We have already looked at the word "the" and plumed its importance. As a quick refresher the use of the "definite article" (the) refers to the uniqueness of the item addressed. It stands out among all the rest as "uncommon" and not "secular". There is nothing like it to be compared. This is all the more important as we consider that Biblical Judaism is "the" faith which was once for time given by God to mankind. Of course we find these many, but not all of these same religious tenants within Biblical Judaism spread throughout world religions to various degrees but for our purposes here we need only focus on Biblical Judaism as the example of all examples to be followed for not only the Jew but the non-Jew as well.

Strong's Concordance teaches us something about our responsibility regarding this "Pattern of Worship" as it relates to the Greek word "earnestly contend":

75 agonizomai (ag-o-nid'-zom-ahee); from 73; to struggle, literally (to compete for a prize), figuratively (to contend with an adversary), or genitive case (to endeavor to accomplish something): KJV-- fight, labor fervently, strive.

Recovering this "Pattern of Worship" is not easy. God knew of the attempts coming to destroy it by men opposed to Him and His will for mankind so we are told in the strongest terms that we must "struggle and fight with our adversaries fervently" in order to keep, maintain, and restore this "Pattern of Worship" which was ONCE given and delivered to the Saints. Notice as well the word "once".

Thayer's Greek Lexicon states:

530 hapax- 1) once, one time 2) once for all

It sure appears to me that this unique faith which is set apart by the definite article "the" (Biblical Judaism which has a place for the non-Jew within it) is also noted to be given by God once and for all to all mankind (a mixed multitude of Jews and non-Jews at Sinai) and Israel, as God's Holy Nation and Royal Priesthood, is the mediator of this "Pattern of Worship" for all mankind.

RESTORING THE PATTERN OF WORSHIP AND THE FAITH ONCE GIVEN TO THE SAINTS

Being fully aware that often those encountering the worship services of Bet Emet Ministries are confused at the differences they experience when contrasting with their own churches, I felt it was time to express the truths gathered from my many years of study where I discovered the "pattern of service (worship)" given by Yahweh to David as detailed in I Chron. chapter 28. If you were to undertake a comprehensive study of the "pattern" you would be surprised to know that this "pattern of worship" survived among Gentile believers until the fourth century A.D. where it was finally crushed by anti-Semitism and anti-Judaism by the emerging "organized" Gentile Christian church headed by the Emperor Constantine. Efforts to destroy the pattern actually began as early as the middle of the second century with the forgery of Christian religious documents along with the persecution and destruction of the religious writings of the Jews and sadly ultimately succeed over the next three centuries in destroying almost all traces of the Jewish Roots of Christianity. Rome wins! Only by diligent research and scholarship have I been able to "rediscover" the faith once given to the saints. Before we go on let me ask you some important questions if I may:

- If the "pattern" for worship was handed down from David to Solomon and finally to the men of the Great Assembly as headed by Ezra the Scribe, and subsequently handed down to the men of the days of Jesus; then if Jesus, the exemplary Jew is to be our example, why don't we follow Jesus' method of worship as he always adhered to this "pattern" himself?
- Since this "pattern" of worship can be demonstrated to have been handed down to the Jewish converts of the Jesus Messianic Movement within 2nd Temple Judaism as well as to the Gentile converts and Godfearers that came from the fruits of the Great Commission, then why have we not been taught about its necessary components let alone been taught to practice this "Pattern of Worship" in our churches today? Surely the testimony of over 2,500 different Christian denominations reveal to us that no "one Pattern" of worship exists in Christianity today.
- Having learned that the New Testament is full of references to this "Jewish pattern of Worship" in the early church which is composed of both Jews and Gentile believers, then what prevents us from repenting and returning to the worship of God as found in the early church before paganism was mixed with it and it became in large part unacceptable to Yahweh?
- If it can be demonstrated that much of what Paul taught the Gentiles to whom he took "his" Gospel was adherence to "the" pattern of Jewish worship as found in the Holy Scriptures, then what prevents you from reevaluating your current experience in light of God's revelation concerning His will for us in adhering to this Divine Pattern of Worship?
- If it can be shown, and it can through study of the original languages of Scripture, that there is often a different message being conveyed than what is understood in reading the "English" rather than the original languages of the Bible (Hebrew and Greek), and understanding that since Jesus is a Jew, and his followers that took his message to the nations (Gentiles) were also Jewish, then do you not think that it is possible that what was conveyed in Hebrew or Greek is more correct often than what is conveyed in English? Can we get a deeper truth from reading the words of our Bibles in their original language than in the English translations? Could it be that this English translation is partly responsible for obscuring the "Pattern of Worship" from us today?

- If it can be demonstrated that pagan Gentiles influenced the change and abolition of this "Pattern of Worship", should you not want to return to the worship of God that was "in spirit and in truth" before it was corrupted?

Those were very good questions to say the least. The aim of this study is to present the Jewish liturgy in its "original freshness," so that all, both Jews and Christians, may come to see and realize how closely the Rabbis have preserved this "Pattern of Worship" down through history while others have deviated or even replaced this "Pattern of Worship". No renewal can come about except through a rediscovery of our Spiritual Roots and of the historical, spiritual, and cultural soil in which these Jewish Roots gave life to the New Testament experience. The church was born of Judaism and lived its life within Judaism for several decades, and only in the light of Judaism can it perceive and recover its vital identity which is so needful in today's world. But "rethinking theology" can mean only one thing: the rediscovery of the Hebrew and Jewish categories within which Christian experience first appeared and which this experience used in order to communicate its truths as well. We are hearing more and more today such statements as this one of L. Swidler:

"Jesus was a 'Rabbi' and not a 'Father,' a 'teacher,' and not a 'reverend'; he was a Jew and not a Christian; he attended the synagogue and not a church; he celebrated the Sabbath on Saturday and not Sunday; he prayed in Aramaic and Hebrew and not in Greek or Latin; he read the Hebrew Scriptures (Old Testament) and not the New; he recited the psalms and not the rosary; he celebrated pesach (the Jewish Passover), shavu'ot (the Jewish Pentecost), and sukkot (huts) and not Christmas or Lent."

Now comes the hard part for you the reader.

Answer for yourself: Do you have the theological courage to draw the proper theological conclusions from such statements of fact? For me and many others who have studied to know the differences, the assertion of the Jewishness of Jesus must mean an assertion of the inescapable centrality of adherence to Jewish religion in the followers of Jesus and an acceptance of the need of returning to them and measuring ourselves by them in every effort we make to understand the Christian experience.

Answer for yourself: Why should we return to Jewish religion? Why go back in heart and mind to distant Jewish religious teachings that are so alien to the modern scientific and technological mentality as seen in the Gentile Christian church of today? The answer is simple. Those distant symbolic and literal teachings of Jewish religion contain concealed words and expressions of their meaning that if received, heard, and understood, have the power to enrich and give joy to human life as nothing else can. We need to rediscover Hebrew and Jewish truths so that we may once again hear in its original purity the logos and meaning that was revealed by God through them. We must rethink theology with the aid of Hebrew and Jewish perspectives not only because Jesus is Jewish, but to assure ourselves that we practice a faith unaffected by compromises with false worship masquerading itself as "holiness." Love for our origins is in fact a love for the present which is marked by high standards of quality. The rediscovery of one's origins is not a love for events that took place in a distant time; rather they are as it were the foundations that support the present. The rediscovery of origins does not mean a distancing from the present but a recovery of the roots and truths that must sustain the present.

For the sake of understanding, what are the "origins" from which our churches spring and on which today are built:

The Churches of Christ acknowledge that in God's plan of salvation the beginning of her faith and election is to be found in the patriarch, Moses, and the prophets. She professes that all Christ's faithful, who as men of faith are sons of Abraham (Gal. 3:7), are included in the same patriarch's call and that the salvation of the church is mysteriously prefigured in the exodus of God's chosen people from the land of bondage. On this account the church cannot forget that she received the revelation of the Old Testament by way of that people with whom God in his mercy established the ancient covenant of Abraham in which all nations (Gentiles) were to be blessed with the blessings of temporal as well as eternal blessings. Nor can she forget that she draws nourishment from that good olive tree onto which the wild olive branches of the Gentiles have been grafted (Rom. 11:17-24).

Without a doubt Christianity is grounded and sustained by the Hebrew and Jewish origins of its faith, election, call, exodus, people, bondage, Old Testament, covenant, root, peace, and reconciliation.

THE IMPORTANCE OF LITURGY OVER THEOLOGY

Judaism does not have a theology in the strict sense, that is, a systematically organized reflection on God; for the same reason, it gives priority to practical action. This explains the importance of the liturgy. It is this Jewish Liturgy, patterned after the commandments in the Oral and Written Torah, which provides a place for both symbolic and direct encounters with God. Such a place is where one does not speak about God, but speak to God, where one does not think about God but think in the presence of God, and where God is not an object of thought but a subject who calls and challenges His people. This space is made up of words, gestures, music, movements, listening, story telling, silence, rites and ceremonies that have been taught and handed down by God to man since the beginning of time.

For the Church, then, a return to its origins must mean a return to this space in which Israel experienced itself as the people of God. It must mean entering into these rituals of words and gestures, music and movements, and silence and ceremonies that is also ours as Christians. Let the Christian never forget the spiritual ties that link him through the Re-newed Covenant with the stock of Abraham. Such ties between the Church and Israel unite the two and they become one in fulfillment of Scripture. Such a bond is not accidental but essential in light of the revelation of Eph. 4 where there is only "one faith" and not two! The Church's identity is connected with Judaism as it shares the same space and vitality. This co-existent heritage is best expressed by the people of the "Re-newed" Covenant with the stock of Abraham through adherence to the pattern of liturgy "once given to the saints."

For too long the majority of Christian scholars have never taken seriously the fact that Christian experience and, above all, the Christian liturgy are bound up with Jewish religious ceremonies. For them Jesus Christ is presented as the originator of the Christian liturgy; either an absolute originator in regard to both content and form, or content and not form. This is simply not the case and a fabrication and distortion of Biblical history. The truth of the matter is that the forms of worship practiced by Jesus and first century Jews, Converts, and Godfearers were not new but only inherited as handed down from Jewish posterity; in particular King David. So there are two views on this matter. These parties, once split in their opinion have conceded their opinions to the wealth of Biblical scholarship that exists today. Nowadays no informed scholar thinks of looking outside the Biblical and Jewish tradition for the origin of the Christian sacraments and liturgy. But in reading these scholars one develops the sense that the "place of origin" is looked upon as unimportant and concessions are implicitly made that allows for Christianity's divergence from the "pattern" with its resultant inclusion of many facts of paganism that go unnoticed to the unlearned. Besides this, often negative judgments are made and passed upon Jewish worship. On reflection, this is of course a perfectly logical step, since once Jewish worship has been reduced to a lifeless skeleton, what is left but to decide that it is useless and a thing of the past? That is what Constantine believed and said and this idea he imposed upon the world! Such is due to the sinister working of anti-Semitism and anti-Judaism that has infected many doctrinal positions of the contemporary Christian Church, primarily due to dispensational theology which is replete with replacement theology which does such damage to the truths of God's revelation in Holy Scripture.

JESUS AND JEWISH LITURGY

Upon years of scholarship and intense study, I am supremely confident that our need is to reverse the procedure of the scholars I have been describing who espouse Replacement Religion and begin to assert the greatness and originality of the New Testament's depiction of Jesus not outside of Judaism in being in opposition to Judaism thus creating a new replacement religion, but to envision the depiction of the explanatory Jew, Jesus, along with and within Judaism, bringing the finer parts of his faith to life in his own life as he modeled God's truths as demonstrated for us in his recorded teachings, conduct and behavior.

First Century Judaism which gave the world this example of Jesus to follow as the "perfect" man, his mother Mary, the apostles, the early communities, and the first Christians (both Jewish and Gentile) were all nourished by the "Pattern" of worship given by God to David which had been faithfully protected and handed down to their generation. Such prayers, psalms, rites, and ceremonies brought them life because they were God breathed.

In the following articles it is not my purpose to compare Jewish liturgy with the Christian, but rather to present you with truthful information so you can better understand how greatly the original Christian community were indebted to the Jewish liturgy, and above all, how much a part the liturgy plays in "linking" us today with the stock of Abraham and the Churches of Christ that exist today.

RECOVERING GOD'S PATTERN OF WORSHIP...JEWISH WORSHIP

It may be surprising to many of you, but the New Testament, that is, the collection of Christian writings that came into existence in the second half of the first century and later, bears abundant witness to the existence of the Jewish liturgy, not only to the Jewish Messianic congregations but the Gentile congregations in Asia, Minor, as well! This is a startling revelation in light of our experience today as contemporary Christians whose worship is patterned after little, if any, Jewish liturgy as was our counterparts in the first three to four centuries or the Christian era. This witness in the New Testament of Jewish liturgy is unfortunately not descriptive. In other words, it tells us that in the time of Jesus and beyond as seen in the book of Acts, that certain prayers, rituals, and ceremonies existed, but it does not tell us in what they consisted or how they were practiced. The New Testament tells us little about the content, structure, and dynamics of such liturgy. If you wanted to learn what the realities were behind the terms, prayers, rituals, and ceremonies recorded in the New Testament you would have only one recourse open to you: to draw on your own experience through your own direct participation in such liturgies, which is lacking in most Christians, or consult a variety of sources where you could read about the various liturgical rites and texts used in the services. In doing this type of study we stumble at the beginning because we link the words we read to our very own personal experiences and the realities that are a part of our very own cultural world, instead of their intended meaning when spoken in their original setting.

The apostles and the first readers of the Christian scriptures were in a privileged hermeneutical position: when they read of synagogue and Sabbath and Passover, they were brought in contact with realities they knew and were familiar with; for example they observed Passover because the Holy Scriptures instructs us to celebrate and observe it; whereas such observance is foreign and strange to most Christian Churches because they have replaced Passover with "Easter" which was totally foreign to the believers in Jerusalem in the first century. Present-day readers (and those of centuries past) of the Christian scriptures find themselves in the opposite hermeneutical situation: a situation of uneasiness and danger. Uneasiness, because they keep encountering terms now outside their cultural horizon; danger, because they are easily tempted to fill the Jewish words with a content alien to them, a context often 180 degrees opposite their original intended meaning! Such a failure in correct interpretation of the words of our Bibles have lead Christians to mistakenly believe when reading the New Testament that Jesus came to replace Jewish worship with a new variant of Christian worship! This phenomena is extremely important because it shows clearly that the New Testament writings can be approached with different and opposite understandings which may be in harmony or out of harmony with those of the religion of Jesus (Judaism). If they are in harmony, the writings reveal hidden yet luminous meanings which those without the proper understanding of the Hebrew behind the English overlook. Such conditions result in one reading the New Testament with a mistaken understanding, thus arriving at the erroneous conclusion of seeing Jesus and his followers replace the faith and religion given to them by God with one that denies the Eternal Truths and precepts enumerated at Sinai.

If then, we are to avoid misinterpreting the liturgical information provided in the New Testament literature, we much have recourse to other sources that are more directly and explicitly Jewish that explain in detail what is only alluded to in the New Testament. This statement explains the series of publications that Bet Emet has recently begun in order to cite some of the many New Testament passages that attest to the existence of Jewish liturgy in early Gentile Christianity before it was later changed by Rome in the third and fourth centuries. Our studies will contain important documentation of the liturgy in the Temple and synagogues, the liturgy as seen in the Sabbath, and the liturgy as seen in the celebration and observance of Passover, Pentecost, Tabernacles, Hanukkah, and Yom Kippur. Next we will examine "the prayer" (Shema), and the Lord's prayer. Lastly we will conclude with sources from the Mishnah, the Talmud, and the prayerbook (Siddur). Let us not forget that our inquiry is to ascertain and confirm not only the presence of Jewish worship in the early Christian community, both Jewish and Gentile, but to come to an understanding of the worship service as it existed then in order to model our lives in such worship that was "in spirit and in truth."

COMPARISON OF HEBRAIC AND CHRISTIAN RELIGIOUS DOCTRINES...WHICH REFLECT THE "MIND OF CHRIST" THAT IS TO BE IN US?

In Seminary I remember taking courses in Systematic Theology. In other words, what do the Baptist's believe about God, man, sin, redemption, forgiveness, etc. The course was a theological analysis of the Baptist Faith and the rationale for its beliefs in these different areas.

I never will forget after graduation I sat down and asked myself some rather simple questions after having earned my Masters's Degree in Divinity: "How come I didn't learn much about a Jewish Rabbi named Yeshua while at the Seminary", "How come I know so much about Paul but the life of Yeshua was not stressed", "How come I know how to build a church but don't know much concerning a Jewish Jesus", "What was in that mind of Christ anyway and do I believe the same things he did"? That was just the beginning of it for me. From there my thoughts graduated even deeper as I asked myself such heart-stirring questions like these:

- What did the Jewish Jesus believe about God, man, sin, worship, redemption, atonement, forgiveness, salvation, giving, etc.?
- Would the Jewish Jesus hold to my Baptist religious belief system in all these above areas? Did the Jewish Jesus believe differently in these theological areas from which I had been taught by the Baptists?
- What were there religious doctrines I held and were taught at Seminary which the Jewish Jesus could not believe in personally? Which were they?
- If the Jewish Jesus could be demonstrated to believe differently from my religious beliefs in the above theological areas then why should I continue to hold such divergent religious beliefs which can be shown not to be the Jewish Jesus' views in these same areas?
- What religious beliefs do I currently have which the Jewish Jesus could not accept and why continue in them when it can be shown that they oppose and contradict what the Jewish Jesus both believed and practiced as his faith in the first century?
- What was in that mind of Christ and in what areas do my religious belief system contradict what "the Christ" believed?
- How much do I know about the Jewish faith and since Christianity is the supposed fulfillment of Biblical faith then does my Christian faith and religious beliefs contradict Jewish beliefs or do they overlap and confirm them?
- How could I find out such information in order to verify that I truly was a follower of the Jewish Jesus?
- Do I need to study what Judaism teaches and what was in this mind of "the Christ"?

MY PERSONAL QUEST FOR THE JEWISH JESUS & THE TRUTH

Well I had my Masters degree and I began my Pastorate. All was well until I began my study in earnest of Biblical Judaism. My readings into such areas brought me into contact with many scholars, many of which were Jewish. In trying to understand Jesus the Jew I found that by reading Jewish authors who were writing and

"reclaiming" Jesus as a valuable part of Jewish history that I would benefit most since they were balanced and fair in their analysis and presentation of this Jesus in a "positive" light. My thoughts were quickly rewarded by what I uncovered which often provoked me to think thoughts I had never thought before.

After reading hundreds and hundreds of books over the next six years, I was totally shocked to find that the Jewish Jesus/Yeshua was completely different than what was represented by the Gentile Christian Church as the "Protestant Jesus" or the "Catholic Jesus". My blind-spot had been removed as I encountered two entirely different "Jesus". In fact there were 3; a Catholic Jesus, a Protestant Jesus, and a "Jewish Jesus".

Answer for yourself: Which one is the true Jesus and which of the 3 different religious belief systems is the closest to Divine Truth? Which should I follow?

What was most shocking in analyzing the copious amounts of data over the years was that in the vast majority of areas my Protestant "religious beliefs" were shown to be contrary and opposite of what the first century Jew, like this Jesus, had been taught and believed and followed as his faith. My serious examination into Judaism showed me the purposeful forgery of the Greek and later English translations of the Hebrew Scriptures and texts. The result of this forgery of the sacred Hebrew texts of course is quite often a complete alteration of a religious doctrine where the later "translated" and "purposefully altered" text achieves the desired end of the forger; that being a complete and different meaning of the original text than what the original writer had intended for his readers. That explained to me the more I studied why there is such a huge gap between what Biblical Judaism teaches about God and His message and what later Gentile Christianity teaches about God and His message. No wonder the Jewish people and their Hebrew Scriptures teach a completely different way to obtain Eternal Life, a completely different Salvation Message, a completely different way to achieve atonement for sins, a completely way to achieve forgiveness of sins, a completely different understanding of the nature of God, a completely different Messiah, a completely different group of Messianic prophecies, a completely different Sabbath, a completely different group of "Appointed Times" and "Holy Days", a completely different way to tithe, a completely different understanding of evil, and I could go on and on. These faiths, Judaism and Christianity, are as completely different as is day and night. Yet Christianity is taught to be the "fulfillment" of the Old Testament. Something I reasoned had to be desperately wrong with such a premise since there is hardly any "common theological ground" between the two.

This kind of study was very hard for me to take at that time in my life as the stark realization of this awakening rested heavy upon me and I realized the implications for my pastorate. I had invested years and untold resources only to find out that in the final analysis my "religious beliefs" given me by Gentile Christianity about Jesus and God were contrary and conflicting with what this Jewish Jesus would have believed about God and His message to mankind as it existed in the first century. Not only that my Christian "message" conflicted with what Moses and the prophets had taught since day one about God.

I present this information to you not to anger anyone but to warn good Christian people that they have not been told the truth about this man from Galilee which is depicted in our New Testaments. What we need if for the "real Jesus" to please stand up! In hopes of helping your decipher the truth from error concerning the real "Jesus" and what a typical Jew like this Jesus would have believed in the first century which is reflective of normative Biblical Judaism that you can see for yourself that you need to undertake a serious study of your Christian faith if you ever hope to come to the truth about this "Jesus" and "the faith once given the saints". I have categorized in summary fashion points of Systematic Theology for your examination which reflect both the Jewish and the Christian points of view.

If you are reading these pages most likely you are a follower of Yeshua or you think you are. If that be true then it is impossible to follow someone "correctly" unless you know what the person really believed and are aware that you agree theologically in these same areas of religious inquiry. The following is a summary of religious positions taken from Second Temple Judaism and the religion of this Jewish Jesus; for after all Jesus, "the Christ", is depicted in the New Testament as a Jew and not as a Christian. Contrasted with these "Jewish beliefs" are current mainline Christian positions in these same areas. I leave the analysis up to you as well as the conclusions to which you arrive based on your comprehension. I would only ask yourself when reading the following to ask yourself at every junction:

"Which would a Jewish Jew like Jesus believe"?

WHAT WOULD A JEWISH JEW LIKE THIS NEW TESAMENT JESUS OF SECOND TEMPLE JUDAISM BELIEVE?

The following is a comparison of theological interpretations of the Bible by both Judaism and Christianity. One is in error of many of the points of Scripture. With your current understanding and knowledge of the Word of God I invite you to read and compare the respective stances of both camps against the revealed word and will of God in the Bible. Remember our standard is the Word of God and not Catholic and Protestant pronouncements upon the Bible. Next I invite you to investigate it out for yourself in more detail and verify to yourself which views are more in line with Biblical teaching. I thank God I did.

NATURE OF GOD:

Judaism- Monotheism, oneness of God, the Supreme Unity, as opposed to Trinity. One of the primary expressions of Jewish faith, recited twice daily in prayer, is the Shema, which begins "Hear, Israel: The Lord is our God, The Lord is one." This simple statement encompasses several different ideas: There is only one God. No other being participated in the work of creation. God is a unity. He is a single, whole, complete indivisible entity. He cannot be divided into parts or described by attributes. Any attempt to ascribe attributes to God is merely man's imperfect attempt to understand the infinite. God is the only being to whom we should offer praise. The Shema can also be translated as "The L-rd is our God, The L-rd alone," meaning that no other is our God, and we should not pray to any other. Although many places in scripture and Talmud speak of various parts of God's body (the Hand of God, G-d's wings, etc.) or speak of God in anthropomorphic terms (God walking in the garden of Eden, God laying tefillin, etc.), Judaism firmly maintains that God has no body. Any reference to G-d's body is simply a figure of speech, a means of making G-d's actions more comprehensible to beings living in a material world. Everything in the universe was created by God and only by God. This followed directly from the fact that G-d has no physical form. God is omnipresent, omniscient, omnipotent, and eternal.

Christianity-Dualism or Trinitarianism, the doctrine of the Trinity had not yet been accepted by the Church in the 3rd Century (cf. Encyc. Jud., Vol 10, p. 16.). The one God is a single "trinity" consisting of three distinct "persons": Father, then Jesus, often referred to as the Son or "the Word of God", and the Holy Spirit. The Trinity would be a religious creation borrowed from non-Jewish paganism stemming from Babylon.

NATURE OF MAN:

Judaism-Man is born good. Until the age of accountability (13 male, 12 female) one's sins are the responsibility of one's parents. At that age one became responsible before God for the commandments and the Law. It is at that time Paul would remind us..."when the Law came I died". For you see, there is not that sinneth not. With such responsibility come the penalty for violation of the Law...death. From the age of accountability one is considered a responsible adult who can choose not to sin.

Christianity-Man is born evil, a "victim" of original sin; man therefore has no choice but to sin. There is no concept of "Original Sin" in the religion of Yeshua.

FORGIVENESS OF SIN:

Judaism-There is no provision for willful sin except repentance and restitution. Sacrificial atonement only atones for sins of the First Tablet of Law, sins between man and God. Man is cut off from God. The Jewish view challenges the doctrine of "eternal security" or "once saved always saved" and the resultant imbalance of "grace and not law". Man can only make himself "acceptable" to God by his repentance of sin, a broken and contrite heart, confession of sin, and renew obedience to the Laws and Commandments of God.

Christianity-Man may sin and still be pardoned by God in the next life no matter how he lives if he only "believes" in the Christian creeds and theology concerning Jesus and believe in the "works" of Jesus in his behalf. This results in the unbiblical doctrines concerning "once saved always saved" & "eternal security of the believer". Purgatory is the "fire-escape". Forgiveness comes in believing "in Jesus" and his shed blood for you and your sins Col 1:14 14. Where as Judaism teaches repentance and renewed obedience to the Law and Commandments of God for forgiveness of sin and Eternal Life we find that in opposition Christianity teaches forgiveness comes in believing "in Jesus" and believing in his death and his shed blood for you and your sins \(Col 1:14 14\).

SATAN:

Judaism-The adversary is a created angelic being who is in complete subjection to the sovereignty and will of God. Satan is neither fighting God nor man, but is God faithful servant to bring man to a point of decision where he must choose for or against God. Based on such a decision man is rewarded or punished. Also in Biblical Judaism "Satan" is used for the personification of the flesh of mankind which leads man to sin. Such willful decisions to sin is truly adversarial to mankind.

Christianity-Dualism; there are two equal forces of good and evil in the universe and they are constantly fighting it out (derivation of Persian captivity). This is the legacy of Persian religion and Zoroastrianism which infected parts of Israel following the Babylon Captivity.

MARRIAGE AND SEX:

Judaism-Sex is good, mandated by God as the first positive commandment in the Bible. (The marriage bed is undefiled.)

Christianity-Sex is inherently sinful (in sin was I conceived...which refers not to original sin but sexual conception prior to the mikvah following a woman's menstruation). The sex act is always sin unless for the purposes of procreation. In marriage sex is no longer a "mortal" sin but only a "venial" sin. Christianity maintains that absence from sex is meritorious.

ORGANIZATION STRUCTURE OF THE COMMUNITY & ASSEMBLY:

Judaism-The synagogue is the core of the religious and secular life of the community following the loss of the Temple. It is not an ecclesiastical structure, and the leaders are paid no salary. It is not hierarchical but rather emphasizes the priesthood of all members of the community.

Christianity-The church is a building or something one does on Sunday, a religious service instead of a community. It does not have the same organizational structure and leadership levels as ancient Judaism & the early Church (Nasi, Chazan, etc.) It is ecclesiastical and hierarchical.

FREQUENCY OF ASSEMBLIES:

Judaism-Met once a week on the Sabbath except for Festivals (emphasis is building families).

Christianity-Usually twice-three times a week unless special events then can meet nightly (emphasis is building a congregation).

THE MISSION OF THE SYNAGOGUE VS CHURCH:

Judaism-The strongest emphasis is placed on teaching and study of Torah (discipleship) to build spiritual maturity in the person. Such fruit is seen in making this world better by helping others imitate God.

Christianity-Preaching has replaced teaching; focus on evangelizing the already saved Sunday after Sunday instead of instructing & teaching them for growth & spiritual maturity through the release of their gifts and service.

SALVATION:

Judaism-"Righteous" non-members of the assembly will also have a share in the world to come and be saved ("righteous Gentiles"-the righteous of all nations-Noahide Laws) along with the "righteous" Jews (Matt. 25:1, Rom 2:12-15).

Christianity-If one does not "believe in Jesus" or "the theology of Yeshua as created by Gentile Christianity" and related "creeds" and "go to church" he will go to hell and not inherit Eternal Life.

SPIRITUALITY:

Judaism-The sanctification of all of life to God; down to earth where rubber meets the road where the focus is on living in the kingdom of God now; not just other-worldly (after death).

Christianity-Departmentalizes life in sections: secular and spiritual. Main focus is other-worldly with preparation mostly centered on the world to come.

GIVING:

Judaism-1/3 of your gifts go to the 1) Teachers, choir, maintenance, 2) 1/3 to the benevolence (poor/almsgiving), 3) 1/3 goes to yourself to build yourself up in God (festivals)

Christianity- Give to churches and ministries; no accountability over the direction and handling of the funds. Does not follow the Biblical tithe.

DAY OF REST:

Judaism-Saturday the Sabbath as commanded in the Ten Commandments (Exodus 20).

Christianity-Sunday; as based on later traditions-early Church councils of the 4th century and their compromise with sun-worship (loss of Jewish roots). See Constantine's Easter Letter.

RELATIONSHIP TO ISRAEL IN THE BIBLE:

Judaism-The world is divided into 2 camps: Jews & Gentiles, chosen and not chosen. One is either born a member of the chosen people or become a member either as a proselyte or by becoming a God-fearer.

Christianity-Not a part of Israel, but is a Gentile replacement of the chosen of God. The Jews have been rejected and replaced as God's chosen people by the Gentile church (replacement theology). The church is the "new Israel". Israel is spiritualized and when you read "Israel" in Scripture you are to think of the church, not of physical Israel (at least when blessings are concerned and not the curses; the curses are left for "physical Israel"). The world is divided into 3 camps: Jews, Gentile Christians, and Gentile pagans. Christians have lost their Jewish roots and identity.

NATURE OF THIS LIFE:

Judaism-Life is seen as a preparation for the world to come. Trials & temptations are from God's hand and are blessings in disguise because they refine our character (James 1:2).

Christianity-Prosperity; One can write your own ticket by speaking to God, Satan, or the situation using scriptural promises as a formula. Trials & tribulations are a curse, not from God but from Satan, and there is no reason we should experience them if we are uttering positive confessions.

PROPHECY:

Judaism-One cannot know the time of the coming of the LORD nor should one speculate about the future; one should keep his garments white by continual repentance because His coming will be sudden and unexpected.

Christianity-The LORD's coming is imminent; not to be unexpected for the believer since he will be able to interpret the "signs" of the LORD'S coming. Many offer exact predictions.

FAITH:

Judaism-Expressed as a response to a religious belief system through obedience and good deeds (Jas. 2:14-26) which is faith in action; a living faith.

Christianity-Faith in God, elevating belief above tangible action and obedience. Agreement to an accepted set of doctrine at each particular assembly brings guaranteed acceptance within that same assembly. Any religious doctrinal divergence from the norm jeopardizes one's standing in the assembly.

RESPONSE TOWARD EVIL:

Judaism-Permitted self-defense, legitimacy of defending oneself.

Christianity-Passive resistance, pacifism.

THE BIBLE:

Judaism-Hebraic background of the whole Bible (even the New Testament). Proper understanding only possible when viewing the Bible in its original history, culture, and original language.

Christianity-Hellenization of Scripture (viewing the Bible through the eyes of Greek culture and language instead of Hebrew).

THE LAW (TORAH-OLD TESTAMENT)

Judaism-All men and under the laws of God; to the Jew he was given the Noahide Laws & Mosaic Law as a foundation; to the Gentile he was given the Laws of Noah only. It is the obedience to the laws of God that brings blessing, social order, and blessings from God.

Christianity-The Law is evil and we are delivered from the commandments of God by faith in Jesus and the religious creeds formulated about him. The Law has passed away and we are under grace and if anyone tries to live according to the Commandments he is under a curse.

WEALTH:

Judaism-There is no merit in poverty.

Christianity-There is merit in poverty.

BAPTISM:

Judaism-Practiced continued immersions throughout life to enter into a heightened Presence of God (every Sabbath, before each Festival, after repentance from sin, after a woman's menses each month to remove uncleanness due to contact with blood, etc.). This constant and continued immersion accomplishes a "Spiritual benefit" for both man and God and is called in Judaism "being Born Again"; a term later stolen by Gentile Christianity and reinterpreted.

Christianity-Baptized only once into Messiah.

THE LORD'S SUPPER:

Judaism-Every week the Sabbath entailed 3 meals: Friday evening to begin Sabbath, followed by two Sabbath meals. This is called the Lord's Supper and is connected with the Sabbath.

Christianity-Name given to Christian Communion consisting of a cracker and a cup of grape juice which can be traced to pagan mystery religions as representing the body and blood of their gods.

HOLY DAYS:

Judaism-Celebrates the Festivals of the Lord according to Leviticus 23.

Christianity-Celebrates the Gregorian Holidays which are all derived from Paganism and have Yeshua's named now connected to give them pseudo-legitimacy.

WORSHIP

Judaism-Adheres to the "Pattern of Worship" given to King David and which is passed down through history even until this day.

Christianity-Substitutes another "pattern" of man's creation instead of adherence to the Biblical "Pattern of Worship" given to Israel which is intended to be followed by all mankind.

TIME TO GET SERIOUS

Answer for yourself: Now upon examination of this list, let me ask you "What does the Bible Yeshua used have to say on these issues (The Old Testament)?"

Answer for yourself: Which do you think is more correct?

Answer for yourself: Which are you following?

Answer for yourself: Which beliefs did Jesus hold and believe in?

Answer for yourself: Do we want the mind of Christ and does this mean accepting the Jewish understanding over the anti-Semitic Roman doctrines we have inherited?

Answer for yourself: Do you contemplate a change?

Answer for yourself: What would Jesus want you to believe?

Answer for yourself: What did he believe and what will you now believe when your study convinces you otherwise than the way you have been taught in the Gentile Church?

Answer for yourself: What is God's Religious Belief System and should you not want to make it yours?

JERUSALEM, THE SYNAGOGUE, AND JESUS AND "THE PATTERN OF WORSHIP"

The first corporate worship service recorded in any detail in the scriptures is the assembly of Israel at Mt Sinai in Exodus 19-24. Exodus 19-23 recounts the establishment of the covenant between God and his people, and Exodus 24 gives the worship service where Israel ratified the covenant. The basic pattern is very simple:

- Israel offered burnt offerings and peace offerings (Ex 24:4-6)
- Moses read the Book of the Covenant to the people (Ex 24:7a)
- The people responded with faith and obedience (Ex 24:7b-8)
- Israel (in this case through its representatives) partook of the peace offerings with God (Ex 24:9-11)

It would be useful to go into the details of the daily worship of the Old Testament but space does not allow for that here but let it be said that every biblical worship service described in scripture follows this basic pattern (no other pattern is ever substituted for it). The worship service that is presented in the greatest detail is the service at the dedication of the temple in 2 Chronicles 5-7. There is more detail in Solomon's service, but it follows the same pattern that Moses did:

- Solomon assembles Israel for worship (2 Chron 5:2-5)
- Sin is dealt with through burnt offerings (2 Chron 5:6)
- Israel enters God's presence through the priests (2 Chron 5:7-10)
- Psalm of praise (2 Chron 5:11-14)
- Word of God proclaimed by Solomon (2 Chron 6:1-11)
- Solomon's prayer of intercession (2 Chron 6:12-42)
- Fire consumes the sacrifices/glory fills the temple (2 Chron 7:1-2)
- Psalm of praise (2 Chron 7:3)
- Israel partakes of the peace offerings (2 Chron 7:4-9)
- Benediction (Israel departs in peace) (2 Chron 7:10)

So the Old Testament pattern of worship has a very clear theological shape:

- Worship is entrance into the presence of God, and you can only enter the presence of God if sin has been removed;
- God then speaks to his people through his Word, reminding them of what he has done for their redemption, and calling upon them to live as his people;
- God's people then respond to his word with faith and obedience, asking him to continue to do what he has promised;
- Worship concludes with the covenant meal, whereby the people of God partake of the benefits of the sacrifice and go forth in peace (for more detail on this, I direct your study to the sermons in Exodus 24 and 2 Chronicles 5-7).

After the first destruction of the Temple and the captivity of the Jews they were forced to adapt the "Pattern of Worship" that we see above and out of necessity comes the formation of the "Synagogue" to which we now look.

DOES JESUS IN THE NEW TESTAMENT TELL US THAT "THE JEWS" HAVE THE "PATTERN OF WORSHIP" TO BE FOLLOWED?

There has been considerable debate regarding the relative influence of the temple and the synagogue in New Testament worship. A comparison between the two is useful:

Temple Worship (2 Chron 5-7)

- Assembling for Worship
- Burnt Offerings
- Enter God's Presence
- Psalm of Praise Psalms
- Word of God read and preached
- Benediction (if a priest was present)
- Prayer of the Covenant Community
- Fire consumes the sacrifices/glory fills the temple
- Psalm of Praise Psalms
- Peace Offerings
- Benediction

Synagogue Worship

- Assembling for Worship
- Psalms
- Prayer of the Covenant Community
- Benediction (if a priest was present)
- Word of God read and preached
- Psalms
- Closing Prayer

As you can see for yourself in the absence of the Temple the Synagogue follows again the basic "Pattern of Worship" minus the parts that would have applied to the Temple. In the absence of the Temple today our focus must be the worship of the synagogue that was established during and after the Exile to teach the Israelites the Word of God along with the worship that was later transferred to one's home by the Rabbis which functioned as an allegory of the Temple sacrifices and offerings. Since the Jews had been exiled from the Land because of their disobedience and idolatry, they began meeting weekly to learn how to avoid making the same mistakes again. Synagogue "worship," therefore, was not opposed to temple worship, but was designed to prepare people for temple worship.

THE SYNAGOGUE

The word "synagogue" means basically an "assembly house." In the New Testament the synagogue functioned as a community meeting place for Jews and was not only used for worship, but also for schools and other gatherings. Although not mentioned in the Old Testament since the Temple stood, synagogues originated during the exile in Bablyon as meetings of the people to hear the writings and to pray. By the time of Jesus, each community of Jews, anywhere in the Roman world, had its synagogue. The building was rectangular, and its doorway faced Jerusalem. Along the walls on the inside were benches. A board of elders supervised each synagogue, and there were other officers, such as the ruler. The services in a synagogue consisted of readings, a talk (or sermon), and prayers. The great annual feasts were still celebrated at the temple in Jerusalem, the only place where sacrifices were made. Matt. 12:9; Mark 5:36; Luke 4:15; John 16:2; Acts 9:2; 18:4.

Technically the word "synagogue" is a Greek word meaning a 'gathering of things' or an 'assembly of people.' The Jewish synagogue is both a congregation of Jews who pray, read Scripture, and hear teaching and exhortation based on Scripture and the place where the congregation assembles. As the synagogue developed in rabbinic Judaism, it also became a place for study of the Bible, its commentaries, and Talmudic materials. The origin of the synagogue is obscure, but it certainly existed by the first century a.d. in both Palestine and the Diaspora. First-century a.d. synagogues in Palestine are attested by the Gospels. Jesus preached and discussed with Jewish leaders and congregations in synagogues (e.g., Matt. 4:23; 9:25; Mark 1:21; 3:1-6; Luke 4:16-28; 13:10). The synagogue was a place of prayer, reading of Scripture, preaching, and teaching. It is uncertain whether the many references to synagogues in the Gospels reflect the situation during Jesus' lifetime or the period after the destruction of the Temple (a.d. 70) when the Gospels were finally written but it would appear that they existed prior to the destruction of the Temple in Israel and had existed since Babylon's captivity.

Josephus, the Jewish historian of the late first century, speaks of a few synagogues in the north of the Holy Land in the first century so this testifies to their existence before the destruction of the Temple outside of Israel. Synagogues, it seems then, were certainly common in the Diaspora. Philo, the first-century Egyptian Jewish writer, attests to the presence of numerous synagogues in Alexandria. Inscriptions found at various places in the Roman Empire show that Jewish congregations were found in many places. Acts portrays Paul as teaching in synagogues wherever he goes (e.g., Acts 18:4; 19:8).

The origin of the "first" synagogue remains unknown, but the question has produced a number of theories. Many have suggested that the synagogue arose in the Babylonian exile as a response to the loss of the Temple as the center of Jewish religious life. Though the suggestion is reasonable, no direct evidence exists for its presence and the biblical passages cited (Ezek. 11:16; 14:1) are far from convincing. In addition, no mention of the synagogue is made in Ezra and Nehemiah, nor is any destruction of synagogues mentioned during the Maccabean revolt. The public reading of Torah is described in Nehemiah 8 and mentioned in 1 Macc. 3:48, but these assemblies are extraordinary public gatherings; we do not know whether these practices were regularly done. Some scholars suggest that the Hellenistic crisis during the second century b.c., in which there was a conflict among Jews over acculturation and fidelity to tradition, produced the synagogue as a mode of resistance to Hellenism, i.e., Greek culture and custom. Since the synagogue existed in developed form in the first century a.d., it is likely that it came into being in the two centuries preceding, but no direct evidence for it then exists. In the Diaspora, some Egyptian inscriptions from the third and second centuries b.c. mention a 'place of prayer' (Gk. proseuchē), but we do not know what went on in the houses of prayer and it is not certain that these refer to synagogues. A building has been found on the island of Delos in the Nile that has been identified as a Jewish synagogue, but the building has no clear Jewish symbols or characteristics to identify it unambiguously as a synagogue. It is likely that Jews often met in a large room in a house. A building set aside for special religious purposes had to await a certain level of material prosperity and community development. In only four recently dug sites in Palestine have rooms or buildings been identified as synagogues: Masada, Herodium, Magdala (Migdal, Tarichaeae), and Gamala. The results of these excavations are preliminary and the identifications are not certain in all cases, especially for Masada and Herodium. Existing structures were transformed into assembly halls, but that they were specifically synagogues is not certain. In all cases the buildings or rooms are relatively small and unadorned and vary greatly in plan.

Buildings that can be clearly identified as synagogues become plentiful both in Palestine and the Diaspora during the third century a.d. This is consistent with the development of rabbinic Judaism, which gradually asserted control over Judaism after the Temple was destroyed in a.d. 70 and which stressed synagogue- and school-centered prayer and study. Synagogue buildings were often decorated with mosaics and reliefs and were built in three styles, the basilica, the broadhouse, and the apsidal. The basilica was borrowed from Greco-Roman architecture and often had the entrance facing Jerusalem. The inside was rectangular and divided lengthwise by two rows of columns into nave and two side aisles. When the congregation faced Jerusalem to pray (part of their "Pattern of Worship") they had to face the entrance; consequently a permanent Torah shrine, where the scrolls of Scripture were kept, and a bema (Gk., 'platform'; a raised platform where the leaders of the congregation stood or sat) were difficult to establish. Contemporaneously the broadhouse design developed, in which one of the long walls of the rectangle faced Jerusalem and so a permanent Torah shrine and bema were possible. Later the apsidal synagogue developed, in which the entrance was on the side away from Jerusalem and the side facing Jerusalem had an apse (a large semicircular niche) for the Torah shrine and bema. Synagogues in the Diaspora followed similar designs, though sometimes Jews took over buildings built earlier and adapted them to their purposes. In all cases, the floor plan, orientation, and architecture varied considerably. Some Diaspora synagogues are notable for their size or beauty, e.g., the ones in Sardis in Turkey, Dura in Syria, Stobi in Macedonia, and Ostia in Italy. Function: The function of the synagogue, how the congregation was organized, and what went on in the synagogue can only be surmised. In Palestine before the destruction of the Temple the synagogue would have been one of many indigenous organizations in Jewish villages and cities. People may have met to read Scripture and pray either in a house or outside, without any elaborate organization. In the Diaspora where Jews were a minority in the cities they inhabited, the synagogue probably functioned as the center of the community and its leaders may have been community leaders recognized by the civil authorities. Synagogues were used to teach the young, to house visitors, and for communal meals.

THE LITURGY AND THE "PATTERN OF WORSHIP"

The versions of Jewish prayers that have been transmitted in the tradition show that the synagogue liturgy did not have a fixed text but varied both in content and wording over time and from place to place. But even with this variation over time we still detect a discernible "Pattern" to the worship of the synagogue. It is certain that the Hebrew Scripture was read, though probably not according to the later three-year "pattern" in Babylon and the one-year fixed cycles of readings as in Palestine. Primacy was given to the Pentateuch, but readings from the Prophets were also included. The existence of many Targums (translation of the Hebrew Bible into the vernacular, Aramaic) and versions of the Septuagint (the Greek translation of the Bible) testifies to the importance of understanding the ancient text. Philo, Josephus, and the New Testament show that the Hebrew Scriptures were interpreted to the people in the synagogues. It is also likely that the two most important prayers in Judaism were in use, though not according to a fixed text.

The first is the Shema, consisting of three biblical passages (Deut. 6:4-9; 11:13-21; Num. 15:37-41) with attendant blessings. The second is "the 'Prayer," also called the Amidah or Eighteen Benedictions. This series of blessings has varied in text and number over time, but it is treated as very old in rabbinic tradition.

Indeed, it is recorded for us that Jesus and the apostles regularly attended both the temple and the synagogue., Recall what Jesus said to the woman. a Samaritan, at the well in John 4 when she asked whether she should worship at Mt. Gerizim or Jerusalem: "the hour is coming when neither on this mountain nor in Jerusalem will you worship the Father.

We need to look at this text in more detail:

John 4:5-7 5 Then cometh he to a city of Samaria, which is called Sychar, near to the parcel of ground that Jacob gave to his son Joseph. 6 Now Jacob's well was there. Jesus therefore, being wearied with his journey, sat thus on the well: and it was about the sixth hour. 7 There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water: Jesus saith unto her, Give me to drink. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Who were these "Samaritans"?

The only detailed reference to the Samaritans is to be found in the Second Book of Kings. In the twenty fourth verse of chapter seventeen, we find that when the Assyrians conquered the Northern Kingdom of Israel and deported the Ten Tribes into exile in Halah and Habor by the River of Gozan in the cities of the Medes, that the King of Assyria replenished the depopulated territory of Israel with foreigners: 'And the King of

Assyria brought men from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from Ava and from Hamath and from Sepharvaim, and placed them in the cities of Samaria, instead of the children of Israel and they possessed Samaria and dwelt in the cities thereof'

Answer for yourself: What is described here? We see Non-Jews being imported into Israel and these would later inter-marry with those left behind and we end up with a half-breed Jewish people; a people who had already "lost their way" and who now only further drifts from the Eternal Truths of God. So for all practical purposes we should look at these people as Gentiles and draw the analogies to ourselves as Christians living in the Western Hemisphere today.

These people were heathen idolators with no fear of God; but, following attacks on their settlements by wild mountain lions (which they attributed to the anger of the God of the dispossessed Israelites), they petitioned the Assyrian monarch for help. His response was to send back one of the captive priests of Israel to teach them his laws and customs. Therefore we read: 'Then the King of Assyria commanded saying, Carry hither one of the priests whom ye brought from thence, and let them go and dwell there, and let them teach the manner of the God of the land. Then one of the priests whom they had carried away from Samaria came and dwelt in Bethel and taught them how they should fear the Lord' (II Kings 17:27, 28).

Answer for yourself: Are we missing something here in the above verse? Yes.

When we consider that the Israelites had themselves gone into captivity for their idolatry and Sabbath breaking, that they worshipped Baal and Ashtaroah, and that the official priesthood since the days of Jeroboam had fostered the cult of the Golden Bulls at the shrines of Dan and Bethel, it is hardly surprising that the priest who returned to teach the Samaritans, succeeded only in joining a corrupted form of Israelite belief and worship to the customs which these people already held. Thus while they now paid lip service to the God of Israel, they continued to serve their own gods as well, according to the Biblical account.

Consequently there evolved a mongrelized people of various national and racial backgrounds, practicing a hybrid religion which bore certain outward similarities to the worship of the now exiled Israelites but was deviant from the accepted "Pattern of Worship" practiced by Israel proper. It was truly a multicultural, multi-faith society that had been created. Although called Samarkans, these people did not necessarily dwell in the area of the former Israelite capital of Samaria but tended to be found mostly in the area of Shechem; so much so that both in the Apocrypha and in the writings of Josephus they are referred to as Shechemites. They had developed into a distinctive people by the Hellenistic period, when Shechem was rebuilt after years of desolation.

It was, however, during this period of Hellenization carried out by Alexander the Great and his successors, which only further diluted the "Pattern of Worship", that a group of religious purists emerged in the Samaritan community, who decided to make a fresh start, and who erected the Samaritan Temple at Mount Gerezim. They developed their own distinctive religious system, including: the worship of the God of Israel, obedience to the Law of Moses, expectation of a coming Day of Judgment, belief in Mount Gerezim as the appointed place of sacrifice and in the return of Moses as the Taheb or the Restorer/Returning One.

From this point onward, there is a rapid deterioration in relations with those of Judah, Benjamin and Levi, who had returned to Palestine from exile in Babylon. They regarded the Samaritans as racially inferior interlopers, and their religion as a spurious counterfeit. At the time of the Maccabean Revolt the Samaritans sided with the Seleucid oppressors, and to placate Antiochus Epiphanes, they even allowed their temple to be dedicated to Zeus Xenious!

As you can see for yourself the Samaritans fell away from the "Pattern of Worship" although in many ways it might have looked externally "similar" but the core of it was deviant to the "Pattern of Worship" commanded by God.

Subsequently, in 128 B.C., they were conquered by the Hasmonean ruler John Hyrcanus (the conqueror and incorporator of Edom/Idumea), who destroyed their Temple on Mount Gerezim. At one particular Passover, between A.D. 6 and 9, the Samaritans defiled the Jerusalem Temple by scattering bones in it. Pilgrims travelling south from Galilee to Jerusalem for the religious festivals were afraid to go through Samaritan territory, a fear which was to be justified by the subsequent massacre of Galilean pilgrims by Samaritans at En-gannim in A.D. 52. The Samaritans rebelled against the Romans in A.D. 36. When a fanatic assembled them at Mount Gerezim, promising to reveal the sacred vessels which they had been taught were buried there by Moses, the rebels were ruthlessly massacred by order of Pontius Pilate. During the Jewish Revolt of A.D. 66-70, a group of Samaritans joined in the rebellion and were slaughtered by the Roman Commander Vettulenus Cerialis, once again at Mount Gerezim.

After almost two thousand years, only a tiny remnant of the descendants of the Samaritans remain. They have preserved their religion and culture, and are to be found to this day in Palestine, living in two small communities at Nablus and Holon, with their own scrolls and priesthood.

In spite of our Lord's instruction to His disciples: 'Into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not' (Matthew 10:5), and the incident when the disciples wanted to call down fire from heaven to destroy a Samaritan village which refused to receive them (Luke 9:52-54), Samaritans receive fairly favorable comment from the New Testament writers Luke and John. The one leper out of the ten who returned to Jesus to give thanks for his healing was a Samaritan (Luke 17:16). The Lord Jesus asked for water from, and subsequently ministered to, a woman of Samaria (John 4:4-30 & 39-40); while we read of a great spiritual revival accompanied by signs, wonders and miracles in Samaria (Acts 8:5-25).

Answer for yourself: What should that teach us? That these half-breed Gentiles who knew not the "Pattern of Worship" were often blessed by the "true faith" of Israel and at times made repentance unto it as seen in Acts 8:5-25.

Just as every Jew residing in the Roman Province of Judea, and practicing the Jewish religion at the time of Christ, was not necessarily a true Judahite, a similar situation existed in Samaria, also a Roman territory. Isaiah the prophet had made it clear that, even though the vast bulk of Ten-tribed Israel had been taken into captivity in Assyria, a tiny pathetic handful would survive the mass deportations. This is what he says: 'Yet gleaning grapes shall be left in it as the shaking of an olive tree two or three berries in the top of the uppermost bough, four or five in the outmost branches thereof saith the God of Israel' (Isaiah 17:6).

Some of them, like the leper, and the woman by the well of Sychar, while they were Samaritans by religion (worshipping at Mount Gerezim), and by provincial designation (living in the Roman province of Samaria), were clearly not descended from the mixed multitude who had been sent into the area some seven hundred years earlier, but rather from the little handful of true Israelites who had escaped deportation - the grapes and berries of Isaiah's prophecy.

In her discussion with the Lord Jesus, the woman of Samaria made her racial ancestry crystal clear, for she said to Jesus: 'Art thou greater than our father Jacob which gave us the well...' (John 4:12).

She actually claimed descent from Jacob-Israel. Furthermore, her own life was symbolic of the experience of the woman Israel, for the Lord Jesus said to her: 'Thou hast had five husbands and he whom thou hast is not thy husband' (John 4: 18)

Answer for yourself: Who, as a Samaritan, were her husbands? Is there a hidden message possibly here for us to learn?

Israel had indeed had five husbands; her first whom she married at Sinai was:

- Almighty God (She then served the following succession of alien Empires spoken of in prophecy as her lovers in which all pulled her further away from the "Pattern of Worship" given Israel by God at Sinai).
- Assyria
- Babylon
- Medo-Persia
- Greece
- Pagan Rome...the sixth whom she served in the time of Jesus

All of these above influences by Gentile nations and Gentile worship only further diluted the true Worship of God as once held by their Jewish captives. Said of captive Israel by the Prophet Hosea:

Hosea 2:6 6 Therefore, behold, I will hedge up thy way with thorns, and make a wall, that she shall not find her paths. (KJV)

Captive Israel would lose "the Pattern of Worship" over time due to the influences of these pagan nations and their idolatry. Truly Israel lost her "paths". As God, in punishment of the Northern Tribes for their idolatry and departing from the true Worship of God, had the Prophet Hosea pronounce judgment on the departing captives of the Northern Ten Tribes in saying that they would lose their way. History has borne this out as these peoples would fall further from the truth and the "faith once given the saints" and in these pagan nations would they further depart from the Worship of God as God has previously instructed. Yet God would later have mercy on those He judged and offered a return to these "paths" whereby their children would one day "return to the Lord thy God" in repentance and true Worship of God. We see this today in the major return to the Jewish Roots of Christianity but the problem we have with this is that many, but not all who teach such a "return" to the Jewish Roots of Christianity are but another false hope as were the official priesthood that was sent by Jeroboam who only gave another pagan worship to the people that "looked" Jewish but the core of it was not the SAME "Pattern of Worship" as practiced by Judah! One the many of these current "returns to the Jewish Roots of Christianity" look Jewish but analysis of their doctrinal stances reveals little change from the compromised Sun Worship of their apostate "fathers". Looking Jewish, wearing a kippa or a tallith, and singing Jewish psalms and songs, and the use of banners is often a far cry from "True Worship of God done in Spirit and TRUTH".

Jesus told these people, and even this woman at the well who had a compromised religious beliefs system since being heavily influenced by Samaritan religious beliefs:

You worship what you do not know; we (the Jews) worship what we know, for salvation is from the Jews. But the hour is coming, and is now here, when the true worshipers will worship the Father in spirit and truth" (John 4:21-23).

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that Jesus told her, representative of her half-breed people, that they had a erroneous worship of God? Jesus tells her that she has a false worship of God; one that looks right in some areas but the core of it is rotten and unacceptable with God. Not let us forget that God does not accept all sacrifices nor does he accept false worship.

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that Jesus make clear that she knows that it is the Jewish race and nation and religion who has the "true worship" of God? Does Jesus connect "salvation" with this "true worship of God? He sure does. That should give you great pause to think.

Answer for yourself: What does it mean to be "true" worshipper? Do you want to be one? Let us look at the word "true" used in the Greek of this passage:

Thayer's Greek Lexicon:

228 alethinos-

1) what has not only the name and resemblance, but the real nature corresponding to the name, in every respect corresponding to the idea signified by the name, real, true genuine

- a) opposite to what is fictitious, counterfeit, imaginary, simulated or pretended
- b) it contrasts realities with their semblances
- c) opposite to what is imperfect defective, frail, uncertain

2) true, veracious, sincere

Jesus warns us here that just to "reassemble" the "true" is not enough. We have to "in EVERY RESPECT CORRESPOND" to the original. In this context Jesus was telling this Non-Jewish descendent, one who has lost her "paths" and her "ways" and her "Pattern of Worship" given to her forefathers before they departed from it, that NOW it is possible for her to return and repent and come home to the true worship of God; one not found in Samaria but down in Jerusalem.

Jesus tells us "counterfeit" religion is worshipping God amiss. He tells us that we can look "Jewish" in our worship and sing Jewish songs and do Jewish dances, we can carry banners and even wear kippas and even say the blessing and wear a tallith in prayer but if our doctrines contain idolatry, as did those of the Sarmaritans, and as many Christian religious beliefs also do, then such Worship of God is defective and imperfect and unacceptable to God. This is a strong waring against idolatry that goes unnoticed by most in Christianity today under the disguise of "Jesus is God" theology or various Trinitarian beliefs. Even praying in the name of Jesus is considered blasphemy by both the Laws of Noah and Moses. Improper use of the Tithe as most churches do is but another example of false worship of God. Singing song with idolatrous phrases is but another form of idolatry and unacceptable to God. Some songs in the church should NEVER be sung! Let us never forget that blasphemy of God and His Name is the "unforgivable sin" and most Christians carry this to their grave and never know it because their teachings which they inherited from Rome and Church tradition are so perverse and have strayed so far "from the original" true and "the faith once given to the Saints" due to the antisemitism of Rome which replaced many of them with those of their making. Most never heed these warnings and enter the hereafter full of hidden idolatry which they never knew they possessed because their study of their own faith, let alone "the Pattern of Worship" is absent or deficient in their lives.

Jesus did not say, "well, you could worship at any synagogue you like!" The analogy of this is startling as today this would be understood as: "you cannot worship at just any church you like!"

Jesus admitted that prior to his coming, there was only one place to worship truly--at Jerusalem which practiced "the Pattern of Worship" handed down by God since Sinai where a mixed multitude of Jews and Non-Jews both agreed as the bride of God to "do all they you say". They both entered into their covenant with God and both accepted "the Pattern of Worship" given to Moses. Israel, and only Israel of all the 70 nations of the world was given "the Pattern of Worship" and their task as God's Holy Nation and Royal Priesthood was to lead the world in the "true worship of God" through the teaching of this "Pattern of Worship" to all mankind and examples in the Old as well as the New Testament show us that they did exactly that!

Sadly we have departed so far from this today in contemporary Christianity.

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH THE GENTILE AS PICTURED IN THE HEBREW SCRIPTURES

Before we examine the New Testament for examples of how the non-Jew and God-fearer related to the "Pattern of Worship" we need familiarize ourselves with the terms for them used in the Hebrew Scriptures and the Old Testament. The following is taken from the Encyclopedia Judaica.

Ancient Israel was acquainted with two classes of "Gentiles" or "strangers" and we find references to them in the Old Testament:

- The "resident aliens" who lived with the Jewish people long-term
- The "foreigners" who considered their sojourn in the land more or less temporary

The "foreigner" were referred to as zarim (Myrz) or nokhrim, "nokhri," (Myrkn), terms generally applied to anyone outside the circle the writer had in view (e.g., Ex. 21:8; 29:33). They retained their ties to their original home and sought to maintain their former political or social status. On occasion they came as invaders (II Sam. 22:45–46; Obad. 11). More often they entered the land in the pursuit of trade and other commercial ventures.

Answer for yourself: What is of importance in our study concerning the "Pattern of Worship" that might be noticed concerning the "resident alien" and the "foreigner"? Concerning "the foreigner" the usual laws were not applicable to them, and they were protected by folk traditions concerning the proper treatment of strangers (cf. Job 31:32) and by special conventions resulting from contractual arrangements between the Israelites and their neighbors (cf. I Kings 20:34). In the legislation of Deuteronomy, an Israelite may charge a foreigner usury though he may not do so to a fellow Israelite (Deut. 23:21), and the septennial remission of debts does not apply to the debts of foreigners (Deut. 15:3).

Of importance for our study concerning the "Pattern of Worship" it is important to note that the "stranger" or "foreigner" was barred from the cult (Ex. 12:43):

Exod 12:43-45 43 And the LORD said unto Moses and Aaron, This is the ordinance of the passover: There shall no stranger eat thereof: 44 But every man's servant that is bought for money, when thou hast circumcised him, then shall he eat thereof. 45 A foreigner and an hired servant shall not eat thereof. (KJV)

Also of importance for our study concerning the "Pattern of Worship" it is important to note that the "stranger" or "foreigner" was not bound by the ritual laws, and it was permissible to sell him animals that had died a natural death (Deut. 14:21):

Deut 14:21 21 Ye shall not eat of any thing that dieth of itself: thou shalt give it unto the stranger that is in thy gates, that he may eat it; or thou mayest sell it unto an alien: for thou art an holy people unto the LORD thy God. Thou shalt not seethe a kid in his mother's milk. (KJV)

The fact that Deuteronomy includes a special prohibition against foreigners' ascending the throne (Deut. 17:15) and that Solomon specifically requested that God listen to their prayers (1 Kings 8:41) may indicate the important position some foreigners occupied during the age of the monarchy.

I King 8:41-43 41 Moreover concerning a stranger, that is not of thy people Israel, but cometh out of a far country for thy name's sake; 42 (For they shall hear of thy great name, and of thy strong hand, and of thy stretched out arm;) when he shall come and pray toward this house; 43 Hear thou in heaven thy dwelling place, and do according to all that the stranger calleth to thee for: that all people of the earth may know thy name, to fear thee, as do thy people Israel; and that they may know that this house, which I have builded, is called by thy name. (KJV)

NOW...LET US LOOK AT THE RESIDENT ALIEN..."THE GER"-PROSELYTE

In contrast with the foreigner, the "ger", the "resident alien", lived more or less permanently in his adopted community. Like the Arabic "jar", he was "the protected stranger," who was totally dependent on his patrons for his well-being. As W.R. Smith noted, his status was an extension of that of the guest, whose person was inviolable, though he could not enjoy all the privileges of the native. He, in turn, was expected to be loyal to his protectors (Gen. 21:23):

Gen 21:23-24 23 Now therefore swear unto me here by God that thou wilt not deal falsely with me, nor with my son, nor with my son's son: but according to the kindness that I have done unto thee, thou shalt do unto me, and to the land wherein thou hast sojourned. 24 And Abraham said, I will swear. (KJV)

Of major importance for our study in identifying and recovering "the Pattern of Worship" given the "non-Jew" in the Bible we must notice that this "resident alien" in Israel was bound by the Laws of the Jews (Num. 15:15-16).

Num 15:15-16 15 One ordinance shall be both for you of the congregation, and also for the stranger that sojourneth with you(the resident gentile), an ordinance for ever in your generations: as ye are, so shall the stranger be before the LORD. 16 One law and one manner shall be for you, and for the stranger that sojourneth with you. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that this commandment of obedience to these "ordinances" was to be FOREVER for both the Jew and the "non-Jew" who is akin with Israel? How long is "forever"?

Answer for yourself: What is an "ordinance"?

Strong's Concordance: # 2708 chuqqah (khook-kaw'); feminine of 2706, and meaning substantially the same: KJV-- appointed, custom, manner, ordinance, site, statute. 2706 choq (khook); from 2710 (root word); an enactment; hence, an appointment (TIME, space, quantity, labor or usage): KJV-- appointed, bound, commandment, convenient, custom, decree (-d), due, law, measure, X necessary, ordinance (-nary), portion, set time, statute, task.

In order to make sure you see this let me reiterate. God commanded of the "non-Jew" who gathers with, assemble with, or dwell with Israel to observe the same "appointed times", the same "appointed customs", the same "necessary set times", the same "commandments", the same "appointments in time" which were commanded of the Jews.

Answer for yourself: What should this teach us? God gave the "non-Jew" who identified with the Israel of God the obligation to keep and observe these same Biblical "appointed times", which are the Biblical Festivals and Sabbaths of the Lord.

Brown-Driver Briggs Hebrew Lexicon teaches the above as does the Strong's Concordance but they go one step further: The word also carries the idea of "standing in awe" together with the Jews when they stand before YHWH.

Now for a real shocker. On the contrary, the Israelites themselves were "gerim" (Ex. 22:20) as were their ancestors (Gen. 15:13; cf. 23:4; Ex. 2:22).

Ex. 22:20 And a stranger shalt thou not wrong, neither shalt thou oppress him; for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt.

Gen. 15:13 13 And He said unto Abram: 'Know of a surety that thy seed shall be a stranger in a land that is not theirs, and shall serve them; and they shall afflict them four hundred years;

Gen. 23:4 4 'I am a stranger and a sojourner with you: give me a possession of a burying-place with you, that I may bury my dead out of my sight.'

Ex. 2:22 22 And she bore a son, and he called his name Gershom; for he said: 'I have been a stranger in a strange land.'

Aliens were apparently attracted to the ranks of Israel when they left Egypt (Ex. 12:38, 48), and their numbers were further augmented during the time of the conquest of Canaan (Josh. 9:3ff.). By far the greatest number of gerim consisted of the earlier inhabitants of Canaan, many of whom were neither slain as Deuteronomy commands (cf. e.g., 7:2) nor reduced to total slavery (cf. I Kings 5:29; II Chron. 2:16–17). Immigrants also were numbered among them—foreigners who sought refuge in times of drought and famine (cf. Ruth 1:1) and refugees who fled before invading armies.

Since all of the landed property belonged to Israelites (cf. Lev. 25:23–24), the gerim were largely day laborers and artisans (Deut. 24: 14–15; cf. 29:10). Both the Book of the Covenant which classed them among those who were dependent (Ex. 23:12) and the Decalogue which referred to them as "your stranger" (gerkha; Ex. 20:10; cf. Deut. 5:14) attest their inferior position in Israelite society. While a few acquired wealth (cf. Lev. 25:47), most of them were poor and were treated as the impoverished natives. Thus, they were permitted to share in the fallen fruit in the vineyard (Lev. 19:10), the edges of the field, and the gleanings of the harvest (Lev. 23:22). Like the other poor folk they were also granted a share in the tithe of the third year (Deut. 14:29) and the produce of the Sabbatical Year (Lev. 25:6).

Since the foreigners' defenselessness made them vulnerable, the Israelites were frequently reminded of God's special concern for the weak (Ex. 22:21–22; cf. Deut. 10:17–19) and were enjoined not to molest them (Ex. 22:20; cf. Jer. 7:6). They were not to be abused (Deut. 24:14) and were to receive equal treatment before the law (Deut. 1:16; cf. 24:17; 27:19). In case of accidental homicide, the cities of refuge were open to them as well (Num. 35:15), or there was to be "one standard for stranger and citizen alike" (Lev. 24:22).

Lev 24:22 22 Ye shall have one manner of law, as well for the stranger, as for one of your own country: for I am the LORD your God. (KJV)

Moreover, the Israelites were enjoined to be especially solicitous of the welfare of the "ger" and to befriend him as one of their own, since they could recall the sufferings of their own people in the land of Egypt (Lev. 19:34; cf. Deut. 10:19).

With the passage of time, the "gerim" were assimilated culturally and religiously. Doeg the Edomite, for instance, was a worshiper of YHWH by the time of Saul (I Sam. 21:8), as was Uriah the Hittite in the reign of David (II Sam. 11:11).

Answer for yourself: In light of the very important verse above, Leviticus 24:22, which proscribes "one Law", the same Law, for both the "Jew" and the "Ger", who identified with Israel, what should that teach us?

Clearly, that the "ger", in contrast to the "nokhri", was required in many cases to conform to the "ritual" practices of the native Israelite.

That means they shared the same "Pattern of Worship" with the Jewish people!

THE "PATTERN OF WORSHIP" AS APPLIED TO THE GER AND RESIDENT ALIEN GENTILES & NON-JEWS

Thus, "gerim", the "non-Jews" who identified with the Israel of God, were subject to the same laws as were the Jews in the following areas. I highly recommend that you follow the links and read these Hebrew Scriptures for yourself if you are wanting to see how God's "Pattern of Worship" given the Jews also included the "non-Jew" as well.

- "Non-Jews" were concerned with ritual purification (Num. 9:2-14) and the observance of the Passover (immersion/mikvah was required before observance as well).
- "Non-Jews" concerned with laws of incest (Lev. 18:26).
- "Non-Jews" were observant of some of the food taboos (Lev. 17:10-16 [prohibition of eating blood and immersion/mikvah connected with repentance] but cf. Deut. 14:21).
- "Non-Jews" were expected to observe the Sabbath (Ex. 20:10; Deut. 5:14),
- "Non-Jews" were expected to participate in the religious festivals like the Passover, Unleavened Bread, Shavuot (Pentecost), Tabernacles, (Deut. 16:1-22),
- "Non-Jews" were to undergo Mikvahs/immersion which was required before observance of Festivals like Shavuot [Pentecost] ("being born again") (Exodus 19:10-11).
- "Non-Jews" were expected to fast on the Day of Atonement (Lev. 16:1-34).
- "Non-Jews" were permitted to offer up burnt offerings (Lev. 17:8; 22:18; Num. 15:1-16.) and,
- Non-Jewish males must be circumcised in order to partake of the sacrificed paschal lamb (Ex. 12:48-50; Num. 9:14).

Answer for yourself: What did we see here and what should that teach us? Simply, that without a doubt in the Hebrew Scriptures, we find God providing for the "non-Jew" to keep and observe these same "appointed times" with God like the Biblical Festivals of Passover, Unleavened Bread, Shavuot (Pentecost), Yom Kippur, Tabernacles, and the Sabbath of God (the 4th Commandment). Also we saw that the opportunity to worship God in burnt offerings as well as his acceptance of various Laws of the Torah applied to him as well since he was in relationship with the Israel of God. This is a picture that should become very clear to us for certainly, by what we just read, these Biblical Festivals, Sabbaths, and Torah were not given to the "Jews" only.

Above we just looked at many ways the non-Jew was instructed concerning various commandments concerning worship that applied to him as one who "stood besides Israel" in the worship of the God of Israel. We saw without a doubt that these "non-Jews" who worshipped the God of Israel were required to keep the Sabbath, the Biblical Festivals like Passover (Pesach), Unleavened Bread (Hag Ha Matzah), Pentecost (Shavuot), the Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur), the Festival of Tabernacles, the Sabbath, be immersed or mikvahed prior to observance of these "appointed times" with God, to be circumcised if they were to observe the Passover and partake of the lamb, to fast on prescribed holy days, to refrain from blood and other food laws (Laws of Noah), as well as various morality laws.

Indeed, they, no less than the Israelites, were expected to be loyal to YHWH (Lev. 20:2; cf. Ezek. 14:5–8). This loyalty did not require of these "non-Jews" that they keep all of the 613 mitzvot given to the Jews but many of them were given to them as "necessary" as we have seen. Beyond the minimum of the 66 Laws of Noah we see the concept of Isa. 56 being factored in here where the "non-Jew" was required to "chose things that please YHWH" which were over the minimum Laws of Noah.

YET THERE WERE DIFFERENCES

However, social differences did remain, and some "gerim" were better received than others. While third generation offspring of Edomites and Egyptians might "be admitted into the congregation of the Lord" (Deut. 23:8–9), Ammonites and Moabites were not to be admitted "even in the tenth generation" (23:4). Furthermore, even while the Holiness Code admonished Israelites not to subject their fellows to slavery (Lev. 25:39), they were specifically permitted to do so to the children of resident aliens (25:45–46). A Hebrew slave belonging to a "ger" could be redeemed immediately, and if not redeemed served until the Jubilee Year (25:47ff.), but one belonging to an Israelite served until the Jubilee (25:39ff.). Correspondingly, a Hebrew could serve as a hired or bound laborer (25:40) of an Israelite, but only as a hired laborer of an alien (25:50). Indeed, the humble position of the 'ger' generally was emphasized by the usage of the term in the Holiness Code: e.g., "The land is Mine; you are but strangers resident with Me" (25:23; cf. 25:35.).

In practice, of course, there were Israelites who became propertyless and destitute and had to support themselves as day laborers (Deut. 24:14; cf. Lev. 19:13), and no doubt there were also 'gerim' who became prosperous and acquired land. This narrowed the gap between the two classes and resulted in frequent intermingling. Marriages between the two groups did take place, only marriages between Israelites and the aboriginal inhabitants of Palestine being prohibited in Deuteronomy 7:3–4. On close examination it appears that even in the theory (and it was hardly more) of the author of Ezra-Nehemiah only marital alliances with the non-Israelites of Palestine were illegitimate, because the laws of Deuteronomy 7:3–4 and 23:3–9 applied to them. The absorption of converts from other nations is reported with composure—Ezra 2:59–60 (= Neh. 7:61–62); Ezra 6:21; Nehemiah 10:29 ("and everyone who withdrew from the uncleanness of the peoples of the lands [note the plural] to the teaching of God"). The phenomenon of such conversions is alluded to in Isaiah 56:3 and Zechariah 2:15; 8:20ff., and the predictions of the conversion of the gentiles in Isaiah and Jeremiah are well known. In late Second Temple times, the term "ger had become virtually synonymous with "proselyte" (full converts to Judaism) and "strangers" were admitted to the religious fellowship of Israel (Jos., Apion, 2:28).

THE GER TOSHAV AND THE LAWS OF NOAH

Whereas, as stated, the word "ger" in the Bible was taken to refer to the proselyte, the "ger toshav", the "resident stranger," was regarded as belonging to a different and special character. He was a "non-Jew" who accepted some, but not all of the commandments of the Torah, as a result of which he was permitted to reside in the land of Israel and enjoy many of the privileges of citizenship. Various views are expressed by the rabbis as to the qualifications which entitle the resident gentile to be accepted as a "ger toshav", ranging from the renunciation of idolatry to one who accepts the whole of the discipline of the Torah with the exception of the dietary laws (Av. Zar. 64b).

Answer for yourself: How did Judaism settle this difference of opinion?

The halakhah and ruling of Israel in this regard was decided that it applies to the person accepting the seven "Noachide Laws" (Maim. Yad, Issurei Bi'ah 14:7; Sh. Ar., YD 124:1). The laws, privileges, and restrictions of the "ger toshav" are exhaustively dealt with in the Talmud. As, however, it was laid down that the acceptance of a "ger toshav" was permitted only during the period that the Jubilee was in force, and that law was no longer in power in Talmudic times, the discussion was purely academic.

THE NON-JEW AND HIS RETURN TO GOD'S SABBATHS AND HOLY DAYS WHICH CONSTANTINE OUTLAWED

Answer for yourself: Why don't we as Christians and followers of Jesus and "the Christ" keep and observe the Biblical Holy Days in the Christian Church today?

We can begin to look at Constantine to find the loss of the Biblical Holy Days and the Sabbath for the non-Jew.

Let us learn an important truth from 2 Thess. 2:3

"Let no man deceive you by any means, for that day will not come unless the falling away comes first, and the man of sin is revealed, the son of perdition who apposes and exalts himself above all that is called God or that is worshiped so that he sits as God in the temple of God."

Let us look no further than Constantine to be one of many who fulfills this passage. As far as the history of Christianity is concerned, Constantine was one of the most influential men that ever lived. From the Writings of the Apostles (Gospel's), until Martin Luther nailed his theses to the church door in 1517, there was no single person that so changed the course of church history as Constantine did. Indeed, his influence was so vast that it continues to tower over Christendom in this, our own time. Both in church customs, doctrines and in church government, Christianity owes Sunday and a lot more to Constantine's intervention.

It may be news to you but Constantine began to change the Biblical Holy Days, forsaking the Shabbot and assigning Sunday as God's day. He outlawed the 7 Biblical Festivals and Feasts of God as well. He replaced them with pagan holidays derived from a "literalized" Sunworship to which he associated with Jesus and "the Christ". If we look at the Shabbot this should not be surprising to us for after all, the Gentiles (pagans) were already used to Sunday worship due to their background in "Sunday" - "Sun" worship. The logic of Constantine was very simple: "As more and more Gentiles came into the faith, why make them learn of God's Holy Sabbath and His Laws?" The root for all these changes comes from his intense antisemitism and hatred of the Jews as we find in Constantine's Easter Letter.

At the beginning of the 4th century, a monumental event occurred for the Church. In AD 306, Constantine became the first Christian Roman Emperor. At first, he had a rather pluralistic view and accorded Jews the same religious rights as Christians. However, in AD 321, he made Christianity the official religion of the Empire.

Answer for yourself: On the surface this looks good but what was hidden in such a move on Constantine's part? This signaled the end of the persecution of Christians, but the beginning of discrimination and persecution of the Jewish people.

Already at a council in Elvira (Spain) in AD 305, declarations were made to keep Jews and Christians apart, including ordering Christians not to share meals with Jews, not to marry Jews, not to use Jews to bless their fields, and not to observe the Jewish Sabbath.

Imperial Rome, in AD 313, issued the Edict of Milan, which granted favor to Christianity, while outlawing synagogues.

Then, in AD 315, another edict allowed the burning of Jews if they were convicted of breaking the laws. As Christianity was becoming the religion of the state, further laws were passed against the Jews:

- The ancient privileges granted to the Jews were withdrawn.
- Rabbinical jurisdiction was abolished or severely curtailed.
- Proselytism was prohibited and made punishable by death.
- Jews were excluded from holding high office or a military career.

These and other restrictions were confirmed over and over again by various Church councils for the next 1,000 years.

In AD 321, Constantine decreed all business should cease on "the honored day of the sun." By substituting Sunday for Saturday, as the day for Christian worship, he further advanced the split between Jews and "non-Jews" and in so doing begins to destroy God's "Pattern of Worship". This Jewish Shabbat / Christian Sunday controversy also came up at the first real ecumenical Council of Nicea (AD 325), which concluded Sunday to be the Christian day of rest, although it was debated for long after that.

Answer for yourself: What should this tell us? Simply that up until the early 4th century non-Jewish believers in God were taught to keep and observe the Sabbath along with the Jews!

Overnight, Christianity was given the power of the Imperial State, and the emperors began to translate the concepts and claims of the Christian theologians against the Jews and Judaism into practice. Instead of the Church taking this opportunity to spread its Gospel message in love, it truly became the Church Triumphant, ready to vanquish its foes (first it was the Jews who were singled out and later it would be Gnosticism and any who would dare to disbelieve the imperial religious doctrine).

After 321, the writings of the Church fathers changed in character. No longer was it on the defensive and apologetic, but aggressive, directing its venom at everyone "outside of the flock," in particular the Jewish people who could be found in almost every community and nation.

1Thes 1:9 9 For they themselves shew of us what manner of entering in we had unto you, and how ye turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God; (KJV)

The above passage refers to "Non-Jews" who turned from idols to serve the living God of the Jews. These "non-Jews" had just come out of idolatry. And that was fine when Gentiles first entered the faith. These "non-Jews" didn't know the Law, these "non-Jewish" believers did not know that they had a Covenant with God as taught by the Jews or that God expected of these "non-Jews" to observe and keep His "appointed times" and Holy Days like the Sabbath. But they could learn. They attended the synagogues, on Shabbot and observed "ALL" of the Jewish Biblical Holy Days. But Constantine and others made sure they did not continue to learn the Ways of God. He made sure that everything Jewish was removed from the then "existing" church.

You might want to look up the word "gentile". It means pagan. It means anyone outside Judeo Christian faith. Webster's dictionary states: "Gentile....anyone belonging to a non Jewish nation; anyone who is not a JEW OR

A CHRISTIAN." Yet Christians today claim the title of Gentile. This is part of the Lie that Constantine started and it obviously continues today. If you are a believer in the God of Israel through Yeshua then you are no longer a Gentile. You are grafted in to the Olive tree, which is Israel. And that being so then you should resemble Israel in your worship!

Rom 11:24 24 For if thou wert cut out of the olive tree which is wild by nature, and wert grafted contrary to nature into a good olive tree: how much more shall these, which be the natural branches, be grafted into their own olive tree? (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Have you ever noticed that any reference to Yeshua and the early church being a part of Judaism brings accusations of "Pharisee" "Legalist" and after that comes "one who would stone Christ" and finally "Christ Killers". This kind of talk brought us the Inquisition, the Crusades and the Holocaust.

CONSTANTINE'S COUNTERFEIT JESUS

A terrible deception has occurred and the vast majority of 2.5 billion Christians haven't a clue. Today in Gentile Christianity we have accepted a Constantine Jesus instead of the Jewish Messiah. Through Constantine's clever ruse of "replacement religion" we have centered in Christianity today not a Jewish Messiah but a Gentile Messiah. This person will look for all the world like the Messiah pictured in Christian paintings. He will look extremely "Gentile". This false messiah has and will continue to infiltrate the church. He will speak of Easter and Christmas and Sunday as if they were God's Holy Days. He will not allow Sabbath worship. He will declare Sunday as the Sabbath Day. As long as you worship the "Gentile Jesus" you won't have to worry about persecution. Nobody is going to bother you. You will be safe in your church and deceived the false comfort provided by errant theology. All this because you believed The Lie. The lie that you are separate from Israel. The lie that says the Olive tree is dead. The lie that says the Law is dead. The lie that says you are somehow better than Israel because you will be 'taken out' of the world in the day of Jacob's trouble. And the lie that says the Commandments of Almighty God are passed away. The lie says that you, as a Gentile Christian believer, have replaced Israel and that you are "the New Israel".

TIME TO STUDY FOR YOURSELF AND EXPOSE THIS LIE

Rom 11:17-18 17 And if some of the branches be broken off, and thou, being a wild olive tree, wert grafted in among them, and with them partakest of the root and fatness of the olive tree (Israel); 18 Boast not against the branches. But if thou boast, thou bearest not the root, but the root thee. (KJV)

We must begin at the beginning; namely with the Biblical Calendar. We can call this for all practical purposes the Jewish Calendar for I have found, as you will if you do the study, that "Jewish" is a synonym for "Biblical". I wish that could be said for the Christian Church but it simply is not so; in fact the opposite is more often the rule. The Lord's Calendar is a diary of His Appointments of His "appointed times" with mankind. These are specific times on which He wants to meet with us. The word 'set time' in Hebrew is "moed". It means an 'appointment' and a 'rehearsal'. These are appointments set in eternity as rehearsals for what is to come. We find time and time again when consulting the Hebrew words for the non-Jewish believer in God in the Hebrew Scriptures example after example of the non-Jew keeping and observing the Sabbath and the these Biblical "appointed times" and Biblical Festivals and Feasts with the Jew in the Hebrew Scriptures and the Old Testament. Many never see this for they know not where or how to look or study at this level. Words like "alien", "foreigner" and "stranger" go unnoticed in the Old Testament in contexts regarding these Holy Days of the Lord yet everyone of them is a beautiful picture of the overall "Pattern of Worship" given by God to all His children; to all mankind. Again and again God emphasizes to both the Jew as well as the non-Jew that we are to keep the Feasts at their appointed time as "rehearsals" for Eternity.

Numbers 9:2 says: "Make the Israelites celebrate the Passover at the appointed time."

In verse 14 we read, "A foreigner living among you who wants to celebrate the LORD's Passover must do so in accordance with its rules and regulations. You must have the same regulations for the foreigner and the native-born."

Isa 56:1-2 1 Thus saith the LORD, Keep ye judgment, and do justice: for my salvation is near to come, and my righteousness to be revealed. 2 Blessed is the man that doeth this, and the son of man that layeth hold on it; that keepeth the sabbath from polluting it, and keepeth his hand from doing any evil. (KJV)

But you read the above verse thinking this was a commandment for the Jew only most likely. But let us keep reading.

Isa 56:6-7 6 Also the sons of the stranger, that join themselves to the LORD, to serve him, and to love the name of the LORD, to be his servants, every one that keepeth the sabbath from polluting it, and taketh hold of my covenant; 7 Even them will I bring to my holy mountain, and make them joyful in my house of prayer: their burnt offerings and their sacrifices shall be accepted upon mine altar; for mine house shall be called an house of prayer for all people (nations). (KJV)

Wow. Here we have the example of non-Jews keeping the Sabbath of God let alone participating in Temple worship and the Sacrificial System. It would appear to me and hopefully you that these non-Jews are definitely "grafted" into the Israel of God more so than Christians today regardless of what they want to believe about themselves.

Isa 56:8 8 The Lord GOD which gathereth the outcasts of Israel saith, Yet will I gather others to him, beside those that are gathered unto him. (KJV)

Take a look at this chapter and you will see the church as it was/is supposed to be. We were supposed to learn about and keep the Lord's Sabbaths (the weekly sabbath as well as God's "High Sabbath" which are more commonly known as the Biblical Festivals and Feasts. We are plainly Commanded here to keep the Sabbaths of the Lord. We are now getting the chance to learn and do as many are returning to the Hebrew roots of the church. Let us do so in thanksgiving and delight.

GENTILES AND JEWISH CLASSIFICATION

In the Jewish worldview all gentiles who are ethical monotheists will achieve salvation. Judaism does not denigrate gentiles and does not see them as condemned to eternal damnation. Rather we see them as fellow human beings, from other nations, searching for God and for meaning in life. Judaism wishes them well with their search and celebrates those who succeed in becoming ethical monotheists. Jews are obligated in many rituals and ceremonies and those Jews who fail to fulfill these rituals are considered sinners. Gentiles, however, are not obligated in these commandments and are only obligated to be ethical monotheists. Those who fulfill this obligation receive their full reward in the world-to-come.

There are three main categories of gentiles [see R. Yom Tov ben Avraham Alshevili, Chiddushei HaRitva, Makkot 9a n.].

THE NOACHIDE MONOTHEIST:

This person is generally called a Ben Noach (or Noachide) meaning a proud descendant of the biblical Noah. In the Jewish tradition Noah and his sons were commanded to fulfill seven commandments which amount to ethical monotheism [see Aaron Lichtenstein, The Seven Laws of Noah]. Those gentiles who observe these commandments are considered righteous gentiles. They are, however, not Jews and are not considered part of Jewish society. They are righteous people and recognized for their accomplishments. However, they remain part of the human brotherhood but not part of Jewish society.

THE GER TOSHAV: NON-JEWS WHO GO BEYOND THE LAWS OF NOAH AND WHO, BEFORE A BET DIN (COURT) VOW TO OBSERVE THEIR COMMANDMENTS AS ETHICAL MONOTHEISTS

The Path of the Righteous Gentile states: "When one of the Children of Noah resolves to fulfill the Seven Universal Laws, his or her soul is elevated. This person becomes one of the Chasidei Umot Haolam - Pious Ones of the Nations - and receives a share of the Eternal World. The Holy Scriptures calls one who accepts the yoke of fulfilling the Seven Universal Laws a Ger Toshav - a Proselyte of the Gate. This person is permitted to live in the land of Israel and to enter to the Holy Temple in Jerusalem and to offer sacrifices to the God of Israel."

As the Rambam explains, the Ger Toshav is a person that actively accepted upon himself in front of a Jewish Bet Din to fulfill these Mitzvot, in a way that's similar to conversion. [According to some opinions he undergoes Brit milah (circumcision or the drawing of blood from his penis as well already circumcised)]. As opposed to a regular goy that adheres to the 7 Noahide laws out of his or her own rational understanding, feeling that that's the "humane thing to do", and has not committed him/herself to keep these laws on a definite basis, the "Ger Toshav" consciously accepts that Hashem, our God, commanded him to keep them (through Moshe) and for that basic reason, he/she is fully committed to fulfilling them. Moreover, if he is interested in keeping more than the basic seven laws, he can commit himself to more Mitzvot at the time of his "conversion", and can even accept upon himself Shmirat Shabbat- something that a regular goy is forbidden to do. A "Ger Toshav" can come to Bet din and decide upon any number of Mitzvot from the minimum seven up to a maximum of 613, and from that point on is obliged to keep them. A "Ger To Shav" cannot accept all 613 Mitzvot- because if he did, he'd simply be a... Jew! Here we find a non-Jew who not only accepts the Laws of Noah but understands and implements Isaiah 56 into his life and goes beyond the minimum observance as he "chooses those things that please God" as detailed in the texts of Isaiah 56.

By pledging that he will fulfill his obligation to be an ethical monotheist he enters Jewish society. He is not a convert and does not become Jewish. In fact, he can worship any monotheistic religion he chooses. He is, however, a righteous gentile and is gladly received into the Jewish community. He is welcome to live in Jewish neighborhoods (should he so choose), is supported by Jewish charities (if he so needs), and is considered part of the fabric of Jewish society in many ways [see Talmud Pesachim 21b; Talmud Avodah Zarah 65b; Nachmanides, Additions to Book of Commandments, 16; Maimonides, Mishneh Torah, Hilchot Zechi'ah Umattanah 3:11, Hilchot Melachim 10:12; Ra'avah of Posquieres, Comments to Mishneh Torah, Hilchot Issurei Biah 14:8]. Both the Ben Noach and the Ger Toshav are righteous gentiles. However, the Ben Noach has not entered Jewish society and perhaps does not wish to. Therefore, he is treated like a stranger. He is respected as a righteous human being, one who is fulfilling his divine purpose in the world. However, he is not part of the Jewish community.

GENTILES WHO ARE NOT MONOTHEISTS

The third category is of the gentile who is not an ethical monotheist. He is violating the covenant God made with Noah and his descendants and will be punished for those sins. It is with these people that Judaism has a very ambivalent attitude. On the one hand, they are acting contrary to God's purpose in the world. For this reason, Judaism tries to distance Jews from them. On the other hand, they are people created in God's image and must be respected as such. The compromise is that their positive traits, examples of which we will shortly see, are recognized and respected. However, their negative traits are never fully forgotten and full societal integration with such people is discouraged.

Those gentiles who have the status of Ger Toshav, who have requested acceptance into Jewish society and have pledged obedience to their commandments, are treated almost like Jews. Those who have the status of Ben Noach because they have not requested acceptance are respected but are not treated like brethren. They receive letter-of-the-law treatment because to treat them beyond that would be to detract from other Jewish brothers.

Answer for yourself: What has a Ger Toshav gained if a Ben Noach is treated the same? What extra connection is there between fellow Jews and within the entire Jewish/Ger Toshav society if everyone is treated extra specially?

Within the Jewish/Ger Toshav society all members, both Jewish and gentile, are joined together as a community united in its single goal of worshipping the one God. While Judaism treats all human beings with the respect due to someone created in the divine image, those within the Jewish/Ger Toshav society get slightly better treatment. They are handled above and beyond the letter of common human interaction.

There are those who point out these differences in treatment and wish to demonstrate that Judaism is anti-gentile. Quite the opposite. Judaism is one of the few religions that recognizes that even those outside its faith can be saved and allows them into its community. Righteous gentiles have a place in the world to come and can choose to join Jewish society if they wish. If they decline this invitation then they are given the full respect that these righteous people deserve. We shall show that the differences in treatment are reasonable and that all gentiles are treated honestly and respectfully.

THE GENTILE GOD-FEARER AND DIFFERENT LEVELS OF COMMITMENT TO GOD

The conviction that Judaism was the one true religion given by God for all men and that it was destined to become the universal religion for all mankind was a peculiarity of the Jews. No other religion in the world and time made any such pretensions or cherished such aspirations. It was an exclusiveness the rest of mankind did not understand and therefore doubly resented. It is today as well. Such a belief in the future universality of the "true religion," the coming of an age when "the Lord shall be King over all the earth," when "the Lord shall be one and His name One," led to efforts to convert the Gentiles to the worship of the one true God and to adherence to both faith and obedience according to the revelation He had given. Thus Judaism became the first great missionary religion of the Mediterranean world.

THE VEHICLE FOR INSTRUCTION:

Judaism's religious influence was exerted chiefly through the synagogues, which the Jews set up for themselves, but which were open to all whom interest or curiosity drew to their services. To Gentiles, in whose mind these services, consisting essentially of readings from the Scriptures and a discourse, along with prayers and hymns of praise, were inviting. In that time period in the Hellenistic world (Greek influenced), polytheism (belief in many gods) and idolatry was so decisively prevalent, that the souls of men cried out for something more. Such was the difference between the Gentile and the Jew. As a Gentile came to renounce heathenism and adopt Judaism along with observations such as the Sabbath, Festivals, and conformity to the rules of clean and unclean foods which were necessary conditions of social intercourse, it was seen to be a respectable degree of commitment and conversion on behalf of the Gentile that he be accepted alongside the Jew as God's people. This was before faith in Christ which only solidified such a commitment. The rejection of idolatry by the Gentile was an acknowledgment of the whole law, since one who renounces idolatry is called in Scripture a "Jew."

CONVERTS & VARIETIES OF COMMITMENT OF THE GENTILE

Gentile "believers" were called religious persons who "worship, or revere God," although in a strict sense they resided both inside and outside of the mainstream of Judaism. Yet, they were expected to share with "Jews by birth" the favor of the God they had adopted, and were encouraged in this hope by their Jewish teachers. It was not uncommon for the next generation to seek incorporation in the Jewish people by circumcision, thus becoming a full-fledged "convert to Judaism." These Gentiles were seen as the ones "clinging to the skirt (prayer shawl) of the Jew" (Zech. 8:23).

Zech 8:23 23 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; In those days it shall come to pass, that ten men shall take hold out of all languages of the nations, even shall take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew, saying, We will go with you: for we have heard that God is with you. (KJV)

Oh, by the way, this passage is prophetic and is yet to occur.

Answer for yourself: How is it that Gentiles will follow the Jews to Zion to learn of God if we Protestants and Catholics have all truth? Why are we trying to convert Jews to Christianity when the picture of the world to come is that Gentiles will come up to Zion and set at the feet of the Jews and Rabbis as we learn of God from them? Maybe Israel is the light unto the Gentiles after all! Think on that for a while.

Much confusion has arisen from the habit of describing such Gentile adherents of the synagogue as a class of proselytes or semi-proselytes, and trying to find a category for them in Jewish law. Jewish law knows no such semi-proselytes, nor any other kind of proselytes than such as have, by conversion and immersion/mikvah, not only become members of the Jewish church but has been naturalized in the Jewish nation. One should NOT make a distinction where none existed.

PHILO'S DEFINITION OF A PROSELYTE:

"Proselytes are such as have resolved to change over to the true religion, and are called proselytes because they have become naturalized in a new and godly commonwealth, renouncing the mythical fictions and adhering to the unadulterated truth." Under the Laws of Noah (7 commandments containing some but not all the Laws of Moses unless fully converted), proselytes enjoy equal rights in all respects with the native born Jews, as is only just, inasmuch as they have left country, friends, and kinfolk for the sake of virtue and holiness. There can be no question that Philo means by "proselyte" one who has deserted his false gods and his people to cast in his lot with the Jews.

OTHER VIEWS ON THE PROSELYTE:

Tacitus (a roman historian) speaks of proselytes as such as "practice circumcision like the Jews." A proselyte is not one who had merely embraced the monotheistic theology of Judaism, but has addicted himself to the Jewish ordinances and customs, and in doing so severed himself from his people, friends, and kinsmen; for which reason he is to be treated with peculiar benevolence. He has become a naturalized citizen of a new religious commonwealth in which he has a full quality of rights and duties with born Jews. NOTICE a proselyte was considered as part of Israel!

THE "GER" -HEBREW FOR PROSELYTE:

In the Greek Bible, "proselyte" is the usual translation of the Hebrew "ger." The older associations of this word were both civil and social. The "ger" was an alien immigrant, or the descendant of such an immigrant, resident in Israelite territory by permission, without any civil rights. This is the position of the "ger" in the older Hebrew legislation and in Deuteronomy. They are distinguished from foreigners (nokrim), who may be casually and temporarily in the country, and from the descendants of the ancient Canaanites. Israelites are commanded not to oppress these aliens, who had no legal protection; and they are frequently presented as objects of charity.

Later, in the Persian period, the word "ger" comes to be applied to foreigners (men of other than Jewish descent) who join themselves to Jehovah, or to Israel as the worshippers of Jehovah. Thus in Isaiah 14:1, in the restoration, when God reestablished Israel in its own land, "the 'ger' (converts the Jews have made in the exile) will join themselves to them and attach themselves to the house of Jacob." Such converts are described in Isa. 56:6ff.

"The aliens who join themselves to Jehovah to minister unto him, and to love the name of Jehovah, to be his servants, every one that keeps the Sabbath from profaning it, and hold firmly to my covenant (laws), I will bring them to my holy mountain and make them rejoice in my house of prayer; their burnt offerings and their sacrifices shall be acceptable upon my altar, for my house shall be called a house of prayer for all peoples. Thus saith the Lord Jehovah who gathers the dispersed of Israel, yet will gather others unto him (Israel), besides those that are gathered of (Israel) himself."

The laws for the "ger" (Gentile proselyte) or "gerim" (Gentile proselytes) in Lev. 17-25 put them, so far as religious duties and privileges go, in all respects on the same footing with Israelites by birth; they are subject to all the obligations of the Law, precisely as the "gerim" (proselytes) in the rabbinical law are. This is true, not only of religious commandments and prohibitions but also civil law: "You shall have one civil law; the proselyte (ger) shall be treated like the native born, for I am the Lord your God." For living as a resident alien ("ger," in the original civil sense) in the land of Israel the verb is "gur," as in sojourn; for conversion to Judaism and adoption into the people as well as their religion a new form was needed and created, the "ger in a religious sense" understood as "becoming a proselyte."

THE GER - GENTILE CONVERT RESTS BENEATH THE WINGS OF THE ALMIGHTY:

A favorite figure in the Psalms for the confident security of the religious man is having a refuge, or shelter, beneath the wings of God, or beneath the shade of his wings, as the young of birds do under their mother's wings for safety from danger. The same figure is frequently employed of conversion. The proselyte came beneath the wings of the Shekinah; one who converts a Gentile brings him under the wings of the Shekinah. The origin of this use is doubtless Ruth 2:12, where Boaz speaks for the Moabitish convert the reward for her goodness to Naomi from "the God of Israel, beneath whose wings thou art come to take refuge."

The legislation in the middle books of the Pentateuch (first 5 books of the Bible) thus puts the "gerim" on the same footing with native Israelites, not only before the civil law, but in religious duties and privileges, and Philo repeatedly emphasizes this parity of the naturalized and the native Jew as one of the notable features of the Mosaic Law.

DISTINCTIONS DO EXIST HOWEVER:

The Passover was the most distinctively national of all the festivals, but the law admits the proselyte to it, though no foreigner, no settler, no hired servant may eat of it. For such participation it is necessary that one be circumcised, "for no uncircumcised man shall eat of it" (Ex. 12:48). In Num. 9:14 it is assumed that the proselyte is circumcised, and the only requirement is that he shall conform strictly to the ritual of the Passover: "Whether proselyte or native, you shall have the same ordinance." This Scripture puts the proselyte on the same footing as the native in all the commandments contained in the Law. "As the native born Jew takes upon himself to obey all the words of the Law," so the proselyte takes upon him all the words of the Law. The authorities said, "if a proselyte takes upon himself to obey all the words of the Law except one single commandment, he is not to be received." Thus Paul would say in Gal. 5:2 to the Galatians: "I solemnly warn every man that gets himself circumcised (Paul was referring to conversion to Judaism) that he is under obligation to fulfill the whole law (613 commandments)". Since Paul was reared as a Pharisee, he made reference to both the Written Law and the Oral Law in this passage.

REQUIREMENTS FOR CONVERSION & "BEING BORN AGAIN"

The initiatory rite by which a man was made a proselyte comprised three parts: circumcision, immersion in water (mikvah/baptism) and the presentation of an offering in the Temple. In the case of a woman there was no circumcision, and after the destruction of the Temple no offering could be made. Circumcision alone is prescribed in the Written Law. The offering of a sacrifice is, thus, not one of the conditions of becoming a proselyte, but only a condition precedent to the exercise of one of the rights which belong to him as a sacrificial meal. As soon as he was circumcised and immersed, he was in full standing in the religious community, having all the legal rights and powers and being subject to all the obligations of the Jew by birth. He had "entered the covenant." It is interesting to note that this immersion of conversion was different from other immersions of purification in that the presence of official witnesses was required for conversion. Two scholars would stand by him and rehearse to him orally some of the lighter and some of the weightier commandments. When he had been immersed and had come up from the water (following circumcision if a male), one is like an Israelite in all that he does. In the case of the woman proselyte, women made her sit in the water up to her neck, while two scholars recited the same commandments, both positive and negative and it was assumed that the initiant assumed "the yoke of the commandments." As the Israelite came into the covenant only by three things, circumcision, immersion, and sacrifice, precisely so the proselyte comes into the covenant by the same three things. Israel was circumcised before leaving Egypt, they were baptized in the Sinai desert, and after they pledged themselves to keep all God's commandments they were sprinkled with the blood of the covenant sacrifice.

Now listen well. The status of a proselyte who embraces Judaism is at the moment of his reception like that of a "new born child" or as if "born again." Being "born again" is not a Christian concept by and of itself.

Answer for yourself: Don't you find it rather strange that Christianity has stolen the term and uses it but has dropped the original meaning which meant one's conversion and acceptance of the 613 Commandments for full conversion to Judaism? That is but one example of Replacement Religion for you.

It goes without saying that before a Gentile proselyte converted to Judaism that it was customary that before his initiation that he adhere to the seven Laws of Noah which were given to all heathen to observe if they lived within the land of Israel. The laws of Noah were the foundation from which one pursued righteousness.

The sincere and genuine proselyte (fully converted through circumcision, immersion, and having brought a sacrifice) is called "ger zedek," or "righteous proselyte" (Psalm 118:20). They are such as embrace the religion from religious motives, "for the sake of God," and therefore live in conformity to His will revealed in the Oral and Written Laws as they pledged themselves at their reception. Another name for such converts is the "get emet," or "true proselyte." To the righteous proselytes are sometimes applied texts in the Old Testament which speak of the righteous, or of such as fear God, the "truly righteous." We call them those who fear God or God-fearers. In the daily prayers in the Temple petitions for God's blessings upon the righteous proselyte are invoked.

The word "ger" by itself having come to mean proselyte or convert to Judaism who has received circumcision and baptism not only into the religion of Judaism but into the Jewish people, occasioned the necessity to find a distinctive term for the resident alien.

DISTINCTION BETWEEN RIGHTEOUS GENTILES: GER ZEDEK VS GER TOSHAB

The "ger toshab" was an alien but not a full convert to Judaism. He was a resident in Jewish lands by permission on the condition that while he resides that he would:

- Not engage in the worship of other gods or in idolatrous practices,
- Not blaspheme the name of God.
- He had to pledge himself in the presence of 3 observant persons to abstain from idolatry.
- He was to be subject to the jurisdiction of Jewish courts
- He had to keep free of flagrant crimes, homicide, robbery, theft, adultery and fornication.
- He also had to abstain from eating flesh with the blood or "life" in it (part of the Laws of Noah).
- He had to observe and commit to observance of the Seven Commandments that God gave to Adam and Noah and were consequently binding upon all mankind.
- He was not required to join in the worship of Israel nor to take upon himself any further obligations to observe the commandments of God to Israel (Mosaic Law), although these were optional to him (Isa. 56).
- He was not required to observe and keep the Sabbath but he enjoyed the exemption from labor on the Sabbath which gives rest on that day to slaves and hirelings of every race, as well as animals.
- He was not required to be circumcised.

Upon his circumcision he would become fully Israel and a full convert and his status would then change from a "ger toshab" to a "ger zedek".

The "ger toshab" is not a proselyte or a "semi-proselyte" and was not considered a convert to Judaism at all. The "ger toshab" as uncircumcised, also was called the "ger arel," and is not to be confused with the circumcised proselyte "ger ben berit" who has come into the covenant of God with Israel (ger mahul). The "ger toshab" was a heathen and was allowed to eat "carrion" or the flesh of animals not correctly slaughtered which no Israelite or proselyte could partake. The "ger" to whom an Israelite may give it in Deut. 14:21 is the "ger toshab". Also, it was permissible to take usury from a "ger toshab" as with any heathen, but forbidden to take usury from an Israelite or "true proselyte;" the "ger zedek."

Since the 18th century another category of proselytes emerged, the "Ger sh'ar" or the "proselyte of the gate" which is distinct from the "ger zedek," or full proselyte or God-fearing Gentile. The "ger sha'ar" or "proselyte of the gate" suggests converts who lingered at the door of the synagogue as derived from passages in the Bible which speak of the "ger (alien) who is in thy gates" or residents in Israelite towns and cities (Ex. 20:10, Deut. 5:14).

In the 4th century a question arose as to whom the 4th Commandment concerning the Sabbath applied to, the "ger zedek" or "ger sha'ar" and the former opinion prevailed. In other words the full-convert is required to observe and keep the Sabbath, having become as one born in the land, while the ger toshab was not, yet he still could choose those things that pleased God if he so desired (Isa. 56). Often such "strangers" are listed with names in Deut. along with the widows, orphans, and the landless Levites. Here we find the proselyte of the gate who was likewise often the object of charity.

ATTITUDES TOWARD PROSELYTES:

The attitude of the religious leaders of Judaism toward proselytes differed in different circumstances, and individual teachers had their own beliefs. Rabbi Shammai would have nothing to do with one who was not prepared to give implicit assent, before knowing its contents to the unwritten Law as well as the written Law. Many had bad opinions of all proselytes, fearing that with persecution that they would fall back into their old ways because they were naturally bad people. It is for this reason the Scriptures had so often admonished Israelites not to give them offense by word or deed. The School of Hillel, unlike the School of Shammai, welcomed converts, and admitted them even though their knowledge was imperfect and the observance of Judaism faulty. Hillel, to whom Jesus agreed, coined a motto: "Be one of the disciples of Aaron, a lover of peace, following after peace, loving mankind, and drawing them to the Law

(religion)." A tradition illustrating the different temper of the two masters states that a foreigner came to Shammai saying, "Make a proselyte of me, on condition that you teach me the whole of the Law while I stand on one foot." Shammai drove him off, beating him with a measuring stick, whereupon he gave Hillel the same proposition. Hillel received him as a proselyte and taught him: "What you do not like to have done to you, do not do to your fellow man. This is the whole of the Law; the rest is explanation of it. Go and study and learn it."

NO DIFFERENCE BETWEEN JEW AND GENTILE PROSELYTE:

Proselytes are dear to God, for you will find that the same things are said about them as about Israel:

- the Israelites are servants (Lev. 25:23) and proselytes are called servants, as it is said, "To love the name of the Lord and to be servants to him" (Isa. 56:60);
- the Israelites are called ministers, as it is said, "And ye shall be called the priests of the Lord, ministers to our God shall be said of you" (Isa. 61:1), and the proselytes are called ministers, as it is said, "The foreigners who attach themselves to the Lord to minister unto him (Isa. 56:6);
- the Israelites are called friends, as it is said, "The offspring of Abraham, my friend" (Isa. 41:8) and the proselytes are called friends, as it is said (of God), "Friend of the proselyte" (Deut. 10:18).
- The word "covenant" is used of the Israelites in Gen. 17:13 and so it is used of proselytes "Who hold fast my covenant" (Isa. 56:6).

The parallels are striking and it shows that God puts no difference between them in a spiritual sense.

IN CONCLUSION:

The preaching of Christianity made converts among proselytes to Judaism as well as among the looser adherents of the synagogue. There was such, according to Acts 2 and Acts 10, among the converts on the Day of Pentecost as Gentile converts from all 70 nations had come up to celebrate the Festival of Shavuot (Pentecost).

There were, on the other hand, proselytes to Judaism who came over from the Gentile church at times. In times of persecution Christians sometimes joined the Jews to evade the test applied by the Roman officials to adore the emperor, to which Jews were not subject. Later, Christian emperors would make conversion of Christians to Judaism a crime in itself with severe penalties both for the Christian convert and the Jew who converted him. Against all such attempts of pagan or Christian rulers to shut up Judaism in itself and prevent its spread in the first three centuries the Jews persisted in their missionary efforts to make the religion God had revealed to their fathers the religion of all mankind. It is with this understanding that we will continue in the next newsletter our study in the Book of Acts.

As a Gentile Christian you find the example of what is required of you as:

- Adhering to the Laws of Noah which is the minimum requirement
- Choosing those things that please God which go beyond the minimum commandments of our Noahide Covenant which demonstrate your love for God and your fellowman created in His image.

CONVERSION OF THE GENTILE TO JUDAISM

There is ample evidence of a widespread conversion to Judaism during the period of the Second Temple, especially the latter part of the period, and the word "ger", which in biblical times meant a "stranger", or an "alien", became synonymous with a "proselyte".

Among the notable converts to Judaism may be mentioned the royal family of Adiabene, Aquila and/or Onkelos, Flavius Clemens, the nephew of Vespasian, and Fulvia, wife of Saturninus, a Roman senator. Unique, as the only case of forced conversion in Judaism, was the mass conversion of the Edomites by John Hyrcanus.

In addition to those outstanding figures, however, it is obvious that proselytism was widespread among the ordinary people. The statement of the New Testament that the Pharisees "compass sea and land to make one proselyte" (Matt. 23:15), suggesting a vigorous and active proselytization, may possibly be an exaggeration, but on the other hand, the near pride which the rabbis took in the claim that some of their greatest figures were descended from proselytes point to an openhanded policy toward their acceptance. Such incidents as the different approach of Shammai and Hillel to the request to be taught the principles of Judaism by a potential proselyte (Shabb. 31a) and the incidental mention of "Judah the Ammonite proselyte" (Ber. 28a) point to the fact that the movement was not confined to the upper classes. In fact Josephus states explicitly that in his day the inhabitants of both Greek and barbarian cities evinced a great zeal for Judaism (Contra Ap. 2. 39).

It was during this period that the detailed laws governing the acceptance of proselytes were discussed and codified, and they have remained standard in Orthodox Judaism.

LAWS OF CONVERSION

The procedure, established by the tannaim, according to which a "non-Jew" may be accepted into the Jewish faith, was elucidated as follows: "In our days, when a proselyte comes to be converted, we say to him: 'What is your objective? Is it not known to you that today the people of Israel are wretched, driven about, exiled, and in constant suffering?' If he says: 'I know of this and I do not have the merit,' we accept him immediately and we inform him of some of the lighter precepts and of some of the severer ones...we inform him of the chastisements for the transgression of these precepts...and we also inform him of the reward for observing these precepts...we should not overburden him nor be meticulous with him..." (Yev. 47a; cf. Ger. 1, in: M. Higger, Sheva Massekhtot Ketannot (1930), p. 68–69).

The above text refers to a person who converted through conviction. The halakhah also accepts a posteriori, proselytes who had converted in order to marry, to advance themselves, or out of fear (Yev. 24b, in the name of Rav, see TJ, Kid. 4:1, 65b–d; Maim. Yad, Issurei Bi'ah 13:17; Sh. Ar., YD 268:12). The acceptance of a proselyte "under the wings of the Divine Presence" is equivalent to Israel's entry into the covenant, i.e., with circumcision, immersion, and offering a sacrifice (Ger. 2:4, in: M. Higger; loc. cit. 72).

A proselyte had to sacrifice a burnt offering either of cattle or two young pigeons. R. Johanan b. Zakkai instituted that in those times when sacrifice was no longer possible, a proselyte was not obliged to set aside money for the sacrifice (Ker. 9a). Therefore, in the absence of the Temple, only circumcision and immersion remained and was required for conversion. R. Eliezer and R. Joshua disagreed as to whether someone who immersed himself but was not circumcised or vice versa could be considered a proselyte. According to R. Eliezer, he is a proselyte, even if he performed only one of these commandments. R. Joshua, however, maintained that immersion was indispensable. The halakhic conclusion is that "he is not a proselyte unless he has both been circumcised and has immersed himself" (Yev. 46). The act of conversion must take place before a bet din, consisting of three members; a conversion carried out by the proselyte when alone is invalid (Yev. 46b–47a). There is a suggestion that the three members of the bet din must be witnesses only to his acceptance of the precepts but not to the immersion. Maimonides, however, decided (Yad, Issurei Bi'ah 13:7), that a proselyte who immersed himself in the presence of two members only is not a proselyte. The schools of Shammai and Hillel differed on the issue of a proselyte who had already been circumcised at the time of his conversion: "Bet Shammai states: 'One must draw from him the blood of circumcision'; Bet Hillel states: 'One need not draw the blood of circumcision from him'" (Tosef., Shah. 15:9; TB, Shab. 135a). Most of the rabbinic authorities decide in favor of Bet Shammai (Tos. to Shab. 135a; Maim. Yad, Issurei Bi'ah 14:5; Sh. Ar., YD 268:1), and "who hast sanctified us with Thy commandments and hast commanded us to circumcise proselytes and to draw from them the blood of the covenant" (Shab. 137b) is said in the circumcision benediction of proselytes.

A proselyte must observe all the precepts that bind Jews (613 mitzvot). The statement: "There shall be one law for the citizen and for the stranger that dwelleth amongst you" (Ex. 12:49), which refers to the paschal lamb, the sages interpreted to mean that the stranger (proselyte) was the equal of the Jewish citizen concerning all the precepts of the Torah (all 613) (Mekh. Pisha, 15). They tried to equalize the status of the proselyte and that of the Jew; certain differences stemming from the origin of the convert, however, remained. According to an anonymous Mishnah, a proselyte may not confess himself after taking out the tithes since the statement occurs in the confession "the land which Thou hast given to us"; nor does he read the section on the first fruits, where the statement is: "which the Lord hath sworn unto our fathers to give unto us." The proselyte, praying by himself must say: "the God of the Fathers of Israel"; in the synagogue he says: "the God of your Fathers" (Ma'as. Sh. 5:14; Bik. 1:4). According to one tradition, R. Judah permitted a proselyte to read the section on the first fruits, claiming that Abraham was the father of the whole world (TJ, Bik. 1:4, 64a; but in Tosef., Bik. 1:2 this permission is only extended to the Kenites). The Palestinian amoraim, R. Joshua b. Levi and R. Avihu, agreed with R. Judah. The authorities (particularly R. Samson in his commentary to Bikkurim (ibid.), and Maimonides in his letter to Obadiah the Proselyte, below) in permitting a proselyte to say "the God of our Fathers" in the prayers based themselves on the same rationale.

A proselyte terminates all former family ties upon conversion and "is considered a newly born child (BORN AGAIN)."

Answer for yourself: Were you aware that the term "Born Again" is a Jewish term referring to the conversion of a "non-Jew" to Judaism and the Jewish Faith? It is proper for Christianity to say that the Christian believer is "Born Again" when in fact he accepts an anti-Judaic faith and one which reveres no the Law of God? I surely don't think so.

His Jewish name is not associated with that of his father and he is referred to as "the son of Abraham (our father)." Later, it became the custom to name the proselyte himself after the first Jew who knew his Creator "Abraham the son of Abraham." According to the letter of the law, a proselyte may marry his relatives. The sages, however, decreed against this "So that they should not say: 'We have come from a greater sanctity to a lesser sanctity'" (Yev. 22a, Yad, Issurei Bi'ah 14:12). The disqualifications pertaining to testimony of relatives in judicial cases of family members do not apply to the proselyte; his relatives also may not inherit from him. If no heirs were born to him after his conversion, his property and his possessions are considered not to belong to anyone, and whoever takes hold of them becomes their owner (BB 3:3, 4:9; Git. 39a; Yad, Zekhi'ah u-Mattanah 1:6).

A proselyte may marry a Jewish woman, even the daughter of a priest (Kid. 73a; Yad, Issurei Bi'ah 19:11; Sh.

Ar., EH 7:22). A female proselyte, however, cannot marry a kohen, unless she was converted during childhood, not later than the age of three years and one day (Yev. 60b; Kid. 78a). R. Yose permits the marriage of the daughter of a male or female proselyte to a kohen; R. Eliezer b. Jacob, however, disputes the matter. The statement "From the day of the destruction of the Temple, the kohanim have preserved their dignity and followed the opinion of R. Eliezer b. Jacob" shows that tradition tended toward the latter's opinion. The amoraim, however, decided that he be followed only in those cases where the marriage has not yet taken place. If a female proselyte is already married to a kohen, she is not bound to leave him (Kid. 4:7; TB, Kid. 78b; Yad, Issurei Bi'ah 19:12). A proselyte may also marry a mamzer ("bastard"). According to some opinions, the permission may extend over ten generations, while others claim it should be only until his heathen origin is forgotten (Kid. 72b, 75a).

A proselyte cannot be appointed to any public office. The rabbis based their decision on the verse: "Thou shalt appoint over thee a king from among thy brothers—appointments shall be only from among thy brothers." This injunction does not apply to a proselyte whose mother or father are of Jewish origin (Yev. 45b; Kid. 76b; Tos. Sot. 41b, Yad, Melakhim 1:4). A proselyte may not hold the office of judge in a criminal court; he may act as such in a civil court (Sanh. 36b) and also judge a fellow proselyte, even in a criminal law case (Rashi to Yev. 102a). Unless one of his parents was born Jewish, most authorities bar a proselyte from acting as judge even in a civil court (Alfasi on Sanh. 4:2, Yad, Sanh. 2:9, 11:11). Others are of the opinion that even in a civil court he can only judge a fellow proselyte (Tos. Yev. 45b; Ra-Sh-BA on Yev. 102a).

Answer for yourself: Must one become a proselyte and be obligated to accept and fulfill all 613 Laws in Judaism to be part of the "Israel of God"? No, and it is to this we now turn.

THE GRAFTING OF THE GENTILES INTO THE ISRAEL OF GOD #1

A sensible immigrant anywhere will normally accommodate himself to local custom. Unsubtle natives often demand such conformity, or else. Even cultured citizens regard it as a polite compliment. In either-case, the newcomer's speedy recognition of the beauty and wisdom of one's traditional ways is taken as a mark of the foreigner's perceptiveness and good taste. It is also a bid for warmer welcome and for better odds in favor of smooth integration. Such was God's perspective as well when He included the Gentile among His people... Israel.

To the natives of ancient Israel, even such mundane matters as what one ate (and when) or wore; how one plowed, planted, reaped, or built a house, came under priestly regulation (because God had commanded such in His Law at Sinai as well as later), was declared to be the law (Torah-instruction) of Israel's God.

Answer for yourself: Could the nice foreigner, eager to be the tactful guest, avoid involvement then in what we could call his hosts' religion?

It would not be easy. Perhaps he preferred participation. In that case he might come to share the natives' conviction that, for whatever success he enjoyed, he was beholden to their God whose "client" he had now become.

"Client" is a technical term for such a guest. The Hebrews had their own word for him-ger. Though most English versions of the Bible inveterately translate this word as "stranger," it often signifies "proselyte." For the utter alien whose dissociation from Israel's faith and fashion of life was total, Scripture employs more precise designations, such as the Hebrew words ben (son of) nechar, nachri, zar, and acher.

The ger was to "some degree" incorporated in the community of Israel. This implied religious affiliation. The varying degrees of affiliation were not clearly defined or categorized in Biblical antiquity, but would later become so. That came later.

Regardless of where he originated or what his ancestral faith, elementary morality was expected of every resident in ancient Israel. Monotheism might appeal to one ger; another might enjoy the Sabbath of the Hebrews or their holy dietary regimen but entertain reservations about circumcision. However, if and when a ger assumed all the group oblations (ethical, ethnic and ecclesiastic), he became a full-fledged member of the congregation of Israel (Grafted IN) and his progeny were legally indistinguishable from other Israelites.

Converts were probably not attracted to the religion of Israel primarily by its rituals. They might have been if these had been sacraments—as in the mystery cults and later in Christianity. Israel's religion offered no magical means of redemption; and never claimed "no salvation outside this church."

Answer for yourself: What then did appeal to men who had outgrown paganism?

The purity of Israel's God-concept; its freedom from idolatry, image worship and adoration of saints; its sublime ethics; its rational hopes for the future; its faith in such a Kingdom of God as, under His guidance, men of flesh and blood could build on earth.

For the enlightened heathen seeking Israel's God, an ancient Temple prayer, (prayed during the time of Jesus) requests God's gracious concern, expressing the trust that thus others may similarly be drawn to Him:

As for the alien (stranger) who does not belong to Thy people Israel, but who comes from a distant land for Thy sake (for men shall hear of Thy great fame . . . ), when he comes and turns in prayer toward this temple, then do Thou hearken to this alien's petition . . . so that all nations in the world may learn what Thou art and worship Thee as does Thy people (I Kings 8:41 ff).

The Holy Bible In Basic English

And as for the man from a strange land, who is not of your people Israel; when he comes from a far country because of the glory of your name: 8:42 (For they will have news of your great name and your strong hand and your out-stretched arm;) when he comes to make his prayer, turning to this house: 8:43 Give ear in heaven your living-place, and give him his desire, whatever it may be; so that all the peoples of the earth may have knowledge of your name, worshipping you as do your people Israel, and that they may see that this house which I have put up is truly named by your name.

Answer for yourself: What does all of this mean that we as non-Jews are to learn to worship God as does the Jewish people?

Let us examine some of the Hebrew meanings to words in the above verse:

I Kings 8:41-43 41 Moreover concerning a stranger, that is not of thy people Israel, but cometh out of a far country for thy name's sake; 42 (For they shall hear of thy great name, and of thy strong hand, and of thy stretched out arm;) when he shall come and pray toward this house; 43 Hear thou in heaven thy dwelling place, and do according to all that the stranger calleth to thee for: that all people of the earth may know thy name, to fear thee, as do thy people Israel; and that they may know that this house, which I have builded, is called by thy name. (KJV)

41 Moreover concerning the stranger that is not of Thy people Israel, when he shall come out of a far country for Thy name's sake-- 42 for they shall hear of Thy great name, and of Thy mighty hand, and of Thine outstretched arm--when he shall come and pray toward this house; 43 hear Thou in heaven Thy dwelling-place, and do according to all that the stranger calleth to Thee for; that all the peoples of the earth may know Thy name, to fear Thee, as doth Thy people Israel, and that they may know that Thy name is called upon this house which I have built.

The Hebrew word used for "to fear" is as follows:

Brown-Driver-Briggs Hebrew Lexicon: 3372 yare' - 1) to fear, to revere, to be afraid a) (Qal) 1) to fear, to be afraid 2) to stand in awe of, to be awed 3) to fear, to show reverence, to honor, to respect b) (Niphal) 1) to be fearful, to be dreadful, to be feared 2) to cause astonishment and awe, to be held in awe 3) to inspire reverence or godly fear or awe c) (Piel) to make afraid, to terrify 2) Theological Wordbook of the Old Testament: to shoot, to pour

Strong's Concordance: 3372 yare' (yaw-ray'); a primitive root; to fear; morally, to revere; cause to frighten: KJV-- affright, be (make) afraid, dread (-ful), (put in) fear (-ful, -fully, -ing), (be had in) reverence (-end), X see, terrible (act, -ness, thing).

- Answer for yourself: Were prayers in the Temple, prayed by first century Jews as well as non-Jew for the Gentiles of the world to come to know God and worship Him and revere Him as did His people Israel?
- Answer for yourself: Were prayers in the Temple, prayed by first century Jews as well as non-Jews for the Gentiles of the world to come to understand God and acknowledge God in hopes that they would come to know of Him and ultimately revere and worship His as did His people Israel?
- 3) Answer for yourself: Were prayers in the Temple, prayed by first century Jews as well as non-Jews for the Gentiles of the world to perceive and see, and find out about the true worship of God?
- Answer for yourself: Were prayers in the Temple, prayed by first century Jews as well as non-Jews for the Gentiles of the world to come to know by experience God through the proper worship of Him as had Israel?
- Answer for yourself: Were prayers in the Temple, prayed by first century Jews in hopes that the Gentiles of the world might not only themselves come to know the true worship of God, but cause other fellow Gentiles as well to know God as they had?
- Answer for yourself: Were prayers in the Temple, prayed by first century Jews for the Gentiles of the world to come to revere (fear) and stand in awe of God, thus honoring Him and respecting Him?

Common to each of the above questions is the idea that Israel is the source as well as the example to all non-Jewish nations for the Revelation of God among mankind. We find this fact in both the Old and New Testaments as well.

Dearly beloved, I have begun to lead you to a path more pleasing to God than you have ever embarked before in your life. As we can see from the above examples we as Christian Gentiles and followers of "the Christ" are to worship God as does the Jewish people. They have the "Pattern of Worship" for us even today which we need to learn and follow. In this article, of which much is to follow, I will prove my point to you beyond any doubt: that as Christians we are to worship God according to the "Pattern of Worship" given by God for both the Jew as well as the Gentile.

LOOKING AT I CHRON. 28:11...A VERY IMPORTANT SCRIPTURE FOR OUR STUDY

1 Chr 28:10-15 10 Take heed now; for the LORD hath chosen thee to build an house for the sanctuary: be strong, and do it. 11 Then David gave to Solomon his son the pattern of the porch, and of the houses thereof, and of the treasuries thereof, and of the upper chambers thereof, and of the inner parlours thereof, and of the place of the mercy seat, 12 And the pattern of all that he had by the spirit, of the courts of the house of the LORD, and of all the chambers round about, of the treasuries of the house of God, and of the treasuries of the dedicated things: 13 Also for the courses of the priests and the Levites, and for all the work of the service of the house of the LORD, and for all the vessels of service in the house of the LORD.

Let us look and examine the the Hebrew word for :service and see what we find hidden in the Hebrew:

The Strong's Concordance teaches us that the Hebrew word for “pattern” is as follows:

8403 tabniyth (tab-neeth'); from 1129; structure; by implication, a model, resemblance: KJV-- figure, form, likeness, pattern, similitude.

Strong's Concordance teaches us that the Hebrew word for "service" is as follows:

5656 `abodah (ab-o-daw'); or `abowdah (ab-o-daw'); from 5647; work of any kind: KJV-- act, bondage, + bondservant, effect, labour, ministering (-try), office, service (-ile, -itude), tillage, use, work, X wrought.

Brown-Driver-Briggs' Hebrew Lexicon: teaches us more as we look at the Hebrew word used for "service":

5656 `abodah or `abowdah- labor, service

- a) labor, work
- b) labor (of a servant or a slave)
- c) labor, service (of captives or subjects)
- d) service (of God)

Now let us look a little deeper into the root word for the Hebrew word "service" as taken from the Strong's Concordance:

5647 `abad (aw-bad'); a primitive root; to work (in any sense); by implication, to serve, till, (causatively) enslave, etc.: KJV-- X be, keep in bondage, be bondmen, bond-service, compel, do, dress, ear, execute, + husbandman, keep, labour (-ing man, bring to pass, (cause to, make to) serve (-ingself,)), (be, become) servant (-s), do (use) service, till (-er), transgress [from margin], (set a) work, be wrought, worshipper,

What we see from these words is that there is a "MINISTRY" and "SERVICE OF OR UNTO God" and a "worship of God" that was given by the Spirit of God according to a "PATTERN" that as bondservants of the Most High we are compelled to follow

Answer for yourself: Did you see the picture emerging from the above passages as these Hebrew words were explained in depth to you?

Now we see that there does for certain exist a "Pattern" of "service" or a "Pattern of ministry" of or unto God in the Hebrew Scriptures in the Old Testament but for our purposes we need to know if there exists such a "Pattern of service" or "Pattern of Worship" in the New Testament.

The sad fact of the matter is that as contemporary Christians we do not follow the pattern of worship which was given to David and which can be traced to continue until the 4th century, and our efforts at worship are often anything but reverence and honor toward God when we change HIS PATTERN OF WORSHIP and substitute man-made Sabbaths for the Sabbaths of God, substitute man-made holidays that originate from pagan sources and Sun Worship for the Almighty's Biblical Feast Days, and pervert the Tithe and Offerings as is being done by the vast majority of Christian Churches today. "It can't be" is probably your response. Let me assure you "we are Nadabs and Abihus in Christian garb." God is not pleased and you will not find out unless you study for yourself or you die, whatever comes first. It is our intention at Bet Emet Ministries to save you the shame destined for you in the world to come and lead you in a "more perfect way" as was Apollos by revealing to you these Biblical truths which have for too long been overlooked by too many. I ask you read this series of articles both with your mind and your heart. We at Bet Emet Ministries are eager to help you better understand the Hebraic meaning of the Scriptures which influence the most important part of your life...your worship and relationship with God. Now back to the teaching.

Jesus (Yeshua) prayed this Temple prayer often and it was, and still is his earnest desire and will that all Gentiles be reached with the message of God's salvation and come to the knowledge whereby they worship his Father in Spirit and in Truth. Notice, and this is very important, that the prayer is not only that we come to the knowledge of God and worship him, but that we as non-Jews WORSHIP GOD AS DOES THE PEOPLE OF ISRAEL.

Please understand that not all worship is accepted by God. You only have to ask Nadab and Abihu and their stunning deaths in their first worship service speaks volumes that should alert us today to the fact that all worship is not accepted by God and even may be judged by God. In other words, the Temple prayer prayed by multitudes of Jews, as well as Jesus and his Apostles (which would later take the message of Gentile Salvation into all the world) was for the Gentile to learn the correct forms of worship that both honor God and show Him respect.

Answer for yourself: Does the observance of Easter or Passover please God? Which did God and Jesus command be observed? I'll give you a hint, it is not Easter!

Answer for yourself: Are you aware which of the above two religious observances was given to us by God and which was given to us by pagans?

Answer for yourself: Having understood that Easter is a pagan fornication festival adopted by the ancient Catholic Christian Church (check me out in your Encyclopedia) to which they added the name of Jesus (notice that Easter and Passover are TWO different dates on your calendar....why?), can you any longer participate in such a observance once you understand that God hates such things as He says in the Bible?

This is exactly what I am trying to make you understand. Observance of pagan forms and manifestations of worship always led Israel to be judged and taken into captivity.

Answer for yourself: What will be the fruit of such observances by the Christian Churches come judgment day?

THE GRAFTING OF THE GENTILES INTO THE ISRAEL OF GOD #2

Having seen in the first of this series of articles that there is a pattern for our worship given by God to David which laid out the way the Jews and non-Jews are to worship God, and understanding that “the” pattern for such worship existed well into the fourth century for both Jews and Gentiles before it was changed by the pagan leadership of Rome, let us continue in our study into how Gentiles are engrafted into Israel and the responsibilities that it entails.

One alien (Gentile) from a distant land was the Syrian general, Naaman. He came not, it is true, to the temple of God, but to the "man of God," Elisha, asking a cure for his leprosy. His mission accomplished, he confessed:

Now I know that there is no God in all the earth except in Israel (II Kings 5:15)

Elisha did not seek in any way to persuade Naaman to become a proselyte or a convert to Judaism. The prophet merely accepted his simple promise of faithfulness to God and blessed him at their leave-taking.

When, long centuries later, a antisemitic Gospel writer, ignoring his master's rule against anger and abusive name-calling, raged:

Woe to you scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you scour sea and land to make a single proselyte, and when he is converted you make him a son of hell twice as bad as yourselves. (Matthew 23:15)

Hidden in his haystack of hyperbole was one slim needle of truth. Converts were always welcome in Israel.

Answer for yourself: Does the New Testament teach that God shows no partiality, but welcomes the man of any nation who reveres Him and does what is right. (Acts 10:35)?

Acts 10:35 35 But in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that there is two requirements to be "accepted with God"?

What does the word "nation" mean in the above verse?

The Strong's Concordance teaches us that the Greek word for "nation" is as follows:

1484 ethnos (eth'-nos); probably from 1486; a race (as of the same habit), i.e. a tribe; specially, a foreign (non-Jewish) one (usually by implication, pagan): KJV-- Gentile, heathen, nation, people. So this is a picture of the non-Jewish nations of the world who can "be accepted" with God if they only "fear Him" and "worketh righteousness"! This is far cry from what most hear taught in their Christian Churches today where we are taught that to be "saved" and "accepted with God" that we have to accept the latest creed of faith of our denomination or non-denomination regarding the identity of Jesus or his mission.

Answer for yourself: What does the Greek word for "feareth him", as in "fearing God" mean?

The Strong's Concordance teaches us that the Greek word for "feareth" means:

5399 phobeo (fob-eh'-o); from 5401; to frighten, i.e. (passively) to be alarmed; by analogy, to be in awe of, i.e. revere: KJV-- be (+sore) afraid, fear (exceedingly), reverence.

The Thayer's Greek Lexicon teaches us that the Greek word for "feareth" also means:

5399 phobeo- to put to flight by terrifying (to scare away)

- a) to put to flight, to flee b) to fear, to be afraid
  - 1) to be struck with fear, to be seized with alarm
- a) used of those startled by strange sights or occurrences
- b) used of those struck with amazement
  - 2) to fear, to be afraid of one
  - 3) to fear (that is, hesitate) to do something (for fear of harm)
- c) to reverence, to venerate, to treat with deference or reverential obedience

Answer for yourself: Do you notice that “reverence” of God is connected with “obedience”?

Answer for yourself: Does Paul use this term “nations” in the New Testament to refer to Gentiles, even Gentile Christians? He sure does.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that in the Book of Numbers it says that Israel is NEVER to be numbered among the nations, thus when discussing “nations” the reference is always to non-Jews?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that the phrase “in every nation” refers to non-Jews and not Jews?

Answer for yourself: Since Paul uses this term to refer to Gentiles, even Gentile Christians, is it possible that Gentile Christians can worship incorrectly and not worship in true worship of the true God? It may be hard for you to swallow, but the answer is "yes". Thus the need for Bet Emet and other ministries to warn the Christian of today.

Answer for yourself: Is Luke, the author of Acts, telling us that in every nation there are to be believing Gentiles who are reverencing, venerating, and responding to God with reverential obedience yet who might not be "Christians" but that they as well are "accepted with God"? He sure is! This just so happens to be what Judaism, the religion of Jesus, always taught as well.

Answer for yourself: We are told that we are to "work" righteousness.

Answer for yourself: What does the word "worketh" mean in the Greek language?

The Strong's Concordance teaches us that the Greek word for "worketh" means:

2038 ergazomai (er-gad'-zom-ahee); middle voice from 2041; to toil (as a task, occupation, etc.), (by implication) effect, be engaged in or with, etc.: KJV-- commit, do, labor for, minister about, trade (by), work.

The "root" word Strong's Concordance also teaches us is taken from: 2041 ergon (er'-gon); from a primary (but obsolete) ergo (to work); toil (as an effort or occupation); by implication, an act: KJV-- deed, doing, labour, work.

The Thayer's Greek Lexicon adds:

2038 ergazomai- 1) to work, to labor, to do work 2) to trade, to make gains by trading, "do business" 3) to do, to work out a) to exercise, to perform, to commit b) to cause to exist, to produce 4) to work for, to earn by working, to acquire

Answer for yourself: Since we are to work "righteousness" then what does this word mean?

The Strong's Concordance teaches us that:

1343 dikaiosune (dik-ah-yos-oo'-nay); from 1342; equity (of character or act); specially (Christian) justification: KJV-- righteousness.

The above definition from Strong's Concordance is somewhat vague but the one from the Thayer's Greek Lexicon is not:

1342 dikaio-

a) in a wide sense, upright, righteous, virtuous, keeping the commands of God

- 1) used of those who seem to themselves to be righteous, who pride themselves to be righteous, who pride themselves in their virtues, whether real or imagined
- 2) innocent, faultless, guiltless
- 3) used of him whose way of thinking, feeling, and acting is wholly conformed to the will of God, and who therefore needs no rectification in the heart or life
- 4) approved by or acceptable by God

b) in a narrower sense, rendering to each his due and that in a judicial sense, passing just judgment on others, whether expressed in words or shown by the manner of dealing with them

Answer for yourself: Did we just read that in every nation non-Jews who produce works of righteousness and labor in accomplishing righteous acts are "accepted with God"?

Answer for yourself: Did we equally see that we can not only can obtain and acquire works of righteousness by our obedience but we as non-Jews can also EARN by working a state of "acceptance by God"? It sure appears so and again this is what Biblical Judaism has taught from the beginning of time.

Answer for yourself: Understanding that Acts 10:35 is in the New Testament, did you see for yourself that the Law has not passed away, but instead, Peter testifies after the death of Jesus that in every nation of the world Gentiles (remember Paul uses the term for Gentile Christians in the New Testament) who reverence God and labor to be righteous (attaining a condition of acceptance with God by correct feelings that promote correct actions) by being upright and by KEEPING THE COMMANDS OF GOD are accepted (saved) by God?

Answer for yourself: Although it goes against the vast majority of Christian teaching today, did you notice that the words of your Bible, understood in their original language, describe that there exists a condition whereby man can make himself acceptable with God and ATTAIN BY HIMSELF a condition of acceptance before God, even after the cross of Christ?

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that if we are to "worketh righteousness" (labor to be righteous by obeying the commandments) that evidently there are things (obeying the commandments) by which man can do (not just believe) for himself to strengthen his relationship with God (make himself acceptable with God), thus meaning that "Jesus did not do it all" as we have been taught our whole lives?

Answer for yourself: Are you to believe preachers you have heard your whole life that reiterate the past preaching of a received "tradition" from the reformers of the middle ages, or will you allow the very inspired words of the Bible be your authority for what you are to believe?

We all want to be accepted with God and we were just told how; namely, to obey the Commandments of God that make up our Covenant and our Covenant stipulations. For the non-Jew it begins with 66 Commandments that frame the Covenant and Laws of Noah. For the Jew that number is 613.

The object of our obedience of the Commands of God is our demonstration of our love for and "fear of God" as required in the above passage. This also is how we "work righteousness" as we let these Commandments of God in our respective Covenants, Jewish and non-Jewish, dictate to us what we are to do and not do. This might be news to you but our Covenant stipulations, the Commandments and Laws that from our Covenants with God, when obeyed or disobeyed, determine our actual standing before God.

Answer for yourself: What does the word "accepted" mean in the Greek?

Let us first look at what the Strong's Concordance has to say:

1184 dektos (dek-tos'); from 1209; approved; (figuratively) propitious: KJV-- accepted (-table).

The "root word" means: 1209 dechomai (dekh'-om-ahee); middle voice of a primary verb; to receive (in various applications, literally or figuratively): KJV-- accept, receive, take.

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that this word, "accepted", is in the Middle voice? What does this mean in Greek grammar? Voice refers to the role of the subject in the action. Understand that since our verb is "active" in that "the person has to work righteousness" and performs some sort of action, then the verb is active which means that the subject is the performer or responsible for the action (the agent). So you and I are responsible to "fear God" and revere God in our actions as well as responsible to "do righteousness" and thereby acquire a condition of acceptability with God.

Answer for yourself: Having seen in prior articles dealing with Acts 15 and the Acts 15 Jerusalem Council were we saw the debate centered over what would be required of the non-Jew to be accepted among the Jews and the Israel of God then would it not apply that this passage detailing that the non-Jew must "fear God" and "work righteousness" would equally refer to the non-Jew "being accepted into the family of God as well (being grafted into Israel)? It sure would.

Answer for yourself: Can you think of a passage in the New Testament whereby we are warned that many mistakenly believing that they are accepted with God will come to God and Messiah and be rejected instead?

Matt 7:21-23 21 Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven. 22 Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works? 23 And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity. (KJV)

The death penalty...which is exactly "what" one earns for committing SIN, as Romans 6:23 says (THE WAGES OF SIN IS DEATH)...hung over us, just as it does for anyone who PRACTICES SIN (remember transgression of the LAW is defined as "sin" in the New Testament). Only those who turn FROM sin, turn FROM breaking the Law, and turn TO Yahweh in OBEDIENCE to Yahweh's every Word" will be given the gift only Yahweh can give...Eternal Life! We will be given access to the Tree of Life!

As we Read in Isaiah 59: 1-2, it is OUR SINS (INIQUITIES) that separate us from God.

Isa 59:1-2 1 Behold, the LORD's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear: 2 But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear. (KJV)

Now back to the point; we can either "work righteousness" and be accepted with God or as Matt. 7:21-23 states we can "work iniquity" and be not accepted and be told to depart from God. The choice is ours; that is if we are instructed correctly by our Spiritual teachers. But that is not always the case.

Let us examine the Hebrew word for "iniquity" used by Isaiah the Prophet in Isa. 59:1-2:

Isa 59:1-2 1 Behold, the LORD's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear: 2 But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear. (KJV)

The Strong's Concordance teaches us concerning the Hebrew word for "iniquities":

5771 `avon (aw-vone'); or `avown (2 Kings 7:9; Psalm 51:5 [7]) (aw-vone'); from 5753; perversity, i.e. (moral) evil: KJV-- fault, iniquity, mischief, punishment (of iniquity), sin.

The "root word" as taken from the Strong's Concordance:

5753 `avah (aw-vaw'); a primitive root; to crook, literally or figuratively (as follows): KJV-- do amiss, bow down, make crooked, commit iniquity, pervert, (do) perverse (-ly), trouble, X turn, do wickedly, do wrong.

This same English word is defined in the Strong's Concordance in the New Testament in Matt. 7:23 as "those not submitted to Jewish LAW" and it is our breaking of Yahweh's Law, that cuts us off from Yahweh. Let us now look at this in both the Greek and the English texts.

Let us examine the Greek word for "iniquities" as taken from the Strong's Concordance from Matt. 7:21-23.

458 anomia (an-om-ee'-ah); from 459; illegality, i.e. violation of law or (genitive case) wickedness: KJV-- iniquity, X transgress (-ion of) the law, unrighteousness.

The "root word" is Strong's number 459 anomos (an'-om-os); from 1 (as a negative particle) and 3551; lawless, i.e. (negatively) not subject to (the Jewish) law; (by implication, a Gentile), or (positively) wicked: KJV-- without law, lawless, transgressor, unlawful, wicked.

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that this passage Matt. 7:21-23 teaches that even Gentiles who work "iniquity" and who are not subject to the Jewish Law are told to depart from God?

These same Scriptures tell us that the REASON Yahweh will NOT listen to someone, is BECAUSE they are a SINNER...they practice sin. For your information this is the same word used by Yeshua [Jesus] in Matt. 7:23 where he tells "many" who come to him expecting "acceptance" to depart from him because they practice iniquity (Strong's number 458 & 459 meaning "the practice of not submitting to Jewish Law").

Now let us examine what Thayer's Greek Lexicon has to teach us about the word "iniquity":

458 anomia-

- 1) the condition of without law
- a) because ignorant of it
- b) because of violating it
- 2) contempt and violation of law, iniquity, wickedness

This is a very frightening revelation for a Christian who has grown up in church his whole life and who has been taught that he is not under the Law but under grace as well as being taught disdain for the Holy Law of YHWH which is literally his Covenant stipulations.

Answer for yourself: Is transgression of the LAW of Moses, which contains within it the Gentile's Covenant and Laws of Noah as spoken of following the Cross in the New Testament considered "sin?" Definitely yes.

Answer for yourself: Please note that Ephesians 2:1 says that these converts "WERE" (past tense) cut off from Yahweh, having no hope because something had separated them from Yahweh. What does Isaiah tell us in 59:1-2 that separated the Gentiles from God? Our iniquities, our sin which is transgression of the Law.

Answer for yourself: The New Testament, in I John 3:4, defines "SIN" as what? Transgression of, violation of, and ignorance of the Mosaic Laws. So it is these transgression of our Covenant Laws and Commandments that separate us from God and do not allow us to be accepted because we spend our lives under incorrect teaching that assures we don't "work righteousness" which is demonstrated by obedience to these Commandments of God residing in our respective Covenants with God.

Answer for yourself: Does Matt. 7:21 teach us in the New Testament that those who are without the Law, or who are ignorant of the Law, or who violate the Law, or who are destitute of the Mosaic Law (usually Gentiles) are told by Yeshua to depart from him? Yes. Can you imagine the horror waking up "dead" and being told by the one you expect to receive you to "get out of here"?

Answer for yourself: Even worse does Matt. 7:21 teach us in the New Testament that those who depart from the law are "wicked?" Yes. Have you ever thought that accepting, believing Christian dogmas, and acting upon them in faith, in particular those regarding the Jewish Law, has made you "wicked" in the sight of God? The next time your preacher teaches you that the Law is done away with in Christ or that "Christ is the end of the Law" just remember that.

Answer for yourself: Does Matt. 7:21 teach us that if we are ignorant of the Law, thereby showing our contempt of it, should we expect to likewise hear "depart from me" from Yeshua in the world to come? Yes.

Answer for yourself: Does Matt. 7:21 teach us in the New Testament that those who violate the Law and are destitute of the Mosaic Law are told by Yeshua to depart from him. Yes.

Answer for yourself: If your church has taught you that the Law has passed away, thus making you destitute of the Law of Moses, should you expect that Yeshua will tell you to depart from him as well? Yes.

Answer for yourself: Do you realize that if the Law of God (Laws of Moses-Torah) is not valid today, then we are not sinners? Is that possible since that Yahweh teaches us that if we say "we have not sinned" then we are LIARS? No.

Answer for yourself: If I John 3:4 is a New Testament Scripture, then how is it possible that "sin" can be defined as "transgression against the LAW" if the LAW HAS PASSED AWAY AND WE ARE NO LONGER UNDER LAW BUT UNDER GRACE? It can't!

Answer for yourself: Is transgression of the LAW following the Cross in the New Testament considered "sin?" Yes.

Answer for yourself: Before the CONVERSION of these GENTILE EPHESIANS, they lived in SIN. What did one earn for committing SIN which is defined in the New Testament as transgression of the Law? Death and separation from God ("depart from me").

Answer for yourself: Romans 6:23 says THE WAGES OF SIN IS DEATH and death hung over all men, just as it does for anyone who PRACTICES SIN. Then is it a true statement that only those who turn FROM sin, turn FROM breaking the Law, and turn TO Yahweh in OBEDIENCE to Yahweh's Every Word" will be given the Gift only Yahweh can give...Eternal Life? Yes.

Answer for yourself: Do you find it difficult to believe that this is the same word used by Yeshua [Jesus] in Matt. 7:21 where he tells "many" who come to him expecting "acceptance" to depart from him because they practice iniquity (Strong's number 458 & 459 meaning the practice of not submitting to Jewish Law)? Not any longer.

Answer for yourself: Can you begin to see the importance of identifying with Israel who has always revered the Covenant Law instead of organizations (Churches) that teach the Law has passed away? I hope so.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that it is within THE LAW of God where we find commandments concerning how we as Gentiles are to worship God according to "the pattern" given by David and handed down well into the fourth century? This website is showing you this.

Answer for yourself: Do you now better understand that since most of Christianity does not pay attention to the validity of the Law for their lives, that they overlook the pattern for how God is to be worshipped (Festivals and Sabbath and righteous giving of the Tithe instead of the way it is handled by most today), thus causing multitudes to worship God in vain?

It is with this understanding that ministries like Bet Emet and others are trying to reach Christians in the hope of revealing to them the beauty of the Hebraic Roots of their faith in hopes they will repent and worship God in Spirit and in Truth, for He is worthy of correct worship and love.

Please understand that before the Word of Yahweh was given to the Gentile People as a whole, they were cut off from Yahweh. Before this, ONLY the Tribes of the Children of Israel were given Yahweh's Laws, which GUIDED one to faith and obedience, thus culminating in Yahweh's SALVATION.

Bet Emet Ministries believes in examining our "belief systems" to see if we are in "the faith." We, at Bet Emet, through educational newsletters attempt to examine our "religious belief systems," our Bibles, concepts, religious doctrines, ancient meanings of biblical words, and the influence of ancient culture on the writers of the biblical text, and much more. After all, what are we to do one day when standing before God at the Judgment Seat and after confession that we have prophesied in his name, and in his name cast out demons and in his name done many wonderful works (we thought), and hear: "I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity?" This frightening example is to warn us that "many" will have a "religious belief system" that will guarantee their disqualification from entering the Kingdom of Heaven.

Answer for yourself: Is that you? Could that be You? How can you prevent yourself from awaking from the dead and finding that you are personally fulfilling Matt. 7? Don't you thing you better start examining YOUR "belief system" while you still can?

We at Bet Emet Ministries have had to repent of many doctrines we were taught in good faith that could not stand the text of critical examination. God desires we have faith in "truth" and not faith in "error or lies." We invite you to tell your friends that such an opportunity is available at Bet Emet Ministries. More to follow in article three. More to come in article three. Shalom.

THE GRAFTING OF THE GENTILES INTO THE ISRAEL OF GOD #3

Many centuries before the earliest writings of the New Testament, Isaiah said: "Israel shall with Egypt and Assyria form a triple alliance, a blessing to the world around and blessed by God Who said, 'Blessed be Egypt, My people; Assyria, the work of My hands; and Israel, My heritage.'" (Isaiah 19:24f.)

In order for you to feel the full force of Isaiah's prophecy, imagine some preacher today proclaiming, "Blessed is Russia, God's people; Red China, the work of His hands; and America, His heritage." This does put some strain on the imagination. Yet Isaiah dared. Israel's prophets happened really to believe that we have indeed all one Father. The spirit of these prophets pervades the entire Torah, the entire Pentateuch. It is to these first five fundamental books of the Bible that we now turn.

TORAH

The traditional view of Biblical authorship is that the prophet Moses, in the thirteenth pre-Christian century, wrote down the Torah on Mount Sinai at the dictation of God. The Pentateuch (first 5 books of the Bible) contain the earliest literary records of the religion of Israel and are first in importance among the sacred texts of Biblical faith. "The Five Books of Moses" are the primary source of Israel's faith. To examine what the Pentateuch has to say about proselytes and the Gentiles coming into relationship with God and His people Israel is, therefore, of utmost importance for the Christian today in relation to his obedience or disobedience to the "pattern of worship" as shown in previous articles. To begin with Torah is truly to put first things first.

Many modern scholars believe that the stories of Creation, the Patriarchs and Joseph are legendary. They may be. But it is precisely in the realm of its folklore that a people reveals its elemental thought and feeling, its basic beliefs, its loftiest aspirations. The political history of Israel, as of other folk, was influenced by external circumstances—climate, geography, wars. Its myths and legends are the expression of its inward spiritual experience. Its folklore bespeaks a people's soul.

Literally, the first concern of the Hebrew Bible is not with Hebrews but with humanity. Scripture opens not with the birth of Abraham, traditional father of this folk, nor of Moses, historic founder of their faith, but significantly with the creation of the world and the advent of man.

In the religion of Israel so incomparably precious is man that whereas in Genesis God evokes every other component of His universe by mere command, saying, "Let there be" . . . light, land, sea, sky, sun, moon and stars; creatures of the waters, air and earth . . . "and so it was"—when He contemplates His masterpiece, He says not "Let there be man" but...

"Let Us make man in Our image . . ." Thus God molded-- from the dust of the ground . . . breathing from His nostrils the breath of life . . . (Genesis 1:26 and 2:7)

In the Creation story so holy is mankind that God broke with His own divine precedent of verbal command only to create man. Even the Almighty had to labor in the sweat of His brow, as it were, to fashion man. He made only man in His image; and, to do this, He literally inspired him with His own breath or spirit. That is how "man became a living being" (Genesis 2:7).

Do we have here a scientific, historically accurate account of man's origin? Hardly. But surely this is a completely accurate version of what the religion of Israel teaches about the supreme importance to God of man both during and after man's creation.

Obviously then, God is not Israel's exclusive deity. He is concerned with the fate of all mankind, even men as distant as those of India and as dissolute as those of Sodom. The peoples of Chaldea, Phoenicia, Philistia, and Ethiopia; of Tyre, Sidon, Cyprus, Rhodes and the distant isles are all part of His divine plan.

Answer for yourself: Does the Torah favor or forbid the admission of these diverse folk into the religion of Israel when formalized at Sinai when a "mixed multitude" of Gentiles stood with Jews? No.

Answer for yourself: Did Israel in Bible times discourage, tolerate or seek proselytes? That is a little harder for the situation was different at different times, but for the most part accepted Gentiles into the faith..

So much is certain: The Torah is source for the tradition that, from the inception of this folk and faith, the religion of Israel was born with and borne by converts. Julius Lewy, in his article "Origin and Signification of the Biblical Term 'Hebrew'" (Hebrew Union College Annual, 1957, pp. 1-13), has supplied some evidence that etymologically the very word "Hebrew" is itself not a proper noun designating a specific people, but rather a widely used general Semitic term signifying a resident alien or ger.

ABRAHAM

The first Hebrew was himself a convert. With his wife Sarah, Abraham left their Aramean kin and their home in Chaldea to found a new and blessed nation.

Abraham took Sarah his wife . . . and all the souls which they had made in Haran and they started off for Canaan, (Genesis 12:5)

Later rabbinic tradition has it that these "souls" were male and female converts which Abraham and Sarah respectively "made", i.e., brought to "spiritual birth" by initiation into the new Jewish faith.

Rebecca, the wife of Isaac, began life as a heathen in Syria. So did Rachel and Leah, the wives of Jacob, as well as his concubines, Bilhah and Zilpah. On their maternal side each of the traditional founders of the twelve tribes of Israel was the son of a convert. In addition, two of them, Judah and Simeon, married women of Canaan.

Also, the tradition that Israel's founder was not born an Israelite was never permitted to die or be forgotten. To this very day it is prescribed that at least twice a year—once in spring at the Haggadah which is the reading on Passover and again in late summer during the Sabbath Torah reading in the synagogue. Every Jew will recall this tradition by reciting the words

My father was a wandering Aramean. (Deuteronomy 26:5)

Abraham was alert to the contaminating pagan influence of the ethnic stock from which he came. As Christians and followers of Jesus and "the Christ" we should be as well. In commissioning his servant, Eliezer of Damascus, to journey to Syria to fetch "from my father's house" a bride for Isaac, he warned his steward:

Beware of taking my son back there, . . . God took me away from my father's house,,, If the woman is unwilling to follow you, then you are free from this oath of mine (Genesis 24:6..ff)

That Abraham's fear was well founded is apparent from the account of Rachel's theft of her father's household gods when she fled from Syria with her husband Jacob (Genesis 31:19-35). Once they are removed from their idolatrous girlhood homes, these brides of the Patriarchs become exemplary matrons. From them issue sons who father the tribes of Israel.

The Torah (and, therefore, Judaism) regarded these men and women as the flesh and blood ancestors of Israel, their marital alliances as valid, their progeny not only as legitimate but also the bearers of the religious heritage of Israel. The Torah teaches and wants its adherents to understand that non-Israelites can become members of Israel (engrafted) and beget Israelites. Not only the Patriarchs and their Aramean consorts could do this, but peoples of any race, nation or religious origin.

Moses' wife, Zipporah, by whom he had Gershom, was the daughter of a priest of Midian. David was the husband of Maacah, daughter of Talmai, king of Geshur, and mother of Absalom. The mother of Rehoboam, Solomon's son and successor to the Judean throne, was Naamah the Ammonite. Just take a minutes to look the Gentile lineages and it quickly becomes apparent that Gentiles have been continually identifying with God and the faith He gave to all men.....which is best expressed as Biblical Judaism. It is this faith that obey the Commandments of God and sees no need to relegate them to antiquity as if they are "passed away." Let us never forget as Christians that it is these Commandments that reveal to us how we, as God's people, are to please Him in our responses to him. Such is called obedience and is expressed continually by following God and His plan and pattern given for not only worship, but life as well.

CIRCUMCISION

That most converts to Judaism have been females may, in part at least, be ascribed to the traditional requirement that full conversion of males required circumcision. This has been the physical sign of the covenant between God and the men of Israel since Abraham's day. To an adult male this was no small decision and kept many from making formal identification with Israel.

The Lord appeared unto Abraham and said . . . "Every male among you is to be circumcised.... That is the sign of the covenant between us.... Every male ... is to be circumcised when he is eight days old, whether he be born in your household or acquired from any foreigner that is not of your race." (Genesis 17:1-12)

The covenant for the Non-Jew, the Covenant of Noah, does not consist of the rite of circumcision. The covenant is that the Jew and Gentile are to serve God and be holy as God is holy. Circumcision is but the external sign of this covenant. Analogously, the bow in the sky was merely the symbol of God's compact with Noah. As the rainbow antedated the Deluge, so circumcision was a common pre-Israelitish custom. But, whatever the incentive for the practice among other peoples, for Israel it signified consecration, the casting off of spiritual uncleanness as preparation for assumption of membership in this covenanted people.

PASSOVER

Besides native born Jewish males, including native born slaves, the ger (the Gentile who came to faith in God and accepted His religion) who wished to participate in the Passover had to be circumcised.

When a ger with you desires to keep the Lord's Passover, let all male members of his family be circumcised; then he shall count as a native. (Exodus 12:48)

Historically, Passover is the most ancient of Hebrew festivals. Religiously, the Exodus was the most significant event in the annals of Israel—so important that it is the only historical event included in the Decalogue and there mentioned in the very first sentence. It was the sign of the fulfillment of the covenant on God's part. To participate in the Paschal celebration whereby he partook of the lamb of the Passover a Non-Jew had to identify himself completely with Israel, the people of the covenant. Circumcision was the physical sign of this identification, the external fulfillment of the covenant on the part of each Israelite and any who wished to make full identification with Israel (being grafted into the Israel of God). It was a requirement for the full-fledged male ger, the complete convert. He must be circumcised to celebrate the Passover.

THE LAW

The “universalism” of the prophets runs through not only the legend and lore of the first book of the Pentateuch. It also animates the principles and policies outlined in the other four books. Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy lay down the general rules. No where is God's will that Gentiles and Jews both are required to obey the Laws of God is seen more clearly than in the following passages:

There shall be one and the same law for the native (Jew) and for the ger (Gentile). (Exodus 12:49; Leviticus 24:22; Numbers 9:14, 15:15, 16, 29; Deuteronomy 1:16)

As you (Jew) are so shall the ger be before God. (Numbers 15:15)

Answer for yourself: Does this in anyway sound as if the Gentile who comes to God has a completely different covenant or a different religion from the Jew?

The ger who dwells with you shall he to you as the homeborn and you shall love him as yourself. (Leviticus 19:34)

Specifically, the ger (Gentile) was to enjoy equal freedom from injustice and oppression. If indigent, he was entitled, with the poor, the orphan and the widow, to sustenance from the gleanings of grainfield, vineyard and olive orchard (Lev. 19:10; 23:22; Deut. 24:19ff), and to maintenance from loans, tithes and other public funds (Lev. 25:6; Deut. 14:28ff; 26:12ff). The cities of refuge, in which the native Israelite could obtain emergency asylum, were open to the ger as well (Numb. 35:14ff; Joshua 20:9).

The same moral prohibitions—against unchastity (Lev. 18:26), idolatry (Lev. 20:2; Ezekiel 14:7ff), blasphemy, murder, maiming of man or beast (Lev. 24:16-22; Numb 15:30)—applied to the ger as to the native Israelite.

Answer for yourself: In the above examples cited concerning the ger (Gentile) what is it that all the Scriptures have in common? These are manifestations of Commandments and the Law of Moses as well as the Laws of Noah. We see the Gentile being the recipient of blessings from the Jews as well as obeying the Law of God.

Along with the whole community he was invited to learn Torah (Deut. 31:12; Joshua 8:33ff) and to enter the covenant with God (Deut 29: 10ff)

Deut 31:12 12 Gather the people together, men, and women, and children, and thy stranger that is within thy gates, that they may hear, and that they may learn, and fear the LORD your God, and observe to do all the words of this law: (KJV)

Notice that the Gentile (stranger) who identified with Israel was to hear the words of the Law in order to learn, fear God, and observe, obey, and do all the commandments of the Law that pertained to him.

Let us turn to the Strong's Concordance and look at the Hebrew word for "hear" in this context:

8085 shama` (shaw-mah'); a primitive root; to hear intelligently (often with implication of attention, obedience, etc.; causatively, to tell, etc.): KJV-- X attentively, call (gather) together, X carefully, X certainly, consent, consider, be content, declare, X diligently, discern, give ear, (cause to, let, make to) hear (-ken, tell), X indeed, listen, make (a) noise, (be) obedient, obey, perceive, (make a) proclaim (-ation), publish, regard, report, shew (forth), (make a) sound, X surely, tell, understand, whosoever [heareth], witness.

Answer for yourself: Remembering that Jesus quoted from Deuteronomy quite a lot during his ministry, did God say that the Gentile was to hear the Law in order to understand the Law?

Answer for yourself: Does the Hebrew word for “hear” carry the implied meaning of obedience? Yes.

Answer for yourself: Does the Hebrew word for “hear” carry the implied responsibility that once you hear the Law you are obliged to proclaim, tell, and cause others to hear the Law as well? Yes

The Hebrew word for “hear” is in the Imperfect Tense.

The imperfect expresses an action, process or condition which is incomplete, suggesting a "process" preliminary to its completion. In other words the Law was to be taught to the Gentile back then and CONTINUALLY as well as a process that began in the past but has current effects. The sad fact of the matter is that little “current effects” of teaching the Law as a continual process to the Gentile is seldom seen today because the church has misinterpreted the English New Testament so often that we have lost its meaning and are totally devoid of the true message intended for Gentile believers today.

The truth is that the Gentiles were “to begin to ‘hear’” the Law and Commandments and were to continually hear them because up to the time of the giving of the Law, the Gentiles of the world had fallen into sin and spiritual darkness and had lost the revelation of God. Thus, they were living as pagans and needed the Revelation of God at Sinai to begin their restoration.

The writer of the Epistle of the Ephesians sums up the condition of the Non-Jewish Gentile in the world when he said:

Eph 2:12 12 That at that time ye were without Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world: (KJV)

A phrase such as "Hear", refers not only to the present (Gentiles are to hear and obey the Law), but assumes that the search has continued for some time. The Imperfect Tense relates not so much as to one occasion, as to a continued condition.

Answer for yourself: Please answer honestly. Can you say that your experience as a Christian has been one of a “continued condition” whereby you have continually heard and understood the Law in preparation for your obedience to it? Most likely not.

The Imperfect Tense also stresses an action (hearing, learning in preparation of obeying the commandments) that consist in its frequent repetition.

Answer for yourself: Has your Pastor studied the original languages of the Bible to get to the real meaning of the words of God and Jesus, or has he leaned on his own understanding and interpreted the English of his Bible based on his own cultural experiences? Most likely the latter.

The imperfect Tense is used to express the "future", referring to an action which is about to be accomplished.

Answer for yourself: How many of you can truthfully say that you expect your church this next Sunday to begin to understand these passages and begin to teach you the Law and Commandments regarding such things as how a Gentile is to worship God, what God will receive as worship and what is vanity to Him? Remember dear brothers and sisters, the whole purpose of our obedience to the Law is to please and love God in the manner He requires, and it is precisely these issues which are commanded by God in His Law for both the Jew and Gentile as I have shown so far. Lastly, remember the Law was to be taught in the future to Gentiles of all generations.

Answer for yourself: Have you been taught yet concerning the Laws and Commandments which frame your Covenant with God and which, when obeyed, determine your standing before God?

THE GRAFTING OF THE GENTILES INTO THE ISRAEL OF GOD #4

THIS IS STARTLING WHEN YOU FINALLY SEE IT!

The same RITUAL requirements were made of Gentile believer as was the Jewish believer. He incurred the same taboos (Numb. 19:10)...

Num 19:10 10 And he that gathereth the ashes of the heifer shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the even: and it shall be unto the children of Israel, and unto the stranger that sojourneth among them, for a statute for ever. (KJV)

This passage opens up a line of study that seems to have no end. Let us look at the word in the Hebrew in the above passage which is translated in the English as "statute":

Strong's Concordance:

2708 chuqqah (khook-kaw'); feminine of 2706, and meaning substantially the same: KJV-- appointed, custom, manner, ordinance, site, statute. 2706 choq (khole); from 2710; an enactment; hence, an appointment (of time, space, quantity, labor or usage): KJV-- appointed, bound, commandment, convenient, custom, decree (-d), due, law, measure, X necessary, ordinance (-nary), portion, set time, statute, task.

Brown-Driver-Briggs Hebrew Lexicon:

2706 choq- a statute, an ordinance, a limit, something prescribed, due

- a) a prescribed task
- b) a prescribed portion
- c) an action prescribed (for oneself), resolve
- d) a prescribed due
- e) a prescribed limit, a boundary
- f) an enactment, a decree, an ordinance
  - 1) specific decree
  - 2) law in general
- g) enactments, statutes
  - 1) conditions
  - 2) enactments
  - 3) decrees

◦ 4) the civil enactments prescribed by God

If we look over the above definition which is for the word "statute" we see that God gave both the Jew and the Non-Jew Laws, Commandments, ordinances, necessary ordinances, tasks, manners, customs, appointed times and set times, as well as boundaries where one Law stops and another continues. This is a perfect picture of the similarity as well as dissimilarities between the Covenant and Laws of Noah and the Covenant and Laws of Moses. And to top it all off God says that these "set times, appointed times, and tasks" are Eternal and forever!

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that another name for "chuggah" is festival? That is right. God gave tasks and prescribed ordinances and Laws and Commandments that are Eternal and forever regarding His Holy Days and Appointed Set Times to both Non-Jews and Gentiles. We saw about the stipulation and commandment that for a Non-Jew to observe the Passover that he had to be circumcised. This is but one of many examples.

Answer for yourself: Did God give the Gentile believer (stranger) customs, manners, statutes, enactments, specific decrees, laws in general and commandments FOREVER? He sure did.

Answer for yourself: Just do to the nature of the question, did you see that a ceremonially condition of uncleanness can affect the Gentile as well as the Jew? Wow that is quite a revelation is it now when we thought that uncleanness affected only the Jew!

Answer for yourself: Are you beginning to understand that we as Christians are often "unclean" before God, and are for the most part unaware because our actions and behaviors are sin before God? The sad fact of the matter is that we are unaware of our real spiritual condition before God because we lack the hearing of the Law and Commandments which would teach us the errors of our ways.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that the condition of "uncleanness will limit God's presence in your life?

Let us look at the Hebrew word for "unclean" as used in this verse.

The Strong's Concordance:

2930 tame' (taw-may'); a primitive root; to be foul, especially in a ceremonial or moral sense (contaminated): KJV-- defile (self), pollute (self), be (make, makeself, pronounce) unclean, X utterly.

Brown-Driver-Briggs Hebrew Lexicon:

2930 tame'- to be unclean, to become unclean, to become impure a) (Qal) to be or become unclean 1) sexually 2) religiously 3) ceremonially b) (Niphal) 1) to defile oneself, to be defiled a) sexually b) by idolatry c) ceremonially 2) to be regarded as unclean c) (Piel) 1) to defile a) sexually b) religiously c) ceremonially 2) to pronounce unclean, to declare unclean (ceremonially) 3) to profane (God's name) d) (Pual) to be defiled e) (Hithpael) to be unclean f) (Hothpael) to be defiled

Answer for yourself: According to the Scriptures shown to you, can Gentile believers (Christians) like you and me "become unclean" RELIGIOUSLY and CEREMONIALLY? Sure can.

Answer for yourself: As Gentile believers, can we by actions done in a religious context profane God's Name instead of exalt it? Sure can.

Answer for yourself: Can you begin to see that because we as contemporary Christians are basically unlearned about the Law (defined as Torah, Instruction, Teaching in Hebrew), and since unlearned, often fail to obey customs, ordinances, statutes, and enactments which were given to us by God but of which we are unaware? In so doing do we render ourselves unclean and profane the Name of God and not even know it? We sure do!

Gentiles could not eat blood (Lev. 17:10) or animals that died of natural causes or was killed by other predators (Lev. 17:15).

Answer for yourself: Why is this important and what should it teach us?

What is of major importance to us is that the Gentile Observed the same sacrificial procedures (Lev. 17:8; 22:18; Numb. 15:14,26) and the Passover prohibition of leaven (Ex. 12:19) and partook of the Paschal meal (Ex. 12:48; II Chronicles 30:25) as did the Jews.

Lev 17:8 8 And thou shalt say unto them, Whatsoever man there be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers ('non-Jews') which sojourn among you, that offereth a burnt offering or sacrifice, (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Can you see for yourself that God intended and desired that Gentiles worship THE SAME WAY AS THE JEWS by bring the same offerings?

Answer for yourself: Can you begin to relate what you have learned to the worship of God as seen in the Gentile believer's participation in the Festivals and Sabbaths of God as well let alone the Sacrificial System of Israel? It would appear, and is so. that one law was given and shared often between the Jew and the Non-Jew.

Exod 12:49 49 One law shall be to him that is homeborn, and unto the stranger that sojourneth among you. (KJV)

Num 15:16 16 One law and one manner shall be for you, and for the stranger that sojourneth with you. (KJV)

Num 15:29 29 Ye shall have one law for him that sinneth through ignorance, both for him that is born among the children of Israel, and for the stranger that sojourneth among them. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Can you begin to see that since we as Gentile believers don't worship God according to "the pattern" as does the Jews (they never changed it) that this goes a long way in explaining how and why we have a Replacement Religion today in Gentile Christianity and a "replacement theology" which often has led us to worship God in vain? I hope so. It is time to return to our Hebrew Roots of the Christian Church for, as I have shown you, there is another message in the original language of our Bibles that you don't get when you only read it in English.

Lev 22:18 18 Speak unto Aaron, and to his sons, and unto all the children of Israel, and say unto them, Whatsoever he be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers in Israel, that will offer his oblation for all his vows, and for all his freewill offerings, which they will offer unto the LORD for a burnt offering; (KJV)

Num 15:14 14 And if a stranger sojourn with you, or whosoever be among you in your generations, and will offer an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD; as ye do, so he shall do. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Does Numbers 15:14 indicate that the Gentile is to worship (“do as the Jew does”)? It sure does.

Answer for yourself: Since God is the same yesterday, today, and tomorrow, does your church lead you in worship of God in Jewish (understood as a synonym for Biblical) ways?

Answer for yourself: If now why not since that is what the Bible teaches in both the Old and New Testaments? If that is not your experience I and others at Bet Emet call upon you to seriously consider your options since having come to the truth?

Num 15:15 15 One ordinance shall be both for you of the congregation, and also for the stranger that sojourneth with you, an ordinance for ever in your generations: as ye are, so shall the stranger be before the LORD. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Since we are dealing in the passage in the context of sacrifices and worship, did you notice that God said FOREVER the Gentile and Jew are to have the same ordinance, same custom, and the same appointed times (Biblical Feasts)?

Answer for yourself: Is the above your experience or have you wasted much of your life worshipping God in vanity?

Num 15:26 26 And it shall be forgiven all the congregation of the children of Israel, and the stranger that sojourneth among them; seeing all the people were in ignorance. (KJV)

The Gentile believers were commanded to observe the Passover with the Jews according to the Pattern of Worship (Exodus 12:19). We will see that not only the Passover but God commanded forever that the Non-Jew observe with the Jew the Day of Atonement; Yom Kippur, according to the pattern for worship (Lev. 16:29).

Exod 12:19 19 Seven days shall there be no leaven found in your houses: for whosoever eateth that which is leavened, even that soul shall be cut off from the congregation of Israel, whether he be a stranger, or born in the land. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Can you see for yourself that Gentile believers are to worship God by observing and celebrating the Biblical Feast of Passover and Unleavened Bread? Is that your experience as a Christian and do we follow Paul's admonition to the Gentile Corinthian Church to observe the Passover as well?

1 Cor 5:8 8 Therefore let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Again, does your church mobilize yearly to have their Gentile congregation obey God by observing the Passover and the Festival of Unleavened Bread (one Law for both remember)?

Exod 12:48 48 And when a stranger shall sojourn with thee, and will keep the passover to the LORD, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as one that is born in the land: for no uncircumcised person shall eat thereof. (KJV)

2 Chr 30:21-25 21 And the children of Israel that were present at Jerusalem kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with great gladness: and the Levites and the priests praised the LORD day by day, singing with loud instruments unto the LORD. 22 And Hezekiah spake comfortably unto all the Levites that taught the good knowledge of the LORD: and they did eat throughout the feast seven days, offering peace offerings, and making confession to the LORD God of their fathers. 23 And the whole assembly took counsel to keep other seven days: and they kept other seven days with gladness. 24 For Hezekiah king of Judah did give to the congregation a thousand bullocks and seven thousand sheep; and the princes gave to the congregation a thousand bullocks and ten thousand sheep: and a great number of priests sanctified themselves. 25 And all the congregation of Judah, with the priests and the Levites, and all the congregation that came out of Israel, and the strangers that came out of the land of Israel, and that dwelt in Judah, rejoiced. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that not only in the times of Moses did Gentile identify with Israel and keep the Biblical Feasts, but continued to do so [remember the Imperfect Tense that said it was a continuing process of teaching Gentiles to hear and obey] for hundreds of years, even up to and through the days of Hezekiah?

The Gentile believers, like the Jews, were commanded to observe the Sabbath rest along with the Jews according to the Pattern of Worship (Ex. 20:10; 23:12; Deut. 5:14)...

Exod 20:10 10 But the seventh day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates: (KJV)

Exod 23:12 12 Six days thou shalt do thy work, and on the seventh day thou shalt rest: that thine ox and thine ass may rest, and the son of thy handmaid, and the stranger, may be refreshed. (KJV)

Deut 5:12-14 12 Keep the sabbath day to sanctify it, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee. 13 Six days thou shalt labour, and do all thy work: 14 But the seventh day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thine ox, nor thine ass, nor any of thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates; that thy manservant and thy maidservant may rest as well as thou. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that the Gentile believers are commanded to keep the 7th day Sabbath (not Sunday) as did the Jews?

The Gentile believers were commanded to observe forever the Day of Atonement; Yom Kippur, according to the pattern for worship (Lev. 16:29).

Lev 16:29 29 And this shall be a statute for ever unto you: that in the seventh month, on the tenth day of the month (Yom Kippur-Day of Atonement), ye shall afflict your souls, and do no work at all, whether it be one of your own country, or a stranger that sojourneth among you: (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did you in your Christian Church observe Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, last year?

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that the pattern for worship which lasts FOREVER for both the Jew and Gentile required the believing Gentile to observe the Day of Atonement on the 10th of seventh Hebrew month of Tishri?

The Gentile believers were commanded to celebrate and observe the Feasts of Tabernacles along with the Jews according to the pattern for worship (Deut 16:13).

Deut 16:13-14 13 Thou shalt observe the feast of tabernacles seven days, after that thou hast gathered in thy corn and thy wine: 14 And thou shalt rejoice in thy feast, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy manservant, and thy maidservant, and the Levite, the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are within thy gates. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Again, do we find the Gentile believer keeping the Feast of Tabernacles “like” the Jews?

The Gentile believers were commanded to celebrate and observe the Feast of Pentecost along with the Jews according to the Pattern of Worship (Deut. 16:9-11).

Deut 16:9-11 9 Seven weeks shalt thou number unto thee: begin to number the seven weeks from such time as thou beginnest to put the sickle to the corn. 10 And thou shalt keep the feast of weeks unto the LORD thy God with a tribute of a freewill offering of thine hand, which thou shalt give unto the LORD thy God, according as the LORD thy God hath blessed thee: 11 And thou shalt rejoice before the LORD thy God, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy manservant, and thy maidservant, and the Levite that is within thy gates, and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are among you, in the place which the LORD thy God hath chosen to place his name there. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Again, do we find the Gentile worshipping God according to the Jewish (Biblical) pattern in keeping the Festival of Weeks (Pentecost)?

GRAFTING OF THE NON-JEW INTO THE ISRAEL OF GOD

Answer for yourself: By now the picture should be becoming very clear; as Gentiles grafted into the Israel of God by faith in God, are we then, as believing Gentiles, to worship God “AS DO THE JEWISH PEOPLE” by adopting the Biblical Pattern of Worship? It sure would seem so!

No class-conscious discrimination existed in the minds of the authors of the Bible as to the kind of proselyte sought or acceptable. The "mixed multitude" (Exodus 12:38) of non-Israelites who fled Egypt during the Exodus were among the gerim ("non-Jews") included in the address delivered by Moses to his people at the end of their forty years' wilderness wandering:

You stand all of you today before the Lord your God . . . the men of Israel together with . . . the ger ("non-Jew") who is in the midst of the camp . . . that you may enter into the covenant of the Lord your God, that He may confirm your position this day as His people and that He may be your God, as He swore to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. (Deuteronomy 29:9-12)

In the mind of the Deuteronomist, the ger, the "non-Jew", was an integral part of the compact made between God and the Patriarchs, His own first gerim. To the ger, as well as to the native Israelite, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob are “your fathers.”

In the sight of God, the ger, the "non-Jew", was the same as any other Israelite.

For the Lord your God is never partial. He secures justice for the orphan and the widow and He loves the ger . . . (Deuteronomy 10:17ff)

Not only does God love the ger. He calls upon Israel to do likewise. For parents He demands honor

Honor your father and your mother . . . (Exodus 20:12)

and reverence

Everyone shall revere his mother and his father. (Leviticus 19:3);

for His prophets He requires proper respect and protection

Touch not My anointed ones, and do My prophets no harm. (Psalm 105:15)

The ger who dwells with you shall be treated like a native; and you must love him as much as you love yourself. (Leviticus 19:34).

THE GRAFTING OF THE GENTILES INTO THE ISRAEL OF GOD #5

The Prophets of Israel also have much to say about the inclusion of Gentiles into Israel and the people of God. The universalistic expressions of the post-Pentateuchal portion of Scripture are, if anything, even more ardent and eloquent in advancing the ideal of mission and espousing the cause of the convert than the writings attributed to Moses.

The author of the remarkable tenth chapter of Genesis believed all the peoples of the civilized world to be a single family. The prophet Isaiah foresaw a time when all men would be reunited through the influence of Judaism. They will converge on Zion encouraging each other to make this pilgrimage to become God's disciples.

In after days, it shall be that the Lord's hill shall rise towering over other heights; to which all nations shall stream and many fold proclaim, "Come, let us go up, to the Lord's hill, to the house of Jacob's God, and He may instruct us in His ways and we may walk in His path; for revelation comes from Zion, and from Jerusalem God's word.: (Isa. 2:2ff).

Isa 2:2-5 2 And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the LORD's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it. 3 And many people shall go and say, Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem. 4 And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people: and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more. 5 O house of Jacob, come ye, and let us walk in the light of the LORD. (KJV)

Let us look at the Hebrew word for "ways" in verse 3 above:

Brown-Driver-Briggs Hebrew Lexicon:

1870 derek- a way, a road, a distance, a journey, a manner a) a road, a way, a path b) a journey c) a direction d) a manner, a habit, a way e) used of the course of life (figurative) f) used of moral character (figurative)

Strong's Concordance:

1870 derek (deh'-rek); from 1869; a road (as trodden); figuratively, a course of life or mode of action, often adverb: KJV-- along, away, because of, + by, conversation, custom, [east-] ward, journey, manner, passenger, through, toward, [high-] [path-] way [-side], whither [-soever].

Answer for yourself: Does the Bible teach that prophetically in the future all the Gentile nations will learn to walk in the ways and paths of God whereby they learn God's way for living one's life by instruction by the Jew and the House of Jacob? Yes.

Answer for yourself: Does Isaiah tell us that the way God has arranged for that to happen is for His Law, the Torah, and His Commandments of Deuteronomic and Mosaic Law consisting of instruction and directions to go out from Zion through the teaching of the House of Jacob unto all the Gentile nations? Yes.

Answer for yourself: Didn't someone fail to tell Isaiah that the Law and Commandments, many of which require certain actions from Gentile believers, was to pass away and allow Gentiles believers, like today, to express their worship in over 2,000 different varieties of Christian denominations, where there is little unity and agreement?

Answer for yourself: More than that, who failed to tell Isaiah that the Gentile Christian Church was to replace Israel and that the Gentile no longer needs to heed the admonition of Yeshua: Salvation is of the Jews?

Answer for yourself: Don't you think that is almost impossible since most Christian Churches teach that the Law has passed away or is replaced by grace?

Answer for yourself: Dear Christian brothers and sisters, are you coming to the awareness that you if you adhere to men's doctrines in the church instead of the Apostles Doctrine and continue to be involved in a "replacement worship" instead of "true Biblical Worship" which God gave to both Jews and Gentiles, then you have the sure rebuke of God staring you in the face because you failed to study to show yourself approved before God? These things I have discovered came only from years and years of dedicated and in-depth Bible study and inquire. While other Pastors played golf I studied because of my intense love for God and His Word. In such committed efforts I discovered these things I present to you today.

The same hope, expressed in almost identical words, occurs in the book of Isaiah's younger contemporary, Micah (Micah 4:1ff).

Isaiah preached in a period of profound tension and anxiety. His homeland, Judea, was recurrently under threat from its powerful neighbors. Yet he looked beyond that era of impending disaster, imminent conquest and ultimate exile, to the day when allies and enemies alike would join Israel as proselytes

Isa 14:1 1 For the LORD will have mercy on Jacob, and will yet choose Israel, and set them in their own land: and the strangers shall be joined with them, and they shall cleave to the house of Jacob. (KJV)

Of course this was once prophecy but is being fulfilled daily by the Christian's repentance and return to the Jewish Roots of his Christian faith.

Let us look at the word "joined" above:

Strong's Concordance:

3867 lavah (law-vaw'); a primitive root; properly, to twine, i.e. (by implication) to unite, to remain; also to borrow (as a form of obligation) or (caus.) to lend: KJV-- abide with, borrow (-er), cleave, join (self), lend (-er).

Thayer's Greek Lexicon:

3867 lavah- 1) to join, to be joined a) (Qal) to join, to be joined, to attend b) (Niphal) to join oneself to, to be joined unto 2) to borrow, to lend a) (Qal) to borrow b) (Hiphil) to cause to borrow, to lend to

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that his "joining" of the Non-Jew to the Israel of God and the House of Jacob is not done by God but by one's own efforts whereby "one joins himself" by his own efforts as seen in study and repentance and obedience to what he learns is required of the "Pattern of Worship" given to Israel by God?

Answer for yourself: Can you honestly say that in your Christian walk that your experience has been to be joined with Israel in Praise and Worship according to the "Pattern of Worship" I have shown you in the previous article when we saw the many examples of Non-Jews being commanded and expected by God to observe and keep the Biblical Sabbaths and Festivals as detailed in the Hebrew Scriptures?

Answer for yourself: If you cannot say "yes," then don't you think it is about time to review your commitment to God once you have come to this new knowledge and truth? I hope so.

The prophets generally did not separate their hope of Returning Israel to God's will and their dream of converting the gentile to Biblical Faith. Both are the goal of God. To them, both were aspects of one mission, parts of the same endeavor to turn the wayward—whatever their origin—toward God. So, when Isaiah pleads for the conversion of Israel, he submits that scarlet sins cannot become snowy white as pure innocence, but repentance and obedience have redemptive Power not merely for the seed of Abraham but for any man, for all mankind.

Micah, uttering his sublime definition of ethical monotheism, invites not Israel alone but all humanity

It has been told you, O man [Jew and Gentile], what is good and what God demands of you—only to do justice and cherish kindness and live in tranquil fellowship with your God. (Micah 6:8)

"The Phoenicians," says William Addis, in Peake's Commentary on the Bible, "were familiar with the idea that a man might become the client of a god and so put himself under divine protection. They used the same word for 'client' as the Hebrews, viz., ger (Gentile). Hence we have such names in Phoenician as Gerastart, 'client of Astarte,' Gerhekal, 'client of the temple,' etc. But to be the client of Israel's God, moral qualities are necessary."

Eph 2:12 12 That at that time ye were without Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world: (KJV)

The above description is a perfect description of the standing of the Non-Jew outside the Israel of God. In order for one having no inherited rights in the community of Israel to enjoy the privileges of membership, to "sojourn in God's tent," he must lead a blameless life; do right; speak truth; honor other yirey Adonai, "God-fearers" like himself; stand by his oath without retracting no matter what the consequences; refuse to take a bribe or interest on a loan. So it is written in the fifteenth Psalm. He who would "ascend God's hill" must have "clean hands and a pure heart" and "never break his word." So it is written in the third and fourth verses of the twenty-fourth Psalm.

Despite their close acquaintance with man's inhumanity to man, prophet and psalmist devoutly believed that their ethical faith was within the spiritual grasp of all mankind. When Scythian hordes were ravaging the whole

Near East from Egypt to Babylon, a prophet whose words are included in the book of Zephaniah announced total conversion of the world as God's final judgment

I will grant the nations a purified speech so that all of them will call upon God's name and serve Him unanimously. From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia to the farthest reaches of the north My worshippers shall come bringing Me their offerings. (Zephaniah 3:9,10)

The prophet Jeremiah's career coincided with a period first of great peril--the invasion of Palestine by Pharaoh Psammetichus II and the siege of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar--and then of calamity--the extinction of the 400-year-old Davidic monarchy and the subsequent Babylonian exile. Yet Jeremiah looked forward to a time when Jerusalem would be the center of a religiously regenerated world

In those days they will call Jerusalem "the throne of God" and all nations shall gather to it living no longer by the superstitions of their benighted minds (Jer.3:17).

Jer 4:1-2 1 If thou wilt return, O Israel, saith the LORD, return unto me: and if thou wilt put away thine abominations out of my sight, then shalt thou not remove. 2 And thou shalt swear, The LORD liveth, in truth, in judgment, and in righteousness; and the nations shall bless themselves in him, and in him shall they glory. (KJV)

Not Israel alone, but also its hostile neighbors—nomadic marauders from Syria, Moab and Ammon—will suffer exile; but when in their captivity these people adopt the religion of Israel and Israel's God they be returned to their respective countries.

Jer 12:14-16 14 Thus saith the LORD against all mine evil neighbors, that touch the inheritance which I have caused my people Israel to inherit; Behold, I will pluck them out of their land, and pluck out the house of Judah from among them. 15 And it shall come to pass, after that I have plucked them out I will return, and have compassion on them, and will bring them again, every man to his heritage, and every man to his land. 16 And it shall come to pass, if they will (these former evil Gentile neighbors) diligently learn the ways of my people, to swear by my name, The LORD liveth; as they taught my people to swear by Baal; then shall they be built in the midst of my people. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Does God expect Gentiles to learn the way of His people Israel or the ways of the Catholic Church, the Baptist Church, or the Methodist Church?

Answer for yourself: Do you know more about living in the paths and ways of your denomination than the ways of the Jewish People, the real people of God?

To the exiles in Babylon, Ezekiel preached that, no matter what had befallen them at the hands of foreigners, they were never to forget their religious obligation to the client of God, the ger who voluntarily sought admission into the religious community of Israel. Even in captivity, perhaps more especially there, they were to have compassion on him, remembering always that one and the same law held both for him and the native Israelites. Ezekiel rebuked his people for their ill-treatment of proselytes.

I leave you to the scorn of nations and the mockery of the world.... Gerim are oppressed, widows and orphans abused . . . You scorn what is sacred to Me. Natives wrong the weak and wretched and indict injustice upon gerim. (Ezekiel 22:4, 7-8, 29)

Answer for yourself: Have you as a typical Christian unaware of facts such as I have shown you, without intent SCORNE WHAT IS SACRED TO GOD and esteemed over His Word what men have deemed important?

He reiterated the prohibition against idolatry. Half-hearted worship of God, whether by native Israelite or convert, is equally reprehensible.

Ezek 14:7-8 7 For every one of the house of Israel, or of the stranger that sojourneth in Israel, which separateth himself from me, and setteth up his idols in his heart, and putteth the stumblingblock of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to a prophet to inquire of him concerning me; I the LORD will answer him by myself: 8 And I will set my face against that man, and will make him a sign and a proverb, and I will cut him off from the midst of my people; and ye shall know that I am the LORD. (KJV)

We need to look at the word "cut off" in the above verse.

Strong's Concordance:

3772 karath (kaw-rath'); a primitive root; to cut (off, down or asunder); by implication, to destroy or consume; specifically, to covenant (i.e. make an alliance or bargain, originally by cutting flesh and passing between the pieces): KJV-- be chewed, be con- [feder-] ate, covenant, cut (down, off), destroy, fail, feller, be freed, hew (down), make a league ([covenant]), X lose, perish, X utterly, X want.

Answer for yourself: If we as Christians separate ourselves from God because we don't adhere to the "Pattern of Worship" given to both Jews and Gentiles in the Bible, and accept an alternate and well-intentioned substitute which God has told us He cannot accept, then will we be the Bride of God and Messiah in the world to come?

Answer for yourself: If we as Christians separate ourselves from God because we don't adhere to the "Pattern of Worship" given to both Jews and Gentiles in the Bible, and accept in our mind and understanding an alternate and well-intentioned substitute which God has told us He cannot accept, then will be cut off from God's covenant and people in the world to come? It may be hard for you to accept considering what you have heard preached most of your lives, but this is what the Bible teaches!

Answer for yourself: If we as Christians separate ourselves from God because we don't adhere to the pattern of worship given to both Jews and Gentiles of Israel in the Bible, and accept an alternate and well-intentioned substitute which God has told us He cannot accept, then how can we expect to be the Bride of Christ one day when God specifically through the Prophets warns us that if we separate from Him [in replacing Biblical Holy Days with Christianized paganism and their holidays, substitute Sabbaths of men's creation for the Sabbaths of God's Commandments, and replace righteous giving of the Tithe for the perversions done in the name of God today where the tithe is used for everything under the sun], then God will cut and separate those who do those things from the Israel of God, and please remember it is only to Israel that He promised to marry at Sinai. Granted, Gentiles and Jews made up the "mixed multitude" at Sinai, but the bigger question for you is "will you be in that number when the roll call is made in Heaven for the Marriage Supper, or will by fulfill Matt. 7 personally when told to "depart-be cut off from Israel-from Yeshua because you practice iniquity?" Please refer to an earlier article when I showed you the non-compliance to the Mosaic Laws [containing Laws for worship such as Festivals, Sabbaths, and giving] are neglected, not obeyed, or just plain ignorance of them is maintained by the believer.

God's prophet envisioned the day when every knee would bend in homage to God and every tongue swear in His name, when He would be acknowledged sole, universal Lord of all mankind. God, he said, calls upon Israel to make His glory manifest to the gentiles (today this includes the Christians as well).

Here is the message of God the Lord . . . I, the Eternal, have called you . . . I formed you . . . to be a light unto the nations, to open eyes that are blind and to free captives from their bondage. (Isaiah 42:5)

Israel's task is to be a light in the darkness of religious ignorance, to give vision to eyes blinded by superstition, to free minds enslaved to idolatry. Such is the call of Bet Emet Ministries

Second Isaiah felt that the divine work of salvation, encompassing both Jews and gentiles, had already begun. He saw in Cyrus, though not a conscious convert, a worshiper of Israel's God who would spread His religion among all mankind. But far more than Cyrus, it is Israel, possessor of the true religion, which is to be the instrument for the conversion of the gentile. Unto Israel shall come men from all nations giving their adherence to God and marking on their hands the inscription "the Lord's" as a sign that they have become proselytes, naturalized Israelites.

Turn to Me and you are saved, all the ends of the earth!. . . Every knee must bend to Me and every tongue vow loyalty. (Isaiah 45 22-23)

Isa 49:6 6 And he said (speaking of Israel), It is a light thing that thou shouldest be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob, and to restore the preserved of Israel: I will also give thee for a light to the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my salvation unto the end of the earth. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did God say that the Jews, as the true worshippers of God because the Gentiles were not, were given to the Gentiles to illuminate their way

Answer for yourself: Did God say that the Jews, as the true worshippers of God were to illuminate the eyes of the Gentiles to God's Law, thereby facilitating their return back to God in repentance and the truths that their forefathers had but lost? He sure did!

It is too small a service for the God of all the world merely to set the clans of Jacob up again....I now appoint you to bring' light unto the nations that My

salvations may reach the world's end (Isa. 49:6)

After the return from exile the Jerusalem community will be restored, not only by the return of dispersed native Jews, but also, according to Isaiah, by the addition of new converts...

Let not the descendant of a foreigner say "God will excommunicate me"...Foreigners who joint the Lord, to worship Him and love Him...will I bring to My holy hill, and make joyful in My house of prayer...My temple shall be called a house of prayer for every nation. Here is what God says, Who gathers Israel's outcasts in: "I will gather yet others in besides those already gathered." (Isa. 56:3-8)

Answer for yourself: Did you again notice that personal action is required to join oneself to the Lord? This of course means actions like study, repentance upon study, and then the positive action to implement into one's life what he learned from his study in areas like recovering "the Pattern of Worship" for ones life. The destiny of the gentiles in the glorious future is seen in that many nations will join themselves to God and will become His people

Citizens of great cities shall yet come, saying,

"Let us go up at once to pay homage to God and to seek the Lord of hosts . . ." Many a people and mighty nation shall come to seek God in Jerusalem, to do obeisance to the Eternal. "In those days," the Lord of hosts declares, "ten men from nations of every language will seize the robe of a single Jew and say 'We will go with you, for we have heard that God is with you!'" (Zechariah 8:21-23).

Dearly beloved, this is prophetic of the Jews instructing the Gentiles of the world in the proper paths of God because they don't have it, even in the Christian Church there is great errors taught along with truth. Rest assured, as Bet Emet does her part, and others contribute their efforts, we will one day see the truth of God's Word cover the earth as the waters cover the sea.

Of these prophetic passages, Fleming James has written, in his Personalities of the Old Testament, "The Gentiles must become converts to Judaism . . . but are not to be coerced; they will come of their own free will, come because they see the need of divine help, come with love and expectancy. And they will be welcomed, will be made God's people just as much as the Jews themselves. True, there will be an exaltation of the Jew, but a noble one. For the saying lays on him a responsibility; if they wish to go with him he must receive them, must teach them and make room for them.... He must share his God with all peoples."

THE PSALMS

The psalmists, whose "delight is in the Law of the Lord" and who lament when "there is no more any prophet," piously follow the letter of the Law and give exultant expression to the spirit and vision of the prophets in their hymned references to the proselyte. Like the priest and the prophet, the psalmists too believed that God is specially concerned for the welfare of proselytes and that all the world will come to serve Him.

"How precious is Thy love, O Lord; the children of men take refuge under the shadow of Thy wing . . . Unto Thee shall all men [Gentiles] come . . . Dwellers at the world's far edge are awed at the proofs of Thy power . . . Sing homage, all the earth, to God . . . Bless us, O God, till men [Gentiles] worship Thee at the world's farthest end . . . All nations Thou best made shall come and bow before Thee . . . Thou, only Thou, art God . . . Let every nation know His wondrous deeds . . . Praise the Lord, O families of the nations . . . Confess that the Lord. He is God . . . Laud Him, all ye races . . .

The testimony of the psalmist is not for Israel alone. What God has done for Israel, He can and will do for all the nations, since His sovereignty is worldwide. It is not enough for Israel to acknowledge the incomparable greatness of God. In fulfillment of prophecy, the psalmists invited all peoples of the world to join Israel in the True Worship of the one and only God. God's goodness to Israel is but a revelation to all mankind of His ways in dealing with those who "fear" Him. The psalmist felt that the nations, by whatever names they call their gods, were potentially "fearers" of the Lord.

"God-fearers," yirey Adonai, represent to the psalmist worshipers of God who are not of Jacob's seed. Such "fearers of the Lord" seem to be a fourth category of religious communicant in Israel, the other three, of course, being priest, Levite and native Israelite.

Bless the Lord, Israel's household; Bless the Lord, Aaron's household; Bless the Lord, Levi's household; Bless the Lord, O fearers of the Lord (Gentiles).
(Psalm 135:19-20)

Israel trusts in the Lord . . . Aaron's household trust in the Lord . . . Fearers of the Lord trust in the Lord . . . The Lord remembers us and will bless Israel and Aaron's household; He will bless the fearers of the Lord (Gentiles), the humble with the great. (Psalm 115:9-13)

Fearers of the Lord, praise Him; Glorify Him, ye seed of Jacob. (Psalm 22:24)

There are Psalms which seem to have been specially composed for, and perhaps by, such Lord-fearers or proselytes.

I sought the Lord and He answered me, He rescued me from all my superstitious fears... The angels of the Lord camp around His "fearers" and save them. Try the Lord; you will find Him good; happy the man who take shelter with Him. "Fear" the Lord, ye saints of His. His "fearers" never want for anything. Apostates may be famishing and starving, but those who seek the Lord lack no good thing. Come, listen to me, my children; I will teach you the "fear of the Lord...." None who take shelter with Him shall be desolate. (Psalm 34:5, 8-12, 23)

On Thee, O God, I set my heart . . . Show me Thy ways, O Lord, Teach me Thy paths . . . Remember not the errors of my youth . . . Any man who "fears" God He will teach the right course to take. His own life will continue prosperous and his posterity will inherit his property. The secret of God is for them that "fear" Him and His compact is to instruct them . . . Preserve and deliver me, disappoint me not as I find refuge with Thee. May my devotion and my loyalty preserve me, for I hope in Thee. (Psalm 25:1,4,12-14,20-21).

THE GRAFTING OF THE GENTILES INTO THE ISRAEL OF GOD #6

On the theme of proselytism, apparently the only negative note in all of Scripture is that sounded by Ezra-Nehemiah, which, until modern times, was combined into one book in the Hebrew Bible. Upon seizing control of the Babylonian empire, Cyrus decreed that the Jewish exiles in Babylon might return home to Judea. His successor, Artaxerxes Longimanus, commissioned Nehemiah as civil governor and Ezra as spiritual mentor to reconstruct the national and religious life in the Jewish homeland. On their arrival in Judea, they found a general decline and decay in religious observance. They were particularly distressed that certain of their coreligionists had "married women of Ashdod, Ammon and Moab," and that "their children . . . could not speak in the Jewish language (Nehemiah 13 :23-24)."

Nehemiah cursed the Jewish husbands -and made them swear by God that they would not marry their daughter to the sons of foreigners, nor marry their sons to their daughters, nor marry foreigners themselves. Was this not the sin of Solomon? . . . There was no king like him . . . beloved by his God . . . Yet even he was led to sin by his foreign wives. (Nehemiah 13:25-26)

"Divorce yourselves from the people of the land," Ezra commended, "and from the foreign women" (Ezra 10:11).

Upon receiving this order, "the crowd wept bitterly." And, while Shechaniah ben Jehiel agreed with Ezra, saying,

We have broken faith with our God by marrying foreign women.... Come, let us make a compact with our God to put away all thee wives and their children. (Ezra 10:2-3)

Jonathan ben Asahel and Jaziah ben Tikva were opposed to this and they were supported by Meshullam and by Shabbethai the Levite. (Ezra 10:15)

It must be offered in extenuation of Ezra-Nehemiah's drastic measures that these were dictated by desperate circumstances; the survival of their people and its way of life were at stake.

Also worth noting are these items: Ezra-Nehemiah had nothing at all to say for or against converting these women and children to Judaism. The prophetic ideal of proselytism just does not seem to have entered their sharply focused minds.... The entire situation is unique. Nothing of the sort occurs elsewhere in the Bible nor, for that matter, in all subsequent Jewish history. The stand which Ezra-Nehemiah took against foreigners as such is contrary to that of their Biblical predecessors, and it did not go unchallenged by their literary successors.

Which brings us, albeit briefly, to the books of Job, Jonah, Esther and Ruth.

JOB

Job was a citizen of Uz. His philosophy, conduct and character are exemplary Jewish, as his vindication by God, to say nothing of the inclusion of this book in the Biblical canon, makes abundantly clear. Yet Job is not ethnically a Jew. Significantly, the Jewish author of this Hebrew masterpiece presents his great hero, a towering spiritual giant, as a non-Jew. What the author must have thought of Ezra-Nehemiah and their attitude toward their non-Jewish neighbors, can easily be guessed. It was just as well left unrecorded.

JONAH

In that prophetic gem, the book of Jonah, God rebukes the title-figure for his Ezra-like chauvinism and his reluctance to help save the sinful pagan city of Ninevah, capital city of Babylon, "wherein are more than 120,000 persons who know not right from wrong, and also much cattle." Per contra, the heathen sailors show themselves exceedingly reluctant to jettison a worshiper of Israel's God. They strain every sinew to row Jonah to a haven of safety. When they have exhausted every humane possibility, are finally compelled to cast him into the sea, and behold the resultant calm, then "they 'feared' the Lord exceedingly, sacrificed and made vows to Him."

Jonah had been unwilling to convey God's message to the Ninevites because, among other consequences from his point of view undesirable, their repentance would reflect unfavorably on his often admonished but still unrepentant fellow Israelites. His worst fear was realized. The heathen Ninevites repent of their wickedness and, from the king on down to the last man in the kingdom, call earnestly on God. Everyone must turn from his evil life. . . Who knows if God will not relent . . . and save us (Jonah 3:8-9)

They turn, God does relent and they are saved. In direct contrast with Ezra-Nehemiah, this wonderful story would have men believe two things about the heathen: They are endowed by their Creator with potentially high moral and religious fervor; and they are ready to turn to Him if given the chance, if only invited to do so.

ESTHER

The blood thirsty Persian king, Ahasuerus, having already executed his first wife, Vashti, is induced by his vizier, Haman, to order the massacre of all his Jewish subjects, His Jewish queen, Esther, points out that this will mean her own death, "If it please the king," she pleads, "let the decree be reversed," For gore-loving Ahasuerus, this will not suffice, First, Haman must hang, Then, instead of peaceably revoking the original order, the king commands the Jews to slay their attackers (Esther 8:10-14), To save their lives, "many pagans became Jews" (Esther 8:17),

What interests us here is the use, in Esther 8:17, of the Hebrew term mit'yahadim, "to become Jews," the only place in the Bible where this word occurs. Yet, in the author's time, it must have been a sufficiently well understood term indicative of the current day practice of Gentiles identifying with Israel. What is more important, he approved of the conversion to Judaism of heathen enemies. He evidently enjoyed thoroughly the idea of men who had sought to take the lives of Jews being transformed into men who sought to live their lives as Jews.

RUTH

Some Biblical scholars believe that the book of Ruth was deliberately intended as a rebuttal to Ezra-Nehemiah, as a specific propaganda piece favoring conversion. Consider the names of its characters: Ruth—"the companion"; Naomi—"my sweet one"; Mahlon—"sickness"; Chilion—"wasting"; Boaz—"in him is strength"! It is nonetheless a charming narrative about a beautiful and loyal heroine, the Moabite girl who married the boy from Judea whose family had migrated to Moab because, ironically enough, here was a famine in Bethlehem, which means literally "the food house." Ruth's in-laws were apparently welcomed with kindness in the land of their traditional enemies, the Moabites, of whom it is written, in the book of Deuteronomy . . . No Moabite shall he admitted into the congregation of Me Lord; none of his descendants even to the tenth generation shall be admitted into the congregation of the Lord . . . (Deuteronomy 23:4).

Ruth herself became so deeply attached to the Jewish faith and the Jewish way of life that, after her husband died, she insisted on accompanying her widowed mother-in-law back to Bethlehem. In exquisite and memorable words that are a model of fealty and have since become a widely used formula in the Jewish conversion ceremony for women, Ruth made her declaration and her vow

Entreat me not to leave you.... Wherever you go will I go; whet ever you stay will I stay; your people shall be my people and you God, my God. Wherever you die will I die and there will I be boned. May God destroy me and worse if aught but death part you and me. (Ruth 1:16-17)

Encouraged by Naomi's sage counsel and Boaz' affection and diligence, Ruth fulfills the ritual requirements for marriage to Boaz. In due course she bears him a son who becomes the father of Jessie, in turn, begets King David, from whose line, according to later tradition, the Messiah will come.

Whatever else the author of this story may have had in mind, he surely cherished the hope that there would be Jews who would concur in his belief that a woman of worth, even though of the specifically proscribed people of Moab, could nonetheless become a valiant Jew, a loving wife and mother in Israel, a progenitress of Judean kings. There were such Jews. Among them were those sages who considered this lovely little book worthy of inclusion in Holy Writ; and also those who ordained that the scroll of Ruth be read by all Jews everywhere at Pentecost when they recall the Giving of the Law at Sinai where, like Ruth pledging her fidelity to Judaism, "The people of Israel together with the ger" had covenanted with God, saying, "All that the Lord has spoken, we will do and obey."

Answer for yourself: What of the rest, the rank and file in ancient Israel, the plebeian populace? Did the ordinary citizen of Tekoah or Jerusalem, the man-on-the-street in Anathoth or Bethel, the average dweller at Ramah, Gilead or Galilee swallow whole the propaganda, intended or incidental, of the books of Ruth and Jonah? Did they really believe that Moabites and Ninevites were deservedly as cherished by God as were Israelites? Did they entirely agree with Amos that the Hebrew was in God's sight merely the equal of the Ethiopian, the Phoenician and the Syrian? With Isaiah, that Egypt was also His people and Assyria the work of His hands? With the psalmist that anyone with clean hands and a pure heart may ascend the hill of the Lord? How popular among the returning Jewish exiles was Ezekiel's scheme of counting proselytes as natives and assigning them land of their own in Judea? Or the priestly injunction that the ger must be to you as the native, and you are to love him as you love yourself? How enthusiastically did they take up their divinely appointed task of being "a light to the gentiles"? Or observe the ordinance that there be one and the same law for the native and the convert?

That there was, on the part of common men, some resistance even to the simplest of these requirements we may suspect from the curious circumstance that the elementary rule, "You must not injure or maltreat a ger" occurs no less than six times in the Law and very frequently in the Prophets. The commandment "There shall be one and the same law for homeborn and ger" also occurs six times. If these rules were generally observed in the performance rather than in the breach, what need for all this emphatic reiteration? Telltale also is the fact that, when the Torah commends the ger to the people's compassion, he is so often placed in the sad company of those traditional objects of pity and exemplifications of defenselessness, the poor, the widow and the orphan. What the plight of an ordinary, poor proselyte's widow or orphan must have been is not pleasant to consider.

But, then, xenophobia, the dislike of the unlike, was present in Abraham's day and has not died in ours. If the ancients found it difficult to love the proselyte as they loved themselves, moderns do not find it easy to love even their homeborn neighbor that much either—the native Negro, for example, or the Puerto Rican fellow citizen. The prophets' fellow countrymen were not all prophets or psalmists or even priests. And it was not only the dream of mission and the obligations of religious hospitality set forth by their spiritual guides that the commoners resisted. There were certainly other features of prophetic preaching which also failed of complete fulfillment among the general populace.

It was never easy to squeeze a grand ideal into a small soul. Little men found it passing hard to share their divine legacy with others. Their minds were not yet big enough to encompass the breadth or the depth of their spiritual treasures. They simply did not realize how very much there was to share. They did not fully comprehend how limitless is God's love. Nor did they understand that human love is no commodity or store of energy that is consumed with use, but rather a plant that deepens and grows stronger and ever more beautiful as it expands and reaches outward and upward.

The teachers of the religion of Israel kept repeating, in an endless variety of ways: There is hope for the salvation of the homeborn and there is equal hope for the salvation of the outlander! Prophet, priest and psalmist possessed a patient, tireless courage that made them remind Israel ever and again: You are all gerim before God.... He loves the alien.... Therefore, you, too, must love the Ger.... Let him be unto you as the homeborn and love him as you love yourselves . . . for many nations will join themselves to the Eternal and become His people.... He Who gathers Israel's exiles in says, 'I will yet gather to them those who were gathered against them.'

Doubtless there were in Bible times Jewish leaders whose limited philosophy and pattern of existence would have pleased Ezra. But we like to think, and have some reason to believe, that many in that far distant age were prouder of their prophets who taught that life is more nobly lived when it pleases God. After all, this is the people who produced these prophets and preserved their teachings.

The memoirs of Ezra-Nehemiah furnish one magnifying mirror to reflect the surface coarseness of some men in Biblical days. But a host of prophets, psalmists and priests provide an abundance of spiritual telescopes through which men may look out upon nobler goals and acceptance of the Non-Jew within the Israel of God was one of them.

WILD OLIVE BRANCHES-GENTILES GRAFTED INTO ISRAEL...DO YOU "LOOK" LIKE ISRAEL?

Maybe some of you remember in junior high school in your science classes studying plants and grafting into the stem of a plant a "twig" from the plant or possibly another plant related to the primary plant. In doing so you grafted into a plant a "foreign" plant and the two became one. This new "implanted foreign" plant would take hold and grow and use the food of the mother plant for its nutrients. Soon we have a healthy "engraft" which took on the visible characteristics of the mother plant. This is exactly what Paul is saying to the Christian Church today. If we are grafted into Israel we should resemble Israel. Whether we do or not is for you to decide after you continue your study into these areas.

Now the Apostle Paul, in his epistle to the church at Ephesus, was speaking to the Gentile-Ephesian "believers" (WILD OLIVE BRANCHES WHO HAD BEEN GRAFTED INTO ISRAEL), who WERE strangers before Yahweh's Word was delivered to them.

FROM STRANGERS TO FELLOW CITIZENS OF ISRAEL

When the Gentiles came to faith in God (Yahweh), they were no longer "strangers"! They had accepted Yahweh's Holy Laws as well as Yeshua's religion which contained laws and commandments, which they had broken in times past, and they were given the opportunity to be JUSTIFIED through faith in and obedience to the Laws of Yahweh. In Ephesians 2:19, KJV:

19 Now <3767> therefore <686> ye are <2075> (5748) no more <3765> strangers <3581> and <2532> foreigners <3941>, but <235> fellowcitizens <4847> with the saints <40>, and <2532> of the household <3609> of God <2316>;

Lexicon Greek 4847

1) possessing the same citizenship with others, a fellow citizen

1a) of Gentiles as received into communion of the saints

1b) of the people consecrated to God

Lexicon Greek 4862

4862 sun {soon} a primary preposition denoting union; TDNT - 7:766,1102; prep AV - with 123, beside 1, accompany + 2064 1; 125

Lexicon Greek 4177 4177 polites {pol-ee'-tace} from 4172; TDNT - 6:516,906; n m AV - citizen 3; 3

- 1) a citizen
- 1a) the inhabitant of any city or country
- 1b) the association of another in citizenship
- 1b1) a fellow citizen, fellow countryman

Answer for yourself: As fellow citizens with Israel (Gentile believer), does the word in the Greek Scriptures mean we are in union with the Jews? Yes.

Answer for yourself: Does the Bible, that we accept as the supreme authority for faith and practice of our faith, say that Gentiles like you and I who come to faith in the God of Israel attain the same citizenship with others in Israel, thus calling us fellow citizens of Israel? Yes.

Answer for yourself: As Gentiles who have been received into the fellowship, commonwealth, and communion of the saints of Jewish Israel, are we considered as fellow-citizens of Israel and the people of God? Yes.

Answer for yourself: Are fellow citizens of the SAME NATION (both Jew and Gentile) under the same LAWS of that nation? Sure are!

Answer for yourself: As Gentiles, who have come to faith in the One God of Israel through the endeavors of the followers of Yeshua following his death, did these non-Jews think at that time that they belonged to a "separate religious affiliation" from the Israel of God or did they understand that they were to identify, as did the Jews, with the Israel of God since they were grafted into the same religion as the Jews, only with slightly different responsibilities and covenants, thereby making them FELLOW CITIZENS OF ISRAEL? That should be easy...they did not think that they had created a new religion.

Answer for yourself: Now the Apostle Paul was speaking to the Ephesians (WILD OLIVE BRANCHES WHO HAD BEEN GRAFTED INTO ISRAEL), who WERE strangers before Yahweh's Word was delivered to them. When they received Yahweh, they were no longer "strangers"! They had accepted Yahweh's Holy Laws, which they had broken in times past, and they were given the opportunity to be JUSTIFIED through repentance and obedience to the Commandments of God as found in the Torah. In Ephesians 2:19, they are no longer called strangers because they had become what? Fellow citizens of Israel

Answer for yourself: These Gentile believers were equals citizens with who in the Israel of God, and of the household of God? The Jews

Answer for yourself: Are fellow citizens who are of the SAME NATION (both Jew and Gentile) under the same LAWS of that nation? Yes of course.

Answer for yourself: Sadly, today the vast majority of Christian Churches find their identity in their denomination or non-denomination and do not see themselves as a part of what? Fellow citizens of Israel.

Answer for yourself: By failing to recognize that as Gentiles we are part of Israel, most Christians identify with their denomination and non-denomination. This is in direct opposition to the Scriptures in the New Testament as well as the Old Testament which clearly instructs that the believing Gentile finds his position in the Household of God as part of whom along with the Jews? Fellow citizens of Israel.

Answer for yourself: What was the denomination of the church which Yeshua founded and which was led by James in the first century which took the Great Commission unto the world? It was Biblical Judaism, and this may startle you, but if you were to research the topic like I and multitudes have, you will see that believing Gentiles like you and me kept the Saturday Sabbath, the Biblical Feast days well into the fourth century until they were changed by Gentile paganism in the Christian Church/State of Rome.

Answer for yourself: As we have seen, can you now understand why there was to be ONE LAW for the Jew born in the land and the stranger (Gentile) that lived among them? I hope so.

Answer for yourself: Did the Apostolic church set the correct example by not promoting numerous “sects” and “denominations” with multitudes of conflicting doctrines, statutes, and commandments like we see today in Christianity with over 2,000 different denominations? They sure were.

Let us continue with Ephesians 2:6 as we see our Biblical position as Gentile believers:

- 6 And hath raised [us] up together, and made [us] sit together in heavenly [places] in Christ Jesus:
- 7 That in the ages to come he might shew the exceeding riches of his grace in [his] kindness toward us through Christ Jesus.
- 8 For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: [it is] the gift of God:
- 9 Not of works, lest any man should boast.
- 10 For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them. ordained: or, prepared}

Take notice of the change that follows in the thought processes of the Apostle Paul where he contrasts what we were before Yeshua's ministers revealed to us Yahweh and what our standing is now since receiving “the” faith of Yeshua and coming to faith in Yahweh.

11 Wherefore remember, that ye [being] in time past Gentiles in the flesh (before faith, repentance and acceptance of the Covenant given to Gentiles with its corresponding Laws and Commandments within the Torah), who are called Uncircumcision (it was customary for all Gentile males to remain uncircumcised) by that which is called the Circumcision in the flesh made by hands (the Jews);

Notice again the previous condition of all Gentiles (called the "uncircumcised") who had never converted to Judaism and were without faith "in" and knowledge "of" Yahweh.

Then we read in Ephesians 2:12, KJV:

12 That AT THAT TIME you were without the Messiah (his faith), being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the COVENANTS OF PROMISE (plural),

12 That <3754> at <1722> that <1565> time <2540> ye were <2258> (5713) without <5565> Christ <5547>, being aliens <526> (5772) from the commonwealth <4174> of Israel <2474>, and <2532>strangers <3581> from the covenants <1242>of promise <1860>, having <2192> (5723) no <3361> hope <1680>, and <2532> without God <112> in <1722> the world <2889>:

"At that time"...what TIME was the Apostle Paul speaking of to these Ephesians? As Ephesians 2:2 says: "at the time they were walking in DISOBEDIENCE TO THE LAWS OF GOD."

Lexicon Greek 526 [being aliens] 526 apallotrioo {ap-al-lot-ree-o'-o} from 575 and a derivative of 245; TDNT - 1:265,43; v AV - be alienated with + 5607 2, be alien 1; 3

- 1) to alienate, estrange
- 2) to be shut out from one's fellowship and intimacy

Answer for yourself: Before faith in Yahweh and obedience to His Torah which allowed for Fellow-citizenship with the saints of Israel, were the Gentiles shut out from fellowship and intimacy with both God and the Jews? Yes.

Lexicon Greek 575 [root word for #526]

Lexicon Greek 4174 [commonwealth] 4174 politeia {pol-ee-ti'-ah} from 4177 ('polity'); TDNT - 6:516,906; n f AV - freedom 1, commonwealth 1; 2

- 1) the administration of civil affairs
- 2) a state or commonwealth
- 3) citizenship, the rights of a citizen

Answer for yourself: Being aliens to the commonwealth of Israel, the Gentile had not rights of citizenship. However, following the faith of Yeshua, did the Gentile believer in Yahweh become "fellow citizens with the Jews of Israel" or "Christians separated from the Jews of Israel"?

We may be called "Christians," but the Bible informs us that God calls us "Israel."

Let us examine the Greek word for "stranger":

Lexicon Greek 3581 [stranger] 3581 xenos {xen'-os} apparently a primary word; TDNT - 5:1,661; adj AV - stranger 10, strange 3, host 1; 14

- 1) a foreigner, a stranger
  - 1a) alien (from a person or a thing)
  - 1b) without the knowledge of, without a share in
  - 1c) new, unheard of
- 2) one who receives and entertains another hospitably
  - 2a) with whom he stays or lodges, a host

Lexicon Greek 1242 [covenants] 1242 diatheke {dee-ath-ay'-kay} from 1303; TDNT - 2:106,157; n f AV - covenant 20, testament 13; 33

- 1) a disposition, arrangement, of any sort, which one wishes to be valid, the last disposition which one makes of his earthly possessions after his death, a testament or will
- 2) a compact, a covenant, a testament
  - 2a) God's covenant with Noah, etc.

Lexicon Greek 1303 [root word for #1242] 1303 diatithemai {dee-at-ith'-em-ah-ee} middle voice from 1223 and 5087; TDNT - 2:104,157; v AV - make 3, testator 2, appoint 2; 7

- 1) to arrange, dispose of, one's own affairs
  - 1a) of something that belongs to one
  - 1b) to dispose of by will, make a testament
- 2) to make a covenant, to enter into a Covenant with one,

These DISOBEDIENT Gentile-Ephesians were "strangers" to the citizenship of Israel, as well as to the Covenants of Promise BECAUSE THEY WERE ESTRANGED BY DISOBEDIENCE TO THE LAWS OF GOD

Yahweh only makes a COVENANT with those who OBEY HIM.

The Lordship of Yeshua is only valid to the degree you submit to his rule in your life and that means obedience to His Father's Laws that pertain to you. Read for yourself the Blessings for obedience to GOD'S LAWS and the Cursings for disobedience to GOD'S LAWS, which are recorded in Deuteronomy 28:1-24 and Deuteronomy 29:15-19 for your instruction.

Let us summarize and notice that because of the ministry of Yeshua:

1. Gentile "believers" were no longer aliens from the commonwealth of Israel
2. Gentile "believers" were no longer strangers from the covenants of promise (remember the Abrahamic covenant has promised that through Abraham all the nations (Gentiles) would be blessed (with the opportunity of eternal life)
3. Gentile "believers" no longer lived without hope of life after death
4. Gentile "believers" no longer lived without the knowledge of the True God of all life as the Covenant of Noah along with the Laws of Noah were extended to them for their acceptance

Answer for yourself: Does Yahweh wish the Jew to pattern himself after the Gentile or the Gentile after the Jew? In the Bible it is always the Gentile who is to follow the Jew for salvation is of the Jew, and will always be of the Jew.

Ephesians 2:13-14:

13 But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ (let us understand that through the death of Yeshua was catalyzed the taking of the Torah to the Gentile world, whereas before his death, no attempts were being made to give eternal life to the Gentile world).

14 For he is our peace, who hath MADE BOTH ONE, AND HATH BROKEN DOWN THE MIDDLE WALL OF PARTITION [between us-Jew and Gentile];

13 But <1161> now <3570> in <1722> Christ <5547> Jesus <2424> ye <5210> who <3588> sometimes <4218> were <5607> (5752) far off <3112> are made <1096> (5675) nigh <1451> by <1722> the blood <129> of Christ <5547>. 14 For <1063> he is <2076> (5748) our <2257> peace <1515>, who <3588> hath made <4160> (5660) both <297> one <1520>, and <2532> hath broken down <3089> (5660) the middle wall <3320> of partition <5418> [between us]

Lexicon Greek 3089 [hath broken down]

3089 luo {loo'-o} a root word; TDNT - 2:60 & 4:328,543; v AV - loose 27, break 5, unloose 3, destroy 2, dissolve 2, put off 1, melt 1, break up 1, break down 1; 43

- 1) to loose any person (or thing) tied or fastened
  - 1a) bandages of the feet, the shoes,
  - 1b) of a husband and wife joined together by the bond of matrimony
  - 1c) of a single man, whether he has already had a wife or has not yet married
- 2) to loose one bound, i.e. to unbind, release from bonds, set free

- 2a) of one bound up (swathed in bandages)
- 2b) bound with chains (a prisoner), discharge from prison, let go
- 3) to loosen, undo, dissolve, anything bound, tied, or compacted together
  - 3a) an assembly, i.e. to dismiss, break up
  - 3b) laws, as having a binding force, are likened to bonds
  - 3c) to annul, subvert
  - 3d) to do away with, to deprive of authority, whether by precept or act

  - 3f) to loose what is compacted or built together, to break up, demolish, destroy
  - 3g) to dissolve something coherent into parts, to destroy
  - 3h) metaph., to overthrow, to do away with

Please notice that in verse 14 that the Gentile and the Jew had come into unity and the middle wall of separation between Jew and Gentile that consisted of such things as hatred, misunderstanding, prejudice, conflicting beliefs, doctrines, and religious rituals and ceremonies had been removed in order that both Jew and Gentile could find harmony in unity in the worship of God.

Answer for yourself: Let me ask you...does that condition of mutual acceptance and unity between Jews and Christians exist today in your church or in this world?

Answer for yourself: Where can you find this today? Why and how did we lose it (one new man in Messiah), since it is evident that it existed in the first century?

Answer for yourself: Does Yahweh wish the Jew to pattern himself after the Gentile or the Gentile after the Jew? You will have that answer after you finish these articles.

TWISTING SCRIPTURES TO OUR DESTRUCTION

The Book of Ephesians chapter two and verse 15 states:

- 15 Having abolished in his flesh the enmity, [even] the law of commandments [contained] in ordinances; for to make in himself of twain one new man, [so] making peace;
- 16 And that he might reconcile both unto God in one body by the cross, having slain the enmity thereby: (thereby: or, in himself)
- 17 And came and preached peace to you which were afar off, and to them that were nigh.
- 18 For through him we both have access by one Spirit unto the Father.
- 19 Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellowcitizens with the saints, and of the household of God;
- 20 And are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner [stone];

Possibly there is no greater error in Scriptural interpretation than the TWISTED Scripture in Ephesians 2: 15-16 where we find that multitudes "claim" that Yeshua "nailed the Law of Commandments to the cross" thereby giving mankind (the Gentile church) freedom from the LAW! That is the premise and quite understandable from a quick reading in English version of the text. Such a mistaken understanding is because our English Bibles contain added words which were never there in the Greek Scriptures which influence our reading to perceive the Law was abolished. If you will begin to study for yourself instead of trusting that your preacher has preached to you I promise you that you will come to many Bible truths that have for too long been overlooked. If you will do this then you would discover what I did that completely altered the direction of my life and SHOULD ALTER YOURS IF YOU ARE A TRUE LOVER OF GOD!

HOW COME THE CHURCH HAS MISSED THIS?

Today the vast majority of Christian Churches find their identity in the denomination or non-denomination and not as a part of Israel. This is in direct opposition to the Scriptures in the New Testament as well as the Old Testament which clearly instructs that the Gentile finds his position in the Household of God as part of Israel along with the Jew. The reason for so much misunderstanding today in the Christian Church concerning their relationship with the Israel of God is because there have been words ADDED to Ephesians 2:15-16 (as well as other passages in the New Testament) which have TWISTED THE MEANING OF THE GREEK SCRIPTURES thereby falsely leading multitudes to believe the Law has passed away! Following is a copy from the King James Version, with the added words underlined:

Ephesians 2:

- I5 Having abolished in his flesh the enmity, even the law of commandments contained in ordinances; for to make in himself of twain one new man so making peace;
- I6 And that he might reconcile both unto God in one body by the cross, having slain the enmity thereby:

LET US BE CAREFUL IN OUR STUDY

As you can see from a close and careful reading of Ephesians 2:15-16 that the translators of the King James Version, by the USE of ADDED WORDS, PURPOSELY, with the INTENT TO FALSIFY, deceived THIS WORLD into "thinking" that Yeshua came to do away with the Law as we shall more clearly see later in this article! If we read the above Scripture and INCLUDE the words "even" and "contained" we come to the conclusion that Yeshua abolished in his flesh the law, commandments and ordinances through the cross. But dearly beloved "even" and "contained" are added to the Greek manuscripts before translating into English by the publishers of our Bibles.

Take time to read this text of the New Testament and leave out the italicized words and listen to the new meaning it brings to your awareness

Dear child of God, these words are not in the Greek texts recovered from ages of antiquity by archeologists. But by these "additions" by men "who want you to know their theology" we are unsuspectingly led astray from the real message God intended us to have.

If you remove these two "added" words we find that the ONLY THING ABOLISHED BY YESHUA AND THE CROSS IS THE "ENMITY." More on this later...let us continue with Ephesians.

Answer for yourself: As you can see from a close and careful reading of Ephesians 2:15-16 that the translators of the King James Version, by the USE of ADDED WORDS, PURPOSELY, with the INTENT TO FALSIFY, deceived THIS WORLD into "thinking" that Yeshua came to do what in regards to the Law? Nail the Law to the cross which he did not.

As stated earlier Yeshua's death and presumed resurrection were understood as a catalyst to motivate a Gentile-hating Judaism to repent in part (the followers of Yeshua) and take to the non-Jews of the world not "conversion", which required circumcision which for an adult was an effective deterrent to his acceptance of Biblical Faith, but the Laws of Noah which originally God gave to the non-Jew (did not require circumcision). No longer were 613 commandments placed upon the non-Jew along with circumcision for acceptance by the Jews; rather, 66 commandments dealing mainly with moral issues were his to keep and observe. Such repentance by Israel (the followers of Yeshua) in their attitude to the non-Jew was instrumental with the doing away with the hatred and opposition toward the Law on the part of the Gentiles by removing forced circumcision as a prerequisite. This main fact is the whole reason for the writing of the book of Galatians where Paul speaks only about one law not given to the non-Jew....circumcision. Paul never intended, in Galatians, that the Law pass away. He was only saying that the non-Jew was never under the Law of CIRCUMCISION as it was not part of the Covenant of Noah or the Law of Noah, but was conveniently used by the Jews to keep the non-Jew from fellowship and inclusion with them as they considered the non-Jew unclean and basically "dogs." I sure wish Christianity would study their history more and see such truths as this which have been overlooked for almost 2000 years.

Answer for yourself: If we read the above Scripture and INCLUDE the words "even" and "contained" we come to the conclusion that Yeshua abolished in his flesh the law, commandments and ordinances through the cross. But dearly beloved "even" and "contained" is added to the Greek manuscripts before translated into English. If you remove these two "added" words we find that the ONLY THING ABOLISHED BY YESHUA AND THE CROSS IS NOT THE LAW .....but what? Hatred toward the Law by the Gentiles, since now they could come to saving faith without the need for circumcision as an adult male, and so goes the husband and father, so went the family.

Answer for yourself: Since Paul wrote the book of Ephesians, and taught Yahweh's LAWS to these same Ephesians (chapter 6:2-3) well after Yeshua's death and presumed resurrection, WOULD Paul teach that these SAME LAWS were "'nailed to a cross", and not to be KEPT'? The answer is, DEFINITELY NOT!

BE ON ALERT FOR ITALICIZED WORDS IN YOUR BIBLES

First, I would like to remind you of the fact that when one reads the Greek Scriptures (the New Testament) and finds WORDS IN ITALICS, that means: the italicized words have been ADDED TO THE SCRIPTURES in translation WHICH WERE NOT THERE IN THE BEGINNING! In other words, it was not given by Yahweh, was not in the Greek manuscripts, and is not intended to be added to the context for often it ALTERS THE TRUE MEANING OF THE PASSAGE AND WE ARE LED INTO ERROR AND SIN WITHOUT KNOWING IT BY SUCH PLACEMENT OF ITALICIZED WORDS. Such is the erroneous teaching that the LAW HAS PASSED AWAY. This is just such the case in Ephesians 2:15-16: The ADDED WORDS in these Scriptures in the King James Version have DECEIVED millions of people for HUNDREDS of years! Let us investigate once again Ephesians 2:15-16, KJV, [added words bracketed]!

SO NOW WE SEE MORE CLEARLY

15 Having abolished in his flesh the ENMITY [hatred toward something] (EVEN) the law of commandments (CONTAINED) in ordinances; for to make in himself of twain one new man, (so) making peace;

16 And that he might reconcile both unto Yahweh in one body by the "cross", having slain the ENMITY [hatred toward something] thereby.

Answer for yourself: What was abolished by the Cross (understood to mean the death of Yeshua)?

Understand the Jews loved the Law and did not hate it. The hatred toward the Law by the Gentiles was canceled by the death of Yeshua on the Cross as subsequent to his death whereby his followers would go into all the world thereby reaching the non-Jewish peoples of the world with the message of monotheism and the resulting responsibilities necessary for those coming to God to obtain salvation. No longer was the Gentile forced to "convert" and undergo circumcision to receive God's gracious gift of salvation. Circumcision had been used as a tool by Jews who hated Gentiles to discourage their coming to God and they used it effectively as they wished to have little or no contact with them since considering them unclean and not worthy of Eternal life (one only needs to read the accounts of Shammai to understand this situation). Circumcision was used to prevent the non-Jewish adult male from making conversion to Judaism. As an infant circumcision was no big thing as the baby carries the mother's antibodies against infection which lasts up to six months in the baby's blood. But for an adult this was a real problem as many died of the procedure due to infection. Now understand that by removing such an obstacle then the "death penalty" for transgression of the Law was removed for the non-Jew as he could now repent and come to saving faith without the need for circumcision. Not all of Israel was ecstatic over such actions taken by the Messianic community of Israel. It was even a slow procedure for the Apostles themselves as it literally took years and persecution to get them to respond in this manner. But no longer were the non-Jew kept from salvation as the Messianic part of Israel repented and began once again to be a "light to the Gentile" by directing them to God without all the excess baggage which had up to that time had effectively been used to prevent the conversion of the non-Jewish world. Now though faith, repentance, obedience, and observance of the Covenant of Noah along with its Commandments and Covenant stipulations, the non-Jew would have the "death penalty" which stood over his life removed and all this is traced to Yeshua's death on the cross and "believed resurrection" by his followers. In would be in the wake of Yeshua' death and the resulting ministry of his followers which developed afterwards that, in the fulfillment of the Great Commission, that the Jews, or at least some of them, would break from Jewish bigotry and go into all the world with the "good news" of faith in God and repentance to the non-Jewish world.

Let us regress for just a moment. First, we have established the FACT that there have been words ADDED at very critical places in these Scriptures. Now your pastors and preachers, most likely, have told you that the "ENMITY" in the verse refers to Yahweh's Law itself. As you can now see for yourself such is not the case.

Answer for yourself: Having seen for yourself the truth about these added words and that the Greek Scriptures do not contain them, are these Christian Pastors and Teachers correct in their interpretation or have they committed a grievous error and led you into sin (rejection of the Law and your covenant stipulations as non-Jews) without your knowledge? You be the judge!

Yahweh's LAW, however, is not the "ENMITY" slain as mentioned in the verse. Yeshua "abolished" on the cross the ENMITY (better understood as hatred toward something), for Paul has plainly said so in Romans 2:13, Romans 3:31, Romans 7:7, and Romans 7:12.

Romans 2:13

For NOT the "hearers" of the Law are just before Yahweh, but the "DOERS OF THE LAW" will be justified.

Answer for yourself: Did Paul teach "doing the Law" for justification AFTER THE CROSS? DEFINITELY YES!

Romans 3:31

Are we then "doing away with the Law through faith? BY NO MEANS! Rather, we ESTABLISH the Law!

Answer for yourself: Did Paul abolish or establish the Law in the Gentile churches (like yours) in Rome before or after the cross? The Law was established in Paul's preaching definitely after the cross!

Romans 7:7

Shall we therefore "say that the Law is 'SIN'? NO! By no means! But to the contrary, I did not know SIN (transgression of The Law) except THROUGH THE LAW, for I did not know lust, unless the Law had said (in Exodus 20:17 and Deuteronomy 5:21) Do not covet."

Romans 7:12

Therefore the LAW is HOLY, and the COMMANDMENTS holy, and Just,

and Righteous.

Answer for yourself: Did Paul say this before or after the Cross of Christ? Definitely after!

Answer for yourself: Did the Jews love the Law or hate the Law? They loved the Law.

Answer for yourself: Then who do you suppose hated the Law (having not grown up with it and understood it properly like you and me)? The Gentiles for the reasons given above.

The Apostle Paul taught The Ten Commandment Law to the Ephesians, as proven by Ephesians 6:2-3, which says:

- 2 Honor your father and mother, which is the first Commandment with a promise:
- 3 That it may be well with you, and you may live long on the earth.

The LAW to honor one's father and mother, in order that your days may be long upon the land, is Commandment Number Five of The Ten Commandments, found in Exodus 20:12, and repeated in Deuteronomy 5:16.

Notice that the Apostle Paul was NOT teaching the "abolishment" of The Commandments (correctly understood as the ten categories that organized all the LAWS OF YAHWEH), or he would NOT have been teaching the Ephesians to OBEY the 5th Commandment!

This is made all the more difficult because Paul tells us in Romans that the "Law is holy, just and righteous."

Answer for yourself: So "what" was the ENMITY that Paul said was "abolished" on the Yeshua's cross if it is not the LAW?

To understand, we must look at the status and situation of the Gentile in first century Israel.

WHAT IS THE "ENMITY" WHICH WAS ABOLISHED & WHY IS IT VERY IMPORTANT FOR THE CHRISTIAN TODAY?

In Ephesians 2:15-16 we find the Greek word which is translated as "ENMITY". This word comes from the Greek word "echthra", word #2189 in Strong's Greek Dictionary, which is a derivative of word #2190 which means "hostility toward something."

Thus, the word ENMITY in Ephesians 2:15-16, should have been WRITTEN: enmity TOWARD something or enmity TO something.

A Critical Lexicon and Concordance To The English and Greek New Testament, by Ethelbert W. Bullinger, Zondervan Publishing, Grand Rapids, MI., pps. 250-251, corroborates the FACT that the word ENMITY means: OPPOSITE TO, hating another, and adverse to Him:

"The ENMITY is TOWARD something, which in this case is hatred toward The Law of Yahweh!" So dear Christian, Yeshua's death and subsequent events traced to his death destroyed the hatred toward the Law by the non-Jew and not the Law...by catalyzing a movement to the non-Jewish world where the Laws of Noah...66 Commandments and not 613 were given to the Gentile without the requirement of circumcision...no longer conversion and forced circumcision on adult males was required for acceptance into the Israel Of God!

I bet that is a real revelation to most of you, especially considering you have been taught to hate the Law since you were children in Sunday school. Yeshua destroyed the hatred and opposition to Yahweh's LAW by catalyzing a Messianic movement whereby the non-Jews of the world were brought to God without the obstacle of circumcision, therefore making "peace" between the Gentile and the Jews...thus making the two...one...thereby breaking down the middle wall of opposition and separation between them. Now it was possible that both the Jew and the non-Jew would LOVE THE SAME THING: BOTH JEW AND GENTILE COULD LOVE THE LAWS OF YAHWEH! (The Laws of Noah are so simple..any non-Jew could easily live by them and most already were if they were righteous beings).

Answer for yourself: How so? By re-establishing the Laws of Noah for the Gentile as seen in Acts 15 (Messianic branch of Judaism in the second Temple period of which Yeshua belonged).

More on that later in forthcoming articles in this series.

EARLY GENTILE BELIEVERS OBSERVED THE TORAH IN BOTH THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS

We need first to get acquainted with the term used in the Jewish Scriptures for the non-Jew: "stranger."

Strong's Concordance defines "stranger" :1616 ger (gare); or (fully) geyr (gare); from 1481; properly, a guest; by implication, a foreigner: KJV-- alien, sojourner, stranger.

Brown-Driver-Briggs' Hebrew Lexicon defines "stranger": 1616 ger or (fully) geyr- sojourner

- a) a temporary inhabitant, a newcomer lacking inherited rights
- b) used of foreigners within Israel, though they had conceded rights

Answer for yourself: Do you remember that we just read about the "ger" and the "ger toshav" in the prior articles? Do you remember that the Ger Toshav goes beyond the Laws of Noah (66 Commandments) and choose other mitzvot to include into his life according to Isaiah chapter 56? I would hope so and by now you should be familiar with this term and the responsibilities that it entails.

In order to understand what comes next it would be important to begin to look for a "pattern" in the verses that follow not only in this article but the rest in this series as you will come to see that God included the "non-Jews" in the giving of the Torah as He did the Jew. The reason for this is simple; before Moses gave the Jewish people the Torah God had given by revelation the Torah to the "non-Jew" in the form of the Covenant and Laws of Noah and we find that Joshua and others presented this same "Torah" and opportunity to enter the Covenant with God to the "non-Jew". Israel will do this throughout the history of Israel as a nation up to the destruction of the Temple and afterwards as well.

This "Pattern" can be found not only in the Jewish Old Testament Scriptures but the New Testament as well. Having seen this then one has to wonder how we lost and deviated from such a pattern which was established in antiquity by God to the point where we have lost such obedience and observance today. One would have to ask Rome that question.

Leviticus 24

- 22 Ye shall have one manner of law, as well for the stranger, as for one of your own country (Jews): for I [am] the LORD your God.

You need to re-read that verse above and let the implications of it sink in into your mind and spirit..this "one" and "same" law applied to the "non-Jew"

and "Jew" alike!!!

Joshua 8

32 And he wrote there upon the stones a copy of the law of Moses, which he wrote in the presence of the children of Israel. (KJV) Josh 8:32-35 32 And he wrote there upon the stones a copy of the law of Moses, which he wrote in the presence of the children of Israel. 33 And all Israel, and their elders, and officers, and their judges, stood on this side the ark and on that side before the priests the Levites, which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, as well the stranger, as he that was born among them; half of them over against mount Gerizim, and half of them over against mount Ebal; as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded before, that they should bless the people of Israel. 34 And afterward he read all the words of the law, the blessings and cursings, according to all that is written in the book of the law. 35 There was not a word of all that Moses commanded, which Joshua read not before all the congregation of Israel, with the women, and the little ones, and the strangers that were conversant among them. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that these "strangers" and "non-Jews" are grouped in the term "Israel" along with the Jews? You need to take a second and let that sink in (Selah). Did you notice that non-Jews were a part of not only the reading of the Laws of God but also this Covenant renewal? By now you should understand that this "one manner of Law for all" from Leviticus 24 is to be understood in that the non-Jews who heard Joshua read the Laws understood that within the reading of these Laws that certain Laws pertained to them and certain others did not. Regardless the non-Jew is seen re-affirming his Covenant and commitment to God and His Commandments as part of his Covenant. These Laws are called "Torah" or the instruction of God.

2 Samuel 22

- 45 Strangers shall submit themselves unto me: as soon as they hear, they shall be obedient unto me. {Strangers: Heb. Sons of the stranger} {submit...: or, yield feigned obedience: Heb. lie}

Psalms 18

- 44 As soon as they hear of me, they shall obey me: the strangers shall submit themselves unto me. {As soon...: Heb. At the hearing of the ear} {submit...: or, yield feigned obedience} {strangers: Heb. sons of the stranger}

Psalms 119

- 19. I [am] a stranger in the earth: hide not thy commandments from me.

Answer for yourself: Did you notice the yearning of the non-Jew to learn the Commandments of God? By now you should be understanding that one's Covenant with God is framed by Laws and Commandments that when kept bring not only one's right-standing with God but acceptance by Him as well.

1 Peter 2

- 11 Dearly beloved, I beseech [you] as strangers and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul;

Acts 28

- 23. And when they had appointed him a day, there came many to him (remember Paul was in Rome and many who came to him were non-Jews) into [his] lodging; to whom he expounded and testified the kingdom of God, persuading them concerning Jesus, both out of the law of Moses, and [out of] the prophets, from morning till evening.

Answer for yourself: What was the source material for "Paul's message" to these "non-Jew"? It was the Hebrew Scriptures and not his own "epistles".

It sure looks to me that not only in the Old Testament but the New Testament as well, and even long after Jesus' death, that non-Jews were still taught the Laws and Commandments of God. Why? Because these frame his Covenant with God and assure when obeyed his acceptance with God.

"Whosoever therefore shall break one of the least of these commandments and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the Kingdom of Heaven: but whosoever shall do and teach them, the same shall be called great in the Kingdom of Heaven"--Matthew 5:19

The passage above has always bothered me. As Christians and followers of "the Christ" we are almost universally taught that the Law of Moses was nailed to the Cross with Christ, and that it was never meant to play a part in the lives of those who follow "the Christ". Yet, knowing that the Law is just weeks away from being fulfilled and ending, Jesus takes the time to stress that one who teaches others to obey it will be exalted by God. Also, prophets like Ezekiel and passages like Zechariah 14 clearly suggest that in the Millennial Kingdom there will be a temple with animal sacrifice, and that there will be yearly celebration of the Jewish festivals.

Answer for yourself: How, I have always wondered, is it possible on one hand for the Law to have been fulfilled and passed away, and yet have it return in the future? And if it will return in some form, why did it vanish in the first place?

In Acts 21 (which we know takes place at least 20 years after the Crucifixion) we see James, the head of the Jerusalem church/synagogue, boasting of the thousands of Christian believers in Jerusalem who are following the Torah-- which, according to the usual Christian teaching, has supposedly been fulfilled and passed away. James then goes on in verse 21 to point out a report about Paul (the same report Catholic councils and much of Christianity since has actually held) has circulated, stating that he has been teaching Christians (specifically Jewish Christians) to abandon the Law. This is a critical verse! Because James specifically qualifies it by saying Paul was teaching "the Jews among the Gentiles" to halt circumcision and abandon the oral traditions of classic Judaism, one almost gets the impression that if Paul had been telling Gentiles to do this there would have been no great problem.

Having been accused of teaching that Christians should not keep the Law, we should expect Paul, if what these councils and Christianity usually teaches is true, to now withstand James to face and rebuke him (as he did Peter) for being under the bondage of the Law. Instead, he undertakes a Nazirite vow to show he does not repudiate the Torah. Christianity presumes he was doing this to placate James and the Jewish believers in the Jerusalem church while Judaism at this point simply accuses Paul of hypocrisy.

We need to get familiar with a man named Hegesippus. Born Jewish, Hegesippus was an adult convert to Christianity. He lived twenty years in Rome where he researched the early church; in later years he retired to Jerusalem. He is considered the father of ecclesiastical history. Scant little of his writings have survived, but he was highly recommended by other early writers including Eusebius and Saint Jerome. Unknown to most Christians is the fact that Hegesippus, verified by Eusebius, relates that the first 15 bishops of Jerusalem, starting with James, were fully Torah-observant Jews until the bar Kochba revolt of 135 AD, and that the Jerusalem church started by the Apostles themselves was a Torah-observant church. If the widespread doctrine is true that the Apostles taught that Christianity is not under the Torah, and that the Law was to pass out of the faith, then we have a major problem with what we see in the Jerusalem church. Yet at the same time it must be admitted that Paul's writings consistently seem to de-emphasize keeping the Torah but yet this same New Testament is full of examples of Paul teaching the "non-Jews" to keep the Torah, the Biblical Festivals, and the Sabbath which are "Laws" in themselves.

After Peter's revelation with Cornelius, however, James and the church concluded in Acts 15 that the Gentiles were indeed going to be allowed into the faith. It's not much of a stretch to imagine that the Shammai-taught Pharisees even on their best day would have been less than enthusiastic over this ruling,* but even assuming that they accepted it, undoubtedly they would have held that nothing short of a full conversion to Judaism, including undergoing circumcision and keeping the full Torah, would suffice for the Gentiles to be joined to the church. In fact, these Shammai-taught Pharisees never did approve of the idea, eventually becoming a heretical branch of Christian Jews known as the Ebionites, which affirmed Christ as Messiah yet repudiated all the writings of Paul. They were overruled on both accounts by James and the Jerusalem council exempted the Gentile believers from the stringent requirements of Judaism.

It will be seen that the commandments issued by Jerusalem bear a marked degree of similarity to the Noachide commandments, which should come as no surprise since Judaism held that the Seven Laws of Noah were the Laws and Commandments of God to non-Jews who chose to worship him.

The following are summary statements from the Laws of Noah. Each one of these Laws and Commandments are found in the Laws of Moses as well.

- Abstain from idolatry
- Abstain from fornication/incest
- Abstain from murder
- Abstain from eating a living animal
- Abstain from theft
- Abstain from cursing God
- Establish courts of justice

The last three, it will be noted are missing from James' degree, but unquestionably they were and are consistent with Christian living even if not specifically stated. Even the law of establishing a just court system may actually have been put into practice by the early church--Paul's words in 1st Cor. 6, in which he rebukes the Corinthians for using pagan courts instead of being judged by "the saints", may refer to such a court system within the church.

I submit that since we see an apparent tie-in to the Noachide Laws and Commandments on the part of the early New Testament church, that if we go one final step into the beliefs of Judaism of the time, the true view of the Law on the part of Paul and the other New Testament writers will emerge and give us an insight we have never had before.

In Judaism of the 1st century, both Jews and Gentile converts existed within Judaism. As mentioned in an earlier article, the Pharisee school of Shammai, the dominant force within 1st century Judaism, forbade Gentile converts while the more liberal school of Hillel did accept them. This knowledge in and of itself takes Christianity miles ahead in its understanding of the events and milieu of the 1st century church. However, what is even less well known is that there were three types of Jewish worshippers, one being Jewish by both birth and religion, the other two including the Gentile Jews. They included:

- Jews: These were natural born Jews of the seed of Abraham.
- Ger tzedeks: These were full Gentile converts to Torah-based Judaism, who underwent circumcision and thereafter observed the full range of Commandments within the Law. The "Hellenistic" (or Greek) Jews would have fallen into this category, as would Apollos, Steven, and probably the group of Jews in Ephesus who had only known John's baptism (Acts 19).
- Ger toshavs: These were Gentiles who chose to worship the God of Abraham without making a full commitment to Judaism. They did not become circumcised nor did they keep the full Torah--but they instead lived by the Noachide commandments (66 Laws and not the 613 given the Jew). This was their basic requirement, but by no means were they restricted to only the seven basic laws. Many ger toshavs were as Torah observant as the Jews themselves, their unwillingness to be circumcised being the only barrier from their achieving the status of a ger tzedek. Ger Toshavs were known as “God- fearers”. An Old Testament example would include Naaman the Syrian. Cornelius, called in the New Testament “a man who feared God” was actually a Ger toshav.

Let us continue our study into these areas in order to fully understand the "Pattern" given to both Jew and "non-Jew" by God.

GENTILE BELIEVERS OBSERVED SIMILAR LAWS AS THEY PARTICIPATED IN THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM

We need first to get acquainted with the term used in the Jewish Scriptures for the non-Jew: "stranger."

Strong's Concordance defines "stranger" :1616 ger (gare); or (fully) geyr (gare); from 1481; properly, a guest; by implication, a foreigner: KJV-- alien, sojourner, stranger.

Brown-Driver-Briggs' Hebrew Lexicon defines "stranger": 1616 ger or (fully) geyr- sojourner

- a) a temporary inhabitant, a newcomer lacking inherited rights
- b) used of foreigners within Israel, though they had conceded rights

In order to understand what comes next it would be important to begin to look for a "pattern" in the verses that follow not only in this article but the rest in this series as you will come to see that God included the non-Jews in the giving of the Torah. The reason for this is simple; it can be shown that non-Jews kept those parts of the Torah concerning the sacrificial system along with the Jews. This is startling revelation that has immense impact upon the role of the non-Jew in the Israel of God.

This pattern can be found not only in the Jewish Old Testament Scriptures but the New Testament as well. Having seen this then one has to wonder how we lost and deviated from such a pattern which was established in antiquity by God to the point where we have lost such obedience and observance today. One would have to ask Rome that question.

Leviticus 17

- 8 And thou shalt say unto them, Whatsoever man [there be] of the house of Israel, or of the strangers which sojourn among you, that offereth a burnt offering or sacrifice,

Leviticus 22

- 18 Speak unto Aaron, and to his sons, and unto all the children of Israel, and say unto them, Whatsoever [he be] of the house of Israel, or of the strangers in Israel, that will offer his oblation for all his vows, and for all his freewill offerings, which they will offer unto the LORD for a burnt offering;

Numbers 15

- 14 And if a stranger sojourn with you, or whosoever [be] among you in your generations, and will offer an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD; as ye do, so he shall do.

What must not escape our understanding in these verses is that according to Leviticus 24:22:

Leviticus 24

- 22 Ye shall have one manner of law, as well for the stranger, as for one of your own country (Jews): for I [am] the LORD your God.

Please understand that "this one manner of law" applied to not only the offerings but the whole of the sacrificial system as a form of the non-Jew's atonement as will be shown next:

Lev 17:8-11 8 And thou shalt say unto them, Whatsoever man there be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers which sojourn among you, that offereth a burnt offering or sacrifice, 9 And bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer it unto the LORD; even that man shall be cut off from among his people. 10 And whatsoever man there be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn among you, that eateth any manner of blood; I will even set my face against that soul that eateth blood, and will cut him off from among his people. 11 For the life of the flesh is in the blood: and I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls: for it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that the non-Jew found his atonement the same way the Jew did...through the sacrificial system. Now...do you know how the sacrificial system worked? Before you say yes...you need to read the following because if you are a Christian I guarantee you don't because Christianity is almost totally ignorant of how the dynamic of the Sacrificial System in the Jewish Scriptures operated.

You need to re-read that verse above and let the implications of it sink in into your mind and spirit...because we have been taught incorrectly.....

EARLY GENTILE BELIEVERS WERE ARE CALLED "STRANERS" IN SCRIPTURE & WORSHIPPED ALONGSIDE THE JEWS

Deuteronomy 31

12 Gather the people together, men, and women, and children, and thy stranger that [is] within thy gates, that they may hear, and that they may learn, and fear the LORD your God, and observe to do all the words of this law:

1Kings 8

41 Moreover concerning a stranger, that [is] not of thy people Israel, but cometh out of a far country for thy name's sake;

1Kings 8

43 Hear thou in heaven thy dwelling place, and do according to all that the stranger calleth to thee for: that all people of the earth may know thy name, to fear thee, as [do] thy people Israel; and that they may know that this house, which I have builded, is called by thy name. {this...: Heb. thy name is called upon this house}

2Chronicles 6

32 Moreover concerning the stranger, which is not of thy people Israel, but is come from a far country for thy great name's sake, and thy mighty hand, and thy stretched out arm; if they come and pray in this house;

33 Then hear thou from the heavens, [even] from thy dwelling place, and do according to all that the stranger calleth to thee for; that all people of the earth may know thy name, and fear thee, as [doth] thy people Israel, and may know that this house which I have built is called by thy name. {this...: Heb. thy name is called upon this house}

Isaiah 14

1. For the LORD will have mercy on Jacob, and will yet choose Israel, and set them in their own land: and the strangers shall be joined with them, and they shall cleave to the house of Jacob.

Isaiah 56

3. Neither let the son of the stranger, that hath joined himself to the LORD, speak, saying, The LORD hath utterly separated me from his people: neither let the eunuch say, Behold, I [am] a dry tree. 4 For thus saith the LORD unto the eunuchs that keep my sabbaths, and choose [the things] that please me, and take

6 Also the sons of the stranger, that join themselves to the LORD, to serve him, and to love the name of the LORD, to be his servants, every one that keepeth the sabbath from polluting it, and taketh hold of my covenant;

Ezekiel 14

7 For every one of the house of Israel, or of the stranger that sojourneth in Israel, which separateth himself from me, and setteth up his idols in his heart, and putteth the stumblingblock of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to a prophet to enquire of him concerning me; I the LORD will answer him by myself:

Ezekiel 47

22 And it shall come to pass, [that] ye shall divide it by lot for an inheritance unto you, and to the strangers that sojourn among you, which shall beget children among you: and they shall be unto you as born in the country among the children of Israel; they shall have inheritance with you among the tribes of Israel.

Ephesians 2

19 Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellowcitizens with the saints, and of the household of God;

Romans 11

20 Well; because of unbelief they were broken off, and thou standest by faith. Be not highminded, but fear:

1Peter 2

17 Honour all [men]. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honour the king. {Honour all: or, Esteem all}

The term "fear God" refers to the non-Jewish Godfearers like Cornelius in Acts 10 and others to which Paul would minister later in Asia, Minor. Let us continue our study but before going notice please how the non-Jewish worshiper of God, the "stranger" is called with the Jew in the worship of God.

EARLY GENTILE BELIEVERS CELEBRATED THE SABBATH

We need first to get acquainted with the term used in the Jewish Scriptures for the non-Jew: "stranger."

Exodus 20

- 10 But the seventh day [is] the sabbath of the LORD thy God: [in it] thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that [is] within thy gates:

Exodus 23

- 12 Six days thou shalt do thy work, and on the seventh day thou shalt rest: that thine ox and thine ass may rest, and the son of thy handmaid, and the stranger, may be refreshed.

Leviticus 25

rest as well as thou.

Isaiah 56

- 3. Neither let the son of the stranger, that hath joined himself to the LORD, speak, saying, The LORD hath utterly separated me from his people: neither let the eunuch say, Behold, I [am] a dry tree.
- 4 For thus saith the LORD unto the eunuchs that keep my sabbaths, and choose [the things] that please me, and take hold of my covenant;

Answer for yourself: Can there be any doubt that God included the non-Jews in the observance of the Sabbath?

Answer for yourself: Can we find this "Pattern of Worship" continuing as we find non-Jews observing the Sabbath in the New Testament as well? We sure can. We only need look at the ruling of James in Acts 15 as well as the example of Paul where he, in Troaz, Asia, Minor, kept the closing Sabbath Havdalah Services with non-Jew in Asia, Minor.

The point in sharing these examples of non-Jews which kept the Festivals and the Sabbath is to make you think. We hear today even from some Jews that the Gentile believer does not have to keep the Sabbath as it is not part of the Gentile's Covenant with Noah. Well it would seem from the texts that they did and God seems to have declared it to be so. Even if not part of the Covenant of Noah we find in the passage above from Isaiah 56:3-4 that God is pleased when non-Jewish believers "choose" to keep His (God calls them 'My' Sabbaths) Sabbaths and choose to observe and keep those things related to God. Let us never forget that the Sabbath is not Sunday but Friday evening to Saturday evening.

ABRAHAM'S EXAMPLE: CIRCUMCISION REQUIRED FOR GENTILE BELIEVERS TO PARTICIPATE FULLY IN THE FEASTS OF THE LORD

We need first to get acquainted with the term used in the Jewish Scriptures for the non-Jew: "stranger."

Strong's Concordance defines "stranger" :1616 ger (gare); or (fully) geyr (gare); from 1481; properly, a guest; by implication, a foreigner: KJV-- alien, sojourner, stranger.

Brown-Driver-Briggs' Hebrew Lexicon defines "stranger": 1616 ger or (fully) geyr- sojourner

- a) a temporary inhabitant, a newcomer lacking inherited rights
- b) used of foreigners within Israel, though they had conceded rights

In order to understand what comes next it would be important to begin to look for a "pattern" in the verses that follow not only in this article but the rest in this series as you will come to see that God included the "non-Jews" in the observance of not only the Festivals but the Sabbath as well. This pattern can be found not only in the Jewish Old Testament Scriptures but the New Testament as well. Having seen this then one has to wonder how we lost and deviated from such a pattern which was established in antiquity by God to the point where we have lost such obedience and observance today. One would have to ask Rome that question.

Genesis 17

12 And he that is eight days old shall be circumcised among you, every man child in your generations, he that is born in the house, or bought with money of any stranger, which [is] not of thy seed. {he that is eight...: Heb. a son of eight days}

Exodus 12

48 And when a stranger shall sojourn with thee, and will keep the Passover to the LORD, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as one that is born in the land: for no uncircumcised person shall eat thereof.

As you can see from the above verse it was mandatory that before a non-Jew was permitted to observe the Passover he had to be circumcised. Many will think that this was just a "Mosaic" ordinance but that is not true. When one considers Abraham we find some interesting things concerning Abraham's knowledge of the "Passover" and his sanctification of this "appointed time" long before Moses. Let us look at the text for clues but these "clues" span over 4 chapters so bear with me in reading these long texts:

In reading these texts I want you to notice two things:

- God is making a covenant with Abraham and his seed as an EVERLASTING COVENANT
- Abraham is commanded to "circumcise" himself and every man child and this circumcision was to be a token and distinguishing mark of that covenant

Gen 17:1-11 1 And when Abram was ninety years old and nine, the LORD appeared to Abram, and said unto him, I am the Almighty God; walk before me, and be thou perfect. 2 And I will make my covenant between me and thee, and will multiply thee exceedingly. 3 And Abram fell on his face: and God talked with him, saying, 4 As for me, behold, my covenant is with thee, and thou shalt be a father of many nations. 5 Neither shall thy name any more be called Abram, but thy name shall be Abraham; for a father of many nations have I made thee. 6 And I will make thee exceeding fruitful, and I will make nations of thee, and kings shall come out of thee. 7 And I will establish my covenant between me and thee and thy seed after thee in their generations for an everlasting covenant, to be a God unto thee, and to thy seed after thee. 8 And I will give unto thee, and to thy seed after thee, the land wherein thou art a stranger, all the land of Canaan, for an everlasting possession; and I will be their God. 9 And God said unto Abraham, Thou shalt keep my covenant therefore, thou, and thy seed after thee in their generations. 10 This is my covenant, which ye shall keep, between me and you and thy seed after thee; Every man child among you shall be circumcised. 11 And ye shall circumcise the flesh of your foreskin; and it shall be a token of the covenant betwixt me and you. (KJV)

In reading these texts I want you to also notice:

- Once Abraham is in covenant with God and after circumcising himself then he prepares "unleavened" bread.

Answer for yourself: When in the Bible does it mention "unleavened" bread and what if any is there any connection with unleavened bread with any "appointed times with God" or "Festivals"? Yes; the Passover.

Of course you know that the children of Israel would bake unleavened bread when in Egypt just prior to the Exodus but this event has not happened yet. The account of Abraham is long before the Exodus so we must "think" and look for clues in the text.

Gen 19:1-3 1 And there came two angels to Sodom at even; and Lot sat in the gate of Sodom: and Lot seeing them rose up to meet them; and he bowed himself with his face toward the ground; 2 And he said, Behold now, my lords, turn in, I pray you, into your servant's house, and tarry all night, and wash your feet, and ye shall rise up early, and go on your ways. And they said, Nay; but we will abide in the street all night. 3 And he pressed upon them greatly; and they turned in unto him, and entered into his house; and he made them a feast, and did bake unleavened bread, and they did eat.

Answer for yourself: Since not being in a hurry so that they did not have time to add yeast to make "leavened" bread don't you see that there was really no reason to bake "unleavened" bread unless this "feast" mentioned in Gen. 19:3 as connected to the baking of "unleavened" bread as well as the prior circumcision of Abraham indicates that Abraham by revelation understood the LORD'S Passover and was in anticipation keeping the Passover which required not only circumcision but also the eating of unleavened bread?

Other than instances where the various offering involved the Levitical Priests and included the offering of unleavened bread (trespass offerings, thanksgiving offerings, meat offerings, heave offerings, and the vow of the Nazarite, etc.) where it was consumed as connected to the presentation of various offerings we are led to conclude that since associated with the word "feast" in the text that this instance concerning Abraham was none other than the Passover.

The only place we find the admonition of eating "unleavened bread" in the Bible is connected with the ordinances of the Passover:

Exod 12:1-8 1 And the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt, saying, 2 This month shall be unto you the beginning of months: it shall be the first month of the year to you. 3 Speak ye unto all the congregation of Israel, saying, In the tenth day of this month they shall take to them every man a lamb, according to the house of their fathers, a lamb for an house: 4 And if the household be too little for the lamb, let him and his neighbour next unto his house take it according to the number of the souls; every man according to his eating shall make your count for the lamb. 5 Your lamb shall be without blemish, a male of the first year: ye shall take it out from the sheep, or from the goats: 6 And ye shall keep it up until the fourteenth day of the same month: and the whole assembly of the congregation of Israel shall kill it in the evening. 7 And they shall take of the blood, and strike it on the two side posts and on the upper door post of the houses, wherein they shall eat it. 8 And they shall eat the flesh in that night, roast with fire, and unleavened bread; and with bitter herbs they shall eat it. (KJV)

So here we find Abraham, a non-Jew but yet a Hebrew, being circumcised and keeping and observing the Passover long before Moses and Sinai!

Answer for yourself: Could this be a pattern for the non-Jew in the Bible; that God desires that he as well as the Jew, keep and observe the Passover as indicated in the further requirements of circumcision to the "stranger" before he observes the Passover?

Exodus 12

48 And when a stranger shall sojourn with thee, and will keep the Passover to the LORD, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as one that is born in the land: for no uncircumcised person shall eat thereof.

As you can now understand when we re-read the above passage Moses is doing nothing but reiterating the already known wishes of God in Exodus 12:48 when he again commands the "non-Jew" (stranger) to keep the Passover and be circumcised. So the conclusion of this is simple: keeping the Passover is to be observed by "non-Jews" as well as Jews and circumcision is required prior to keeping the Passover and this is not a "Jewish thing" but a Godly thing. In passing also not that God did not say to keep the pagan feast of Istar or Easter (Istar was known to Abraham); God commanded that "non-Jews" keep and observe the Passover

Acts 16 3 Him would Paul have to go forth with him; and took and circumcised him because of the Jews which were in those quarters: for they knew all that his [Timothy] father was a Greek (his mother was Jewish, thus making it necessary for circumcision since being a Jew).

What most Christians and Jews fail to realize in the above verse is that although Judaism today recognizes "Jewishness" coming from the mother's side God has given us understanding in physiology today that teaches us that the chromosomes are determined by the male and not the female. That being the case we see again Divine revelation, although not understood completely at the time, made allowances for Timothy to be circumcised not really because of Jewish tradition but because of a Gentile circumcision was to be required according to the Covenant of Abraham (himself a "non-Jew") and any participation in the Passover or other Biblical Festivals by non-Jews likewise required it. It is permissible to understand this "Jewish custom" but I believe it is better to understand the Heavenly decree and the reasons behind it; especially in light of what is required of the non-Jewish believer when Scripture is understood correctly.

What is important to see in this short study is that non-Jews were not allowed to participate fully in the Biblical Festivals unless the males were circumcised. Notice also that the death of Jesus/Yeshua did not alter ANYTHING IN THIS REGARD....because 25 years later in Acts 16 Paul felt obligated to circumcise the "non-Jew" Timothy. So these same admonitions applies today to the Christian believer.

Deuteronomy 16

- 9 Seven weeks shalt thou number unto thee: begin to number the seven weeks from [such time as] thou beginnest [to put] the sickle to the corn.
- 10 And thou shalt keep the feast of weeks unto the LORD thy God with a tribute of a freewill offering of thine hand, which thou shalt give [unto the LORD thy God], according as the LORD thy God hath blessed thee: {a tribute: or, sufficiency}
- 11 And thou shalt rejoice before the LORD thy God, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy manservant, and thy maidservant, and the Levite that [is] within thy gates, and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that [are] among you, in the place which the LORD thy God hath chosen to place his name there.

Answer for yourself: Can there be any doubt that God included the non-Jews in the observance of Shavout (Pentecost) which was the rejoicing over the giving of the Torah to mankind? Don't you find it strange that a non-Jew would be rejoicing over the giving of the Torah (613) to the Jews or is it just possible that he, being instructed correctly in the Covenant and Laws of Noah, was rejoicing in God giving him the Torah in the Covenant of Noah which contained the Laws of Noah which, when obeyed, brought right-standing and acceptance with God? You see he was rejoicing and observing this Feast because he was thankful that God had given him the knowledge whereby he could be in good relationship with God. What did they know then that we have not been taught today?

EARLY GENTILE BELIEVERS OBSERVED THE DAY OF ATONEMENT

Exodus 29

- 33 And they shall eat those things wherewith the atonement was made, to consecrate [and] to sanctify them: but a stranger shall not eat [thereof], because they [are] holy.

Leviticus 16

- 29. And [this] shall be a statute for ever unto you: [that] in the seventh month, on the tenth [day] of the month, ye shall afflict your souls, and do no work at all, [whether it be] one of your own country, or a stranger that sojourneth among you:

In summary, let me quote the Apostle Paul whom Christianity has mistakenly understood as well as his message concerning the Law of God. When writing to Gentiles who have come to the knowledge and faith in the one true God of Israel, and as they have begun to join themselves to Israel and celebrate the feast of the Lord, Paul says...

Colossians 2

16. Let no man therefore judge you in meat, or in drink, or in respect of an holyday, or of the new moon, or of the sabbath [days]: {in meat...: or, for eating and drinking} {respect: or, part}
- 17 Which are a shadow of things to come...

The Apostle Paul strongly urges believing Gentiles who have come to Faith in Yahweh and Jesus to let no one tell them that because they participate in the celebration of the feasts of the LORD they have put themselves under bondage and the Law. The Law was not to be restrictive. Jesus said his yoke was easy (the yoke of the Law of Moses) and his burden was light. King David in Psalm 119 said that he delighted in the Law and meditated in it night and day. If we presume to believe that the Law and celebration of the festivals was bondage then we have failed to understand the message of not only Paul, but Jesus as well. Let us resolve together to make a commitment to rediscover our Hebrew Roots and "choose those things that please God."

One would have to ask Rome that question.

Deuteronomy 16

- 13 Thou shalt observe the feast of tabernacles seven days, after that thou hast gathered in thy corn and thy wine: 14 And thou shalt rejoice in thy feast, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy manservant, and thy maidservant, and the Levite, the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are within thy gates. 15 Seven days shalt thou keep a solemn feast unto the LORD thy God in the place which the LORD shall choose: because the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all thine increase, and in all the works of thine hands, therefore thou shalt surely rejoice. 16 Three times in a year shall all thy males appear before the LORD thy God in the place which he shall choose; in the feast of unleavened bread, and in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of tabernacles: and they shall not appear before the LORD empty: (KJV)

Zechariah 14

- 16. And it shall come to pass, [that] every one that is left of all the nations (Gentiles) which came against Jerusalem shall even go up from year to year to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, and to keep the feast of tabernacles.
- 17 And it shall be, [that] whoso will not come up of [all] the families of the earth unto Jerusalem to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, even upon them shall be no rain.
- 18 And if the family of Egypt go not up, and come not, that [have] no [rain]; there shall be the plague, wherewith the LORD will smite the heathen that come not up to keep the feast of tabernacles. {that have no: Heb. upon whom there is not}

Answer for yourself: Can there be any doubt that God included the non-Jews in the observance of the Festival of Tabernacles? Don't you find it strange that a non-Jew would be observing the Festival of Tabernacles where today in most Gentile Christian Churches the Festivals are not observed but in their place Gentile holy days from prior paganism are kept in Jesus' name instead?

"GODFEARERS" IN THE NEW TESTAMENT: THE "PATTERN" FOR GENTILE PARTICIPATION IN THE ISRAEL OF GOD #1

The Holy Spirit recorded for us in the fifteenth chapter of the Book of Acts one of the most important events recorded in all of Scripture. That event is often overlooked by the majority of Christians who lack understanding of the dynamics of the New Testament as well as the attending history and culture of the first century. What you will see in this article, and the articles which follow, that God gives us a "pattern" for Gentile engrafting into Israel which are Biblically "the people of God". Let me say it another way. The New Testament reveals to us a specific manner by which Gentiles could become part of the Israel of God and thus become adopted "sons" and "daughters". Thus we will explore the inclusion of Gentiles into this "Israel of God", otherwise called "the Jesus Movement" which is recorded for us in the New Testament.

Answer for yourself: And what is this "Jesus Movement"?

This of course was the Messianic Movement within Judaism which we find enumerated for us by James as well as Paul in the writings of the New Testament. Dear students and "truth seekers" this "PATTERN of inclusion of the 'non-Jew' into Jewish worship", this "Pattern" for the "non-Jew" in his worship of the true God of the Universe was followed well into the fourth and early 5th century before the antisemitic Roman Church stamped it out through their creation of a "replacement religion".

I must remind you that these instructions and commands from the Jerusalem synagogue/church, concerning how Gentiles were to be added and engrafted into Israel as "non-converts" and as "Godfearers" all transpired after the time recorded for this death of Jesus as depicted by this New Testament. This "FACT" has dramatic importance for us as "Christians" today.

Now for a really big question.
